Voter Participation Down 4 Per Cent in '76

In a report issued last week by the Bureau of the Census, U.S. Department of Commerce, about 60 per cent of the 146.5 million voting-age Americans said they went to the polls for the Presidential election last November.

The reported voter turnout was about 4 percentage points lower in the 1976 election than in 1972 and about 10 percentage points lower than in 1964, when the Bureau first measured voter participation in its monthly Current Population Survey.

Reported voter participation rates for whites, blacks and persons of Spanish origin all dropped in 1976 compared with 1972. For whites the decrease was from 65 to 61 per cent; for blacks it was 52 to 49 per cent; and for persons of Spanish origin, 38 to 32 per cent.

The report attributes the decrease in voting partly to a significant decline in registration between the 1972 and 1976 Presidential elections. Although registration rose about 4 per cent from 1974 to 1976, as it has between past Congressional and Presidential elections measured by the Bureau, the rise was not nearly enough to offset a 10 percentage point decline between 1972 and 1974.

The report reveals, however, the voting turnout of those who registered was slightly higher in 1976 than in 1972, up to 89 per cent from 87 per cent. But both figures were lower in 1968, when 91 per cent of those registered said they voted.

The decrease in voting was most evident among young persons, particularly those 18 to 20 years old, the report indicates. Participation by this age group dropped to 38 per cent from about 48 per cent in 1972. This is about the same percentage drop as the drop in registration for this age group between 1972 and 1976.

The difference in the participation level between men and women was smaller in 1976 than in any previous election measured by the Bureau. The rate was only 1 percentage point greater for men in 1976, compared with 5 percentage points in 1964. But because there are more women of voting age, they actually cast 53 per cent of the votes in 1976.

Compared with 1964, voting in the North and West was down 12 percentage points for whites and nearly 20 percentage points for blacks. In the South, blacks had about the same participation rate as in 1964 and 1972. The participation rate for whites in the South was slightly below 1964 levels but about the same as in 1972. In 1968, the rates for both blacks and whites were somewhat higher in the South than in the other years measured by the Bureau.

Vehicle Registration Notices Late

Texans will begin registering their motor vehicles for fiscal 1977 February 1. Registration renewal notices will be in the mail soon.

Some vehicle registration renewal notices will arrive a little later this year. Usually they are mailed immediately after Christmas to facilitate postal distribution. However, this year, inmates at the State Department of Corrections prison facilities at Huntsville are sorting by zip code all of the approximately 10 million renewal notices.

The State Department of Highways and Public Transportation will save approximately $50,000 in postage discounts for performing this service, which is contracted by the prison system.

The 1977 stickers will have a solid red background with white year figures and state name. The sticker serial number will be printed in blue in the upper right-hand corner. Fiscal 1976 stickers had a blue background, white figures and red serial numbers in furtherance of the bicentennial theme which will be continued in 1977.

Robert W. (Bob) Townsley, director of DHT's Motor Vehicle Division, said he anticipates less motorist confusion in affixing 1977 stickers to the metal license plates.

DHT first issued multi-year metal license plates in fiscal 1975. Last year was the first for attaching annual stickers to the metal plates.

"Although most motorists followed instruction and experienced no problems, others failed to read the instructions for affixing the stickers with—sometimes—laughable results," Townsley commented.

The 1977 stickers will be applied to the depressed area in the upper right-hand corner of the REAR metal license plate, Townsley explained. The 1976 sticker should remain in its present location—the upper left-hand corner of the rear license plate.

Inmates of the Wynne Unit industrial plant at Huntsville make license plates, print stickers and prepare record-keeping materials for DHT and county tax assessors-collectors who are responsible for actual registration processes.

As previously, mail registrations will be accepted from vehicle owners for an additional fee between February 1 and March 1. Motorists who wish to register their vehicles in person can save time, energy and frustration by visiting county tax offices as soon as possible after February 1. Deadline for having the stickers affixed is midnight April 1.

Above all, avoid lengthy registration lines by not waiting until the last minute to obtain 1977 stickers. Said Townsley: "Motorists can ease the pain by heeding the Christmas warnings—shop early!"

Beginning in 1978 the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation will initiate a year-round licensing system with some registrations expiring each month thereafter. This will mark demise of the half-century-old, 60-day registration periods and one-date deadlines for acquiring and affixing new stickers without penalty.

Local NAACP Meets Here Sunday

The first meeting since the election of officers of the Lubbock Chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) will be held Sunday afternoon, Jan. 9, at 4 at Mae Simmons Community Center.

"We are asking all members and interested persons to be in attendance at this important meeting," says A. Gene Gaines, newly elected president.

On the agenda this month will be the installation of officers, and the possibility of moving the date of monthly meeting, time and present location.

Gaines implies that there is a possibility of involving the local ministers in the finding of a new location. He says: "I am hoping if I can involve all the ministers, we can work out a place to meet."

Gaines is expected to present a brief statement on the upcoming goals and objectives of the local chapter this year.

Gaines Suit Set For March 21

The suit against the City of Lubbock by A. Gene Gaines, local attorney, is the first case on the docket for March 21, 1977 in U.S. District Court for the Northern District of Texas, Lubbock Division in Judge Halbert O. Woodard's court.

Gaines tells the Times this week he is looking forward to going to court this time and hopes there will be no other delays. "I have received favorable comment from many citizens in Lubbock who feel as though this case can be won," he said.

Congresswoman Jordan Surrenders Tapes to UNCF

U.S. Congresswoman Barbara Jordan has surrendered all rights and privileges of her Keynote address to the 1976 Democratic National Convention to Texas Association of Developing Colleges.

Congresswoman Jordan said hundreds of requests from colleges, agencies and individuals prompted her to release her address, on audio tape, to the Association to be duplicated and sold with proceeds going to TADC and the United Negro College Fund.

"Her gift of this tape demonstrates that she has a resource to offer this organization that is equal in value to money, and that resource is exposure," commented Melvin B. Shaw, TADC executive director. "The long range effect of such a contribution is far-reaching," he said, "and we are hopeful that the trend will catch on and others will come forth."

Governor Briscoe Approves Grant

AUSTIN — Governor Dolph Briscoe has approved a criminal justice grant which will provide a juvenile delinquency prevention officer for Slaton.

The project, which proposes to decrease index crime in the area by 10 per cent, will be funded for $22,492. It was among 116 local criminal justice grants approved by Governor Briscoe from Law Enforcement Assistance Administration (LEAA) funds under the Crime Control Act of 1976.

as honorary co-chairperson for the TADC/UNCF development campaign, whose 1976 statewide goal is $1.2 million.

Monies raised will benefit the six Texas UNCF member colleges: Bishop (Dallas), Jarvis Christian (Hawkins), Huston-Tillotson (Austin), Paul Quinn (Waco), Texas (Tyler) and Wiley (Marshall).

For copies of the tape, send $6 for a cassette and $11 for reel-to-reel to Texas Association of Developing Colleges, 1610 W. Mockingbird Lane, Suite 104, Dallas, Texas 75247. Eight-tracks are available upon request.

The detour will remain in effect until the West Frontage Road is constructed.

"Don't Be Fooled in 1977"

"The games people play—they play night and day"—are the lyrics to a song which exemplifies what still is happening to many members of the minority community.

There have been too many instances in West Texas when minorities have been short sighted and accepted the bone off the table, rather than seeing a situation through to the real meat.

As the "Times" reflects and observes the community on the whole, it is obvious to us that plans continue to be made to keep minority people out of the mainstream of life. At the same time, we can see the little bitty games which people fall for, and things which have no significance in fruitful lives.

After fifteen years of making this newspaper available to our many readers, it remains our job to advise them of some of the situations which are not for the betterment of the total community.

Looking forward to this new year, why not evaluate the situations around you? Be sure you are your own man or woman, and decide what is best for you. Don't let anyone, for God's sake, put anything over on you. As American citizens, we should be more aware of what individuals in positions of responsibility will or will not do that may hurt each of our readers.

And while you are evaluating the many things around you, take time to let those merchants and businesspersons who support the West Texas Times know you appreciate their support for your newspaper.

As you know over the past fifteen years, your newspaper has worked hard to inform you on what is best for the community. Many times we've taken positions to inform you of the "games people play." We will continue to do so in 1977.

Take off those rose colored glasses and make a pledge this year not to be fooled by individuals in positions of responsibility who spend dollars to blind you with a false impression.

West Texans are a strong people. Show your strength this year by refusing to believe in "the games people play."

As I See It . . .

by T.J. Patterson

It would be a good thing if there were organizations or concerned citizens in the community who would like to help the Dunbar Accappella Choir go to a meeting in San Antonio next month. These young people have been working real hard for this effort, but it will take more finance to make this trip a reality for these young people.

If you are interested and want to help in this project, why not contact the principal, Roy Roberts, or Ms. Charlotte Greeson, director, and let them know you want to help with the finance.

It's always a good thing when we reach into our pockets and help these young people who are working hard to do a good job. These young people do a splendid job for their school and community.

As I See It, there are many of us who can help in this effort. Let's start today by helping these young people.

During the new year, this writer hopes there will be more input from the black and brown communities into the decisions being made by the city and county.

Since there has been so much misunderstanding about the Medical School here, perhaps, there are some good ideas from persons of the black and brown communities about the problems facing this medical facility and its administration.

As this writer has said to many people, many times, this is our city and we should all have an active part in what is going on here. Maybe in 1977, we'll get this opportunity to start contributing to the important programs in our community.

This is no resolution, but it would be a wonderful thing if all citizens of Lubbock are considered in decisions as the Medical School and other pressing issues.

After driving around the Coronado Apartments last week, it would appear as though something should be done about the trash and rubbish in the area. These apartments are not being taken care of as they should and are creating a nuisance to the public.

Sure the City of Lubbock could demand that this type of a situation be taken care of in a more prospective manner. It just doesn't make any sense for this sort of a thing to continue.

Just north of the Coronado Apartments, there are some other apartments that need to be demolished or remodeled. It's another bad picture of the situation in east Lubbock.

As citizens of Lubbock, we should demand from the owners of such properties that something be done to keep them in a much better condition. It's bad to see these apartments in this condition, but with a lot of hard work something could be done about their condition.

Maybe the owners of these apartments should take note to what is being done at Green-Fair Manor Apartments. They are looking a whole lot better. This can be attributed to the works of the new executive director of the Lubbock Housing Authority, D.C. Fair, Jr.

Since there was so much talk about the special we did last February on the blacks employed here, plans are being made to do the same thing this February. It is the hope of this writer that we cover more businesses who employ blacks in Lubbock.

If there are any ideas about this issue, why not let me hear from you. This writer wants this special issue to be something special for the many black men and women who contribute a great deal to the work force here.

Black Empowerment

By Dr. Nathaniel Wright, Jr.

HUMAN RIGHTS ACTIVIST

Blacks and Israeli-South African Relations

In a recent article for the National Newspaper Press Association, Dr. Jewell Handy Gresham, the distinguished black wife of an equally distinguished member of the Jewish community had some bold and sober reflections.

The soberness was surprising and the boldness was equally so. Not that either should be the case. But honesty between black Americans and the Jewish community—especially in the northeastern United States—is rare, indeed.

Essentially all that Dr. Gresham had to say was that all Americans should be at least as sensitive to the 12 or more percent of our citizens who have traditional ties with Africa as they are to the 5 or more percent of our citizens who have ties with Israel.

What was unusual about Dr. Gresham's simple forthrightness was the fact that generally in the northeast, blacks tend to equivocate when it comes to any statement regarding Israel. Now it is true that some members of the Jewish community will tend to be sensitive regarding anything said regarding Israel. We have many blacks who feel that any mention of even the existence of a "black community" is destructive and dangerously divisive.

But the purpose of a human interchange is to grow in understanding and so to advance the cause of human concord.

The recent announcements of deepening military ties between Israel and South Africa cannot do otherwise than add a tenuousness of uncertainty to black American and black African feelings about Israel . . . and about world Jewry as a whole. It is elementary that Israel's basic resources are at least of U.S. Government and American Jewish foundations. No strong voices of protest . . . or of sanctions . . . have come from either of these major benefactors of Israel.

How else, then, are Americans to view the Israeli-South African ties than as moves with the tacit consent of U.S. government authorities and of large or substantially influential segments of American Jewry?

Overnight . . . the ties could be broken between Israel and South Africa, if either of the above parties raised strong objections. But along with this recognition there is a long-standing feeling that at least the U.S. government has manipulated Israel into untenable positions. There is a widespread feeling among many black as well as white Americans that the "aggressive defense" posture assumed by Israel in the mid 1900's could have been avoided by strong U.S. guarantees of Israel's borders.

As the racist South African regime moves into increasing armed confrontation with blacks both within and beyond its borders, blacks throughout the world will doubtless cringe at the thought that their old-time friends are now a mainstay of their present deadly South African foe.

Black American-Jewish relations are tremendously important. Historically the two communities have worked together to move our nation forward on all issues associated with human rights. But the Jewish community's joining in the court battle against the NAACP in the deFinis case is no theoretical confrontation between friends. It marks an actual or potential watershed in the perceived nature of the relations of these two great ethnic groups.

We must congratulate the salutary efforts of Dr. Jewell Handy Gresham; for her legion is few. Blacks in the northeast have tended to speak for far too long a time in hushed tones regarding anything relating to the Jewish community. This does not nor cannot engender respect for the black community.

The Jewish community for generations now have been the foremost patrons of the black community. The patronized and not the patrons, must break the constraints of patronage and forge the path in which these two historic allies may move forward together as peers.

In this sense, much more of the Dr. Jewell Handy Gresham spirit of sober forthrightness is needed. Her husband is himself a distinguished Jewish promoter in the theatrical world. If honor, integrity and candor make their partnership, what less could such attributes do than cement the ties which must endure between two historically great and illustrious peoples?

Are You Listening Lubbock

by Harold M. Chatman

In looking back over last year, one can look around and find that there are a great deal of things to be thankful for in our community. One has to look to one's religious beliefs, whatever they may be, to really establish the true value of the worth of life itself. One must also examine his or her religious convictions to measure one's true worth to their God and to himself.

In expressing one's religious belief, I have found that deep soul searching is in order for hypocrites. These individuals are plentiful, and they even deceive themselves.

God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten son for us, and we have greedily taken advantage of this most generous of all gifts without even wanting to give a helping hand to our fellowman.

It would be wonderful if the ministers of Lubbock would join hands in a salute to all mankind and form a protective ring of confidence for human rights for all of us. In doing this, let them close their eyes as to if the individuals be rich or poor, black or white, christian or sinner, and teach all the way to everlasting life. This would result in placing yourself completely in God's care without a doubt of any kind. Praising God with a pure heart means we must let God cleanse our hearts from impure motives and hidden designs.

To continually praise Him means a steady decreasing of self, and an increase of the presence of Christ within us until we rejoice like Peter with unspeakable joy and full of glory.

In keeping with the traditions of the New Year, let's give a few resolutions that would be in keeping with the building and maintaining of a brighter tomorrow for Lubbock:

1. Continue prosperity for the city.
2. More participation in city affairs by all of its citizens.
3. Stop in-fighting and work together.
4. Representation from all parts of the city on our governing boards.
5. Representation of all parts of the city on our Board of City Development.
6. Some promotions of minorities on the Lubbock Police Department.
7. Minorities on the Lubbock Fire Department.
8. Black, white and brown brothers and sisters stop ripping off and killing each other.
9. City manager Larry Cunningham hires blacks in administration positions.

Happy New Year!

SPORTS

by Joe Kelly

There's an old saying, which most everyone knows by heart—the only thing sure is death and taxes. Don't you believe it.

The only thing sure is death, taxes and that Texas Tech will lose a bowl game.

When it comes to bowl games, Tech is Numero Uno—in losing. Out of 15 bowl appearances, the Raiders have won three times, tied one.

Starting back at the beginning, the Alpha of the Omega act, Tech lost to West Virginia, then St. Mary's, Tulsa, Miami (0.), San Jose State—all powers, of course.

Hey! Tech snapped it by beating College of the Pacific and then Auburn, truly a power. But it couldn't last. Tech lost then to Wyoming and it was to be long dry spell before the Raiders could go down to defeat again.

The next time was to Georgia and then Georgia Tech, followed by North Carolina.

A victory over Tennessee was the next bowl and the tie with Vanderbilt followed, with a loss to Nebraska bringing us up to date.

But don't despair, folks. The bowl games bring in a lot of money and usn's are concerned with money. Even if the fans don't support us, the money is important.

A little prestige along the line wouldn't hurt, of course. It would be better to be thought of as a fierce bowl foe than "oh, let's invite Texas Tech. They make a good showing, but they never win a bowl game."

Well, that's a dastardly canard. As shown above, they win one out of every five, or so, and doggone, that's pretty healthy. So, obviously, Tech ought to be invited every year.

Tech has a way of coming up, too, with unusual plays in bowl games, plays that cost victory. For instance, there was the penalty against Jim Carlen for being on the field when a long touchdown run was nullified, a run that cost Tech a win.

Then there was the so-called "spike" in the Nebraska game, which the Cornhuskers converted to the game-winning touchdown. It's little jewels like that that endear Tech to bowls.

I don't know. I guess it's easy to think that the fates are against Tech. After all, for 17 years in the conference they have only one co-championship to show—and Houston not only won the title, they won a bowl game the same year, their first.

In fact, if you want to get nasty about it, what has Tech done since joining the conference? Basketball? Two outright championships and one co-championship. Swimming? Tennis? Golf? Baseball? Track? All Americans? Really only E.J. Holub, David Parks and Donny Anderson in 17 years.

Houston and Texas A&M upheld the prestige and honor of the Southwest Conference neatly in bowl games. Houston whipped undefeated Maryland and A&M trounced Florida.

Houston, in fact, was tremendous against a Terp eleven that just knew it was going to win. The Cougars notched 21 points in the first half against a team that had given up only 22 points in the first quarter all season.

Danny Davis isn't, in this opinion, the complete quarterback that Rodney Allison is, but he has Alois Blackwell, and Blackwell has quickness and speed that makes him outstanding.

Tech has no back to compare with Blackwell. Larry Isaac is the closest and he lacks the speed. Blackwell was devastating to Maryland and won the most valuable player award.

After the Cotton Bowl game there was some argument. Many thought Davis should have won the award for his pass from the two-yard line that gave the Coogs life in the closing minutes. In fact, that pass might have saved the victory.

On the otherhand, Blackwell gained 149 yards, scored two touchdowns—and fumbled once to set up a Terp score. Still, if it hadn't been for his running, Houston wouldn't have won.

Maryland, going into the game, had complete confidence. It thought that Mark Manges had no peer as a quarterback, both passer and scrambler. The Terps thought that their defense was equal to anyone.

The Terps were undefeated. They had everything going for them. And, after they got to Dallas, they were told that Houston really wasn't a strong ball club. That helped their morale.

Picture, then, their frustration when the Coogs scored three times on them in the first quarter and threatened to turn the game into a complete rout.

Somehow or other Coach Jerry Claiborne rallied them and convinced them that they could win. And, if Davis hadn't completed that pass from the two-yard line, they might well have taken the victory. It was as close as that.

Tech should have won its game and didn't. Houston won and perhaps shouldn't. Maybe that's what stings. We still have a long way to go.

Millions Spent Each Year In Effort to Cure Colds

People get an average of three colds per year and spend more than $735 million trying to find relief, a federal report shows. Yet none of the 35,000-50,000 cold and cough preparations on the market actually can cure the common cold.

The Texas Medical Association (TMA) says a doctor cannot cure common colds and should be called mainly if there is a fever over 101 degrees for more than 24 hours, bloody discharge from nose or mouth, persistent chest pains, earache, severe or long-lasting sore throat or persistent cough. A doctor also should be contacted if a normally healthy person has a cold for more than a week or two. Of course people with other illnesses may need medical attention if they even get the sniffles since colds can complicate other illnesses.

The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) is working on a program to allow more cold and cough drugs to be sold without prescriptions and strengthen some ingredients already in over-the-counter drugs. Doing so may increase some of the drugs' abilities to relieve cold symptoms. However, people must be increasingly careful not to misuse these products.

The Texas Pharmaceutical Association says many cold medications can cause dizziness, drowsiness, hazy thinking and other side effects, especially if combined with alcoholic beverages. Allergies to certain drugs also cause reactions. People allergic to aspirin should be especially careful to read labels since many products contain the drug. In fact, reading labels and following directions is vitally important for all drugs.

Non-prescription drugs also can cause bad reactions if they interfere with prescription drugs. Advice should be sought about using both types of drugs together. People with heart disease, high blood pressure, thyroid disease, diabetes, glaucoma and several other conditions also need advice on non-prescription drugs.

Almost all drugs can be harmful if over-used but nose sprays and drops present particular problems. The drugs can cause nasal congestion, the same problem they are designed to relieve, TMA says. Nasal membranes malfunction and swell when they are continuously chemically activated. People get "hooked" on the sprays and may have sinus headaches, loss of smell and taste, or high blood pressure, as well as nasal problems. Many individuals have no lasting complications after they quit using the drugs for a few days.

BORDEN

If it's Borden,
it's got to be good.

Number will change to 1411

BEGINNING JANUARY 7,
THERE WILL BE A CHARGE FOR DIRECTORY ASSISTANCE

As part of the statewide Directory Assistance charging plan, the local Directory Assistance number will be changed to 1411, effective January 7.

Here's how the basic plan will work:

Customers with single-line basic service who call Directory Assistance (1411) more than 10 times during a monthly billing period will be charged 20 cents for every call after their tenth. A maximum of two numbers may be requested during each call to Directory Assistance. Multi-line customers will have an additional allowance of one call for each line, up to 25 lines.

The Directory Assistance charge also will apply to calls for numbers in other towns within your home Area Code — with one important exception. You won't be charged for calling Directory Assistance in another town that has the same Area Code as yours provided you make a corresponding Long Distance call within your home Area Code. That call has to be placed from and billed to your own phone within the same monthly billing cycle.

To request numbers in other towns with the same Area Code as yours, you will continue to dial 1-555-1212.

There will be no charge for requesting numbers that have a different Area Code than yours. Just dial 1, plus the Area Code, then 555-1212.

Also, there will be no charge for Directory Assistance calls from coin telephones or from hospitals.

Some customers not charged.

Visually and physically handicapped people who are unable to use the Directory will be exempt from the charge. If you think you, or someone in your family, or a friend may be entitled to this exemption, please fill out the coupon below for more information.

We're introducing this charge because it's the only way we can handle the rising costs of Directory Assistance fairly. The people who use Directory Assistance the most will pay the most.

So look in the book before you call. It will save you money starting January 7.

Sheridan's Ride

by Jack Sheridan

It first appeared as "Dirty Harry," the story of a most individual cop. Then, along came "Magnum Force," the second in what appears to be a series. Now, bigger, dirtier, more violent than ever, with the roughest language, is "The Enforcer," holding forth at the Fox 4 complex.

These stories of Harry are complete and individual entries and they are rough. If salty language is not your cup of tea, then skid away from this one.

However, if you can take it, language, violence and all, then you'll have a rollicking, if brutal, time of your life as Clint Eastwood and company blast through this San Francisco-based story. The photography in this one is a stunning job, with all kinds of new background shots of the city by the Golden Gate. In fact, in these Warner Brothers Deluxe color films, the backgrounds are almost as important as the story and cast. The direction by James Fargo (as in Wells-Fargo) is taut and superb and the playing is equal to the assignment. Eastwood fits his role as the unconventional cop with his own killer ways like a glove and he has superb support from such as veterans Harry Guardino and Bradfor Dillman, with a solid support from newcomer Tyne Daly. That's a girl, friends, and an attractive and smart newcomer she is, too. She is assigned as Harry's new assistant Inspector of Police (Homicide, that is) and she leads Harry in a merry if frustrating chase all through the two-hour film.

The plot key this time is the catching of a brutal and merciless killer from the Vietnam wars, a man who kills with flair and gusto and works his evil over the entire face of San Francisco before his ultimate fall before Dirty Harry.

There's nothing sweet or lovely in this Malpaso Company film but there is nothing dull or repetitious either. From the opening shots to the close-out there is action with a capital A and I found the picture a marvelous exercise in today stories.

As far as I am concerned, Warner Brothers, Clint Eastwood and the whole company can cheerfully go on making Dirty Harry movies to the last day. They are inventive, original and speedy movies and that's what movies are all about.

So, if red-blooded action is what you want, then do not hesitate to go to the Fox and see "The Enforcer." It'll fill your bill to the limit.

And when you've finished with Dirty Harry and his shenanigans, and if you have any stamina left, then veer to the left and go into Fox Theaters No. 4 where Peter Bogdanovich is offering his newest film, the Columbia Pictures release of Nickelodeon.

In the very first days of the silent, then talking, films, a nickelodeon was a hole in the wall reclaimed store or some such where, for a nickel, five whole cents, one could see one and two reeler comedies. Everything worked in these visual films, pratt falls, full treatment with pies and seltzer water bottles, daring exploits by train, balloons, horses, automobiles or on the personal hoof. Whatever, the director strove for the maximum in physical demands and the results were (and are) usually highly funny and entertaining.

Bogdanovich, who scored originally with the Academy Award-winning "Last Picture Show" and went on to such glories as "Paper Moon" and "What's Up, Doc?" and then suffered a couple of films that were less than brilliant, returns with power in this picture-making effort. He has achieved a nostalgic look-back of the early days of the film business and with the aid of a fine cast and a cleverly contrived musical score of oldtime hits he has scored a winner.

This American-British coproduction through Columbia is a fine and lavish film. It begins with the wars between the big business producers in the infantile market and the little independants and climaxed with a touching and revered segment with the opening of the greatest movie of all time, to that date, D.W. Griffith's "The Clansman," later to be known as the immortal "Birth of a Nation."

It is a fun-filled, exciting entry and the cast couldn't be better. There is much in this oldtime recall that will remind you of that glorious Bogdanovich winner, "Paper Moon" and that's all right, too. Ryan O'Neal is present as the oldtime movie director, and his gifted, Oscar-winning daughter, Tatum O'Neal, again plays her Abby role from "Paper Moon" as the farm kid with brains.

If this were not enough, you'll find sturdy Brian Keith as the harried and none too subtle Chicago backer of films, pretty Stella Stevens as the fading star, superb newcomer in body and talent, Jane Hitchcock as the ingenue, Burt Reynolds as the handsome, brawny leading man.

All taken into consideration, the company plays with witty satire and knowing expertise. What they do for the early days of filmmaking is both respectful and hilarious.

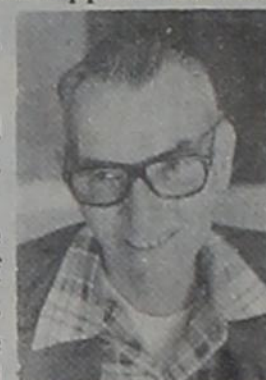

Bogdanovich may not have created the greatest movie ever, but he sure as heck has produced a winning and entertaining entry.

I thought "Nickelodeon" was a delight, having started my moviegoing in this vintage period, and I think you'll find the whole picture an interesting and rewarding time in the theater.

Bogdanovich has a wry and canny perception in this movie, when he hits a winner, and I only hope he goes on inventing and improvising for our wholehearted pleasure. Like the little girl, Bogdanovich, when he is good, is very, very good, indeed. And, when he is bad he can be bad, indeed, also. This time he is very, very good. I think you'll agree with me. So, remember, for laughs in the nostalgia sense, see "Nickelodeon." It's at the Fox 4 complex.

Just a word for the fine series of films that have been populating the Bijou Theater screen down on Broadway, between Aves. R and S. I dropped in on New Year's Day to catch a good bit of a classic, award-winning film, D.H. Lawrence's "Women in Love." This was a literate and delightful capturing of the early century days and starred three pips from England, Alan Bates, Oliver Reed and the lady who can do no wrong on stage and screen, Glenda Jackson. In fact, the latter, sharing with honors with another flawless actress, Katharine Hepburn, is probably the finest actress alive today. She and Miss Hepburn have learned their lessons well and they play with sureness and fascinating technique. It is a delight to watch either of them in whatever they choose to do.

Coming up to the Bijou Theater, incidentally, is another total winner, the British-made "The Ruling Class," set for a brief run next Monday through Wednesday, Jan. 10-12.

The intent of this application is to request a grant allotment of funds under Title II allocation for FY 1977. The total amount of funds available for the City of Lubbock for the remainder of the FY 1977 program year will be $18,905. Expenditures will not be accrued prior to January 1, 1977. The purpose of these funds will be to provide job training and employment opportunities for economically disadvantaged, unemployed and underemployed persons and to assure that training and other services lead to maximum employment opportunities and assist program participants to become economically self-sufficient. Special emphasis will be given to significant segments of the population which will include, but not be limited to, youth age 16-21. The grant total $18,905 will be used for a work experience program within the City of Lubbock area of substantial unemployment—census tracts 7, 8, 10 and 11.

Cost categories and their dollar allocations are:

Administration	$2,035
Wages	14,600
Fringe Benefits	1,470

Services 800

Approximately 45 individuals are to be served by this program. All will be terminated and 3 will be placed in unsubsidized employment. Significant segments and the number to be served are:
