Controversy Continues to Rage Over Muslims $3 Million Loan

Washington—(NBNS)—The Controversy over whether the Black Muslims sought a second loan of $3 million from the government of Libya continued to rage with the latest "disclosure" by a Moslem leader confirming earlier press reports.

Several weeks ago, informed Moslem sources disclosed that the Muslims had sought a second interest-free loan from Libya to help bolster sagging businesses.

But these same sources said that Moslem leaders and the Moslem Student Association in the U.S., had expressly suggested to Libyan President Muhammad Kaddafi that the loan would not be in the best interests of the Moslem nations.

Last year though Elijah Muhammad borrowed the money from Libya to convert a church on Chicago's South Side into a national mosque.

Although Black Muslim leaders discounted reports of a second loan at the time and praised the Libyan government for its "great gift" and contribution to the true and correct following of Islam, a leading Moslem spokesman here repeated the charges.

"This effort to capitalize politically from the loan is understood to have embarrassed President Kaddafi," said Muhammad Tahir, editor of the Islamic Items.

"Kaddafi is interested in the unification of all Moslems under the true and authentic teachings of Islam as revealed in the Holy Koran."

Tahir contended that the first loan was given to the Black Muslims by Libya in the hopes that the Nation of Islam will come into closer contact with the authentic teachings of Islam.

He also believes that the loan was part of a reward for the Black Muslims support of Palestinian efforts in Muhammad Speakes, the official newspaper of the group which has a paid circulation week of more than 600,000.

It was, he said, the "only pro-Palestinian national publication in the U.S."

But he added, that instead of the sect coming closer to the "authentic Moslem teaching," there have been increasing tensions between the Muslims and the members of the "orthodox" of sunni (traditional) sects here in the past year.

Black Muslims believe that whites are devils, and Tahir said there is no room in traditional Moslem teachings for that belief. He also said that the Muslims teaching that Elijah Muhammad is a prophet is a false claim since Moslem religion teaches that Mohammed was the last prophet and anyone saying he is one is untrue.

He met with Dr. F.L. Lovings, local branch president, and other officials of the branch. The local chapter had been informed several months ago of Lubbock being selected for the 1973 site.

Approximately 200 delegates are expected to attend the annual meeting which will feature many interesting programs for benefit of local chapters.

Deckard discussed, at length, with officials about the convention at the In Town Inn.

Special PTA Program Set at Struggs Jr. High

On Tuesday, March 6, at 7:30 p.m. at the E.C. Struggs Junior High School Cafeteria in Lubbock, a special P.T.A. program will be presented as part of Public School Week. Mrs. Theodore Phea, president of the Struggs P.T.A., announced that sponsors of the program entitled "2001: School Odyssey", are Mr. Sam Parker, history teacher and Mrs. Ruby Donaldson, girls' counselor at the school.

"2001: School Odyssey" will be a panel discussion with students of each major ethnic group participating. The topic for discussion is: "What schools of the future will be like." Specifically, these subjects will be commented on by the seventh and eighth graders. Students of the future, teachers of the future, the school campus, dress and hair styles, athletics, solid subjects, elective subjects, students' rights, homework, behavior and discipline, lunch time and breaks, and textbooks and teaching machines.

The students who are participating in the panel discussion have done their own research for these topics. The students are: Sharon Bunton, Charles Brown, Jesse Martin, Rhonda Richardson, Harvey Gaitan, Elva Garza, Theodora Phea, David Gentry, Randy Howell, Teresa Foster, Lio Rivera, Irene Perez and Alvin Chatman.

School pictures will also be taken at the March 6 P.T.A. meeting by Floyd Payne, photography. The cost for two 5x7 and eight wallet sized portraits in color is $4.50. If desired, the company is willing to photograph any member of the community at this time, including parents of the Struggs students and younger members of the family.

According to Struggs principal, Charles E. Brown, the P.T.A. program highlights the week in which parents and community members are encouraged to visit the public schools March 5 through 9. Other activities

New Federal Rules Set for Children's Feeding Program

Washington—(NBNS)—The federal government is about to issue new guidelines for its special summer feeding program which critics said are designed to slowly starve the program to death.

Basically, the new guidelines discourage community groups from sponsoring feeding sites at day care centers and recreation centers.

The Children's Foundation, a non-profit group that monitors federal feeding programs here, said the new provisions are a new way to take control from parents and community groups, as well as reduce the number of children who participate.

Last year, according to Agriculture Department statistics, the summer feeding program fed an average of 1.38 million children a day. Ninety-five of them were eligible for free or reduced price meals.

Most received meals which the government paid for at rates up to 60 cents a meal. The regulation's last year required that one-third of the minimum daily nutritional requirements for children be contained in the meals.

But the reimbursement rate is being lowered to 40 cents a meal and it can be lower in nutrition.

"We see the regulatory process controverting the intent of Congress. Congress said they were going to trust poor people," said Barbara Bode, president of the Children's Foundation.

at the school, such as Open House March 5 and flag-raising ceremony March 7 are planned. "2001: School Odyssey" will be presented again Thursday, March 8 at 8:30 a.m. at the school for the seventh grade students, and on Friday, March 9 at 8:30 a.m. for the eighth grade students.

"All of these regulations are designed to slowly starve the program to death.

Last year the federal government spent about $30 million for the feeding program. The Agriculture Department has $50.6 million available this summer, but if it follows tradition it won't spend all of the money available.

The department said the new guidelines were necessary since tighter controls are needed to correct abuses and weaknesses, including adults walking away with lunches intended for children.

The general public will have a month to comment on the proposed guidelines, the Agriculture Department noted.

CAB Official In D.C. This Week

Dempsey Taylor, executive director of the Community Action Board in Lubbock County, is in Washington, D.C. this week to deliver a 40-page proposal to officials of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW).

The $230,000 proposal, according to Taylor, is for a sickle cell anemia screening program in Lubbock which would help screen about 40,000 persons in Lubbock County. Wednesday was deadline for submitting such proposals to HEW.

Sickle cell anemia is a hereditary blood disease in which the red blood cells assume a sickle shape, making the cells useless in carrying oxygen to parts of the body.

It is estimated that one out of every 10 black Americans are carriers of the disease and one out of every 400 has the dreadful disease.

Curtain rises at 7:30 p.m. tonight, Thursday on the first of two performances of "Soul Explosion", Estacado High School Band's talent show.

The two-hour show will be presented again at 7:30 p.m. Friday in the EHS auditorium.

A parade of talent featuring The Shadowfax, The Flaming Arrows, The Trilites, Dunbar High School and Hutchinson Junior High School Stage Bands, The Elusive Eight, and the EHS Rock Ensemble is planned for the event.

Fifteen singing, dancing, and novelty acts with elementary through high school students will be in the Estacado spotlight. Intermingled will be an equal number of comedy sketches and "quickies."

Climaxing the evening's entertainment will be a talent show "first"—a grand finale with the entire cast singing "Reach Out and Touch".

Police Now Believe Essex Alone in New Orleans Shooting

New Orleans—(NBNS)—A 10 page "statue report" on the police investigation of the day-long shootout atop the Howard Johnson Hotel here last month has concluded that Mark Essex, the sniper who killed eight persons before he was slain by police, was alone at the time of the incident.

The report, which is the official word on the police probe, said, "it has not been definitely determined if Essex did or did not have one or more accomplices or co-conspirators. However, Police Supt. Clarence Giarrusso, in an hour-long press conference, said the evidence is "overwhelming" that Essex was the lone sniper.

After Essex was killed by police firing from a helicopter, police assumed there was another sniper and continued to shoot at the building. When the police gained access to the roof more than 24 hours after the shootout began Jan. 7, they found only Essex's bullet-riddled body. A search of the hotel failed to produce an accomplice.

The report also noted that such evidence as spent bullet casings and plaster casts of footprints proved Essex was the sniper who killed a patrolman in front of the police station Dec. 31 and who shot another later in the night.

One victim of the shooting who had floated in a swimming pool for two hours to avoid detection by Essex said he had been shot by a man with a goatee.

In addition, police reported hearing shouting from the roof and it was believed the helicopter had been hit by gunfire after Essex was killed.

Giarrusso said, however, that six policemen, two hotel employees, and several hotel guests were on the eighth floor at the time of the shooting and say "no one other than Essex on that floor." He said the helicopter may have been hit by ricocheting police bullets.

THE WHITTEN CASE
by Jack Anderson

(Copyright, 1973, by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

Washington—A federal grand jury, as you may know, refused to indict my associate Les Whitten after FBI agents arrested him on the streets. We now have evidence that the FBI deliberately tried to set up Whitten and withheld the facts from the Justice Department. The grand jury really should have indicted the responsible FBI officials.

Whitten embarrassed the FBI by locating stolen Indian documents that the FBI had been searching all over the country to find. Whitten also wrote the story of the documents, which was highly embarrassing to the government. The word came down from the White House to retaliate.

Whitten was arrested, therefore, as he was covering the return of the documents to the government. Indian leader Hank Adams had been negotiating to get the documents back from the Indians who stole them and return them to the government files. The FBI knew about Adams' intentions but didn't mention this to the Justice Department.

The prosecutors, therefore, began picking up the facts in the case, not from the FBI, but from the newspapers. The FBI, for example neglected to tell key Justice Department officials that their undercover man had been present when Adams told the press of his intention to return the documents. Even more embarrassing, the FBI's undercover man was shown on an ABC-TV film sitting only four feet from Adams while Adams was talking about returning the papers.

Neither Whitten nor Adams, of course, had anything to do with stealing the documents. And it is not a crime to assist the government in recovering stolen documents. In other words, the FBI knew Whitten and Adams were not committing a crime when they were arrested.

The prosecutors, nevertheless, allowed the FBI to present its case to the grand jury. It's rare that a grand jury won't indict people that the FBI wants to bring to trial. But the FBI's case was so bad that the grand jury refused to indict Whitten and Adams.

Meanwhile, Whitten's constitutional rights were violated by the FBI. Maybe the grand jury ought to be called back into session to indict the responsible FBI officials.

Creaming the Public

For months, news stories have linked the dairy industry's huge Republican campaign contributions to President Nixon's decision to increase price supports for dairy farmers.

We have now seen a letter, intended for the eyes only of dairymen, which offers further evidence that the contributions were a political payoff to the President. The letter was written by William A. Powell, the president of Mid-America Dairymen, to one of his members. The text reads:

"On March 23, 1971, along with nine other dairy farmers, I sat in the cabinet room of the White House, across the table from the President of the United States, and heard him compliment the dairymen on their marvelous work in consolidating and unifying our industry and our involvement in policies. He said, 'You people are my friends, and I appreciate it.'

"Two days later, an order came from the U.S. Department of Agriculture increasing the support price of milk to 85 percent of parity, which added some $500 to $700 million to dairy farmers' milk checks. We dairymen cannot afford to overlook this kind of economic benefit. Whether we like it or not, this is the way the system works."

The day after the dairymen sat down with the President, they made a large contribution to the President's campaign. Another day later, price supports were raised over the objections of the secretary of agriculture.

All told, the dairymen contributed $147,500 to Nixon. In return, the taxpayers gave the dairy farmers an added $500 to $700 million. This was good business for the dairy farmers, if not for the American taxpayer.

Military Sweatshop

The Pentagon wastes millions each year in overpayments to big contractors. It spends millions more selling itself to the American public. And, of course, the generals and admirals are lavished with luxuries.

But with all of the money it throws away, the Pentagon apparently is paying sweatshop wages to the people who embroider military insignias. A Labor Department investigation has revealed that some Pentagon subcontractors are paying unlicensed home workers in New Jersey as little as 72 cents an hour to finish military insignias.

The workers are usually poor, Spanish-speaking people unable to find steady employment. They are desperate for work and wages. So they take the illegal work, putting the finishing touches on the badges that servicemen wear on their sleeves. Investigators have found case after case in which a whole family—father, mother and children—work for as little as 33 cents an hour.

The investigators charge that the manufacturers are not only paying substandard wages but are using their illegal operations to dodge taxes, as well. And since the work is being done illegally, the manufacturers don't pay social security or unemployment taxes.

The Pentagon, typically, claims it has no knowledge of the labor violations and continues to buy the insignias despite the Labor Department's

As I See It

by T. J. Patterson

Last week at a City Council meeting, Mayor Morris Turner revealed that he had inspected Green Fair Manor Apartments. He said, "I'm quite disturbed and alarmed how that property is taken care of. The management is extremely poor, in my opinion."

Since the Mayor is feeling like this about the city-run apartment complex, maybe something will be done about how they operate. I would suspect something is done about this situation when the Housing Authority Board meets this week.

As I See It, there has to be something done about this dreadful situation in the East Lubbock area. It's ridiculous that we as residents of East Lubbock will continue to let this happen in our own back yards.

If the "powers that be" don't do something about the situation, then I would suggest that we as citizens do something about it. It wouldn't hurt for the churches to become involved in this effort. After all, we continuously talk about this type of situation in various Sunday School classes and also from various pulpits. It would make a lot of sense if some church or even an organization got involved if there are no drastic changes made this week at the Housing Authority Board meeting.

As taxpayers, we can't continue to pour money into this area when it is not being kept like it should. This area, whether we live there or not, is all of the citizens of East Lubbock's business.

I hope that something will be done about this area immediately. Many of us know what the problems are here. Let's hope that those in a position to correct these problems will do something about them immediately.

Thought of the Week: "Little minds are tamed and subdued by misfortune; but great minds rise above it."

It was quite interesting to hear the various testimonies made by the young people who went before the City Council in regard to the city ordinance about pin ball machine operations in the city. As one of the youth stated, ". . . if they closed pin ball halls in the City of Lubbock, there would be other places in which a person could get the necessary drugs he wanted."

Drugs are a problem in Lubbock. This has only recently become a problem to middle class whites, while it has been a problem in the black community since the early days in Harlem. Now the problem has become important since whites are also involved.

Although whites participated in the issue at city hall last week, as parents we must keep in mind that our young black boys and girls, junior and senior high age, are exposed to drugs in the Lubbock community almost daily.

It is a problem here for our young people, and they can easily get the drugs they desire to get their "kicks". It would be wise for us to keep a close check on this problem.

If you pay close attention, perhaps the youngsters can teach you something about the various drugs in our community. Don't be guilty of saying this problem doesn't exist—believe me, it does.

It's good to see the many organizations working toward contributing to the Vernell Baucum Hightower Trust Fund. It proves that we can get together and do something constructive for a brother or sister.

I hope the Community Action Board in Lubbock gets the $230,000 for a screening program for sickle cell anemia. It's definitely needed here.

Keep those contributions coming in. The address is: Vernell Baucum Hightower Fund, Texas Commerce Bank, Lubbock, Texas.

Theft Over $50 at LOIC

Sidney Hall, an employee of the Lubbock Opportunities Industrialization Center (LOIC), reported a theft to the Lubbock Police Department one day last week.

After careful investigation, it was learned that there were three IBM typewriters, valued at $450; one calculator, valued at $50; and a postage machine (which had $9.09 run up on it) taken from the center.

There was evidence of a forced entry into the building.

House Burglary

Joyce Laverne Johnson, 1013 East 29th Street, Apt. C, reported to the Lubbock Police Department that a man, approximately 35 years of age, did break into her apartment one day last week.

She told police that entry was gained by way of a kitchen window, where a window was previously broken. The window was covered with tape and cardboard.

It was discovered at a .32 caliber pistol and $45 were taken from the house. The money was taken from a billfold which was under a mattress between the head and box springs.

House Burglary

Sports of The Times

by Joe Kelly

How many times have you heard baseball managers moan "oh, them bases on balls. They kill you." Not once, but many times during the course of a baseball season, is that cry heard.

In basketball the companion cry is "oh, them missed free throws. They kill you." And no one knows it better than Texas Tech and Coach Gerald Myers. Free throws, or the inability to make them, cost the Raiders victory over A&M and an outright conference title.

Saturday night, for example, Raiders stepped to the free throw line three times in the first half on one-and-one shots and missed the first effort. That cost a potential six points.

Tech hit only 11 of 19, barely better than 50%, which isn't good enough to win. Meanwhile, the Aggies won the game at the free throw line, hitting 14 of 20. The Raiders had one more field goal, further emphasizing the need for accurate free throw shooting.

Then, too, the Aggies commanded the backboards. I don't know how many second and even third shots the Aggies got, but it was plenty. Jeff Overhouse and Randy Knowles were powerful. It was a tragic night for the Raiders, playing before the largest home crowd of the season, which anticipated clinching of an outright title. And, since this is being written Sunday, it might be that Tech will have to wait until Saturday. Arkansas, in the hills, had all the incentive it needed after the Aggie win.

If there's one thing we don't need is for the state legislature to get mixed up in Southwest Conference activities. We don't need government intervention, at any level, in sports, particularly amateur sports.

All this is brought on by a suggestion, delivered by a legislator, that he will consider asking the legislature to look into alleged recruiting violations in the conference. The situation was brought to a boil by Texas Coach Darrell Royal's bitterness and outright charges of high school players being bought.

If the conference can't control the situation, all members will either have to live with it, or resign. The conference has the services of an investigative service, but the problem is getting evidence that will stand up. That's almost impossible.

It is not the first time such charges have been leveled. It won't be the last time. And probation has been, sometimes, meted out. At least the talked about situation is now out in the open. But please, let's keep the legislature out of it.

Also out in the open is the alleged rift between Mike Pinkham, assistant basketball coach at SMU, and the head man, Bob Prewitt. Pinkham, like the littel boy caught with his hand in the cookie jar, denies he instigated anything.

But those who are in a position to know say that the student SMU paper reported it accurately. And the rift obviously has the head coach and the squad at loggerheads.

SMU probably had the finest sheer talent in the conference this year. The Mustangs had height. They had speed and quickness. They had shooting ability. They had everything it takes to go to the NCAA playoffs.

What they didn't have all season was great team effort, something that has marked Tech's success. There was too much stress on individual effort, too much selfishness. The team you saw on TV Saturday against Arkansas was an undisciplined team.

I talked with Jerry Waggoner, Bryan sports editor, before Saturday night's game. Jerry's an old friend and I said that I had been thinking recently, who would make the all-conference team from Tech? Would any player? "I've been thinking the same thing," Jerry replied. "In all honesty, Tech doesn't have an all-conference player. But, if Tech wins the championship, as it should, they'll have to have someone. I'd guess it would be Ron Richardson, if anyone."

Jerry's thinking agreed with mine. Richardson has been a bulwark in the Raider machine this year. Top scorer. Top rebounder. Tops among regulars in free throw shooting percentage. The acknowledged leader on this season's squad.

But, taken position by position, the Raiders don't have a single player who stands out. That emphasizes all the more the brilliance of Gerald Myers' coaching in building a team that has been unselfish, competitive and more effective than anyone else.

Mount Vernon United Methodist Church

Ash Wednesday, March 7, marks the beginning of the Season of Lent. We shall give to every member of the church a "Daily Devotional Guide," to be used throughout the Lenten Season. Along with the guide, each member will receive a Lent Dime A Day Folder. Each day we are asking every member to give a dime a day with prayer. Please do not just give the amount the folder holds. If this is done, it defeats the purpose. We are in hope that each member will receive through the daily prayers, and sacrifice of a dime spiritual strength. Through this, the church will be strengthened to serve. Give God a chance.

Many things have happened at Mount Vernon since last week. The sanctuary now has new Hymn racks. The lawn is decorated with a Bulletin Board. This is the first time Mount Vernon has had a bulletin board, or church sign. Thanks to the Jimmie Walker family. Soon, we are to consecrate a Memorial Plaque which will be placed on the Bulletin Board.

Snyder Church Fellowship Meets Last Saturday-Sunday

Snyder—Saturday night the United Fellowship of Churches held their annual banquet. The food was very good with Rev. O.J. Archie and Rev. C. Crayton doing the Bar-B-Queing.

On Sunday the fellowship held their services at the Allen Chapter Methodist Church where Rev. Green is pastor. Rev. Peterson preached a wonderful sermon during these services. Rev. F. Nelson is president of the fellowship of Churches.

The Spiritual Crusaders will be in Fluvanna Methodist Church Sunday at 6:00 p.m., March 4th. Rev. Crayton will preach, and he is first leader for the Crusaders. Mrs. Evenly Malone will present a solo during these services.

Series of Warnings." His text was Numbers 20:1-7.

Sunday was a day of many events. Rev. Moss will leave us to render his services for Rick's Chapel and we know that he will be a faithful and untiring worker. Sunday afternoon, we attended a dedicatory service in Plainview, Texas, for Rev. W. Griffin.

To top the evening off, the Yough Matrons rendered a special program entitled: "Hands—Which Hands are Yours?" All the services were thoroughly enjoyed.

Please support the Vernell Baucham Hightower Trust Fund at the Texas Commerce Bank. Your support will help a worthy cause. We are asking your prayers for the Hightower family.

Thought of the week: "You can't walk with God and run with the devil."
