Additional Cutbacks In Housing Program Announced

Washington—(NBNS)—The cutback in the nation's housing programs has been broadened to include the rural program as well.

The Administration has ordered a sharp reduction in new applications for low-income rural families.

The project, administered by the Agriculture Department, is a Farmers Home Administration program. It permits poor rural families to purchase new homes with interest rates on their mortgages as low as 1 per cent.

Officials of the Farmers Home Administration, though making no formal announcement of the action, confirmed that telegrams were sent out ordering an immediate halt on new applications for housing loans and some other programs.

A number of other programs were also affected by the order including projects providing rural rental and cooperative housing, grants to small communities for building sewer and water systems, and credit for farm labor housing.

Darrel A. Dunn, deputy administrator of the Farmers Administration said more than 30,000 single-family housing loans for low-income rural families between now and June 30 would be cancelled.

Dunn said the cancellations were part of a moratorium on new subsidized rural and urban housing approvals.

He pointed out that the actions were all part of a basic review of national housing subsidy policy. Outgoing HUD Secretary George Romney has already announced that the department had placed a "temporary hold" on all subsidized housing applications which have now been "feasibly" approved.

Under the Farmers Home Administration, single-family home loans for both low and moderate income families were planned for a total of 117,000 loans, totalling close to $2.07 billion in the fiscal year ending June 30.

About 70,000 of these loans were due to go to low-income families, most of them with incomes under $7,000 a year.

One official predicted that some 40,000 of the loans have already been approved or will be shortly.

Annual United Fund Meet To Spotlight NBC Executive

The creator and producer of the award winning children's television series "Ding Dong School" and vice president of children's programming, NBC television, George Heinemann, has been announced as the guest speaker for the annual meeting of the United Fund of Lubbock by Cliff Cummings, president.

The annual dinner meeting, which features election of officers and board members of the United Fund and Community Planning Council, is scheduled for Tuesday, January 30, at 7 p.m. in the ballroom of the Texas Tech University Center. Mayor Morris Turner will present outstanding service awards to volunteer workers and musical entertainment will be provided by Betty and Richard Tolley and the Camp Fire Girl chorus. Tickets for the dinner meeting are priced $3.50 each, according to Cummings, and are available to the public at the United Fund office, 2201 19th Street.

In naming Heinemann as speaker, Cummings pointed out that many of the United Fund agencies serve the needs of children. As vice president in charge of children's programming for NBC-TV, it was felt that Heinemann would have a message of particular interest for those attending the meeting. According to Cummings, Heinemann is much sought after as a speaker by public affairs and educational organizations throughout the United States. He is a member of the board of directors of the Greater New York YMCA and has served as vice president of the National Creative Learning Task Force of the White House Conference on Children and is active in many other public organizations.

In addition to Ding Dong School, which won 35 top awards including an Emmy, Heinemann has created the "NBC Children's Theatre" and "Take a Giant Step", a new entertainment-information program, both have been recipients of many major awards. Prior to his present position, he was director of Public Affairs for the network responsible for all religious programming, discussion programs, "Meet the Press," on which he was executive producer. He is a native of Chicago, a graduate of Northwestern University and holds the permanent rank of commander in the Naval Reserve. He resides with his wife, Helen, in New York City. They have six children.

Officers to head the United fund board and Community Planning Council will be elected by vote of those in attendance after a report by the nominating committee headed by James Spears. Other committee members are J.C. Chambers, Don Dorman, Wayne Finnell, Troy Myers, Tom Simmons and Fred Timberlake.

Outgoing officers are Cliff Cummings, president; William R. Moss, vice president; C.L. Boggs, secretary-treasurer; F.J. Hamman, council chairman; and Jack Alderson, budget chairman.

Outgoing board members include: Dr. Glenn Barnett, Joe Kirk Fulton, Frank Gonzales, Willie Lusk, Gary Merrell, Clyde Morganti, Troy Myers, John Scoggin and Judge H.O. Woodward.

Completing their third and final year on the Community Planning Council are Donnie Bray, Coffee Conner, Bob Craig, Reverend O.A. McBrayer, Freda McVay and Dr. William Whittington.

Chairman of the annual meeting committee is Robert McKinsey. Committee members are Larry De Priest, Mrs. R.P. Fuller, Gordon Downum, Major Robert Hall, Clyde Morganti, Dale Johnson and Mrs. Bob Stafford.

Some Prisoners to Get Their "Rights" in South

Recent actions in two southern states may soon result in improvement in the living conditions for prisoners in those states.

In a study made at the request of the state of Alabama, an investigating team from the Medical Association of Alabama found that the medical treatment of prisoners in Alabama's penal system is "grossly inadequate."

The medical report upheld in most particulars the findings of United States District Judge Frank M. Johnson, Jr., who ruled last October that the state was violating the constitutional rights of prisoners by denying them adequate medical treatment.

In Florida a Federal judge has ordered an extensive set of rights to be enacted for inmates involved in jailhouse disciplinary hearings.

U.S. District Judge Charles R. Scott's judgement supported the contentions of a Washington—(NBNS)—The federal government may be increasing the amount of money it loans to small businessmen, if the Office of Minority Business Enterprise's annual report is a fair indicator.

The Small Business Administration now has a ceiling of $350,000 per small business, but the Nixon Administration apparently wants that figure increased to about $500,000 per customer.

"We have run up against that as minority enterprises get larger and inflation takes its toll," said an official of OMBE. "Our goal would be $500,000."

"The scarce data presently on hand seems to show a close correlation between the smallness of a business and the likelihood of its failure," the report said. "If the data bears out the above correlation, OMBE would then have hard evidence to support a redirection of federal effort pointed not at liberalizing small loan requirements but at raising their loan ceilings."

At the same time, the OMBE report showed that since President Nixon took office in 1969, the amount of goods purchased by the federal government from minority-owned businesses has risen from $13 million to $394 million in fiscal 1972.

These, the government said, were contracts given to minority firms on a non-competitive basis and funneled through the SBA, which subsidized the difference between the minority company's price and what the federal agency would have ordinarily paid for the goods.

Another Civil Rights Agency Reportedly Doomed

Washington—(NBNS)—Yet another agency dealing with the problems of black people is slated to bite the dust according to a reliable news source here.

The Community Relations Service (CRS) of the Justice Department, an agency created under the Civil Rights Act of 1964 to mediate racial disputes will not be refunded, according to a story in the New York Times.

The Service, headed by Ben Holna, a black former news reporter, has some 300 employees, most of whom would be reassigned to other offices within the Justice Department.

Other employees would be placed in other government agencies or be dropped.

The Nixon Administration plans to announce its actions on January 29, and meetings are in progress to plan the dismantling procedure for the service which has operated on a $6 million yearly budget.

Some supporters of the service condemn the prospective action saying that there now exists no other agency within the government which is in touch with the life of this country's inner city black communities.

Others feel that the agency is serving no useful purpose and may even have been used as a "spying" and surveillance operation for the Justice Department.

When it was first put into operation, the service worked in many tense situations in the South involving civil rights confrontations. Perhaps its most publicized case of mediation involved the role of getting Sheriff Jim Clark of Selma, Alabama to withdraw his firm stance on not allowing courthouse demonstrations led by the late Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King in 1965.

In its early years, the service was strongly supported by President Lyndon Johnson and Justice Department officials. In later years it has not played a public role and like other agencies during the current administration its work has been downgraded.

Community Relations Service officials refused to comment on the story.

We'd Better Make It Known That We Are Concerned

As members of the Black community, we'd better let the local political sub-divisions, City of Lubbock and County of Lubbock, know that we are quite concerned as to which way the monies from the "Revenue Sharing Program" will be spent for the citizens of Lubbock.

It is important that all concerned citizens of Lubbock, organizations and other interested groups let the various officials of the city and county know that we want to have some input on the way these funds are to be spent.

We must, too, keep under consideration that Revenue Sharing money will not take care of the many problems in the city and county. We can, however, make sure that the Black community has some type of input to the spending of these funds, regardless of what people may say or think.

So if we want to have an input into the spending of Revenue Sharing money, we'd better let the local political sub-divisions know that we know what's in town.

Dr. Martin Luther King Day Should Be Celebrated

Although the birthday of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., was not celebrated as it was throughout many other parts of the nation, it should be "People's Holiday" for everyone. We can appreciate the efforts of at least 300 persons who attended a memorial at Reese Air Force Base, and of course, those who showed concern for the works of this man.

It has been said that, sooner or later, the United States Government usually catches up with the leadership of the people. We hope this will be true in the case of the drive to make the birthday of the late Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., an annual, legal national holiday.

At this time, we can count at least 14 States and 33 cities who proclaimed last Monday, January 15th, as "Martin Luther King, Jr. Day." Public and private schools were closed in at least 21 cities. Thousands of other schools and communities observed this holiday. Further investigation, we find that Unions had a day off with pay in their contracts, businesses and stores closed or took time to pay suitable tributes to the late Dr. King.

Most of the present national holidays glorify past wars and their generals, or have become too commercial and meaningless.

A national holiday honoring Dr. King would honor all Black people. It would honor peace. It would honor justice and freedom. It would honor brotherhood. It would honor the rights of all men.

These are the values Martin Luther King, Jr. stood for. These are the ideals for which he gave his life. It is not too much to call upon Congress to follow the leadership of the people, as once again last Monday (January 15) people all over this nation did honor one of history's truly great leaders.

On the local scene, where there was not too much activity in memory of Dr. King, it would appear to us that there are things that can be done on the local level. We can all start now with our local city government. If we can set a proclamation for growing the best beard and mustache, surely we can give honor to a man who gave his life for freedom of all men. It doesn't hurt to start from the local level. Dr. King's Day should be celebrated here and the entire nation, every year.

Washington Merry-Go-Round by JACK ANDERSON

-Special Report from Washington- Of Drugs And Rights by Jack Anderson

(Copyright, 1973, by United Feature Syndicate Inc.)

Washington—The Army, alarmed over the sudden rise in drug addiction among troops in Europe, has adopted stringent measures to catch drug users and pushers.

But the new measures, in turn, have alarmed civil rights lawyers who fear many innocent soldiers may be caught in the antidrug dragnet.

We have uncovered one document, for instance, which was issued last month by Gen. Anthony Daskevich in Stuttgart, Germany. He recommended that commanders develop informers and reward them for information. The general also suggested volunteer undercover patrols to be established to follow up on the informers' tips.

"Cars entering the post will be checked and searched at random...Volunteers will search buildings...stem to stern," wrote General Daskevich. The general urged his unit commanders to conduct frequent shakedown inspections and to bust pushers and users to the lowest rank as soon as evidence is available.

To handle known drug users, the general recommended the removal of the suspect's pass privileges, his driver's license, his civilian clothes, even the key to his room. If the suspect is married, wrote Daskevich, "he should be required to move into the barracks where he can be watched."

Such measures, the general insists, pose no threat to innocent soldiers. But civil liberties lawyers charge that innocent soldiers have already been hurt by some of the extreme methods used to catch the guilty.

Double Dippers

For years, we have criticized retired officers for double dipping from the federal treasury. The practice began nearly a decade ago when Congress passed the Dual Compensation Act. Thanks to this law, more than 78,000 retired military personnel today collect part of their pension and draw civil service pay at the same time.

Double dipping has helped create a military spoils system, which encourages rigged recruitment, preferential treatment, unfair hiring and promotional practices.

Retired militarymen frequently alert friends about to retire of job openings in the federal government. In some cases, jobs have been held open for months awaiting the retirement of ranking military officers. In other instances, new jobs have been created solely to fit the needs of retiring officers.

With such wide ranging and controversial issues as school financing, abortion and drug law reform, taxation and automobile insurance to consume their time, legislators will undoubtedly find it difficult to work in an atmosphere of Cooperation for Progress, which Gov.-elect Dolph Briscoe has chosen as the theme of his administration.

When the House of Representatives was called to order at noon Tuesday by Secretary of State Larry Teaver, there were 77 new faces in that 150-member body. Only 17 of those were Republicans. Teaver was selected by outgoing Gov. Preston Smith to fill the Secretary of State position vacated several weeks ago when Bob Bullock resigned.

The first order of business for House members was the election of a new Speaker with Rep. Price Daniel Jr. of Liberty, who describes himself as a progressively moderate reformer the easy winner.

Daniel may however face a potentially divisive situation early in the session. A move is underway in the House to unseat Rep. John Allen of Longview, who was convicted and given a probated sentence last year for mishandling state funds. Led by freshman Rep. Larry Bales of Austin, the attempt to remove Allen may well spoil the harmony Daniel had hoped for during the session.

As I See It

by T.J. Patterson

We all got to get our thing together, economically, and this means this writer also. It could be that we can get over if we use a valuable resource which has come to town in the past two months. Several months ago, this media called your attention to the fact that there would be a state agency coming to town to help us in the economic area. It's here and it's called, the Office of Minority Business Enterprise (OMBE).

Perhaps the local OMBE effort can't solve all of our problems economically, but it would help us in many aspects which we've been shortchanged in before. We need efforts as OMBE to help us get over.

According to a local official of OMBE, Tom Suceada, an effort is underway to form a local minority Businessmen Club to help in the various problems facing the minority business community. This would be a great help in identifying many of the problems which have faced the minority businessmen as far as management, marketing and securing necessary funds to go into business.

There is a meeting on tap next week for the establishment of such a club for the minority businessmen. I would encourage all minority businessmen to attend such meeting. Of course, there are not a great number of minority businessmen in the Lubbock community. An effort as this would, perhaps, enhance the possibility of more persons owning their own businesses.

As I See It, this is a giant step for the Lubbock community. In the past, the Small Business Administration

But among the worst abusers of the law are some 70 flag officers now working in the civilian government. Some of them collect more than $50,000 a year from their combined military retirement and civilian pay.

The juiciest double-dipping deal we have come across involves retired four-star Air Force Gen. Jacob Smart, who is now an assistant administrator at the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. He collects around $58,000 a year, including more than $22,000 in retirement benefits.

Other double-dippers include Lt. General Alfred Starbird, now a civilian at the Pentagon, Lt. Gen. Ben Davis, now at Transportation and Brig. Gen. Frank Elliot at Agriculture.

One general is so overpaid, he voluntarily has cut his own salary by $14,000 a year. He is Gen. Jackson Graham, now chief of the Washington area Metro Authority, who accepts less than $38,000 of his authorized $52,000 salary. With $17,000 a year in retirement benefits, Graham would become the most lucrative double-dipper in the country if he accepted his full salary. Graham tells us that's a distinction he can do without.

Behind the Scenes

Is Hanoi Hopeful?—North Vietnam's master negotiator, Le Duc Tho, has been surprisingly moderate in his private conversations in Paris. He has echoed Henry Kissinger's October statements that a cease-fire-agreement is attainable and that only a few remaining problems need to be ironed out. This is opposite to the attitude he was expected to take. A secret intelligence analysis had suggested that he would be grim and uncompromising as a reflection of Hanoi's anger over the bombing. Nevertheless, the intelligence reports from Paris say Le Duc Tho has been the model of reasonableness in his private conversations with diplomats.

The Wrong Thing—It now appears that the famous underworld informer Joe Valachi never meant to say "Cosa Nostra," which means "our thing," in describing the underworld crime syndicate. We recently saw the old FBI records of Valachi's initial interrogations. What Valachi repeated throughout the questioning was the phrase "Causa Nostra," which means "our cause." The agent who questioned Valachi confirmed to us that the term "Cosa Nostra," now a popular English idiom, was the result of a typographical error.

Stars Against Nixon—Liberal movie stars Warren Beatty, Jack Nicholson and Julie Christie are so outraged over President Nixon's failure to end the Vietnam War that they are considering measures to embarrass the President publicly. Jack Nicholson has told us he will troop up to Capital Hill next month in hopes of convincing Congress to impeach the President. Nicholson insists he will follow through with the lobbying effort if a Vietnam settlement is not reached by February.

(SBA) was the only way in which a minority businessman could work on his problems. This agency, SBA, works in conjunction with OMBE and with the two, some of the communication problems could be done away with.

We should all appreciate this effort. OMBE is not a social program here to make things better for us. It is, however, an agency which can show us the way and how to overcome the many obstacles which have kept minority businessmen from becoming successful in business.

Thought of the Week: "It is not the crook in modern business that we fear, but the honest man who does not know what he is doing."

The heavy snow is gone and I would like to inform the City of Lubbock that there are weeds (at least six feet tall) in East Lubbock which need to be cut down. The area I'm talking about is located between Globe and Hickory Avenue; just before crossing the East 24th Street overpass.

In the morning; between 8 a.m. and 8:30 a.m., students from Ella Iles Elementary School are enroute to school and they cross from behind the tall weeds. A motorist can hardly see the young scholars as they come running across the busy street (sometimes without looking) in the path of a driver.

The early morning sun blinds a motorist traveling east, unless familiar with the situation, one will have to stop quickly to keep from hitting a young student. It would make good sense for the City of Lubbock to take care of this drastic problem.

No kids, thank God, have been hit thus far. It could happen anytime. I travel this route every school day and it's getting to be a terrible problem. It is worth cutting the weeds down to prevent a bad situation in our community. I've commented about this before, maybe something will be done about the area this week. I hope so, don't you?

I had an opportunity of talking to some students of Wilson and Hutchinson Junior high schools last Sunday evening. The students, members of a youth group at Lubbockview Christian Church, were concerned about the racial problems in our community.

In talking with the young people, I appreciated their questions about the local situation. Like I told them, we all have our prejudices. As I told the young people, those persons who say they are not prejudice, they bother me and I really pay close attention to them.

One young fellow in the group made the comment, "You know we have four Blacks at our school." Isn't it amazing when we know how many Blacks are in our school, church or organization?

I enjoyed the session with the young people of Lubbockview Christian Church. Young people are honest with their opinions.

The Annual Green Tea is to raise unrestricted funds of Huston-Tillotson College. The "Tea" is the idea of calling for green money from all alumni and ex-students of the college. This annual affair was originated by Mrs. Edwina Murphy of San Antonio.

Numerous churches, fraternal and civic organizations have been invited to have tables at the Green Tea. Prizes will be given to the tables that contribute the greatest amount of money. Also musical organizations of San Antonio who are directed by H-TC alumni have been invited to perform on the program.

Mr. Nelson Armstrong, H-TC '68, will also have available records of the San Antonio Cit Wide Revival Choir which he directed in their March 1972 revival. Many Huston-Tillotsonites are in this choir.

This Annual Green Tea is being headed up by Mrs. Vida Taylor, this year's chairman, and she is a retired school teacher.

Dunbar Graduate Working on Goal

In any man's life, if you are looking for something which you can be proud of, it's worth hustle and hard work. The works of Joe Middleton, former graduate of Dunbar High School, is a true example of what young industrial, enegetic Black man can. He has reached one of his goals in life, to be a co-owner in a neighborhood grocery store.

Joe, who is a co-owner of "Shop and Save" Super Market with Celester Davis, is a 1958 graduate of Dunbar High School and also received his formal education from the Lubbock Public Schools. During his high school year, Joe was quite active in football, basketball and won several outstanding trophies in the track field.

After graduating from high school, Joe enrolled in Garden City Junior College at Garden City, Kansas. He completed one year and later enlisted in the U.S. Army where he served for three years.

After returning to Lubbock, he was employed by Shop Rite Foods (Piggly Wiggly), where he was hired as a custodian and sack boy. Several years later, he was promoted to stock clerk, produce manager and after seven years of hard work, he was promoted to assistant manager of the North University Piggly Wiggly Store.

Joe worked in that capacity for a year and was transferred to the East 4th Piggly Wiggly Store and was then promoted to manager.

From sack boy to manager in the Piggly Wiggly system, Joe began to put it together when he resigned after ten years of employment with this company, to go into business with Davis. "Retail grocery is my dream and has been for fifteen years. I have always dreamed that some day, I would find a way to go into grocery business for myself. When I was transferred to the Piggly Wiggly Store on East 4th Street, I met Celester Davis and he had the same dream to go into a grocery business, so we set our goal and started working toward it," says the young eager Lubbockite.

"Celester and I have worked very hard for this dream and we

TIPS FOR OUTDOORSMEN

Preparedness Is A Requisite Of Every Good Bass Fisherman

PART I

"On your mark—get set—GO!" That's the attitude of most bass fishermen in Texas.

In other words they don't have to be in a tournament to make ready for a run to the lake. They are always ready, be it for a day's angling, a weekender, or a two-week vacation.

Bass fishing is serious business to them. Every detail for the upcoming launch is planned to perfection and completed before they ever hitch up their bass fishing rig to the car. Then it's checked and double checked.

Many of these fellows have lost more and bigger fish than you and I have ever seen, and certainly more than we have ever caught. That's why they are cautious.

Landing the Jumbos

Through their many and varied experiences they have learned the wily ways of the lunker bass. It took hundreds of outings and thousands of casts to master the method of landing the jumbos.

They know that catching bass is one thing but bringing them into the boat is something else.

To the master bass fisherman there are just as many tricks to landing a bass as there are to locating the animal in the first place. Which, believe it or not, brings us back to the beginning of this story.

It has to do with PREPARATION.

Advance Planning Important

No serious angler would go to bed the night before a fishing trip, without first of all carefully checking his equipment, his rods, reels, lures, hooks, stringers—his entire tackle-box and everything else that has anything whatsoever to do with his outing, including his car, his trailer and his boat.

Which also means such important mobile items as gas, oil and tires.

To his check list can be added the greasing of trailer wheels, checking for firm attachment of trailer-hitch to trailer-ball, securing the safety chain, tilting the motor and tying down the boat snugly and properly at both bow and stern. This, plus the all important and too often overlooked—doublecheck—to see that the boat's hull is still properly resting on the trailer rollers, guides and bottom supports.

Again, back to the beginning—which means a thorough examination of his rods, lineguides and guide wrappings.

Scout Banquet Location Changed

Due to the anticipated large turnout, the location of the annual banquet of the South Plains Council, Boy Scouts of America, has been changed from Texas Tech to the Red Raider Inn, 6025 Avenue A, Lubbock.

This leader recognition meeting is scheduled for January 20, 7 p.m. in Lubbock.

Featured speaker will be Kirk Henry, director of support services for the South Central Region of Boy Scouts.

New officers of the Council will be installed at the event. Scouters from 20 area counties are to receive awards.

Five area men are to receive the Silver Beaver Award and one woman will receive the Silver Fawn. These are the highest awards which can be presented by a local council to adult Scouters. The awards will recognize the outstanding service of the six individuals, who will be named at the banquet.

Tickets may be secured through the South Plains Council, Box 3055, Lubbock, or by calling 806 747-2631. Tickets may be reserved and picked up at the door the night of the dinner. Tickets are $4.00 each.

Women veterans may now claim their husbands as dependents, to qualify for additional GI Bill allowances on the same basis as married male veterans.

Sports of The Times

by Joe Kelly

What more could you ask of a football game than the 1973 Super Bowl? Man alive, it had everything—great offense, rugged defense and a zany play that couldn't have been written by a novelist and be believed.

Miami's Dolphins richly deserved the victory. They outthrusted Washington and kept the Redskins off-balance much of the afternoon. They were, at times, brilliant and generally consistent.

We were pulling for Miami, despite having lived in Washington and, at one time, having been one of the Redskins' most vocal fans. But Miami caught the imagination—undefeated, underdog and unrecognized by a great many people.

The Dolphins came from that "weak" league, the American. Wait until they play some tough teams, they said. They've had an easy schedule, etc. Okay, are you convinced now?

I thought the key to the game was the third down pass late in the fourth quarter. The Skins had the Dolphins deep in their own territory. A punt would have given Washington good field position.

It was a brilliant—and dangerous—pass. It could have been disaster. It was brilliant because it was unexpected, took supreme courage. But sometimes, in close games, that's the thing that is the difference between victory and defeat. Today, if they played, it might not work. The point is, the Dolphins dared to gamble and won.

While that gambling pass was the big play, the other turning point was when Washington drove almost the length of the field. The drive ate up too much clock for one thing, in view of the fact the Skins didn't score.

And then it was the Dolphine defense that put the crusher on Washington. A possible pass hit the crossbar. Two other plays failed and, on fourth down, Bill Kilmer was thrown for a loss.

I'd give a million dollars (money is cheap these days) to have a tape recording of what the Miami bench said when Garo Yepremian tried that pass after the blocked field goal. One thing for sure, it couldn't be played in mixed company!

That was the weirdest play of the year, even more so than the Franco Harris touchdown. Don Shula probably will have Garo's arm taped to his side next year when he attempts field goals.

And so the gridiron season slowly draws to a close, with only the Pro Bowl in Dallas left as a remnant of the 1972 campaign. After that, spring training, the All American game here in June, the Pro-College All Star game in Chicago, and then another season.

As Bud Wilkinson commented during the Hula Bowl (played in a downpour of rain), at least the weather for the College All-American game in Lubbock will be a lot better. Probably, but after the weather in 1972 and early 1973, don't hock the family jewels on it.

Gerald Myers, still flushed of face following the Raiders' heroic 80-76 pasting of SMU, leaned against the wall, smiled and remarked that he had read our analysis of the Texas Tech basketball team.

"It was pretty good," he observed, then added "and you hadn't even talked to me about the players."

Well, as a "young" man who remembers Gerald well as a collegian and an observer of the Tech basketball picture for years, it wasn't necessary to talk with Gerald. Both he and I had a pretty good tutor, fellow named Polk Robison.

Polk keeps in fatherly touch with Tech basketball. It's a post graduate course to sit next to him the first half of Tech home games—he can't sit through a whole game—and get his comments. It's doubtful that there are better basketball minds in the nation.

But, to get back to Gerald. He was concerned about the breakdown in free throws. "We're going to have to work with Don (Moore) and Ed (Wakefield). Shoot, if they had made their free throws, the game never would have gone into overtime."

Gerald, a student of aggressive play, said that you have to attack free throws aggressively. He bent slightly, assumed the free throw position. "You can't just go to the line and casually flip the ball," he said. "You have to attack it, just like any shot."

As for the SMU game, he liked the first half. "We got tired in the last half, it seemed like," he said. "I don't know what happened. We just don't have that much depth. We've got to rely on six or seven, maybe eight, men. And we've got to rest (Ron) Richardson."

About the technical foul, Gerald grinned sheepishly, said that he had been calling the officials' attention to some action under the basket, was warned and

"I called out 'go ahead and call it', meaning the game. He heard me, thought I meant the technical, and he called it."

The technical didn't upset Gerald as much as the flagrant foul against Rick Bullock.

"His loss really hurt us," Gerald said. "You've got to use judgment in officiating. Rick was trying to protect the ball and he was hounded pretty close by SMU. I don't know," he said, his voice trailing off.

Any way you look at it, that was a big win for Tech. "We needed it a lot

RESIDENT'S AUNT CELEBRATES 103rd BIRTHDAY—Mrs. Roxie Crawford Tatum of Virginia Beach, Virginia, celebrated her 103rd birthday last Sunday, January 14th. An aunt of Mr. Sam Crawford of 4306 East 62nd Street here in Lubbock, she is a member of the St. John A.M.E. Church and one of the oldest area (Virginia) residents on the Social Security rolls.

A widow for over 20 years, she resides with her daughter, Mrs. Earnie Robinson. Mrs. Robinson stated that her mother was born in Belton, Texas, in 1870. She is the mother of four children, three of whom are still living.

A lady who loves to go to church, she has five grand-children, eight great grand-children, and two great, great grand-children.

According to Mrs. Robinson, her mother has always been blessed with good health, and never went to a doctor until she was past 65 years old. "She is able to read, and never has worn glasses," states Mrs. Robinson.

Common Cause of Texas to Support Five Reform Measures in This Legislature

Randall Wood, legislative advocate for Common Cause of Texas, announced today that five reform measures to be introduced in the upcoming session of the Texas legislature will be supported by the state citizen's lobby.

"The Texas membership of Common Cause has placed as its first priority the passage of legislation to open up the operations of state government to the people. We can now announce that legislation which will receive our support will be introduced in the House of Representatives," Wood said.

Price Daniel Jr., who apparently will be the next Speaker of the House of Representatives, has announced that he will personally push for passage of all five pieces of legislation.

"Many legislators in both the House of Representatives and the State Senate were elected on reform platforms. The passage of these five bills would indicate that the promises made during the campaign to clean up the operation of state government were real."

The bill to provide a tough ethics code will be sponsored by Representative Jim Mugent of Kerrville, Representatives-elect Larry Bales of Austin, and Ben Reyes of Houston.

Lobby regulation and control bills will be sponsored by Rep. John Bigham of Temple, Representatives-elect Arthur Temple of Diboll, and George Preston of Paris.

The bill to provide for full disclosure of campaign contributions and expenditures will be sponsored by Rep. Ben Bynum of Amarillo and Representative-elect Chris Miller of Ft. Worth.

The bill to require open meetings of public bodies will be sponsored by Rep. Carl Parker of Beaumont and Representative-elect Gene Green of Houston.

Legislation to provide for public access to information will be sponsored by Rep. Lane Denton of Waco, Representatives-elect Hawkins Menefee of Houston, and Camm Lary of Burnet.

Passage of this legislation advocated by Common Cause will lay the groundwork for other reforms. It is the belief of Common Cause membership that meaningful improvements in state legislatures cannot be achieved without reforms that open up the legislative process, the activities of public officials, and the operation of the entire system of state government to public scrutiny.

New Directory Lists Minority College Grads

A new Directory of Minority College Graduates for the years 1971-72 has been published by the U.S. Department of Labor and the first copies of it were received in Dallas this week.

Richard L. Coffman, Regional Manpower Administrator, said the 1300 page book will assist industry, government, colleges, and universities to recruit minorities for the wide variety of professional jobs now available in the labor force.

Included in the volume are 116 fields of study from Accounting to Zoology. Names and addresses of students are listed under the field of study, along with the degree, and the participating university. Graduates are coded for sex and ethnic group.

Universities in five southwestern states that participated in the project include 17 in Arkansas, 12 Louisiana, 7 New Mexico, 19 Oklahoma, and 71 in Texas.

Copies of the directory have been furnished to all participating institutions. Employers with government contracts and others desiring copies of the directory may obtain them from the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402 at a cost of $8.00.

The Dream Scheme.

Saving up to make your dreams a reality can be pretty frustrating. You try to figure out a way to tighten your belt a little without pinching too hard. But you can't find any sensible solution, and you end up figuring no dream is worth all that fretting and worry.

But there's an easy savings scheme—U.S. Savings Bonds. Easy to buy... and one of the easiest ways to save. Just sign up for the Payroll Savings Plan where you work, or buy them on a regular basis at your bank. Either way, that money gets tucked away, and you get a chance to do something more than just dream. If you've got a dream, buy U.S. Savings Bonds. It's a scheme to make dreams come true.

Now E Bonds pay 5 1/2% interest when held to maturity of 5 years, 10 months (4% the first year). Bonds are replaced if lost, stolen, or destroyed. When needed they can be cashed at your bank. Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

Take stock in America.
Now Bonds mature in less than six years.

Merriman Business College Offers Help in Many Fields to People Ready for Business

by Don Evans

Have you failed to recognize or to define clearly what you want in life? Do you have a habit of relying upon other people or things as a way of life? If so, then your life is made of "wishing" instead of "willing". People who wish for better things in life only form a habit of compromising with poverty instead of aiming at success. "Wishing" generally means the lack of ambition to be, to do, to own. Many people neglect to acquire education, after having left school, because they fear criticism. Countless numbers of men and women, both young and old, fear what other people might think, do, or say, to wreck their lives in the name of duty, only because they fear criticism. (Duty does not require any person to submit to the destruction of their personal ambitions and the right to live their lives in their own way.)

People refuse to take chances in business because they fear the criticism which may follow if they fail. The fear of criticism in such cases is stronger than the desire for success.

Over the past four months, I have met several people and have asked them what they want most in life. Security, money, happiness, fame and power, social recognition, easy living, ability to sing, dance, or write are some of the replies I have received. When asked to define these terms, or give the slightest indication of a

Bethel A.M.E. Church

Services were well attended last Sunday morning with our pastor, Rev. A.W. Wilson, in the pulpit. A special drive is underway at the church with captains working hard to meet their goal. The Adult Sunday School class project will continue this month.

YMCA News

Leadership has been selected for the 1973 annual membership campaign of the Lubbock YMCA.

Bill Blackwell has been named to head the drive, according to Allan Henry, president of the YMCA board of directors.

As in past years, the drive format will follow a ranch organization theme with Blackwell as "big boss".

Blackwell, in turn, has named five "ranch bosses". They are Evan Roberts, Bill Dean, Phil Crumpler, Don Workman and Rex Aycock.

The ranch bosses have each selected four "foremen." Each foreman will pick four "wranglers" who in turn will head up a team of five "cowhands."

Blackwell noted that with the full complement of workers, more than 400 individuals will be involved in the annual membership campaign.

Goal for the 1973 campaign is about 2500 memberships, including both renewals and new members.

Blackwell noted that the 1972 membership campaign was the most successful in the Y's history. "We have a great incentive this year as we look at the 1972 results," Blackwell said.

Blackwell said all wranglers are to be selected by January 31. All cowhands are to be named by February 20.

The first report meeting in the Y membership drive will be March 8, with the final meeting on March 28.

"Texas" Tryouts To Be Held Soon

Can you dance well? Do you like to sing? Can you stand on a stage and speak to an audience with warmth and conviction?

If you can - "Try out for "Texas". Each year about half of the cast is new, carefully selected by the directors in a series of auditions.

The first two of these will be held this weekend: Saturday, January 20, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Fine Arts Building on the campus of West Texas State in Canyon; the second at the women's gym at Texas Tech in Lubbock, Sunday, January 21, from 1 to 4 p.m.

Be prepared to sing and speak from memory, take your chance at being a part of the "Texas" production, an exciting summer of learning and creating and sharing in that magnificent spot, the Palo Duro Canyon.

The dates for the 1973 season are June 21 through August 25.

For more information write "Texas", Box 268, Canyon, Texas 79015.

dedicated and well spoken young man. Yes, God has sent us the Rev. Emery Moss who has given of himself to do God's work, come rain or snow. He is here. He is a very faithful and dedicated worker. When we say dedicated, we must ask how many of you would start walking from Reese Air Force Base in a cold wintry night to come to Brotherhood, or should we say how many of you would walk to church on a cold day and your house is only three blocks away. Yes, Rev. Moss started walking to church, is that dedication.

Mrs. Henrietta Pye was 89 years old Friday, January 12. We would like to wish her a Happy Birthday. The church presented her with a gift of $60.

We are asking your prayers for Mr. and Mrs. M.E. Collins who are both sick and shut in. Please go by and visit them. We are also asking your prayers for Mrs. Annie Johnson who lost her mother.

Thought for the week: "There's no cheaper way to call God than through prayer."

 plan by which they hope to attain these highly expressed wishes, none of these persons were able. They failed to realize that success does not respond to wishes! If such a person would take a little time and effort, plus set a definite purpose backed by burning desire, then he would reach the fulfillment of any goal he could set.

In the city of Lubbock alone there are approximately 2300 families on Welfare who are living in poverty, many who are not aware of the available opportunities they can take advantage of, if only they would snap out of the thought of "failure", and to know what they want in life and set a specific goal to get it. No one is defeated until defeat has been accepted as a reality. There are many people who believe themselves "doomed" to poverty and failure, because of some strange force over which they believe they have no control. They alone are the creators of their own misfortune because of this negative belief. The only known antidote for failure is faith!

The ways to success are not as difficult as some might believe, faith and desire, and training. Training can be achieved through various agencies such as Texas Rehabilitation Commission, L.O.I.C. for those of you who wish opportunities in the field of industrial vocations, and Neigh-

So will the Raiders, judged by that great effort last Saturday. They cut down on turnovers, played tight defense and did a good job of scoring when needed. They need more heft on the backboards and they'll have to play 40 minutes of hard basketball. But they can do it.

The opening win was great. Let's hope that there are 13 more in the books to go with it.

As an employee of Merriman Business College, I feel our purpose is not to train you for "just a job." We try to impress our students with the completeness of our programs and the benefits to be gained by them in five or ten years after graduation: better positions, better pay, and happiness gained from work well done. Merriman Business College graduates have specialized skills which makes it possible for them to use the rest of their lives. They have, upon graduation, not only earned diploma, but also a "way of life."

We at Merriman's try to help our students in every way. We assist the sincere applicant in finding a way to attend school without the obligation of paying back tuition expenses: such as being sponsored by Texas Rehabilitation, or our work-for-tuition plan.

We help the student find a part-time job, if he requires one. Every possible means is sought to give the student a quality education without the worry of paying the tuition. Even if you are not interested in attending our school, we still encourage you to come by for assistance in helping you find a way to better yourself.

Have faith, and be persistent in obtaining your set goal! Know what you want out of life, believe in your ability to obtain that goal, and follow it through to the end. Develop in yourself a strong motive, ask yourself, "Why do I want to do this?", and carry your answer with you. You may find it necessary to move slowly at first, then increase your speed. Do not give up at the first sign of failure, that habit of will-power that you are developing is your best insurance against failure! (And one of the common causes of failure is the habit of quitting when you are overtaken by temporary defeat.) "Whatever the mind can conceive and believe, it can achieve." So become successful minded and give me a call or visit so that I might help you get started on a better way of life.

Another Dunbar Ex Makes Good

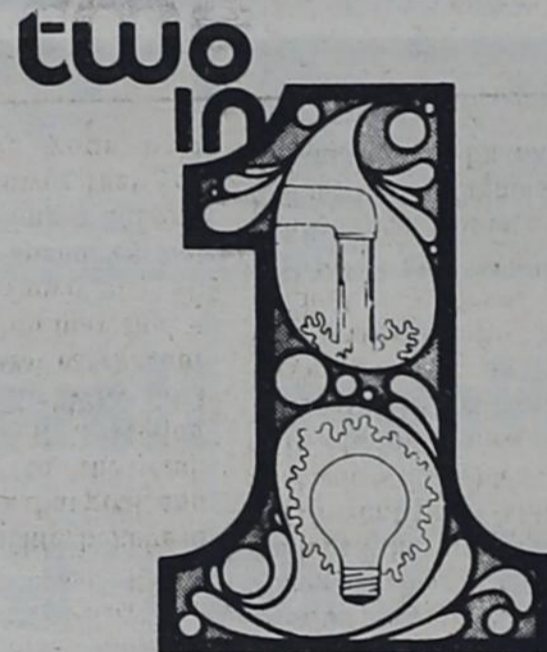

In a letter to Mr. and Mrs. Leon Melton, 2402 East 29th Street, the president of Prairie View A&M College, Alvin I. Thomas, announced that their son, Charles Lewis Melton, has been recommended by Prairie View A&M College and selected to appear in the National Directory of Who's Who Among College Students for 1972-73.

Students who are selected for this honor are chosen on their leadership qualities. Prairie View had 36 students to be honored from an enrollment of 4,485.

Mr. Thomas expressed to the parents that the institution was proud to make this opportunity available to their students. "This is another example of a leadership college such as Prairie View A&M College," he stated.

He went on to add, "We know that you will be pleased to receive this good news and we congratulate you for the role you have played as parents in encouraging and helping the student to achieve."

Friends and loved ones of the family also joined in with the feeling of Mr. Thomas in regard to the success of Frank.
