Preparations Being Made for School Opening Monday

Teachers, principals, and other school personnel are making last minute preparations for the new year that begins in Lubbock Public Schools on Monday, August 20.

Registration will be conducted Thursday in the elementary schools. The hours for registration are 8:00 a.m. to 12:00 noon, and 1:00 to 3:30 p.m.

For the first time, all children who will be five years of age on or before Sept. 1 will be eligible for kindergarten classes. As in the past, those students who are considered as educationally handicapped or economically disadvantaged will be scheduled for full-day classes. The other five year olds will attend either morning or afternoon classes, according to ages. The younger children—those born between March 2 and Sept. 1, 1968—will be in class from 8:20 - 11:05 a.m. Those born between Sept. 2, 1967 and March 1, 1968 will attend kindergarten classes from 12:14 - 3:00 p.m.

A peak enrollment of 32,800 students is expected this year, according to Dr. E.C. Leslie, assistant superintendent for administration. He said that the peak enrollment usually comes near the end of September.

Teachers reported to their schools Tuesday to begin preparations for the new school term. There will be 180 days of classes through May 24. Students and teachers will enjoy Labor Day as a holiday on Sept. 3. Students will also have a holiday on Sept. 4, when teachers are scheduled for one of the year's ten days that are devoted to in-service education and preparation time.

Magee Hearing Set

San Francisco—(NBNS)—A hearing for Ruchell Magee, former co-defendant of Angela Davis in the shootout at the Marin County Courthouse on Aug. 7, 1970, will be held on Aug. 23.

The California Court of Appeal said it will determine whether the second trial should be transferred to Santa Clara county and whether Magee should be permitted to change his plea.

Magee's first trial in San Francisco for murder and kidnapping ended in a hung jury. He is scheduled to be re-tried on kidnapping charges next month. The murder charges have been dropped.

Notre Dame Gets Grant for Rights Center

Notre Dame, Ind.—(NBNS)—The Ford Foundation has awarded a $500,000 grant to the University of Notre Dame to set up a Center for Civil Rights, the Rev. Theodore Hesburgh, president of the university and former head of the U.S. Commission on Civil Rights said recently.

"Our nation is now in retreat from the civil rights advances of the last 20 years," Father Hesburgh said in explaining the purpose of the center. "And there is urgent need for research into America's recent civil rights history, for analysis of current civil rights issues, and for recommendations designed to meet the problems of today and of the immediate future."

APA To Meet in Washington

Washington—(NBNS)—Prominent foot specialists will comment on the pros and cons of platform shoes, "tennis toe," and other subjects of interest when the American Podiatry Association holds its 61st annual scientific and membership meeting here Aug. 16-21.

Judge OK's OEO Closing

Washington—(NBNS)—The Nixon Administration has won a major victory in its continuing battle to dismantle the nation's War on Poverty programs.

Last week, a U.S. District Judge in Washington said the Administration could shift 11 programs of the Office of Economic Opportunity to other agencies.

Previously, the Nixon attempt to eliminate the agency had run into several judicial roadblocks. Federal judge William Jones had told OEO to stop cutting off funds for its programs in April and in June, he told OEO director Howard Phillips that he was serving illegally in his role.

But U.S. Judge Thomas Flannery, a 1971 federal court appointee of President Nixon, said the Administration plan to transfer the 11 programs was "fully supportable on a rational basis, (to achieve) maximum economy and efficiency" in their operation and administration.

As a result of the judge's action, the agency will have only 1,008 employees. The other 1,100 employees are expected to be shifted to the Departments of Labor, Health, Education and Welfare; and Housing and Urban Development.

Among the programs to be shifted are Project Head Start, Job Corps and migrant assistance.

Saying the transfers are "consistent" with previous Administrations actions, the judge stressed that appropriations for the programs had been included in the budgets of the departments to which they are to be shifted, not to OEO's budget. "If the programs are to continue in existence," he said, the transfers are "required."

He said the "statutory missions" of the three departments would be enhanced with the transfers of the 11 programs. Judge Flannery also said the affected OEO employees were being given the chance to transfer to the new agencies at their "same tenure, salary and grade."

"Direct injury in fact has not been suffered by OEO employees as a result of the (changes)," he ruled.

The only programs remaining under direct OEO supervision are community action, which the President wants killed, legal services and economic development. The legal services program will probably be shifted to a semi-independent corporation as soon as the Congress and the President agree on the legal services legislation.

The President has also said he would like the economic development program transferred to the Department of Commerce, where it will probably come under the Office of Minority Business Enterprise program.

All of the OEO programs are currently funded through Sept. 30 under a continuing resolution passed by Congress. But what happens to the program after that date is anyone's guess.

REGIONAL AND STATE CHAMPION IN HULA HOOP—Little Yvonda Fulson, 10 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Fulson of 2207 Quirt Avenue, Apt. B, is a happy young Lubbockite as she is the 1973 State and Regional champion. She won the regional hula hoop contest in Austin August 8 and 9, competing against cities and four states. Prior to her going to Austin, she won the city wide contest held at Mae Simmons Community Center on June 26, which was sponsored by the Parks and Recreation Department of the City of Lubbock.

Yvonda will travel to Hollywood, California August 23 to compete for the National title. Her trip will be financed by Wham-O Company which manufactures hula hoops and Frisbies. The company also sponsors the rules and regulations for the national contest. She is a sixth grade student at Wheatley Elementary school and a member of Lyons Chapel Baptist Church. Mrs. Olevia Laster is an instructor for Yvonda.

Prominent Black Women Attend National Convention of Delta Sigma Theta

Atlanta—Women power is something that seems to be synonymous with Delta Sigma Theta and when 5,000 of them meet at their 32nd National Convention, August 12-17, in Atlanta, Ga. responding to the leadership and call to service from their National President, Mrs. Lillian P. Benbow, there will be many powerful and prominent members among them.

Politicians, physicians, scholars, human rights activists, entertainers, students, almost every possible profession will be represented. From the Precocious seventeen year old college sophomore to the octogenarian Founders and members, the delegates representing 65,000 members will hail from 455 chapters throughout the U.S., Haiti and Liberia. But not only are the Deltas known for their power, their courage and leadership in areas of social concern are highly acclaimed.

"Wouldn't you know that the first Black woman to seek the U.S. Presidency would just have to be a Delta?" exclaimed one of the prideful young members of this public service organization last fall when Rep. Shirley Chisholm threw her hat in the ring, running in 12 Presidential primaries. But Deltas seem to lean naturally toward the political arena for also serving in Congress are Delta members Edith Green (D-Ore.) and Barbara Jordan (D-Tex.), who is chairman of Delta's National Finance Committee and one of the convention speakers. More than 200 other Deltas who hold elected or appointed offices at the state and local levels will be in attendance.

Among the hostess chapter Deltas preparing to greet the delegates are Emma Darnell, Intergovernmental Programs Coordinator and Assistant to Atlanta Mayor Sam Massell, and Burnella (Bunny) Jackson, Delta's National Projects Commission Chairman and wife of Atlanta's Vice Mayor Maynard Jackson. Joan Green, another Atlanta Delta, and the Women's Bureau's Director of the Southern Region, is one of the program participants.

Stalwart in the field of civil rights, U.S. Civil Rights Commissioner and immediate past National President of Delta, Frankie Muse Freeman will moderate a panel on Women's Rights. Delta member and human rights for Indians activist, LaDonna Harris will attend the convention as will provincial Dorothy Height, President of the National Council of Negro Women and past president of Delta Nine of the past presidents will be there, including Dr. Geraldine P. Woods, widely acclaimed embryologist and Dr. Jeanne L. Noble, Professor at New York University.

Actress Ruby Dee and poet Nikki Giovanni will be initiated into Delta at this convention.

Mrs. Lynnette Taylor, Executive Director of the sorority finds coordinating this convention a tremendously significant challenge.

About Orangeburg & Jackson State?

by Diane R. Williams
National Black news Service

We applaud the Justice Department's decision to reopen the investigation of the May 4, 1970 shooting incident at Kent State University in which four students were killed and nine others were wounded by National Guardsmen during a demonstration against the entry of U.S. troops into Cambodia.

However, what about similar incidents at South Carolina State University in Orangeburg and Jackson State College in Mississippi where black students were killed and wounded?

Or, doesn't the killing and maiming of black students bear as much weight with the Justice Department as that of white students? Or, perhaps, demonstrating for human rights is not as important as demonstrating against war.

Dr. James Cheek, president of Howard University, last week called on Attorney General Elliot Richardson to reopen the probe of the Jackson State incident. However, let us not forget the Orangeburg Massacre, the forerunner of confrontations between unarmed students and overly-armed law enforcement officials.

It was because of a change of administration at the Department as well as constance queries by the public and the press which led Mr. Richardson to authorize the Department's Civil Rights Division to reopen its investigation of the bizarre incident at Kent State.

Now, let us have constant queries by the public and the press about the Jackson State and South Carolina State incidents. That, we would consider an act of justice from the Department of Justice. To do less would be just another in a series of racist acts perpetrated upon Black Americans by an on-again, off-again federal bureaucracy.

Social Security Curb

Under the Social Security program now in force, recipients are allowed to earn $2,000 in salary ($2,400 as of January 1st); if more is earned, for every two dollars earned one dollar is deducted from one's Social Security check.

Recipients can receive unlimited monies from dividends, interest, etc., so that the elderly who wish to work, or feel they must work, are, in effect penalized. Nothing could be less fair, nor less desirable.

In two days of hearings recently before the Senate Special Committee On Aging, argument was heard on both sides of this question. The argument to retain the present system is based on the theory that Social Security is essentially insurance against a loss of earnings; it is also argued that only a relatively small percentage of recipients would benefit if the system is changed.

Neither argument is impressive. Since recipients have usually contributed for years to Social Security, to reduce these payments because they have the industry or ambition to continue to work is contrary to the American tradition and work ethic; they are entitled to their Social Security payment as they would be to a pension, and all the more so if more fortunate citizens owning stocks and bonds are to be allowed to earn unlimited amounts therefrom.

Second, the fact that only a small number would benefit from the proposed reform has nothing to do with the principle involved. If only one recipient were affected, the case for reform remains sound, and Congress should enact that reform.

WATERGATE WOES SPREAD WORLDWIDE

by Jack Anderson

(Copyright, 1973, by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

Washington—The Watergate Woes, which bedevil President Nixon, have spread to other world leaders.

In Russia, for instance, party chairman Leonid Brezhnev had to overcome powerful opposition before he could establish friendly relations with Nixon. Brezhnev, therefore, must show his rivals in the Kremlin that his new friendship with Nixon will benefit Russia. As Watergate erodes Nixon's authority, it also reduces Brezhnev's chances to make favorable diplomatic and economic deals. The impeachment or resignation of Nixon, according to intelligence reports, could bring on the overthrow of Brezhnev.

In China, Premier Chou En-lai also encountered bitter opposition when he befriended Nixon. The weakening of Nixon, therefore, also weakens Chou.

In Japan, Premier Tanaka is beset with problems that have plunged his popularity to an all-time low. He needs helpful decisions out of Washington, as the two allies become competitors for world trade and oil resources. Nixon's unpopularity, therefore, increases Tanaka's unpopularity.

In England, Prime Minister Heath is plagued with rising prices and sinking political fortunes. His administration has also been sullied by a sex scandal. In France, President Pompidou is politically beleaguered and physically in poor health. Both leaders are associated in the public mind with Nixon.

And this has become a liability around the world.

CIA Embarrassed: No one is more embarrassed over the Watergate fiasco than the professionals at the Central Intelligence Agency. Two of the waterbuggers, E. Howard Hunt and James McCord, are CIA veterans. Their bungling could give the profession a bad name.

For example, Hunt disguised himself in a CIA wig when he flew out to Denver to suborn the testimony of ITP's Dita Beard. But Hunt put on the wig crooked. A professional disguises himself to look as inconspicuous as possible. Hunt, in his preposterous ill-fitting red wig, attracted attention to himself.

McCord was supposed to be an expert in the art of electronic eavesdropping—in the words of the trade, "a good wire man." But he used the equipment and methods of a bumbling novice.

The listening device police recovered inside the Watergate was bulky and obsolete. Such bugs are known as

As I See It

by T.J. Patterson

It was quite interesting to hear Mayor Morris "Moe" Turner tell members of the 70th Annual Session of the West Texas Baptist District Association at New Hope Baptist Church that the City Council was going to do something about the enlargement of the City Council. His remarks came at the Welcome program as he expressed a cordial welcome for the residents of the Hub City.

The Mayor said: "At the last City Council meeting of this month, the Council will discuss the possibility of enlarging the present council." Although this is good to hear, I would like to inform the Mayor of other developments in these United States and Texas which are happening along these same lines.

Due to developments in Petersburg, Va., it now has a black mayor and a black majority on its city council. This according to Armand Derfner and Joe Taylor of the Lawyers' Committee for Civil Rights Under Law of Washington, D.C., in an article entitled: "Court Cases Knock Down At-Large Voting Barrier," may be the opening round of a major turnaround in black political participation.

The article, which appeared in July, 1973 Copyright edition of Focus, a publication of the Joint Center for Political Studies, said: "The June 12 victory in Petersburg was made possible by a U.S. Supreme Court decision early last spring that overthrew the old system of at-large elections, by which blacks had been frozen out of other than token representation on the council."

The well written article pointed out the fact that in a typical at-large situation, blacks may be at least 40 percent of a city's population, and be so distributed geographically that if the city governing body were elected by district, two of five members would be elected by blacks. Looking at the danger of such an effort, it was made known that by holding all elections citywide, the 60 percent white majority controls all five seats.

"The discriminatory potential of at-large elections has been well known for many years, but until recently it has been impossible to do anything about it. Now, in the Petersburg case and another case from Texas, the Supreme Court has said that wherever at-large elections tend to discriminate against black or other minority group voters, they will be held unconstitutional."

It's worth mentioning that the new decision will not automatically end the use of at-large elections, "because the Supreme Court held that the facts of each case must be proved separately." Derfner and Taylor stated: "Moreover, the new rules may apply only in the South and, for Chicanos, the Southwest. But because it is in the South that the most damaging uses of at-large elections

"throwaway" equipment, which are sometimes planted by seedy practitioners of the bug-sweeping trade. Then they pretend to discover the devices later for the benefit of naive clients.

Professionals could have bugged Democratic party headquarters with sophisticated devices that could never have been detected. McCord's bug was so obsolete that Washington policemen, who discovered it, thought it was an explosive device and called the bomb squad instead of the wiretap experts.

Inside the CIA, meanwhile, the professionals are mortified.

Vote Jockeying: The new electronic voting system in the House permits the congressmen to change their votes at will during the 15 minutes allotted for each roll call. Unlike the old voice-voting system, there is no record of the vote change.

Our spies on the House floor, however, report there was a lot of vote jockeying over the pay raise for congressmen. The majority finally voted down the pay hike by 81 votes, but not until there had been some frantic fiddling with the electronic levers.

As many as 35 congressmen hastily changed their votes in the waning seconds of the tally. These congressmen, apparently, hoped to get their fat increases now and worry about the voter reaction later. But the last minute, they saw the pay raise would be narrowly defeated. They quickly switched their votes, therefore, so they could look good at home.

The last-minute switches made in the House appear more self-sacrificing than it was. The pay raise would have lost by less than a dozen votes before the switching began. But once they saw the pay bill was doomed for defeat, several congressmen suddenly became statesmen and voted to save the taxpayers money.

The Profiteers: Now that the price freeze is over, consumers have seen food prices soar out of sight. This has raised suspicions that some unscrupulous businessmen have used the freeze as a pretense for profiteering.

In other words, some farmers and merchants apparently have boosted their prices higher than they would have risen naturally if there had been no freeze at all.

A look at prices of then and now tends to confirm the suspicion. After two freezes and four phases, prices are higher than ever.

For example, the price of corn is up an incredible 124 percent from last year. Chicken broilers are up 139 percent and eggs have gone up 132 percent. The price of steers for the butcher has gone up 40 percent.

More revealing, however, is a comparison of prices on a monthly basis. The price of hogs on the wholesale market shot up 44 per cent in just one month. In the same month, eggs jumped 39 per cent.

The consumer not only has to pay for government economic mismanagement, but for private profiteering as well.

occur, the new decisions should give strong ammunition to black and brown voters fighting for a fair distribution of political power.

There's no doubt about it, the Petersburg and other cases will have a "big influence" on other at-large election systems in the South and Southwest. Such cases will include Louisiana (Zimmer v. McKeithen), Mississippi (Stewart v. Waller), Arkansas (Dove v. Bumpers), South Carolina (Stevenson v. West), Texas (White v. Regester), and many others.

Some of these cases deal with state legislatures, while others deal with local bodies such as city councils or school boards. Without any doubt, as they are decided, in the light of the Supreme Court decision, they will create a trend that should go far toward destroying at-large elections as a built-in barrier to black and brown political power in the South and Southwest.

As I See It, the Mayor and City Council of Lubbock will have to pay close attention to what is happening on the national scene as well as in Texas. As registered voters and taxpayers, we, too, must inform the "Powers that be" that we are concerned about what is happening. It is time for us to get more concerned about what is happening.

Let's all wait and see what the city council will do at the meeting before the month is over.

Little Yvonda Fulson has done a splendid job in learning to master the Hula Hoop. She has won the city, state and regional contest which were held in the state of Texas. It is really pleasing to know that the City of Lubbock has young people who are contributing something constructive to their community.

Although little Sister Fulson has done her thing, another sister, Mrs. Olevia Laster, has worked hard in preparing her for the national contest which will be held in Hollywood, California on August 23. It is only fitting and proper that Sister Laster be given an opportunity to travel with Yvonda to the city of Hollywood. I am sure that the City of Lubbock Park and Recreation Department has enough funds for Mrs. Laster to travel to the national contest.

As I See It, Mrs. Laster deserves the opportunity to see one of her pupils performing for a national title on the West Coast. Not only is she an instructor for the Hula Hoop, but she is an able director of Mae Simmons Community Center where the City contest was held this summer.

The City of Lubbock can surely afford this opportunity to send a citizen of our community to something really big in this country. I say, as well as many other citizens in the Hub City, let's send Mrs. Laster to the national event in Hollywood. She deserves this type of concern. Thanks, Mrs. Laster for working with our young people at Mae Simmons. Thanks to you, also, Yvonda, for representing the City of Lubbock as well as the great state of Texas.

Major Health Problems of Black Americans to Be Spotlighted at Annual Meeting in New York

New York—The major health problems of black Americans today—high blood pressure, infant morbidity and mortality, sickle cell anemia, ghetto living and urban trauma—will be spotlighted here at the 78th annual meeting of the National Medical Association from Sunday, August 12, to Thursday, August 16.

Distinguished physicians and scientists will explore areas "considered to be of special interest to minorities, not only in medicine, but in related areas such as legislation," Herbert G. Cave, MD, convention committee chairman, said.

Some 6,000 black physicians are members of the NMA, which is headed by Edmund C. Casey, MD, surgeon and Assistant Clinical Professor of Medicine, University of Cincinnati College of Medicine. About 2,500 physicians are expected at the convention, which will meet at the Americana Hotel.

Pre-convention workshops on high blood pressure, glaucoma and other diseases will be held on August 11 and 12. The high blood pressure workshop will take up the clinical aspects of high blood pressure and its complications, such as stroke, heart attack, and kidney failure.

High blood pressure will also be considered at an all day seminar on August 16. The glaucoma workshop will review detection and treatment of this serious eye disorder.

Dermatologic and cosmetic surgery will be the subject of a workshop on August 11. Surgery has long been a neglected subject in the training of dermatologists, Harold E. Pierce, MD, chairman of the NMA's Section on Dermatology, points out. This will be the first program of its kind sponsored by the NMA.

Two special plenary sessions, "For Ever Baby a Fighting Chance," will be held on August 13-14. Fetal genetics, urgent surgical problems in the newborn, and a practical plan for screening and immunization program will be among the subjects discussed.

A seminar on sickle cell anemia will meet August 13, while the "trials and traumas" of urban living will be viewed at a plenary session on August 15.

The black woman and her "total health perspective" will be the subject of a series of daily workshops. Specifically, the workshops will deal with physical health, emotional and mental health, and economic health.

A luncheon on August 14 will pay tribute to black women leaders of the 1970s, including Shirley Chisholm, New York Congresswoman; Mikki Giovanni, poet; Dorothy Height, President of the National Council of Negro Women; Mrs. G. Melvin Evans, wife of the Governor of the Virgin Islands; Alyce Gullatte, MD, psychiatrist and educator; Ms. Doris A. Davis, Mayor of Compton, California.

The black family, black physician, and health maintenance organizations will be discussed by a panel on August 13, tropical medicine in the black and hispanic family by a panel, August 14.

The Tuskegee Syphilis Study, its origins and implications, will be discussed August 15. This session will be open to the public.

Noah Mayes, program manager, will give a special welcome; with invocation be given by Rev. A.L. Davis, chairman of the board of directors of LOIC.

Mary Lou Slay and Luerena Toliver will give special commencement addresses.

Speaker for the graduation will be John Herzer, general manager of Plains Co-Op Oil Mill. Miss Henderson will present the graduates to L.O. Luther, chairman of Industrial Advisory Council.

Sports of The Times

by Joe Kelly

Maybe it's a sign of age, but if what we're watching on television Saturday is major league baseball, the 1947 Lubbock Hubbers would be the world champions.

That isn't to belittle those '47 Hubbers. Instead, it makes them look even better. Unless I am old, crotchety and jaded, today's major league action reminds me more of the old Sophomore League. The bats, balls, bases, uniforms look the same, but there the resemblance ends.

I am not sure that the oldtime Yankees, who showed their wares in an abbreviated game last Saturday, couldn't be leading the American League East today. That is, the oldtime Yankees right now.

Those of us unfortunate enough to see the two major league games last week, Monday and Saturday, must have been struck by the lack of cohesion. It was pretty sad baseball. Not only was the fielding horrendous, the pitching was atrocious.

From what I have seen so far, with the exception of Bob Gibson and a few others, most of the so-called pitching is throwing. Get the ball in the vicinity of the plate and hope the batter swings.

I'm not sure that you can blame it all on the pitching. If you get the batters to hit, there's no assurance that the fielder will know what to do with the ball hit to him. But any pitcher who gets two strikes on a batter and then walks him on four pitches ought to be fined.

It all adds up to a decline in ability. I still maintain that you can't have the kind of expansion we've had and still have enough players of true major league ability to man 24 rosters.

Errors there always have been, always will be. But those of both commission and omission are increasing. We have the designated hitter, a narrowed strike zone, bobbywhip bats, more rabbit in the ball—and what do we have? Simple. We have offensive baseball that is offensive, to use two meanings of the word. It's enough to make you cry.

Speaking of crying, there's been plenty of moisture North of the Red River. The pride of Oklahoma, the Sooners, got caught with their fingers in the cookie jar.

Instead of the proverbial slap on the wrists, both the NCAA and the Big 8 unbuckled the belt and let the Sooners have it. In the written reports of reaction by Sooner bosses you could almost feel the rain of tears. Oh, my, but this was harsh action!

Some institutions think that they can violate rules with immunity and receive only a cursory penalty, such as, tut! tut! You shouldn't do that. My, My, but that was naughty. Don't you all do that again.

Fortwith, those institutions gleefully express deep feelings of regret, and go right on violating the law. After all, "everybody does it."

Does every do it? I doubt it. I think that the vast majority of institutions are honest and aboveboard in their operations. I also think that the few who cheat should have the book thrown at them to preserve the integrity of the collegiate system.

I was as shaken as anyone when Tech found a basketball player without enough hours, costing the Raiders the championship. But, to Tech's credit, there was no coverup attempted.

I think that if athletic directors were completely honest, they'd admit that the college athletic scene has grown topheavy. The emphasis has been, and is, in most cases, on football.

Football is a tremendously expensive proposition and, in most instances, other sports suffer. Football, with some exceptions, carries the financial load. Like the squeaking wheel, it gets the grease. College athletic programs are designed around football. It's that simple.

But, until philosophies change, it will continue that way across the United States.

An investigation started the other day amuses me no end. It concerns primarily announcers on radio and/or TV becoming "homers" for the teams on which they report.

Any radio, TV or sports reporter is guilty, in spades. There is no such thing as an impartial person in regards to sports. To this day I get as nervous as a coach before a Tech game and I live and die a little with every win or loss, and I never attended Tech.

It is completely natural to get wrapped up in the team on which you report. The difference is in someone like Jack Dale, who can do such an impartial job that you would never know that he lived in Lubbock. Unfortunately, Jack Dale's are few and far apart.

Tips Offered On How To Save on Food Costs

Austin—Whether we like it or not, all signs point to a continuation of food prices at present levels or even increasing levels in the months ahead. The era of "cheap food" apparently is gone for the foreseeable future.

In the meantime, there are several things consumers can do to assist themselves in getting the most for their food dollars. Texas Department of Agriculture home economists recommend the following:

1. Do not resort to panic buying. Revert to your normal buying habits. Food supplies are plentiful. One of the biggest problems now is that consumers are rushing out and buying everything in sign. Hoarding only aggravates the situation. The law of supply and demand is working in relation to food supplies. Right now, demand is outstripping supplies. As a result, prices are continuing to increase.

2. Shop around; look for the best bargains. Read the grocery advertisements carefully in your

Black Methodism and Deficit Financing: An increasing volume of criticism has been heard in black denominational circles of the tremendous amount of money being spent with white housing authorities (motels, hotels etc.) for holding various state, regional and national conventions, conferences and black religious confabs of various kinds

Two major black religious denominations: the National Baptist Convention and the African Methodist Episcopal Zion churches have taken definite steps to relate more to the black community in which these various meets are held and to stimulate the black economy by giving more housing responsibility to it, according to our sources.

Millions of dollars from the members of the black church have gone into the hands of white housing operators that were raised in the first place by the struggles and sacrifices of often hard pressed members who contributed the money to their respective denominations out of a sense of loyalty and devotion in the first place.

The black press has often been critical indeed of the practice of these black denominational leaders draining the dwindling resources of its often impoverished membership to maintain elaborate suites and parlors in downtown areas. Oftentimes the black community does not even realize that the brothers and sisters have been to town. Black restaurants, barber shops and neighborhood businesses could use even an iota of the vast amounts spent by these meets but the beat "goes on and on."

Especially hard hit by this practice has been the Big 3 Black Methodist denominations: the C.M.E., the A.M.E. Zion and the A.M.E. At least one or perhaps more of these denominations, are reporting proposals to correct this economic dilemma that in some cases has brought deficit spending and massive borrowing to administrative levels.

It is interesting to note in this connection that one of the major religious bodies in the world: The Jehovah Witnesses whose meets sometimes number more than one hundred thousand delegates and observers, make extensive use of home facilities of every city they meet in. And their number continue to grow.

On the other hand, many bellringers have stated that the concentration of facilities for religious conventions saves money for delegates. In another column, we shall present their side of the case. What is yours?

To Mrs.E.G. of New Mexico: Black Capitalism simply means black people owning and supporting black businesses. As you can see here one of the biggest criticisms launched against the black church is that it has failed for the most part in supporting black business.

Black Quotes: "Senator Ted Kennedy realizing that Governor Wallace has some 20 million votes in his back pocket was obliged to sell out in Alabama recently. He is willing to fabricate to conceal his own convictions." From Clay Smothers' column, "Conscience of a Black Conservative".

To E.N. of Big Spring: Sidney Poitier was born in Miami, Florida on Feb. 20, 1924. He is a high school graduate and served in the U.S. Army, with training as a physiotherapist. More later. Until then Peace and be a good neighbor.

Three Day Workshop Opened Wednesday At Lubbock State School for Staff Directors

Lubbock State School personnel will host approximately 35 Staff Development Directors from across the state in a three-day workshop Wednesday, August 15, through Friday, August 17. The visitors represent the 21 state schools and state hospitals under the Texas Department of Mental Health & Mental Retardation, and are responsible for the training of the 17,000 state employees in that department.

The purposes of the workshop, according to Jedd Blessing, Staff Development Director at Lubbock State School, are: to standardize and catalogue some training courses which are common to all state schools and hospitals; share resources, materials and activities which have proven successful in employee decide what you can spend for luxury items.

3. Use the cost per serving comparison rather than the cost per pound. Determine which is the best buy. Boneless meat which is all edible is certainly a better buy if prices per serving are considered.

4. Get a copy of the Texas Department of Agriculture's bulletin, "Save on Your Beef Dollars". Information in the bulletin will explain to you what "grade" means, what "yield" means, and how to choose bargain beef. Write to John C. White, Commissioner, Texas Department of Agriculture, P.O. Box 12847, Austin, Texas 78711.

5. Do not "buy up" commodities that cannot be kept indefinitely. Bacon, for example, can be kept only about a week.

6. If you live in a rural area, check with some of the vegetable farmers about buying directly from him. Freezing fresh produce is not difficult if you follow directions. Write for the booklet, "Freezing and Canning Texas Agricultural Products," from the Texas Department of Agriculture address above.

Representatives are expected from state schools at Abilene, Austin, Brenham, Corpus Christi, Denton, Lufkin, Mexia, Rich-

ATTENDANCE ZONES

First grade students must be at least six years of age on or before September 1. Kindergarten students must be five years of age on or before September 1.
- Most junior and senior high school students, grades 9-12, are already registered. Exceptions may be students who have moved into the city since last spring, or who have moved within the city into a different attendance area. If these students have not registered at the appropriate schools, they should do so during this week.

REQUIRED IMMUNIZATIONS

Texas law requires immunization for all students enrolled in schools:

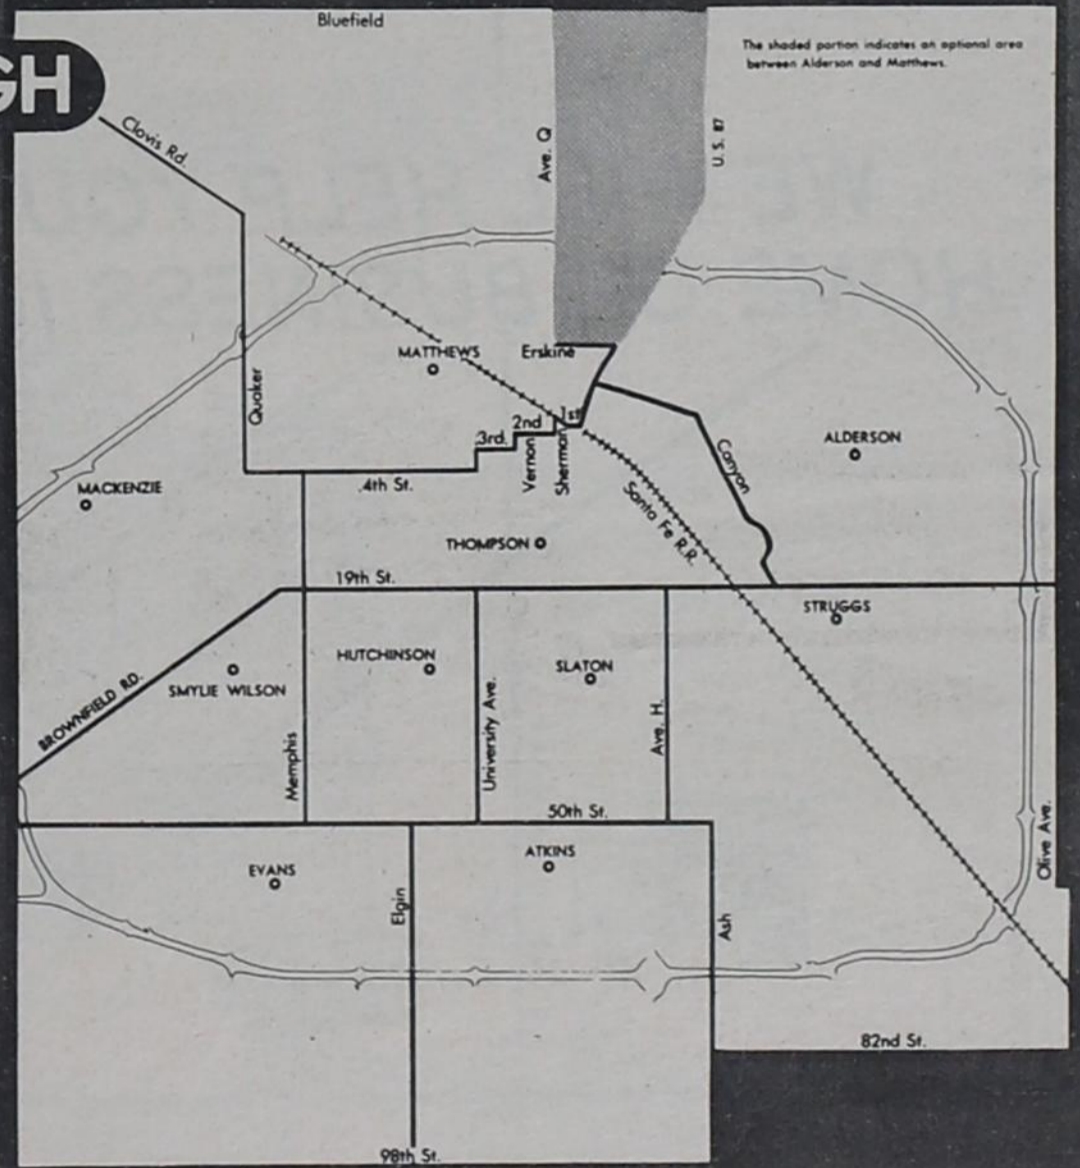

Kindergarten and grades one through five: Vaccines are required for polio, three oral Sabin doses with the last dose since age four; diphtheria tetanus (DTP or Td), three doses with the last dose since age four; measles (rubeola), one dose or the illness through age 11; and rubella (three-day or German measles), one dose through age 11.

Grades six and above: Vaccines are required for polio, three oral Sabin doses to age 19 years with the last dose since the age of four, and diphtheria tetanus (DTP or Td), three doses with the last dose within ten years. In addition, immunization is required for measles and rubella through age 11 as outlined for the lower grades.

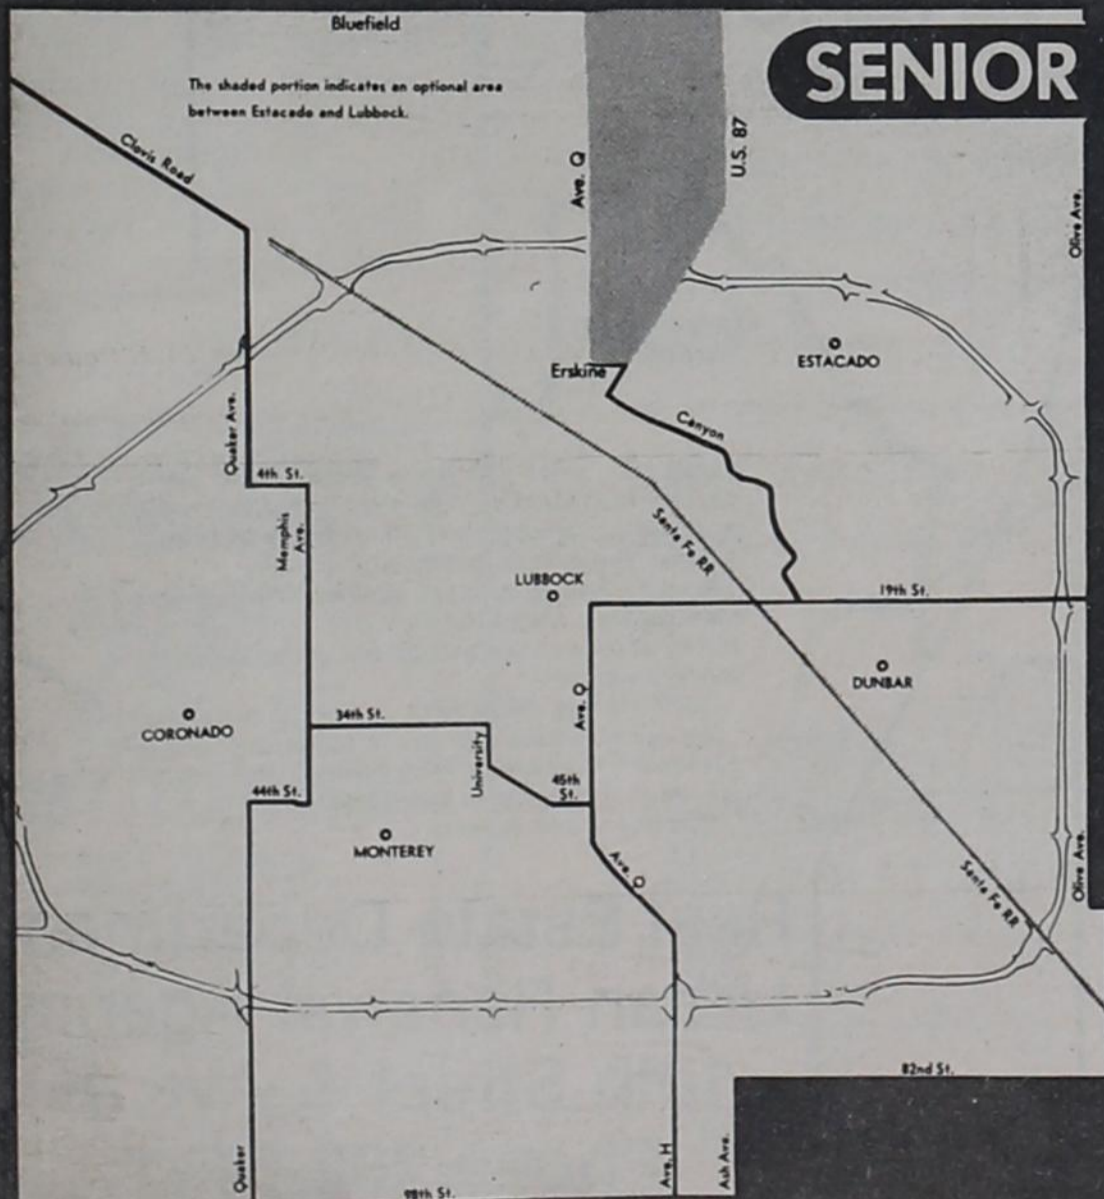

A combined measles-rubella vaccine is now available which requires only one injection.

All immunization should be completed by the time the student enters school. If this is not possible, students will be allowed to enter school if immunization against one of the diseases listed has been started. All of the immunizations should be completed as soon as medically feasible.

Texas Receives $1.4 Million in Funds

Urban and rural school districts serving the highest concentrations of children from low-income families in 46 states and the District of Columbia received an additional $28.1 million under grant allotments announced this month by HEW Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger. The state of Texas receives $1,490,717 in grant monies.

The awards are made under Part C of Title I of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act, authorizing special additional grants to eligible urban and rural school districts.

The funds will be used to help defray the costs of compensatory education programs and are in addition to approximately $1.56 billion in Title I grants awarded school systems in Fiscal Year 1973.

Title I, the largest of all Federal aid-to-education programs, serves nearly 6.6 million educationally deprived children in 13,900 school districts. Projects are designed to meet pupil needs for remedial reading, language development, mathematics, and other instructional programs and services.

The extra Title I money allotted under the Urban and Rural Grant program will be used during the 1973-74 school year. It will help support new or expanded projects for preschoolers and youngsters in elementary school in some 4,000 school districts.

To be eligible for a grant under the Urban and Rural program, a school district must have 20 percent of its school-age population drawn from low income families, or 5,000 such children who comprise 5 percent or more of the total school-age population.

The amount each school district receives under the special program is limited by the district's basic Title I grant and the total funds available for the fiscal year.

Watergate Fairness? Trial Techniques—Press Bias

Washington, D.C.—One of the truisms known to every Washington reporter is that politicians keep their ears keenly attuned to public sentiment. That's natural enough because they live, and survive, on votes.

But it interferes with justice when the national spotlight focuses on a committee hearing when the overwhelming sentiment is running one way. A few members of the press corps and a few television commentators, notably Howard K. Smith, have noted this during the Watergate "trial".

But these voices are drowned out, very often; yet they are the sober, often-courageous ones bucking the mod-sentiment tide, at the risk of unpopularity. In the Watergate trial, the politicians make regular apologies about trying to be fair and presuming everyone to be innocent until proven guilty (a cherished part of the judicial process) and then continue self-righteously with what is little more than a spiced-up judiciary and legislative circus.

John Ehrlichman, though he may be found guilty in the courts, was one of the first witnesses to stand up to the committee members, and challenge their techniques. John Mitchell, who also could be found guilty of misconduct in the courts, was another. He openly termed the hearing a trial.

Last Saturday morning, members of the Co. B, 980 Eng. B+1 began working on the parking lot of Lubbock Opportunities Industrialization Center (LOIC). Above are some of the persons who worked on the paving project at the manpower center, located at 2200 East Broadway.

The press is also guilty of outrageous bias in the Watergate affair, as are photographers and television newsmen. Pictures of witnesses have often been selected for their "bad-man" look, television commentators and newsmen have printed innuendo, in wholesale volume—to please the public.

"Black Perspective On The News" Explores Black and White Lifestyles on Channel 5

"Black Perspective on the News" a new public affairs series on the Public Broadcasting Service, illuminating the black and white lifestyles that have evolved in the U.S. will air Fridays at 7:30 p.m. on Channel 5, KTXT-TV.

The 13 part series is co-produced by award-winning journalist Acel Moore and artist-filmmaker Reginald Bryant who also acts as moderator.

The purpose of "Black Perspective on the News" is threefold: to explore current and topical news events; to bring into sharper focus the implications of these events for the black community; and to capture those candid moments arising from the confrontation between reporters and newsmakers.

"The fact that there are two societies, two lifestyles—black and white—and the unique position of the black journalist as participant in both—is probably the most exciting concept behind "Black Perspective on the News" says Moore.

"More than any other black professional, black journalists live in these two worlds", he observes. "Often news conferences and the media just don't have the chance to get the black perspective or to give it. 'Black Perspective' affords the journalists on the panel the opportunity to ask questions from their own unique positions, from two sides as it were, and this broad basis is what makes the program important to both black and white audiences."

Known for his sensitive writing on community problems, Ancel Moore has had extensive experience in the "two worlds" in his six years as a staff reporter for the Philadelphia Inquirer. Moore received the 1970 Bar Association Scales of Justice Award for co-authoring a series on the juvenile court system, and the 1971 Sigma Delta Chi Public Service Award for an investigative report on the police shooting of a teenage auto theft suspect.

Bryant draws on a wide range of experience in communications including producing, writing, camera work, and direction. He has attended Temple University, the University of Pennsylvania, Johns Hopkins University, the University of California, and the American Film Institute. An accomplished artist, Bryant has had several one man and group exhibits and many of his works are in private collections.

Journalists from the Philadelphia area and from across the nation will join Moore and Bryant to quiz guest newsmakers.

"Black Perspective on the News" originates from WHYY, Philadelphia. It was initiated in 1970 as a response to the Kermer Report's call on the media to "expand and intensify coverage of the Negro community." A cut in funds forced "Black Perspective in the News" off the air in 1971 although it had received high praise and been transmitted overseas by the U.S. Information Agency. The program returned to the Philadelphia area in April, 1973 and will now be presented nationwide on the Public Broadcasting Service.

Guests who have made headlines after appearing on "Black Perspective on the News" include Philadelphia Mayor Frank Rizzo, former Philadelphia Mayor Richardson Dilworth (who charged the city with wiretapping phones), and Goldie Watson of the Model Cities program.

Bicycle Auction Set For Saturday AM

The City of Lubbock will hold a public auction for the sale of stolen, abandoned and recovered bicycles next Saturday, August 18. The sale will begin at 9 a.m. at the City Sanitation Barn, 324 Municipal Drive.

The sale will feature 71 bicycles and an assortment of bicycle parts, all of which have been turned into the Police Department Property Room, but no owner could be located. The bicycle selection includes all sizes, with many 10-speed models.

The auction is open to anybody, and all bicycles will be sold to the highest bidder for cash, on an "as is, where is" basis. All sales will be final, and the bicycles are not guaranteed to be in workable condition.

The proceeds from the sale will go into the city's general fund.

Prairie View A & M Prepares Army Officers

Prairie View—Prairie View A&M University prepared more Army Officers during the school year ending in August, 1973 than any of the eleven predominately black colleges in the Fifth U.S. Army Seminar ROTC Instructor Group.

A total of 59 Prairie View A&M graduates will be commissioned during the 1972-73 school year. The total officer production for the eleven institutions is 191, with South Carolina State ranking second with 43 officers commissioned. The nine additional schools produced totals ranging as high as 13 and as low as 5 officers.

Prairie View also offers Naval ROTC Training which is producing six officers in 1972-73. Now in its 4th year at Prairie View, the program has 83 students enrolled.

The Army voluntary advanced Corps which includes the junior and senior years in college is larger at South Carolina State with 118 and at Prairie View, 117 than any of the other Colleges listed. Florida A&M at Tallahassee has 56 advanced corps students, and Tuskegee Institute 51.

Other predominately black institutions with AROTC programs in the Fifth U.S. Army include Southern University (Louisiana), Alcorn A&M, and Jackson State (Mississippi), Hampton Institute (Virginia), Central State (Ohio), Morgan State (Maryland), Florida A&M and North Carolina A&T University.

abilities and good sportsmanship a few weeks ago. This was very good and touching to me.

I have lived in Lubbock about 37 years and we seem to have always been a little lax in encouraging our younger people enough.

We think you are doing an outstanding job as a young man in our community, and we want you to know we are aware of your endless efforts in the news media and also your interest in our young people. Continue your good deeds. Our hats are off to you. May God Bless you with many more happy years.

Thanks, R.J. Givens, Jr.

Dear Dunbar Parents:

We are eagerly anticipating the opening of the 1973-74 school year beginning next Monday. We want this to be the best and most successful year that Dunbar High School has ever had.

We have been most fortunate in the past in having the support of our parents and our community. However, we want this to be an exceptional year. In order to achieve this goal, we need your help, support, and cooperation. We urge our parents to get involved with all phases of our school, and to join our P.T.A. We feel that by joining the P.T.A., you will have closer contact with your child and your school. We hope that you will visit our school and meet your child's teachers and counselors. We are here to help you with any questions or problems that you might have. Please feel free to contact us at your convenience because this is your school and your child's best interest comes first with us.

We sincerely hope that this will be a year filled with the drive, cooperation, and teamwork of the parents, students, and faculty of Dunbar High School that is necessary to make a "good" school a great school.

Yours truly, Roy W. Roberts Principal Dunbar High School
