

Nixon Doesn't Consult With Blacks, Farmer Asserts

Washington—(NBNS)—Civil rights Leader James Farmer, who served for two years as Assistant Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare under President Nixon, says that the President doesn't consult blacks and he painted a rather frustrating term under the chief executive.

Farmer, former director of the Congress of Racial Equality, said the man who the President consults on black affairs in the White House is a white man, Leonard Garment. He said the President has no contacts with the black community or its leaders.

He also said that he had had serious disagreements with the administration which made it increasingly difficult to remain working for President Nixon.

Although he steadfastly refused to criticize the President when he left the Administration two years ago, Farmer was far more candid on the television program, "Black on White," moderated by Clifford Alexander, former chairman of the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission under President Johnson.

Alexander asked him whom the President was consulting on black affairs in the black community.

"Oh, I am not aware of anyone that he is consulting," Farmer replied rather tersely.

"I don't think we have any brokers in the situation. It seems that my good friend Lou Garment is the broker in this situation.

"Now, he's a fine person, no, I'm not mocking him at all, but I think there ought to be some blacks, too, with whom the President consults.

"And while Len Garment is a very sympathetic and emphatic person, he cannot speak for blacks because he is not (black)."

Farmer also discounted reports that the President had consulted him on black affairs while he was at HEW.

"He might have consulted me, but he didn't," Farmer said. "He didn't consult men, and I wasn't concerned about his not having consulted me. I was concerned about the nature of (his) appointments, the nominations.

"I thought they were bad indeed. We had some dealings in CORE with one of the men, Carswell, and the dealings were quite negative."

President Nixon nominated G. Harrold Carswell to the Supreme Court, but the Senate refused to confirm him.

But Farmer hinted there were quite a few other problems in a Nixon Administration for a black.

"I had problems with the Administration, quite frankly. I had great difficulty remaining in the face of some of the President's nominees to the Supreme Court.

"Now it was very difficult for me to say no comment when the press called me and said what do you think of this nomination, this appointment the President wants to make." Farmer commented.

He also said he had been bothered by the slowness of the Washington bureaucracy to deal with relevant problems and issues.

Deltas Welcome Rep. Jordan to D. C.

Washington, D.C.—Delta Sigma Theta's reception welcoming one of its national officers, Rep. Barbara Jordan, of Houston, to Washington, was one of the major social events commemorating the convening of the 92nd Congress.

Rep. Jordan, who is chairman of the National Delta Finance Committee, was one of three Blacks sworn in as new U.S. congresspersons. The other two were Rep. Yvonne Brathwaite Burke of Los Angeles, and Andrew Young of Atlanta.

Members of Delta Sigma Theta, a national public service sorority now in its 59th year, came from afar to wish Rep. Jordan well in the new phase of her already brilliant political career. Miss Jordan served in the Texas legislature as a senator from Houston for six years, and last year became the first Black woman in U.S. history to preside over a legislative body when she was elected president pro-tem of the Texas legislature.

The Delta reception, held on Capitol Hill at the Museum of African Art, was attended by a cross-section of Washington, and received full coverage by Washington's daily newspapers.

Special guests included: Rep. Burke; Rep. Ron Dellums, of Berkeley; Rep. Charles Diggs, Jr., of Detroit; Rep. Louis Stokes, of Cleveland (he is also chairman of the Congressional Black Caucus); Rep. William Clay, of St. Louis; Dr. Andrew Brimmer, Governor, Federal Reserve Board, and Hon. Barbara Watson, Administrator, Bureau of Security & Consular Affairs at the State Department.

Also present were members of Rep. Jordan's family—her mother, Mrs. Adele Jordan, two sisters and their husbands, and a large delegation of friends and supporters from Texas.

Joining Rep. Jordan in the receiving line were Delta national officers: Mrs. Lillian P. Benbow, president; Mrs. Thelma Daley, 1st vice president; Miss Patricia Milligan, 2nd vice president; Mrs. Lynnette Taylor, Executive Director, and Mrs. Eula Butler, president of the Delta Alumnae Chapter in Houston.

"We are particularly proud of Barbara Jordan," Mrs. Benbow said, "and other Delta sorors elected to high office and/or who hold key positions in the government. These include: Congresswoman Shirley Chisholm, Jewel Lafontant, who was recently appointed Deputy Solicitor General in the Nixon Administration; Barbara Watson at the State Department, Judge Juanita Kidd Stout, of Philadelphia, and Patricia Roberts Harris, former U.S. ambassador."

Also present at the reception were two past Delta presidents: Dr. Jeanne Noble, Professor of Education, Columbia University, and Elsie Austin.

Southern U. President Plans To Retire in Six Months

Baton Rouge, La.—(NBNS)—G. Leon Netterville, who earlier refused to submit to students demands that he resign as president, has apparently decided to step down from his post at Southern University in six months.

President Netterville reportedly told a New Orleans television station, in an interview, that he plans to retire within the next six months and probably sooner. The National Black News Service was unable to confirm the report with the college president.

The campuses at Southern have been the scene of massive demonstrations and a confrontation between students and the police last Nov. 16 led to the shooting deaths of two students on the university's Baton Rouge campus. A state and independent black investigation of the incident have concluded that sheriff's deputies apparently fired the shots since they came from the area where only they were standing.

The students primary demand earlier last year was for Netterville to step down immediately. He refused.

Although the university president has reached the mandatory retirement age for Louisiana state employees of 65, it is generally known that the board of education would quickly give him an extension should he desire to remain in his post after next June.

Student leaders, when hearing of the planned retirement, took a cautious wait and see attitude about the planned resignation of Netterville.

Civil Rights Key Men to Be Honored

Washington—(NBNS)—Friends of civil rights and Congress from around the country will gather here next week to honor U.S. representatives Emanuel Celler of New York and William McCulloch of Ohio.

The Veteran Congressmen now retired will be cited by the leadership conference on civil rights at a dinner in the Mayflower Hotel. The keynote address at the dinner will be given by the leadership conference of civil rights chairman Roy Wilkins, Executive Director of the NAACP.

Emanuel Celler, (Dem.) was chairman of the judiciary committee when it led the fight for all civil rights laws over the last 15 years including the 1964 civil rights act. William McCulloch, the ranking Republican member of the judiciary committee helped provide the bi-partisan base needed for passage of these major laws.

The awards to Celler and McCulloch will be made by leadership conference on civil rights legislative chairman Clarence Mitchell, Director of the Washington bureau of NAACP.

Dinner chairman will be Bayard Rustin, Executive Director of the leadership conference Executive committee.

Dorothy Height President of National Council of Negro Women will report on the leadership conference board meeting.

The leadership conference on civil rights is a coalition of 127 national civil rights, labor, religious, and civic groups working for the enactment and enforcement of effective civil rights legislation.

Lack of Businesses in Black Community is Real Problem!

There could be answers as to why there are no more than 25 black owned and operated businesses in the Lubbock community. Regardless of what we blame the problem on, it would do no good, for we must find solutions to overcoming the lack of black owned businesses in the Lubbock community.

There just may be a means of overcoming the lack of black owned businesses with the help of the Office of Minority Business Enterprise (OMBE). However, after checking on the participation and involvement of blacks in last week's seminar and open house of this agency, it looks rather dim that blacks will show much concern about business opportunities.

We'd better start paying attention to what is happening in the community as well as the nation. Just last week, President Nixon gave notice the Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO) is gone as well as other social orientated programs, designed for the poor communities. If this is happening in the country, the only way out is to find community based programs which can serve as economic opportunities for the poor communities.

The way it's looking at the present time, no one is really concerned about what is happening on the national or local level. We appear to be quite happy with what is happening. As long as we have a weekly check coming in, we could care less. We must stop, however, and ask ourselves if we really care about our destiny? Or will we just sit around and expect the man across town to continue to come up with programs for us.

The lack of businesses in the black community should open our eyes to what has happened and is happening in the Lubbock community. We can't continue to function as a community unless we have some type of economic base. The potential is here if we'd only realize what is available.

It's not the fault of the government that these programs are leaving the community. It's our responsibility, however, to do something to contribute an economic base to upgrade our own area. We can't continue to exist at the rate we're going and expect everything to fall into place.

In the black community of Lubbock, we are short of everything which is necessary to put together a strong community. It's no wonder we're left out of everything which exist in our community. Without any type of economic base, the city council, county commissioner's court or any type of political function will continue to look the other direction when we request something. Perhaps you've noticed that politicians say one thing during their campaign, but once elected, things seem to change. Sure they change, because our economic base in East Lubbock is not really there and they could care less.

Those of us who are concerned about developing the economic base of the black community of Lubbock, let's do something about it. Programs as OMBE can help us. OMBE is not a give away program in which one will receive a basket of goodies for his family. Rather, it is an effort which can help channel workable programs to help us upgrade and build the economic base in our community.

We're afraid that unless we utilize this resource, this agency just may pack up and leave our area. This would be a hell of a thing since we don't have business strength that's needed for nearly 10,000 people.

So you see, when we don't respond to programs as OMBE, it hurts our entire effort. Of course, OMBE doesn't have the total answers to our many problems in the business community, but it can serve as beginning for us to do something great for all of us.

We've past the state of bickering and condemning what others are attempting to do in our community. Let's hope so and start doing something to upgrade those few black businesses we have in Lubbock and start building some others. The lack of businesses in the Black community is hurting our economic base and that's for real.

Blacks Versus Blacks by Jack Anderson

Washington—Police fear the slaughter of seven black Muslims in a fashionable Washington home and the two-day shootout at a Brooklyn sporting goods store may be the beginning of a bloody holy war between rival sects.

The seven victims belonged to a sect which has accused the Black Muslim prophet, Elijah Muhammad, of preaching false doctrine. Muhammad preaches hatred against the whites, whom he calls the "devil." The smaller sect has condemned this doctrine and has criticized Muhammad for excluding whites.

The gunmen in both incidents have been linked with the Muhammad loyalists.

Even before this outbreak of violence, both the FBI and the Secret Service had anticipated possible trouble from the Muslims. One classified Secret Service report states: "Despite leadership statements enunciating a policy of non-violence (and) non-participation in demonstrations, the existence of an organization whose philosophy is directed toward race hatred and whose members are organized into a paramilitary contingent, constitutes a potential for violence."

The total adult membership of the Black Muslim movement, according to the confidential files, runs between 6,000 and 6,500. The Secret Service memos add: "Recruiting efforts are primarily directed to the uneducated, underprivileged Negroes and suspected or known criminals. There is active recruitment within penal institutions."

An FBI summary, stamped confidential, gives this background on the Muslim movement: "the Nation of Islam, an organization for representatives of the black race only, had its origin in Detroit, Mich., in the early 1930s. Headquarters is Muhammad's Temple No. 2, 5335 S. Greenwood Ave., Chicago, Ill., which affords direction to numerous affiliated branches, commonly referred to as Muhammad's Temples or Mosques, located throughout the United States.

"The leader is Elijah Muhammad, self-styled 'messenger of Allah' and the only divinely appointed leader of the black race in the U.S., who controls all policies and programs. Muhammad's teachings stress Allah (God) selected him to lead the so-called Negro out of slavery in North America through establishment of an independent black nation in the U.S.; the white man is the 'devil' and open enemy of the black man; the black and white races must be separate; the white man, his government and religion will be destroyed by Allah through the forces of nature in the 'War of Armageddon', a war between Allah and the 'devil'.

"...Muhammad and other Nation of Islam members have refused to comply with Selective Service laws, stating that they respect the laws of the U.S. provided they do not conflict with NOI laws. They do not believe that government should force them to participate in wars when they have nothing to gain."

'News' From Washington

Now that Congress is back in session, the voters at home can expect a barrage of "Reports From Washington." The representatives will send home solemn accounts of their activities, emphasizing their political conquests and legislative triumphs. Nothing will be said about the votes they lose, the meetings they miss, the deals they make and the junkets they take.

Some of the reports to constituents will arrive by mail. The reports will be printed in ink-splattered printing shops deep in the bowels of Congress, where the tourists are never taken. Photographers are also provided by the taxpayers to record such historic events as the Millville High School's senior class calling on their congressman.

Other reports will be taped for the radio-TV stations back home. Both the Senate and House provide radio and television studios. The TV studios offer an elaborate set, designed to look like a congressional office, with a stunning view of the Capitol dome beneath a bank of cumulus clouds. The studios, of course, charge about one-twentieth what the congressmen would have to pay to a commercial studio.

The taxpayers not only provide print shops and radio-TV studios, at bargain rates, but most Senators and Representatives use part of their federal payroll money to hire public relations men. In many offices, this media man will write all the press releases, speeches, newsletters and radio-TV scripts. Busy legislators merely have to slip down in the basement to the TV studio, assume a suitably solemn expression and read whatever is handed to them by their press aide.

Congressmen justify all this, of course, as their solemn duty to keep their constituents informed. But the real purpose, of course, is to build up their political stock for the next election.

Meanwhile, you may as well enjoy your "Reports From Washington." You are helping pay for them.

—Headlines and Footnotes—

Soviet Missile Push—A secret Pentagon report warns that the Soviets are rapidly improving their missiles. At the Moscow summit meeting, President Nixon agreed to allow Russia a numerical superiority in missiles to counter America's technological superiority. The Pentagon now claims that the Soviets are catching up in technology. The Soviets, for example, have developed a stellar inertial guidance system which uses the stars to keep missiles on an accurate course.

Mills as Target—Former Sen. Fred Harris, D-Okla., is now laying the groundwork for a national campaign to get Congress to work in the open rather than behind closed doors. Harris' new Populist Institute, we have learned, plans to lobby in the home districts of Congressmen who hide their committee work from their constituents. Harris' first target likely will be Wilbur Mills, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee. Harris has told aides he will go personally to Mills' district in Arkansas to bring the point home.

Otto Who?—Freshman Sen. Jim Abourezk, D-S.C., passed largely unnoticed at inauguration parties held this month for President Nixon. The reason: Abourezk wore a badge that identified himself as Otto Schmink. The Senator explained to us that he felt people were more likely to speak frankly with Otto Schmink, Average Citizen, than Jim Abourezk, U.S. Senator.

As I See It

It appears as though the Lubbock Housing Authority board is making steps to do something about those persons who are living off the "fat of the land" at Green Fair Manor and Hub Homes Apartments. Officials of the local housing board claims that many families are giving false information about their present incomes. Because of this, a concerted effort is being made to evict those persons who have been cheating to get free rent.

There's no doubt, it is a good thing to throw out the dead weight in the local projects. There's only one thing wrong with it, it should have started years ago. Habits are like waist lines, easy to form and hard to loose.

What has happened in the past is history, but let's hope something will be done about those persons who rely on welfare programs to support their habits from one month to the next. I am talking about those healthy people who either have a job or who are too lazy to get one.

Since the local housing board will pull the strings for many reasons, let's hope that something will be done about the situation of both projects. It's bad when Green Fair Manor continues to look the same, day in and day out. It doesn't make sense for those apartment buildings to be filled with four letter words and not removed by its management.

While the local board will begin tightening up on many things, let's hope that something will be done about the many eyesores in Green Fair Manor. You see, we've got to cut out the cheating on both sides, from the tenants and administration.

I can surely understand why many of the problems exist in the apartment complexes. In Green Fair Manor, for example, approximately 90% of families are run by females. In many cases, many lie and steal for their night husbands who must run in the morning before the "man" catches them living with the lady on welfare. In many cases, also, children will suffer because of the involvement of the mother.

As I See It, some people will be hurt in the effort of the Lubbock Housing Authority Board. Anyway, let's hope the cheating cut out on both sides of the fence for the benefit of all taxpayers.

Thought of the Week: "Any fool can tell the truth, but it requires a man of some sense to know how to lie well."

It would appear to me that the residents of Green Fair Manor and Coronado Apartments (also any other interested complexes) should meet with representatives of the Santa Fe Railroad about the upcoming safety device to be constructed in the very near future.

My source tells me that a wire fence will be constructed to keep persons from crossing the tracks in the area of Green Fair Manor and Coronado Apartments. This device will serve as preventive medicine for the youth of the community.

Not only this, but there have been several burglaries of box cars in the area. With this in mind, perhaps concerned persons of the community should communicate with Santa Fe officials for more information.

It appears as though Santa Fe is concerned about the welfare of our young people. Why not contact them to see what you can do to help in the project. As one official told me: "Maybe we can go to the City Council and get money for a Cat Walk so the kids can continue to cross the area."

I would like to congratulate the members of the Youth Council of NAACP for their efforts in suggesting to the City Council on how some of the Revenue Sharing money should be spent in East Lubbock.

Perhaps all the items they mentioned could not be purchased with Revenue Sharing money, at least they are organizing their efforts. Thanks young people and keep up the good work.

"Cease Fire!"

Oh! Beautiful Dove of Peace; at last no longer must thou cower...For those who caused thy many wounds, are no longer, now, in power!...Soar Thou high; and bear to the world, Thy message of Peace and Love!...Hark! The bells of peace are pealed; fly swiftly for thy wounds are healed!...And man is being called to praise aloud the Great Almighty who this peace endowed to a world-seared by hates and greeds-that has paid heavily for its deeds!...Make man to know T'was not His power alone that stilled the enemies mighty drone..Remind our nation in a world still dazed; to kneel and say, "Oh! God be praised!"

We as members and pastor of the True Vine Baptist Church, first of all express our gratitude to our many Black and White friends, donations, well wishers, and your many, many prayers. Sports of The Times

by Joe Kelly

What is victory worth? Or, put another way, what price victory? It all amounts to the same thing. It boils down to a question of to what lengths should you go to win?

Over the years different coaches have had different thoughts on the situation. Some have used the old saw, all's fair in love or war. The majority have approached it from the Golden Rule, or victory graciously and defeat with honor.

There is no question that athletics are warfare. In a majority of our major sports, there is body contact. Some of it, like football and hockey, is major. Some of it, like baseball and basketball, is minor. But it is present.

Track and swimming are two of the non-contact sports, but competition is just as keen and winning means just as much. The same is true of golf and tennis. In these sports there is more emphasis on the individual and honor is the important factor.

There have always been schools which placed an extra dollop of emphasis on winning—at all costs. This included such devious methods as illegal recruiting, faked examinations, automatic passing grades, along with physical mayhem.

I remember one NCAA playoff game in which Texas Tech was involved. The opposing team was losing. It inserted an "expendable" man. In the trade, he was known as a "hatchet" man. He deliberately provoked a key Tech player. Both were ejected. It hurt Tech the most and the opponents won. Victory at any price?

Dirty football has been frowned on for a long time, but there still are some incidents. Probably there is more of it in pro football than any other sport.

Last summer, during the Donny Anderson Classic, Don Maynard remarked that pro football was dirtier than it ever had been. The emphasis, of course, is on getting rid of the quarterback. All injuries, of course, are not the result of dirty football, but there is evidence that too many injuries are caused deliberately.

All of which is an indirect way of getting around to commenting on the UCLA game last Saturday. Unfortunately, the boob tube locally went blank at a time when the UCLA center was getting some extracurricular physical treatment.

It was so obvious, apparently, that UCLA coach Johnny Wooden had to visit the opposing bench and request that the coach ask his players to refrain from endangering the health of the UCLA player, or players.

Since it happened, it must be accepted as a fact that "victory at any price" had been reached. Get Bill Walton out of the game and maybe we can win.

And when the game was over and the host coach was asked what Wooden had said, he made a light quip and passed it all off as a big joke. I wonder if it would have all been a joke had Walton been injured to such an extent that he could not have finished the season?

We don't need Pyrrhic victories in college, which it would have been had Walton been lost. We don't have any place in amateur sports, particularly, for dirty play.

The whole atmosphere at the UCLA game was such that "victory at any price" seemed to be the goal. UCLA, individually and collectively, was booed. There was no recognition of ability. It made the impassioned prayer of thanks for peace ring a little hollow.

This is being written, of course, before Texas Tech's game with A&M and the one with Baylor. I have no way of knowing the outcome of either game, no what Tech will do on the road. Road games are crucial and they also can be treacherous.

Going into this two-game road trip, Tech was 3-4 in road outings. One of those wins was a conference game—and you've got to win games on the road (and win all your home games) for conference titles.

Based on the performances so far, the Raiders are in good shape. Coach Gerald Myers has a proven starting five and he has good depth in reserves. Most championship teams use no more than seven or eight men and the Raiders have this number.

Texas gave Tech fits Saturday night with an alternating zone and man for man defense. This will have been noted by opposing coaches, which makes the job a little harder.

Still, the Texas game may have been the best thing that could have happened. The Raiders know, as a result, that they will have to play hard each game. And they will have to do a better job of attacking the zone.

There was too much passing of the ball outside and not enough penetration by players. I kept waiting for Tech players to drive for the basket. They didn't do enough of this and it almost cost them.

Still, this team is improving. It had too many turnovers Saturday, but it had the one thing all winning teams must have—the player who picks up the slack in the clutch.

Against Texas, it was Ed Wakefield, whose overtime performance was the difference. Earlier, it has been Ron Richardson. And in almost every game some player has taken charge when it was needed. This is the type of play that brings championships. The opposition can't concentrate on one or two men.

The conference race is far from over and Texas, a team deep in material, could be a big factor in the final standings. But then, no coach can overlook any team in league play. The adrenalin flows a little faster at home and the road is the major test.

Tech has the ability. It's to be hoped that they play as well on the road as at home. If the Raiders, remarkably unselfish so far, continue to play as a unit, they can win on the road.

Rites Read Monday For Mrs. L.T. Norman

Final rites were read Monday afternoon at 2 p.m. for Mrs. L.T. Norman, 2405 Ash Avenue, at Bethel A.M.E. Church with Rev. A.W. Wilson, pastor, officiating.

Burial was held in the City of Lubbock Cemetery under the direction of Jamison Funeral Home.

A resident of Lubbock since 1935, Mrs. Norman had been ill for some time. She died at approximately 7:20 p.m. Wednesday (January 24) at St. Mary's Hospital where she was a patient for one week.

A native of Waco, Texas, she had worked in several business establishments as cook for years.

Swinging Six Black Colleges Seek Students—Many Scholarships Available. Predominantly Negro colleges, especially church-related ones, always have been, and always will be, institutions of learning that are relevant to the academic, social and religious development of black people, according to Donald Webb, director of the Recruiting Cooperation Admission Center (TADC) which is located in Braniff Tower-B-116, Dallas, Texas. Willie Sanders, Jr. is a recruiter for the Center.

According to Julia Scott Reed, black columnist for the Dallas Morning News, "both of these men recognize the plight of black colleges in a survival struggle against the onslaught of junior colleges and state supported institutions."

Disadvantaged black, white, brown or red youth who perhaps would not have an opportunity to attend college because of scholastic standing or financial status, especially those young people living in West Texas and Southeastern New Mexico may contact this column, care of this newspaper, for more information.

The colleges where many financial aids and scholarships are available now are: Bishop College, Dallas; Jarvis College of Hawkins, Texas; Paul Quinn College of Waco, Texas; Texas College of Tyler, Texas; and Wiley of Marshall, Texas. All are fully accredited by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools and offer a liberal arts education through programs that lead to either a bachelor of arts or bachelor of science degree in a number of areas of study.

"Hold Fast to That Dream" letter recalled at Johnson's death. As we drove over familiar trails from West Texas to Eastern New Mexico a few days ago and our car radio beamed the tragic passing of former President Lyndon B. Johnson, like millions of other Americans, we were stunned. Then we remembered a letter we had penned to the then President Johnson when he was at the height of his unpopularity because of his strong convictions on human rights, the war and other issues. We predicted then that "unborn generations will rise to call him blessed." This open letter will be published here soon.

From the Ghetto Line: Bellringers in the Midland-Odessa area report that plans are underway again to observe February as Race Relations Month with Exhibits, Teas and Soul Food Tasting events. Afro-American History Week will be observed by many groups throughout the Southwest and the nation in February with Hobbs, New Mexico getting a head start. Retired educator and civic leader of Hobbs and Dallas, Texas, Mrs. Eloise Valley Hatchett, was the featured speaker at a Race Relations Sunday on January 21.

She is to be our guest columnist here soon. Watch for it. Urgent: Librarians in West Texas and Eastern New Mexico report that their shelves have many volumes on Black History and Literature and many are not being used as they should. Black civic, fraternal, church and other groups, visit your local library during February and catch up on your history, also our soul white brothers and sisters. Also brown and reds too. Black can be beautiful but you have to work and study and learn to make it that way. Until later be a good neighbor and remember they come in all colors.

Footnote: The Association for the Study of African-American Life and History will announce a much improved program of study and research in July. This non-profit organization started in D.C. 58 years ago. Don't forget too Soul Bros. and Sisters, this is black literature time. Visit your library and we are on our way to LBJ Library as we pen these lines.

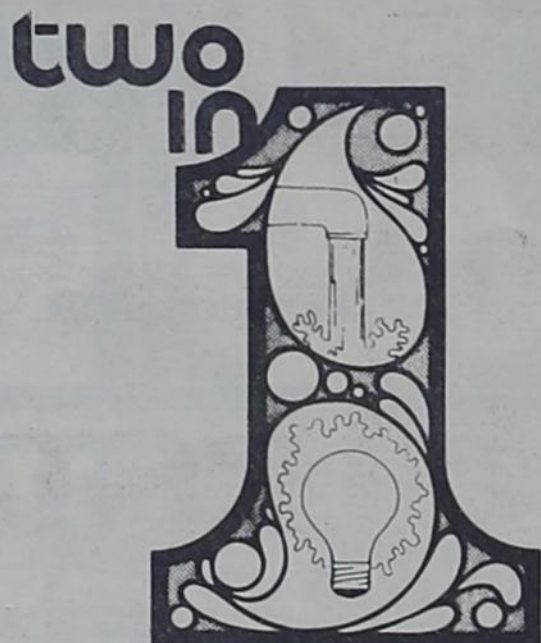

Bulletin: The Clovis branch of the NAACP will have installed new officers by the time bellringers read this. Thanks for the invite fellows.

God is insurance, but His business is life so why don't you stake your claim here with us at Lyons Chapel Baptist Church.

Sunday services were good and well attended. Rev. Moss brought the message. His subject was "The Disease Prejudice," which was taken from Malachi 2:10-12. We also attended the Federation of Choirs during the afternoon which was a great success.

Last Sunday, we had a very special guest to visit our church. Her name was Gloria Mitchell, who is a resident of the Lubbock State School. Miss Mitchell enjoyed church and there are others who would desire to come to church, but they will need rides to and from church. We are asking your concern in this matter, in that these children will have the opportunity to attend church. If any of you good Christian people would desire to pick up a child or children for church, please call 763-7041, Ext. 203; or 765-7924.
