Mr. and Mrs. C.C. Sanders of 2402 Date Avenue celebrated their 50th Wedding Anniversary last Sunday afternoon. The Sanders moved to Lubbock in 1930 after moving from Roaring Springs, Texas. Members of Mount Gilead Baptist Church, the Sanders have seen many happy days in the Hub City.

Police Treatment Polite in White Areas Of Dallas According to Official's Check

Austin—(NBNS)—Do police treat a black woman the same way—regardless of whether she was stopped in black or white sections of Dallas?

Rep. Eddie Bernice Johnson, a black state legislator, decided to take a personal survey of the attitude of the predominately white Dallas police force toward black drivers in different parts of the city—something she called her "little game."

The findings are expected to be used as a part of an interim study committee's report which is determining if law enforcement officers need to have additional training in dealing with people.

a wide range of vocations. In addition, personal development is encouraged through sports, music, hobbies, student government, and recreation.

The Job Corps Center at Camp Gary, San Marcos, is for young men. Another, for young women, is located at McKinney. Most Job Corps enrollees from Texas go to these two centers. Once they complete training, Job Corps graduates get help in finding a job in the skills they have trained for. Texas Employment Commission makes its services available.

The Texas Employment Commission is the recruiting agency for the Job Corps. In Lubbock, the office is located at 1602 16th Street.

Golden-Davis Wedding Saturday

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore R. Golden of Mobile, Alabama, announce the upcoming wedding of their daughter, Ollye Marie Golden, to James Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Davis of Lubbock, Saturday, December 15, at the Greater Mt. Zion Baptist Church in Mobile.

The bride-elect received a B.A. Degree in English from Clark College and a M.S. degree in Library Science from Atlanta University. She is a librarian for the Atlanta Public Library and Morris Brown College. She is a member of the Delta Sigma Theta Sorority.

Mr. Davis attended Bishop College and served in the U.S. Army for three years. He is a field auditor for Atlanta Life Insurance Company.

She heads the special committee.

"I really wanted to learn if blacks had all this hostility for police because of their treatment, or if it was inborn," she explained. She then committee minor traffic violations throughout Dallas.

In total, officers stopped her six times. Four times she was stopped in white sections of the city and treated courteously each time, she said. But both times she was stopped in black sections she was met with hostility.

There was definitely a difference in the attitude or approach of the officers, seemingly on the basis of locality."

She said in North Dallas—the white area—she was called "Mrs. Johnson" and treated quite politely.

"As I headed into the South Dallas area (predominately black), the attitude was quite different," she continued. "That was when I encountered the real hostile, 'talking down' attitude."

She said a woman officer downtown first talked to her harshly, saying "Get Moving." But the woman did not give her a ticket.

On Forest Avenue and Oakland Avenue (a black area), the officer who stopped her approached the car and his first comment was, "what are you up to, gal?" He then gave her a warning ticket.

She said she was beginning to believe that officers are being assigned to certain neighborhoods because of their attitudes toward minorities. The committee will probably look into that aspect too.

"There are definitely problems on both sides," she said. "For minorities in general in Dallas, it is going to be extremely important that both sides change. Otherwise I think we're in for some hard times ahead."

Black Feminists Hold Conference

New York—(NBNS)—The dual problems of sexism and racism were the subject here of a three-day organizing conference held by the National Organization of Black Feminists.

Site of the conference was the Cathedral Church of St. John the Devine and it drew 425 participants from throughout the country according to Margaret Sloan, an organizer and a former editor of Ms. magazine.

"I'm delighted with this conference and the setting up of this organization," declared Jacqueline Lubell of Norwalk, Conn. She said in the past she worked for predominantly white organizations involved in black movements and was dissatisfied with both.

"Black militant organizations are so male chauvinist that women either dropped out or got kicked out—there was no cooperation between the men and the women," she said.

Ms. Lubell also told the conference that it was the first in Washington, D.C. — (NBNS) — U.S. District Court Judge Oliver Gasch won't lock up Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz twice for refusing to obey a court order "in view of the crowded conditions at the District of Columbia Jail."

The judge's facetious remarks came after finding that Butz twice ignored his order to implement a special food program for malnourished mothers and infants approved by Congress and impounded by the Nixon Administration.

In effect, the judge ruled that Butz ignored a lawful order of the court but would not be cited for contempt. Instead, Judge Gasch ordered that government and public interest lawyers work out a timetable to implement the food program.

The court victory was won by attorneys for New York City's Food Research and Action Center (FRAC) which charged that the U.S. Department of Agriculture had failed to spend the $40 million authorized by Congress for the program for the current fiscal year.

Gasch noted that USDA approved $5.3 million for local clinics to date and has promised to spend another $21 million immediately.

Under the Women, Infants and Children (WIC) project, pregnant and nursing mothers in low-income areas are to receive monthly allotments of milk, cereal, fruit or vegetable juice and eggs.

Roger Schwartz, representing the New York City Food Research and Action Center, said that although the USDA had begun to act, "not one WIC program is now in effect in the country, not one mother has received food."

Judge Gasch's order is likely to change all that.

which there had not been "a battle between the 'straights' and the 'gays'." This has been a serious problem in white women's rights movement, she said.

The local organization has its offices at 370 Lexington Avenue, near 40th Street in New York. Several standing committees have been studying various problems including discrimination against black lesbians, black women in welfare and black women addicts.

Ashaki Taha, a student at Sarah Lawrence College, presented a proposal to seek State and Federal monies to establish a black-feminists collective for the rehabilitation of black women who are drug addicts. Existing drug programs, she explained, do not adequately rehabilitate black women in "life skills," including basic education and money management.

A convention has been tentatively scheduled for next summer to consider the issues raised in the organizing conference.

Free Firewood

U.S. Department of Agriculture announced it is expanding permission to cut free firewood in the national forests during the energy crisis.

Rally Celebrates New African State

Washington — (NBNS) — Some 250 people rallied in support of the newly-proclaimed African state of Guinea-Bissau, which announced its independence from Portugal last Sept. 24.

The rally—sponsored by the African Liberation Support Committee—celebrated the victory after 10 years of the African Nationalist Freedom fighters who have sought to wrest sovereignty from Portugal. The new country has already been recognized by more than 60 countries. The United States has failed to join in recognition.

Black Buried As Alabama Town Quiets

Gadsden, Ala. — (NBNS) — The Rev. Thomas Pace, whose death sparked an outbreak of racial incidents here, has been buried as a third man was charged with his slaying.

Bruce W. Botsford, 22, of Gadsden, was arrested by Florida authorities in Pensacola. The black part-time minister was killed by a carbine as he answered a doorbell at his home.

Killing Racially Motivated In V.I.

Charlotte Amalie, St. Thomas, V.I.—(NBNS)—The killing of a prominent white businessman last week appeared to be racially motivated, according to Island police.

Although they say there are no leads or motives in the death of real estate man Ian Victor Major, 56, police have clearly indicated robbery was definitely not a motive.

Children To Be Treated To Party At Reese AFB

One hundred and forty area children will be treated to an afternoon Christmas party on Sunday, December 16th at Reese Air Force Base. The party is being sponsored by the Base Chapel's Christian Men's Fellowship.

Activities will begin at the Chapel at 1:45 p.m. when children from Great Plains Boys Ranch, Buckner Coronado Children's Home and the Coronado Home arrive to be paired up with their sponsor parents for the day. Next, the group will tour the base fire department, a static aircraft display and the physiological training unit before returning to the Chapel for refreshments, caroling, a film and the distribution of gifts to each child by his sponsor.

The Chapel sponsored Christmas party for orphans and underprivileged children from the greater Lubbock area has been a Reese tradition for many years.

Job Corps Is Best Bargain

What is the best bargain for unemployed, out-of school young men and women, age 16-21? The Job Corps, thinks the Texas Employment Commission.

"There are now openings for such young people who are interested in improving themselves and qualifying for the jobs that are available in the Labor Market of today", says Bert P. Darden, Office Manager of the Texas Employment Commission office at 1602 16th Street, Lubbock.

Too Many Burglaries In East Lubbock

We realize it's that time of year when the number of burglaries increase in our community. This is no reason, however, for a tremendous amount of house burglaries to be committed in our community and nothing done about them.

If you read the Police Beat this week, you will see the number of house burglaries which were committed last week alone, not to mention the ones we didn't have room to print. All of these house burglaries were committed in the daytime hours.

We would advise the Lubbock Police Department to patrol the eastern part of the city a little more, especially during the daytime hours, so some of these burglars are caught and, hopefully, convicted of breaking into the home of Lubbock residents.

We're sure that there are those in our community who have apparently seen strange persons in your community and refused to get involved to do something about this type of activity. On the other hand, perhaps there are those who could have seen a strange person coming out of the house of a neighbor and refused to get involved to see what was going on.

The Lubbock Police Department, we're sure, would appreciate you calling them and informing the department of negative activity which appears to be happening in your community. It doesn't make sense for this type of activity to happen and nothing done about it. It matters whether it be near the Christmas holidays or any other holiday, it's not a pleasant thing when a great number of house burglaries are being committed and nothing being done about them.

Last week, it could have been one of your friends or a member of your family who suffered a loss because of someone taking advantage of breaking into their homes. Next week, it could be anyone of us who reside in the Eastern part of Lubbock. Therefore, some type of effort should be made by all of us to see that something is done to curtail as many house burglaries as we can.

We would advise every citizen of Lubbock, regardless of the area in which you reside, to secure your house before going to work or other places. Check and double check to see that everything is in order before going to your destination.

Although, there are not many house burglaries committed during the evening hours, we would advise you to keep your doors locked at all times.

If you are concerned about the welfare of your neighborhood, look out for strangers in your area doing suspicious things. As the old saying does, "When you are in doubt", call the police department and let them know of any intruder or suspicious person around your neighbors property while they are away.

There are too many house burglaries in East Lubbock. We hope that the Lubbock Police Department will use more effort to break down this type of activity that is not needed in any community. We must realize, however, that we must give them our cooperation in curtailing this type of crime.

The Economy

Though the oil shortage has produced widespread pessimism about the economy in 1974, in this country and others, there are several encouraging trends which somewhat offset the bad news.

The October trade surplus, for example, released at the end of November, totaled $527 million. It greatly enhanced chances that this year, for the first time in three years, the United States international trade balance will be in the black.

If that occurs, it will be a dramatic turnaround from the situation of a year ago. International trade in 1972 showed a deficit (more bought than sold) of $6.4 billion. It will be recalled that this constituted something of a crisis, and it was not known at that time whether the slide could be arrested within a year.

The dollar is now showing encouraging signs of strength, and in recent months its value has moved up sharply on European money markets. The improved trade picture undoubtedly helped the dollar, which now seems safe from further devaluation for some time.

Corporation and personal income, likewise, was high in 1973 and business good. Unemployment was down significantly, and thus the picture—were it not for the present oil crunch—would be unusually bright. The energy crisis, then, is the critical economical and political issue the Nixon Administration faces in 1974.

As I See It

by T.J. Patterson

The entire country is talking about the energy crisis in these United States. The black community of Lubbock has been in a political crisis since the founding of this Hub City. It must be made known, Now, that people (not only black people) are tired of the shortage of political representation on the present City Council. It's time for something to be done if we are going to do anything about this crisis.

This writer would like to inform the present mayor and city council that they have the power to see how the citizens of Lubbock feel about enlarging the present council. This can be done, come this April, by placing on the ballot the question: "Should Lubbock enlarge the present City Council?"

I'm sure that Mayor Turner and Councilmen Hollingsworth, Baker and Campbell and Councilwoman Jordan would agree that something should be done about this important matter. This issue, which has been pointed out by a City Charter Commission, is of great importance to all city residents.

Lubbock can't continue to remain in the same pattern. The Hub City is growing in leaps and bounds, and our present mayor and council must realize this matter. It is impossible for the council to remain at the present size and do a constructive job for all of the residents.

In the past, this newspaper has suggested that some concerned group call this to the attention of the present City Fathers. To no avail, our plea has gone unheard. If we are able to bring in meetings such as the state NAACP Convention last October, I'm sure we are big enough to let the City Council know how we feel about this matter.

SPECIAL

OPERATION CANDOR LESS THAN CANDID by Jack Anderson

(Copyright, 1973, by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)
Washington—The White House, as part of Operation Candor, has been putting out information on President Nixon's personal finances. Operation Candor, however, hasn't been completely candid.

The press releases don't go into the financial favors that the President has received from his two favorite millionaires, Bebe Rebozo and Robert Abplanalp.

Not only did Abplanalp put up most of the money used by the President to purchase his San Clemente estate—the aerosol spray millionaire also cancelled the entire debt in return for a deed to part of the property.

In other words, Abplanalp put up most of the money, but Nixon wound up with the best part of the property. Meanwhile, the President is using all of the property without paying a penny rent to Abplanalp.

A confidential government memo discloses that Abplanalp also purchased a house a few doors down from the President's residence at Key Biscayne. This was done strictly as a favor to the President who wanted to get rid of a gossipy neighbor.

Abplanalp paid $150,000 for the house, and then leased it to the government for $18,000 a year. When he first visited the property in 1969, he was unhappy with its condition. So he contracted for roof repairs and other work.

He submitted a bill of $1,660.90, however, to the government. Quiet questions were raised, but it takes a bold bureaucrat to quarrel with the President's friend. So the government went ahead and paid the bill.

This is a side of the story that the White House isn't mentioning during Operation Candor.

Oil Embargo Fallout: President Nixon's chief economic adviser, Herbert Stein, has stated publicly that the nation's unemployment rate will rise close to six per cent if the Arab oil embargo continues.

This is far more optimistic than the private estimates, which have been placed on the President's desk. The most accurate estimates, in the past, have come from the Treasury Department. The Treasury's experts warn that unemployment may rise to eight per cent by 1975 and 12 per cent by 1976.

The economic fallout from such massive unemployment would produce a severe recession. As factories were forced to shut down and people were thrown out of work, Americans everywhere would become uneasy about their job prospects. This would cause them to hold off purchases as a hedge against possible income loss. The result would be a drastic drop in sales of durable goods, such as automobiles and appliances.

There is one favorable factor that could prevent a serious recession. The search for new sources of energy will require a massive government investment. The money that the government spends to develop solar

This writer has come to the conclusion that our ministerial body will not address this matter. It appears as though they are a weak group and apparently afraid to stand together and let the powers that be know what black people want in a collective manner. One minister can't do it by himself, it'll take a collective group of ministers working for the same cause. The cause, in this instance, is to see that the citizens have a right to vote on the enlargement of the City Council this spring.

If this issue was placed on the ballot this spring, it would still be two years before the council would be enlarged, that is if the citizens choose to enlarge the council. If it is not placed on the ballot this spring, it will be four years before we know if the city council will be enlarged.

The way it looks, at the present time, we are going backward instead of progressing as we should. We can never move forward as a people or citizens of this community if we don't get involved. We can never be heard by the City of Lubbock if we don't have representation. We are overdo in regard to representation on the council.

I'm sure you know that this is a problem in our city, and since you know this is the case, why not write letters to Mayor Turner, Councilmen Baker, Hollingsworth and Campbell and Councilwoman Jordan. Let them know how you feel about the citizens being able to vote on the possibility of enlarging the council this spring. Why not invest an eight cent stamp and let our officials know how we feel. It doesn't hurt to stand up for what you believe in.

Maybe with the efforts of concerned citizens, our ministers and local organizations (there's no telling how many organizations we have) would get involved to see that something happens for the betterment of all citizens. I'm not just talking about black organizations or black ministers. I'm talking about the entire community getting involved so all citizens will have representation. We've spent money to see if there was such a need. A need was found and now it's time to see if the citizens would approve such an enlargement.

Let's get something started before Christmas. If something would happen, it would be a terrific Christmas for blacks and other Have Not residents. I know we can let the Mayor and council know how we feel. Write those letters today, you'll be glad you did.

energy and squeeze oil out of shale should counteract the downside.

The state of the economy, in other words, will depend upon the President's policies. Economic dislocations are almost certain. But a recession isn't necessarily inevitable.

Meanwhile, the nation is still suffering from such soaring inflation that the Treasury Department is thinking about re-issuing $2 bills. They would be worth just about what $1 bills used to buy.

Vietnam Oil Priority: We not only invested men, money and our national honor in South Vietnam. We also invested billions of barrels of oil. We provided the fuel not only for our own war machine but also for South Vietnam's armed forces.

Now we face a critical oil shortage. Yet we are still shipping thousands of barrels each month to the Saigon regime. In fact, the amount of oil we sent to Vietnam has dropped only moderately since the end of our military presence there.

At the height of our bombing last January, for example, we shipped 995,000 barrels to Saigon. In August, long after our withdrawal, we sent 681,000 barrels. These are the latest figures available in Washington.

Meanwhile, the South Vietnamese have been hit by a critical oil emergency. Their reserves were reduced by 50 per cent after a Viet Cong rocket attack on a Shell Oil facility. The South Vietnamese need oil desperately to meet a threatened North Vietnamese offensive, which could determine the fate of that war-ravished little country.

It will take bigger oil shipments, literally siphoned out of the gas tanks of American civilians to keep the South Vietnamese army and air force going.

Nearly a year after the Vietnam truce, we are still being drained by the Saigon government.

Fuel Czar: The government official who decides how the national fuel supplies will be divided up is a retired admiral named Eli Reich. He took the job a few weeks ago, and his first major decision was to give the Pentagon top priority for petroleum.

Subsequently, the military commandeered nearly 20 million gallons of fuel originally intended for civilian use. Now the Pentagon has started a publicity campaign to convince civilian motorists that their empty gas tanks ought to be regarded as a patriotic sacrifice.

The truth is that the brass hats waste millions of gallons of precious fuel every year. Now that they are faced with a genuine crisis, they simply can't seem to bring themselves to change their lifestyles.

Not long ago, for example, the brass hats filed into Philadelphia for the annual Army-Navy game. The public was told that the military spectators paid for their own transportation. The Secretary of the Army, it was reported, arranged a train to the traditional game, and most of the passengers purchased their own tickets.

But here's the part the public was not told. Every year, the Army arranges to hold a "Commanders' Conference" during the week of the big game. The top army brass from all over the world fly into Washington at the taxpayers' expense.

This year, they made a big show of paying out of their own pockets the few extra dollars that it cost to go from Washington to Philadelphia for the football game.

Police Beat

It's That Time Of Year

The other evening, as this column was making its rounds to the Lubbock Police Department, we saw things we didn't like. For one, there was a man laying in the ditch on Avenue C and 15th Street. He apparently was beaten up by someone unknown. At the police station, there was a mother and father waiting for their daughter to be brought to the station for participating in shoplifting.

All of this happens, plus other activities that shouldn't, but they do. It is that time of year when we should be extra careful to what is going on around us. For example, there were many incidents that happened last week. It appears as though house burglaries are once again number one. It appears as though they are all committed in the daytime in East Lubbock. Here are a few of those house burglaries.

House Burglary

Charles W. Taylor, 2902 Vanda Avenue, reported to Lubbock Police that his wife returned home from work one day last week when she discovered that someone had broken into their home. Entry was apparently gained through a window in the den which was left open.

Although the house was completely ransacked, several items were taken. Items taken included a pistol, stereo tape player, four $1 bills and fifty pennies. These items were valued at $454.50.

There was approximately $100 worth of damage done to the house.

House Burglary

Mrs. Richard Rollison, 2111 East 29th Street, reported to Lubbock Police that persons unknown did gain entry into her house one day last week while she was gone.

Entry was apparently gained through a kitchen window. There was approximately $10 worth of damage done to the window.

Taken from the house was a 16 gauge pump shotgun and a camera. These items were valued at $105.

House Burglary

In another house burglary, A.J. Draper, 2937 East Colgate Avenue, reported to Lubbock Police that someone broke into his house while he was gone and took a pair of boots valued at $23.09.

Entry was apparently gained through a window. A hole was knocked through a window pane. There was $15 worth of damage done to the window.

House Burglary

Sam Jones, 1501 Avenue C, Apt. 30, reported to Lubbock Police that someone broke into his apartment while he was away one day last week and took over $100 worth of pants.

He believes he knows who could have been responsible for the break-in. He gave police a description of the young man who could have taken the pants.

House Burglary

Delorise Newman, 2708 East Colgate, reported to the Lubbock Police Department that someone unknown did take the screen off her house to gain entry one day last week.

Taken from the house was a 12 inch portable television set. It was valued at $85.

Theft Over $50

Leonard Jordan, 1709 East 13th Street, reported to Lubbock Police that someone took a television set from his house one day last week. He reported that someone did break the lock on the front door to gain entry.

He told police that he had just purchased the set for $52.

around the hub city

Mrs. Mable Hamilton and her brother, Mr. Emmitt Dennis of Gainesville, were in town on business last week. Mrs. Hamilton and her late husband, Wilburn, were former residents of the Hub City. While in town, she and her brother were house guests of Mrs. Minnie Ola Bunton.

Mrs. Anna Phillips of Morgan, Texas spent four days here with her sisters, M. Terrell and J. Simmons. She was accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. Lettie Furlow, who made a business trip and a visit with her children and grandchildren. She lives in Cleburne.

Mrs. Nellie Fuller of Cleburne, Texas visited her sister, Mrs. Leaner Goldstein, last week. While here she went to Hobbs, N.M. to visit her sister, Hattie, who is ill. Her sisters, Lucrissia Lester and Bertha Cowans, were there also. She had made the trip

by Joe Kelly

Did he or didn't he, only his conscience knows—to paraphrase a commercial.

I'm referring to that technical foul that a usually milk-mannered Gerald Myers drew against Stetson Saturday night. Was it intentional to arouse his team, which had been pretty lethargic up to that point.

"Oh, no," he said after the game. "I'd never do anything like that! I just hope no one heard what I said. I'm not very proud of that."

The poker face hid as inscrutable as the Sphinx any indication that he wasn't his usual 100% honest self.

But, regardless of that, the technical aroused the sluggish Tech forces. After the free throw was made, running the score to 14-10, the Raiders went to work and never trailed. In fact, Stetson was held to only eight points the next 11:04 of first half play.

The Raiders, who played with about as much enthusiasm as the almost silent crowd, started working. They showed considerable improvement over the Vanderbilt game. They worked to get the ball to the open man. They ran their patterns. They played tough defense.

But, late in the second half, when Gerald tried to give his subs experience, poised Stetson found the new meat to its liking and cut the edge to six points. Fortunately, the front line players were able to come in and meet the challenge.

"I wanted to give the young players experience," Gerald said with a shake of his head, "but I couldn't take a chance when they cut the lead that much."

That's tough on Gerald, because he wants to win, has to win when he can. Still, he has to find out what his young players can do under pressure, as well as give them game experience.

Experience would help down the line. The trouble is, with the caliber of teams Tech is playing, it probably won't be possible for Gerald to sub much and still have a chance to win. It's a real spot.

J.T. King, Tech's capable athletic director, was holding the floor before the Stetson game, talking about the proposal to add several minor sports to the athletic programs at SWC schools.

"Humph," he snorted, "they said it wouldn't cost anything. That was the argument of the soccer people. Well, I had talked to two Big 10 ADs and that was the argument that had been used on them."

"They added soccer and the first thing you know, the teams couldn't just compete near home. They had to travel all over. It would take $150,000 a year to add soccer alone. And where's the money going to come from."

Silence greeted Jake's question.

"Guess they wanted to add lacrosse," I said with a chuckle.

"That's right!" Jake exclaimed. "And ping pong and even chess. Why there's no telling where it would all end. They suggested something like eight things."

"I'll tell you. We've got to draw a line somewhere or else we'll all fold," Jake said positively.

It's with a little ironic amusement that I note how selfish people really are. Football says playing games at night really doesn't use all that much energy. Ditto basketball. Auto races say that they don't really use that much gasoline.

Snowmobile and boat people all poo-poo any significant gas usage. Everyone points to another sport as being the culprit in an effort to keep the status quo for his sport.

Listen to the screams of anguish when the other shoe drops!

The Roundup—Congratulations to Joe Barnes on winning the Kern Tips Award. He definitely deserved it. . . . Congratulations, too, to the Big 8 for ignoring the Oklahoma governor's attempt not to "deprive" Oklahoma residents of seeing their team on TV. If OU had followed the rules, one or two games a year would have been televised. . . . Cotton Neely, veteran Tech basketball timer and official, narrowly missed being a heart attack victim. He's said to be in good shape. . . . Moe Iba, son of Oklahoma State's great coach, Hank Iba, and former TCU player, is coaching at Nebraska. He was here for the Tech-Vandy game. It was fruitless, Vandy beat a good Cornhusker team, 82-58. . . . New Mexico, the graveyard of football coaches, just erected another tombstone. This time affable Rudy Feldman was the "accident" victim. . . . Ardis Barton, former Texas Tech roundballer, is a successful ginner at Earth, Texas.

Scout Helps Band

Many people helped the Texas Tech Band secure funds to travel to the Gator Bowl in Jacksonville, Florida this month. One of those Lubbockites who did their share was Ralph DeVaughn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Lee DeVaughn of 2307 Birch Ave. He is also a newsboy for the Times.

Ralph, with the help of other Scouts, decided to collect money to present to the Texas Tech Band Telethon. He was able to collect $3.25 which was given to the Texas Tech Band Monday morning.

Ralph, who is a fifth grade student at Ella Iles Elementary School and a member of Bethel A.M.E. Church, says he wanted to do something. This he did, because he wanted to help a cause as sending the young people on the Band to the Gator Bowl.

Mr. Jeff Joiner, Scout sponsor of Troop 139 says, "It's good to see young people who are concerned about helping others accomplish a goal."
