

Courses Now Underway in Breathing Exercises for Younger Children

What is the "Buckin Bronchos?" It is a course in breathing exercises and physical conditioning for boys and girls between the ages of 8 to 12 who have moderately severe or persistent asthma or chronic respiratory disease. The program will be sponsored by the West Texas Area of the American Lung Association of Texas. Classes will begin November 3, 1973, and continue for ten sessions on Saturday mornings from 9:30 to 11:00, except for holiday weekends.

Breathing exercises, calisthenics and game playing are all important parts of the class. The course will be conducted by Walter Gault, Head of the Physical Therapy Department at the TTU Medical School; Dr. Mary Owens, Professor of Physical Education at TTU; and Jackie Barnes, graduate student of Dr. Owens. Dr. Bill Landers, Professor of Psychology, TTU, will assist in testing and orienting parents and children and James R. Crisp, M.D., is the program consultant. The course will serve as an adjunct to good medical care, and no medical advice will be given.

Applications may be picked up at the American Lung Association office at 1961 Texas Avenue. All applications must be signed by the child's physician. The fee is $10.00 and a fund has been established by the association to take care of those who feel it would place a hardship on the family. The first twenty completed applications received by the association will be accepted for this course. Applications received later will be included in a course to be started at the completion of this pilot project.

McLucas has been released from the Montville State Correctional Center on $15,000 bond, pending a State Supreme Court appeal of his 12 to 15 year sentence.

Senate Again Votes School Lunch Bill

Washington — (NBNS) — The Senate has approved a revised version of the school lunch program substantially increasing federal support for the project.

The bill, which would increase the average payment per lunch from 8 to 10 cents and beginning Jan. 1 provide automatic increases as the cost of restaurant food rises, now goes to the House for its approval.

The bill also increases federal expenditures by about $230 million. The program cost the federal government about $1.5 billion last fiscal year.

Plea Bargaining Resumes For H. Rap Brown

Baltimore — (NBNS) — Lawyers for H. Rap Brown and Maryland prosecutors are continuing plea bargaining conversations. Prosecution attorneys are considering a proposal in which Brown would plead guilty to one charge of failure to appear at his trial in April, 1970.

In return the state would recommend a one-year prison sentence to run concurrently with a 5 to 15 year term he is now serving in Attica State Prison in New York.

The prosecution would have to drop charges of arson, rioting and inciting to riot against Brown in connection with the 1967 Cambridge, Md. disorder.

Minority Engineers Spurred by Grant

New York — (NBNS) — More than $12 million will be spent over the next 5 to 7 years by the Alfred P. Sloan Foundation to increase minority enrollment in engineering education.

The foundation, which has assets totalling more than $350 million, will provide the aid to predominately black engineering schools and white institutions that develop programs for minority enrollment.

Percy Pierre, dean of engineering at Howard University in Washington, D.C. will head the foundation. Two years ago fewer than 1 percent of the country's engineers were black.

NEWS BRIEFS

Michigan Klan Leader Convicted

Detroit — (NBNS) — Former leader of the Michigan Ku Klux Klan, Robert Miles, has been convicted of tarring and feathering of Willow Run High School Principal R. Wiley Brownlee two years ago.

The U.S. District Court jury found him guilty on three counts of conspiracy, assault and aiding and abetting to deprive Brownlee of his civil rights.

Of the five men accused in the tarring and feathering incident, Miles was the only one to plead not guilty. He is also awaiting sentencing on his conviction in the 1971 bombing of empty school buses at Pontiac, Michigan during the desegregation transition there.

Seattle Moves Against Abandoned Homes

Seattle — (NBNS) — Mayor Wes Uhlman has ordered abatement proceedings against 1,300 houses repossessed by the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Calling HUD a "slum landlord," Uhlman said a substantial portion of properties the agency has not only are a blighting influence on the immediate neighborhood but also pose a safety and health hazard.

It is believed that the legal proceeding is the first in the nation against the federal government. The mayor said the city would move against the federal government as it would proceed against a private landlord.

Former Panther Starts Construction Work

New London, Conn. — (NBNS) Former Black Panther Lonnie McLucas, who was convicted of conspiracy in the 1969 murder of Alex Rackley, another Panther member, has begun working in a private New London construction concern.

McLucas is also scheduled to serve as a volunteer in the Model City Agency youth service bureau. The bureau's board of education approved the plan to allow McLucas to serve as a volunteer, despite protests from city officials, DUNBAR AND ESTACADO REPRESENTED ON TSU CAMPUS—Hillary S. "Hutch" Hutchinson, graduate of Estacado High School, and James Walton, graduate of Dunbar High School, took out long enough to pose for the "Times" one day last week on the campus of Texas Southern University at Houston. Zenia Thomas (left) of Tyler and Vicky Simmons (right) of Dallas were happy to pose.

Hutchinson and Walton say: "Stay in school and get all you can because you'll need it." This is directed to every senior at Dunbar and Estacado. Hutchinson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H.S. Hutchinson; and Walton is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Walton. Hutchinson is a standout on the Tiger football team at TSU.

Raiders' Defense Wins By 19-6 Over Rice Owls Last Saturday

Defensive football is about as exciting as watching pigeons fly in and out of the Great Plains Life Building, but Texas Tech would have had trouble beating Rice last Saturday, 19-6, without it.

In fact, the defense turned the game around early, as it has been doing much of the season, when Kenneth Wallace intercepted Tommy Kramer's pass on the Rice 28 and returned the ball 16 yards to the 12. James Mosley scored on the first play thereafter and the Raiders were on their way to their seventh victory in eight starts.

Now Coach Jim Carlen's young charges prepare to invade Amon Carter Stadium in Fort Worth Saturday and a date against

Wilma Jackson's Rites Read at San Diego Monday

Word was received here this week of the death of Mrs. Wilma Jackson, affectionately known by family members as "Sis," last week in San Diego, California, after a lengthy illness.

She is the sister of Mrs. Jessie Lee Johnson, 2502 Date Avenue here. Final rites were read Monday morning with burial in San Diego.

Other immediate survivors besides the sister here are a husband, a son, Elbert Langford of the home; three sisters, Mesdames Charlene Sasser and Lena Edwards, both of San Diego, and Mrs. Johnnie Bell of Cleburne, Texas, and many nieces, nephews, other relatives and friends.

dangerous TCU. The Horned Frogs, only 3-4 for the season, have won the last two meetings with Tech and have been real spoilers.

"I'm scared to death of TCU," Carlen said as much as four weeks ago. "They play this game like it was the Super Bowl. Check it out. They've beaten us 48-13 (total score) the last two years."

But to get back to that Rice game, the Raider offense wasn't sharp. The Owls cut off Joe Barnes on the option and did a good job of containing Larry Isaac on the option pitch.

Still, the Raiders moved when they had to. Mosley's 16-yard run gave Tech a 6-0 lead with only 3:57 gone and, with 5:19 left in the first quarter, Don Grimes kicked a 29-yard field goal for a 9-0 lead.

Wedding Plans Announced

Mrs. Narvy Tennison Glaspie and Mr. Jonathan Tennison announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter Babe Jean to Mr. Curtis James Hawkins of Denver, Colorado.

Miss Tennison is a 1968 graduate of Roosevelt High School. She did her Freshman year at Texas Tech University. She studied at the Seventh Day Advent College in Huntsville, Alabama. Moving to Denver, Colorado where she lives with her mother, she entered the Denver City College. She is now employed with the Pan American Oil Company. Her fiance is a pre-medical student at the University of Denver, Colorado.

The couple will exchange vows Sunday, November 18, 1973 at 6

Tech had another great first quarter threat when it had a first down at the Owl eight. Barnes almost got in on the first play, moving to the one, but Mosley couldn't go over in two tries and Barnes was stopped a yard shy on fourth down.

The only threat in a dull second quarter was when Grimes missed a 50-yard field goal attempt with 5:01 left.

In the third quarter, the Raiders cranked up and paraded 91 yards on eight plays. A 15-yard personal foul penalty, runs of 12 and 22 yards by Isaac and a 16-yard pass from Barnes to Andres Tillman put the ball on the two and John Garner slashed in from there.

In the fourth quarter, Ecomet Burley busted through the Owl line to block a punt. Unfortunately, the ball skidded out of the end zone and Tech had to be satisfied with a safety.

EDITORIALS

Here it is November, 1973, and there hasn't been any definite plans for the black community of Lubbock during the year. We must admit, as of late, the effort being made by the East Lubbock Association should help a little in the economic circle of the Lubbock community.

We hope that blacks will take heed to the situation and start doing something about the many problems which are hampering our progress. It is as clear as the nose on our faces that there is a lot to be desired and should start planning something before the end of 1973.

Perhaps the new enlightened business association can shed some light on the many shortcomings of the community. It is about time for this type of an effort to look at the many visible problems and start doing something about them. Being 12% of the local population, surely, something can be put together in order to make this community a much better place.

This newspaper has been told many times that the black community will not arise to the occasion. We believe there are black men and women who are really concerned about the destiny of the black community in Lubbock. Not only are they concerned, but are willing to pay the price to see that something is done before the end of the year. We hope those persons will stand up and be counted so our community will not just remain complacent as it has for years.

There appears to be an invisible shield which tends to keep the black community in Lubbock from all the progress being made by black people in Texas and the nation. It is a must for black residents of this community to know that they are just as qualified as any other black man or woman in this state or nation. There are so many brothers and sisters in this community who can contribute something to this area if they will only try.

We must admit, with all sincerity, that there are many opportunities in this part of the country if we would only take advantage of them. It will, however, take a majority of us working together to put our effort in motion. Nobody is going to give us anything, so we are going to have to put our effort together. There is nothing that can keep us from moving in any direction we want to if we are together.

Evidently we are not dead yet, because we are heard and seen talking about our problems in our community. If the businessmen and women are concerned as they appear by their two meetings, then we should be able to overcome some of the obstacles in our path.

If we would look at our lack of opportunities in business, employment, housing and other areas of necessity, it should make us want to do something which we will all be proud of. We don't have to look for the lack of opportunities seen in our community, because they are so prevalent.

It is time for all of us to start asking what is in store for the black community. We have got to get away from people giving us something when we know that this is not a reality. We're as strong as we would like to be if we would only believe in ourselves more. We can't afford to just sit back and wonder what is in store for us, because we know that Lubbock is one of the fastest growing communities in this part of the country. Why can't we have a piece of the pie which is being eaten by others in our community.

If Lubbock is growing, why can't we be a part of it? We can if we want some of the happenings around us. We don't have to beg for anything, we only got to put our heads together and use our abilities. We can do anything we do is we really try hard enough.

Of course, it will be a hard task, but with people like those who are concerned we can get a lot of things done in Lubbock as well as West Texas. We've been told too many times that we don't have anything in store for us. Don't be fooled by that jive and start doing something to help yourself.

There's a lot in store for us in the future if we start now doing something to help ourselves. If we help ourselves, we'll help others. It can be done if we want it to really happen. It will take hard work, and we can do it if we want it to happen. If someone asks you what is in store for the black community, tell them "anything we want it to be".

As I See It

by T.J. Patterson

I had an opportunity to spend several days in the City of Houston last week. This is one area of the state of Texas which is growing in "leaps and bounds." There are so many opportunities for brothers and sisters in the black community. It is quite evident with the number of young blacks seen in the various businesses in that city.

Living in West Texas, it is easy to get behind the times about things going on in your state. The attitudes of progressive black people in the Houston community is a positive one. Many signs of progress are seen daily as one travels throughout the city which is composed of approximately 25 per cent black.

It is election time in Houston. The predominately owned black radio stations and black newspapers are calling a "spade a spade" in regard to those persons seeking the office of mayor and city councilmen. The approach there is all together different from here in West Texas. As we go to press this week, Houston will have had its city election, and according to many there, a great change is expected to take place this week.

I was quite impressed with means by which black people are informed about their elections. Regardless of the political office, an amendment or special issue, black people are informed on what is going on. The end results, as far as I can see, more interest is created among the black community.

There are many blacks in business in the Bayou City. As one black businessman told me: "Blacks need to get in business more. Why should anyone be a vice president when he can be president?" He went on to say: "There are some people who criticize the 'Miss Black America' contest. Well, some girls don't want to be runner-ups all the time. Somebody wants to win sometime. So you go out and you set up your own."

This is so true, and black brothers and sisters of Houston are doing just that, going out and setting up their own business and reaping success.

Visiting this metropolitan community, for only a few days, is a refreshing sort of a thing. It is, to me, like going from night to day. It lets you know how far black people are behind in West Texas. Being isolated is one thing, but not to act and do something about the conditions which exist in this part of the country is another things.

Of course, Houston is not the only city where black people are getting over. To me, it is beautiful to see them doing well in Houston. Many of you have visited Houston, and I am sure you'll agree with me...As I Saw It.

There are many former residents of Lubbock who are residing in the City of Houston who are doing some positive things. Not only are they in various business opportunities, but they are contributing great things in various aspects of the community.

To mention a few, I'm sure you'll know all of them, Louis Walton has a top-notch radio program over a local FM station in Houston. Incidentally, he has just returned from New York City, taking care of additional business in the FM business for Houston; Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Mason are contributing their part to the educational system of Houston; Eric Gamble is an assistant manager of a local (nationally known) retail store; Linda (Scott) Roberson is a reading specialist in one of the local public schools; Carolyn Rollison is in the news writing business; and Ira Lucas has a pharmacy in Fifth Ward. Matthew Rider is going strong as a hair stylist at "Pettis of Houston". Sammie Long Shelvin is employed by Gulf as an accountant.

There are many more who are doing a great deal for their community, and reaping some of the financial rewards which are seen in the Houston community. Everyone I talked to was most enthusiastic about their involvement and is willing to pay the price to get over.

There is one thing I noticed about each of these young people, they have each grown a great deal. They want to continue to grow and be an asset to their community. What is so disturbing is why don't these type of opportunities present themselves in West Texas? Our young people have to leave to find their opportunities.

As a newspaperman, it is quite pleasing to see these things happen in any black community. As I See It, we've got to get up and really investigate what is going on. If you take a real good look, you'll see how far we are behind.

I must share this with you. The Imperial Wizard of the Klu Klux Klan (KKK), who is running for an office on the Houston Independent School District, was interviewed over KYOK last Wednesday evening. This was the first time I've heard a member of the KKK (being interviewed by a black reporter) talk about the "white trash" in the white community. Knowing he was looking for black votes, he applauded some of the acts by blacks, but he refused to let his daughter bring a "colored person" home for dinner.

The week was quite interesting and it helped open my mind on what is going on.

JACK ANDERSON'S WEEKLY SPECIAL

U.S. Would Use Troops
To Reopen Arab Oil Lines
by Jack Anderson

(Copyright, 1973, by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

Washington—The desert sands of the Arab countries hold the life blood of the great western industrial nations. A complete cutoff of oil this winter would force Western Europe and Japan virtually to shut down their industries. The United States would be critically short of oil to heat homes and operate automobiles.

Yet Arab leaders are threatening to continue the oil embargo against the West until Israel evacuates all the Arab territory it seized in 1967. Secret intelligence reports tell of pledges of "solidarity" between the Arab nations to use their precious oil as a political weapon.

The National Security Council is urgently studying how to deal with the crisis. We can report that one decision has been made. The United States has no intention of letting the Arab nations shut down factories around the world and create mass unemployment.

Contingency plans are being prepared to use military force, if necessary, to take over the Arab oil fields. This, of course, would be the last resort. First, the United States would seek the oil by every possible peaceful, commercial method. If these should fail, the United States probably would use financial pressure and freeze the billions of dollars in Arab bank accounts in the West.

But military action is a definite possibility if the Arab leaders remain intransigent.

The Milktapes: A new battle is brewing over some other White House tapes. Two meetings were held at the White House on March 23, 1971, one in the President's oval office, the other in the cabinet room. Attending the meetings were dairymen, who were seeking an increase in dairy subsidies.

Secretary of Agriculture Clifford Hardin had refused to increase milk price supports. He was supported by budget boss George Shultz. But Nixon's friend, ex-Rep. Pat Hillings, wrote a letter to the White House in behalf of the dairy industry, promising to raise $2 million for the 1972 Nixon campaign. In the same letter, he pleaded the case for higher dairy subsidies.

Two days after the dairymen talked to the President, the White House ordered the Agriculture Department to increase milk price supports 27 cents for 100 pounds. This White House order was worth an estimated $500 million a year to the dairy industry.

Senate investigators are now trying to find out whether the dairy lobby contributed to the Nixon campaign in return for a pledge to increase dairy subsidies. This could be construed as a bribe.

Hardin has refused to discuss the matter with the investigators. As the former secretary of agriculture, he is claiming executive privilege. But the real showdown is expected to come over the White House tapes. The dairymen's discussions inside the White House, presumably, were recorded. The investigators now want the tapes.

Allies at Odds: This was supposed to be the Year of Europe, the year we would bolster our relations with our European allies. Today, the Atlantic Alliance lies in tatters.

The Atlantic partners are bickering bitterly over the Middle East war. President Nixon complained in a press conference that our European friends weren't cooperating in seeking a settlement. This brought a sour crack from British Prime Minister Edward Heath, picked up by the Central intelligence Agency, that Britain refused to rush arms to the front and lengthen the war.

Our European allies were particularly upset over the worldwide military alert that Nixon ordered without consulting them. The North Atlantic Council, which is supposed to coordinate military strategy, complained that its generals learned about the alert from the Associated Press.

The President petulantly told reporters that Western Europe would have frozen to death this winter if the alert hadn't been ordered and Russia hadn't held back its troops from the Middle East. France's President Georges Pompidou was quoted by the CIA as saying privately that Western Europeans would have frozen to death faster if they had followed the U.S. policy which made the alert necessary.

Germany's Chancellor Willy Brandt, meanwhile, objected vigorously over the transfer of U.S. military equipment from Germany to Israel at a time when West Germany was trying to maintain neutrality in the Arab-Israeli conflict.

1973, apparently, isn't going to be the Year of Europe after all.

Of Booze and Pigs: The men who run the Pentagon like to pose as tireless public servants who devote their time to safeguarding the nation's security. But the brass hats also spend long hours in the solemn study of more pedestrian problems.

The Navy thought it would be interesting to find out, for example, about the drinking habits of its men. So a few weeks ago, a study was ordered. The sailors were asked why they drink, when they drink, and how often they get "high or tight".

On the West Coast, however, the Navy is more concerned about the goats and pigs on San Clemente Island. Contractors have been asked to submit bids "for the round-up and removal of approximately 5,000 feral goats and approximately 800 feral pigs" from San Clemente Island.

San Clemente Island should not be confused with President Nixon's San Clemente estate. The island is located about 50 miles off the Southern California coast. There are no goats and pigs roaming over the President's property.

The animals on the island, the Navy informed the contractors, "roam free in the unoccupied and canyon areas." The man who gets the job will be required to "remove the goats and pigs alive in accordance with humane methods and procedures."

So while most brass hats are occupied with the Middle East crisis, some are worried how to catch wild goats and pigs on San Clemente Island.

We Are An Equal Opportunity Employer

Sports of The Times

by Joe Kelly

A year ago today Texas Tech had posted a 7-1 football record. The lone loss had come at the hands of eventual conference champion Texas and bowl talk was stirring on the broad West Texas campus.

Then came Homecoming and TCU. The maligned Horned Frogs, with a 4-3 record, shattered the Raiders' dream, temporarily, on a 31-7 shellacking. To say that shellshock was the order of the day, and the following week would be an understatement.

Today, Tech stands 7-1 again, with those same Frogs rising up as the roadblock Saturday. This year the Frogs are 3-4, but with the same incentive that they had a year ago.

It's small wonder that Coach Jim Carlen looks with apprehension on this game. TCU, blasted by Ohio State and crippled by injuries and talk of a coaching change, put it all together to whip a pretty fair Baylor club last Saturday.

There is one encouraging difference. Tech had a letdown against Rice. The defense played well, saving the day, and the offense had enough to capitalize. But the offense didn't look good against the Owls and, as Coach Carlen said, the letdown was due.

Hopefully, the Raiders will shrug off the unimpressive victory over Rice and go all-out to finish the rest of the season unbeaten. They can do it if they set their minds to it.

After the Rice game, I asked Jack Agness of the Houston Post if, perhaps, Coach Al Conover hadn't tried to get a super effort out of his Owls, that he thought had a chance to win this game.

Jack nodded his head in agreement. "He figured that Tech would have to be down this week (after playing so well against SMU). He thought that this would be his best chance of winning an upset."

As it turned out, Tech's defense turned it around and the Raiders generated enough offense to win.

Incidentally, today's garlic corsage to the local electronic media that insists on saying that "Tech has a great 'incentive' to win." Dictionaries are to use.

A great deal is made of the home field, or court, advantage in basketball, but what of football? Well, sir, through the first 14 conference games, home teams had won 8, lost 6.

Losers have been Baylor (twice), Arkansas, SMU, A&M and Rice. Defeats of Arkansas, SMU and A&M probably cost those teams any chance of a conference title, although only a miracle at this point could keep Texas from an unprecedented sixth straight crown.

What's wrong with West Texas football fans? Give us a winner and we'll fill the stadium (at Tech) to capacity. Give us a winner playing a conference game and you can't have enough seats.

Okay, Tech, a winner, ranked nationally, playing SMU, ranked national, a conference game, Homecoming, perfect weather—and the vacant seats gaped up at you. A winner (7-1), perfect weather, a conference game (Rice) and even more vacancies.

Is it because of economic conditions? Is it because it's in the middle of the harvest? Is it because, as some say, Jim Carlen made people unhappy two years ago? What is it? Is it TV competition?

The conference office last week said that crowds are down 7.8 percent from last year, led by SMU, down 36.2 percent; Rice, 28.7 percent; and TCU, 21.1 percent. Only A&M, up 6.4 percent; and Baylor, up 2.7 percent, show an increase. Tech is down 5.2 percent. Although drawing at 87.2 percent of capacity, above, the league average.

The largest crowd for a conference game this year? Easy, Tech at Texas, 77,809.

Carlen at his post-game conference: "Against Rice we've played average, or less, for four years. I thought the defense played well. It must be something their defense does (to Tech offense).

"I'm impressed with Kramer. The worst thing that happened was that we didn't score when we were on their goal line. That's on me. We didn't read the defense right. Barnes missed the key, but we should have caught it. The momentum went to Rice when we didn't score. It could have been the other way (if Tech had scored).

"This was the first game, from an offensive standpoint, that we haven't been high. I've said all along that our offensive line is good, but it's not strong. We can't manhandle anyone. Once we get inside the 10-yard line, we're in trouble. The test of a good offense is the line, not trick plays, or good backfield. I'm not worried about Texas, I'm concerned only with Texas Tech. I'm completely dedicated to Texas Tech."

"Bowl scouts? I avoid them like the plague. We have the TCU Bowl next. That's the only one that's worrying me. We haven't played well against TCU the last two years. Check it out. The last two years they've beaten us 17-6 and 31-7. That's 48-13. They come out against us with fire in their eyes. It's one of two games on their schedule that they really get sky high for.

Jamison. Sister Florence Guyton and Brother Samuel Swisher are still shut-in.

Mount Vernon United Methodist Church

The church "Where Things Are Happening" warmly invite you to attend our Sunday School. Come and enjoy the opportunity to express your concern as to Gods word in these times. Come and share with others your personal commitment. It may lead someone to Christ. At our eleven o'clock service we will meet you at the Lords table as we recommit our souls, minds and body to the love of God thru Christ.

Mr. N.P. Holmes and the pastor will set in motion our scout troop for Mt. Vernon, and have a working and ongoing situation by December. There is a great need for scouting on every level in the black sector of our city.

On November 18, there will be a harvest tea with each auxiliary having their own booth. If you want some unique items for Christmas, be sure and attend this tea spectacular.

There will be a spiritual talent show at Mt. Vernon on Sunday evening, November 25, at 7 p.m. Music, group singing, readings, instruments. A great hour of sending forth love and goodness through music, and the arts.

The Methodist men had their "prayer breakfast" last Sunday morning spearheaded by Mr. Clarence Priestly and coordinated by Mr. James Fuller. Mr. Priestly gave a most inspiring talk and lifted up the zeal of the entire breakfast. Those present received a great blessing.

The official family of Mt. Vernon sincerely thank the following persons for sharing in making our "Home Coming and a Great Day of Miracles" a grand success. Our speaker Rev. Horace Mims, from Abilene, Texas; Dr. Hazel Taylor, Dr. Lovings, Mrs. Dorothy Kinner, Mr. Willie Barker, the Sabu Chorus from Tech, Mr. T.J. Patterson, Rev. A.W. Wilson and the Choir No. 2 from Bethel A.M.E.

Church, Mrs. Louise L. Sparks was the convener.

Thought For The Week: "Remember wise men are still seeking Christ" pause and pray for the sick and shut-ins and let God speak through you as you call or send cards, or go by and see those who are lonely and tired. If you need a pastor, come by Mt. Vernon "Where things are happening".

Friendship Baptist Church

Brownfield—Mrs. Ethel Williams was at her post of duty

Sunday as Sunday School Superintendent.

The lesson was turned over to the teachers for deep discussion. Our pastor, Rev. S.N. North reviewed the lesson with power, and was enjoyed by all.

The morning message was brought by the pastor. His subject was "I'm going back home". Text

"In my Father's house are many mansions." There was a Pentacost Shout.

For the evening service, we worshipped with New Hope Baptist Church and Rev. J.L. Sheldon. Then closed for the day.

May we pray for all our sick and shut-ins both far and near.
