New Legislative District Affects East Lubbock

Mrs. Willie Myrtle Washington Appointed Director Of Lubbock City-County Welfare

Mrs. Willie Myrtle Washington has been appointed as director of Lubbock City-County Welfare Department. She was officially appointed at the January 18, 1974 County Commissioner's Court monthly meeting.

Mrs. Washington has worked with the department as a caseworker since November of 1966, at which time Mrs. Rosa Settle was director. Prior to her present promotion, she worked under directors Gene Menefee and Ernest Watkins. The department presently has 5 caseworkers, Mrs. Mike Hickman, Mr. Louis Martinez, Mrs. Robert Shannon, Mrs. David Moore, and Mrs. Mickey Ramsey. Also 3 secretaries, Mrs. Bobby Swann, Mrs. Coy Goynes, and Mrs. Edward Olivarez.

Olivarez. Mrs. Washington was promoted to Assistant Director of the department in April of 1972.

Willie has lived in Lubbock since 1949 and is proud of the fact that she is a native of West Texas having been born in Colorado City (which she never hesitates to let one know that C. City is "The Mother of the West").

Prior to working as a City-County employee, she worked with LISD, Lorenzo School District and Carver Heights Day Nursery. Willie is actively involved with several phases of community work and is a member of Carter Chapel C.M.E. church (Rev. V.L. Brown, minister) and Eta Delta Omega Chapter of Alpha Kappa Alpha sorority. Her public school education was received in C. City and her BS degree from Texas College in Tyler, Texas. She has taken some advanced courses at Tilliston College in Austin and Texas Tech University.

Willie is the wife of F.D. Washington, an employee of Texas Motor Machine Co. for 22 years. They have five sons, Fredrick De Vaughn, W.M. Victor, David and Joe Washington; also a great nephew, James La Mont Palmer.

An Austin federal court heard arguments this week about how Lubbock's two-man 75th legislative district should be carved into two single-member districts. The results in the decision last Monday were 2-1 in favor of carving the district into two parts, namely; 75A and 75B.

This decision, made by the three-judge tribunal, has forced incumbent state legislators R.B. McAlister and Elmer Tarbox to seek election in District 75A against each other. This district will include most of southwest Lubbock and about one-third of rural western Lubbock County.

Former State Representative Delwin Jones, who was defeated in the last legislative fete by Pete Laney of Hale Center, said he will seek return to the House of Representatives from the new 75B District.

The West Texas Times learned earlier this week that a Mexican-American and a Negro will announce before the Monday, February 4th, deadline. It has also been speculated in some areas that a Texas Tech student will also enter the representative race.

The new 75B District divides the district north along Quaker Avenue, the Texas Tech University boundary, University Avenue south, placing the Tech campus and its student population east of the campus, the Mexican-American areas of east and north Lubbock and the black populated areas of east and southeast Lubbock all in one district.

According to the 1970 census, there are approximately 74,210 persons residing in the new district. Of that figure, approxi-

Nixon Pledges Summer Job For Youth Program

Washington — (NBNS) President Nixon has pledged to include funding for the summer youth jobs program in his budget message to the Congress. This is in sharp contrast to last year when the Administration impounded $239 million for the summer Neighborhood Youth Corps program.

The program, designed to help poor youths as well as unemployed youths, will receive "adequate funds" which will provide a "really good" program this summer, according to William H. Kilberg, Assistant Labor Secretary for Manpower at a press briefing.

The President's budget "would not repeat the mistakes of last year," he said clearly committing the Administration, at the President's insistence, to a re-funding of the program. Federal courts overturned the impounding action calling it illegal.

"The budget will essentially say that we won't fight that battle any longer," he continued. "I think the Congress, speaking for the country, has said a summer job program for youth is an important thing and we are going to have one."

A supplemental appropriation for summer jobs will be contained in President Nixon's budget message, he confirmed. However, this year, the money may go for other manpower programs if the state and local "prime sponsors" wish, he commented.

Kolbery also told newsmen that the department will implement the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act of 1973 in early February. The $250 million program is designed to give states and local communities a larger role in determining what training and employment programs they should utilize.

"We want to get the money out there quickly," Kilberg told reporters in discussing the steps that the Administration is taking to implement the legislation that

Roy Bass Announces As Candidate for Mayor's Post in Monday Press Confab

Prominent Lubbock attorney, Roy Bass, announced Monday afternoon his candidacy for Mayor of the city of Lubbock in the upcoming election.

Bass stated that he believes: "The city is at the threshold of an enlarged opportunity. We need to view it as a unit. A blight in any part hurts in all. A benefit in any part helps it all."

"All Lubbock citizens are concerned about the safety of themselves, their families and their possessions. A prime function of local government is to help in that protection. Whoever has the Mayor's post has a tremendous challenge, and a wonderful opportunity for service. I would like to participate in the excitement of the challenge and the service."

Mr. Bass is a partner in the law firm of Bass and Hobbs, and has practiced law in Lubbock for many years. He is active in numerous civic affairs and in the Second Baptist Church. He and his wife, Anita have 3 sons, Byrnie, David and Mark.

Michigan Student Head Quits

Detroit—(NBNS)—Ex convict Lee Gill, the first black president of the University of Michigan student council, has left his post for academic reasons.

"My grade point has got to rise," he said. The 25-year-old Gill started attending the university in 1971 on a time-release program from federal prison where he was serving a two-year sentence for car theft.

Improve Jewish-Black Ties, Leader Urges

New York—(NBNS)—Jewish and black communities should work together to make Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.'s day a time for "renewal of their old working coalition", a leader in American Reform Judaism has said.

Rabbi Balfour Brickner, director of the New York Federation of Reform Synagogues, said such a coalition could work for "improved housing, effective schools, increased job opportunities." He was also critical of Jews and Blacks for "advocating separatism and tolerating withdrawal."

Dr. King Honored by Georgia

Atlanta—(NBNS)—The Georgia State Senate has adopted a resolution honoring the late Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. as a "foremost advocate of non violence." But before the Senate adopted the resolution, Lt. Gov. Lester Maddox, the presiding officer in the Senate, left the podium and turned the gavel over to Senator Hugh Gillis.

Earlier, Maddox had said that Dr. King brought dishonor to the state shortly after a picture of Dr. King was scheduled to be placed in the State Capitol. That ceremony will take place shortly after the General Assembly adjourns.

U.S. Scores Arab Nations

United Nations—(NBNS)—The United States has scored the oil producing nations for failing to contribute more to the economic development of poor countries. The U.S. said Kuwait, Libya, Qatar, Venezuela, Saudi Arabia, Iran and Gabon as "the most obvious examples" of countries that could easily give money to the United Nations Development Program.

Dutch Helping To Fight Racism

Geneva—(NBNS)—The Dutch Government has given the World Council of Churches $179,000 to combat racism.

New Ambassadors To Be Nominated By Nixon

Burglaries Going Up In East Lubbock

Several months ago, we called your attention to the fact that there were too many house burglaries in East Lubbock as well as the city of Lubbock. Looking at the police blotter last week, alone, there were a great number of house burglaries in the eastern part of the city.

In talking with an official last Sunday afternoon at the Lubbock Police station, our conversation revealed that the entire city of Lubbock has many problems in this area. It would appear to us as though some sort of a program would be initiated to curtail some of these acts which affect many citizens in our community each week.

To date (as of Sunday, January 27) there have been 164 house burglaries in our community since January 1, 1974. Of this number, 72 of these were committed during the night hours while 92 were committed during the day hours. This is an average of 2.6 burglaries per night and 3.4 per day.

Our weekly column, "The Police Beat", reports four house burglaries which occurred in East Lubbock last week. Not only last week, but every week there are at least four house burglaries in the east Lubbock community. We hope some of the citizens in this community will begin some sort of program to help erase some of these burglaries which are becoming a weekly or daily activity for those persons who lurk in the criminal world.

There are more daytime house burglaries than night. This is, perhaps, due to the fact that Lubbock residents are away from their homes during the daytime hours, because of many reasons. Daylight savings time apparently hasn't helped the situation.

Not only have 164 taxpayers suffered problems from the house burglaries, but businesses, also, suffer quite heavily when it comes to entering a business establishment and taking expensive items. To date, there have been 67 businesses that were burglarized by unknown persons.

It's getting to the point where a burglar will do anything to gain entry into another person's business establishment. To further a point, the Caviel Drug Store, 1719 Avenue A, is an example. Perhaps unknown persons knocked a hold in the wall to gain entry into this establishment. This apparently was the job of a professional or professionals who are walking the streets of our community.

What we are trying to drive home is that we must get involved as a group, organization or individual and help curtail this terrible cancer of a crime which is becoming a pastime in East Lubbock and other parts of the city. You may say it is none of my business who is responsible for these bad acts. We'd like to caution you to the fact that the next house burglary could be you.

We all have individual responsibilities when it comes to looking out for the community. We all can do something about stopping these acts which create a negative image for our young black boys and girls. True, the house burglary game is a quite noticeable thing at the present time, but one day, and hopefully real soon, this type of activity will be at a downgrade in East Lubbock and our city, because there are people like you who really care.

We know it will downturn, because many of you will begin to call the police department and inform them of strange cars and people loitering in your neighborhood. We know people like you will also be witness to bad acts as house burglaries in your community.

We hate to admit it, but east Lubbock is receiving the biggest rip off in the city. We don't want to be number one in this category. We can do something about it, however, if we really care.

"People can be divided into three groups: those who make things happen, those who watch things happen, and those who wonder what happened."

As I See It

by T.J. Patterson

After reading the advertisement in the Avalanche Journal about the planning meetings in four areas in Lubbock, Estacado High School, E.C. Struggs Junior High School, Hutchinson Junior High School and Mackenzie Junior High School, I was very disturbed that the planning and announcement of the meetings did not include this newspaper. Yes, City of Lubbock Planning Staff, there is another legal newspaper, the West Texas Times, in the city of Lubbock.

This writer can't see why we are always left out when it comes to the planning aspects of our community. This happens to be one of our main complaints throughout our thirteen years of community involvement. If this city department is going to plan for the city over the next twenty years and doesn't know there is another newspaper, it bothers me.

Anyway the meetings held last week are past history and we hope something was gained for the benefit of the citizens of Lubbock as well as the planning department. I'm proud that this week the "Times" was given an opportunity to also inform our readers that there will be another session held in our area on February 3—at Estacado High School.

The topics discussed at the meetings, land use planning, community facility and housing planning as well as the overall growth trends of the city were important. The way Lubbock is growing, it takes positive planning to meet the needs of the entire population.

There are 233 slots on the City of Lubbock's Fire Department. At present, an effort is being made to fill six (6) slots. We hope those young black and brown men who have made application for those positions will do their best on the examination to be given Tuesday, February 5th.

There is a great need for members of the black and brown community to be represented in this department. I am sure there are those young men in our community, from both communities, who fulfill the qualifications of becoming firemen.

As I See It, Haskell Keaton—deputy fire chief—appears to be quite impressed with those who have made application. In talking to him last Friday, by telephone, he told me: "The black and brown applicants looked good." I hope the outcome of the examination will prove Mr.

Keaton to be correct. We've looked too good too long on paper, now it's time to look good on the job.

I hope the City of Lubbock will not stop at this effort in securing blacks and browns to fill these type of positions. With 233 jobs (or slots) in this department, surely, there are blacks and browns in this seventy-five square mile community who could be a part of this number. Right now, the City of Lubbock is batting ZERO in the area of hiring blacks or browns in the Fire Department.

Personally, I think it's time for the City of Lubbock to hit the ball and quit fouling it when it comes to hiring blacks and browns in the Fire Department. As I have said in this column before, someone from outside the community might begin to ask questions as to why there are no blacks or browns being hired. Surely, we can take care of our own problems.

The Lubbock Avalanche-Journal should be congratulated for pulling the coat-tail of the Lubbock County Hospital Board for meeting in closed sessions. It is very important to let Mr. and Mrs. John Q. Public know what is going on all the time.

The public is footing the bill, and they, or their news representatives have a right to know what's happening. This is what the A-J did in an editorial last week. It was needed.

West Winfield, N.Y. Star: "There is an air of impermanence about a government job these days. As one White House aide expressed it, 'I really don't mind having my name written on the door in chalk. What bugs me is the big wet sponge hanging beside it.'"

Geneseo, Ill., Republic: "It is small wonder that international problems are so great when you consider the generation gap, the communications gap, the hassles over national issues and local issues, dissension in our churches, on our streets and between neighbors where there isn't even a language barrier. The real wonder is that the world is in as good shape as it is!"

Covington, Tenn., Leader: "Some fear that in the not distant future people will stop asking, 'What is happening to the dollar?' and start asking, 'What happened to the dollar?'"

ARABS READY TO EASE OIL PRICES

by Jack Anderson

(Copyright, 1974, by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

Washington—The oil squeeze has caused world oil prices to skyrocket. The increase will add an estimated $75 billion to the price that oil-consuming countries must pay for their economic lifeblood.

This is simply more than most nations can afford without inviting economic disaster.

World leaders have been communicating secretly over how to cope with the oil crisis. The United States has taken the lead in urging the oil consumers to join together in planning a common strategy.

Most nations have been reluctant to challenge the Arabs openly for fear of losing their oil supply. A few nations, such as Britain and France, have sought to make their own private deals with the Arab oil producers.

But secretly, many world leaders are saying that prices must be rolled back. Some are ready to use force, if necessary, to prevent an oil depression.

Apparently, the message is getting through to the Arab leaders. Intelligence reports claim the Arab leaders are prepared to ease prices.

Even the Russians, who originally encouraged the Arab price squeeze, are growing wary. Intelligence reports say Kremlin leaders now fear that prices could cause such severe economic dislocations that it could lead to a rise in fascism rather than Communism.

It is beginning to look as if world pressure may force the Arabs to reduce oil prices.

Behind Mills' Offer: House Ways and Means Chairman Wilbur Mills, probably the most powerful member of Congress, has offered to introduce legislation granting President Nixon immunity from prosecution if he will resign. Here's the story behind this extraordinary offer:

Mills is conducting the investigation into President Nixon's tax returns. This was requested by the President himself to determine whether he owes more taxes. The central controversy is over the $576,000 tax deduction he claimed for giving his vice presidential papers to the government.

Mills' investigators have now established that the deed, turning over the papers, was backdated to make it appear that they were donated before July 25, 1969. Thereafter, tax deductions were no longer allowed for historical papers.

The investigators have also uncovered that Ralph Newman, the appraiser, didn't even select which papers should be donated until November 1969—four months after the deadline.

The use of a backdated deed to gain more than a half-million dollar tax deduction could indicate possible fraud and tax evasion. The Nixon tax returns, of course, were signed by the President and the First Lady who are legally responsible for the statements therein.

It's the possibility of tax fraud that prompted Wilbur Mills to seek immunity from prosecution for the President in return for his resignation.

Foreign Fears: Almost desperately, President Nixon is stressing his foreign policy skills as the trump card in his struggle to stay in office. He has told friends fiercely that no one else is as qualified as he is to play the delicate balance-of-power game with the two Communist superpowers. He has reminded them of his diplomatic achievements in Peking, Moscow and the Middle East.

The White House took pains to inform newsmen that the President sent Secretary of State Henry Kissinger daily guidance instructions during the sensitive negotiations in the Middle East.

But the secret diplomatic messages from around the world indicate that Nixon is hurting, not helping, American foreign policy. The dispatches from Europe, in particular, suggest that our European allies have lost confidence in Nixon and are worried about his ability to commit the United States. It is clear from the secret messages that the Western alliance is deteriorating.

In the Middle East, Kissinger encountered guarded but anxious inquiries about Nixon. The Israelis, who had counted heavily upon Nixon's support, expressed special concern that he is losing his power.

Even in the Kremlin, according to the secret intelligence reports, there is an understanding that Nixon has been mortally weakened. The messages from Peking, typically, are more enigmatic. But increasingly, Kissinger appears as the man who is holding American foreign policy together.

Privately, State Department strategists are saying Kissinger could do this even better under a President Ford than President Nixon.

An Antitax Year: The Internal Revenue Service is afraid 1974 might be a bad year. Voluntary compliance is the bedrock of the tax system. Audits are run only on a random basis. Therefore, the government must depend upon the honesty of its citizens to collect taxes.

The IRS is afraid that the voluntary system has been eroded by the events of the past year. First, ex-Vice President Spiro Agnew was caught cheating on his taxes. Now President Nixon, himself, is in tax trouble.

But more than anything else, the high profits and low taxes of the oil companies are stirring up antitax feelings. Many Americans no longer feel they are taxed fairly. For every dollar that the oil companies escape paying in taxes must be made up by the rest of the taxpayers.

The energy crisis has also persuaded some people that they can get away with cheating on their taxes. For weeks now, the IRS has been receiving complaints about price gouging at the gas pumps. Yet only a few stations have been taken to court. The IRS simply doesn't have the manpower to run down all the complaints.

So Americans have seen many stations get away with charging outrageous prices. The aura of enforcement once surrounding the IRS has been damaged and our IRS sources say some people may be encouraged to fudge on their tax returns.

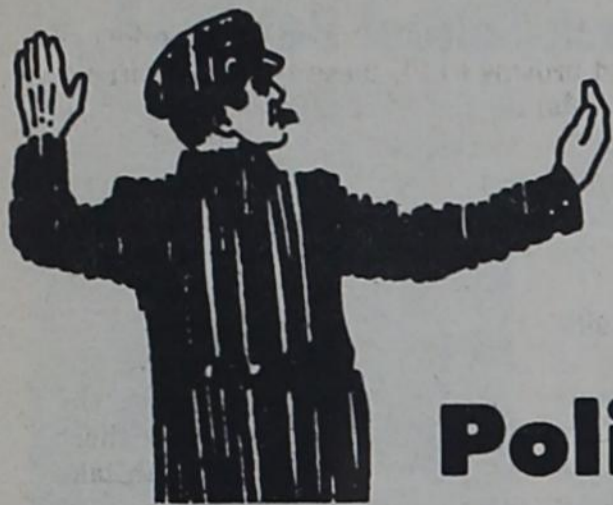

The revelations of 1973, in other words, might have serious consequences for the IRS in 1974.

Police Beat

House Burglary

Eunize Dodson, 1311 East Tulane Avenue, reported to Lubbock police last week that persons unknown pried open her front door to gain entry while she was away.

It was learned that a $300 color TV was taken from the house. Nothing else was missing, although several dresser drawers had been rifled and contents dumped on the floor.

House Burglary

Jean Williams, 2603 East Baylor Avenue, reported a burglary at her house one day last week. She reported that persons unknown entered her house apparently through the front door as the door was reported to be locked when she left home and came back to find it unlocked.

Taken from the house was a $125 television set and a turntable tape deck valued at $100. There was no visible marks of entry.

Caviel's Burglarized

It was reported to Lubbock police last week that someone had beaten a hole in a wall at Caviel's Drug Store, 1719 Avenue A. The hole, approximately 17x17 inches, was apparently used for both entry and exit to the business establishment.

Items taken from the business included approximately 11 guns, 11 boxes of shells, watches and an 8 track tape player.

The police report reveals that the guns and watches were taken out of boxes that were displayed in various showcases.

There was approximately $50 worth of damage done to the building and several hundred dollars involved in the items which were taken.

Theft By Bailee

Joe Travis Mayes, 2804 East 8th Street, probably has the jaws this week as he tried to help a brother last week. You guessed it, the brother took advantage of Brother Mayes.

Mayes told police that he loaned his car to a young man approximately 27 or 28 years old, one day last week. He said the young man borrowed the car to get something to eat.

"I let the young man use the car to get him something to eat, but my car hasn't been seen since," says Mayes.

House Burglary

In another house burglary, Harlan Cook, Sr., 1828 East 1st Place, reported to Lubbock police that someone entered his rear bedroom window by removing a heavy wire screen and forced the window lock.

Taken from his house was a 16 gauge shotgun, a 22 caliber pistol, two pocket knives, a watch and other items. It is believed that over $200 worth of items were taken from the house.

House Burglary

Simon Ochoa, 1806 East 3rd Place, reported to Lubbock police that persons unknown did gain entry into his house while he was away and took a 32 caliber pistol from under a mattress in the bedroom.

He told police that the value of the pistol is over $55.

Charles Morgan, director of the American Civil Liberties Union's national legislative office in Washington, D.C., will be the featured speaker at a meeting of the Lubbock Civil Liberties Union on February 3, Room 109 at the Texas Tech School of Law, at 8:00 Sunday night.

The University of Alabama law graduate first came to national attention in 1963 following a speech he made on the day after the Birmingham church bombing in which four children were killed. In the aftermath of the speech, Morgan was forced to close down his law practice in Alabama. The following year, Morgan opened the ACLU's southern regional office in Atlanta.

Charles Morgan has served as principal attorney in numerous civil rights and civil liberties cases.

He will come to Lubbock from Houston where he is scheduled to address a meeting of the American Bar Association. He will return to Washington the following day.

White House Aides Meet With Black Mayors in Atlanta

Atlanta—(NBNS)—More than 40 black Southern mayors met with officials of the Nixon Administration to elicit promises of more assistance to the problems of small cities and towns in the remaining three years of the President's term.

In a one-day conference, Presidential assistants Stanley Scott and John Calhoun, along with Jim Falk, domestic council director, heard criticism that they were there just to gain favor with blacks around the nation. Some 16 Southern black mayors failed to attend the conference.

Major A.J. Cooper of Pritchard, Ala., chairman of the steering committee of the Southern Conference of Black Mayors, disagreed with those who maintained partisanship by the Nixon aides.

"What we accomplished, I believe, was a sincere testing of feelings on the part of the Administration toward the problems of small towns in our country," he said.

Among the most pressing problems cited by the mayors were shortages of operating funds and lack of technical assistance among their governing body members.

Class Civil Rights Suits Restricted By Court

Washington — (NBNS) — Civil rights groups lost an important battle in the U.S. Supreme Court when the nation's High Court ruled that blacks who have not suffered discrimination by local law enforcement officials cannot represent others as a class in an attempt to stop the abuse.

In a case growing out of the racial violence and controversy in Cairo, Ill., the court held that unless the individual or individuals bringing the suit have suffered injury themselves, the matter is not a "case or controversy" and therefore lacks jurisdiction in the federal court system.

The 6-3 decision delivered on the anniversary of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.'s birthday, was a continuation of an earlier Supreme Court decision restricting civil rights cases that are brought by black leaders on behalf of constituents, who are often subjected to physical and economic reprisal.

Such suits have played a key role in the civil rights movement for the past decade, but this case involving 17 blacks and 2 whites who asked the federal court to stop a local magistrate and state court judge from discriminating against black and poor white defendants in their courts, could cause a considerable slowdown in such suits now.

The group had accused the two of setting bond in criminal cases according to prearranged schedules without regard to the merits of the individual cases and imposing harsher sentences on black defendants than whites. They also said the judges had imposed jail sentences in lieu of fines that many poor black and white defendants just could not afford to pay.

In their dissenting opinion, Associate Justices William O. Douglas, Thurgood Marshall and William J. Brennan Jr. said the case should have been viewed against the background of civil rights activity and the problems the racial climate of Cairo have created during the past 10 years.

Douglas, speaking for the others, that it was clear that in this environment the likelihood was great that at least some of the plaintiffs would become victims of the alleged discrimination.

In arguing that this legal discrimination could work to deny blacks their First Amendment rights, Justice Douglas said: "This is a more pervasive scheme of suppression of blacks and their civil rights than I have ever seen. It may not survive a trial. But if this case does not present 'case or controversy' involving the named plaintiffs, then that concept has been so watered down as to be no

Southwestern Bell to Spend $11 Million In New Construction During Year 1974

Southwestern Bell will spend $11 million for construction in Lubbock during 1974, according to John Whitcomb, division manager for Southwestern Bell.

That figure comes on the heels of a telephone company construction expenditure of $8.8 million here in 1973.

This year's construction budget includes a building addition already underway at the "89" central office, 34th and Quaker and additional central office switching equipment both at that location and in the office at Main and Avenue M.

Whitcomb noted that the central office equipment added will be enough to service 9700 additional customers, equal to the equipment servicing customers in all of Plainview.

Southwestern Bell also is putting in large amounts of new cable to all areas of the city.

Another plus is the addition of more than 1400 intercity telephone circuits to help cope with increased long distance calling volumes.

In 1973, Touch Tone service became available in all of Lubbock, and a new electronic switching office...the latest in switching equipment...was put into operation. Large amounts of central office equipment and cable also were installed in 1973.

Southwestern Bell has distinct effects on the city's economy in other ways, also. Whitcomb pointed out that the company's 1973 payroll in Lubbock exceeded $7.3 million, while city and county taxes were $877,998, making the company one of the largest taxpayers in Lubbock County.

Whitcomb noted that in 1960, Lubbock had less than 59,000 telephones. "Now, we've got 133,000 and by 1980 we expect to have more than 210,000 phones in Lubbock," he said.

Whitcomb said that statewide, Southwestern Bell will spend $10 million per week, or slightly more than half a billion dollars, this year.

Pass The Word

by Brother Johnnye Hunter

You may judge me by the frame of mind I'm in, or you might judge me by what I write with my pen.

The things I do day by day,
Conflicts in the things I say.
I say these words so that I may leave a message,
Cause Black people in the world
seems to be getting restless.

Young mothers leaving home each day, working in the streets,
While their young are at home
without a thing to eat.

Black men want the reputation of being a pimp,
But they live the rest of their life in misery and tempt.

No one can comprehend what the world is coming to,
People, there's nothing wrong with this world, maybe the problem is people like me, and definitely like you.

Have you ever caught yourself laughing at the boss jokes when they're not funny.

If you have, you've been cheating yourself. So be true to yourself because you know that his ways are cunning.

People we've been acused, abused,
and misused.

How can we help ourselves if everyone is confused.

We've been down, under and below,

But when it comes down to helping one another no one can show.

We've been stepped on, knocked down, and pushed aside.

Say, brother man, where's your pride?

Brothers killing brother, sisters killing sister, Brothers killing sisters, and sisters killing brothers.

Let's stop this madness before it continues to go any farther.

You've read poem after poem
where unity was mentioned,
But now is the time that we should pay some attention.

Brothers, there's nothing funny about being down for two hundred years.

If you think about it seriously, you may find some tears.

I could go on and on talking about our problems,

But this is a reminder for you to help me solve them.

People, we got to face reality, and stand side by side.

Let's not pervert ourselves, let's all pull together and organize.

Sports of The Times

by Joe Kelly

It's a little ridiculous to express the obvious—and an overworked term—but that was a big victory for Texas Tech Saturday. Beating Texas at home never is an easy chore, although the Red Raiders have made a habit of it in recent years.

For the record, that was the sixth straight time Tech has gone into old Gregory Gym and whipped the Longhorns, the tenth time in succession that the Steers have fallen to Tech.

It's a record that is shared by Arkansas. The Razorbacks also, by coincidence, have fallen 10 straight times, but only five straight in Fayetteville.

This kind of domination is unique in a league where it is tough to win on the road and where both Texas and Arkansas produce good teams. In fact, the last two conference championship Texas teams lost to Tech in Austin, believe it or not.

But to get back to that Texas game, it was another team victory. Sure, you can point to Steve Trncak's vital two free throws, to Rich Little's court-length pass, to Rick Bullock's initial scoring surge, to William Johnson's rebounding, to Don Moore's tight defense.

It took all of that to overcome Larry Robinson's hot hand and Harry Larrabee's belated shooting in the second half. You'd have to couple Trncak's free throws, Robinson's missed shot and Little's alert pass as keys to the outcome.

For a time it looked like a rout as the Raiders built their lead up to a comfortable appearing 15 points. And then the action turned to what has, on occasion, killed other Tech teams.

The Raiders went into a semi-delay game, trying to use up as much of the 30-second clock as they could. They got out of their principal offense and, as a result, their scoring tapered off. And here came Texas suddenly getting the hot hand.

It takes unusual ability to play a delay game and score, because the normal rhythm has been upset. Tech used up the clock, all right, but missed field goals and Texas ran down to score.

But power to the Raiders! They never lost their poise. They broke the Texas press. And they had what it takes in the clutch, while the Longhorns threw the ball away at a key moment. This wasn't the deciding game in the conference, but it was a big step towards a repeat.

Now, a word about Trncak. Here's a young man who has seen only limited playing time. He's pressed into a crucial game with all sorts of pressure on him when Grady Newton becomes ill.

Trncak responded. He played a strong floor game. He picked up three big rebounds. He handled the ball well. And, of course, he calmly sank two free throws that put Tech back into the lead when the club needed to go in front the worst way. It was a brilliant performance.

If there's a better guard in the conference, and maybe in the Southwest, than Richard Little, I haven't seen him. Little has more height than Tech's more famous group of Carl Ince, Gerald Myers, Del Ray Mounts and Dub Malaise, but he's cut from the same mold.

If I was an opposing coach, I'd be more worried about Little than anyone else on the Tech team. He makes crucial steals. He ballhawks his opponent. He's deadly in the clutch at the free throw line. He runs the Raiders, while not seeming to do so.

And in the clutch, he scores key baskets, although he has become totally unselfish. When he came to Tech, he was, like Gerald Myers, a run-and-gun player. Now he takes the percentage shot, passes off and sets up players. He has become the all-around player.

Little must drive opponents crazy. He's aggressive, almost belligerent appearing. But when the chips are down, he delivers. He's probably the key to the team's success and destined to go down as one of Tech's all-time greats. I'm glad he plays for Tech.

No. 1? Why, UCLA, of course. With Walton healthy, the Bruins demolished Notre Dame, which had moved up to No. 1 after beating UCLA. But no team worthy of such ranking is going to take the punishment the Irish absorbed.

John Wooden ran the lead to 27 points before removing his starters with almost three minutes to play. Frankly, despite the beating, UCLA wasn't that impressive. Still, how could you vote against them?

This will be a key period for the Raiders. They had to play Rice in Houston Tuesday night and the Owls are tough. Then, after getting TCU here this Saturday night, the Raiders must play two on the road, SMU and Baylor.

Three of the four games away from home is the real test. If Tech can win two of the three, the Raiders will be hard to stop. In the closing six games, four will be played here. That's an advantage, if Tech can do well in this crucial period.

Did you get excited when Ali and Frazier had that TV studio skirmish? Frankly, I yawned a little and remarked to no one in particular that the heavyweight division has gone to hell in a bucket.

Here's the champion, George Foreman, forced into making a defense of his title, his first in a year's time since he won it. The heavyweight division has few fighters of championship proportions anymore. In fact, boxing is in trouble.

If there were boxers of ability around, there would be plenty of championship fights. Still, you must remember that Joe Louis, a truly great champion, wasn't demanding. He fought anybody and everybody, and devil take the hindmost.

Louis may well have been the last great champion, although there are those who still hold Rocky Marciano worthy of that title. Me? I hold that boxing has fallen to about the state of wrestling, and I could care less who won Monday night's bout.

Glowing reports on crappie fishing still in the Abilene paper about Hubbard Creek and Lake Colorado City, where warm water, lack of moisture and nice days have resulted in good catches.

Again, Oak Creek is prominent, with some good black bass being taken, although not in the numbers to be expected later. So, if the weather holds fair, take your boat off those blocks and venture forth. You should be able to stock your freezer pretty well.

The NFL draft, which began Tuesday, should be interesting, in view of the challenge of the new World Football League. The latter is starting about like the old American League, with plenty of money, but few established stars.

The new league might make it, even though it faces an uphill struggle. I remember the early days of the old AFL, when E.J. Holub was with the Dallas Texans. It didn't compare, in those days, but it grew. The new WFL might do the same thing. It will be interesting to see what happens.

Chatman Speaks on "Brotherhood" at Forrest Heights

Genesis 4:8-9 was the text from which Harold Chatman, local school administrator at Wheatley Elementary School and active member of Mount Vernon United Methodist Church, used to talk about "Brotherhood" last Sunday evening at Forrest Height United Methodist Church.

Speaking at the church banquet where over 100 persons were in attendance, Mr. Chatman read: "And Cain talked with Abel his brother, and it came to pass when they were in the field, that Cain rose up against Abel his brother, and slew him. And the Lord said unto Cain, 'Where is Abel thy brother?'" And he said, "I know not. Am I my brother's keeper?"

Mr. Chatman, in a prepared speech also stated: "There never was a time in the history of mankind when the 'present' was anymore jittery and the 'future' is anymore uncertain than it is now.

"This highly nervous or neurotic state of today and the gloomy outlook for tomorrow were brought about and kept boiling because man did not and because man is not now and apparently men never will fully recognize the fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of all men," he concluded.

Senator H. J. "Doc" Blanchard Files for Re-election to 28th Senatorial District

Veteran State Senator H.J. "Doc" Blanchard, D-Lubbock, has announced his plans to seek re-election to the Senate seat he has held since 1962.

The fifty-year-old Blanchard, who is fifth in seniority in the Texas Senate, represents the 28th Senatorial District which includes thirteen West Texas Counties: Andrews, Borden, Cochran, Crosby, Dawson, Ector, Gaines, Garza, Lubbock, Lynn, Martin, Terry, and Yoakum.

Blanchard holds the record for longest continual service from the 28th District which was created in 1876.

Senator Blanchard is currently serving as the elected delegate from this District to the 1974 Constitutional Convention where he is a member of the Committee on the Judiciary.

During his services in the Senate, Blanchard has chaired the Labor and Management, Nominations, Insurance, the Economic Development Committees. He is currently serving as Chairman of the joint House-Senate Legislative Property Tax Committee. He is also a member of the Executive Committee of the National Conference of Insurance Legislators. He has been instrumental in the passage of numerous major pieces of legislation dealing with insurance, public health and safety and higher education. He was a principal architect of the bills that created the Texas Tech School of Law, the Texas Tech Medical School, The University of Texas at the Permian Basin, and the Lubbock State School.

Senator Blanchard is married to the former Mary Thomas of Lockney, Texas, and is the father of four sons and a daughter.

Spring Programs Open at YWCA

The Young Women's Christian Association would like to announce that the Spring program from January through May of 1974 is now available and phone registrations are now being accepted for all classes.

A new form of registration will be introduced for the first time this spring. A starting date will be announced for each class when there are enough registrants for that class. There will be no specific days of registration, so you may call in your registrations at any time. Only swimming, golf and yoga classes have designated starting dates which are listed in the program brochure. You will be notified of the beginning date of each class as the minimum number of registrants is reached.

Many new adult and teen classes are offered for Spring of 1974. Classes include ballroom dancing, belly-dancing; beginning, intermediate and duplicate bridge; calligraphy, the art of beautiful handwriting; knitting, decoupage, yoga, golf, tennis, sewing, tailoring, etc.

A special teen class in beginning oil for 12-18 year olds will be taught by Elwanda Ketron. Teen body conditioning, cheerleading, modern dance and modeling will also be offered on Saturdays.

Special bonus programs for adults and teens include a health foods seminar by Diane Mathis on Thursday, Feb. 21 from 7 to 9 p.m. for members and their families. No fee is required. Also, a ten hour Red Cross First Aid Course will be offered April 2-18.

Kent R. Hance Announces Candidacy For Election as State Senator from Here

Kent R. Hance, 31-year-old Lubbock attorney and member of the West Texas University Board of Regents, Tuesday announced his candidacy for the office of state senator of the 28th senatorial district, which includes Lubbock County and 12 other counties in this area.

A professor of business law at Texas Tech University for the past 5 years, Hance resigned that position last month in anticipation of his candidacy for the senate seat now held by H.J. "Doc" Blanchard.

Hance has headed his own law firm in Lubbock since 1969 when he returned from Texas University School of Law where he received his doctor of jurisprudence degree in late 1968.

While an undergraduate at Texas Tech University working on his BBA degree, Hance was vice president of the student body, president of his social fraternity, a member of Phi Alpha Kappa honor fraternity and the Saddle Tramps. He graduated Tech in 1965.

Last year, Hance was named one of the five most outstanding professors at Texas Tech for distinguished service, and he was appointed by Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby to serve as a member of the state's Citizens Water Advisory Council, a study group for solving water problems.

Hance is well known in area politics for his successful role as campaign manager for several winning candidates over the past five years. This will be his first race as a candidate.

A native of Dimmitt, Hance was president of his high school student body. He married the former Carol Hays, of Dimmitt, in 1964. They have two children, Ron 8 and Susan 4. They are members of First Baptist Church in Lubbock.

He was one of the original incorporators of Texas Boys Ranch and presently serves on its board of directors. His other activities include membership in the Southwest Rotary Club, Lubbock Lions, Water Inc., Chamber of Commerce and Texas Tech Century Club.

War on Poverty Not Being Waged

Washington — (NBNS) — The nation's commitment to a "war on poverty" appears to have subsided considerably in recent years, so much so that the elimination of poverty clearly ranks among the lowest of priorities in the current Nixon Administration.

Pursuing an ambivalent course during the past five years, President Nixon has clearly shown that he wants to dismantle the Office of Economic Opportunity, a creation of President Lyndon Johnson's in 1964. And the Administration's Family Assistance Plan, which would have guaranteed a minimum income, although considerably low, to every American, has been abandoned as well.

Little more than 10 years ago, on Jan. 8, 1964, in President Johnson's first State of the Union address, the war on poverty was discussed.

President Johnson, who later became known as one of the greatest civil rights Presidents of all time, said a "cooperative approach" by federal, state and local agencies was necessary "to help that one-fifth of all American families with incomes too small to meet their basic needs."

Congress later created the Office of Economic Opportunity with approval of the Economic Opportunity Act of 1964, but the aims and objectives of the program have gone astray during this Administration and so has much of the commitment to eliminate poverty.
