

"Black People Need More Self-Respect," Notes George Woods

by T.J. Patterson

(Editors note: This is one of two interviews with Mr. George Woods, a resident of Lubbock since 1928. As an active citizen in Lubbock he feels very strongly that black people need to utilize more self-respect.)

Mr. Woods, when did you come to Lubbock and why?

I came to Lubbock from Pelham, Texas with my parents on the 20th day of May, 1928. It was a Sunday evening, about 7 p.m. We came here because my mother had been sick and we were looking for a little higher altitude. My dad's name was George W. Woods, and mother was named Lilly Bell Woods. My parents lived here until they died.

We lived on East 20th street which was then called the Old Slaton Highway, right by the railroad tracks. That was the last street in this part of the city at that time.

How old were you when you came to Lubbock?

I had just finished high school in Temple, Texas. Pelham didn't have a high school, so I had to graduate from a school in Temple. When we came to Lubbock, I thought there was a high school here, but they didn't have one. There were only three rooms and three teachers at the school here, so I went back to Temple and completed the twelfth grade.

Did you go to work when you first came to Lubbock?

Yes, I did, I worked at the McDonald Packing House. It is now called Farm Pac, I believe. My job with McDonald Packing House was scrapping hogs. The hog came around on a conveyer belt and I did my part and the belt continued moving to someone else who had to do another job with the hog.

What kind of money did you make scrapping hogs in those days?

Well, Pat, I made 40 cents an hour. That was good for that time. I worked more than forty hours a week.

When you left that job, what did you do?

I went to work at the old Memorial Hospital, located where Dunlap Company is now. I worked in the clinic area and helped the doctors. I made $13 a week at that job. It was a much cleaner job than the one scrapping hogs.

What other jobs did you have?

I was going to school at Wiley College in Marshall, Texas, so I had to work to attain a college education. I did all of my work during the summer months. I attended college in 1929 and 1930. I also had an opportunity to attend a little in 1931. My dad had a stroke so I had to come home and go to work at the library. I was an English major at Wiley. You see, I went to college during the depression and things were tough. I only made 25 cents an hour at Wiley. I couldn't make it on that so I had to come back home.

I also worked for the old Lubbock Hotel, which is now called the Pioneer Hotel. I worked there as a hall boy. I had two halls to take care of in those days. I would bring the maids linen up to the floor and keep the floors vacuumed. I also helped the maids with the curtains and draperies. It was a way to make a living. I was making $4.67 a week. Finally, I got on the bell stand as a bellhop. I worked at the hotel until they fired all the black bellhops. This was in 1934.

Why did they fire all the black bellhops?

Well, what happened was that Myricks sold the building to the Moody Chain Company and they announced to us on about the first day of August that they didn't use any black bellhops. So they just told us that morning at seven o'clock that we were all fired.

We didn't ask any question, just politely left the hotel. That's the way it was in those days.

Where did you go to work then?

I went to work for Huey the Taylor in a cleaning plant. I worked there about thirteen months cleaning clothes. Then due to conditions, the business wasn't too good, so I left. The old man was real grouchy and hard to work for in those days. I quit and went back to work at the Myrick building. Old man Huey tried to hire me back, but I refused to go back to work for him. I worked as a maintenance man. I painted and did a lot of work at the Myrick building. As you know this building is located on Avenue J. I worked there about 21

THE CAR ABOVE was driven by Biff E. Wright, 16, of 1501 East Auburn Avenue last Sunday afternoon. He was reported in serious condition this week in the intensive care unit of Methodist Hospital. The vehicle Wright was driving slammed into a light pole in the 1900 block of Southeast Drive, in the area of Bethel A.M.E. Church.

Governor Briscoe Declares September As Foster Grandparent Month in Texas

As part of the Bicentennial Celebration, Governor Dolph Briscoe recently signed a proclamation, declaring September as the Foster Grandparent Month throughout Texas.

Earlier in the day, Lucy Johnson Nugent, daughter of the former President Lyndon Johnson, addressed the Foster Grandparents in front of the LBJ Library and was elected an honorary Texas Foster Grandparent.

Both events were part of the Recognition Ceremony for the Foster Grandparent Program nationwide, initiated ten years ago under President Johnson.

Close to 400 grandparents and their project directors from Austin, Abilene, Corpus Christi, Denton, Houston, Lubbock, Lufkin, Mexia and San Antonio participated in a day of activities, coordinated by ACTION Agency through the Governor's Committee on Aging.

The Foster Grandparent Program is part of ACTION, the Federal Agency for Volunteer Services, created by the President and Congress in 1971. It provides senior citizens age 60 or older with income supplements and opportunities to work part-time with children in pediatric wards, homes for deprived youth and institutions for mentally retarded, emotionally disturbed and physically handicapped children. Among 13,000 grandparents currently serving nationwide, 739 are in Texas. Peace Corps and VISTA are also ACTION programs.

There is a Foster Grandparent Project at the Lubbock State School, established three years ago. Presently, 72 Grandparents, 59 among them women, work with two children each, four hours a day, five days a week, helping them to grow physically, emotionally, intellectually and Socially. In addition to satisfaction that comes from being needed and making their children happy through many years of care and affection, the Lubbock Grandparents receive a small stipend, daily hot meal at noon, transportation reimbursement to and from their project, an annual physical examination and insurance against on-the-job accidents. Mr. H.D. Redus is the director of the Lubbock Foster Grandparent Project.

Senior Citizens Meet Here

The East Lubbock Senior Citizens Association met last Tuesday morning at 9:45 a.m. with Mrs. Mable Bailey, president, presiding over the meeting. Some very interesting reports were read from the various committees of the organization.

New members who joined the organization were Mrs. April Rose Anderson and her sister, Mrs. Hannah Lee Patterson. Members expressed their appreciation for them being present.

Due to illness, several of the members were unable to be present at the meeting. Two of our members, Mrs. Oma McQuinney and Mrs. Baby Austin, flew to California last Monday morning to attend the funeral services of their sister.

Art classes will begin next week. Everyone is asked to be present and on time so the class can start on time.

Mrs. M. Bailey is president; Mrs. E. Swisher is secretary and Mrs. E. Coleman is treasurer.

Self Defense Program Set Here Friday

The Lubbock Alumnae Chapter of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority is sponsoring a self-defense program to be held Friday, September 12 at 8:00 p.m. at Mae Simmons Community Center.

All women interested are asked to come out and participate. The Texas Department of Public Safety is in charge of the program.

EDITORIALS

TV Advertising

The Federal Trade Commission recently labeled several television commercials about false teeth adhesives untrue. The products do not enable those using them to eat corn on the cob, apples, etc.—the FTC says.

The FTC could have said the same thing about a hundred other commercials. Each producer claims his product is best and backs this up with tests, visual demonstrations, diagrams, etc. Much of it is nonsense.

It has been said—by the Communists among others—that the free enterprise system is the system in which the slogan "let the buyer beware" is basic. That has been true, to some extent, in the past. But in recent years consumer protection has been given increasing attention.

Recently manufacturers were ordered to make their guarantees and warranties something really meaningful, rather than an escape hatch to avoid responsibility. The FTC, asleep on this battlefield for many years, has shown a flicker of life in looking into children's television programs and commercials.

Much more needs to be done; the free enterprise system is the best we know but it isn't perfect.

The Farmer's Income

Even though the number of American farmers continues to decrease (because of mechanization, the trend toward huge farms), farm production and productivity continue to increase.

This is a tribute to both American technology and the American farmer. And this impressive performance is currently enabling the nation to feed itself and millions outside the United States, and to achieve an international trade surplus.

Yet the farmer's individual income still lags; he continues to receive only 42 cents out of every food dollar. The per capita income of farmers is still well below $4,000, while the national average is above $5,000.

There are but 4.3 million farmers today (there were 8 million fifteen years ago), feeding 210,000,000 Americans and millions overseas. Their work is often hard. But it has rewards other than money. Farming builds individualism and self-reliance.

It is this spirit which built early America—and which is still very much needed in this age of technology, bureaucracy and metropolitan growth and congestion.

Tennis: Being Psyched

A prominent American has authored a book on winning tennis, the thrust being that tennis is at least half mental—psychological.

The book tells readers how to "psyche" opponents on the court. It details the tactics of getting an opponent "psyched." Some of the gamesmanship—as it's called—is to irritate one's opponent with delays, complaints, odd behavior, deception, etc.

It's suggested one can call out the wrong score, feign an injury, seek a delay or postponement of a match, to psyche one's opponent.

The unfortunate thing about all this is that Americans—never renowned for the best tennis manners—who employ such tactics are missing the whole point of the sport. Tennis is, traditionally, a game for sportsmen. Good manners, like sportsmanship, is an integral part of this game.

To win in tennis with trickery, fakery and the use of irritating behavior is only an exhibition of bad manners.

September Days

September, according to the calendar, is the last summer month. The days, until the 22nd, are still longer than the nights; warm weather usually predominates.

But one detects a change in the sun's light, in the air, in the trees and fields—a change which is really summer's gentle good-bye. The first cool nights and clear, northern-air skies are autumn's getting.

For the young in school, free summer is already over. Fall lies just ahead—with its football, hunting, studies and cold weather; when it ends in late December three months hence, Christmas will be at hand and 1975 practically over.

As I See It!

by T.J. Patterson

It's good to see that some of the weeds in east Lubbock are finally being cut by the various property owners. It's quite sad, however, to see the weeds growing up on the Santa Fe Railroad crossing at East 34th Street and Quirt Avenue. This is a very dangerous situation as it prevents motorists from driving safely because of some blind intersections.

Also the weeds on the median in that same area on East 34th Street. Surely these weeds could be cut by those persons responsible. We really don't need to be the weed capitol of the South Plains.

Mrs. Maunita Terrell, who has been a great contributor to the West Texas Times, has come a mighty long way over the past years. She has been a very sick lady, but still has had time to help others in many ways.

She made a beautiful contribution to church services last Sunday morning with her singing of "He Looked Beyond My Fault and Saw My Need." A religious song similar to Amazing Grace, Mrs. Terrell made everyone in the congregation take a positive note to those beautiful words of wisdom.

As I See It, she is always contributing something to the West Texas Times, her family, community and friends. Let's continue to give her flowers while she lives. She is a beautiful woman working for the people of Lubbock.

Thought of the Week: "And Jesus looking upon them saith, With men it is impossible, but not with God: for with God all things are possible." St. Mark 10:27.

Brothers and Sisters of the Brown Berets had a positive meeting in Mackenzie State Park last Sunday afternoon. The leadership, Brothers Gilberto Herrera, president; and Lucero Mamarante, vice president, should be congratulated on a job well done.

There were several hundred Mexican-American sisters and brothers present for the rally about problems they would like to see solved at the Lubbock County Jail and by the Lubbock Police Department. Regardless of why they were meeting, they proved beyond a doubt, that American citizens can come together and inform each other about various problems without creating a disturbance.

This writer, who was invited by Brother Herrera, was quite impressed with what was going on in the park.

Did you know that KWGO-FM was the only local radio station that broadcast the Billy Graham Crusade in its entirety last Wednesday evening. Ernesto Barton, station manager, said: "We covered one and one-half hours of the program and didn't miss anything from 8:00 to 9:30 p.m."

Perhaps the right approach to the economic situation in the eastern part of Lubbock is for some group or organization to develop an industry which would put a great number of people to work. This would help a great deal.

Since Lubbock has the possibility of becoming a "growth center" (this should be decided as we go to press by the General Assembly of the South Plains Association of Governments, SPAG), I feel this type of effort could very well help the entire city of Lubbock. There are many men and women who reside in east Lubbock who could contribute something to the benefit of an industry.

As I See It, it's worth checking out by people who are really concerned about the betterment of the community.

A recent study by the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration (LEAA) reveals that there were almost 190,000 prisoners being held in about 600 state correctional facilities in the nation in January, 1974.

On a jail-by-jail basis, Texas had the most jails among individual states, with a total of 318. Texas is followed by Georgia with 239; Florida, 164; Ohio, 161; and California, 152. Altogether, these states accounted for 26 percent of all jails in the United States.

Other interesting information about this LEAA study is that only 12 percent of all jails offered Federally-funded social and rehabilitative services, mostly manpower oriented. Only 16 percent referred inmates to Federally-funded rehabilitative programs at release.

In locally sponsored programs, 59 percent of all jails offered religious services; 46 percent work release; 42 percent weekend sentence programs; 35 percent alcoholic treatment; 26 percent drug treatment; 17 percent group counseling; and about 14 percent vocational or educational programs.

The study also reveals that one jail in eight had offered some kind of an in-kind house medical facility, while 62 percent offered recreational programs or entertainment. Juveniles were held separately from other inmates in 82 percent of jails; mental patients in 73 percent; and first offenders in 23 percent.

is also determined to continue the sale of wheat to Russia.

His petroleum policy has sent gas prices at the pump up five cents per gallon in the past few weeks. And the Soviet purchases have sent wheat prices soaring. The effect is sure to be felt at the supermarket.

As gas and food prices have gone up, President Ford's popularity has gone down in the opinion polls. This is a coincidence that has not gone unnoticed by Ford's advisers.

Prince-In-Waiting: For five years, Cambodia's Prince Norodom Sihanouk has been a ruler without a country. Now the Communists supposedly have captured his country back for him. The Prince is preparing for a triumphant return.

Secret intelligence reports claim, however, that the Cambodian Communists don't want the Prince meddling with their new government.

This would be embarrassing for the Chinese Communists, who have recognized Prince Sihanouk's government-in-exile. So in return for Chinese aid, according to the intelligence reports, the Prince will be permitted to come home for a ceremonial appearance.

Then he will be allowed to speak for Cambodia at the United Nations. It will be a hit-and-run speech, without any of the usual backroom diplomacy.

Then the Prince will return to Peking where he will continue, in effect, to be a ruler without a country.

Agnew Record: Former U.S. Attorney George Beall, the man who prosecuted ex-Vice President Spiro Agnew, is quietly making an effort to preserve the precise words in the secret judicial conference that resulted in Agnew's resignation. The talks between Agnew's lawyer and Justice Department attorneys were taken down by a court stenographer, but they were never transcribed. Now Beall is trying to get the former Vice President's permission to make a permanent record.

Bogus Blockade: The U.S. Government has partially relaxed its 13-year-old economic embargo of Cuba. The truth is, it has not been effective for years.

Few of America's allies subscribed to the blockade. British companies have been trading with Fidel Castro's government for over a decade. Canada has long been dealing quietly with Cuba. Even the tiny nation of Israel, one of America's staunchest allies, secretly aided the Castro regime with private grants and technical assistance throughout the 1960's.

Israel's support of Cuba did not end until 1973, when Castro visited the Middle East and was persuaded by the leaders of Libya and Algeria to break diplomatic relations with Jerusalem.

Washington Whirl: The Ashland Oil company has been caught making improper contributions to U.S. politicians and foreign officials. From now on, an Ashland spokesman told us, the firm would contribute only to the United Fund and the Girl Scouts. . . . Carpenters on Capitol Hill tell us they are being "worked to death" by Congressmen who want their offices redecorated before the Bicentennial tourists start swarming through the building. . . . Secret intelligence reports reveal that the Shah of Iran has started developing his own missiles.

JACK ANDERSON'S WEEKLY SPECIAL

THE KISSINGER NOBODY KNOWS

by Jack Anderson with Joe Spear

(From United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

Washington—Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's latest foray into the Middle East was a faultless performance.

He was his usual cool, convivial self, wheeling and dealing in the world's worst hot spot. He kissed the Arabs, embraced the Jews, and smiled for the cameras.

Despite a schedule that would exhaust a normal man, he was always ready with a quiet word, a quick joke, a clever rejoinder.

It was Kissinger diplomacy at its best.

Few members of his worldwide audience realized that beneath the suave exterior, there is a Henry Kissinger nobody knows.

Kissinger's closest associates describe him as a brilliant but domineering man, given to a wide range of emotions. When his Middle East shuttle diplomacy broke down last March, according to intimates, he broke down and wept.

Sometimes, when he is tired and his nerves are frayed, his temper erupts like a volcano. His face reddens, his German accent thickens, and the expletives flow like lava.

On rare occasions, intimates have told us, he actually flings objects at the subject of his scorn. One former aide claimed Kissinger once threw a book at him. Another said the Secretary seldom lets fly with anything more lethal than a wad of paper.

Yet, in public, Kissinger seems always to be in complete control of himself.

The one exception came in Salzburg, Austria, last year, when Kissinger appeared at a news conference expecting to be quizzed about his considerable accomplishments in the Middle East. Instead, reporters bombarded him with questions about his role in the wiretapping of his former aides.

A stung, angry Kissinger denounced the "innuendos" that were being hurled at him. If the wiretap controversy was not cleared up soon, he threatened, "I will resign."

It was the only fleeting glimpse the world has ever gotten of the man behind the mask.

Prices Up, Polls Down: President Ford's political advisers are worried about his economic policies. They have warned him bluntly that he must bring unemployment down to seven percent and inflation down to six percent if he has any hope of winning the election next year.

Yet his own gradual goal, even if it is successful, would reduce unemployment only to about eight percent by November, 1976.

At the same time, the President is deliberately trying to raise petroleum prices to discourage consumption. And he Vickie D. Hadamek, 1007 East 29th Street, Apt. D, reported to Lubbock police that persons unknown busted out the glass on the back door of her apartment one day last week for entry to her apartment.

Once inside, the unknown persons took a $110 television set.

House Burglary

David Swing, 2905 Parkway Drive, reported to Lubbock police that persons unknown broke into his home through a bedroom window one day last week.

Entry was gained by breaking the window and reaching inside to unlock the window before crawling inside. Approximate $10 worth of damage was done to the window.

Items taken from the house included a tape recorder, portable television set, a suitcase and a carton of cigarettes. These items were valued at over $380.

House Burglary

Willie Palmer, 3401 East 17th Street, reported to Lubbock police that he left home one day last week and returned to find that someone had broken into it.

Entry apparently was gained through a north side window.

Taken from the house were several items including a tape player, an undetermined amount of money from a piggy bank, and some soda water and ice cream from the refrigerator. These items were valued at approximately $75.

Assault

A Lubbock mother reported to Lubbock police that her son, age 13, had been having trouble with some other kids over the past few weeks.

She told police that he was hit on the left cheek and that one of his school books had been torn up.

She also stated that at an earlier date a pair of the boy's shoes were cut up.

She told police that she knew the boys who were responsible for the incidents.

Aggravated Assault

Glenda Jo Bender, 2910 East Colgate Avenue, reported to Lubbock police that an eighteen year old man attacked and beat her with a jack handle one day last week. There were three other persons who witnessed the incident that took place at her residence.

PUBLIC NOTICE

SUMMARY OF PROPOSED CONSTITUTIONAL AMENDMENTS (S.J.R. NO. 11)

SPECIAL ELECTION NOVEMBER 4, 1975

PROPOSITION NO. 1 ON THE BALLOT

Revising the separation of powers, legislative and executive provisions of the Texas Constitution. Article II, Separation of Powers, is amended to:

Provide that the powers of government of the State of Texas are divided among three distinct branches: legislative, executive, and judicial. Except as otherwise authorized by the constitution, members of one branch may not exercise any power properly attached to either of the others.

Article III, The Legislature, is amended to:

Continue the present structure of the legislature consisting of a senate with 31 members and a house of representatives with 150 members. The present organization and procedure of the legislature are continued except that the provision allowing closed executive sessions of the senate is omitted. Provisions on the conflict of interest of members of the legislature are continued, as is the governor's power to veto bills or line items in appropriation bills. The article provides for single-member senatorial, representative, and congressional districts. A compensation commission is created to recommend the compensation and allowances to be received by members of the legislature. The legislative compensation, set by law, may not exceed this recommendation and does not take effect until after an intervening general election. The article provides for annual sessions of 140 days in odd-numbered years and 90 days in even-numbered years, and a veto session of 15 days upon request of three-fifths of the membership of each house. The legislature may meet in organizational sessions prior to the convening of the legislature in regular sessions.

Article IV, The Executive, is amended to:

Continue the present status of the governor and all other statewide officers, and include the commissioner of agriculture as an executive department officer. The governor is limited to two consecutive terms. The governor is authorized to designate chairmen of state boards, and to remove gubernatorial appointees to state agencies for cause unless the removal is vetoed by the senate. The article mandates the legislature to provide a new governor-elect an appropriation so the governor-elect may organize an office prior to inauguration, and permits the legislature to grant powers of fiscal control to the governor. All governmental agencies, with several exceptions, have a life of not more than ten years unless extended by the legislature, and, at the regular session held in odd-numbered years, the governor shall submit to the legislature a report on the organization and efficiency of the executive branch.

The wording of the proposed constitutional amendment as it will appear on the ballot is as follows:

"The constitutional amendment revising the SEPARATION OF POWERS, LEGISLATIVE, AND EXECUTIVE PROVISIONS of the Texas Constitution."

If adopted by the voters, will become effective January 1, 1976, except Article III, Section 5, which becomes effective January 1, 1981.

PROPOSITION NO. 2 ON THE BALLOT

Revising the judiciary provisions of the Texas Constitution. Article V, The Judiciary is amended to:

Establish a unified judicial system consisting of the supreme court, court of appeals, district courts, and circuit courts. Existing county courts and county judges are continued until otherwise provided by law. All judges (except municipal judges), district attorneys and district clerks must be elected by the people. The supreme court and the court of criminal appeals are merged into a single court of last resort, and this supreme court is authorized to provide for efficient administration of the judicial system and to balance case loads. Individual rights for a trial by jury and appeal by the accused are continued. The state is granted the right to appeal in criminal cases in limited circumstances, and the legislature is permitted to establish methods of appeal to the courts from decisions of state agencies.

The wording of the proposed constitutional amendment as it will appear on the ballot is as follows:

"The constitutional amendment revising the JUDICIARY PROVISIONS of the Texas Constitution."

If adopted by the voters, will become effective September 1, 1976.

PROPOSITION NO. 3 ON THE BALLOT

Revising the voting and election provisions of the Texas Constitution. Article VI, Voter Qualifications and Elections, is amended to:

Provide for registration and qualifications for voting including voter residency requirements to be established by law. A citizen of the United States who is at least 18 years of age and who meets the registration and residence requirements provided by law is a qualified voter unless the person has been convicted of a felony and for that felony is incarcerated, on parole, or on probation, or unless the person is mentally incompetent as determined by a court. Voting by the people in all elections must be by secret ballot, and the legislature shall provide by law for residence, registration, and absentee voting requirements, for the administration of elections, and for the protection of the electoral process. The general election for state and county officers is to be held in even-numbered years on a date prescribed by law.

The wording of the proposed constitutional amendment as it will appear on the ballot is as follows:

"The constitutional amendment revising the VOTING AND ELECTION PROVISIONS of the Texas Constitution."

If adopted by the voters, will become effective September 1, 1976.

PROPOSITION NO. 4 ON THE BALLOT

Revising the education provisions of the Texas Constitution. Article VII, Education, is amended to:

Provide that the Permanent and Available School Funds and the county public school funds are continued for the support of the free public schools. The State Board of Education is retained and the Permanent and Available University Funds are continued for the benefit of The University of Texas and Texas A&M Systems. A new Higher Education Fund for Texas is established for the benefit of colleges and universities outside The University of Texas and Texas A&M Systems. The state ad valorem tax of ten cents on $100 valuation is continued as the source of revenue for the Fund. The ten cent higher education tax may be changed by law within the ten cent maximum. The legislature may allocate by law a portion of the Higher Education Fund to certain state vocational and technical institutes. The article provides that the public education system must furnish each individual an equal educational opportunity, but a school district may provide local enrichment of educational programs exceeding the level provided by the state consistent with general law. Authority to issue Permanent University Bonds is continued but the bonds may not exceed 30% of the Permanent University Fund.

The wording of the proposed constitutional amendment as it will appear on the ballot is as follows:

"The constitutional amendment revising the EDUCATION PROVISIONS of the Texas Constitution."

If adopted by the voters, will become effective September 1, 1976, except Article VII, Section 9, which becomes effective January 1, 1979.

PROPOSITION NO. 5 ON THE BALLOT

Revising the finance provisions of the Texas Constitution. Article VIII, Finance, is amended to:

Provide that state taxes may be levied and collected only by general law and to prohibit any state ad valorem tax on real property or tangible personal property except the ten cent tax provided for in Article VII and a tax of two cents on the $100 assessed valuation to provide funds for the State Building Fund. Provides that all real property and tangible personal property must be taxed equally and uniformly in proportion to market value. Existing exemptions from ad valorem taxation are continued. The present dedication of motor fuel taxes for highway purposes and the Available School Fund is retained. The "pay-as-you-go" principle for the operation of state government is retained. The legislature shall establish separate formulas for appraising land to promote the preservation of open-space land devoted to farm or ranch purposes and may establish separate formulas for appraising land to promote the preservation of forest land devoted to timber production. The $3000 exemption from state ad valorem taxation for residential homesteads is continued and the legislature by law may increase this amount. A separate $3000 exemption from ad valorem taxation by political subdivisions is provided for the residential homestead of persons at least 65 years of age and the political subdivision may increase this amount. The legislature by law may exempt from ad valorem taxation certain property owned by veterans' organizations, non-profit water corporations, and persons in need because of age or disability, and economic circumstance. The legislature may also exempt property to preserve historical, cultural or natural history resources. Taxpayers are provided a new method of correcting inequitable tax assessments by paying ad valorem taxes under protest and suing for a refund in a district court. State debt may be authorized by law only if approved by a two-thirds vote of each house of the legislature and submitted to and approved by a majority of the qualified voters of the state voting on the question. Public funds and public credit may be used only for public purposes and no public funds or public credit may be used to influence the election of a public officer. The article prohibits a retail sales tax on agricultural machinery or parts, fertilizer, feeds or seeds, prescription drugs or medicine, or food, except food sold by restaurants for immediate consumption. An assessment voted by marine food or agricultural producers on their product sales is not a tax if provision is made for the individual producer to receive a refund of the assessment when the producer does not desire to be assessed.

The wording of the proposed constitutional amendment as it will appear on the ballot is as follows:

"The constitutional amendment revising the FINANCE PROVISIONS of the Texas Constitution."

If adopted by the voters, will become effective on September 1, 1976, except Article VIII, Section 2, Subsections (b) and (c), which becomes effective January 1, 1978, and Article VIII, Section 6, Subsection(c), which becomes effective January 1, 1979.

PROPOSITION NO. 6 ON THE BALLOT

Revising the local government provisions of the Texas Constitution. Article IX, Local Government, is amended to:

Provide that the counties of the state are those that exist on the date of adoption of the local government article and that county boundaries may be changed if approved by a majority of the qualified voters in each affected county who vote on the question. Counties may be merged or county seats relocated if approved by two-thirds of the qualified voters in each affected county who vote on the question. The present elected constitutional county offices are retained and four year terms of office are provided. The voters of a county may create additional offices, eliminate offices, or combine the duties and functions of offices. The voters may also grant ordinance making power to the governing body of the county. Cities and towns having more than 1,500 inhabitants may become home-rule cities. Tax limitations are established for operating purposes for cities and counties and the legislature is required to fix debt limits for cities, towns, counties, and school and community junior college districts.

The wording of the proposed constitutional amendment as it will appear on the ballot is as follows:

"The constitutional amendment revising the LOCAL GOVERNMENT PROVISIONS of the Texas Constitution."

If adopted by the voters, will become effective on September 1, 1976.

PROPOSITION NO. 7 ON THE BALLOT

Revising the general provisions of the Texas Constitution. Article X, General Provisions, is amended to:

Provide the basic requirements relating to public officeholders such as the official oath and residency requirements. The provision defining the separate and community property of spouses is retained, and the protection of a homestead from forced sale is continued. The legislature is required to protect certain personal property from forced sale. Current wages for personal service are not subject to garnishment. A private corporation may not be chartered except under general law, and no bank may engage in business at more than one place in this state. The legislature must provide for the regulation of bank holding companies. The present system of local-option elections for the prohibition or sale of alcoholic beverages is continued. The legislature is required to prohibit lotteries and gift enterprises but may permit certain bingo games and raffles. The presently existing provisions for retirement benefits of teachers and other public employees are modified to allow the state to contribute more than 10%. A policy that the quality of the environment of the State of Texas is to be protected is established, and the legislature is required to implement and enforce this policy. No state funds may be used to remove surface water from the river basin of origin if the surface water is necessary to supply the reasonable foreseeable water requirements of the basin for the ensuing 50 years, unless the removal of water is sufficiently replaced to the point of removal from outside the state or is on a temporary, interim basis. The seaward beaches of the Gulf of Mexico and coastal submerged lands belonging to the state are held by the state in perpetual trust for the people, and subject to reasonable limitations prescribed by law, the public has the free and unrestricted right of use and benefit of the beaches. The provision is continued that, except as otherwise provided by law, a rate of interest in excess of ten percent a year is usurious, and that if a contract does not specify a rate of interest, the rate under the contract may not exceed six percent a year. Discrimination against handicapped persons is prohibited, and a goal of the state is established to provide every resident access to adequate, comprehensive health care.

The wording of the proposed constitutional amendment as it will appear on the ballot is as follows:

"The constitutional amendment revising the GENERAL PROVISIONS of the Texas Constitution."

If adopted by the voters, will become effective September 1, 1976.

PROPOSITION NO. 8 ON THE BALLOT

Revising the mode of amending provisions of the Texas Constitution. The proposed article will be the last article of the constitution. If only Proposition No. 8 is adopted, the article will replace Article XVII of the present constitution. If other propositions are adopted, the article will be appropriately renumbered to remain the last article of the constitution. If all propositions are adopted, the article will be Article XI. Article XVII, Mode of Amending the Constitution of the State, is amended to:

Establish a procedure for constitutional amendments requiring a two-thirds vote of each house of the legislature and majority approval by the voters. The calling of a limited or unlimited constitutional convention with voter approval is provided. The question of whether to call a constitutional convention must be submitted to the people every 30 years.

The wording of the proposed constitutional amendment as it will appear on the ballot is as follows:

The constitutional amendment revising the MODE OF AMENDING PROVISIONS of the Texas Constitution."

If adopted by the voters, will become effective September 1, 1976.

Church News...

 Godly nature awakened can cause man to live responsibly.

Devotion was led by Sister Mable Willis and Sister Helen Riggins. The junior choir sang two songs, and the youth choir sang two songs.

Mr. and Mrs. Teddy Scott had the dedication of their two children, Teddy Jr. and Christi Lynn. The dedication was performed by Rev. M.A. Brown. The proud grandparents of the children are Mr. and Mrs. Beno Scott and Mr. and Mrs. Earnest Gipson. They all attended the services. Both families have been members of Triumph Baptist Church for years. Sister Petra, mother of the children, is the musician at Triumph.

The senior choir sang "I Need Thee Every Hour" as Rev. Brown gave his topic, which was "Giving Ourselves to the Lord." The choir followed with "Come and Go With Me to My Father's House", where there is peace.

The Wayside Travelers will be at Triumph Sunday, September 14th at 3 p.m. sponsored by Sister JoAnne Norris.

Triumph Baptist Church is located at 1255 E. Geneva, Slaton. Rev. M.A. Brown is pastor.

New Hope Baptist Church

We are to host the B.M.&E State Convention, October 13 through 15. Pastor Dunn is asking that all committees complete all plans as soon as possible.

The Solace Board will hold their annual tea on Sunday afternoon, October 5, at 3 o'clock. Let us all give our support and attend this affair.

Midget ushers will rehearse on Friday evening, September 12, at 4:00. All members are to attend.

Ushers meeting will be held Friday evening, September 19, at 8:00. All members are asked to meet in the church auditorium.

The Pastor's Aid will present their Green-Leaf Tea on Sunday, September 21, from 5 to 6 p.m. The public is invited to attend.

Sunday, September 14, is youth day. Let us give our support and help make this a big day for the youth of our church.

Twentieth & Birch Street Church of Christ

Members of the Young Ladies Christian Development Class will have a special guest speaker at their meeting Friday evening, September 12, at 8:00.

The singing group meets at the church for practice Saturday evening, September 13, at 8:00.

We would like to have others come and join us in this effort.

There will be a young peoples meeting Friday evening September 12 at 8:00 in the church auditorium. All our young people are invited.

Let us continue to pray for and visit our sick and shut-in members. Rosetta Jackson, Ella Williams and T.E. Ray are ill this week. Brother Nelson McCormick was admitted to Methodist Hospital last week. He is in room 682.

Looking Back...

 or 22 years. Then Cobb bought the building, and I continued to work there, but in the store. I worked as a shipping and receiving clerk for Cobb's Department Store. Then Cobb sold that store and I had to leave by request of the new owners. That's when I went to work for the City of Lubbock.

How long did you work for the city?

I worked for the city about twelve years. At the present time, I work indirectly for the city with Urban Renewal. The funding comes from the government, but it goes to the city for administration.

Mr. Woods, looking back over the years, what are some of the shortcomings of the black community?

Pat, there have been several of them. One thing is that we do not respect ourselves enough. We just don't do that. Population wise, among ourselves, our death rate, killing and murder rate among ourselves, is just too great. If we had 40,000 blacks in Lubbock, we would average about a death a day for black people. Self respect plays an important part in our shortcomings. I wouldn't say that all of it is ignorance, it's not! I don't know what makes it happen, it just happens. Death rates are high among our people.

What are some of the negative things you've seen happen over the years?

Blacks just never would cooperate with each other. I might be criticized for saying this, but blacks just don't cooperate with each other. We (blacks) have a jealous attitude in Lubbock. Maybe you have recognized this since you've been here. The older people don't do too much to help the young people get their feet on the ground. Sometimes there's a cause for that.

What would that cause be?

Well, we've got so many of our young black boys who are just pure radicals in my thinking. The other fellow might not think so, but I do. You just can't bully your way through life. Somebody may say that's foggy and old fashion, but that's the way I see it. I call it plain old common sense.

Do you think Urban Renewal should have ever happened to east Lubbock?

One time I didn't, but now I think it was a great help. I'll say why, because I was right in the middle of it all when it first came to Lubbock. In fact, I don't know if you remember, but they were going to name this whole area "George Woods Area", only I would have had to be dead for that to happen. The mayor at that time was Forrest, and he called me one night and told me this. It didn't work out. The people at Urban Renewal didn't know how it worked and the board didn't know exactly what to do. As you know, I was appointed to the board of directors of Urban Renewal in 1959. At that time, without any slight remarks, I was criticized by several of my people and neighbors that I was selling out the black people of east Lubbock. You see this thing had been in the making for some three or four years before I became a member of the board. I believe this project was the first Urban Renewal project in the state of Texas. Here is why I think it's more of a benefit now to the community. You could come in on the railroad track going north or south and it looked like black people lived in chicken houses, pig pens and the life. In other words, people didn't care about themselves. One of the reasons as (and there was a cause for that) black people could not go to town and borrow enough money from a loan agency or a bank to build a house. He wasn't making enough to pay cash for a house, so he had to do the best he could about his house. If you were able to borrow about $500 without putting up $2000, you were most fortunate in those days. I realize that from personal experience in borrowing money. I tried to borrow $2280 from the oldest savings and loan company in Lubbock. They took the application quite readily and when I went back they asked me the address of the property (which was already on the application) and they told me they were sorry they couldn't help me. They told me they didn't lend money on the east side of Avenue E. This happened to me in the early 1940's.

Did you ever get a loan?

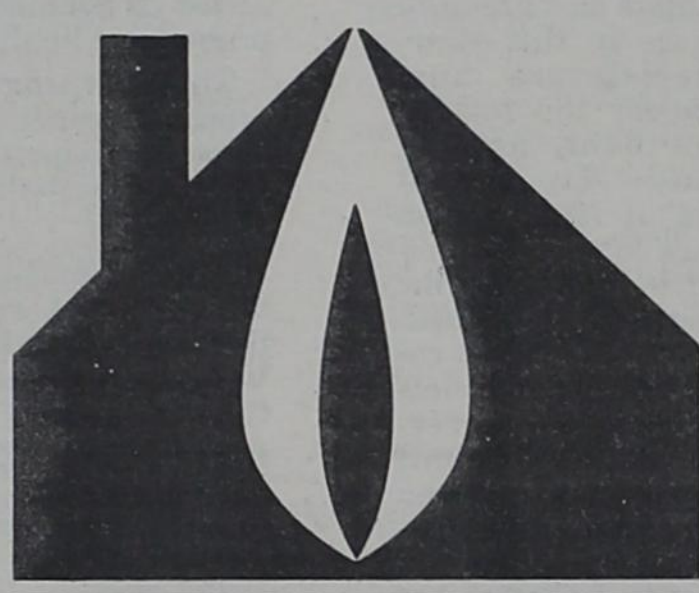

Yes, I did. I got the loan with the help of a white fellow, Marion Sanford. He opened the door for me. He told me that the reason they didn't loan money to black people was because their salaries were too small. Of course, we had nowhere to work but for the white man. Then he said the resale value would be too small for the investment of the money in the property. He said it would be a very bad investment in the black community. It was very heart breaking for me to accept what he was telling me, but that was the way it really was in those days. You know it hurts when you want to do something and your color hurts you.

What types of criticism did you receive from people?

One of the major criticisms I received about Urban Renewal was that I started it. I told them at that time, as broke as I was, I wish I did have the $14 million it took to start Urban Renewal. Some of the people, and I know their names, thought I got some of the money. I wouldn't call their names.

(Next week, Mr. Woods talks more about Urban Renewal, candidates he thinks could be elected to political office from the black community, and other interesting points about Lubbock in those days.)

A Natural Energy Home uses, natural gas for heating, cooling, water heating, cooking and clothes drying to save you money and help conserve our cleanest natural energy resource... natural gas.

That's because electricity in West Texas is generated by burning natural gas, and in the process of generating and transmitting electricity to your home, 2/3 of the gas energy is lost.

So, by using gas directly in the home for the jobs it can do, you're helping to conserve it and you're getting more energy for your money.

SPORTS

by Joe Kelly

It was cloudy, the cicadas were stilled, the thermometer hadn't climbed up to 70 in the shade and, for the first time in weeks, there was a hint of fall in the air.

It was a good day for a football scrimmage and that's exactly what Texas Tech had Saturday morning. Moreover, it was a good scrimmage, despite the absence of the walking wounded. The backs were running with authority and the lines were hitting hard.

It was dress rehearsal time, under game conditions, complete with kickoffs and punts. And if the practice gave some encouragement for this year's Red Raider eleven, good. There were some things that looked extremely encouraging.

The defense, while not overpowering, showed strength, with good pursuit and gang tackling. Ecomet Burley at middle guard should make a big difference.

"He'll guess wrong occasionally," J.T. King observed, "and look bad. But he also will make the big play, too."

Offensively, both Tommy Duniven and Dorney Allison were throwing well, scrambling well and looking comfortable at quarterback. As a result, with good blocking by the line, the Raider offense was moving the ball in good fashion.

Cliff Hoskins, Billy Taylor and Jimmy Williams ran well and, as usual, the pass receivers were doing a good job. The effectiveness of the passing game was particularly encouraging.

Overall, in view of the hard work since drills began and the physical condition of the squad, it had to be encouraging to the coaches. Polished it wasn't, but there was no lack of enthusiasm and hard hitting.

The absence of a breakaway threat was noticeable, but Larry Isaac's return to duty may answer that. It begins to shape up as a Raider team that has potential, but maybe more importantly, a team that will be interesting to watch in this building year.

We won't have long to wait to find out what to expect. Florida State moves in Saturday, a scant 48 hours after these lines hit the street, and the Seminoles should be a rough foe.

Coach Darrell Mudra (who coaches from the press box) had 41 of 51 lettermen returning, 16 of the top 22 and eight starters from both offense and defense. Mudra was in something of the same position Steve Sloan is in this year. He had to rebuild.

The Seminoles won only once last year, over Miami (Fla.), but held Alabama to an 8-7 victory, lost to Pitt by only 9-6, was beaten by Baylor, 21-17, and scared bitter rival Florida before losing. Nothing to be ashamed of in those games.

It's the type of team that has strength, as well as a Wing T offense that will be tough to defense. Make no mistake, Florida State, which is 2-0 against Tech, will be tough.

Baylor and SMU, as expected, kicked off with victories, although the Ponies weren't as strong as expected. And what the loss of Mark Jackson at quarterback will do to the Bears is anyone's guess. He will be hard to replace.

This is the type of injury that can make a challenger just another team, despite depth elsewhere. It is significant, perhaps, that the Bears really didn't move much after Jackson was hurt.

Elsewhere, the principal interest will be seeing what A&M can do against Mississippi and the crosstown battle between Rice and Houston. Arkansas has a mild test in Air Force, and Florida should give SMU a good test.

Otherwise, there shouldn't be any trouble. Texas entertains Colorado State and TCU hosts UT Arlington. Two Tech non-conference foes have light openers—New Mexico vs Fresno State and Oklahoma State against Wichita.

Bear Bryant's suit against the NCAA on limits imposed on the size of squads was decided faster than most expected. It was a popular decision against a ruling that was patently unfair.

Frankly, I was surprised, not so much that a coach brought suit, but that the decision came so quickly. And, as Coach King commented, it was too bad that a collegiate action had to be taken to the courts at all.

"It should have been handled by the NCAA without going to court, Jake declared.

The decision to allow home teams 60 players and visiting teams only 48 in uniform obviously was unfair to the visitors. The home field is usually one touchdown in your favor at the start. The thing to do in cutting expenses is not to make it onesided.

Not only would it have been to the advantage of the home team, it could have resulted in onesided games that wouldn't help college gates. That would be especially true in hot climates, where heat and injuries could ruin a squad of 48.

In the excitement of football, I almost forgot that Fall was ushered in about two weeks ago with the arrival of the L.L. Bean catalogue. Bean's catalogue is timed to coincide with the arrival of two seasons, Spring and Fall.

The new catalogue is crammed with attractive winter gear, most of which would be superfluous in West Texas. Still, there is a lot of good in the 128-page "bible" and it makes fascinating reading.

The Roundup—Notes from the "sick" front: Bill Hart, former Lubbock sports writer, is recuperating at Baird from bronchial pneumonia. He was due to go home over the weekend . . . E.C. Leslie, asst. supt. of schools, came through open heart surgery in fine fashion, should be on his way home today. He'll recuperate for about a month . . . Walt McAlexander, local baseball writer, is kicking up the antiseptic sheets, too, following back surgery . . . Dove hunters around Abilene are crying—too much water and feed . . . One of the interested spectators at Tech's scrimmage Saturday was John Farquhar. "Big Jawn" is living up to his nickname, but one of Tech's finest golfers still does all right on the links . . . Experts agree that Scott Gardner, of Monterey, probably is one of the finest all around athletes Lubbock has produced . . . Now that Donny Anderson has retired, about the only Tech footballer still in pro ranks is Andre Tillman. The Miami Dolphin apparently still is hurt, too.
