Commission Proposes Ban on Unvented Gas Space Heaters

The U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC) proposed a ban of unvented gas space heaters fueled by natural or liquid petroleum (LP) gas. These products present an unreasonable risk of injury to consumers who use them all across America, according to CPSC.

These heaters have been implicated in the carbon monoxide poisoning or asphyxiation deaths of at least 60 people since 1973 from carbon monoxide gas, a by-product of burning fuel.

Heaters that would fall under the proposal are unvented, self-contained, free-standing, or recessed gas appliances used to warm limited spaces. Included would be unvented circulators, radiant heaters with open fronts, and closed-front wall heaters.

Inexpensive, the unvented heaters are used by many elderly and low-income groups concentrated in the southern and southwestern United States where central heating systems are uneconomical because cold temperatures are not prevalent. Some 7-10 million of these products may be in use.

A medium-sized unvented gas space heater costs about $140 and generally is cheaper to operate than a vented heater.

The proposal would prohibit unvented gas heaters from being shipped into commerce by manufacturers 30 days after any final rule is issued.

While a ban would not prohibit individual use of the heaters, consumers who own them should be aware of the serious risks these devices may pose.

Because they do not have a vent to remove combustion wastes, the heaters in question depend on normal room ventilation to get rid of dangerous carbon monoxide gas. Inadequate ventilation or maladjusted burners, coupled with anormal reduction in room oxygen from burning fuel, can cause fatal levels of carbon monoxide gas to accumulate. Thus, poisoning or even death become a real possibility to an unsuspecting consumer.

Symptoms of carbon monoxide poisoning resemble those of the flu at first, with headache, dizziness, or nausea. Continued exposure to high levels can bring on collapse, unconsciousness, or death.

School Board Asks For Public Input

Recognizing that the desegregation of the Lubbock Public Schools is a community issue, the Board of Trustees actively encourages public input by individuals as well as interested groups. To better utilize the suggestions and concerns of the people, it is asked that they be sent in writing to Ed Irons, superintendent, 1628 19th Street, or to the neighborhood principal. As an additional measure to get input from throughout the community, many individuals and several organizations will be contacted soon by school personnel.

Trustees are charged with developing a plan for desegregation, and they will consider the suggestions and concerns of the people before any plan is finalized. Such a plan should not only comply with the desegregation order but also should be educationally sound. Where desegregation proceeds under the mandate of law, the best results require that changes be carefully adapted to local circumstances and supported by the total community.

With the help of the citizens of Lubbock, the Board of Trustees is confident that any changes ahead can be accomplished smoothly and an excellent quality of education can continue without interruption.

Many of those who died were asleep, which points up the dangerous nature of carbon monoxide. Since it is colorless, odorless, and tasteless, there are no warning symptoms for sleeping persons. CPSC warns anyone using an unvented gas space heater to keep the room well-ventilated, and at first sign of a headache, dizziness, or nausea to turn off the appliance and open a window or door to see if the symptoms subside.

Exempted from the proposed ban are: infra-red heaters, catalytic and noncatalytic camp heaters because they are not usually used in homes, and decorative gas appliances such as coal baskets, fireplace inserts, and gas logs because they are usually used in vented fireplaces.

Senior Citizens to Sponsor Black Heritage Supper

Civic leader George Woods and minister Larry Hambrick will be the keynote speakers Friday, Feb. 24, at a Black Heritage Supper sponsored by the Zenith Senior Citizens Center, 515 N. Zenith.

The festivities starting at 6 p.m. are open to all senior citizens.

A meal consisting of barbecued ribs, pinto beans, greens, cornbread and potato pie will be served. It is being supplied by Phi Upsilon, the honorary homemaking sorority at Texas Tech University under the sponsorship of Dr. Carol Shanklin.

At the supper special certificates of merit will be awarded to outstanding senior citizens.

The Zenith center recently welcomed home Eddie Thomas, who returned as a participant after visiting with relatives in Oklahoma City for the past several months.

Those looking forward to celebrating birthdays next month will be Clarence Bennit, Laura Jamison and Granville Wallace. New participants include Mary Nelson, Vera Smith and Juan Leal.

Those on sick list have included Odessa Harris, Leanna Fairchild, Ike Bell, Will Austin and Idella Jordan.

At the Mae Simmons Senior Citizens Center, 26th and Weber Drive, senior citizens are mourning the death of Mrs. Lizzie Reed, who passed away Feb. 10 and was buried Feb. 13.

Rev. Melvin Montgomery of Wichita Falls was a recent visitor to the Mae Simmons Center. At the Valentine's Day party, Mrs. Mary Sterling guessed the correct number of candy hearts in a jar and as her prize, won the contents of it.

At a recent domino tournament, Damon Hill flew in from Houston by 10 a.m. that day to participate. Others playing in the hotly contested match were James Craven, Shepard "Shep" Robinson, Lewis Jones, D.C. Fair Sr., James Moss and Crowell Johnson.

Jeff Joiner is reported feeling much better after a recent sick spell, but is still taking it easy. Others on the sick list have included Artie Mae Washington, Hattie Stinger and Mother Zora Phillips.

Mabel Bailey and her brother have returned to Mae Simmons after being out of town for awhile.

Women are invited to join the new embroidery class being taught by Mrs. Clara Scott.

Senior citizens wishing to learn more about the Zenith or Mae Simmons senior citizens centers may visit weekdays between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. or call. The Zenith number is 744-3222 and Mae Simmons may be reached by dialing 762-6411, extension 317.

The Y.W.C.A. Woman for the month of February is Mrs. Nettie Edwards. She is presently employed by the Lubbock Independent School District as an Elementary Education Demonstration Teacher. She is also a part time instructor at Texas Tech University. Mrs. Edwards holds a Bachelor of Arts in Music and Master of Science in Education.

Human Rights is No. 1 With President Carter

Copyright, 1978, United Feature Syndicate, Inc.

WASHINGTON—President Carter's stress on human rights has drawn scoffs in the cloakrooms and cocktail lounges of Washington. But we can report that the president isn't the least bit deterred. He intends to push human rights harder than ever around the world.

He has a new human rights directive on his desk right now awaiting his signature. Last year he ordered the National Security Council to prepare new human rights initiatives, and they were submitted to the president around Dec. 1.

Their purpose is described in a confidential White House document. The new initiatives, it states, "are intended to lead to a number of actions, including issuance of a Presidential directive to give greater emphasis to human rights through U.S. foreign aid policy."

What this means is that nations which violate human rights will have their aid cut back. But the new directive will emphasize the positive rather than the negative aspects.

Inducements will be offered to nations to improve the treatment of their people. Countries that halt persecution will be eligible for new aid programs. President Carter will also establish warmer relations with their leaders.

The president's national security adviser, Zbigniew Brzezinski, has described the new policy behind closed doors. He said that human rights should replace anti-communism as "the glue that holds our foreign policy together."

Coal Crisis: Energy Secretary James Schlesinger has reported to President Carter that the coal shortage threatens the power supply in several states. He raised the possibility, according to confidential Cabinet minutes, of shipping emergency coal to the endangered areas.

Schlesinger warned, however, that the government "might be accused of strike breaking if coal from outside sources is delivered."

Defense Secretary Harold Brown then reported on the danger of violence in the coal fields. The Administration, he said, "should not be concerned about illegal activity, since the National Labor Relations Board is likely to issue injunctions."

In other words, the government is quietly preparing to intervene, if necessary.

Forest Fight: The timber barons have chalked up another major victory; and as usual, the American taxpayers will pay for their success.

In 1976, Congress passed a bill sponsored by Rep. John Krebs, D-Calif., that required sealed bidding for timber from the federally owned national forests. Prior to that time, the lumber men decided among themselves how much to offer for the government's trees in open bidding.

The industry, of course, wants to buy up the national forests as cheaply as possible. So timber lobbyists on Capitol Hill twisted the right arms and forced a repeal of the sealed bidding provision.

At first, it appeared that the vote might be close. But then Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., chairman of the powerful House Ways and Means Committee, informed his colleagues they would have a tough time with any proposed tax legislation unless they went along on the pro-timber bill.

The timber barons, predictably, won the right to submit open bids once again.

Sweet Deal: The national railway system and the Kellogg company have worked out a promotion deal. The cereal firm will promote Amtrak tickets on cereal boxes. In return, Amtrak will publicize Kellogg's breakfast food on its trains.

This has upset officials at the Health, Education and Welfare Department. They have fired off an angry letter to Amtrak, demanding why the railroad is promoting sugared cereals of questionable nutritional value.

Meanwhile, other big food companies, such as McDonald's hamburgers and Coca-Cola, have sounded out Amtrak about similar deals.

Phony Bills: Small businessmen should check their bills carefully. More than 300 fly-by-night operators are sending sales solicitations to businessmen in the form of bills.

The letters look exactly like a monthly billing, complete with invoice numbers, references to accounts and price information. The amount is small enough that busy businessmen often pay them, without question, along with legitimate bills.

Busted Troops: Army enlisted men, many with families to support, are also having trouble keeping up with their bills.

Although military families can buy cut-rate food at commissaries, thousands of them are barely scraping by. Their costs for the daily necessities are outstripping their ability to pay.

We have learned that no less than 2,700 Army families are on food stamps. Last year alone, it cost the Army more than $4 million to cash in food stamps from active and retired military people.

We have talked to one congressman who wants to help the hard-up military families. He is Elliott Levitas, D-Ga., and he has already complained to the President's Commission on Military Compensation.

Watch on Waste: The Postal Service owns more than 140,000 different vehicles which are used to deliver the mail. It is the largest single fleet of vehicles in the United States.

Now a confidential study by the General Accounting Office reveals that the post office is wasting millions of dollars by buying the vehicles instead of leasing them.

Postal regulations require that local postal officials determine whether leasing vehicles is cheaper before they buy them. But the word, apparently, has not trickled down to local officials.

$750 million in unobligated revenues to meet new needs and improve programs.

The $21 million figure, according to Bullock, is what was left in the treasury at the end of the last legislative session.

"We have two years to build up other monies," he said, predicting that natural increases in energy, sales and franchise taxes will provide a substantial surplus.

Interest Raised

The State Depository Board hiked the rates the state will receive on its bank deposits from 6.5 per cent to seven per cent, the second increase since November.

State Treasurer Warren G. Harding, who urged the raise by the State Depository Board, said Texas will make more money on investment income, and that total interest income for state government may exceed $126 million during the next year.

Harding estimated the raise from 6.5 to seven per cent alone will boost income $9 million a year.

The treasurer's office announced last week that the percentage of funds invested in time accounts had reached 90.64 per cent early this month, highest in state history.

Texas has more than $1.8 billion in deposit in 1,300 banks over the state in interest-bearing time accounts.

Harry Ledbetter, Harding's Democratic primary opponent commended the latest action but said the increase should have been ordered earlier.

Courts Speak

Texas Supreme Court March 8 will hear an appeal by Lone Star Gas Company from lower court decisions applying to one of its contracts with a minor supplier the so-called "favored-nations" provisions enabling producers to benefit from increased market prices.

In other recent decisions, the high court:

Refused to order cosmetics executive Jacques Bergerac, former husband of actress Dorothy Malone, to increase a $300 a month child support paid for two daughters.

Told a Houston court civil allegations that a Baptist minister and three others attempted to convert $650 in church funds should not have been dismissed.

Found that teachers can be sued for on the job negligence only in cases of student punishment and use of autos.

Concluded the state is not obligated to pay most of the cost of court-ordered custody placement of a teenager in Brazos County.

The Court of Criminal Appeals held border patrolmen had no authority to search a driver's car because he looked straight ahead as he drove by them. (The order reversed an order revoking probation of a Harris County man.)

The Court of Criminal Appeals said a juror in an obscenity case who acknowledged she did not think mere nudity is obscene should have been dismissed.

Disasters Studied

House Speaker Bill Clayton asked the House Agriculture Committee to make a study of recent grain elevator disasters and report findings to the next legislature.

Clayton said goal of the interim study is to determine if legislative action is needed to prevent future occurrence of disasters like the Galveston elevator explosion.

Short Snorts

Democratic candidates paid $174,600 in multi-county filing fees for places on the May 6 ballot. Forty-one statewide candidates paid $63,000 in filing fees.

Baumont attorney Howard N. Richards returned to Gov. Briscoe's staff as an administrative assistant, temporarily succeeding George Lowrance, who joined Briscoe's campaign team.

U.S. Sen. John Tower served notice here he will aid a filibuster effort against labor reform legislation.

AUSTIN—Homeowners may be paying sharply-increased rates for their insurance coverage.

The State Board of Insurance staff last week recommended raises in property rates averaging 13.1 per cent statewide.

Actually the rates vary by area—15.4 per cent for the central part of the state, 12.5 per cent for the Gulf Coast and 8.2 per cent for Northwest Texas.

The Texas Insurance Advisory Association, an industry group, asked for a 14.1 per cent statewide raise.

If the board grants the recommendation, homeowners would pay $91 million more than the present level of $807 million a year for all lines of building insurance coverage.

Industry spokesmen claimed the increase is needed because of the steady rise in material and labor costs.

In Dallas, homeowners would pay about $39 more on standard coverage for a $35,000 brick veneer home ($289 a year total). Owners of a $25,000 home in the same city, would pay $29 more.

The increase, if granted, will be the first property insurance boost in two years. The board last year ordered a two per cent reduction in rates, although companies sought a 6.6 per cent increase. The cut was never made since the industry demanded a rehearing. Action has been delayed indefinitely.

Board members will meet February 22 to hear arguments on the latest proposal, although a decision likely will not be made until next month.

Looking Better

The state's financial outlook is much better than a recent report indicated, according to State Comptroller Bob Bullock.

Bullock termed inaccurate statements attributed to one of his top aides by newspapers to the effect that the state's surplus at the end of the current fiscal period will be only $21 million.

Actually, Bullock estimated, the 1979 legislature will have around

Letters to the Editor

Mrs. Joan Y. Ervin announced that she is a candidate for re-election to the Lubbock Public School Board of Trustees. By This, Mrs. Ervin has offered us a chance for the continuity of the Board which directs our school affairs.

Mrs. Ervin is completing her eighth year as a school board member, therefore, she has a wealth of experience as well as an awareness of the current and very crucial issues facing the school board.

Mrs. Ervin has proved that she has the ability and personality for effectiveness in this position. She is known for perseverance, cooperation, dependability and sincere concern for all Lubbock citizens. Throughout the eight years of dedicated service on the School Board, Mrs. Ervin has remained "on-call" for any service she could render to anyone and anywhere in Lubbock.

As a graduate of Dunbar High School and a native of Lubbock, she is naturally most aware of all of our needs, problems, hopes and uncertainties as we face the Court Decision on Desegregation which will have a decisive effect on the lives of all our children. Her current involvement with the Board will enhance her effectiveness in the future.

As Campaign Manager for Joan Ervin, I urge that we, all of us, put forth our best efforts toward clasping hands in united and harmonious action to achieve a goal crucial to the effectiveness of our school affairs. Let us work and vote to keep Mrs. Ervin as an essential link in the chain of School Board Trustees.

We need School Board Members who can think positively, who can act positively, and who can relate positively to the entire school community. Mrs. Ervin's experience record of eight years attests that she has met these qualifications. I, therefore, urge that each of us star April 1, 1978 as a "Red Letter Date" when we will meet at the polls and elect Joan Y. Ervin to continue as a representative "people's person" on the Lubbock Public School Board of Trustees.

Dr. F.L. Lovings

The Amistad Research Center, which has the largest collection of original manuscripts concerning the history of blacks and other minorities in the United States, is located at Dillard University in New Orleans. The collection contains approximately 8 million pieces of unpublished material, beginning with records of the defense of the 53 Africans led by Cinque, who commandeered their Cuban slave ship, L'Amistad, in 1839. After the ship ran aground on Long Island, the Africans' freedom was successfully defended by a group who later formed the American Missionary Association. Also included in the collection are letters and papers of such notables as Frederick Douglass and Mary McLeod Bethune. Although the major part of the collection relates to black history, the Center is also interested in material dealing with Chicanos, American Indians, and Puerto Ricans.

Michael Sims Signs With NTSU

Michael Sims, son of Mary Louise West, has signed a four-year football scholarship with North Texas State University, Denton, Texas. Michael will play running back for North Texas State.

Sims, a 6-0, 185-pounder, split time between tailback and defensive back during the 1977 season and rushed 55 times for 262 yards when he was on offense.

He was an honorable mention all-South Plains choice after the 1977 campaign.

Sims said his final decision was between North Texas and New Mexico.

"I visited North Texas and was sold on it. Everything was fantastic," Sims said. "The place was nice; the people were nice; and they have a good football team, too."

He said NTSU will try him first as a running back, but that he might end up as a wide receiver or defensive back.

Sims is the fifth Lubbock

Other out of town visitors attending the funeral were sisters and nieces of Mrs. McCormick, from Waxahachie.

Lunch Bunch Meets

Lunch Bunch meets each Tuesday from 12:15 to 12:45 in the Mahon Community Room of the Lubbock City-County Library, 1306 9th Street. Coffee and the free program are furnished by the Library. The public is invited to bring a sack lunch.

Conference on Aging Rescheduled

The 1978 Governor's Conference on Aging, originally set for February 20, has been rescheduled and will be held at the San Antonio Convention Center June 26-27, according to an announcement today by Alton O. Bowen, chairman of the Governor's Committee on Aging.

Goals and format of the conference will remain unchanged, except that the conference will be extended to a two-day meeting, Bowen said.

"It is our hope that those older persons who had made arrangements to attend the conference will continue to maintain their enthusiasm for the meeting and will join us in San Antonio in June."

Planning for the June conference is already underway Bowen said, adding, "We will increase our efforts to ensure that older Texans will have their chance to express their needs and desires at the meeting."

KELLY'S HEROES

by Joe Kelly

The Texas Tech basketball season is winding up on the same sour note as the football season. Here was a team with a chance to finish high in the standings. Now it goes into the conference playoffs with a fourth place secured.

Thus, the Raiders will open with Texas A&M, one of the more improved clubs, a team that started to surge after a loss to Tech in Municipal Coliseum.

Coach Shelby Metcalf, you may remember, said that there would be some changes and there were. He relegated Jarvis Williams and Karl Godine to secondary status.

The Raiders beat the Aggies after that in College Station, of course, but it was the game that started Tech on its way down. Willie Foreman's elbow may be the most celebrated lethal weapon in the conference. It felled Kent Williams.

Certainly Tech hasn't been the same team in its last two games. It hasn't played smart ball. It hasn't taken the good shot. It's defensive play has fallen off.

The Raiders could well have beaten Houston if they had taken care of the ball, been more deliberate, forced the Cougars into the type of mistakes that they are apt to make. Instead, Houston forced Tech into playing its game.

Texas' zone was effective, but it didn't beat Tech. The Raiders were guilty of 26 fouls and the Longhorns converted on 22 of 31 chances. Factually, the Longhorns made only one more field goal than the Raiders.

So, Tech faces a rough game here Saturday against the Aggies. If they win, it will put the Raiders in direct opposition to possibly the most improved team in the league, Houston.

Houston didn't beat Tech with its starting team, it beat the Raiders with its reserves. There's no question that the Cougars have the strongest bench in the league. Their reserves, against Tech, came in with 29 points.

The Coogs are, at times during a game, guilty of undisciplined play. It allowed Tech to threaten. But Guy Lewis settled his players down and they responded strongly.

Arkansas, so rudely upset by Houston, is on a collision course with the Cougars. By all rights they should meet to see which one takes on Texas in the finals. It ought to be a great game, because Arkansas showed itself to be suspect.

The Razorbacks, after gaining No. 1 ranking in the AP, were beaten by the Coogs and Arkansas was guilty of poor discipline, too. They took bad shots and didn't show patience when it was needed.

Arkansas supposedly would play Houston on a neutral court, but since the tourney is in Houston, it stands to reason that there will be more Houston followers on hand than anyone else.

That un-neutrality might be the difference. If so, it will be a bitter finish for the Razorbacks. Of course, SMU might have beaten Texas Tuesday night, but I would doubt it. And a loss by the Porkers to Houston would really curdle their milk.

Abe Lemons has done an outstanding job with the Longhorns. He had a year to impress on his squad his philosophy and style of play. Also, he augmented his squad with some key new players.

The scary thing is that he loses only one senior, Gary Goodner. It's obvious that Abe recruits well and that he has a bench. In two short years Lemons has brought the Horns to the top in the conference and they might well stay there.

The funny thing about the technical fouls that Gerald Myers drew in the Houston game has been the subject of a talk Joe McLaughlin and I had with Dan Spika, supervisor of officials, just before the game.

The subject of technicals came up, but not of the type that Gerald drew. Not one of us mentioned rabbit eared officials, who thought that he heard remarks from the bench.

Gerald's technicals were uncalled for, as was the warning he received from the same official after his companion had rightfully stuck Guy Lewis with a T. There was no need for this action and showed premeditation for the later T.

I've never seen Gerald so steamed up. It's human for anyone to get furious when he's charged unfairly, especially in an emotional sport. It illustrates the need for more survey of conference officials and stricter selection.

With snow on the ground and cold temperatures, it seems hard to believe that baseball clubs have started spring training. Well, shoot, Tech had games in Abilene postponed last week, so it shouldn't be hard to accept.

The biggest question is whether the New York Yankees can repeat as World Champions. Last year they surprised and I, among many, don't think that they are that good. If all things are equal, I'd have to go with Boston.

The other night I had a long distance call from Ed Sides. I had lost all track of him and he said he hesitated to call me because he had heard I had died.

Anyway, Ed's reason for calling was that he needed someone to substantiate the fact that he had brought Joe Louis here—and to Amarillo, Midland, El Paso and Austin—for exhibition bouts. Someone is writing a book about Louis, who is still in a Houston hospital.

Ed asked me if I remembered and I said that I did. Then he wanted me to verify some things. I remarked that I'd be glad to, but I didn't have anything in writing.

"Think back," Eddie exhorted. "You must remember when he was in Lubbock."

"Hey!" I replied, "I don't have a calculator for a memory. You're talking about something 30 years ago."

"Aw, it hasn't been that long," he retorted. Then he thought for a moment and said golly, it HAD been 30 years.

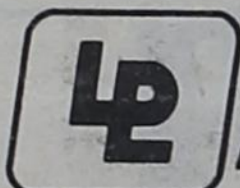

I remember Louis being here and I think he fought an exhibition at old Rosenthal Field, but other details are dim. If anyone has a better memory, let me hear from you. Now I'm curious.

Have a good week!

Zig Zigler to Conduct Seminar

Zig Zigler, America's foremost motivator, will conduct a personal growth and development seminar from 7-10 p.m. February 28 in Lubbock Municipal Auditorium.

Zigler, author of several best-selling books, is one of the most sought-after speakers in the country because of his positive mental attitude message. He has a gift for inspiring in each member of his audience a strong belief in his own personal potential.

The seminar is the outgrowth of a series of positive mental attitude rallies, sponsored across the nation in recent years, and featuring nationally known speakers. The impact of a positive attitude has captured the interest of individuals from all walks of life—sales people, bankers, doctors, accountants, homemakers and farmers, for example.

Zigler's theories have been popular as motivational material with sales organizations for many years. Since the positive mental attitude message has proved so successful with sales people, it has been tried with equal success with students in the "I Can" course, taught in many public schools and colleges.

Zigler is the creator of the "I Can" course, as well as the "Richer Life" personal enrichment class. Public school teachers in the fields of home and family life, and psychology have taken the "Richer Life" class in Dallas and are qualified to teach the "I Can" course to students.

Among the 12,000 persons who attended the rally was Mrs. Juanell Teague of Lubbock, president of Teague Trampoline, Inc., sponsor of the Lubbock seminar. She was so impressed with Zigler and so inspired by his motivational message that she wanted to bring such a speaker to the High Plains area.

Zigler's message, she said, is that each of us uses only a small part of his potential.

Ag Secretary Cites Black History Week

Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland, in a memorandum of department heads commemorating Black History Month, noted the "significant achievements and contributions of Blacks to America's growth and development."

The memo said in part: "We, in the Department of Agriculture, should recognize and take pride in the many important achievements of Blacks to this nation's development, including the very significant contributions that Black citizens have made over the years to agricultural programs and other related fields.

"I encourage (USDA) agencies to plan activities, both at headquarters and field locations during this special month. I strongly urge my fellow employees to be mindful of, pay tribute to, and participate in community-sponsored observances during this Black History Month."

February has been designated as Black History Month by the Association for the Study of Afro-American Life and History, a non-profit historical association with headquarters in Washington, D.C.

Sheridan's Ride

by Jack Sheridan

The "wrong" has been righted faster than any of us dared hope. That goes for John M. Anderson, the board of Lubbock Community Concerts Association and the entire membership, including me.

You'll remember that a week ago last Sunday, just before the "real" storm of the winter overtook the South Plains, that the Association had scheduled a concert in Memorial Civic Center Theatre, the third event of the four-attraction, membership only series of 1977-78.

The whole thing got off on a lame foot from the first. The original artist booked was the distinguished Metropolitan Opera basso, Simon Estes. Then, out of the blue, Estes got a bid to star in a specially-mounted production of Verdi's "Don Carlos" for the Hamburg (Germany) Opera. That meant that a replacement was needed. Well, that came about happily, when it was announced that the well-known, leading baritone of the Met, Theodor Uppman, would be the back-up man.

Came Sunday the 12th of this snowy month and folks gathered in the Civic Center only, to their dismay, to find that at the very last minute the concert-recital had been cancelled, Uppman and accompanist were fog-bound in Dallas and couldn't reach us in time.

Community Concerts membership, revive! (No tickets sold, admission to season members only). Uppman will be here at 8 p.m. this Friday, February 24, on that same Civic Center Theatre stage, giving us the program which he brings only slightly tardily. That is, Uppman, now placing Lubbock at the close of his Texas swing rather than the beginning, has sworn to be here for the make-up concert date. It remains to hope that weather, the terrible month of February and all cooperate!

Incidentally, cancellations in this dire month are not unknown, by events out of human hand. Remember one February some years back, just about the same time, around Feb. 15, the Lubbock Symphony Orchestra, having already rehearsed with their expensive guest star, Met soprano Irene Jordan, had to up and cancel because of a vicious ice storm. Miss Jordan came back the next season to fulfill her commitment.

Anyhow, Theodor Uppman, a former Symphony soloist and longtime Dallas, Santa Fe and Met broadcast favorite, will be with us, as I said, God willing, Friday night.

He brings us a program well worth the waiting. For the first half of the recital Uppman, accompanied by Joseph Smith, will be seen in full costume. In this first half he brings us "The Mozart Baritone." From "The Magic Flute," Uppman sings Papageno's aria, "I am a Man of Widespread Fame."

Then, two arias from "The Marriage of Figaro," recently performed under John Gillas' hand at Texas Tech. They include Count Almaviva's Recitative and Aria, "You have won the decision . . . Shall I look on desiring?" and Figaro's aria, "O Fellow Man, Be Smarter."

And to conclude the Mozart tribute comes Don Giovanni (which will be broadcast live in March from the Metropolitan Opera House stage over Channel 5, KXTX-TV).

Uppman will be singing Don Giovanni (Don Juan) aria, "Deh, vieni alla finestra" followed by the delightful aria by Leporello, the famous Catalogue, "Senorita, here are vital statistics."

Following the intermission, Uppman returns with yet another provocative bill. He gives us "Two Don Quixotes in Song." This includes from Ravel's "Don Quochotte a Dulcinee"; "Chanson Romaesque," "Chanson Epique" and "Chanson a boire." From the immensely popular "Man of Le Mancha" by Leigh and Darion, we'll hear again happily three excerpts, "I, Don Quixote," "Dulcinea" and, of course, the climactic "The Quest," more familiarly known as "The Impossible Dream."

There are yet more goodies to come. Uppman turns to "The Male Chauvinist on the Folly of Women," with Mozart's "Cosi fan tutte," "Ladies, that's the way you flirt" and, in contrast, today's catalogue, "Why Can't a Woman Be More Like a Man" from Lerner and Loewe's "My Fair Lady."

To conclude the set program will be "Two Soliloquies," which embrace "Billy in the Darbies," from Benjamin Britten's "Billy Budd," the title role of which Uppman created in its premiere at London's esteemed Covent Garden Opera, and the lengthy and demanding Soliloquy from Rodgers and Hammerstein's "Carousel," only recently seen here presented at the Center by the First Methodist Church.

So, remember this is the feast of song for Community Concerts members at 8 p.m. Friday night. Theodor, please make it this time?

I approached the film "Looking for Mr. Goodbar" with anticipation, since I had read the novel, and so planked myself down in one of the small theater at Fox 4 to see what they had done with this weird, troubled story of a teacher of deaf children by day, sex cruiser of singles bars by night. Looking, you see, for that ultimately satisfying man. She finds him, all right, to her misfortune.

Somehow, in the translation from book to screenplay, the essence of this compelling, if shoddy, tale got sidetracked or mislaid. What emerges if a film of lesser caliber than it could have been. It winds up being a foul-mouthed bore, frankly.

"Looking for Mr. Goodbar" has only one redeeming feature and that is the casting of the talented Diane Keaton as the hapless lady. Keaton, who scored solidly earlier in the year in Woody Allen's fine comedy, "Annie Hall," is a solid performer and her work in "Goodbar" is as competent as it can be under the script circumstances. Tuesday Weld is in this, too, and continues to enhance her character actress dimension. But aside from the two women, I can't see much to recommend in "Looking for Mr. Goodbar." Too bad, it could have been a contender.
