History of Dunbar Sports Displays "A Hard Time"

by T.J. Patterson

Dunbar Had a Hard Time in Sports

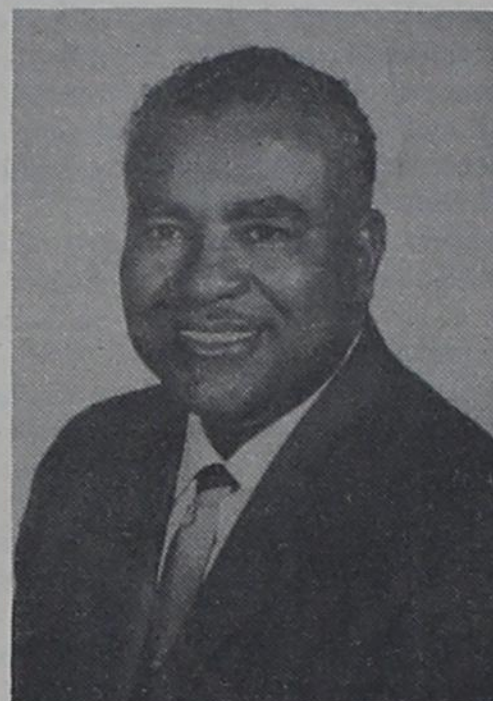

Damon Hill, who retired from the coaching ranks at Dunbar High School, told the West Texas Times that he had a hard time developing sports at this high school. A native of Austin, Texas and graduate of Prairie View A&M College, he saw a great deal at Dunbar and was able to contribute something positive to the athletic program of this predominately black school.

Mr. Hill, I understand you were the first black coach hired full time by the Lubbock Public School System. Is this correct?

No, let me bring you up to date. I wasn't the first black coach hired at Dunbar. There was a man there for one semester. I can't think of his name.

When did you come to Dunbar as a coach?

I came to Dunbar High School in mid-semester of the 1937-38 school year.

Damon Hill

What did you coach?

I coached everything. Let me bring you up on football. You see, I found a football team when I came here. It wasn't started by this other man either. The man who actually started football at Dunbar was Charles Sedberry, Sr. You see, Charles Sedberry was a former football player at Paul Quinn College in Waco, Texas. He came here and started most sports.

Did Mr. Sedberry handle basketball?

No, he didn't handle basketball.

What about track?

He started track, and I developed the sport.

As a coach at Dunbar, what types of records did your team have?

My first two years out here, I had a pretty hard time. Of course, I coached basketball in 1937. I had a pretty fine basketball team, because there were some pretty good boys playing when I came here. There was no gym. We didn't have a gym until I came out of service in 1945.

What kind of a football team did you have?

Football was pretty hard for me. I had some odds against me because there were peculiar situations. There was the gathering of crops in Lubbock. Our fellows pulled cotton. In places south of Lubbock, the cotton was usually pulled before school started. Amarillo didn't have any cotton, and around San Angelo, their football players fooled around with sheep and goats, and things like that didn't keep them out of school. But here in Lubbock, just when the football season would start, harvest time would set it. So you see, I really didn't have time to develop my kids. They had to get out there and pull that cotton. The parents then felt that was the only way and the only thing they could do. Pick cotton and then go to school. A lot of times, we never saw the kids until after Christmas. They would start to school for a couple of weeks then pull cotton the rest of the time.

What years did this take place?

The kids would pick cotton like this until around 1942.

Did you win a football game in 1938 and 1939?

No, I didn't win a game, and I had a bunch of outsiders playing for me. These outsiders were boys who didn't go to school. If the outsiders hadn't played with us, we wouldn't have had a team. But we did begin to win in 1940.

What kind of football schedule did you have in 1940?

The schedules that we played then were interesting. We had to play each team twice in order to have enough games to play. So we would play Amarillo twice, San Angelo twice, and Abilene twice. Amarillo's high school was called Patton High, San Angelo was called Blackshear High, and Abilene was called Woodson High School. We also played Booker T. Washington High School (the Leopards) of Wichita Falls after I came back from service.

What games did you win in 1940 and 1941?

We won all of our games in 1940 and also in 1941. I think Tahoka fielded a team later, and in 1943 we won all of our games. We were undefeated for about three or four years. When I came back from the service, Odessa and Midland had started football teams in 1945. They were not large enough when I went into service. They were real small schools. Of course, we had less than 300 students at Dunbar, from first grade through the eleventh grade. This was when we began to get a full schedule.

What games did you win from 1945 to 1949?

I think the only team I lost to then was Wichita Falls. We always lost to Wichita Falls. We seemed to always get bad officiating. They (Wichita Falls) were pretty bad about the officiating. We'd always score more touchdowns, but we always lost the game. During all those

Arlee Jackson Named Principal of Ella Iles

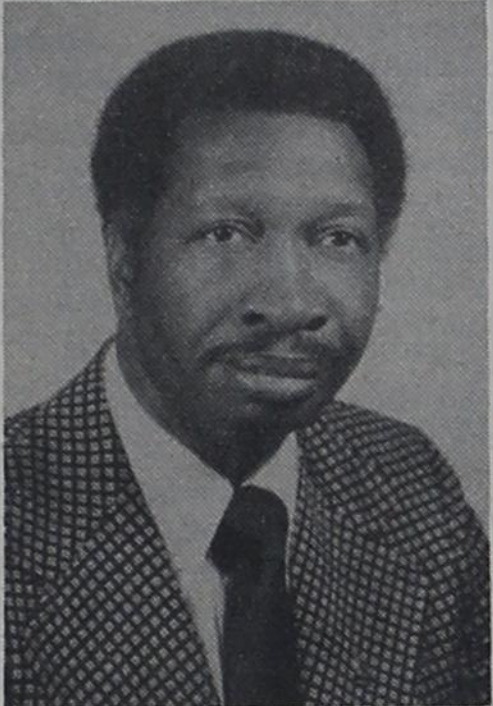

The Lubbock school Trustees in a meeting last week named Arlee Jackson to be the principal of Ella Iles Elementary School. The veteran educator has served in Lubbock schools since 1962.

Jackson is a graduate of Booker T. Washington High school, Tulsa, Oklahoma. He took a Bachelor of Science degree from Hampton Institute, Hampton, Virginia, with a major in industrial arts.

He majored in elementary education for his Master of Arts degree that was conferred by Eastern New Mexico University, Portales. A portion of his work on the advanced degree was taken at Oswego State University, Oswego, New York. Additional graduate work has been completed at Texas Tech University in the area of school administration.

The new principal began his teaching career in 1953 at Hobbs, New Mexico, as an instructor of industrial arts and math and a coach at Washington High school. He served two years in the U.S. Army and then returned to Hobbs to teach fifth grade. Later assignments included teacher of junior high school subjects and basketball coach at Andrews, Texas, and junior high math and high school industrial arts instructor at Crane, Texas.

The friendly educator came to Lubbock's Wheatley Elementary School in 1962 as a sixth grade teacher. He later taught fifth and sixth grades at Martin Elementary School and fifth grade at Hunt Elementary School. For the past five years he has taught fourth grade at Maedgen Elementary School. Since 1965 his teaching assignments have included directing after school recreation and intramural physical education.

Jackson holds the professional elementary teacher and administrator certificates. He is a member of a number of professional organizations. He has also been active as a member and officer of the United Lions Club. He is a member of St. John Baptist Church where his service involves positions of treasurer, president of the choir, and deacon.

He brings to his new responsibility a rich background of experiences, including extensive travel in this country and abroad. He has served on the school district's textbook committee and has worked in summer Head Start programs as a teacher and supervisor. He taught one summer in a pilot open concept program at Alderson Junior High School.

He and his wife, Jearline, have four daughters, a son, and a granddaughter. Their youngest daughter, Darnise, is a sixth grader at Wheatley Elementary School.

Senator Richard Schweiker Leads Fight for More OIC Funds

A Republican member of both the Senate Labor and Welfare Committee and the Senate Appropriations Subcommittee on Labor, Sen. Richard Schweiker, told a cheering OIC Regional Conference that OIC was "the best private manpower development system in America" and he was "determined to lead the fight to secure adequate funds in the 1976 budget to continue its work."

As closing speaker to the three-day OIC Mid-Atlantic Region delegates from Virginia, West Virginia, Delaware, Pennsylvania, Maryland, and the District of Columbia. The dynamic junior Senator from Pennsylvania was hailed as the man who has done most to help OIC and a man of Presidential qualifications by Dr. Maurice Dawkins, Director of OIC Government Relations.

A telegram from Dr. Leon Sullivan, currently touring Africa, reminded all that "it was the Schweiker Amendments to the 1973 Comprehensive Employment and Training Act, and the Schweiker fight in cooperation with Chairman Warren Magnuson (Democrat of the State of Washington) to name OIC in the 1975 Labor Appropriations Bill that enabled the network of 200 non-profit corporation to survive."

Now that black youth unemployment is estimated at 25% to 35% and overall minority employment including Spanish-speaking served by OIC is 18% to 20%, Senator Schweiker's commitment to push for OIC funding by the Federal Government through CETA was the best news OIC leaders have had since President Ford took office.

"The President has expressed his 100% support for OIC and with the Congress voting $75 million to train 75,000 unemployed last year that was not allocated to OIC as authorized, Dr. Sullivan is concerned that bureaucratic red tape doesn't choke off the funds in 1976" Dr. Dawkins said.

According to a statement by the OIC Government Relations Director, "Senator Schweiker is Senate

According to a statement by the OIC Government Relations Director, "Senator Schweiker is Senate sponsor of legislation to make OICs a primary focus of federal manpower efforts. The Labor Department cooperation with OIC in recent months has encouraged widespread support of the Ford Administration—it would be a pity if the cutting back of OIC funds by the Office of Management and Budget undermines the President, the Labor Department and the Congress."

Other speakers supporting OIC at the Richmond, Virginia Conference included Deputy Director of the Office of Minority Business Enterprise, Samuel Cornelius, a founder of the Omaha, Nebraska OIC, and the Labor Department's Manpower Administrator, Mr. J. Terrel Whitsett.

Julian Bond Will Not Run for The Presidency

Atlanta, Ga.—State Senator Julian Bond announced this week he would not be a candidate for President in 1976.

"It's simply a matter of not having the money," Bond said. "In spite of the hundreds of people who have written expressing their support and those who worked long, hard hours trying to build a base of financial support, we just couldn't raise enough cash," Bond said.

"Unfortunately," he added, "none of the remaining candidates seems likely to promote the radical political and economic changes so badly needed to insure redistribution of wealth in America and common control of our resources and our future."

"I am more than grateful to the local corps of volunteers," he added, "who worked without pay to keep us going until now."

Bond said he would not support any other candidate.

THE PITTMAN GARDEN—Mrs. Mattie Jewel Pittman, 1821 East Colgate, is shown in the Pittman garden. Every year, the Pittmans are most fortunate to have loving crops from their garden. Their garden this year, perhaps the best ever, has many green vegetables including onions, corn, blackeye peas, potatoes, peppers, tomatoes, carrots, beets, collard greens, sweet potatoes and many other greens.

"This is the best garden we've ever had," said Mr. Pittman. "We intend to can all of the crops in the garden as well as crops we have planted in our flower beds," he said. "More people need to spend time taking care of their homes by planting green vegetables and flowers so our places will look good," said Mr. Pittman.

It Finally Happened!

We knew that sooner or later it would finally happen. We knew that the Lubbock County Commissioner's Court would finally let the public know how they felt about minorities. This was the case this week. Of course, not all of them voted to discontinue their relationship with the South Plains Association of Governments (SPAG), but three did, Max Arrants, Arch Lamb and Les Derrick.

We hope it was not because the general body of SPAG would consider the representation of minorities later this summer. After all minorities are taxpayers, too. It appears as though this may be the case since Commissioner Lamb allegedly made the statement, prior to the meeting, that changing the SPAG board to allow minorities would be "cowering to federal dictation of local programs."

Surely, Commissioner Lamb, you don't really feel that way about minorities? Or do you?

Why Not Theft Proof Your Home?

Since house burglaries are frequent in the Lubbock area, it would help to find a means to theft-proof your home. Of course, this is not a pleasant subject to write about, but it makes sense to guard against burglars who may break into your home.

It is a reality that the house burglary problem exists every week. The Police Beat reports several burglaries each week. Anyone could be a victim of house burglary.

Statistics tell the story. Burglaries committed during the day time hours increased 56 percent between 1968 and 1973. During the same time period, night time burglaries increased 52 percent. Another interesting fact, according to the Office of Consumer Affairs, Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW), all burglaries increased 16 percent over 1973.

We would like to share some simple steps you can take to protect yourself and your valuable properties. Check these out:

—Lock your entries. All exterior doors should have strong hinges and a dead-bolt lock; a peep-hole is useful, too, so you can see who is at your door. Your ground-level windows should also have locks.

—Light your entries. Have a bright light over every exterior door. Outdoor fixtures to light up your back yard are added protection.

—Participate in "Operation Identification". Call the Lubbock Police Department for details on this program. Ask them if they have a marking tool for writing your identification on every valuable item. By identifying your goods, this will discourage burglars, because they don't want goods that are hard to peddle.

—Take special precautions when on vacation. Notify the Lubbock Police Department so they can cruise past your house regularly. Notify neighbors, too. Hook up electrical timers that will turn your lights and radio on and off at night to make your house appear occupied. Cancel your newspaper deliveries, and ask the post office to hold your mail.

Some may think that these steps are too time consuming. They may be, but we believe that all of these steps will give you added protection against burglars. As a matter of fact, they may pay in another way too. Give your insurance agent the details about how you have "Theft proofed" your home, and ask whether this makes you eligible for any reduction in your home-owners insurance premiums.

Don't you think it's worth theft proofing your home?

As I See It!

by T.J. Patterson

It's very interesting for me to research the history of the black community of Lubbock. As an individual who wasn't born in Lubbock, I am able to capture a rather unique picture of the way it was in 1920's, 30's, 40's, and even 50's. With the history of blacks in Lubbock then, I can't see why more hasn't been done as it should have been.

With the ownership of businesses, including a cab company, two movie houses, drug stores, cafes, hotels and other businesses, the black men and women have the necessary background to move in any direction in the business world.

I have, however, an idea as why there is a lack of businesses in Lubbock as far as the black man is concerned. Blacks in Lubbock just don't want to see another black try to make it. Blacks are concerned about pulling another down, rather than helping each other. As one old timer told me the other day, "we just don't stick together." You know, he is absolutely right. Sticking together would certainly help the local situation.

The lack of sticking together as a group has led black people to depending upon welfare for assistance, a great deal of crime against one another, and the presence of undesirable places in our community.

Thought of the Week: "The only things worth learning are the things you learn after you know it all." — Harry Truman.

Comments by Hershiel Sharp, fire chief for the City of Lubbock, made known last Sunday over a local television station (KCBD) that the fire department is understaffed. "We don't have adequate staffing," said Sharp.

"As I See It" has been trying to tell him that for several years. Since a recent study recommends that an additional 42 persons should be hired, why not give minorities an opportunity to be firemen.

The Lubbock chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) reported that they were going to bring a suit against the City of Lubbock several months ago. Since that time, communications have been forwarded to attorneys at the national level.

It will be interesting to see the outcome of this effort. Anyway, I believe they will have an interesting task in dealing with the City of Lubbock. Maybe, just maybe, the fire department would be a good place to start.

Had an opportunity to talking with officials at the Lubbock County Court House the other day. Did you know that their chief auditor, who is responsible for coordinating paper work for Federal programs, didn't know if they (Lubbock County) had an Affirmative Action Program? Very interesting, don't you think?

I have been informed by reliable sources that by the time this newspaper hits the street, a black man will be appointed as principal of Ella Iles Elementary School. I think it's about time for this to happen.

I have also learned of some other interesting information which will be newsworthy in the near future.

Since it's time to be hiring people, I wonder who will

PANAMA CANAL: TROUBLE AHEAD
by Jack Anderson with Joe Spear
(From United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

Washington—State Department officials warn privately that the Panama Canal soon may be sabotaged, and anti-American riots can be expected in the streets of Panama.

For more than a decade, the State Department has been negotiating to return the sovereignty over the Canal back to Panama. This was the year it was supposed to happen.

But right-wingers in the Pentagon and on Capitol Hill have been fighting the idea for all they're worth. One resolution sponsored by South Carolina's Sen. Strom Thurmond called for "the undiluted sovereignty of the United States" over the Panama Canal.

And just a few days ago, the House voted overwhelmingly to deny funds for negotiating a new Panama Canal treaty.

This strong opposition has forced Secretary of State Henry Kissinger to back off the issue. As one insider put it, "Henry is better than a buzzard when it comes to smelling death. He knows the Canal treaty is a dead issue."

But in Panama it is a live issue. There will be sabotage attacks on the Canal and trouble in the streets, sure as shooting, if a new treaty isn't negotiated this year.

Fuel Flim-Flam: The oil barons gave the nation a Fourth of July present: higher gas prices. The price boosts came just in time to coincide with the heavy-driving season.

Of course, the oilmen claim this was all a coincidence. Higher costs, they say, forced them to raise prices.

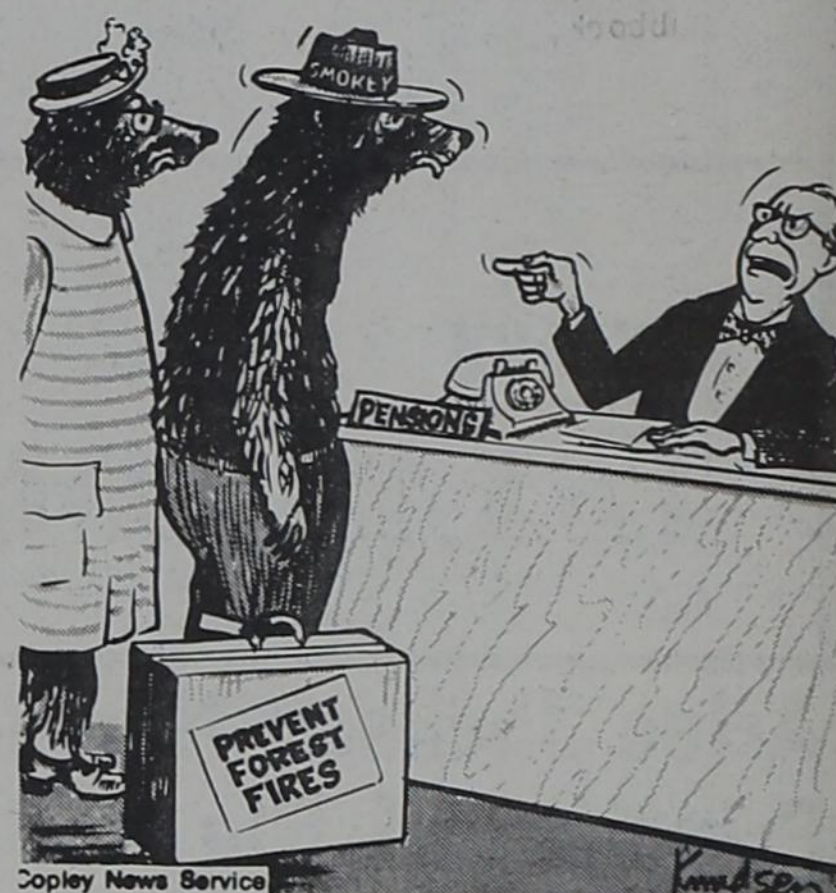

But the truth is that the oil companies have learned from the Arabs. As gas became plentiful and prices began dropping, the major oil firms cut back their refinery production.

Rather than let their profits be determined by the whims of the free market, they merely produced less gasoline. Not enough to create a shortage, but just enough to send prices up before the big vacation season.

The arrogance of their timing, however, has caused new rumbles on Capitol Hill. There is talk in congressional corridors again of nationalizing the oil industry. A growing number of congressmen believes that the nation's energy needs are too vital to entrust to the care of the greedy oil tycoons.

Veto-Prone Congress: The Watergate scandal brought a major housecleaning on Capitol Hill. The political breezes become head coach of the Dunbar Panthers since Coach Louis Kelly chose to go to Estacado High School. As usual, by the time this newspaper is on the streets (maybe before), a coach will be hired. At least, I hope so. Time is fasting and there needs to be somebody at the helm as soon as possible for the "Fighting Panthers". We believe it will be Van Jefferson.

I thought I had heard everything. But the other day, I learned that the City Council of Wichita Falls, Texas decided to pass an ordinance so ducks would be protected when crossing the busy streets. The Lubbock City Council would have been as bad if they had passed an ordinance pertaining to smoking in public places.

If you pay close attention to what City Councils do, you will learn a heck of a lot. Just think, driving through Wichita Falls and seeing a sign that says "Duck Xing".

blew in a number of reformers, who promptly set about making improvements.

The overwhelming Democratic majority was expected to ride roughshod over President Ford. Almost everyone, including the President himself, predicted that Congress would be veto-proof.

Instead Congress has been veto-prone. The former Congress overrode four out of eight Ford vetoes. But the new Congress hasn't been able to override a single veto.

For example, they have been in session 17 days longer than a year ago, but they have passed 11 fewer bills. Most of the key measures are still awaiting congressional action.

Philippine Problems: President Ferdinand Marcos of the Philippines is having his troubles. We recently reported, for example, that he offered a $50,000 bribe to a former Filipino official not to testify before Congress about corruption in the Philippines. Now he stands a chance of losing a rare opportunity to enhance his image. Here are the details:

The heavyweight champion of the world, Muhammad Ali, is scheduled to fight his preeminent challenger, Joe Frazier, in the Philippines this fall. As Ali put it, in his inimitable fashion, there will be a "thrilla in Manila."

Our sources report, however, that a group of Philippine-American Muslims have cabled Ali, urging him not to fight in Manila. Marcos would use the favorable publicity, they said, "to bolster his tyranny."

Ali is a deeply religious Muslim himself. There is a good chance, say our sources, that he will honor the request of his brethren.

Lot of Bull: Defense Secretary James Schlesinger recently displayed some satellite pictures taken over the African country of Somalia, and pointed out some large structures which he said were Russian missile bases. In response, the Soviets claimed the buildings were actually a meat packing plant. Schlesinger, with a sly smile, declared that the Russians must be processing a steer "the size of Paul Bunyan's ox."

Fuddle Factory: Freshman Sen. Pat Leahy wants to create a select committee that will systematically abolish unnecessary government bodies. The Vermont Democrat points out that in the last 15 years, 236 federal agencies, boards and commissions have been established, but only 21 have been shut down.

Phantom Speeches: Rep. Bill Steiger, R-Wis., is trying to make an honest document out of the Congressional Record. For years, congressmen have been able to reprint undelivered speeches in the Record, just as if they had held their colleagues entranced.

Steiger, however, has persuaded 52 of his colleagues to support a resolution which would provide that nondelivered speeches appear in a different type face.

School Board Appoints Mrs. Eva Samples Consultant

Mrs. Eva Samples has been appointed consultant for elementary social studies and science in the Lubbock Public Schools. She was named to the post at last week's meeting of the Lubbock School Trustees.

The new consultant has served as a demonstration teacher for the school district for the past six years. During that time, she took one semester's leave of absence to teach at Texas Tech University. In her new position, she will work with teachers in all of the district's elementary schools.

Mrs. Samples is a graduate of Emile High School, Bastrop, Texas. Her Bachelor of Science degree was taken from Tillotson College, Austin, with a major in home economics and a minor in science.

Her Master of Education degree with a major in elementary education and a minor in art was received from Texas Southern University, Houston. Additional graduate work has been completed at Northern Arizona University, Texas Southern University, and Texas Tech University. Her areas of specialization at Texas Tech have been educational supervision and administration.

A varied teaching background for Mrs. Samples began in 1950 when she started her career in the Bastrop County schools. She taught elementary levels through the eighth grade for five years. From 1955 to 1962 she taught in Arizona and New Mexico at the elementary levels, mostly early childhood. During her tenure in those states, she taught on several Indian reservations and was involved in a variety of curriculum activities.

Mrs. Samples came to Lubbock in 1962 as a first grade teacher at Ella Iles Elementary School. She transferred to Martin Elementary School in 1964 to teach first grade and remained there until she took the demonstration teacher's position in 1969.

Mrs. Samples holds professional certificates for elementary teacher, high school teacher, special homemaking, homemaking, and supervisor. Her memberships in organizations include Delta Kappa Gamma, Alpha Kappa Alpha, and a number of professional groups at the national, state, and local levels. She attends Carter Chapel AME Church.

As a result of extensive travel experiences and her background of working with the Indian children, Mrs. Samples has served as a resource person for culture units at public school and college levels. She has also participated in curriculum workshops for various subject areas.

Detroit, Michigan and Mrs. March Trammel of Prairie View, Texas. The sisters enjoyed fishing at Galveston, Texas. They also visited in their old home town, Grosebeck, Texas; relatives at Mart, Texas, and their mother at Waco, Texas. Mrs. Madkins joined her husband at Fort Worth where a family reunion was held. The trip to Prairie View was Mrs. Melton's first flight and she had a rough time.

Mr. and Mrs. Fulton Berry, Sr. of Pittsburgh, Pa. arrived last Saturday afternoon via airlines for a visit with their son, Officer Berry and family; two grandsons and friends.

From an interview with Mr. Jupiter:

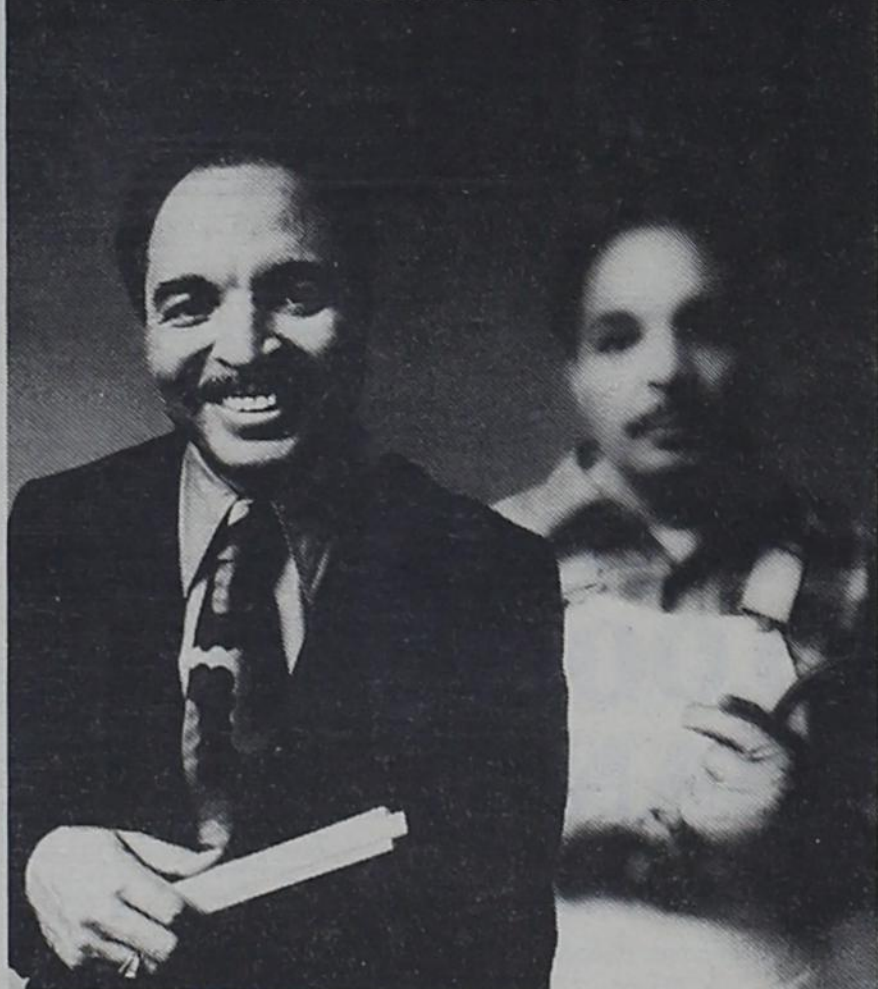

"I guess my brother and I were the first people in our family who went to college. Even though our parents only went as far as grade school, they instilled in us the opportunities of an education.

"I had all kinds of jobs. I worked in a dry goods store as all-round clerk, janitor, errand boy. I worked night shifts at the A&P warehouse unloading freight cars.

"When I left high school, I wanted to go to college but I didn't have any money. I was on the track team in high school, and was able to get a scholarship to a UNCF school. But I wasn't really that hot on sports. And when I came to enroll, I found out they were giving scholarships to the freshmen who scored highest in each of the major fields. Since I enjoyed my physics class very much in high school, I chose physics."

Mr. Jupiter is now Manager of the Radiation and Environmental Sciences Department at the EG&G facility in Las Vegas. He heads a team of scientists, who do aerial surveys over the nuclear power plants and other nuclear facilities in this country. The service he renders helps protect us and our environment from excessive radiation. The United Negro College Fund gave Clyde Jupiter the opportunity to make a significant contribution to society. Your contribution can help us give others that same opportunity. A mind is a terrible thing to waste.

Members of Messiah Presbyterian Church Entertain Sunday, July 13th

In a gesture of love and appreciation, members of the Messiah Presbyterian Church prepared a very delicious meal for their pastor and wife, Rev. and Mrs. Donald Coleman, "both ordained ministers", who served their last Sunday in Lubbock. The dinner was served in fellowship hall of the church, and many friends shared the affair.

During the dinner, Elder Don Jones presented the couple a book titled: "Apples of Gold" with a check enclosed as a token of love

Mrs. Clovise Burns is suffering from a broken ankle she sustained when she stumbled over an alley dog she befriended. She was treated at the hospital and released, but will be confined a few weeks at home in Yellow-house Canyon. She is recuperating nicely.

Mrs. Lovie Jean Cunningham left early Sunday morning for Albuquerque, New Mexico to get her husband, Solone, who had spent the past week there at the V.A. Hospital. He is doing nicely. His sister, Mrs. Ida Prince of Toledo, Ohio, accompanied Lovie Jean on the trip. She surprised her brother, and plans to visit here several days.

Pamela Cunningham has been released from Methodist Hospital and is recuperating at home. She was in isolation several days.

Friends were saddened here to learn of the death of Mrs. Ernestine Adanandus of Midland, Texas who passed away Thursday evening in a local hospital there. Funeral services were scheduled for Tuesday afternoon at 3 p.m. at the Greater St. Luke A.M.E. Church with Rev. V.T. Herron, pastor, officiating.

Mrs. Ann Britt who had surgery last week at Methodist Hospital is recuperating satisfactorily and expected to be released to come home this week.

Mr. D.C. Fair, Sr., is still one of the shut in list. He is feeling fair.

Mrs. Mary Gant and Mrs. Mary C. Parker gave Bernadine Ambrose of Los Angeles, Calif., a surprise luncheon in the home of Mrs. Parker Saturday.

Those in attendance included Mrs. Christene Canyon, Mrs. Hazel Kelly, Mrs. Sally Sneed, Mrs. Zelma Butler and Mrs. Marie Ragans. Mrs. Ambrose is the sister of Mrs. T.J. Gant of Carlisle.

and respect for their services the past few years. Mr. Jones related a few instances in which Don had been an unvalued source of strength and guidance.

In his acceptance speech, Rev. Coleman said, "Leaving friends is never an easy task, but one that we all, sometimes along life's way, must face."

The couple will leave next week for Ann Harbor, Michigan where they will serve as a team at the University.

Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Roland Roberts and two children, Dr. and Mrs. F.L. Lovings, Mrs. T. Wheatley and daughter, Joe Davenport, Mr. and Mrs. George Scott, Mrs. Minnie Ola Bunton, Mrs. Harry Bunton, M. Terrell, Mr. Sheppard Robinson, Mr. Burton McCutchin, and many others.

Brother H.L. Higgins furnished music and Charles Sedberry, Sr. sang a solo. Everyone had an enjoyable time.

years, 1945-48, I never lost over one game a season. One or two of those years, I didn't lose a game. You see, the only time I would lose a game would be to Wichita Falls. I remember one year when San Angelo came in and beat me. San Angelo had some good players. They would always have some twins or brothers who were really good.

What was the classification of Dunbar High School?

We were a 1-A School. The 2-AA classification came along after I got out of coaching. 1-A and 2-AA were big schools. My last year of coaching was in 1950, because of a bus accident. My record that year was 5-5.

Where were your football games played in Lubbock?

Boy, now that was something! When I first came here, well, the only place I could play was out at Texas Tech in 1938-38. The coach there was a fine man who seemed to like me quite well. His name was Pete Cowthon. He was a very fine man. If it weren't for him, we couldn't have dressed our team. We would have had no uniforms. Our uniforms came from Tech during the years 1938 through 1942. They were pretty good things. The under equipment was as good as anybody's. The shoulder pads, shoes and things like that were good. They might have been a little bit too big. Anyway, Coach Cawthon made it possible. After Coach he left, Dale Morgan kept us up with equipment.

When did Texas Tech stop giving Dunbar equipment?

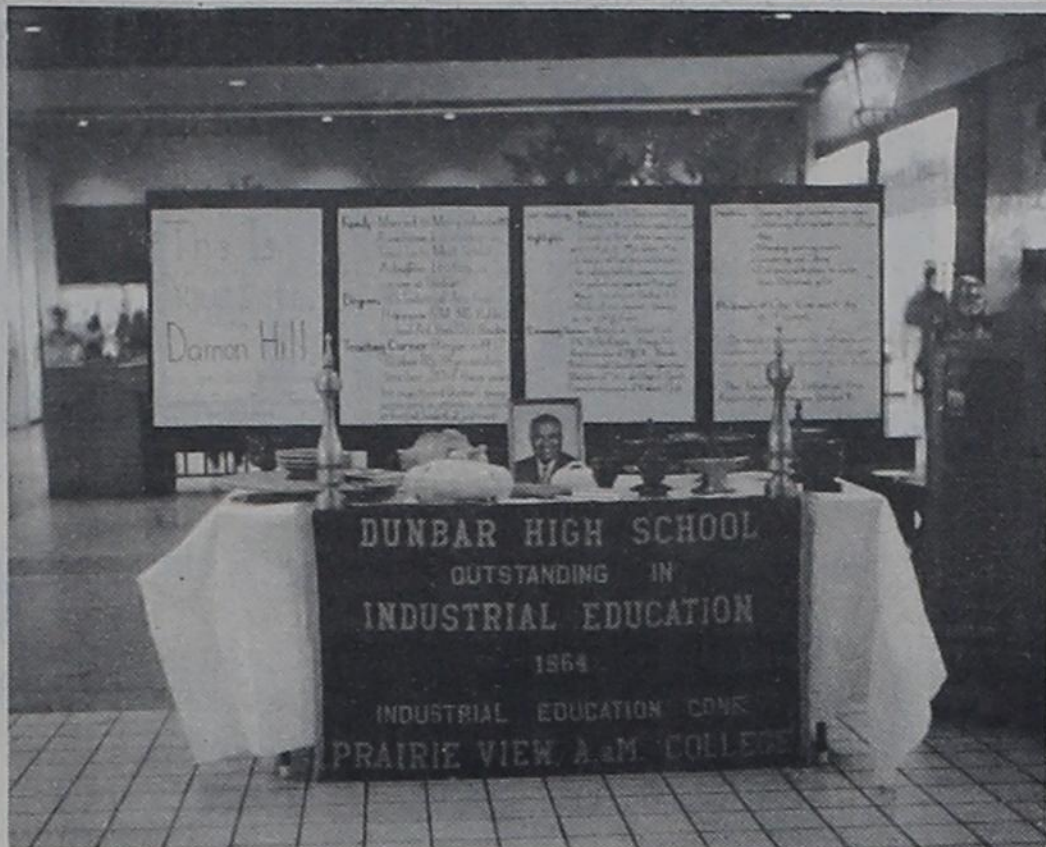

They never did stop. Here's what happened. I could have still been getting equipment, but Coach Pat Patterson (coach at Lubbock High School) came, and he included me in his program. That was after World War II.

Did the school system give Dunbar any uniforms?

No, the school system didn't give us any uniforms. We were not included in the program until about 1946 or 1947.

When did you get your uniforms?

The first time we every got any uniforms to amount to anything was about 1946. The way I got my nice uniforms first was when we played a game for the Junior Chamber of Commerce. They gave us $300, maybe $350. Reece Air Base had a football team, and they dropped their football program. They had these uniforms and they gave them to us. Glenn Woody was president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce. He did a lot of things. They opened up the way for us. At this time, the only place the Dunbar Panthers had to practice was in a vacant lot. It was not difficult to find a place to practice, at least I didn't think so at the time. All I had to do was find the vacant lot and clear off a place and start practicing. After the Jaycees found out that we didn't have anywhere to practice, they put on the pressure to see that we had a place. That resulted in the field on Date Avenue near the Plains Co-op Oil Mill. Mr. John Fair and Mr. D.C. Fair, Sr. owned that property. Mr. A.C. Jackson, business manager of the Lubbock Public Schools, asked me to find some property. I talked with Mr. Fair about it and he told me we could have the property if the price was right. The schools did buy the property. Not only did they buy the property, but they took care of it and put water there. They got a sprinkler system down, and if they didn't take up those pipes, they are still down there. That sprinkler system is as good as any one in town.

How did you get your games?

One way in which we got our football games was with the Junior Chamber of Commerce. We would play games for them. We would also play games for the ABC Club every year. The first clock that Texas Tech had was put there because our games financed the clock. The ABC Club put it up and we played the games for them.

When you were finally recognized by the Lubbock Public Schools, what was your budget?

When they did start taking care of us financially, we were treated like any other football team. I didn't have to worry about uniforms or anything.

(Next week: Basketball, track and outstanding athletes).

Grand-daughter of Local Woman is Outstanding Track Star in San Antonio

An outstanding young lady in the track sport is Robin Clark, a senior at Judson High school in San Antonio, Texas. Last week, Robin captured first place in the 100 yard dash and 220 yard race in the Regional Meet at Corpus Christi, Texas. This weekend she will participate in a meet in Mississippi.

Robin has managed an impressive record during her high school career. Her freshman year, she ran in the 14-AAA Regional at Victoria, Texas participating in the 440 yard relay, 880 yard relay and 60 yard dash. As a sophomore, she ran in the 60 yard dash in the 14-AAA Regional Meet.

A member of the Girls Athletic Association and Pep Squad, she works full time as a member of the Eastside Striders Track Club in San Antonio.

She is a devoted participant in track. According to Robin, she saves November and December for rest and bad weather. The young lady hopes to attend a college on the West Coast on a scholarship.

Robin is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Clark and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Walton of 2429 E. 30th Street in Lubbock.

Her goals in life are to run in college and the 1980 Olympics.

Silence is an underplayed virtue.

Quilts Being Made At Mahon Library

Patchwork and quilting, crafts of yesteryear are undergoing a great revival in this bicentennial year, and an opportunity to see quilts actually being made or quilted, will be presented for the public at the George and Helen Mahon Library, 1306 Ninth Street, on July 22, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the Community Room.

No formal program has been planned, but anyone desiring to watch the quilting and view the many completed quilts, may come to the library any time between the hours of 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. on July 22nd.

Hand quilting by two different methods will be demonstrated. Mrs. A. Lee Henderson of Lubbock uses a large quilting hoop which rests on a stand. She will be quilting and speaking informally about her four quilts that have won first place prizes at the Texas State Fair. These will be on view in the Community Room.

Members of the Prairie Thimble Quilting Club of Ralls will be demonstrating their quilting techniques on a large frame. This club has been in existence for many years and has continued the practice of the ladies getting together to quilt and talk around a frame that is the size of the quilt itself. Several finished quilts made by the members will be on exhibit.

Approximately twenty quilts made in recent years will be on display in the Community Room. In many instances the person who has made the quilt will be present to answer questions and talk with the visitors concerning the method used. These quilts will illustrate many different patterns and will show the different ways

Sports of The Times

by Joe Kelly

I thought that the week prior to vacation was the longest week in the year. I was wrong. The longest period is that immediately following your vacation. Five days seem like 15!

So obviously, I'm back on the treadmill, with only memories to sustain. Once I recover I hope to take advantage of some of the good bass fishing in our area. From reports this past week, Hubbard Creek still seems the best bet.

Coming up this week will be a bit of nostalgia as former WT-NM League players gather for their annual meeting. Headquarters will be the Villa Inn, with an informal get together Friday night and activities planned for Saturday.

Golf will be the principal event, with activities for the ladies—but no ball game this year. Fans are invited to come by the Villa to see their former heroes and friends. And a dinner dance Saturday night winds up the affair.

The All Star game break was Tuesday and, if past tradition is any indication, Cincinnati and Pittsburgh will meet in the National League playoffs, along with Boston and Oakland.

If you must wager, though, bet a careful bob or two. Sometimes the season's midway point has been the kiss of death for teams that appeared incapable of losing. A sudden slump, a hot surge by another team and boom! The picture changes rapidly.

Barring a miracle, though, it would appear that both Cincinnati and Oakland are shoo-ins. The Reds have been awesome and the A's manage to win, even though they lost a lot of players.

Pittsburgh and Boston aren't cinches by any means. In fact, the American League East could be a real dogfight, especially if the Baltimore Orioles turn on the steam. The Orioles haven't been playing well, but they are in good striking range.

So what else is new? Well, Ben Brown is going to open up a big general sports complex, with emphasis on bowling, of course. When finished, it should be a good addition to Lubbock.

This was a dream that the late Quinn Connelley had for years. He got no farther than a bowling alley and swimming pool, but he had visions of tennis courts, handball courts and a myriad of other arenas. There certainly is room in the city for such a complex.

I was a little shocked when I got home and found out what the crowd for the All America game was. It looked like a much bigger crowd, even though it obviously wasn't capacity.

A year ago the prophets of doom were saying that the game was dead here, that interest had died down. I don't think in football mad West Texas that this is true. I do think that the game probably needs a few things to boost interest.

Generally, promotion of the game could be much stronger. Allocation of tickets could be better. More involvement of fans, through parties and rallies, would help build excitement. A lot of things could be tried to encourage attendance.

As it is, just under 40,000 in the heat gripping the city at the time isn't bad. In fact, it's better than any other city can manage. But the point has arrived when something is going to have to be done to push attendance back over 40,000.

Speaking of football, the "experts" have spoken and the consensus is for Texas A&M to win the SWC title. That comes as no surprise. Many have been predicting it ever since Texas whumped the Aggies right after Thanksgiving.

In fact, that defeat could well have been the making of the Aggies. They had the title in their moist little hands and let it get away. That shouldn't happen again.

The Aggies have experience. They have depth. They have ability. In fact, Emory Bellard probably could use any three men at each position and not draw a deep breath of alarm.

It's a mature team, and the addition of Tom Wilson could make A&M more potent offensively. Last year when A&M passed, it was more to see if the ends were awake than anything else. Tom Wilson could change all that.

Texas, smarting under what was not a successful season, could come back strong. Arkansas should be improved to the point of challenging. And you can't write off Baylor, the defending champion, with a host of talent returning.

That would seem to leave Texas Tech, SMU, Rice and TCU to fight for whatever scraps are available, as well as fill the role of spoilers in the title chase.

SMU and Rice could both be stronger, although the Owls were pretty dismal last year, while TCU doesn't seem to have it at all.

But I can't sell Tech that short. The Raiders may not have what it takes to be conference champions, but I feel a sense of confidence in Steve Sloan. His material may not be as impressive as A&M's, but he has a pretty good nucleus.

Another thing that is overlooked is the fact that Sloan was an All America quarterback and played pro ball. And he's going to work with the quarterbacks, and that should mean a lot.

Tommy Duniven has the ability to be outstanding. Thus, a year of experience and Sloan's tutoring could make him the top quarterback in the league. Sometimes championships have been won or lost on no more than the ability of the quarterback.

Nope, the Raiders probably will be picked for no better than fifth, with a few votes for a higher finish and some for a lower one. It's doubtful that they'll get any votes for 1-2-3.

All of which makes it an ideal position for a new head coach. He's under no pressure, neither is the team. It's much the same position Grant Teaff was in last year. No one will take Baylor lightly this year and it will be tougher to win.

I have a feeling that Steve Sloan's team will take advantage to the utmost of what it can do best and, in the course of the game, come up with some unexpected strategy.

Steve can gamble a little more this year because it isn't "his team", of course. My guess is that we can expect the unexpected. In fact, I think this could be one of the more interesting Tech teams to watch. Better buy your tickets now, if you haven't already.

A BRIGHT IDEA

Lubbock Power & Light pioneered electric service in this community. Back in 1916, when the privately owned electric utility company failed to meet the needs of the city, Lubbock City Council, in a far-sighted decision, established a municipally owned electric company. By 1917 that company was in operation and since that time has been serving Lubbock with a superior electric power service. Let LP&L supply your electric needs—after all—it's smart to do business with the company you own.

A Critical Review of a Parade: There were a lot of things going in favor of a good new coverage of the recent 70th birthday celebration and 15th annual rodeo, held in all black Boley, Oklahoma, in late May. Thousands upon thousands of mostly black youth "kicked up their heels" for some three days in celebration and hundreds of gallons of beer, choc, 'white lightening', etc. were consumed with dancing in the streets and no fear of arrest from the mostly black police force.

Local merchants did a spiraling business and vendors from over the state "sold out" of their merchandise in short order with fish, hamburgers, hot dogs, barbecue, red soda pop hitting a record sales margin. With thousands of blacks together, it is remarkable indeed that we did not even see a fist fight. There were a few whites and Indians in the huge mass and unlike former years of the annual celebration, we wondered what happened to the other ethnic groups that usually crowd the annual Boley celebration.

The white news media from throughout Oklahoma headlined the affair with Flip Wilson doing a television show with his crew that will be shown this fall. Even though Oklahoma's Gov. Boren led the parade, one could see that thousands had come only to see Mr. Flip Wilson and the man gave them their money's worth during his three day stay in one of the nation's oldest all black towns. Indeed Mr. Flip's visit was one of the most exciting things that had happened in Boley in many years. Rating perhaps a close second was the big news of the late Pretty Boy Floyd's gang attempt to rob the Farmers and Merchants Bank in the early 30's when George Birdwell and his cohorts were left sprawling in the streets in Boley. Rating high in news interest too, was the alleged arson episode that burned the beautiful four story Masonic Building to the ground, that had been the showplace of Blacks in Oklahoma, also in the 30's. Each year thousands of Black Masons crowded to Boley in an annual meet and of course their friends came along with them.

The Oklahoma Eagle, a popular black owned and published newspaper in Tulsa was critical of the parade and asked editorially: "Where were the floats? What is a parade without floats? No markings on the Queen's car. What was she queen of? One band too. What is a parade without bands? The editorial concluded: "the sea of mud outside and inside the rodeo grounds should be eliminated... size of rodeo grounds increased and other things if Boley is to continue to attract so much national attention to say nothing of its longevity."

On August 31, 1975, New Mexico Highlands University president, Dr. Frank Angel, will retire, after 43 years of continuous work in education. Angel, a native of Las Vegas, N.M. said, "Perhaps one of the most satisfying aspects of my career in education was when I returned to my hometown of Las Vegas as president of Highlands. Dr. Angel was believed to be the nation's first Spanish surnamed major college president, when he was elected in 1971.

Hometown newspapers are vanishing from the American Way of Live. Remember when the average American could walk into any newstand in the town he lived in and pick up a copy of his hometown newspaper at about the same cost of the local sheet? The Hobbs Daily News Sun in a recent editorial said: "It Can't Go On This Way". The United States Postal Service is planting the seeds of its own demise, the day when the Congress will take it over mail bag and baggage and operate it. Mailing costs could double the cost of your subscriptions to all weekly and monthly magazines, not to mention the daily newspaper. Only the wealthy, Time magazine has warned, will be able to continue subscribing to their favorite publications. Hundreds of smaller publications could go broke."

Concludes the Sun: "It is time the service was made responsive, reasonable and reliable, and not an institution that has the ultimate power to limit communications, smother enlightenment and inhibit the reading pleasure of Americans. It just can't go on the way it is". End of quote.

This correspondent has a sneaking suspicion that the party that offers to return the postal service to Congress in its platform next year, would gain millions of votes. The American people are just that fed up with the United States Postal Service regularly increasing costs and the service getting worse in many sections of the U.S. It's time for a change back, they say. And we agree.

Until later, peace.
