Education Grants Available for Students to Continue Schooling

For many young people, September means back to school and a chance to further their education beyond high school. But any student knows that school can cost a lot of money.

The Basic Educational Opportunity Grand Program of HEW's Office of Education is giving grants that range between $200 and $1,400 to students enrolled in postsecondary schools. And it's not too late to apply for the 1975-76 academic year. The deadline is March 15, 1976.

Eligibility for Basic Grants is based on financial need as determined by a formula reviewed by Congress every year and applied uniformly to all applicants. The only other requirements for eligibility are these:

 An applicant must be a U.S. citizen or permanent resident. · An applicant must be planning to enroll at least half-time. An applicant must have begun postsecondary education after April 1, 1973.

To apply for a Basic Grant, students fill out an "Application for Determination of Basic Grant Eligibility." Applications are available from high school counselors, postsecondary financial aid officers, public libraries or by writing: Basic Grants, P.O. Box 84, Washington, D.C. 20044.

Four to six weeks after submitting an application, students are informed of their eligibility. Since the amount of the grant depends on both financial need and the cost at the school, students must take this notification to the financial aid office at the school which they plan to attend to find out the amount of the award.

Students may use the grants at any of over 5,800 colleges and universities, community colleges, vocational and technical schools, career academies, and hospital schools of nursing.

The grants may be used for any educational expense, including tuition, fees, room and board, books, and supplies. But, in no instance, may they exceed one-half of the total cost of a year's education. They can, however, be used in conjunction with other private, State, and Federal assistance.

Look into Basic Grants. It costs nothing to apply, and they never have to be paid back. A few simple steps toward a Basic Grant could put you on the road to a good education this fall.

(Editor's note: This is part two of a series about Mr. M.C. Coleman, the first black deputy hired by the Lubbock County Sheriff's Department. He tells of interesting experiences he saw in 1929.)

Mr. Coleman, can you think of a real hard case you had in arresting someone who broke the law?

There were several that were interesting, but one that stands out in my mind is when some white men came to the flats area, because all the bad black men and women had gone to Slaton, Texas. Slaton, as you know, was wide open then. It was real dull in the flats when all the bad fellows went down there.

These white men came to the flats one night with four car loads. Only two men were in one small car, but the other cars were full. One of the men in the small car said: "Boy, how's times around here?" I told them they didn't know who they were talking to. He continued: "Well, they tell me they have a Nigger law around here,

Attorney General Edward H. Levi announced recently that 276 counties in six states are now required to obtain federal clearance of changes in voting and election procedures and to hold bilingual elections.

Mr. Levi made the determination in conjunction with Director of the Census Vincent P. Barabba under the 1975 amendments to the Voting Rights Act.

The amendments extend coverage of the Voting Rights Act to counties in which less than half of the voting age citizens were registered to vote or voted in the 1972 presidential election, in which more than 5 percent of the voting age population is a single language minority, and in which only the English language was used at any stage in the election process. In addition to the bilingual election requirements, the newly covered counties are required to submit all changes in voting and election procedures to the Attorney General or to the U.S. their determinations.

District Court for the District of Columbia for approval before the changes can be made.

Assistant Attorney General J. Stanley Pottinger, head of the Civil Rights Division, which enforces the Voting Rights Act, said the law requires the counties covered to submit all changes since November 1, 1972.

The coverage also allows the Attorney General to designate areas where federal examiners may be appointed to register voters and federal observers appointed for elections.

All of the counties designated today contain a Spanish language minority. They are: Arizona, all 14 counties; California, Kings and Merced; Colorado, El Paso; Florida, Hardee, Hillsborough, and Monroe; New York, Bronx and Kings; Texas, all 254 counties.

Mr. Levi said additional counties will be covered under the 1975 amendments and will be announced as soon as he and the Director of the Census have made

Dismissal Not the Answer To Misdemeanor Crimes

With crime on the upswing in this country, and our own city, those persons who commit crimes in our community should be prosecuted and not dismissed because of worthless excuses. Taxpayers pay for the services of our criminal district attorney's office and the judges in the county courts. There is absolutely no excuse for anyone to have charges against them dismissed.

If we continue to let the so called "little bitty" crimes go unpunished, we can expect the same thing to happen to those persons who commit the felony crimes in Lubbock and Lubbock County.

When those persons accused of misdemeanor crimes are dismissed, they're allowed to go out into the streets over and over again and commit other crimes. This leads to repitition of the same persons involved in "little bitty" crimes, adding to greater losses on the part of the taxpayers.

Unless our misdemeanor crimes are handled in a responsible manner, more apathy can be expected in our community. Citizens-although there is a fine or punishment for not participating as a juror-who are chosen to be jurors will continue to be careless about their participation.

In the month of August, there were 189 misdemeanor cases brought before the two county courts and a total of 135 cases were dismissed. This is nonsense and the criminal district attorney's office and the county courts should do their part to curtail this shortcoming. Unless this is done, voters are going to be very cautious about who they elect for such responsible offices in the upcoming elections. Misdemeanor crimes should not be dismissed, but should be handled as any other crime against citizens of our community.

The New Constitution and Citizen's Responsibility

In our democratic form of government, the citizen has a great deal of freedom-naturally followed by even more citizen responsibility. If this system of government is to survive, then it follows that the individual citizen must make a better effort to become informed on issues in order to cast his ballot.

Unfortunately, in our present condition we find our citizens falling down on both issues.

At the present time there is a campaign underway in the State of Texas to inform its citizens about the new constitution which is to be voted upon November 4th. The State, or to be more specific—the taxpayer—has gone to considerable expense to inform every voter of the proposed constitution. From the publication of a "legal notice" in every legal newspaper in the state of Texas of an explaination of the proposed constitution over a two week period of time, to the considerable expense of printing a tabloid section for every voter setting forth the provisions of the new document, the taxpayer's representatives have attempted to spell out the provisions of the new document.

Various statewide committees have established speaker bureaus, other statewide organizations have selected representatives to present the pros and cons of the new document and last week the Texas Press Association, of which this paper is a member, sponsored a seminar for newsmen at which time editors and journalists were given information on the proposed constitution.

The results of all this "information" is most likely to be as confusing to the average citizen as to this newspaper. The State Bar of Texas recommends the changes in the judicial section as a way to work out of the increasing backlog of cases that clog our courts-yet other groups fear this would be a step backward.

Many county judges and commissioners of the state fear the new proposal because it threatens local control of tax values.

As I See It

by T.J. Patterson

A little preventive medicine for the schools of Dunbar and Estacado, would be for each school to tell their football teams to respect the team playing, when they attend as spectators. The case in point is the contest last Friday when Dunbar was playing Lubbock High School, and the Estacado Matadors were spectators on the Dunbar side.

It's alright for anyone to cheer any given team, but it's another thing when we are in the midst of another team's section and unnecessary cheers are given by the visiting

Texans rejected basically the same document two years ago-although there has been sufficient changes in the new presentation to make the argument of "new" proposals acceptable on some counts. Of course the real proof in the changes remain to be determined by the voters on November 4th.

In our own area State Representative R.B. "Mac" McAlister has come out for the adoption of the new constitution, while former governor Preston Smith has spoken out against its adoption. Both men are highly regarded as legislators and as leaders and certainly they will add to the already confusing position some voters may find themselves in, especially those who have not taken the time to read the new document for themselves.

There are voters for, and voters against; groups for and groups against; and certainly the average voter has his work cut out for him if he is to cast an intelligent vote in the upcoming election.

This newspaper would only hope that Mr. and Mrs. Texas Voter does not allow the "campaign noise" to turn him or her off to the importance of the issue. This new constitution, if approved on November 4th, will replace 100 years of self-governed rule by Texans, and the issue at hand is certainly too important for anyone to stay home and "pass by" on election day. Our way of government-with its individual freedom and citizen responsibility—demands that everyone eligible cast a vote come election day.

Register by October 4th and be prepared to cast your vote November 4th.

N.L.W.

This writer would hope that each coach (Louis Kelly and Van Jefferson) would tell their fellows to respect the teams playing. Perhaps it's all in fun, but sometimes people don't understand the fun. Principals of those schools could help

The League of Women Voters of Lubbock has made known that their services are available for groups or organizations who would like to know more about the upcoming November 4th Texas Constitution Revision Election. This organization is willing to explain this Speakers on the Texas constitution revision are available by calling 795-9718 or 792-7382.

Let's take advantage of this opportunity and see what the November 4th election is all about.

This writer had an opportunity to appear each morning this week on FYI with R.B. "Mac" McAllister over KMCC-TV, Channel 28. The last series of my appearance with Mr. Mac will be this morning at 7:25 and 8:25 a.m., and again Friday morning at the same time.

One of the questions asked by Mr. Mac was: "What would you do if you could snap your fingers and help east Lubbock?" The answer was: "Just move southwest Lubbock to East Lubbock." Of course this is not possible, but it sure would be a beautiful thing if east Lubbock had some of the same opportunities as southwest Lubbock. After all, this is our city and we should all be concerned about how each area is being developed. It so happens that east Lubbock isn't being developed.

Maybe one day, east Lubbock will have an opportunity to be developed as any part of the city of Lubbock.

This writer is getting a great number of comments about the recent series in the West Texas Times, "Looking Back Over the Years". If you know of anyone who has been in Lubbock since 1900, 1910, 1920 or 1930, please let me hear from you. This newspaper will carry fifty-twi issues of this series. A special issue during the week of July 4th will carry all personalities in that issue.

As I see It, the black cast in the production "Show Boat" is doing a splendid job for this effort. It is interesting to see these young people perform in such an interesting musical.

I would like to congratulate those young people for doing such a splendid job.

JACK ANDERSON'S WICEKLY

CIA LENDS RESPECTABILITY TO ASSASSINATION by Jack Anderson with Joe Spear

(Copyright, 1975, United Feature Syndicate, Inc.) Washington-Much of the responsibility for the two recent attempts on President Ford's life, some experts believe, must go to the White House and the CIA. The reason: They have made assassination respectable by routinely practicing it.

The CIA, as we first reported four and a half years ago, made numerous attempts to knock off Premier Fidel Castro of Cuba. There have been reports, furthermore, that the agency was involved in the deaths of Congo strongman Patrice Lumumba and Dominican Republic dictator Rafael Trujillo.

Recently, the Washington Post revealed that a "high official" in the Nixon White House once ordered Watergate conspirator E. Howard Hunt to assassinate me. The plot was to be perpetrated with a powerful, untraceable poison supplied by a former CIA physician.

It stands to reason, then, that revolutionaries, or anyone with a cause, would be encouraged by the actions of their leaders.

Psychologists call this phenomenon "modeling". It is the very reason why movie stars and well-known athletes are chosen to advertise everything from pantyhose to

According to Sanford University's renowned social psychologist Phillip Zimbardo, extensive research has demonstrated that when "powerful models" behave a certain way, their behavior becomes exemplary.

People who read about White House orders to poison Jack Anderson or CIA attempts to kill Castro, Zimbardo told us, themselves begin to consider assassination "a viable alternative."

When potential assassins see government officials escape punishment, furthermore, it reinforces their conviction that assassination is a respectable act.

At this moment, a Justice Department spokesman told us, government lawyers are "very vigorously" pursuing the possibility of prosecuting CIA officials who were responsible for assassinations of foreign leaders. Federal attorneys are also "studying laws" to see if anyone can be prosecuted for ordering my assassination.

It is highly unlikely, however, that a former CIA director of high White House official will wind up in the jug for such

This prompts a sticky legal question: Why imprison Squeaky Fromme or Sarah Moore for attempting to kill a public figure when promiment officials go free for ordering precisely the same thing?

It is an interesting legal argument, experts have told us-one which could well be raised by lawyers for both of the would-be-assassins.

Fuddle Factory: Our continuing investigation of the federal bureaucracy has turned up a few more choice

—The Labor Department recently inspected an 11-story

buliding in Washington and found it full of safety hazards. The inspectors discovered faulty fire extinguishers and dark emergency exits. Overall, they listed more than 300 safety violations. The tenant: the Occupational Safety and Health Administration.

-Due to a massive administration foul-up in the Environmental Protection Agency, some 10,000 EPA booklets were sent by mistake to a farm office in Missouri. The farmers don't want the pamphlets, but they can't afford the return postage. And they can't burn them because it would violate the EPA's clean air standards. At last report, they were using the crates of booklets as pedestals for plywood work tables.

Juggling Act: In his battle to reduce government regulation of business, President Ford has charged that unnecessary and ineffective government regulations cost each American family about $2,000 per year. He has never cited the source of his statistic.

An investigation by Rep. John Moss, D-Calif., however, indicates Ford may be juggling the figures to make his point. Moss found the White House was totally ignoring the money saved by government regulation of business. Ford focused on costs only, thus presenting a distorted figure.

Klan Calling: The infamous Ku Klux Klan is once again raising its cross. Down in Denham Springs, La., the Klan has been sending nasty letters to people they thing are wrongdoers. One white man, for example, was instructed to break up the romance between his daughter and a black youth. Another was ordered to pay his "store bills." Occasionally the Klan makes a house call. If no one is home, they leave a called card. "You have been paid a friendly visit by the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan," says the menacing message. "Should we pay you a real visit?"

Lethal Lettuce: All those stories about CIA attempts to assassinate world leaders with exotic poisons is really nothing new. The CIA predecessor, the old Office of Strategic Services, tried to knock off Adolf Hitler during World War II. In cooperation with allied agents, they bribed Hitler's gardener to sprinkle an untraceable poison on the Fuhrer's lettuce. The plot, of course, never came off. To quote one British agent, the gardener was 'not trustworthy."

Island Napping: In the eastern Mediterranean, another Greek-Turkish problem is threatening to explode into open warfare. The Turks want rights to some of the oil that may lie beneath the Aegean Sea. The problem is, most of the Aegean is internationally recognized as Greek territory. To give credence to their case, intelligence sources tell us, the Turks are visiting deserted Greek islands and raising the Turkish flag.

Washington Whirl: Some of Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's former war buddies remember him as the sloppiest, but best humored, private in their entire division . . . Afterhours callers to the office of Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., get to hear the Senator himself, on tape, of course. Bayh apologizes that his office is closed and asks the caller to leave name and number. He doesn't mention that he's running for President . . . IMB executives from around the world got together recently at Washington's posh Madison hotel for a week-long business session. French representatives were outraged when the Madison refused to serve them wine with their meals. Seems IBM has a strict rule against drinking while on the job.

It's football season, and Sister Hampton would sure like to get her television set back. Can anyone help her?

Car Burglary

Ivy Graves, 3503 East 4th Street, reported to Lubbock police that she parked her car in the carport one evening last week and sometime during the night, someone gained entry to her car by prying open the passenger window vent.

Taken from the car were ten 8-track tapes. Some of her favorite tapes were ripped off. Tapes included B.B. King, Ray Charles, Al Green, Moms Mabley and Lloyd Price. These tapes were valued at approximately $60.

Simple Assault on Woman

A Lubbock man, according to police report, took advantage of a young lady because she refused to do as he asked one night last week. She reports to police that the man picked her up at her apartment and took her to the Diamond Doll for an evening out on the town.

When she refused to do as he asked at the show, the man got mad. He took her to a local cafe and began to beat her up. She told the man that she could not do what he wanted her to do because she "wasn't his woman."

He slapped her several times, with a witness present, and called her many bad names. The lady said she would file charges this week.

The Police Beat has heard many persons who have been beaten up and assaulted say they were going to file charges against someone, but it very seldom happens. Will this young lady really file charges?

House Burglary

Daniel Vernon, 2629 East 4th Street, reported to Lubbock police that persons unknown gained entry to his house last week by cutting the screen on the back door, and unlatching the door.

Taken from the house were a picture of the Virgin Mary, a clock radio, a piggy bank with $5.00 and a mirror. These items were valued at $51.00.

Man Beats Woman

Geraldine Fountain, 2804 Weber Drive, Apt. D, reported to Lubbock police that a man entered her apartment one evening last week and began to beat her with a pair of pliers.

When police arrived on the scene, they found the lady had minor lacerations on both ears and in back of her head. She was taken to Methodist Hospital by AID Ambulance for treatment. She told police that she would file charges this week.

Continued From Page One and man, I don't care nothing about no Nigger Law, becaue all you have to do is give this Nigger law a drink and a cigar and you can do whatever you want to do."

What did you do after hearing him make those remarks?

He asked me to come over to his car. I went over to the car and put my foot on the door. He said again, "Boy, let me tell you something. I want to know where these wild women are around here." I asked him what he said, and he again asked about the wild women. I told him, they were up in his part of town. He then told me that I didn't know who I was talking to. I told him that he didn't know who he was talking to either. Then I threw open my coat so he could see my badge.

What did he say after seeing your deputy badge?

He said: "Man, that don't mean nothing." He went on to tell me that he had on a "forty-five" as big as the one I was wearing. I told him that I hoped he didn't have one on because "I'm wearing this badge and I'm going to do my job. If you were wearing a badge, I would respect you. You would probably whip my head for talking to you like that". I told him to get out of the car because I wanted to see what he was wearing.

Did he get out of the car?

Yes, he did. When he got out of the car I searched him from head to toe. I also asked the fellow riding with him to get out of the car. I told the rest of them to just sit there in the car until I came back. I searched his car and he didn't have anything. He was just running his mouth, trying to scare me.

What did he say after you searched him?

He said: Man, if you hurt me,

Nigger blood will scatter all over this town."

Did that scare you, Mr. Coleman?

No, it didn't. I told him that I didn't care about the blood, because his blood didn't mean anything to me. I told him I was going to carry him to jail, along with all of his friends. I told him that if the world came to an end, I was still going to carry all of them to jail that night. I told them that if all of them were looking for prostitutes, then they were all going to jail because each of them had violated the law.

Did you carry them to jail?

I sure did! I made the fellow with the big mouth lead the way to the jail house. I was driving behind all of them. We drove up to 8th Street where the jail was located. When I go them there, the high sheriff called for the judge to handle the situation.

Did the white fellows tell the judge anything?

I never did pull my pistol on those fellows, but the one with the big mouth told the judge: "I tell you what, that Nigger rubbed all the skin off my ribs with that forty-five." The Judge said: "Let me tell you something, young man, that colored law is the same as me." He continued: "It is better for him to arrest you than for one of them Niggers to cut your head off or kill you." The badge I had was authority to arrest anyone. My papers came from Austin. I was for real. The Judge told them that they must remember that there are some whites who gamble and do other bad acts. The Judge also told them that they didn't want the whites and blacks to mix because they didn't want the same kind of mess that Slaton had. The high sheriff and judge told those white men that they weren't going to have it as long as they were in

Were these men fined for being in the flats?

Yes, each of them was fine $35. You see, if you were white you could be in the black community at a certain time and then you had to leave. You also had to give an account of what you were there for, day or night.

Did you ever clean up Lubbock? Yes we did, and started on Slaton did't have their house in order so we wanted to help down there. The county was completely cleaned up. The city chief of Lubbock wanted to get involved. George Eubanks and a real large fellow (I always forget his name) and I went to Slaton. We went down to "Big Jake's Place" and arrested about twenty-five people at one time. I would go down there in the car with them and they would load up the cars and bring them back to Lubbock. When we got them to Lubbock, we put them in jail. Along with George Eubanks, there was another man by the name of Grady Harrist.

Was Grady Harrist a deputy?

No, Grady was a policeman before he became high sheriff in Lubbock County.

Would those persons arrested from Slaton be fined?

Sure they would be fined. They were fined $16 for gambling and $22 for sweating the game. This was the county fine. The first time we arrested them, the city police asked what they were going to get out of the fine.

Did the City of Lubbock make money for their arrest?

This question was asked by Mr. Eubanks and Mr. Harrist: "What are we going to get out of this arrest?" Well, I told them that they could charge the people being arrested, so much a mile. The County had charged them for gambling and sweating, and we told them to charge them so much a mile for being arrested.

Did the city charge them by the mile?

Yes, they charged them twenty cents a mile.

Was the Klu Klux Klan really mean here?

Well, I'll tell you about the Klan, they were bad on everyone. They were really as bad on whites as they were on blacks. People would holler about the KKK's. They worked like the law. When someone did something bad, then you had to look for the KKK. You didn't know who the members were. It might be the man you were working for under the white sheet, but you didn't know. The KKK's didn't bother good people. They were after the people committing crimes in Lubbock. Law, at that time, was real poor out here. I was really poor. A lot of country was nothing but cotton, mules and horses when I came here.

Where was the first black house built here?

When I first came here, the first house in the black community was built by Guy Sefus. He put down a tent without a floor, in the flats. This was where people came to play dominoes. It wasn't long after that other blacks began to come to the area and build houses. All the lots in the flats in those days were real cheap. You could buy one of the inside lots for $10 to $15; and a corner lot cost only $25. Land was real cheap then.

What other black people were here when you came?

Aside from Guy Sefus, there was Calvin Quigley, George Tinsey, Claude L. Faulks, and a few others.

When did you quit the position of deputy sheriff?

I quit that job when Lubbock National Bank offered me a job. The man on my b nd, Mr. W.O. Stephens, had an opening at that bank. That was in 1930. I quit working for the county in May of 1930. Mr. Stephens called me and said, "Coleman, that old job being a lawman is no good, you can get a job at Lubbock National Bank and the man over there will treat you real good."

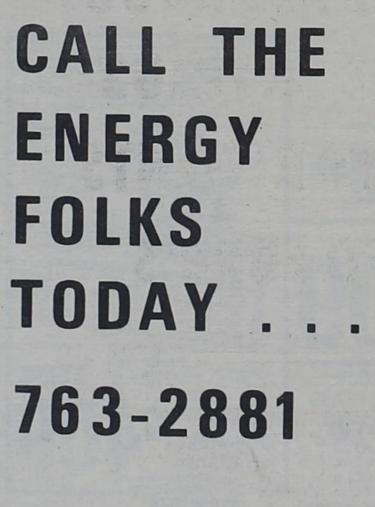

Was the job really open for you at the bank?

Yes, because I went over there and talked to a man by the name of Mr. Charles Maedgen. He told me that if W.O. Stephens had sent me over there, then "here's the key to the bank." So that's where I started to work after being deputy sheriff in Lubbock. I enjoyed working at the bank because it was a family type bank. Everyone got along with each other.

What advice would you give black people?

I would leave this advice. If you live the right life, you will get help from good white folks. One white man, I mean a good white man's, word means more than fifty colored people's word. Colored people are afraid they are going to hurt themselves and are scared of white folks. I advise any young black person to carry themselves so that if you need help, you can get the help you need.

Postal Rates Not Scheduled to Rise Until After Yearly Christmas Season

Postage rates will not increase until after Christmas, Postmaster General Benjamin F. Bailar announced today. Bailar said that the Postal Service will file with the Postal Rate Commission for the new rates "some time in the next two weeks."

Mr. and Mrs. Billy W. Turner, Mrs. Mae Helen Miller, Rose Butler, Josephine Scody of Waxahachie. Others were Mr. and Mrs. Rosville E. Embry and Felecia D. and Margaret L. Roswell and Mrs. E. Brown of Dallas.

The bride is employed by GMAC and the groom is employed by Lubbock State School and attends Texas Tech University. The young couple will reside in Lubbock.

If the Commission does not act within 90 days of the filing, the Postal Service may increase rates on a "temporary" basis.

The exact amounts of the increases to be requested have not been finally determined, but they are expected to include 13-cents for the first ounce of ordinary first-class mail, with appropriate increases for other classes of mail. They will most likely take effect during the week following Christmas, although the precise date cannot be set until after the filing with the Rate Commission. The Postal Service ran deficits of over $430 million for fiscal year 1974 and approximately $825 million in ifscal 1975, and estimates current losses at approximately $200 million per month.

The post-Christmas rate increases are necessary to stem these losses. The losses are due to inflation-driven cost increases and extreme delays in prior rate adjustments. Bailar said he was optimistic that the Rate Commission would move promptly on the new increases.

I can think of more pleasant ways for a new coach to break into the Southwest Conference football championship race than by playing Texas. And Steve Sloan knows it now better than anyone else, unless it be J.T. King and Jim Carlen.

DeWitt Weaver had only on eopportunity and, like the others, bit the Victories over Texas have been about as rare as fresh water in the ocean. Weaver didn't score one in the league, while King succeeded once in six tries and Carlen, once in five.

Except among the most rabid faithful, there was little optimism of a Tech victory Saturday night. The Raiders had not shown in two games the type of muscle needed, let alone the finesse.

Florida State used an attack that put a type of pressure on the defense not usually faced, while New Mexico had little in the way of a ground offensive. Both games were won by Tech, but the Raiders didn't show the type of offense or defense that would bother Texas that much.

There's really not much of anything fancy about the Longhorns. In fact, I wouldn't doubt but what Darrell Royal would be happy to send his play book to any opposing coach. It wouldn't help a bit, because the coaches know what Texas is going to do.

The Longhorns are going to line up, nose to nose, and say here we come, stop us. It's going to be Earl Campbell up the gut, Marty Akins on the keeper or maybe a pitch to a halfback.

It became painfully obvious right after the kick-off that Tech's defensive theory was lacking. Richard Bell is sorely missed, because he was a master of taking material, disguising the defense and coming up with defenses that worked.

But Tech doesn't have Richard Bell, unfortunately, and it was obvious that the Raider defense was incapable of stopping the Horns. Just as obviously, they didn't.

The only glimmer of hope for the rest of the season is that Tech's offense performed pretty well, if you'll close your eyes to four—count 'em—four fumbles and two interceptions. Mistakes like that make it extremely difficult for any team to win.

But when the Raiders took the ball after the first Texas touchdown and marched methodically, there is basis for hope. The fumble, of course, killed the drive and, to all intents and purposes, Raider hopes for a victory.

It reminds me of the time the Chicago Bears beat the Washington Redskins 73-0. Early in the game a Redskin dropped a Sammy Baugh pass in the end zone which would have made it 7-0.

After the game a Washington reporter, I think it was Burt Hawkins, now traveling secretary for the Texas Rangers, asked Baugh if catching that pass would have made a difference.

"You bet!" Sammy snapped back. "If he had caught that pass we'd only have lost by 73-7!" Q.E.D.

I'd say, as a result of that painful lesson in Austin, that the Raiders will have to go back to the drawing board on defense. It's obvious that the philosophy will have to change and a defense developed that will take advantage of what available material can do.

Tech hasn't stopped the end sweep, or pitchout, in three games. The middle, except against New Mexico, has been suspect. The defensive backfield woefully lacking against the pass.

Offensively, the Raiders showed marked improvement in moving the ball against Texas by both running and passing. And the latter was the one department not strong prior to Saturday night.

The problem is that, against teams of equal or superior strength, Tech will have to outscore opponents to win and, although that sounds trite, it isn't strictly from the standpoint that the Tech defense won't be able to stop the opposition.

As stated weeks ago, this is the part of the schedule that will be a major test of what the season holds. Texas has already shown how rough that schedule probably will be. In rapid succession comes Oklahoma State, Texas A&M and Arizona.

If, after those next three games, Tech is 4-3, it's going to be a good season. Right now, though, you'd have to say that Tech is below SMU, maybe Rice, and a step above TCU. And, right now, Sloan must be wondering why Bear Bryant urged him to take this job.

The baseball playoffs begin this week and more than the usual interest should be shown, if for no other reason than that a new face has shown up, the Boster Red Sox.

Oakland should take the Sox, but it could be interesting. The Sox have shown good pitching and strong hitting. In addition, they could have the impetus of challenge and enthusiasm on their side. Still, the A's have pride and should win, even without Catfish Hunter.

As for Pittsburgh and Cincinnati, the Red Machine ought to come out ahead of the Pirates, lest they have lost their momentum. The Red Machine has been awesome this season.

And if it should wind up the A's meeting the Reds in the World Series, I'll go with the Reds this year. The Reds have been helped by the return of Don Gullett and they have Johnny Bench and Joe Morgan. How could you pick against them?

By all means go out to Jones Stadium tonight and see the Picadors and Shoats in action. Both teams have future stars on their rosters and it should be a good game.

Even more important, the battle is in a great cause. It supports the Shrine's burns institutes. And what a wonderful hope it gives to people to know that there is somewhere to turn in case of bad burns, far more common than you'd think.

Get behind this effort and support it tonight.
