Bishop J.E. Alexander, pastor of the Ford Memorial Church of God in Christ, presided over the 18th annual Convocation of Northwest Texas for the Church of God in Christ last week at Bethel A.M.E. Church. Delegates from throughout the northwest Texas area were involved in the theme: "God's Power in Action."

Bishop Alexander warned the delegates: "We are living in a crucial time, people crying out for help all over the nation. Only Holiness is the hope of the world. It is the one and only plan that will unite the nations and break down the barriers of resistance. In Holiness, the Lord expects us to be different from the people of the world."

The purpose and objectives of the convocation were: "To assemble ourselves together in the beauty of holiness; to rededicate our lives to God to do a greater work; to make vivid the teachings, doctrine and precepts of our church in the hearts and lives of all who come under its influence; to point the lost to a saving knowledge of Jesus Christ; to encourage unity and spirituality in the local church, community and state; to create an atmosphere conducive to spiritual growth and interest; and to encourage holiness and godly living among all people."

State executives present at the meeting were Bishop Alexander, state Bishop; Supt. E.N. Givens, First Assistant; Supt. M.J. Alexander, Second Assistant; Supt. Cortez, Executive Chairman; Mrs. Myrtle Brooks, Supervisor of Women; Rev. J.B. Mason, Executive Secretary; Rev. W.C. Kenan, Public Relations; Rev. L.R. Giddings, Chaplain; Rev. Y.B. Northwest Texas Annual Conference of C.M.E. Church Meets at Carter Chapel

Death Penalty Approved in S.C.

Columbia, S.C. — (NBNS) — The death penalty has been reinstated in the state of South Carolina, although the attorney general has warned that it is probably unconstitutional and the governor vetoed the measure.

Attorney General Daniel McLeod has ruled that the best chance he gives the measure for surviving court tests is 50-50. Gov. John West vetoed the measure, but the Senate overrode it, 36-2 and the House did like wise, 83-21 after more than 3 hours of sometimes emotional debate.

U.S. Planning to Sue Mississippi

Washington — (NBNS) — The federal government is scheduled to file suit against the state of Mississippi within the next two months in a move to force it to desegregate its higher education system. The Department of Health, Education and Welfare has already found that the state system of colleges and universities are not in compliance with the Civil Rights Act.

Guardsmen Put On Alert For Protest in N.C.

Raleigh, N.C. — (NBNS) — Although there was little chance of violence, the state mobilized 1,000 National Guardsmen and 300 highway patrolmen for the day-long rally by the National Alliance Against Racist and Political Repression.

Gov. James Holshouser Jr. were "simply (to) make sure that we provide as much protection as possible for various groups of marchers." The rally is to protest the state's death penalty.

No Human Experiment

Washington — (NBNS) — The Senate has sent to the President legislation designed to protect humans who are used in medical experimentation and research. The measure creates a national commission to establish guidelines, state basic ethical principles and make recommendations for administrative action.

Proponents cited syphilis victims who were studied but never treated, use of experimental drugs on inmates without consent and psychosurgery without safeguards.

Mass. Minority Business Group Receives OMBE Contract to Spur Enterprise

Steps toward opening new business opportunities for minorities in Massachusetts were taken today by the Commerce Department's Office of Minority Business Enterprise (OMBE).

Springfield's Pioneer Valley Business Development Center, Inc. today received a $60,000 one-year contract from OMBE to assist in developing minority business opportunities, OMBE Director, Alex Armendaris announced.

"OMBE's mission is to open doors of business opportunity to minorities, and that mission cannot be fulfilled without the active involvement of local business development organizations," Armendaris announced. "It is a network of organizations such as Pioneer Valley that brings business assistance to the local minority community."

As part of its work, the Springfield organization will offer management and technical assistance to minority entrepreneurs, including business loan packaging, sales and marketing counseling, and other assistance aimed at strengthening minority enterprise.

In addition, the organization will mobilize local business leaders and resources to stimulate private sector activities in purchasing from minority firms, and in providing financing for minority ventures.

"Local organizations that are in touch with the local business environment are best equipped to assist minority citizens," Armendaris continued, "and OMBE is committed to supporting organizations having quality assistance capabilities."

OMBE, established in 1969 by Executive Order in the Commerce Department, coordinates the national effort directed at increasing minority business ownership.

Green Fair Manor Has Not Changed Since Last Year

"This apartment complex is getting worse, not better," are the words of a mother who has resided in Green-Fair Manor Apartments for six years. We feel as though the Lubbock Housing Authority Board should know that this apartment complex hasn't changed since last year when we (West Texas Times) made it known to the public of its shortcomings.

If we had to describe the Green-Fair Manor complex, we would say that it is "pitiful". Something should be done about the large, hot monster which serves as a place for our young, middleage and senior citizens to live.

We took a walk through Green-Fair Manor last Saturday afternoon, July 13, and found this complex in worse condition than it has been in the past. We know that we don't help the case by making it look worse than it is. We know that our eyes saw sights which should be corrected by the Lubbock Housing Authority Board.

Taking a quick and dirty analysis of the complex, we found that the mailbox system appears not to be secure. We counted nine mailboxes standing open. This, to us, is not the way it should be for residents receiving their mail. The washateria, located next to the office, should be kept in a cleaner manner. There should be some way in which the owner should be told that this public service facility should be kept cleaner. If nothing more, the windows of the establishment, which makes many quarters from the tenants, should be kept clean.

Apartments A&C of 2510 Weber Drive were in the same condition last year at this time. We were told by management that something would be done about this situation. After checking the area last Saturday, we found many more apartments which were in bad shape because of destruction and an apparent non-concern on the part of the management.

In one apartment complex, we found eighteen windows had been knocked out of the building. In some instances, pointed and jagged pieces of glass were extending out of the window which could easily fall on some child who is playing in the area. Pieces of glass are found throughout the complex. Little children are still running rampant throughout the area, dotting from behind large dumpsters.

Speaking of dumpsters, flies are multiplying in great numbers, making the area unsanitary in many respects. Those apartments vacant are filthy and should be cleaned as soon as possible. We also observed signs of rodents in the complex which are breeding from the conditions.

We at the Times were told by the management of Green Fair Manor that more personnel would be hired and stricter rules and regulations would be placed on the tenants. Evidently this is not true as it is looking worse than last July.

In two apartments, 2704 Weber Drive Apt. C and 2812 Apt. D, fires destroyed them and the debris is still in the area. It would appear as though these apartments would have been cleaned. It doesn't make sense for this type of destruction to go unnoticed and nothing done about it.

We at the West Texas Times are not concerned about complaining about the conditions at Green-Fair Manor or any complex. We are concerned about the conditions our young people have to live in. Surely, something could be done about these unsanitary conditions.

Without any doubt, Green Fair Manor hasn't changed since last summer. If anything, it is getting worse. We would advise the Lubbock Housing Authority Board to get busy and do something about it. We know it takes money to correct these situations, and with a lot of hard work we can get money and other necessary tools to build Green-Fair as it should be.

When was the last time you visited Green-Fair? If you haven't, you had better check it out.

As I See It

by T.J. Patterson

Last week was a week of conventions in the black community of Lubbock. There were several hundred delegates attending the 18th Annual Convocation of Northwest Texas for the Church of God in Christ and the Northwest Texas Annual Conference of the Christian Methodist Episcopal Church. Both Bishops, J.E. Alexander and C.D. Coleman, were quite pleased with the hospitality of Lubbock residents.

I had an opportunity to visit both conferences and found them to be bubbling over with joy. This is the way it should have been, especially when we meet in the House of the Lord. Each meeting was quite receptive to the West Texas Times. This is good as it makes us work hard each week to reach our many readers in West Texas and the entire state of Texas.

Many delegates, at both meetings, have asked how the West Texas Times can come to their area. Each was informed to contact our office and let us know if there were persons who would be willing to work with our effort in their community. We hope this type of information will be sent to our office, P.O. Box 225, Lubbock, Texas 79408.

I did, however, encourage all persons to consider becoming a subscriber of the West Texas Times. I hope this will become a reality in the near future for those persons who came from Odessa, Midland, Amarillo, Abilene, San Angelo, El Paso, Wichita Falls, and other areas in Northwest Texas.

It was a pleasure to visit the officers of both conferences and do what I could to report what each conference was doing. I hope I can be of future assistance to both of the meetings, Convocation of Northwest Texas for the Church of God in Christ and the Northwest Texas Annual Conference of the Christian Methodist Episcopal Church.

Good luck Bishop Alexander and Bishop Coleman. Just call on the West Texas Times when we can be of any assistance....God be with you.

I hope that the East Lubbock Business Association (ELBA) will be given an opportunity to participate with some Economic Development Administration funds in the near future. Evidently, Howard Maddera of Southwest Economic Opportunities has their thing together as they were endorsed by the South Plains Association of Governments last week.

As many of you may recall, ELBA made the same type of presentation to SPAG in May, but did not receive the same type of endorsement. It could be that ELBA's presentation helped to open the doors for the Southwest Economic Opportunities. Since the ELBA presentation, Mr. Maddera has been in contact with ELBA. This is good and maybe something will develop from this relationship.

Anyway, there is a lot of work ahead and there's no need to stop now. There are too many opportunities in this part of the country. Organizations like ELBA and SEO could very well contribute something to the welfare of many people and, at the same time, upgrade the socio-economic aspect of the West Texas community. I hope it turns out like that.

Like many of you, I have some growing young people in my family. If you sit down long enough, as a parent, and not say anything, those young people can teach you a lot. I enjoy sitting and listening to Avis, Tommie and Shelia talk about life. It is especially interesting when their cousins, Gary and Latanya are adding their points.

I'm sure you've experienced some of the same things that I have as a parent. No matter what they are talking about, you still are excited each time they make sense with their conversation. If you haven't had time lately to listen to your young people, then take time, you might be really surprised on what they are talking about.

I've said it many times, public and private, Quirt Avenue and East Broadway would be a beautiful intersection for developing some businesses in East Lubbock. The traffic is there, it'll only take some direction to put the package together.

If you don't believe me, then check it out!

JACK ANDERSON'S WEEKLY SPECIAL

AIRLINE ALERT

by Jack Anderson

(From United Feature Syndicate Inc.)

Washington—Airport security measures have effectively reduced airliner hijacking and bombings in the United States. Not a single passenger, screened by metal detectors, has committed a hijacking since January 1973. But secret intelligence reports warn that extremist groups are planning new terrorist attacks upon U.S. airliners.

The Federal Aviation Administration has alerted air security authorities to be on their guard. The confidential directive warns: "The threat is still present. In the past five years, nearly 350 persons have been killed as a result of explosions which have taken place aboard aircraft worldwide....complacency is a dangerous condition."

Classified Justice Department documents also warn that as fast as air security men come up with antihijack and antibomb measures, the terrorists devise some new technique.

The documents tell of intercepting passengers with ingenious shotgun-shell devices for detonating bombs. Other makeshift bombs were fashioned to look like artists' canvases. The only solid elements were a small battery, a bit of wire and a tiny blasting cap.

To keep ahead of the terrorists, the government is also developing new scientific detection devices, including sensitive detectors that will be able to smell out vapors from explosive charges.

Kid Criminals: The Nixon Administration, despite all its talk about law and order, has done nothing to curb the nation's most vicious criminals.

The most serious crimes are committed, not by Mafia dons or killers-for-hire, but by juveniles. Close to 50 per cent of all serious crimes in the United States are committed by people under 21.

Yet there is no federal program to curb youthful crimes—just an ineffective patchwork of local programs. Some states spend more money per person punishing juvenile delinquents than they do educating ordinary students.

Teenagers not only commit most of the serious crimes, like murder, robbery and drug smuggling, but many young vandals destroy property maliciously, costing cities millions of dollars. And the rate of repeat offenders among the young is much higher than any other group.

Congress belatedly is getting around to doing something about the problem. The House of Representatives has finally moved on juvenile legislation. It passed a bill aimed at preventing juvenile crime.

The effort may be lost on a technicality. The Senate wants the program directed by the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration. The House wants it run by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

Meanwhile, the juvenile crime rate is soaring.

Missile Misgivings: Some months ago, the Pentagon announced a new strategy. The old doctrine called for a massive broadside of missiles against Soviet targets. The new "targeting doctrine" emphasizes flexibility. In other words, the military response will depend upon the circumstances.

Inside the policy councils, however, the new policy has caused misgivings that it could encourage limited nuclear wars.

The Pentagon has leaked stories to the press that everyone is happy with the nuclear plans. The President likes it, according to these stories, because it gives him more options. The NATO allies like it, say the Pentagon leakers, because it broadens the nuclear guarantee to Europe.

We have seen intelligence reports, however, which are sharply critical of the new Pentagon plans. Some high-level officials have argued, for example, that making nuclear weapons more "flexible" also increases the likelihood they will be used. Thus the new targeting doctrine, they argue, could lead to limited nuclear conflicts.

Some NATO leaders, it is true, feel the new flexibility strengthens the nuclear guarantee. But we have seen one confidential NATO report which refers to the new nuclear strategy as "a dangerous development."

The change in nuclear doctrine, says the confidential report, "appears to typify a theoretic approach to nuclear weapons which is out of touch with political reality. It implies the possibility of waging limited nuclear war and...is a repressive step."

System Lingers On: Most members of Congress are honorable men. But they have been victimized by a system that they refuse to reform.

Not even the Watergate outrages have been able to blast reforms out of Congress. There is no real desire in Congress to change the political abuses. For the members fear that any changes could undermine their own power base.

After all, the men who control Congress came to power by mastering the system as it exists. They are reluctant to change a system that has served them well. They will give lip service to reforms, but they won't vote for any real reforms if they can get away with it.

On both sides of the Capitol, the majority are more interested in embracing the form rather than the substance of Watergate reforms. Legislation that might prevent future Watergates from happening, therefore, is getting absolutely nowhere on Capitol Hill.

It will take greater public pressure clearly to get essential reforms. We have set up a special watch, therefore, on this key legislation. In the future, we will identify the obstructionists who are blocking reforms.

This may be helpful to the voters in November. For there's nothing wrong with the system that a good election couldn't cure.

Job Openings: The Watergate paralysis is slowly crippling the government. Many key administration officials have been deserting what they believe to be the sinking ship of state. And President Nixon is having trouble finding replacements who are willing to come aboard.

As one random example, Veterans Administrator Don Johnson resigned under fire several months ago. Yet he is still at his desk and no successor has yet been found.

The ship of state, meanwhile, is rudderless. The nation's economic policy, for example, is floundering. President Nixon has cut taxes twice since he came to office. He has repeatedly declared his opposition to a tax increase, the last time only a few days ago. Yet his chief economic adviser, Dr. Herbert Stein, has complained that a tax increase is needed to halt inflation and has blamed the American public—believe it or not—for not allowing taxes to rise.

Even in foreign affairs, insiders blame the Watergate paralysis for President Nixon's failure to reach an agreement with Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev on arms limitation. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger came down from the Moscow summit complaining bitterly that "both sides have to convince their military establishment of the benefits of restraint."

Until the impeachment issue is settled, apparently, the government will get no real direction from the President.

Police Beat

Aggravated Assault

A Lubbock wife reported to Lubbock police that she had some problems with her husband one evening last week. She told police that her lover hit her in the head with a pistol at a local motel.

She went on to add: "I went to the motel where he works as a porter and night clerk and caught him with another woman in his room."

She said he took a pistol and hit her on the head causing the cut which took several stitches.

The unhappy wife told police that she would file charges this week.

Aggravated Assault

In another aggravated assault case, Eural Taylor, 2808 Weber Drive, reported to Lubbock police that he was walking east in the 3600 block of Aspen Avenue when he heard something which sounded like fire crackers going off.

He told police that it was about 2 a.m. when he heard all this noise. He went on to add that he fell to the ground, but did not know that he was shot in the leg.

He said he did not see anyone around the area and he did not know the direction from which the shots came. Eural was apparently shot with a .32 or .38 caliber pistol. He was taken to Methodist Hospital by a private vehicle.

House Burglary

Louis Gil, 2605 East 19th Street, reported to Lubbock police that persons unknown took advantage of his property one day last week. Persons unknown knocked the ply board in front of a window and unlocked the door to gain entry to his residence.

Once inside, persons took a $400 color television set, $85 Winchester 30-30; and approximately $300 worth of meat.

All were visitors and attendants of the annual conference held at the Carter Chapel C.M.E. Church last week, Rev. V.L. Brown, pastor.

Rev. and Mrs. R.C.D. Tieucl of Hobbs, New Mexico, also joined the Struggs' guest over the weekend. They motored on to Dallas for a few days prior to the opening of the public schools which Mrs. Tieucl is a faculty member and sister of Mrs. Struggs.

Mrs. Eula Thompson, her son, Wortham Thompson; her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Jones, and a granddaughter, Joyce, all of California, spent two

It appeared as through some young people in the neighborhood were responsible for the break-in.

Aggravated Assault

Roland Horton, 3320 East 15th Place, reported to Lubbock police that she had an altercation with a girl friend which resulted in the girl friend taking advantage of her.

She told police that the girl friend threw a brick and struck her on the right side of her face. The brick caused hospitalization which took several stitches.

Sometimes it's hard to determine who your friends are.

Assault

A Lubbock man reported to Lubbock police that he was assaulted by a 52 year old uncle one day last week because he told the uncle he was wrong for taking advantage of one of his sisters.

He apparently made the uncle mad and the uncle hit him in the mouth.

New Kind of Flour Appearing on Shelves

Lubbockites have been taste testing a new bread made with a new kind of flour this week and soon will have the opportunity to enjoy more than a taste as the new product appears on their grocer's shelves.

The bread is called tritibread and it is made using triticale flour. The flour is made from triticale, a hybrid grain produced from rye and wheat cross. The recipe for the bread was developed by Maxine Billinger, a graduate student in the Department of Food and Nutrition in the Texas Tech University College of Home Economics, who has been conducting research with triticale while working toward a master's degree.

Ms. Billinger's recipe used a mixture of tritiflour, cottonseed flour and wheat flour to produce a loaf of bread with good volume, texture, grain, color and high nutritional value.

"Triticale has a higher protein content than either wheat or rye," said Ms. Billinger. "It is combined with other flours because its baking characteristics are not like common wheat flours. By blending triticale with wheat flour, we can produce baked goods which look and feel like what we expect and

The students from Texas Tech's Department of Food and Nutrition are conducting a taste-test survey in Lubbock supermarkets to determine public reaction to the bread made from triticale flour. Triticale is a hybrid grain produced from crossing wheat and rye. It has more protein than either parent grain. provide more nutritional value than white bread. To make this recipe extra nutritious, cottonseed flour was used to increase protein content."

Participants in the taste-test are given pieces of tritibread and asked their opinions of it and under what conditions they might buy the bread.

A commercial baking company has modified Ms. Billinger's recipe and will begin marketing tritibread during July. The commercial recipe omits cottonseed flour from the recipe, but still produces a high quality nutritional bread, she said.

A preliminary survey was conducted July 6. Full scale testing began July 10 in East Lubbock and a final tasting session was conducted July 13 in the supermarket in Redbud Square. Results of the taste test will be used by Ms. Billinger in her master's thesis.

Panthers Say SLA Taking Names of Black Leaders in Vain in Their Use

Oakland, Calif. — (NBNS) — The Black Panther Party through its house newspaper criticized the naming of the Symbionese Liberation Army combat unit after the late Malcolm X.

The editorial said: "What gives these three children of white, bourgeois America (Patricia Hearst and two other SLA fugitives) the right to place the name of their police agent 'leader', Donald D. DeFreeze, alongside the hallowed names of Martin Luther King, Black Panther Party faller comrades Field Marshal Hutton, Fred Hampton and Jonathan Jackson?"

The newspaper was responding to tapes sent to the Los Angeles radio station KPEK from Patricia Hearst and William and Emily Harris.

The Panther leaders said the call to action by the SLA would, "lure black and other minority youth down the same road—the road to their extinction."

In the words of the Panthers the taped SLA message is "an impassioned call for reckless, defeatist, last-ditch-stand terrorism and insurrection 'off the pig' rhetoric completely devoid of any consciousness raising program, method or process."

DeFreeze and five other SLA members died in a shootout with police in Los Angeles last month. Before his death, Black Panthers had accused DeFreeze of once being a police informer for the Los Angeles force.

Eastern Little League Advances In Tournament

With only one out in the third and behind 2-0, Eastern Little League players hit three consecutive homeruns to defeat Northwest Little League at Midwest Little League Park, 4-3 Tuesday evening.

Homeruns were hit by Stacy Burrell, Leonard J. Chatman, and Leroy Adams.

This championship victory came on the heels of a tough game between Easter and Northeast Monday evening. Eastern took that game 4-3 with the help of Burrell who hit the game winning single in the bottom of the sixth.

Eastern will play Monday, July 22, at Midwest Little League Park, 28th and Frankfort Avenue.

Bobby Brandon is the manager and Charles Sedberry is assistant manager of the team.

Black Press: Catalyst For Change

Pittsburgh — (NBNS) — The mythology of glorifying a slim majority of blacks that have made it into the middle class sharply undercuts the black experience, the President of the 134 member National Newspaper Publishers Association charged here.

Dr. Carlton Goodlett, publisher of the San Francisco black newspaper, was especially critical of the recent magazine article in TIME magazine which "glorified" their theme, "Middle Class Blacks—Making It In America." He was just as critical of the article last year by two political analysts on the same subject.

"(That) mythology (is) used to alienate and isolate the black middle class from the true nature and horror of the black experience as revealed by TIME's description of 'the underclass, the enduring dilemma,' where it is stated that one-third of black teenagers are jobless—more than double the rate of white teenagers; and one-third of Black American families seem permanently, without hopes of escalation, below the poverty line," Goodlett told the publishers and editors meeting here in the 34th annual convention of the Black Press.

Goodlett warned the editors not to "be lulled by efforts to separate those blacks who have made it in White America from those who face bleak, hopeless, bottomless pits of despair and will never make it."

"A cybernated world such as America now no longer hates the black man, but the black man is no longer necessary; John Henry's heirs finally have succumbed to the

Bicentennial Medallions May Now be Purchased at Security National Bank

The Bicentennial Association of Texas has announced that the official bronze and fine silver medallions struck in commemoration of the American Revolution are now available for purchase in more than 200 banks across the state.

Mrs. Bill Hobby, president of the Association, said that royalty revenue from medallion purchases will be a major source of financial support for official American Bicentennial activities authorized by the Legislature.

In Lubbock, medallions can be purchased at the Security National Bank.

"We greatly appreciate the help of so many members of the Texas Bankers Association in marketing the medallions as a public service,"

Mrs. Hobby said.

The American Bicentennial in Texas medallion commemorates the founding of the United States and pays tribute to the peoples of Texas.

The official emblem of the American Revolution Bicentennial Commission of Texas is struck on the front of the medallion.

The converging arrows represent the ethnic groups that have come together 200 years and more to form the Lone Star state.

A two-headed figure of man on the reverse side dominates the design. One face looks to the past and the heritage of a bountiful land. Man's other face looks through a space helmet to a new age with bright promise of an even greater future.

Each 50 millimeter (1.97 inches) diameter medallion in both bronze and silver is serialized with a number stamped into the edge. The recipient may register his medallion's number along with his name in the Archives of the American Revolution Bicentennial in Texas.

Final Rites Set Saturday for Mr. Joe Snell, Sr.

Final rites will be held Saturday morning, July 20, at 11 a.m. for Mr. Joe Snell, Sr., a longtime resident of Lubbock.

Services will be held at New Hope Baptist Church with Rev. A.L. Dunn, pastor, officiating.

Mr. Snell succumbed early Tuesday morning.

Sports of The Times

by Joe Kelly

The strike goes on, or at least it does as of this scribbling, with neither side apparently willing to give in. When you come right down to it, it's a foolish situation.

The owners, if they were willing, could give some and the players, by the same token, also could yield. And yet both stand firm, convinced, apparently, that the other side will give in. At this rate, it may be 1975 before any progress is made.

But I'll predict one thing: the public will get fed up more with the players than it will the owners. For some crazy reason, the average working stiff, faced with inflation and more than his share of problems, can't get excited about players' "freedom."

In fact, the guy making up to $10,000 a year probably will have a slight sneer on his lips over someone making five times that complaining about his pay, benefits and freedoms—for a six month job.

Probably the most ridiculous demand is the freedom issue. Discipline is the basic ingredient in any organization, and if it means curfews, bedchecks and "do as I say, not as I do," to obtain it, so be it. That's part of the price for having a unit.

There were a lot of free swingers in Army uniforms who went through Taps, bed checks and "do as I say" without being hurt. And somehow, those men lived through it and came out better for it.

On the home front, get out and see the finals of the National Baseball Congress tournament at Lowrey Field this weekend. You will see some pretty good amateur baseball.

The winner and runnerup both will play in the state tournament slated here later, and that tourney should be even better. The top teams in the state will be here. It would be great if both the old and new Hubbers were in the final field.

The annual major league all star game is approaching and, as usual, both teams probably will have some players in the lineup, as voted by fans, who haven't earned the right to be there. And a number of those who should be in action will be golfing or fishing.

That really won't detract from the game. It's always interesting to see the top names in the game in action. Pitching usually dominates, although good hitters are going to have their say.

I always get a little stunned when, in July, I get the pocket Tech football schedule and, after looking at the dates, realize suddenly that the opening Raider game is only nine weeks away.

It doesn't matter that we haven't had rain and that it is hot; football season is only nine weeks away. It seems close and, to the coaches, who have a limited time to drill the squad, it probably is. I still go with the Raiders to win all the marbles this fall.

It hasn't always been a break, but it could be this season—getting both Texas and Arkansas in Lubbock. At least it is a moral advantage in having two of the toughest games at home.

In the past Tech has had a measure of success against both of them here, but then stubbed its toes against someone like TCU or Baylor. That is doubtful this year, but the A&M game in College Station is going to be critical. The Aggies ought to be loaded.

I got a "sneak" preview of the World Football League in action Wednesday night, as probably many others did. I was in Graham and the motel had cable TV. The Houston inaugural was carried.

Then, Thursday night, along with thousands of others, the official first nationwide telecast was carried.

Far be it from me to cast ice water on the noble efforts of those engaged in the action, but it did leave something to be desired.

I'd have to say that the action was a cut above the best college game, better than the first games of the old American Football League and a far cry from the polished performances of most NFL elevens. It wasn't bad football; it just wasn't real good.

At the same time, give credit where it is due. The WFL teams had no exhibition schedule. They were playing "cold turkey" and many of the errors they made will be eliminated as time goes on.

Still, it isn't what the TV viewer has come to expect. Defense generally dominated and the offenses didn't look sharp. If the NFL players strike isn't settled and that league plays with its mixture of pros and rookies, it will be a tossup between the leagues.

In fact, the WFL probably would have the edge in such a situation. Anyway, it leaves the armchair fan with little, really, to choose. And it could be the biggest boost the WFL could get.

I stopped in Coleman for gas the other day and asked about the fishing in the area. Pretty poor was the response. They blamed hot weather, wind and sand on the situation.

Over in the Graham area things didn't seem to be much better. It's been dry and hot there, too, and the fish are apparently in hibernation. In fact, no one seemed to be raving in either place about the fishing this year, although there were plenty of fishermen.

I've been nostalgic the past few weeks for Saranac Lake, N.Y., and my son-in-law didn't help much when we talked with him. He brought the subject up and said that he was ready to go next year.

Well, sir, next year is 365 days away and that is no help now. In fact, no vacation this year doesn't look like the most appetizing dish you could serve up. I keep thinking about all those trout, and bass and pike just waiting for my cast.

Now, admittedly, I didn't exactly put other fishermen out of business last year. I caught my share of trout, but it was the Little Woman who caught the pike, while I was skunked. She reminded me of that the other day, too. Talk about dirty pool!

Anyway, without my being there this summer, all those fish will grow that much more and a year from now, look out! In the meantime, I'm trying to find time to get even to White River.

Heard a good joke at our conference in Salado. Seems that the woman libbers objected to the low number of women senators.

Their protest was taken up by an independent businessman, who agreed. He said he thought that half the male senators should be forced to quit and their places taken by women.

That would make the Senate half man, half woman, a fair ration, he declared.

"Then they could get together and do to each other what Senators have been doing to us for years!" he opined.

pile-driving machine. The black masses are now threatened with the most grievous form of ignominy—the most cutting and deadly form of racism—the racism of “nobody-ness,” Goodlett continued.

In Goodlett's opinion, the two basic enemies which “threaten the survival” of America's blacks are racism and the effect of alcohol, drugs and narcotics on the black experience.

“It is we, the victims of racism, who cannot forget that racism is the main enemy of our hopes and aspirations, and we must never let America, Black or White, forget; we must continue to clamor for the radical surgery needed to rid this nation of racism,” the physician editor declared.

“If the symptoms of a racist society are ignored, then we are in peril. Our young black militant brothers are demanding performance and deeds.”

Emphasizing that a crusade to save youth must be launched immediately, Goodlett revealed that this organization, along with the National Bar Association and the National Business League have underwritten preliminary studies for the development of a three to five year in-depth study of the role of alcohol, hard drugs and narcotics upon the black experience.

“The Black Press must expose the misery, the deprivation and the crimes against the American creed which now attempts to dull our senses with TIME's efforts to alienate the economically successful blacks from the teeming masses who wander in a wilderness without hope because they are leaderless and voiceless,” he concluded.

Wrong Ride

“The Benefit For Lubbock”

Min. Roosevelt X

Looking at the situation of the Black People in Lubbock, how would you say they fare in relation to the rest of the Black in the country?

Lubbock is no different from the rest of the nations, and our people need to know the truth, the true knowledge of themselves, the knowledge of God, and the knowledge of the devil. Without this knowledge they will forever be the flunky and the footstool of the white or other people of the planet earth.

Islam as taught to us by our Leader and Teacher, the Most Honorable Elijah Muhammad, means entire submission to the Will of Allah (God). It is the very nature of the Black man to desire luxury for everything...every luxury in the universe is from our Black Father. The God here today does not want to see you sit around poor, and suffering for the necessities of life. He offers you luxury...Money, Good Homes and Friendship in all walks of life. These are the first three (3) Blessings that He offers to us.

As Messenger Muhammad teaches us that the white man does not own the earth. He cannot give you what he does not own himself. The earth belongs to us. Look to Self First for the luxury that is in the earth.

This question was asked to me concerning the economy program of the Nation of Islam and how it will benefit our people (the so-called Negro) in this area.

“Being an economy people is something like a foreign language to us, the Black People. We have always been extravagant. Regardless to little or much we are extravagant in it.”

These are direct words from our Leader and Teacher, the Most Honorable Elijah Muhammad. We must remember that if we are going to be a good economy people. We must not be wasteful in that which we have acquired by hard labor and high prices. Everything that came to us from the white man, it came to us the hard way. Although we suffer to get it, the white man envies us and he regrets to see us do something for self. Do not think that they like to see us do something for self; they hate it.

People who were yelling for warm weather a few months ago are etting what they thought they wanted.

New Application Forms Now Available For Purchasing VA Headstones

Persons applying for headstones or memorial markers for deceased veterans can get faster service by making sure they use a new application form that recently became available at Veterans Administration hospitals and regional offices, VA announced recently.

Formerly administered by the Department of the Army, the memorial program was transferred to the VA with the establishment of the National Cemetery System last fall.

The new monument application form (VA 40-1330) replaces a similar Department of Defense form which will continue to be accepted until supplies are exhausted. Persons using the old form are cautioned to forward the application to the following VA address instead of that provided on the form:

Director, National Cemetery System (42), Veterans Administration Central Office, 810 Vermont Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20420.

Applications for headstones and grave markers are expected to total more than 200,000 by the end of fiscal year 1974, a VA spokesman said.

A headstone or gravemarker is available for any deceased veteran who received any other than dishonorable discharge. The benefit is not available to members of the veteran's family buried in private cemeteries.

Memorial markers may be obtained to commemorate any member of the armed forces who died in service, and whose remains are not recovered and identified, or who was buried at sea. These memorials may be erected in private cemeteries in plots provided by applicants, or in memorial sections of national cemeteries.

There's little use to try to conceal our age. Your old friends know it and your new ones don't care a hoot about it.

Los Angeles, California—California's next governor will be either Edmund G. Brown, Jr., 36 year old son of the state's last Democratic governor, or Houston I. Flournoy, 44, who won a landslide victory over Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke, who was the frontrunner before being indicted April 3 by the Watergate grand jury. Brown, who presently serves as Secretary of State of California, carried Los Angeles county and city as well as the rest of California for their parties gubernatorial nomination and with the blessings of Mayor Tom Bradley of Los Angeles.

Republican John Harmer, one of California's most conservative Senate members and Democrat Mervyn Dymally, the senate's only black member, won their parties nomination for lieutenant governor. If Dymally is elected to succeed Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke in November, he will become only the second black in history to hold statewide office in California. The first, state school superintendent Wilson Riles, won re-election. Elected to the upper house from Los Angeles in 1966, Senator Dymally, 48, made a name for himself hammering out legislation for reapportionment plans and pushing women's rights plans.

California voters also overwhelmingly passed a campaign financing measure which backers say will spark a national push for post-Watergate honesty in politics. The measure sets strict limits on the amounts candidates and initiative supporters can spend and prohibits lobbyists from making any campaign contribution of more than $50. Lobbyists are also limited to $10 a month in what they can spend on any one state official. "The last stand for the boys in the backroom", one bellringer put it. Another, "it looks like we have spoken out with a voice that will be heard in Washington and throughout the nation."

Readers report that campaign reform measures were defeated recently in the legislatures of Oklahoma and New Mexico but that reform measures would be taken directly to voters, where passage would almost be assured.

Bellringer's California Notebook: California's population is continuing to rise—but so is the number of people who leave each year, statistics show. Exact reasons vary. But clearly many are finding that the land of sunshine, beaches, and fresh air now has its full share of unemployment, pollution, and soaring costs. California's population stands at 20.8. Los Angeles, San Francisco, Oakland, Long Beach, and Sacramento are losing people (majority Anglos) while suburban centers such as San Jose, Fresno, and Orange and San Diego counties are gaining, (mostly whites). More than seven million people live in Los Angeles alone (city) and the minority population of browns, blacks, and Orientals continue to splurge.

Joblessness at 7.6 per cent statewide and often twice this figure in black and Mexican-American ghetto areas and those where massive aerospace layoffs have occurred. The figure tops the 5.2 per cent national average. Urban decay, air, water, noise pollution, inadequate public transit, landslides, earthquakes, and brush fires have pushed a great proportion of the Anglo population out of the central cities of Los Angeles, San Francisco, and Oakland to suburban retreats but the blacks continue it seems to flock to the Inner Cities, reports show.

California Daily Press Quotes: "One thing stands out above all others: Tom Bradley is giving competent leadership to the city. The first 12 months with Tom Bradley have not been spectacular. They have been devoted largely to developing the leadership that Los Angeles requires. There is now an effective apparatus for governing." From the Los Angeles Daily Times. "A Ted Kennedy—Tom Bradley presidential ticket for 1976 has attained boomlet status two years ahead of the Democratic National Convention." From L.A. Herald Examiner.

J. Stanley Pottingers, assistant Attorney General for civil rights in the Justice Department told the L.A. press here recently that the department is stepping up its attack against racial discrimination at the university level. Charges of police brutality in L.A. will also be investigated, he said.

Bellringer informants in L.A. area tell us that public school teachers in schools where there is at least 25 per cent minority enrollment are required by California state law to pursue courses in Multi-Ethnic courses in seminar and workshops accredited by the state or institutions of higher learning offering such courses. They say its a good moedl for other states. We agree. Until later, Peace.

Coalition Urges Full Employment Policy

New York — (NBNS) — A new Committee of 100 has been formed by a coalition of labor, civil rights, church organizations and professional economists to agitate for a new national full employment policy.

One of those participating, Mrs. Coretta Scott King said: "If we could solve the unemployment problem, most of the social problems we have could be solved. In fact, most of the social problems stem from unemployment."

Medieval legend talks of a monster who had no head, the eyes and mouth being placed elsewhere.

Mrs. King was chosen to serve with Murray Finlay, president of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, as co-chairman of a steering committee charged with working out a strategy to promote public recognition of the need for a new full employment policy.

A number of leading economists participated in the working session which preceded the decision to establish the Committee of 100 to "educate and inform" the American people about the need for a full employment goal.

Leonard Woodcock, president of the United Automobile Workers, summarized their views at a press conference after the session:

"The economists told us that, yes, we can have full employment not only without inflation, but as a part of the fight against inflation."
