Liquor by the Drink Vote Face City Voters April 8

April 8th has been set as the day voters will go to the polls and vote on a referendum on the sale of mixed drinks within the city of Lubbock.

The date became a reality Monday morning when Lubbock County Commissioners received the word from County Clerk Frank Guess that he had certified that proponents of the liquor by the drink legalization had turned in more than enough signatures on petitions in order to call the referendum.

The liquor vote will be held in conjunction with the city council election and the "straw vote" on how the city should get additional revenue in the future.

This year's city election will have eighteen candidates, a new record, competing for four places on the council.

Rod Shaw, County Judge, said city officials have agreed that election workers will bill the city for their services, and the county will then pay one-half of the total expense.

In order to call the referendum, at least one-fourth of the 40,910 voters who cast ballots in the last presidential election held in the county in 1968.

Election officials are expecting a great number of voters out on April 8th. Of those voting, a large percentage will be new voters (ages 18 through 20), expected to participate in city elections for the first time.

Masons to Hold Fifth Annual Session Here This Week End

Over two hundred Masons will meet in the Hub City Saturday morning, March 18th, for an all day session, at the Red Raider Inn. "The Western Regional Prince Hall Grand Lodge of Texas F.&A.M. will be in its fifth annual session," according to James P. Burrell, local W.M.

Mayor James Granberry proclaimed Saturday as Prince Hall Day in a regular session of the City Council last Thursday.

Delegates will come from as far away as Tuscon, Arizona and other Texas cities, including Wichita Falls, San Angelo, Amarillo, Midland, El Paso and Odessa.

Also meeting with the Western Regional Prince Hall Grand Lodge are the Heroines of Jericho and the Order of Eastern Star. The total membership of the Prince Hall Grand Lodge of Texas and its affiliates is now in excess of 80,000 members, according to Burrell.

"Grand Master I. H. Clayborn will be among those attending the one day meeting," Burrell stated.

Appearing on the program will be Deaton Rigsby, mayor pro tem, who will give the welcome address. Prince Hall Grand Lodge of Texas F.&A.M. No. 328, is host to the meeting.

Burrell stated that the local lodge has seventy members.

Black Journal to Cover Black Political Convention on Special Tuesday Evening

Black Journal will provide coverage of the National Black Political Convention which convened on March 10 in Gary, Indiana, Tuesday, March 21, at 8:30 on Channel 5.

The 4,000 delegates and visitors to the convention, representing a cross-section of Black America, from nationalists to conservative businessmen, will comprise the largest political gathering of Black people ever held in this country.

Mayor Richard G. Hatcher, of Gary, was selected as the keynote speaker at the convention. The biggest controversy was anticipated in meetings of the platform committee, which sought to come up with a document that satisfied militants and more moderate factions. Recommendations to the committee came from state delegations.

The New York state delegation, for example, planned to propose a $10,000 minimum income for a welfare family of four, and the appointment of three Black members of the Federal Communications Commission.

V.A. Warns Veterans They May Lose Part of Their GI Education Benefits Without Action

Millions of veterans could lose part of all of their GI educational benefits if they don't act promptly, the Veterans Administration warned this week.

Those whose benefits are in danger were discharged between January 31, 1955, and June 1, 1966. For these veterans, eligibility for VA educational assistance payments for GI Bill schooling expires on May 31, 1974, whether they are enrolled at that time or not.

The expiration date is fixed by a 1966 law which, for the first time, extended eligibility for education benefits to Post Korean veterans with service after January 31, 1955. Each veteran has eight years in which to use his benefits. Normally, the eight years are computed from the date of his release from military service. But because the benefits were not available until June 1, 1966, when the law became effective, the eight years start from the date the benefits became available for those discharged before that date.

Certain types of training, authorized for the first time on August 31, 1967, are not affected by the 1974 expiration date. Included are flight training, apprentice and on-the-job training, and farm cooperative training. These forms of training are available under the eight year policy, until August 31, 1975, or eight years after discharge, whichever is later.

VA records show that when the 1966 law became effective June 1, it made over four million veterans eligible for benefits and of this number, about 3,000,000 have not used their benefits or have used only part of them.

About 300,000 of this group are in training at the present time. Total enrollment under the GI Bill in January of this year was over one million bringing to three million the number of beneficiaries who have received training under the current GI Bill.

VA currently pays veterans with no dependants, attending school full-time, $175 a month. Those with one dependent receive $205; with two dependants, $230; and those with more than two dependants, $13 for each dependent over two.

To qualify for educational assistance, Post Korean veterans and servicemen currently on active duty must have served at least 181 days, any part of it after January 31, 1955.

Veterans separated for service-connected disabilities also are eligible for payments, regardless of length of service.

VA urged veterans interested in educational benefits—especially those whose benefits expire in May 1974—to contact any of its offices, or local representatives of veterans service organizations.

A special contract signing at the White House highlighted the U. S. Small Business Administration's authorization of a $1.53 million contract to Progress Aerospace Enterprise, Inc., a black-owned electronics manufacturing firm in Philadelphia.

PAE, a wholly owned subsidiary of Zion Investment Associates, Inc., Philadelphia, was established in 1968 and employs 125 people.

Library Board's Recommendation Last Thursday Makes Good Sense!

The recommendation made by the Library Board last week makes a lot of sense. The City of Lubbock must continue to upgrade its library facilities and, at the same time, increase these facilities when money permits. Since plans have been made to move the present operation to the new civic center, then the present facility should become a branch library.

The library board voted unanimously that the present library become a branch library and presented this recommendation to the City Council for their consideration last week.

It has been learned, however, that another agency of the City of Lubbock is making a bid for the present facility. This being the case, the city council should really weigh the matter and see why the present facility would make a better branch library than the plan being put forth by the other city agency.

It's worth noting that if there is no branch library, such as the present facility located on 19th Street, then the bookmobile—which is quite effective in the various neighborhoods of our community—could become inoperable, because there are no provisions for such an operation in the planned facility.

Lubbock is a growing city and out young people, as well as others, must have appropriate libraries located in various parts of this 75 square mile community. This could very well be the start of a good branch library system in our community.

Granted, all agencies and departments of the City of Lubbock are important, and we should support all of their efforts. But, at the same time, we should also place priorities where they belong.

We must tip our hats to the Library Board, under the leadership of Dr. Heenan Johnson, for making such recommendations to our City Fathers. We hope that their recommendation will be given all the consideration necessary before a decision is reached.

Since we are deserting the present library for better facilities, let's keep it in business by converting it into a branch one. It just makes good sense to use the facilities we now have as a branch library.

Just A Suggestion!

Much discussion, hand wringing and gnashing of teeth has taken place lately over the disposition of what has jokingly been referred to as "Lubbock's largest pigeon roost"—the Great Plains Life Building. Admittedly, we don't need any more low cost apartments in the city at the present time—which was the original proposal by the building's owners—but some use might still be found for the facility. This newspaper has been informed that "federal money" is available for removal of the building, but there is probably no way to obtain funds to put it back in good condition.

May we suggest, as one avenue of hope, that the city, county and state consider the location for their future plans. Every one is in the process of growing, and needing more room. Just a suggestion, but one we consider worthwhile.

As I See It

by T. J. Patterson

There's no doubt about it, something has to be done about the lack of city lights between East 34th Street and East 50th Street, with Quirt Avenue as the main artery, running north and south. Perhaps there are other areas in the city of Lubbock which also need better lighting, but this area needs attention . . . now!!

While driving Sunday evening of this week, I found that there were only four city lights in the sixteen block-long area. These lights were to be found between East 47th and East 50th Street, and all are found on the east side of the four-lane avenue; with no light on the west side of that main drag. Fire station No. 10 is located on the west side, just north of 50th Street.

On this main thoroughfare, there are several major business establishments who I am sure, would appreciate the city's involvement by making the area safer through better street lighting.

Not only is this 16-block area without adequate lighting, but in driving east from Juniper Avenue and East 34th Street, one can easily find that there is not enough lighting to make it possible for a driver to do a good job after the West Texas sun has set.

City Fathers, I'd like for you to look into this matter. Not only in East Lubbock, but in any area where there is a shortcoming in proper lighting for taxpayers. I know it'll cost to upgrade these areas, but the cost is not as important as the precious people of Lubbock.

Think!

by Dr. R. W. Jones

Harmony

"Amarillo is filled with a variety of hate, created by its governing bodies and accentuated by the complacency of its citizens." The preceding quotation was extracted from an editorial I gave over KGNC-TV a few weeks ago. The results from the last meeting of the Amarillo School Board, Monday, March 6, 1972, makes it evident that it is one of the governing bodies to which I was referring.

The citizens of Amarillo have the opportunity to show the rest of the state that Amarillo is not the racist, retarded city that it has been pictured to be. The time has come when the citizens can show that they aren't in accord with those who are guilty of being anti-minority, anti-low income, and anti-little people by going to the polls on April 1st and casting their ballots for an individual who will be representative of all the people and not one who is only interested in the welfare of special interests like banking, oil and cattle, and downright right-wing politics.

In less than a year, the administrators of the Amarillo school district have humiliated and castrated the black community by taking major actions that were obviously tinted with racial tones of discrimination. These actions could cut the legs of pride and tolerance from our young people and if the rays of the sun's process of exuding head is aided by the violent actions of Amarillo youth, who can we blame?

The actions of the Superintendent of Amarillo Public Schools, Bob Ashworth, continue to be against the minority groups—especially the Negro. Although Dr. Bell of HEW informed him that all vestiges of degrading references and symbols of the Negro in slavery that are displayed in the Public schools must be erased, Ashworth continues to do anything until he is actually forced to do so as is evident by a statement in the Amarillo Daily News, Saturday, March 11, 1972, "In reaction, Superintendent Ashworth commented Friday af-

I appreciated, and highly enjoyed, the visit with Brother Sanders and I welcome the opportunity of visiting with any candidate about their position on issues concerning the office they seek, whether it be U. S. Senate or Justice of the Peace.

As I See It, the idea which is being put into reality by Donny Anderson, professional footballer in the NFL (playing with Green Bay and recently traded to St. Louis) is a great one.

Donny, the former All-American with Texas Tech University, is working hard for a juvenile "half-way" house for Lubbock youngsters. This is good and I hope the first annual Donny Anderson Pro-Celebrity Golf Tournament will be a great success. It's purpose will help a lot of young people in West Texas as well as throughout the state.

Talking with Donny at his press conference last month, at Hillcrest, he made it clear that he wants this program to go over the top for our young people in West Texas.

There will be some great athletes in the city in May who will be participating in the tournament. The kids will profit from the outcome and this writer encourages everyone to do his share so this project will be something we can all be proud of.

Good luck to you Donny, and the Lubbock Jaycees and Hillcrest Country Club for the benefit of juvenile delinquents in our community. You've made the first step. The goal is not far away.

ternoon that he would await official word on the legality or illegality of Tascosa's symbols before recommending any action to the Board."

The Black man of Amarillo wants representation in the policy making bodies of the city. Their leaders preach unity. The past week (March 6 through March 10) the secret meetings, little groups plotting and currying favors from a team from HEW, revealed to some of us who were consulted to validate facts (yes, that made us guilty of the same type of conspiracy) shows that unity still doesn't exist. As I have constantly tried to inform our community, Federal agencies are concerned with people who have been involved for years—not months—and they recognize and deplore the tactics of attempted brainwashing of segregationists and stooges for the establishment.

Jealousy and greed are two sins that can destroy you physically and mentally. Sitting in on meetings and hearing the Superintendent of the Amarillo school district defended at the expense of the black teacher, I recall cases in Abnormal Psychology and recognize the insecurity of some peoples' attempts to place themselves on the educational level with others by trying to disqualify their abilities.

I am glad to know that some people realize that some things are the law of the land. I appreciate the calls I have received the past week, some apologizing and some wanting to become involved in things they once called controversial or radical but now realize that they are for the welfare of the minorities and it will take all of us to see that implementation of certain laws is carried out.

We must unite to eliminate the incumbent candidate, Mr. Wall, and elect Rev. Perry to fill one of the vacancies on the school board. However, I can not change my convictions and way of writing this editorial "Think", because people must be given information about racist and bigoted actions that occur in our city. The citizens of Amarillo must be educated to the fact that a successful city is one where the powers that be aren't concerned with only one facet of the city, but all facets. The city will be better if all talents are recruited and used. Then the possessors of the talents will be tax paying citizens and not liabilities. The Black and White Syndrome must be eradicated in order to survive in peace and harmony.

Assault with Intent to Murder

Jessie Carter, Jr., of 1509 Avenue E, reported to the Lubbock Police Department that he had a problem one day last week. He said that three men gave him a hard time and destroyed his property.

According to Jessie, one of the men did lean out of a car window and shoot at his car. The bullet struck Carter's windshield. It was learned that a .22 caliber pistol was used.

Carter was in his car at the time it was hit.

Theft from Person

Lubbock is a growing community and so are the incidents of crime which are happening each week. A Lubbock woman, for example, reported to Lubbock police that a man snatched her purse and ran one night last week.

Of course, this is a bad thing to do, but when this reporter learned that the man who snatched the purse had been living with the woman for some time, then this is something else.

The lady told police that the incident happened in the 1700 block of Avenue B, and the purse had between $70 and $80 in it, along with other personal items.

She said that she would file charges against her lover this week.

Theft of Bikes

A Lubbock woman, Mrs. Frank Rodriguez, of 2726 East Colgate Avenue, reported to Lubbock Police that someone unknown did take from her backyard four bicycles.

The bikes, according to Mrs. Rodriguez, were taken one day last week.

House Burglary

Eddie Avery, 1512 East Amherst Avenue, reported to the Lubbock Police Department that someone unknown did enter through the rear door of his house, by prying open the sliding glass door. This entry caused approximately $50 worth of damage.

Once inside, the unknown person took a clock which was valued at $37.

Theft Over Five Dollars

Ernest Caro, of 216 Cherry Avenue, was a mad person last week. He told Lubbock police that someone unknown, probably a trio of young fellows, took his U. S. Army fatigue jacket from his custodian closet at C. Thompson Junior High School on the third floor.

He valued the jacket at $10 and his car key were inside the pocket.

Assault

A Lubbock mother reported to the Lubbock Police Department that her fifteen-year-old son was assaulted on the grounds of Posey Elementary School, 1301 Redbud Avenue, one day last week.

He told police that two young fellows were responsible for the assault. She gave police the names of two young men responsible for the assault.

Awkward Busing Stand

by William Raspberry

(Editor's note: the following article appeared in the March 6, 1972 issue of the Washington Post, and came to our attention. With the busing question so much on the minds of everyone this day and time, we felt our readers would enjoy Mr. Raspberry's comments).

The mails are full of the clippings, with their favorable comments, of columns I have written in opposition to maximum racial integration of the public schools by any means necessary. They are—I confess—often embarrassing.

Too often they come from white segregationists who are ecstatic in that a "responsible" black man has sanctified their opposition to what is called "massive busing."

But it is an embarrassment that I am prepared to live with. The alternative is a sort of phoniness that would have me take positions not because I believe them to be right but because they invoke support from the "right" people.

When a columnist starts to worry about popularity of that sort, he ceases to be worth reading.

But there is something more basically wrong with abiding conclusions with which people you don't particularly like could agree. The point of most public debates—including the one over busing—is not merely to take a reading of convictions currently held but to give each side a chance to modify the view of the other and thereby reduce the differences between them.

And if that is so, it makes no sense to say, in effect: I expect you to listen to my argument, because I am one of the good guys, but don't expect me to listen to yours; because you are an unreconstructed, race-hating, segregationist bigot, I can't possibly admit the validity of anything you have to say, or say anything with which you might agree.

Mrs. Carolyn Jordan Files for Place on City Council, Place 2

Mrs. Duane Jordan (Carolyn) filed last Wednesday for City Council, Place 2. In announcing her candidacy, Mrs. Jordan stated her primary reason in running was to give the voters the opportunity to have a candidate who cares about the people of the city and who will be responsive to their needs.

She was quoted as saying, "I firmly believe in the system of representative democracy and feel it is imperative to have members on the Council who will listen to all citizens. Because I do not represent a special interest group, I can be receptive to suggestions from all people." She went on to add, "There are many issues to be discussed in this campaign. Many center around providing efficient services with sound fiscal policy. Because I have taken an active interest in City government for several years, I feel that I am well informed on the problems presently facing our community and feel that my past experiences uniquely qualify me for the Council."

pro-integration, it is awkward for one who fancies himself a good guy to express opposition to massive busing, the quickest way to achieve maximum integration.

Thus, I am uncommonly open to probing arguments, nonetheless, I find them unconvincing.

The arguments are basically two: (1) racial integration is of such overriding value—to whites as well as blacks—that any means to achieve it is justified and (2) racial integration is the surest way to prevent racial discrimination.

The first arguments is overblown. It often comes from middle-class blacks who were pleasantly surprised to discover themselves the equal of whites when they had their first integrated experience. One suspects that this is because they were equals to begin with. The lower-class black who enters an integrated situation with profound feelings of inferiority, is unlikely to find the cure of his self-doubts.

Moreover, the alleged educational benefits to black children do not stand up very well under close scrutiny.

Nor does racial integration automatically lead to improved race relations. Sometimes it does; sometimes it simply provides "proof" of whatever prejudices each group previously held.

Some of those who support enforced racial balance do so, not because they see any inherent worth in a white seatmate for every black child but because they are convinced that officialdom, being largely white and white-influenced, will not provide needed resources for black children unless white children are held hostage.

The idea is to take black children to where the resources are, which means to schools with a white majority.

There's one thing I don't understand about that thesis: If they can persuade the courts to force white people to submit to the kind of inconvenience that across-the-board racial balance will require, why can't they persuade them to will try to interpret it that way. It is an appeal that we outgrow automatic acceptance or rejection of any proposal based on whether it is proposed by good guys or bad guys.

It is, further, a plea for realism. The political climate being what it is, it seems unlikely that massive busing will be permitted to last for very long.

And when it goes, those who care about justice for black children ought to be ready with a program to guarantee their right to quality education: a sort of quid pro quo.

Quality education, really, is what it's all about. Confront that one directly and busing becomes what it should have been all along: merely a means of transportation.

Black History Notes: Dr. Ralph J. Bunche, 1904-1971—The Washington Post once summed up his greatness in three sentences, "Three secretaries-general regarded Bunche as their right arm, and to many persons around the world he epitomized the United Nations. That he was an American and a Negro was incidental. He simply knew more about the UN's fire-brigade capabilities than any other man, and he embodied the diplomatic skills that enabled him to run a virtual command post in the 38th floor headquarters (in New York) overlooking the East River," End of Quote.

Ralph Bunche held more than 50 honorary degrees to go along with the doctorate in political science he earned at Harvard University in 1934, yet he would not let his colleagues address him as "Doctor." He believed fervently in world peace and believed that the United Nations would eventually bring it about. It was indeed his "dream." He believed in human dignity and the right of all men to sustain that dignity.

He believed that one of the greatest domestic problems facing America today is racism and he believed that no black man in the United States could really consider himself free until all black Americans are free.

Today there is an effort underway to build a fitting memorial to a man who believed in the United Nations—who worked for it—fought for it and loved it.

For the first time in the history of Clovis (Curry County) New Mexico, a Chicano has been elected to the city council of this thriving city on the borders of West Texas. Patrick C. Sandoval won the post in a field of one other brown-American and two blacks: William E. Jones and Hanslee Nance. Arthur J. Moreno was runner-up in a new district made possible by a new city charter allowing representation for all sections of the city. In conversation with several leaders in the district, we learned that the next goal would be the election of a black-American. Democracy in action, indeed.

To Mrs. G. C.—Black music is essentially vocal in nature and the guitar on which one might slide and slip from note to note, is ideally suited to imitation of vocal nuances. T. Bone Walker is indeed tops in this field. Write again.

To B. G.—When we arrive in Oklahoma, will send story on the future plans of black leaders to build a power base in the coming national elections. Texas-New Mexico-Oklahoma and Louisiana are in the same region, we hear tell.

Until later, Peace, as Dr. Bunche would say and remember, love comes in all colors.

NAACP Notes

by David Sowell

The Lubbock Branch of the NAACP wishes to thank the many citizens that turned out for the successful meeting that was held this past Sunday, March 12, at Posey Health Clinic, 1601 Vanda Avenue.

The meeting was an inspiring one. This reporter wants to state now, that the local NAACP branch is on the move—we want to inform the citizens of Lubbock that the NAACP is a people organization. It moves, runs, walks, stands and sits down with you.

Now if you see where the NAACP local branch is not covering everything you think it should, well, it's only something that you are not doing to bring about the action. You don't need a super education to do something about what's going on around you.

When you join a team to play ball—you've got to help move the team. If you don't the other team will run over your team, if you stand around and look at each other.

Be sure to mark your calendars for the second Sunday in April, the 9th, and be at Posey Health Clinic, located at 1601 Vanda Avenue.

Be sure and be there.

Sports of The Times

by Joe Kelly

The quest for the Holy Grail in college basketball may come to an end tonight (Thursday) for the Texas Longhorns, but they have had their moment of glory. They can look back with pride, in years to come, on this season.

Texas was all but knocked out of contention by Texas Tech, which twice dented the Horns. Still, they fought back, tied for the title, beat SMU in a playoff for the right to play in the NCAA sub-regional round.

The task facing Texas was challenging, if not pleasant to contemplate. The Horns were faced with playing Houston, member-elect of the conference and ranked in the top 20 college basketball ratings. The Cougars had a glittering record and besides, the Horns were crippled with injuries.

As anyone who stayed up until 1:30 a.m. Sunday knows, the Orange overcame adversity, Dwight Davis and Houston. And they did it despite what appeared to be some, at times, atrocious officiating and an early second half cold spell that threatened to puncture the Orange balloon.

The Cougars cut the lead to three points, had momentum going and appeared to be on their way to the fore. But Texas stiffened, held its lead and then took advantage of a desperate Houston team to widen its margin.

Guy Lewis, polka dot towel and all, was as frustrated as his inept quintet. Lewis started five blacks and became so desperate during the course of the rout that he, at times, even inserted some white players. But the Longhorns were color-blind.

And in the process of losing the game, the Cougars lost much more. They lost their pride, they lost their poise and they destroyed public respect because of one incident that involved the most deplorable sportsmanship, or lack of it.

Davis, thoroughly frustrated, fouled out late in the game. As he left the court, the fine Texas sophomore, Harry Larrabee, went over to shake hands. Davis glared at Larrabee, obviously mouthed something at him. Not being a lip reader, I don't know what he said. But if I had been Larrabee, I'd have said: "So are you."

Anyway, Larrabee made a second, then a third effort. But Davis would have none of it. And with Davis' inelegant departure, any respect or regard for Houston evaporated. Houston may be a member-elect of the conference, but it will have a long way to go before being accepted with anything akin to best wishes.

The latest issue of Field and Stream, as usual, makes for interesting reading. It does more than whet your appetite for fishing; it informs. Of course, with the kind of weather we've been having, it doesn't take much to make you forget about responsibilities and take to the lakes.

There's one article in the latest F&S that should be mandatory reading for every angler. It's "The Largemouth Bass Is In Trouble" by E. L. "Buck" Rogers. And if that makes you snort, read it.

How many times have you gone to a supposedly "hot" lake, fished like mad and failed to come home with much, if anything, to show for your efforts? You've tried a variety of time-tested lures, you've fished all the likely spots and you've tried early morning, late evening hours.

You come away cussing the lake and its reputation, when you really should be cussing greedy anglers who fill their coolers full of bass. They've overharvested—the term used by F&S—the bass population.

Rogers became curious when a lake, Little Dixie, just 10 miles from his home and a "hot" lake, suddenly appeared to be fished out, or as he prefers, overharvested. In the first year, 3,700 bass were caught on the 205-acre lake. Thereafter, results were poor to terrible.

Rogers really became concerned when a fishing friend told him that two of them had taken almost 600 pounds in 240 bass from one lake in seven trips. If, he said, 100 boats had had the same kind of luck, that would be 24,000 bass. If 1,000 boats had had the same success, that would be 240,000 bass.

Missouri experts began a study. They stocked three half acre ponds with 35 bass in each pond. Then they picked two average fishermen to fish each pond for one hour. In the first hour, these two men caught 66% of the bass in the three ponds.

The experiment finally was called off after nine hours, by which time 91% of the bass had been caught—by average fishermen using standard lures. Only three bass were left in each pond out of the original 35.

Biologists figure that 20 pounds of bass per acre is all a body of water can tolerate. Thus, you can easily figure that a few huge catches, such as are often seen on sports pages, can deplete the bass population rapidly. It's high time that bass fishermen voluntarily limit their catches so that good fishing is possible for all anglers.

The Roundup: Greg Lowry, Tech's all-conference guard, has had feelers from pro teams at Denver and Chicago. If he doesn't make it, Greg may join Gene Knolle, former Raider star, in France . . . Doug Cannon, former Raider quarterback-catcher, will umpire in the Babe Ruth League here this summer. Doug, a Levelland product, is working at Methodist Hospital . . . Ten years ago Massachusetts passed a law requiring hunters to wear bright orange (Texas fans please note!). In that 10-year span, hunting accidents dropped 67% . . . Lubbock will host the Babe Ruth district tournament July 13-15 . . . The American Association for Health, Physical Education and Recreation will hold its annual meeting in Houston March 24-28 . . . Today's scallion bouquet to KCBT's production of the Texas-Houston game, which showed 55 seconds of nothing, then went to a commercial that ate up over a minute of the game's start . . . Don't be surprised if the Tech basketball team has a "new" look next year. Gerald Myers has been given the word to crack down, discipline-wise, and to get away from Bob Bass' crash building program . . . Bobby Layne and Bill Metzger recently spent a week in Old Mexico, fishing and/or playing golf . . . Jackie Sullivan, another former Hubber, is spending the weekend at Lake Hubbard, where the fishing is said to be great right now . . . Today's thought: Nothing is more annoying than to have someone fail to tell you a piece of gossip you said that you didn't want to hear! Peace.

From My Scratch Pad

by George Parrish

"Black Is" is Talk of The Town

Rev. Perry said, "I wish the whole system could have seen it," after he and his wife viewed the assembly at Bonham Junior High. Channel 7 and Channel 4 did a good job on their coverage, but the newspaper didn't do anything at all for the assembly. I wonder why we as blacks can't get coverage on the good things which we try to do. Maybe we should stage a mock fight or murder then switch to the main program, that way we would be sure to get in the newspaper and on the air.

Well, so much for our local paper. The group from Tulsa told it like it is, but as I thought there were some faults found by some of our die hard whites. There are some that will complain when Gaberial blows his horn, they will probably say, "did he have to blow it that loud?"

I think the assembly came at a very good time, just as the Rev. V. P. Perry is making his bid for a place on the school board. I would like to, at this time, urge and make a plea to all Blacks and Whites to vote and support Rev. Perry. When you are tempted to think low, as some of us often do, try this, "Black Like Me."

Mr. and Mrs. Johnny N. Allen returned recently from Dallas, Texas, where they were delegates to the Texas State Teachers Association and guests at the Stalter Hilton Hotel. Other delegates included Mesdames Pearlene Martin and Marvell White.

Mrs. Jewelle L. Allen recently returned from a holiday in San Juan, Puerto Rico. Mrs. Allen joined daughter, Cortney, a Carver High School and Spelman College graduate, who now flies with Delta Airlines for a three day sojourn at the Statler and a side trip to St. Thomas. Also present were two other stewardesses and their mothers for the holiday in the sun.

What is Hope?

A subject to sermonize once in a while, especially on Easter... or when one of my families suffers a loss.

An idea that is beyond the stars, there is a better place. A spirit which every football coach tries to instill in his team, before the season begins. Or, is it possible that hope is something, you've been carrying around in your pocket all the time and didn't know it? Money isn't stupid... only when it is used for stupid purposes. When money is used for the purposes of God, it becomes a channel of His Grace.

Money can be changed into food, medicine, clothing, and shelter. And it can also change people, both givers and receivers. Money is a symbol of hope and it's actual means for millions of people if you give.

The season of Lent is the time that all Christians deny themselves of something so as to help others. Give to the One Great Hour of Sharing today. Hope is something God gives to you, and wants you to give to somebody else.

If you don't have a crippled child will you help one of ours?

The Thursday morning Easter Seal therapy class. Eleven crippled kids with a chance. And the courage to take it. There are 3,000 Easter Seal facilities and programs, many with classes like this. And 380,000 people being helped by the Easter Seal Society. But it takes money. Even a little bit helps towards buying a leg brace, or paying a therapist. So please give to Easter Seals. Help our children.

Right Reverend and Mrs. Sherman Honored

REV. AND MRS. SHERMAN HONORED LAST WEEK—Last week was founder's week at Paul Quinn College and the graduates and student body paid a special tribute to Rt. Reverend and Mrs. O. L. Sherman, pictured above.

Last week was Founder's Week at Paul Quinn College. It was the Centennial for the black institution which has come a long way. It was also a week in which Paul Quinn, its graduates and student body paid special tribute to Rt. Rev. and Mrs. O.L. Sherman for a job well done.

Bishop Sherman, chairman of the Board of Trustees and Presiding Bishop of the Tenth Episcopal District, gave his appreciation for the many kind deeds done by followers and leaders in the African Methodist Episcopal Church.

Rev. and Mrs. A. W. Wilson, pastor of Bethel A.M.E. Church, were in attendance at the Centennial program. They were elated over the outcome of the services and brought back the word that Paul Quinn will receive its accreditation in June of this year.
