LARRY ISAAC BREAKS DONNY ANDERSON'S RUSHING RECORD—As of the game against Texas Christian University (TCU), Texas Tech's Larry Isaac has netted 2,407 yards on 483 carries in his career as a Texas Tech Red Raider.

Isaac became the all-time rushing leader for Texas Tech against the Texas Longhorns two weeks prior to the TCU contest in Fort Worth. Policy on Evictions Clarified Friday By Local Housing Authority Board

by Cliff Avery

Tenants in Lubbock Housing Authority homes and apartments will have to make some token payments on their rents or face the threat of eviction.

The Housing Authority Board last week gave Executive Director D.C. Fair authority to evict tenants without bring the matter before the board.

Fair told the West Texas Times that the move was necessary to clarify the policy on evictions and that he presently has no plans to evict any tenants.

In other action, Fair said that he has contacted a local architect to design renovation in the Green Fair Manor, and the board studied alarm systems for its offices at 515 N. Zenith, after a burglary two weeks ago.

In adopting the eviction policy, Board Chairwoman Shirley Reese said that Fair had the authority to evict when he feels necessary without bringing the eviction before the board. However, she said, the board would handle evictions if "really controversial or if the board needs to be informed."

"I don't advocate throwing them out," Fair said, "but there are some hard-core cases."

Board member George Scott said that eviction would be necessary when the tenant paid no rent or paid "a negligible amount" on the rent he or she owed.

Rent at Housing Authority units is based on the tenant's

Last Sunday afternoon's regular meeting of the local branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) at the Posey Neighborhood Center was full of politics. The nomination committee, elected at the October meeting, submitted their slate of officers to be voted upon by the entire membership Sunday, Dec. 12, at 4.

Dr. F.L. Lovings, president, who seeks a third term, told the group that he appreciates the work of the membership over the past years. "I've done the best I could have done," said Dr. Lovings. He will be challenged this year by two other members of the Branch.

Persons nominated by the committee were Dr. Lovings, president; Dr. Vivian Davis, 1st vice-president; Harold M. Chatman 2nd vice-president; David Sowell, 3rd vice-president; Ms. Myrtle Rochelle, secretary; Ms. Ruth Priestly, assistant secretary; Ms. Ida Mae Cheek, treasurer; Dr. Emory Davis, committee member-at-large; and Otis Brown, executive committee member.

There was opposition to some of the positions from members of the organization. Several petitions were submitted by various members for other persons to seek offices. For a person to be nominated from the floor, at least three persons had to sign the petition.

Persons petitioned to run for president were A. Gene Gaines and David Sowell. Other persons petitioned to run for office were

Nominating committee members were Ms. Vivian Cooke, chairperson; Robert Moore, Ms. Myrtle Rochelle, Ralph Leggett, and Ms. Octavia Givens.

Dr. Lovings told the group: "Only members in good standing shall be eligible to vote in a Branch election." In explaining the good standing qualification he said: "a member in good standing is one who has paid the requisite minimum membership fee to the Branch."

An election supervisory committee was elected by the body to supervise the election. Five persons from the Branch were elected by the membership. They were Dr. Emory Davis, Roy Anderson, C.F. Cooke, Jr., D.C. Kinner, and Willie Palmer. Each presidential candidate was asked to appoint a person to serve. Those appointed were Tom Burtis, Ms. Sue Pryor and Ms. Octavia Givens. Anderson was elected as chairperson.

Other business discussed at the monthly meeting were:

- designation of the Posey Neighborhood Center as the place of the election in December;

- Dr. Lovings gave membership a briefing on the recent meeting of the organization in Corpus Christi, Tx., October 8. Ms. Ida Cheek and C.F. Cooke, Jr. made the trip. "I represented our local branch well, said Dr. Lovings.

- Branch was advised that the press can't be kept out of their meetings in the future.

- Dr. Lovings advised the membership that the Lubbock Branch was in the third position in membership behind Fort Worth and Austin.

- Membership agreed to discuss the reason why Texas Tech University hasn't submitted an affirmative action program to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW). This will be discussed at length in the December meeting.

- Agreed to hear a complaint by John Howard in the December meeting.

- Agreed to let all presidential candidates have access to the membership list.

Citizen's Opinions About: Land Annexation

How do you feel about the City of Lubbock annexation of 580.21 acres in south and north areas of Lubbock as compared to improvements in East Lubbock?

James Burrell, retired business man, "I'm burnt out with what is going on in Lubbock. At present time, I am on the community development outfit and I've been on them about the development aspect in east Lubbock. It looks as though nothing will be done in east Lubbock. I think, with all sincerity, that they (city) should be concerned about fixing up east Lubbock as well as they are concerned about taking in new land for parks and development in other parts of the city."

George Scott, Jr., "I don't see anything wrong with it. The city is not in business to develop businesses. If they develop this land they've annexed, that's good. I can't compare that with east Lubbock."

Influenza Vaccine Clinic Scheduled This Weekend

Lubbock Health Department will conduct a swine flu vaccination clinic Saturday and Sunday in Fairpark Coliseum.

Flu inoculations will be administered to anyone over 18 and the chronically ill of any age between the hours of 10 a.m. and 6 p.m. on both days. Participants should use the south entrance of the coliseum.

During the flu shot clinic held Nov. 6-7, the health department administered 1,963 shots with no serious reactions to any of the vaccines, according to health unit administrator Tom Grimshaw.

In that first clinic, workers noted that most of the participants resided in the central sector of the city, Grimshaw said. Very few residents from the city's eastern and western sections took part in the clinic, he said, and there was a poor response from minority groups.

Black On Black Crime Here Uncalled For

Over the past months and weeks, it is apparent that we are still experiencing black on black crime in Lubbock. It is time for the citizens of east Lubbock to help the Lubbock Police Department crack down on some, if not all of, these crimes. Many east Lubbock residents are beginning to cry out loud and clear about the situation in their community and want something done about what is happening.

As one woman told a friend the other day, "There was a time when I could open the front door for a breath of fresh air, but now you open the door and anybody may come in and rob you." In some cases, it seems as though this is the way people are burglarizing other people's property.

We would like to call the attention to the Lubbock Police Department on how east Lubbock residents feel. Many have made it known that they would like for the police department to patrol east Lubbock more. Many feel that more patrolling of the east Lubbock area is needed during the daytime, especially morning hours and noon, when most east Lubbock residents are away at their job.

Since a reporter of the West Texas Times covers the "Police Beat" each week, we are aware that most crime against black people's property is committed while the residence or business is unoccupied. Many house burglaries are committed while blacks are away in the morning hours.

We realize the eastern part of the city is not the only part of town which is feeling the increased activity of burglars. Citizens in other parts of the city are not happy with the increase of crime against their properties. They, too, would like to see more persons caught and prosecuted for crimes being committed.

It would make a lot of sense for those in position to help curtail the crime here to pay close attention to what is going on. People in the black community want something done about what is happening to them in their community.

As citizens of east Lubbock, we, too, will have to do our part to help curtail some of this activity. If we are aware of persons who are responsible for criminal activities against other blacks, we should do our part to inform the local authorities of what is going on.

Perhaps, we'll never be able to stop all of the black on black crime in east Lubbock, but if we start getting involved and doing our duty, a great deal of it will stop.

Black on black crime is here in Lubbock, and we may as well accept it and start doing what we can to curtail it before it gets any further out of hand. Unless we get involved now, those Christmas trees with all the goodies around them will be a paradise for persons responsible for black on black crime in east Lubbock.

As I See It . . .

by T.J. Patterson

Looking over the past general election for President, it appears an estimated 6.6 million black Americans gave Governor Jimmy Carter 94 per cent of their votes. This according to a survey conducted by the Joint Center for Political Studies in Washington, D.C.

After doing some research on the outcome of the election, this writer learned that seventy per cent of all blacks who were registered to vote this year went to the polls. A similar survey taken by the Joint Center following the 1972 presidential election showed that fewer than 60 per cent of registered blacks actually voted and of that number 87 per cent cast their vote for the Democratic Party presidential candidate George McGovern.

I must agree with the survey by Joint Center that this is the first time in history that the black vote has played such a major role in the nomination of the presidential candidate and in the election of a president. Aside from that, the size and strategic impact of the black vote give clear evidence of the black community's determination to use the political process to achieve its goals and to participate fully in shaping the nation's policies and programs.

In seven largely populated black states, Missouri, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Louisiana, Texas, Mississippi, Maryland, these voters came to the rescue of President-Elect Carter. Even in Texas, Carter's margin was 207,334 with blacks giving Carter at least 295,000 of their votes statewide based on sample areas in Houston, Fort Worth and Dallas.

Blacks in Lubbock should take heed to what has happened over the country and begin to realize how important their votes are at the national and local level. Perhaps blacks are outnumbered, with only ten per cent of the Lubbock population, but they can still rally to a point where their votes will become important to the candidates seeking office.

It won't be long before there will be other city, county and state elections in this area, and with careful planning and hard work, the black community can decide who will hold some of, if not all of, the positions at stake.

Blacks in Lubbock, along with the brown community, have been asleep too long with their political power. This writer hopes the Jimmy Carter story will prove what can happen in America, Lubbock included.

As black citizens of Lubbock, we should be ashamed of ourselves for not supporting the Dunbar Panthers last Thursday evening at Lowrey Field. It was an important game for the fellows at Dunbar, because the district title was at stake. Once again our community let apathy and excuses keep us away from boosting these young men who played a tremendous game. There was, as I see it, less than 500 Dunbar fans present.

Many who call ourselves "Dunbar Supporters" gave excuses for not coming out in 30 degree weather. At the same time, there were others who will criticize those young men for not winning.

If the people from San Angelo (mostly white) could drive two hundred miles with cars and buses and support their "Chiefs," surely we could have driven a couple of miles, in 30 degree weather, to cheer a group of young fellows who were representing Dunbar and the community.

In this writer's eyesight, the 1976 Panthers of Dunbar High School are still winners. It's too bad many more fans didn't let them know that last Thursday evening at Lowrey Field...

Black Empowerment

By Dr. Nathaniel Wright, Jr.

HUMAN RIGHTS ACTIVIST

Black Employment Losses

The recent gains in employment following the "white recession"—"black depression" in the national economy have reflected yet another major set back for black Americans.

The current employment figures indicate what many involved in affirmative action for minorities have suspected or feared would happen. This has been a relatively high rate of female re-employment and a proportionate loss in re-employment by blacks.

What is implicit here is the much-heralded myth that women must often suffer the double indignity of being women and members of racial, religious or ethnic minority groups. The implied conclusion is that their circumstance is much worse than that of black males.

We need to disabuse ourselves of such folly—which is a costly twist, no matter how one may look at it—that black males, including especially younger adult males, are not the nation's most hard-pressed and hard core unemployed.

Affirmative action programs for fair hiring, rehiring and upgrading cannot be realistic while linking or bumping women's needs—whether black or white—with those of black males.

This in no way suggests that women are not victimized sorely by employment and upgrading discrimination. What is at issue here is the relative acuteness of the problem.

Some years ago, both John Dollard (who authored Caste and Class in a Southern Town) and Gunnar Myrdal (of An American Dilemma fame) suggested that the discriminatory problems of whites could be attributed to class feelings which are relatively flexible. Caste feelings, by contrast, are strongly inflexible and have a kind of a "middle wall of partition" between the insiders and those kept out.

Black males are, then, in a caste-like position. In any assessment of the nation's economic woes, we must be clear about the type of position in which black males of all age categories find themselves.

While the federal government may not be in a position presently to hire any relatively large number of the most beleaguered unemployed; it should be evident that whatever jobs that are available may be directed toward those whose lack of employment adds most greatly to the nation's social costs.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation, for example, is conducting currently an extensive job advertising campaign for clerks and clerk-typists aimed at "all high school youth who may be willing to come to Washington."

A sound sense of the nation's good, in terms both of lessening the taxpayers' social welfare and criminal justice costs and of increasing the possibilities for urban peace, would suggest that black media be utilized to focus this appeal on our most tragically alienated citizens so far as the job market is concerned.

On-the-job training for file clerks and for clerk typists would not be any major problem. What is of more immediate importance is that the Washington, D.C.-Baltimore-Wilmington-Philadelphia area has more than enough unemployed and discriminated against black males to fill at least the F.B.I.'s nationally advertised needs.

The saddest feature here is that the federal government still has no minimally realistic assessment of the nation's economic needs. Or else, one must cynically suppose that blacks are—by a deliberate or an unconsciously culture-conditioned oversight—prone to see America's employment needs only in terms "white needs."

In this sense, our national social policy experts may be said to operate on the tacit assumption that jobs are primarily for whites and welfare is primarily for blacks.

That this cynically racist assumption has conditioned American life from its earliest days cannot be denied. But by now it is high time that black Americans themselves resist this notion with every power at their command.

Black Americans need jobs. Black males are—as throughout our nation's history—the most grossly deprived in any reckoning of the disadvantaged employables in the nation. We must be resolute in our rejection of any lumping of the needs of any other with those of black males of every age group. We must doubtless begin by seeing the realistic needs of disadvantaged women as of a relatively less acute nature than the caste-like hard-core and potentially explosive needs of black males.

WINTER WONDERLAND IN EAST LUBBOCK—In less than a month, Lubbock has had snow for the second time. Snow, which makes any area look like winter wonderland, was well received by the kids of east Lubbock, but it hampered the activities of many adults last weekend.

With more than five inches of snow in Lubbock last Friday night and Saturday, east Lubbock residents were slowed down a bit in their routine activities. As one east Lubbock man said: "It (the snow) is beautiful, but it stops my Saturday activities."

On the other hand, many east Lubbock kids rose late Saturday morning to see their yard blanketed in white. With a gleam in their eyes, many of them forgot about the Saturday cartoons and went outside to make their snowman.

Mrs. Nathaniel Johnson remains in the intensive care unit at Methodist Hospital. She is the wife of Rev. Nathaniel Johnson, pastor of the Mount Vernon United Methodist Church.

Mr. Crowell Johnson is still taking treatments at Methodist Hospital, but is doing nicely.

Miss Carolyn Rollison is spending a week here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Rollison. She arrived here last Saturday from Houston where she is employed. She's a graduate of Dunbar High School and Texas Southern University.

Mr. Harold M. Chatman, who has been ill since May, reports he is doing nicely back on the job as an instructor at Southeast Elementary School.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Harper of Detroit, Michigan were in the Hub City recently. Mr. Harper, a doctoral student in the College of Business Administration at Texas Tech University, was here to defend his dissertation. He reports everything to be "alright."

The Voices of Lubbock, under the direction of Elder Levi Lenly, will appear at Bethel A.M.E. Church Sunday afternoon at 3. The public is invited to come out and hear this group. This program is being sponsored by the Stewardess Board.

Seating will be provided for participants to wait their turn to be vaccinated and review forms on the shots. According to Grimshaw there is about a 20-minute waiting period following the administration of the flu shot to be sure there will be no reaction to the vaccine.

Grimshaw advises any individual who is chronically ill to talk with his physician about the shots and secure a written recommendation.

"Lubbock and Surrounding Area People Asked to Join Organization"

by T.J. Patterson

(Editor's note: This is the second installment in a two part interview with members of the new motorcycle club, "Angels of Darkness.")

Since the organization of the Angels of Darkness, members of the organization have gotten together and sent a letter to the Secretary of State to inquire how their organization could be chartered by the State of Texas. "We are for real," says Wilbert Bradford, chairman of the special projects for the new organization.

Bradford stated: "We need several other things, but we feel as though this charter will help us in many areas." He also added that by being chartered by the State of Texas this will allow their organization to apply for grants to help them fulfill their mission in the community. "Sure, we need a club house and many other things, but we feel as though we can accomplish a lot of things if we really become chartered and recognized by the State of Texas as a viable organization," he said.

"We would like a grant where we can help the disabled people, senior citizens and fight crime in our community," said Albert Ray Wilbon, treasurer.

"There are a lot of things that our organization can do," said Alexander Porter, president. "We are working people, but we take time off and use it constructively to help people of the community," continued Porter.

When asked what special projects of the organization will get involved with in the future, Bradford said: "Well, in the future, we are hoping that people needing help in these areas will contact one of our members and let us know about them. We need more exposure to let people know what we are all about, but we hope things will be much easier in the future when we are more established in the community."

Bradford, with sincerity in his eyes, made know of a recent problem in the Dunbar-Lincoln Apartments. He said: "If we had of known about this problem earlier, we could have helped some of these people. From what we understand, peoples' gas and lights were cut off," said Bradford. "There were young kids and old people in the apartments who had suffered from this problem," he continued.

The organization, who would have helped those distressed people, didn't know anything about the problem until it was too late. "We did call a special meeting to help these people," said Porter. "If we could have gotten there in time, we would have given our time and effort to help these people find places to live," he continued.

"We don't want people to be ashamed to contact us when there is a problem like the one in the Dunbar - Lincoln Apartments," said Wilbon.

"If people will get in contact with us when they have a problem, we'll be there right on the spot, because that's our job," continued Bradford.

"We are a team, because we do everything together," Bradford commented. "It's up to all of us to make this organization become a success, and that's what we are all about, working together helping the community," he added.

"As a chairman of the special activities and project committee, it's not hard to get anything accomplished, because we work together," said Bradford. "There are two young ladies in the club, Gayle Foster and Patsy Nickerson, who will set down with me and we do the necessary homework to present the information to the club members. When we bring our presentation to the membership, it is up to them to accept or reject what we have brought before them," he added. "If the membership likes it, we'll accept it; if they don't like it, we'll make other arrangements to do something," he explained. "We are a team, and we work like a team," he underlined.

"As president, I have ideas also, but I bring this to the membership for approval," says Porter. "We will always sit down and work this thing out, regardless of the outcome," he said. "One man don't run the organization, we are all together," he said.

How did this organization get the name of "Angels of Darkness"? "Well, we were all down at the Chocolate City Club and we decided to organize... We had picked several different names, but we didn't like them," said Bradford. "Some of the names we picked were 'Devils Angels,' but there was a club named after them; and 'Hells Angels,' but they had a bad reputation," continued Bradford. "Finally, we were all sitting around eating chili and saw this album lying on the floor by the Temptations called 'Angels of Darkness.' One of the members said that would be a beautiful patch, because there is a picture of an angel in the dark with all the stars around him," he added.

"Everybody agreed with the decision and we quickly named ourselves after the album," smiled Porter.

"We hope we can continue to do our work and keep people interested in what we are doing," said Wilbon. "We are getting a lot of younger people, which is very good, and people in the city are asking how they can become a member of our organization," he concluded.

"If a person wanted to join our organization, they can contact us by writing us at 2701 East 10th Street, Lubbock, Texas 79403. We are very interested in persons from surrounding communities, such as Slaton, Idalou, Plainview, Levelland, Littlefield and other communities to join us," said Wilbon.

by Joe Kelly

My hat's off today to the fans who braved snow and cold to witness that 34-7 Texas Tech victory over the SMU Mustangs, a better team than many expected. It was, as Steve Sloan said, a critical win.

Conditions were anything except good and it was the type of day when the underdog can rise up. Fortunately, the Raiders were mentally ready. There was no letdown, as there was against TCU. They took charge early.

Sloan's biggest concern was the snow that did arrive later. That's why he was anxious for Tech to jump out in front, why the Raiders settled for an early field goal. And also why they elected to kick off to start the second half.

Actually, the game was pretty well out of SMU's reach by the half. It would have taken a real miracle for the Ponies to have come from 24-0 and have won, although stranger things have happened.

Tech's dressingroom was subdued after the game. While writers waited, a shout or two went up, but that was all. The players were more anxious to take hot showers and get warm than to celebrate.

At the same time, Tech players were looking ahead to Houston. Several mentioned the fact that this was the big game. Encouragingly, they seemed no more concerned about the Cougars than for any other team, maybe even less than for Texas.

Steve Sloan remarked at his press conference following the game that he rated the final three games as tossups.

"We could win those three games, or we could lose them," he opined quietly. "Houston? No, I haven't really seen them. I saw a little of them in films we studied of A&M. I'd say they were a lot like the teams we played when I was at Alabama and Florida State."

Steve was asked if he thought that Tech's lack of size—he had mentioned that Houston was large physically—was a help to Tech in that opponents seemed to overlook Tech.

"I'd have to think so," he replied. "We don't have much size. We have 219, 219 and 223 in the middle and that's really not much size these days."

"After the game today, for instance, Ron Meyer remarked that Tech was bigger than he thought it was. We don't have much size, but we have quickness."

The only thing displeasing to the Tech coach was the long SMU touchdown pass.

"One player slipped and fell down," he said, "but another went the wrong way. We've played pretty good defense most of the time, but we have had some critical breakdowns."

"A&M burned us with a long pass and so did TCU, just like SMU did. That hurts. It gave teams a chance to come back after we had them down."

"Otherwise, I thought the defense played well. Any time you hold a team to less than 100 yards rushing, you've done a good job."

So, after eight games, the season comes down to three games, but really a major test this week. A victory over Houston won't clinch the championship, but it would be a major step towards it.

A defeat for Tech virtually would assure Houston a title tie, since the Cougars have only Rice left. The answer, of course, would be for the Raiders to eliminate Houston and not have to hope that Rice pulls the impossible.

It won't be easy. The Cougars obviously have a big, strong team. Early fumblyitis appears to have been eliminated and they have a potent offense clicking. They have a good passing attack and their running game is strong.

It will be, or should be, a classic confrontation between two outstanding teams. Take plenty of fingernails, because it's going to be a real biter. I just hope that the weather cooperates and that conditions are ideal.

Just a word of congratulations to Tech officials for not agreeing to move the Tech-Arkansas game to Thanksgiving Night. Sloan said that ABC had called. His answer was that he would prefer not to move the game.

"I told J.T. King and Dr. Mackey that I knew it was a lot of money and that I'd go along if that's what they wanted," Steve said. "I thought it would be a disadvantage to us because we'd only have about three days to get ready to play Arkansas, and at their place, too."

Steve said that he wished that fans could see the game, but having a chance to win was more important. Jake and the Tech president backed him up.

"We gambled that they might put the Houston game on TV," Steve said. "Any they are putting it on."

Frankly, anything that favors the Raiders winning the championship is worth much more than a TV appearance that might jeopardize the chances.

Another critical thing is the injury situation, too. The Raiders will have a hard, physical game with Houston and then must play another physical game against Arkansas.

Incidentally, Steve paid high tribute to the many people who helped Tech clear the field of snow.

"We tried to clear it like we did before the Texas game," he said, "but the sweeper just spun its wheels. We finally got a maintainer in. It cleared the stands (at the ramp) by only two inches."

"Actually, because of the maintainer, we could have played the game at 2 p.m., but by that time it was too late to change again. We even suggested playing the game on Sunday, but SMU didn't want that."

"If you had seen the field at 10 a.m., you wouldn't have thought we could have played today (Saturday)."

Annual Festival Presented

Last week, the Lubbock junior high school presented their annual choral festival at the Monterey High School auditorium with Mr. Bill Cormack serving as clinician and conductor. Mrs. Judith Berry and Mr. Bill Gammill served as festival accompanists.

Of the fifteen festival numbers presented by more than six hundred junior high school students performing in this program, Mrs. Berry was the accompanist for five of them.

Mrs. Berry was at her best at the piano and received many compliments.

Mrs. Berry and Mrs. Rose Lincoln were the only black choral directors in the ten junior high schools to participate in the program. Mrs. Berry is director at Matthews Junior High and Mrs. Lincoln a director at Alderson.

Lubbock, because we have public utilities here also. At the same time, east Lubbock doesn't receive its share of maintenance services as other parts of the city. This would include sweeping of streets, cutting of weeds and paving of streets. I'm not saying they shouldn't annex anymore land. Really, I don't know the reasons why the land was annexed. *****

Attorney A. Gene Gaines, "I will be suspicious of the city's motives for city annexation. The City of Lubbock, however, couldn't necessarily annex this land, except in the case of looking for additional tax revenue. The city could encourage other areas of the community to develop, such as east Lubbock. I've asked myself if this (annexation) is another indication of the City of Lubbock not totally representing those who have interest in east Lubbock." *****

Rev. A.L. Davis, "In many words, I'm saying that we need help to develop some of this land we already have in east Lubbock and not be concerned about bringing in new land by annexation."

Iles Sixth Graders Tie-Dye Shirts in Reading Class Project

by Mary Alice Robbins

Sixteen sixth graders at Iles Elementary School sported king-size grins and brand new tie-dye tee-shirts Monday.

The colorful shirts were the result of a unique reading class project undertaken by students of Ann Randles and Eva Sorrells, with the assistance of students in Nancy Boone's art classes at Monterey High School.

For the past several weeks, the Iles students have been busy reading all the material they can get their hands on to learn more about the sources of colors, what happens when colors are mixed and what is meant by "primary" and "secondary" colors. As part of the unit, the sixth graders studied the color wheel and experimented with painting.

"If they have learned half as much about color as I have, they've learned a lot," Mrs. Randles noted.

To climax their reading study of colors, the elementary school youngsters visited Monterey High last week to perform a little color magic of their own.

"We wanted to do something special," Mrs. Randles explained. And the special "something" for the excited Iles students was tie-dyeing the shirts that were purchased through a special scholarship fund at Monterey.

Assisted by Monterey art students, the youngsters from Iles carefully wrapped and tied the tee-shirts and poured on the colorful dyes. Then, the brightly colored shirts were hung on a clothes line strung up through the art room and everyone stood back to "ooh" and "aah" at their work.

After the shirts had dried, Mrs. Boone took them home and ran them through her dryer to set the colors. Mrs. Randles and Mrs. Sorrells presented the finished shirts to the students on Monday.

A similar cooperative project was done last year by students from Iles and Monterey. According to Mrs. Randles, these projects give young people from the two schools an opportunity to get to know one another better in a fun way.

The study of color also has opened up avenues of interest and knowledge for the students and perhaps has given them a better understanding of the world around them, Mrs. Randles said.

Posey PTA Slates Open House, Sale

Posey Elementary School PTA will conduct an open house from 7:30 p.m.-9:30 p.m. Thursday at the school.

The PTA also will sponsor a garage sale from 9 a.m. - 3 p.m. Friday in the school cafeteria. All proceeds will be used to equip the school's learning center.

income. If the tenant is unable to pay, he can pay what he can.

"If a person's behind on his rent and not making any payments, we may have to consider eviction," Fair said, "but if people are just behind we're not going to throw them out. We want to help them as much as we can."

Fair said that if a tenant makes no good faith effort to pay rent, eviction becomes a possibility.

Fair said hiring an attorney to handle evictions costs $75 a case, but the Housing and Urban Development headquarters in Dallas has advised him that after a few cases, Fair may be able to handle evictions without resorting to legal counsel.

Board member Vernon Behner commented, "If we have one (an eviction), we want to be sure it's carried out right so other tenants won't take advantage of the situation."

While the board discussed lighting in the projects and energy conservation, Fair said that he had informally contacted an architect to look into renovation of Green Fair and Hub Homes.

Fair said that the Green Fair units were "poorly built," lacking insulation around windows, and Reese added, "I've seen icicles on the inside of the windows."

"They need to keep the oven on to get heat to the back of the house," Reese said.

Behner added, "I sure think that that type of renovation ought to come ahead of renovation for aesthetic reasons. People are losing money" on heating bills.

Fair said that renovation might include lowering ceilings to force the air into rear areas of the apartments.

Fair told the board that the Housing Authority had lost two IBM selectric typewriters and other equipment in the break-in of the Zenith St. offices and added he had contacted two alarm firms to price their systems.

The board advised Fair to consult with the city police department before purchasing any alarm system to determine which of two systems best meets the Authority's needs.

The board also hired Rev. Adolphus Cleveland as a part-time counselor for the Authority. Fair said Cleveland will interview prospective tenants and help form a grievance committee to handle tenant complaints.

There was some hesitation by the board, asking Fair if any outside funding was possible for the position. Fair said that funds from the maintenance account could be shifted to pay Cleveland and that Cleveland, once hired, could contact other agencies for further funding.

He capitalized on a good idea.

In 1791, Benjamin Banneker, the black scientist, inventor and mathematician, took on a new job. Surveyor on the six-man team working on the plans for the eventual city of Washington, D.C.

Suddenly the chairman of the committee, Major L'Enfant, resigned and returned to France with the plans. It seemed the city would never get built.

But thanks to Banneker, it did.

You see, Banneker was able to reproduce the plans in their entirety by memory. And the Capital was completed as planned.

Sheridan's Ride

by Jack Sheridan

Heavens to Betsy, the snows came and came and that blocked out some film going and theater attendances set for the weekend, regrettably.

Lot of interesting new films, too, moved into the local cinema palaces. Showplace 4 brought in the football stadium thriller, "Two-Minute Warning" another Charlton Heston epic of suspense, and "The Next Man" a thriller with Sean (James Bond) Connery. Comedian Woody Allen's new one, in a more serious vein for a change, "The Front" has arrived at the Fox complex and Lana Turner, bless me, has come out of the shadows after a long time in a little drama of incest called "Bittersweet Love" down at the big Winchester.

We'll get some or most of these down the drain during the next week or so, if the weather gods will be nice and let things alone.

Another victim of the storm was the Lubbock Christian College's musical "Brigadoon," directed by the estimable June Bearden, and since it will be repeated this coming weekend maybe I can make up for lost time there, too.

Two events are on tap for Friday, incidentally, that deserve a recommend. The Broadway touring production of the hit musical "A Little Night Music" will be at the Municipal Auditorium for one performance only on Friday, courtesy of the University Center Cultural Events group at Texas Tech, open to the public, of course. On the same night director Ronald Schulz will be starting a run of the spectacular drama of the Pizarro Montezuma days in Mexico, "The Royal Hunt of the Sun" at Tech's University Theater. Time is 8:15 and the play will run through Nov. 23.

The Lubbock Theatre Centre was another local outfit that suffered because of the snowfall. So much so that the comedy "Period of Adjustment," which opened its run Friday was forced to cancel Saturday night's performance. But, they rebounded for the Sunday matinee, which performance I was fortunate to catch.

This is the second play of the second season of Bicentennial shows, each written by a distinguished American playwright. In any lineup such as this the name of Tennessee Williams must necessarily be included but, alas, why did LTC choose what is probably his most inept and clumsy attempt at comedy. Williams is not at his best in comedy as a base subject for his work and "Period of Adjustment" is a classic example. Trifling, adolescent, trying and just plain tedious, it is dull play about dull people. Two married couples, the men are old war buddies from Korea and Vietnam, are having marital problems. The older couple (in time of vows) has split, with wife and child gone home to her stuffy self-made success parents. The other couple are into their second day of marriage, a slob of a man and his simple wife who spends a good deal of time with her hankie up to her nose.

There are half-hearted ribald attempts skirting the marriage relationship but you'd never know this absurdity came from the once-gifted pen of Tennessee Williams.

There wasn't much substance for director Lynn Elms to work with but the try was there. That it was a dud despite the hard-working if none too subtle cast players was nobody's fault. The play was just not the thing.

For the record, the players included Lynn Howerton, Rhonda Toth, Bill Conley, Melanie Ainsworth, Monterey Baron, Baron Upton, Betty Johnson and Larry Elms.

To summarize, "Period of Adjustment" was a mistake for LTC. But, be of good cheer. June Bearden is about to get into her directing rehearsals for the February play, which is the highly-esteemed "Abe Lincoln in Illinois," the famous Raymond Massey production. This is a tried and true play by the late Robert E. Sherwood, tracing Lincoln from his days in Illinois to the steps of the White House. Good, strong stuff and an event to be anticipated.

Two deaths only a day apart was the sad record of the past week. Both persons were gifted educators and longtime personal friends of mine. Louis Catuogno, Jr., the sensitive, talented member of the Texas Tech University Piano Department fought a losing, lengthy battle and passed in Dallas at the age of 44. The service and burial were in Lubbock.

Catuogno was a fine teacher and a dedicated man and musician. Of all his accomplishments, I am sure none pleased him more, as it has Mrs. Catuogno, also a teacher of piano, than the emergence of his daughter, Laura, as a professional concert pianist. I watched this girl grow to professional status over the years and I know the total absorption of Catuogno and his wife to this end. He has left his mark, without question, in his field and on his family. He touched many of us and his loss is deeply regretted.

The other person who left us was the distinguished, gracious, always smiling, educator Ivy Savage, longtime member of the public schools in Lubbock, as well as tireless civic worker and club member. There is only one Ivy Savage in a generation and when such as she is loaned to a community, it becomes a kind of trust. Mrs. Savage's contributions were endless and this area is the better for her presence over so many years in it.

She was always a supporter of this column and never failed to have something nice to say in the midst of an audience gathering here. She was the kind of person who brings out the better side of the person fortunate enough to meet her, however briefly, along the daily way.

Ivy Savage leaves a void in our midst and she will be honored and remembered in this community for as long as there are those of us who

Congressman Mahon to Meet With President-Elect

George Mahon, U.S. Representative, announced that he has accepted the invitation of president-elect Jimmy Carter to meet with him on Wednesday of this week on Senator Herman Talmadge's farm near Atlanta.

About six or eight members of the House and a similar number from the Senate have been invited to the Carter meeting. This will be the first meeting with president-elect Carter with congressional leaders since the election.

Mahon said he welcomes this opportunity to express his views and the views of West Texans in regard to major issues confronting the Congress and the country.

The meeting with congressional leaders is scheduled to last for several hours. "I am quite hopeful," said Mahon, "that the exchange of views will be helpful to Mr. Carter and members of Congress who are to attend. I welcome the opportunity to participate."

Mahon said that it is certain that agriculture will be one of the important subjects to be discussed.

Sister Regina Foppe to Address Public Housing Committee Here Thursday

Sister Regina Foppe, director of the Social Action Service Diocese of Amarillo at Lubbock, told the West Texas Times she will address the issue of Fannie Young was selected to be Senior Citizen of the week for the Texas Tech Program for Older Texans. Mrs. Young has lived here for 36 years and has three children, 19 grandchildren and six great-grandchildren. She enjoys macrame and other handicrafts at the Zenith Community Center.

substandard housing Thursday afternoon at City Hall at 1:30 before the community development public housing committee.

"There are several thousand families in Lubbock who are living and paying double on utilities," she said. "This is not to include the overcrowding of persons living in public housing," said Sister Foppe.

According to Sister Foppe, her purpose is to make the public aware of the present conditions.

"I hope I will be able to move the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce, the business-banking community, and the church communities of this (city) on this problem so they will begin to work together toward a solution to this problem," she continued.

She also told the Times that the Mayor sent an assuring response to a recent letter she forwarded to him.

"I hope other citizens will be present Thursday afternoon at City Hall to support me," said Sister Foppe.

Icy roads and snow kept many from attending Sunday School last Sunday morning. Services in the weekly church school was held despite the inclement weather.

The program, featuring the Voices of Lubbock, was cancelled until Sunday, Nov. 21, at 3. It was scheduled for last Sunday, but weather conditions brought about the cancellations.

Senior Choir Number Two will have practice on Thursday evening at 8.

The Youth Choir will meet

Wednesday evening at 7:30. All youth members are asked to be present.

Our pastor, Rev. A.W. Wilson, will be attending a district meeting in Ballinger, Texas with other ministers and officers of the Lubbock District Thursday, Nov. 18. Presiding Elder A.J. Davis will preside over this important meeting.

Twentieth & Birch Street Church of Christ

Our congregation regrets to announce the death of Sister Clara Alexander who passed away at her home last Friday morning. Sister Alexander had been ill for the past several weeks. Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at the church.

Appreciation Services Celebrated At Lyons Chapel Baptist Church

Sunday, November 14, marks the second appreciation service for Dr. and Mrs. Floyd Perry at Lyons Chapel Baptist Church. Everything went very nicely despite the five inches of snow that covered Lubbock and the surrounding areas.

We are very grateful for the turn out that we had. Truly without your presence we would not have been able to put the program over.

"Speaking of Programs!" Rev. Wilson Baldwin of Littlefield, Texas, pastor of First Baptist Church was our special guest. He delivered a beautiful message to the congregation. The Chancel Choir of Lyons Chapel rendered a dedication to our pastor and wife entitled "Fill My Cup." Attorney

Gene Gaines gave a short talk on "The Pastor as I Know Him" and Wanda McCarty spoke on "The Pastor's Wife as I Know Her."

The whole program was put together beautifully. Dr. and Mrs. Perry looked very lovely. We would like to thank everyone for your prayers and cooperation. Without everyone pulling together the program would not have been a success.

To our Pastor and Wife: We hope that you will enjoy the gifts and money that you received. We realize that we could never repay you for all the things that you do. And for all the heartaches and pain we put you through. But always remember, God loves you and so do we. May God bless you and keep you.

Last Sunday afternoon, the men of the congregation had their regular business meeting. The suggestions from the men are used to help our congregation.

Sister J. Hubbard, and Brothers Ed Rainwater and James Fisher have asked for prayers of the congregation.

Food for thought: "It is extremely difficult for a rich man to enter the kingdom of heaven, but not so hard for him to get a position in the church."

Mount Gilead Baptist Church

"The Mount Gilead Baptist Church, the friendly church where the soul and spirit meet. The church where everybody is somebody. The church extends to members and public a cordial and clarion call to worship with us each week."

Sunday, Nov. 21, will be our church anniversary day. All members are asked to participate in this glorious day.

Greater St. Luke Baptist Church

Our congregation is in the process of having fireside chats with our various auxiliaries and members. On Thursday evening musicians, Sisters Clara Lenord, Desma Moore and Mary J. Wilson, will lead a session. On Friday evening, the Sunday School, under the direction of Brothers Amos Dixon and Arthur Curry and Sister Jimmy Demerson will be responsible for a fireside chat.

Prayer meeting is held each Wednesday evening at 7. It is important that Jesus came, died, rose, and ascended to His Father, but it is more important that we believe it and trust it for our redemption.

New Phone Book Set for Delivery

Lubbock telephone customers will be getting a new directory beginning today.

Bob Dunbar, division manager for Southwestern Bell, said delivery of the 1976 directory should be completed by the end of November.

The cover of the new directory was painted by Texas Hill Country artist Warren Martin of Ingram," said Dunbar. "The painting, titled 'Royal Family,' depicts the majestic beauty surrounding the birth of a golden eagle."

Dunbar said this year's distribution of some 125,000 directories will be affected by the current nationwide paper shortage. "This year, most residential subscribers with more than one telephone will receive one directory. Business customers will receive their directories according to individual usage and demand."

Customers needing more directories may call the telephone business office after Dec. 1, when initial delivery is completed.
