NEWS BRIEFS

KKK Planned Slaying of 3

Detroit—(NBNS)—A member of the Michigan Ku Klux Klan has revealed that three officials of the Willow Run school district had their deaths plotted by the KKK in 1971.

KKK member Edward Maldonado, 36, who is a co-defendant in the federal trial but pleaded guilty earlier, testified that former Michigan Grand Dragon Robert Miles had planned the slaying of the three school officials.

Miles, who is charged with violating the civil rights of Dr. R. Wiley Brownlee, former principal of Willow Run High School in the course of a racial dispute, is being tried on charges growing out of the tarring and feathering of Dr. Brownlee.

Two other KKK members, Arthur Meadows, 35, and Samuel Million, 28, pleaded guilty to the charges.

Race Cancelled Hometown Honor, POW Says

New York—(NBNS)—Staff Sgt. Robert E. Tabb of Augusta, Ga., says that a parade had been scheduled for his homecoming until the town discovered he was black.

Appearing on the NBC-TV "Today Show", Tabb said he was disappointed by the "lack of recognition" for spending three years in a North Vietnamese prison camp he received.

The incident, Tabb said, caused him to believe "that blacks are still discriminated against by whites." He said, however, that there were "also a lot of good people" in Augusta.

Eliminate Fear, Then Racism, Clark Tells Black Cops

Atlanta—(NBNS)—Former U.S. Attorney General Ramsey Clark told a national convention of black police officers that their "highest purpose is the elimination of fear from American society."

"In the process of eliminating fear, you will also eliminate racism," Clark told them.

Mass. Senate Approves Death Penalty Bill

Boston—(NBNS)—The Massachusetts Senate has approved making the death penalty mandatory in seven categories of first degree murder, including the killing of a policeman, a fireman or a correctional officer.

The bill, which now goes to the House for approval, contrasts with the House version which calls for a mandatory death sentence in all first degree murder cases. The state Supreme Court is studying the constitutionality of the House passed bill, at that body's request.

Arrests of 4 Students Caused Southern University Shootings According to Recent NEA Reports

Washington—(NBNS)—The arrest of four student leaders was blamed for the "untimely" deaths of two unarmed students at Louisiana's Southern University, a six-month investigation of the shootings by the National Education Association revealed.

The same day as the fatal shootings, apparently by sheriff's deputies, the four students, all officers of the umbrella campus protest organization called Students United, were arrested in their campus rooms before dawn on November 16 on warrants issued eight days earlier.

The NEA investigating task force, in its 62-page report, called the student grievances at the all-black school largely legitimate.

"All evidence points to the conclusion that the untimely and extraordinary arrests robbed the demonstrations of much of their effective discipline and control; precipitated the spontaneous entry of students into the administration building; and were the immediate cause of the confrontation that ended in death."

One of the biggest causes of the unrest, the NEA report concluded, was control of university by an all-white state board of education and inadequate financial support.

The significance of these two conditions, cannot be overemphasized" the report said, continuing: These conditions reflect the tradition and continued reality of institutional racism. They do distinguish the Southern University student protest movement from the protests of white students at predominately white universities."

The school's administration was accused of being arbitrary and largely out of touch with student concerns, and lacked the authority to deal with many of the concerns. "The grievances presented by Students United leaders, were neither frivolous nor hysterical", the education organization said. "Testimony indicated that they expressed long-unresolved concerns. Their development was obviously the result of widespread student involvement."

One of the recommendations of the task force was the appointment of blacks to all educational boards in Louisiana "in proportion to their numbers in the state," which is one-third black.

Concluding that the suspension of a number of student leaders and faculty members sympathetic to them after the killings, the NEA said Southern administrators had "violated the most basic principles of academic due process."

"The suspended and jailed students and the dismissed faculty members were among the best and brightest members of the Southern University community," the task force said.

California Welfare Reform Plan Pushed for Nation

Sacramento—(NBNS)—California officials are lauding their 1971 welfare reform act as a replacement model for President Nixon's abandoned plan to provide a guaranteed annual income for the poor.

They believe they have receptive audiences in two former aides to Governor Ronald Reagan, Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger of the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare and HEW Welfare Commissioner Robert B. Carleson.

Those present, agreed with Mr. Stubbfield, and decided that it is time to do something about them, not just talk about the conditions. "I have 19 grandkids in Lubbock, and I wonder where they will go", said Stubbfield.

Several business personalities brought out facts that there are various reasons why black people don't patronize those businesses in east Lubbock. "Many black people won't buy our products and services, we have to rely on the white and Mexican American," continued Stubbfield.

"This is true", said W.H. Britt (owner of Soul Patrol Chicken Shack), "because most of my business is coming from the Chicano and white community". He told the group, "many people make statements such as 'we don't like Britt. His chicken is too cold'."

Ed Deo, local realtor, spoke firm on the issue of "What are we going to do?" He made it clear that we don't need anymore "pep talk meetings, we need some action." He continued, "What do people want us to do?"

Another realtor, R.J. Givens, mentioned: "As businessmen and women, we need to meet with those persons who are in the same business we are in and communicate on our various problems."

"Educating the people is our basic problem," admitted Bobby Williams. "Many of us don't know how important advertising is to our business. We need to do this sort of thing", he said. Al Caviel, owner of Caviel's Drug Store, reminded all businessmen and women, "You as businessmen and women have to remember that it is important to trade with your fellow brothers and sisters. We go across town and buy our goods and forget about our brothers and sisters are selling the same item over here. We've got to first start with ourselves if we are going to get something done."

A Good Philosophy

Phillip Gillespie, owner of A-1 Cleaners and Laundry, suggested a philosophy: "Being a businessman we have got to stand behind our service or product. We must be willing to stand behind what we sell."

Other businessmen and women participating in the discussion included Don Thompson, Mrs. George Francis, T.J. Patterson, Andrew Ross, Eddie P. Richardson, Gene Gaines and Fulton Berry. The entire group agreed on two main points, communications and education.

An Ad Hoc committee was appointed to discuss the procedures this organization should take in order to reach important goals for the community. Those appointed were: Joe Middleton, Don Thomas, Rev. V. Brown, Bobby Williams, Andrew Ross, Phillip Gillespie, T.J. Patterson, C.B. Stubbfield, Gene Gaines, Eddie Richardson and Ed Deo.

The Ad Hoc committee had its first meeting Tuesday evening, October 23. The general meeting of the association will be held Tuesday, October 30, at 7:30 p.m. at Jamison and Son Chapel.

"All businessmen and women are invited," says Stubbfield. "We've all got to get involved to help our community," he continued.

Organization Can Help East Lubbock

A group of business men and women met last week to discuss the future of the business community in East Lubbock. There was much discussed at this meeting which can help turn the course of residents of East Lubbock. This meeting, without any doubt, was the first time that people in the business community of East Lubbock have gathered together in such number to discuss the possibility of developing and upgrading an area which needs some type of help.

The East Lubbock Business Association has been organized and forty-three (43) residents of East Lubbock are proud this week of what happened. The meeting, which was held at Jamison and Son Chapel, marked the first time in several years that business men and women had sit down and discussed their problems about the business opportunities available for citizens of Lubbock. Without any doubt, the outcome was great.

A young man, C.B. Stubbfield, owner of Stubbs Bar-B-Que, thought enough of such a meeting to purchase a space in this newspaper (with the help of others) to inform business men and women of East Lubbock about such an effort. As Stubbfield said, "I am tired of this community being disorganized as it is; something has to be done about it."

A week since the initial meeting was held and the community has been talking about the effort on last week. Our investigation reveals that people in the East Lubbock community are glad that such an effort was made possible. Many are waiting for further results on the part of those who are working to develop this area.

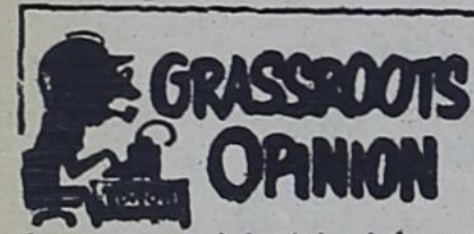

We hope that something will be done about the development of the business community of East Lubbock. It is imperative that every business in East Lubbock becomes involved with the present development. We must put away our petty gripes and start joining a team which will prove to benefit all of us in the business community.

Lubbock is on the move and is making headway in regard to the building aspect of the Hub City. We've all got to be aware of what is going on so we can get a piece of the economic pie which is in our reach. Too many times, we've lost faith in the positive element of our community. Now we have business men and women who are willing to add a new picture to our city effort.

All of us know of the problem which exists in our business community. There is no need to talk about our shortcomings. It is, however, necessary for us to push an effort which can change our outlook on life. So don't let the past experiences in our community stop an effort which could help our effort.

We must keep in mind that every resource must be used to accomplish the goal of East Lubbock. We hope that the effort by Rev. A.L. Davis, pastor of Greater Saint Luke Baptist Church, will be used to overcome our business endeavor. We can't help but think about the hard work Rev. Davis has put into the development of a shopping center in the East Lubbock community. We hope, with all sincerity, Rev. Davis' effort will join forces with the efforts of other business men and women to make things happen. It can be done if we all get our things together and work in the same direction.

The business organization which was organized last Tuesday evening at Jamison and Son Chapel is something which has been needed for years. It is needed now, so let's all get behind it to make our community a better place in which to live. There is so much which comes from a meeting of the minds. Today, the East Lubbock Business Association is a reality, because of men who have worked so hard to make something happen for our community.

Freedom requires that the people be fully informed in order to act in their own best interest. Historically, it has been the role of newspapers to keep a watch on government and public officials by reporting what happens at public meetings and discussions affecting the public interest. Only when people are fully informed about actions of their public officials can they make sound judgments and cast intelligent votes. And only in this way can democracy function and people keep themselves free."

Farmington, Me., Franklin Journal & Farmington Chronicle: "Once upon a time there was a small gray mouse. He was wise in some respects. He knew where the best corn was stored, the coziest nook for a nest, and he took pride that he was an up and coming member of his group. There was however one area where he failed, when a controversial subject arose he found it more to his liking to let a friend get his point across while he nibbled on his corn. Unfortunately there are people with the same failings. It is necessary that persons involve themselves and not let someone else do their work for them."

As I See It

by T.J. Patterson

There's no doubt about it, we are all involved in politics everyday we live in this complex world. Many of us are not really concerned about the political arena we see each God given day, but we are going to have to be concerned with what is going on around us. We can't let the Watergate, the resignation of Spiro Agnew because of his problems, or other scandals stop us from becoming involved with the situation.

As of late, the resignation of the Attorney General of the U.S. and the firing of special prosecutor Cox who was dealing with the problems at hand should not steer us away from what is happening in our country. Many of us are rather unhappy over the national political scene, but we can't give up in the situation.

Regardless of what you say or believe, I'd like to share some thought with you about the situation everyone of us are involved with daily. It goes like this:

We must remember that we should be made to realize that government, at some level, through its bureaucracy, registers our birth, and licenses the physician who attends us; provides for our upkeep if we become an orphan or if our parents become incapacitated; provides us with a school and compels us to attend it; tells us to attend it; tells you at what age you may leave school to go to work; licenses you to practice a trade or profession, often prescribing the amount

JACK ANDERSON'S WEEKLY SPECIAL

THAT NEW YORK PSYCHOTHERAPIST

by Jack Anderson

(Copyright, 1973, by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

Washington—President Nixon's psychotherapist is back in the news. He is Dr. Arnold Hutschnecker who treated Nixon several years ago. There should be no stigma attached to this. But voters who don't understand psychotherapy, apparently, believe those who receive it are mentally unstable. It has become a political liability, therefore, to be caught receiving psychotherapy.

Nixon vigorously denied that he had received any such treatment. He had gone to see Dr. Hutschnecker, said Nixon, for treatment of an internal disorder. It is true that Hutschnecker once had been an internist, but he had given up the practice for psychotherapy. The President still won't admit, however, that he received psychiatric counseling.

Last year, Sen. Tom Eagleton had to give up the Democratic Vice-Presidential nomination over the issue of his psychiatric treatment. This dramatized again the political danger of such care.

In 1965, Vice President designate Gerald Ford visited President Nixon's psychotherapist. The man who arranged the appointment, Robert Winter-Berger, said Ford sought relief from pressures that made him "irritable, nervous and depressed". Ford was a patient of the psychotherapist, claimed Winter-Berger, "for at least a year."

Both Ford and Dr. Hutschnecker have denied this. Ford swore to us that he had visited Dr. Hutschnecker at Winter-Berger's pleading, received a "15-minute lecture on psychology" and never saw him again.

Whether Ford received psychotherapy or not, those who know him have no doubt that he is completely sane, sound and sensible.

No Peace—Secretary of State Henry Kissinger has now received the Nobel Prize for his part in ending the Vietnam War. And President Nixon, besieged by Watergate, never misses a chance to remind his fellow Americans that he achieved "peace with honor."

But the secret intelligence reports show clearly that peace hasn't come to Vietnam at all. The new spotlight has shifted to the Middle East, but the fighting goes on in the Vietnam countryside. The reports out of Hanoi warn that the North Vietnamese leaders haven't given up any of their goals. Their objective is still a Communist takeover of all Vietnam. And secret U.S. estimates warn they are likely to accomplish this, probably before the end of the decade.

Yet American soldiers fought in the South Vietnamese jungles for more than eight years to prevent a Communist takeover. The United States exploded a staggering 15 million tons of munitions and sprayed over 100 million tons of herbicides upon this small country.

The cost to the U.S.: nearly 54,000 Americans killed, 300,000 wounded, 8,000 aircraft lost and hundreds of billions of training we must have and the degree of proficiency which we must achieve before we can practice.

Not only this, but the government prescribes the number of hours which we may work, and under what conditions of health, comfort and safety; provides the streets and highways over which we drive our automobile to work or for pleasure; provides parks, playgrounds and other recreational facilities for our holidays; marries us, divorces us, and compels us to pay alimony; gives you a valid title to your property, and adjusts your civil disputes with your neighbors fines, imprisons, or hangs you for breaking the law; and licenses the undertaker who buries you when you close your eyes in death.

Thus, both literally and figuratively, the government impings upon our life from the cradle to the grave. If, after we are made to realize these things, we remain indifferent to the policies and practices of government, we are something less than normal. We've all got to get involved in our political situation.

I had an interesting conversation with Len Chew, Jr., a former resident of Lubbock, who has worked in many aspects in this community. Chew, who is an associate professor at Grambling College, was here participating the Dunbar Homecoming activities last week.

As usual, Chew and I really get down to the situation at hand when discussing some of the problems which engulf us as black people in Lubbock and the world. Education, from Chew's observations, is the basic problem in our community as well as other places. "Black people are going to have to get up and start thinking about what is going on around them and start doing something about it," said Chew.

Every third Sunday, the Booker T. Washington American Legion, Post 808, and the Ladies Auxiliary motor to Big Springs, Texas to entertain the veterans. This is one of the many programs which this organization accomplishes each year with the hard working men and women of this organization.

They stand tall together. Not only this, but this fine organization is concerned about their community. It is good to mention the good of any organization in our community, and I am always happy to let the public know what brothers and sisters are doing for each other. The Booker T. Washington American Legion, Post 808, is one of the organizations who would like to contribute something.

As I See It, there has been bad criticism about our community. Let's give this organization some constructive comments for what they are trying to do.

of dollars down the drain. The exact figure is hard to calculate when wasted human resources and veterans benefits are counted. Some scholars have figured the cost of the Vietnam War to the American taxpayers at over $650 billion. This would come to more than $12,000 for each American family.

Yet all these lives and all these billions were lost to prevent a Communist takeover that our top strategists now predict will occur anyway in a few years.

The Economy—While war and Watergate may dominate the headlines, White House policy-makers are equally concerned about the economy. They are torn by conflicting economic advice. Some experts warn that the menace is inflation. Others see signs on the economic horizon of a severe recession.

This much seems certain: Heating fuels will be rationed, and gasoline prices are going up probably to $1 a gallon. The government will call upon all Americans to turn down their house thermometers, replace their pilot lights with automatic ignition devices and add insulation to their homes. They should be prepared for chillier homes, electricity interruptions and less pleasure driving.

At the supermarket, bakery and dairy prices are expected to continue going up. The U.S. wheat reserves will be depleted next spring unless export controls are adopted. And the high cost of feed grains has caused farmers to cut down on their dairy herds.

Turkeys should also cost double on Thanksgiving what they did a year ago. But beef prices should hold steady or, perhaps, even drop slightly. Plenty of beef now appears to be available through 1975.

For the average American, however, his purchasing power will decline in the months ahead.

Two Masters—The Constitution declares that a Congressman cannot serve two masters. Yet at last count 108 members of Congress held commissions in the military reserves.

This formidable band of weekend warriors provides valuable, if not valiant, service for the Pentagon. Seven Senators and 10 Congressmen on the Armed Service Committees, for example, are reservists. Ten more reservists serve on the House committee which directly oversees the Pentagon budget.

Fifteen legislators draw military pensions in addition to their Congressional salaries. Nevada's Sen. Howard Cannon, for example, collects an extra $8,600 as a retired major general in the Air Force reserves. House Speaker Carl Albert, a retired Army reserve colonel, takes home over $66,000 in combined salary and pension.

Senator Barry Goldwater, a retired Air Force reserve general, has said privately he really didn't think it was right for reservists to serve in Congress. He was then asked why he didn't refuse his retirement check. Goldwater replied that such a request: "Would never get through the (Pentagon) computer."

Back in the days when Congress took the Constitution seriously, a Senator from Kansas was ejected from office for accepting a reserve commission in the Union Army. If today's lawmakers were equally strict, a full fifth of Congress would be looking for new jobs.

Police Beat

Assault With Intent

Odie told police that the man said, "You must thing you are smarter, don't you". This is when everything broke loose and caused Odie to be struck with the steel pipe.

Grant Approved For Head Start

Governor Dolph Briscoe announced approval Friday of a $244,507 Office of Child Development grant to the Panhandle and South Plains District Venture, Inc., in Amarillo for part day Head

Start. Funded under Title II of the Economic Opportunity Act, the 12-month grant is effective through Aug. 31, 1974. Governor Briscoe said that the grant will enable the agency to serve 180 children from migrant farmworker families in three centers in Hereford, Plainview and

Lubbock. Classes, which began Sept. 17, 1973 and end May 24, 1974, will operate five and one-half hours per day, five days a week. Objectives of the program include providing an environment for the growth of the child in the areas of physical, language, motor and social development; serving nutritional and appetizing meals; educating the parents through home visits and group meetings; and providing the children with medical and dental examinations with follow-up services. Daily center activities of the children stress exposure to basic, conversational English.

Tech Readies for SMU Saturday Afternoon

Not only is it homecoming at the big Red Spread, Southern Methodist rolls into Jones stadium to provide Texas Tech with its third Southwest Conference game of the season and biggest test since Texas knocked Raider hopes into a cocked hat.

The Mustangs, beaten only by nationally ranked Missouri, brings a clean conference slate to town. They also bring a football team with the talent and capability of beating Texas.

The Raiders, bruised, battered and beaten up by four successive physical games, take a 5-1 record into the clash. The visiting Mustangs are only a step behind at 4-1 but they have a 1-0 conference ledger.

Thus, Tech will be facing its third league test against the third team to be undefeated in conference play when the Raiders take the field. SMU beat Rice last week, coming from behind in the fourth quarter, much as Tech did against Arizona.

But comparing Arizona and Rice is like comparing cotton and snowballs. The Mustangs have the famed M&M boys, Alvin Maxson and Wayne Morris, at halfbacks, to go with Rick Wesson, a super-slick quarterback. In addition the Mustangs have a physically big front line, both on offense and on defense, headed by All-American candidate Louis Kelcher.

New coach Dave Smith brings the wishbone attack here, the fifth time the Raiders have looked at the formation. They may be familiar with it, but the Mustangs have turned it into one of the most awesome yard-gaining formations in the nation.

Kickoff is at 2 p.m. and there probably will be no empty seats, with 50,000 or more on hand.

Mr. Charles Bibbes arrived here Friday from Decatur, Texas for a visit with his aunt, Mrs. Delia Tennison who is ill. His wife, Ester, has been here with her for two weeks. They returned home Saturday.

The Rev. and Mrs. H.L. Higgins, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Holliman and daughter, all of San Angelo, spent the weekend here with his son and family, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lee Higgins. They visited Rev. Higgins sister, Mrs. Delia Tennison, and family.

Mrs. Mary Bruno, a former resident of Lubbock, is visiting her sister and friends here.

Mr. Leo Sedberry motored to Big Spring last Sunday afternoon to visit Mr. Jim Thompson who is a patient at the Veterans Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Austin Garrett and daughters, Bravada and Elissa, of Floydada, Texas, were here on business last Saturday. They said hello to several of their friends while here as they are former residents of the Hub City. Both Mr. and Mrs. Garrett, are former employees of the Lubbock Public School System. A neighbor's daughter was with them assisting Bravada in her sale of products. She is working to get a free trip to Dallas from Floydada High school.

Sports of The Times

by Joe Kelly

It was a good world series, maybe not great, maybe not one of flawless fielding gems, maybe not one of overwhelming power ball hitting, but a good series.

In the end, the team that really should have won did win. Oakland had depth in quality pitching. It had better hitting power. It had better fielding. The New York Mets got to the classic primarily because they apparently wanted to get there more than the other clubs.

I'm still impressed with John Matlack, the southpaw rookie, more or less. The Met lefty has a smooth, deceptive delivery, and he throws hard. He was, I thought, more impressive than Tom Seaver.

But you can't ignore Catfish Hunter. When the chips were down, he came through, as did Darrell Knowles and Rollie Fingers.

In the end, though, Oakland power and Bert Campaneris proved to be the difference. That Campy is something else.

I see where Dick Williams is touted as the next manager of the Yankees, a team that usually stays within its own ranks. If so, they have great potential in Elston Howard, who could become the first black manager. Want to bet that he's overlooked?

As this is being written, the national rankings have not been made public for this week and I hope that Texas Tech, as much as it may deserve it, doesn't get in the top 20.

Getting in the top 20 has been the kiss of death for the Raiders. They promptly go out and lose, thereby destroying much of the good gained by national ranking. If they could go through the next five games without a loss, they'd get national rating, and winning the next five games is the most important thing.

Speaking of Dick Williams, as I was, the thought occurred to me during the series that, with all the exposure on camera that he got, I'd just as soon sit and look at a walrus.

Jim Carlen at his Monday press conference: on Arizona. "It was the best offensive game of the season for us. Lawrence Williams had another big day...Andre Tillman did an outstanding job of blocking again...Joe Barnes had a good game. So did our tailbacks, Larry Isaacs, and Myers ran well, too. James Mosely had an outstanding game.

"The defense played well. I think you have to give a lot of credit to the Arizona offense. The secondary tackled well. Brian Bernwanger had a super game. Once again the defense came up with the big plays.

"As for injuries, we are beat up, but okay."

On SMU—"As good as anyone we've played. Their offensive line is their biggest improvement. Bobo (veteran quarterback) is hurt and probably won't suit out, but Wesson (backup) is super quick. They have a pair of outstanding halfbacks in Morris and Maxson.

"Their kicking game is solid. SMU's punter is leading the conference. Their linebackers are good, while their interior line is the best we have seen yet. Their secondary has been moved around a lot."

A word about the Arizona game. Until the fourth quarter, when Tech shut down the Wildcats, it sounded as though the defense was only half ready to play. But gosh, it deserved a letdown.

On the otherhand, the offense cranked up and did the best job of the year. Tech started moving with authority and, except for the first two possessions in the third quarter, moved steadily. But once again it was the "big play" defense that made the difference.

You can hardly go wrong with four fumble recoveries, a blocked punt, and an intercepted pass.

Note to Humble (Exxon) Broadcasting Dept.—Ugh! I've known Jim Wiggins for a number of years. He's a fine person, a good Christian gentleman. He doesn't drink, nor is he addicted to dope.

But Jim's woeful description of the Arizona game indicates green pastures are waiting. I tried to follow the action on paper, soon had to give up. I could overcome Grimes at quarterback, but when it was first and 10, Tech, at the Arizona 28; then a six yard gain, then third and three at the 19, I became a little confused.

Death has again robbed me of one of my dearest friends, Tonto Coleman. I could write an entire column about him and probably should. God has put some great men on this earth and Tonto was one of those who stood tallest.

To meet Tonto was to become his friend. When I first met him, he was toiling in the ACC vinyard, not the most fertile soil. But you can't keep greatness down and he went on to greatness in his own right. Tonto hadn't been retired long enough to enjoy leisure.

On second thought, Tonto wasn't the type to enjoy leisure in the first place. Oh, boy, how he will be missed.

Texas Tech University Freshmen End Season With Win Over Baylor Cubs

The fourth freshman team fielded in the Jim Carlen era, completed the yearling season Thursday night on a 31-12 victory over Baylor and pointing the way to future varsity successes.

By completing their third undefeated season in four tries, the freshmen ran the string under Carlen's direction to 16-3-1. Only the 1971 Picadors faltered, posting a 1-3-1 mark.

The Baylor victory ran the Pic string to 11 straight and in the process, gave Jess Stiles an outstanding coaching record. It also saw seven frosh moved up to the varsity, with the strong possibility of others being added now that the season is over.

The Picadors struck fast Thursday night, building a 24-0 lead before the Cubs managed to score a couple of second half touchdowns, fourth quarter, to be exact. The freshmen wound up allowing only three touchdowns all season, plus one field goal.

Halfback Jimmy Williams, a strong prospect to become a varsity tailback before the SMU game, gained over 100 yards in a game for the fourth time this season, but failed to break, by 14 yards, Rufus Myers' rushing record. But Sylvester Brown caught a pair of passes to set a Tech frosh record of 16 receptions for 213 yards.

Quarterback Greg Frazier got the Pics off to a fast start when he raced 58 yards on a scramble on the fourth Red and Black play. Then, after halting a Baylor drive, the Picadors scored again on their second possession. This time Williams, who carried on nine of the 12 plays in the 80-yard drive, went over from the two.

On Tech's third possession, Deryl Kratzer kicked a 32-yard field goal capping what had been a 45-yard drive.

The fourth possession yielded nothing, but the fifth brought a 44-yard touchdown run by Don Roberts, the versatile Seminole quarterback. That capped a 75-yard drive in five plays.

Then, in the fourth quarter, after a pair of Cub scores, Fullback Tommy Shields drove one yard to end a 56-yard march on nine plays. That ended the scoring and the season for the future Raiders.

ringing the bell

with Bob Tieuel

The Black Experience: "The depletion of our natural resources and tragic Watergate struggles are God's way of asking us to put moral content into our lives. Our leaders must do more than sit in judgement on themselves. We know the needs of America are economic and political but our economy is weak in many points and our political structure is not as fruitful as it ought to be. Our needs in America are also moral and spiritual.

God wills to save us but if he cannot save us with plenty, he will visit us with famine, floods, and other privations that would bring us to our knees and show us that we cannot make it without him. If God cannot save America with her fine cars and jet planes, it may be that he will check the flow of gas and reduce abundance of fuel and freeze our automobiles in the streets, and ground our planes and push us back to the horse and buggy days. "The morality of the Federal Constitution is a morality of fellowship and trust. The morality of the Charter of the United Nations is also a morality of confidence and trust. If the nations of the world practice a morality of confidence and trust, spying will be greatly reduced and instead of suspicion, doubt, mistrust and intrigue, there will be goodwill.

"The hope for America does not lie in our military strength but in the moral relationship between people and the creation and preservation of the values of respect and appreciation for others. Goodwill, honesty and patriotism would lead Americans to the same resolute determination and avowed fellowship that inspired and dominated our founding fathers. "Black Baptists with dual membership in this convention and the American Baptist or the Southern Baptist want two sets of privileges without bearing two sets of corresponding responsibilities. We must become educated in the technique of self-help. And to do this there must be a new emphasis in the field of education. Instead of only training young people to get jobs that have been created by others, they should also be trained in the art of 'creating' jobs. The church must help people create units and movements and structure that can be used and used well in the cause of production.

During our 93 year history, we have a Baptist farm in Fayette County, Tennessee; a grant of 100,000 acres of land in Liberia; a ministerial retirement fund, scholarship funds and the dedication of the National Library and the National Baptist Building, and many other achievements." End of quote from Dr. Joseph H. Jackson, now serving his 20th year as president of the 6.5 million members of the National Baptist Convention, U.S.A. Inc.

Footnote: Since Dr. Jackson has headed this national group of Black Baptists at least two or more other national groups have been formed, yet Baptists, U.S. Inc. continue to grow in numbers and influence, our source reports. Like Roy Wilkins of the NAACP, young blacks have termed Jackson often as "an Uncle Tom" and Baptists, Inc. beat goes on and on.

Without calling names or becoming personal, this correspondent can report that after attending sessions of the state conference of NAACP branches in Lubbock, Texas recently, there is a growing "generation gap" in state, regional and national leadership. At the Lubbock meet, there were only a "sprinkling" of NAACP early leaders in attendance, with the great bulk of delegates being under 30.

There can be no doubt that the NAACP is the oldest and most respected civil rights organization in the world today. Even its most severe critics confess to this fact. And it is true too, that the mantle of leadership is gradually falling on younger shoulders. There are those who say that these youngsters will rely more on "doing our own thing" than has been the policy of the NAACP in former years when "black and white" worked so closely at many levels in civil rights. As to whether this new trend is good or bad, only time will tell. We can only say that with a few exceptions, we missed too many of "the old timers" at Lubbock NAACP meet and hope that those who remain with the organization will continue to remind the "kids" over the stony road we have trod, lest we forget, lest we forget." It was the general theme of the 37th meet of Texas branches.

Carleson has been quoted as saying: "We're saying now to the states that the family welfare program is not about to be federalized. The real solution lies at the state and local level. We are working to take off the federal straitjacket so that local officials can improve the system very similar to the way it is being done in California."

The California plan seeks to "purify" the welfare system by tightening eligibility procedures, cross-checking of recipients' incomes to detect fraud, tougher legal provisions to detect fraud, tougher legal provisions to enforce child support, and mandating work or training for recipients designated as able-bodied in an effort to remove them from the welfare rolls.

Officials claim that their reform plan has reversed an upward trend which was adding nearly 40,000 new recipients a month to the more than two million on the state's welfare rolls two years ago.

Now they say the monthly increases have stopped and the number receiving welfare checks has declined by 200,000.
