Alphas Sponsor Ebony Fashion Fair Here

Two of the lovely models appearing in the 19th annual Ebony Fashion Fair at the Lubbock Memorial Civic Center Tuesday, March 15, are shown modeling some of the latest fashions. This affair is being sponsored by Theta Kappa Lambda Chapter of Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity.

The 19th annual Ebony Fashion Fair will appear here at the Lubbock Civic Memorial Center Tuesday, March 15, at 8 p.m. This famed traveling fashion show is produced by Ebony magazine in Chicago and is sponsored by Theta Kappa Lambda Chapter of Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity. The show will benefit community service projects and scholarship funds for the local fraternity.

The array of spectacular garments were personally selected by Mrs. Eunice W. Johnson, producer and director of the show, during her visits to the fashion centers of the world—Rome, Naples, Paris and London, as well as New York, Chicago and

Los Angeles. The theme of this year's show is "Carefree Living."

Some of the famous designers whose garments will be featured in the show are Marc Bohan for Christian Dior, Balestra, St. Laurent, Ungaro, Guy Laroche, Karl Langerfeld for Chloe and Calvin Klein. Mrs. Johnson has also selected outstanding creations from black designers, Stephen Burrows, Jack Fuller for Nuance, James Daugherty, Scott Barrie for Barrie Sports and Willi Smith.

The traveling show consists of some 200 fashions complete with accessories, 10 female models, 2 male models, a commentator, music director, stage and business managers and wardrobe staff. Because of the unprecedented demand for sponsorship of the show from organizations in many, many cities throughout the United States, Ebony Fashion Fair will tour two seasons—the East area included last September through December; and the Southwest January through April. This will include 152 cities.

Virgil Johnson, public relations director for the local chapter, told the West Texas Times this week that sales are going exceptionally well and he expects an even larger attendance than last time it appeared in this part of the country.

"We have received response from citizens who live in the Hobbs, New Mexico area as well as other areas on the South Plains," said Johnson. "It will be a success in Lubbock, because this is a dynamic program of great people in the fashion profession," he continued.

"The local chapter has been concerned about bringing these kinds of activities to the city," said Don Jones, president.

Other officers in the local chapter include Charles Henry, secretary; Charles Johnson, treasurer; and Johnson, vice president.

Voting is Very Important

After looking at the returns in the recent school board election, it was quite obvious that residents of east Lubbock still are not interested in voting on important issues. Not even 11,000 voters in the entire city cast ballots in this $11.9 million bond issue.

Since the majority of the black and brown populus resides in the eastern section of Lubbock, it's easy to see that they didn't turn out as they should have. When the issue is to determine the educational situation of young people, more of us should get involved.

Lubbock is a growing city, and much will be happening in the very near future. Unless we go to the polls and express our opinions about the issues, we will forever be left out of the decision making process of our city.

If we keep sitting back and saying that our vote won't count, we'll be surprised with the outcome of our political involvement. Unless we let the various political subdivisions (city, county and school) know how we feel about the situation, we won't get anything.

The West Texas Times pays close attention to the voters of Ella Iles (Box 20) and Alderson Junior High (Box 6). After viewing the returns of last week, the voting in these two boxes was rather light. It could have been better.

We've written many times of the importance of going to the polls and voting. Evidently, east Lubbock residents don't care about going to the polls. It's one thing to want something for your community, but this is never a reality unless you express your feelings at the polls.

Since blacks and browns are not in the complete mainstream of life in Lubbock, we would have thought, by now, that both groups would have become involved in expressing their views with their precious vote. Voting is a very important American way of life. If it is never used, then it's worth nothing.

If you have been keeping up with the local situation, you would be aware of the many projects which may come up in 1977. If elections are called by the city, county or school for any additional improvements, we should all express our opinion at the polls.

Voting is very important, and we should all get involved and do our part each time we get the opportunity to cast our vote. Don't be guilty of not casting your vote on issues which effect the lives of our young people in our community.

Last week's election is over. Let's get ready for any other election which may come up in the future. Your vote is very important and needed to make our city a much better place in which to live.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Mr. Patterson,

Your editorial in the February 23 edition of the West Texas Times was appreciated very much. Your positive comments supporting all the Lubbock teachers has been a moral booster for these people. If all media would give this kind of support to our school system, I think we would find an even greater effort on the part of teachers to be effective with students.

I have not been a regular reader of your newspaper in the past, but I would like to subscribe to the West Texas Times immediately. Please mail my copy to James Baker, 1628 19th Street, Lubbock, Texas 79401, and inform me concerning the billing.

Thank you again for your encouraging support of young people and teachers in Lubbock.

Sincerely,
James V. Baker
Consultant for Language Arts

Dear Editor:

I could not say when I was there, but there are beautiful memories of Mrs. Maunita Terrell. I did share a lot with her. So I am saying in this little note while I was thinking about her.

I cried when I wrote these words, because she was such a wonderful woman and a very good friend of mine. I hope to see her in the end.

This is all I have to say. But you know what, I'll be looking for her on that great day.

A friend,
Mary Sterling

As I See It . . .

by T.J. Patterson

It's alright to criticize anyone or an organization for what may appear to be out of order. But to just criticize for the sake of doing so, is not too cool as we say in the black community. A point at hand is the recent statement made by Kenneth May in his column in the local daily newspaper.

Brother May said: "The NAACP never lacks for a basis on which to allege discrimination;" He went on to speak of an issue which this writer doesn't believe he is well versed.

The comment was: "In Fort Worth, it (NAACP) is opposing a $70 million bond issue on the basis that enlarging schools in black neighborhoods will illegally promote segregation."

If Brother May would look into the Fort Worth situation, he will find that blacks are not necessarily protesting the bond election for the sake of protesting. They (NAACP members) don't want the school board to add on to the high school, which is nearly twenty-five years old and out-dated, they want a new high school.

Another correction, since this writer is in the mood for making corrections this week. It appears as though our chief-of-police, J.T. Alley, in a recent interview with the University Daily, the newspaper on the campus of Texas Tech, didn't tell it like it really happened.

Brother Alley told the UD that the Lubbock Police Department hadn't used their 24-ton tank since the '60s. He said it was used then when Lubbock police trapped an armed man in a house in southwest Lubbock, and police drove the tank up to the house to shoot tear gas through a window, forcing the man from the house.

If this writer can remember clearly, it was in the '70s when this armored personnel carrier (APC) was sent to east Lubbock to prevent a riot. As I See It, this APC got involved several days in east Lubbock during that time.

*****

A recent Gallup survey for the American Cancer Society was revealed that nearly half (46%) of a representative sample of Americans had health checkups in 1976. This is a good sign of people being more concerned about their health.

The survey, completed last December, showed that nearly all adult women interviewed know about the Pap test, and Breast Self-Examination.

In this same survey, a majority of cigarette smokers, to be exact 71% of those who smoke a pack or more a day, said they would stop if urged to do so by their physicians. At the same time, about half of the ex-smokers interviewed (49%) said that if called upon, they would be willing to help others stop smoking. Among smokers of at least a pack a day who plan to stop smoking, 55% said they would like such help to stop smoking.

As I See It, it's very interesting on what people will say about their health. By the way, would you stop smoking today if your physician asked you to do so?

*****

If you haven't had an opportunity to drive in the Posey neighborhood recently, you'll be quite surprised to see that there is something happening. This neighborhood is getting a face lift from several programs sponsored by the City of Lubbock.

One of those programs, which deals primarily with the paving of streets, will definitely help the overall situation in this neighborhood. It's good to see these kinds of things happening in the Posey neighborhood.

It's been a long time coming, but it appears as though the citizens of Posey neighborhood will be pleased with what will be happening in their community.

Not only are the streets being paved, but the houses are being reconditioned. All of this is good for the city of Lubbock. If the residents of the Posey neighborhood can get involved to see that this change is being made, surely other parts of east Lubbock can do the same thing.

Speaking of development in east Lubbock, those Green Fair Manor Apartments are looking a lot better. In the months to come, a special article will be written on what has happened since D.C. Fair Jr. has taken over as the executive director of the Lubbock Housing Authority Board.

Across the tracks, however, the residents of the Coronado Apartments are apparently still not interested in keeping their area clean. After a recent picture in this newspaper of the way residents throw their trash outside the dumpsters, some concern has been shown by many in the Coronado Apartments area.

This writer had one lady to come to me and say that the photo should have appeared in the Times earlier. If it takes this kind of thing to get people to think and appreciate their dwelling area, then this newspaper will continue to inform our many readers how people treat their properties.

As I See It, what's happening in the Green Fair Manor Apartments can happen in the Coronado Apartments. It'll just take some time and effort. If this is done, something will happen.

BLACK EMPOWERMENT

By Dr. Nathaniel Wright, Jr. Human Rights Activist

Black Americans, in reading the white press, could soon find themselves developing a creeping disappointment in regard to the political behavior of blacks in Rhodesia (or Zimbabwe) and South Africa.

Blacks in Africa are shown or depicted in the white news media as being incapable of political agreement and indecisive in regard to facing "clear-cut proposals" offered by such outside friends as the United States and Britain.

Black Americans should be wary of all the impressions of Africa suggested to, or foisted upon, the unsuspecting public.

Beginning with the matter of the "clear-cut" proposals, only a brief re-reading of old news releases makes it abundantly obvious that what is clear about the proposals is their unmasked use of the "double tongue."

The American diplomat using his much-heralded (but so often hollow) "shuttle diplomacy," said one thing to Mr. Smith of Rhodesia, something else to Mr. Vorster the South African Prime Minister and still another thing to the black African leaders.

This even does one up on the double tongue; this is tripled tongued talk of the kind that only a master of duplicitous diplomacy could begin, at least, to pull off.

Before his leaving Africa, Mr. Kissinger had been wined and dined by white racist leaders to whose positions he had given credibility. Then he had been wined, dined and serenaded by the black leaders of all kinds of differing persuasions.

Mr. Kissinger, whose mode of operation has tended toward being "all things to all men" had left his African foray true to form, posturing but to no real profit to anyone except his own ego and that of his sycophantic or obsequious admirers.

Hence, when black Africans are portrayed in the white press as being incapable of taking advantage of the impressive bargains which Mr. Kissinger especially has arranged for them, we must recognize that the "impressive bargains" are no more than myths in the minds of Mr. Kissinger and the white press.

The white press is not, and never has been, the black world's most trustworthy friend. The overall impact of the white press has always been, whether consciously or unconsciously, toward the belittling of black people.

In this sense, the white press is doing nothing more than affording loyal service to its masters.

So far as the apparent inability of black Africans to get together on other matters, black Americans should be aware of a built-in problem which the white European community has created.

In Rhodesia (or Zimbabwe) for example, the vast majority of the population is comprised of Zulu tribesmen. Then, there are small segments of a variety of other tribes.

When the European conquerors came to Africa, over the past 400 years, the colonial territories to which they laid claim often had little reference to the tribal limits which existed. Hence, tribes were broken up, with some portions "belonging" to one white European colony and other portions of the same tribe being "the property or subjects" of another European colonial power.

The result now is that, when independence is given to a colonial territory, what is left are the fragmented portions of tribal groups. These groups may or may not have much in common, in terms of their blood relations and perceived self-interest.

This benefitted the colonial powers, in that a divided people is always more easy to subdue and rule.

But in the face of independence, what we have is the prospect of freedom to groups of people who do not see themselves as related. This is precisely the situation in Rhodesia where, for example, the "one man-one vote" principle (which seems reasonable to naive outsiders) would mean a total dominance by the Zulu tribe. Yet most of the guerrilla warfare has been conducted by leadership from other tribes.

This is not to denounce the "one-man one-vote" principle. We simply note that white European mischief has left to black Africans an almost impossible legacy. Our views of African behavior must always bear that central fact in mind.

Police Beat

Criminal Mischief

Harold Morgan, 2902 3rd Street (E-4), reported to Lubbock police that persons unknown to him slashed the right rear and right front tires of his 76 model car while it was parked.

According to the police report, this caused approximately $150 worth of damage to Morgan's car. "I have no idea who wanted to treat me like this," says Morgan.

*****

House Burglary

Glen Adams, 2808 Juniper Ave., No. 10, reported to Lubbock police that persons unknown burglarized his apartment while he was away one day last week.

It is believed that entry was gained by breaking out the plate glass on the front door. Exit was apparently through the same door.

Taken from his apartment was an AM/FM stereo radio with an 8-track stereo tape player. This stereo was valued at $200.

Estimated damage to the glass was not known.

Attempted Murder & Aggravated Robbery

Melvin Ward, 1316 East 13th Street, reported to Lubbock police that he and a 25-year-old man had been playing cards one day last week. After having an apparent good day, both sit down and began to "jive" around for awhile.

Ward, according to the police report, told police that his young friend left the scene for a few minutes. When he returned, he started shooting at Ward.

At this time, Ward fell down and the man reached and grabbed $350 from Ward's hand. The man said: "Give me my money."

After taking the money, the man fled and left Ward lying on the floor. Several moments later, persons unknown came by and took him (Ward) to St. Mary's Hospital for treatment. They left without saying anything.

It is believed that Ward will file charges against the young man this week.

Theft Over $200, Under $10,000

Elvira Arriaga, 2722 East 2nd Place, reported to Lubbock police that she parked her car on the parking lot of a local car dealer where she works. When she returned, she learned that someone unknown had taken three of her hubcaps.

These hubcaps were valued at approximately $320.

Theft By False Pretense Over $200

Elzie Mosley, 3020 East 2nd Place, reported that he was going to buy a 73 model car from a 27 year old man one day last week "for just $400."

According to the police report, Mosley gave the man $400 and was making ready for the big change in paper. At the time he gave the man the money, he was having his hair cut.

While Mosley was busy getting his hair trimmed, the man went over to a local pawn shop to pay out some pawn tickets. After doing this, according to the police report, the young man left town. It is believed that he went back to Houston with his pawn tickets in his pocket and his car.

On the other hand, Mosley was left getting a haircut and out of $400. "I will file charges against him," said Mosley.

Aggravated Assault

"I was just trying to help," said an 18 year old Lubbock man who was shot one day last week. He told police that he and another friend had gone to a hamburger stand to get something to eat. While there, three men in a big white water truck struck a gas meter.

The young 18 year old man said to them: "I am going to call the police." When he said that, all three got out of the truck and began to beat upon him. One of them hit him with a piece of pipe. While he was down, another shot him in the right hand with a pistol.

"I don't know them by name, but I know them when I see them," said the youth. The young fellow will attempt to file charges this week.

by Joe Kelly

And a happy March to you. Yesterday it was Jan. 1 and you wonder where go the days. There's one thing about it. The faster the days go now, the quicker warm weather fishing is going to be here.

Before you can concentrate much more on that, the college basketball playoffs take the spotlight. Indeed, Texas Tech heads into the second round of the conference playoffs, meeting Baylor at Houston. It's a good field in the finals and some interesting games are on tap.

The most interesting immediate battle will be the Aggies and Houston. This should be a hard, physical game, with the edge to the Cougars, who appear to be a little stronger.

After that the Raiders take on Baylor and the Bears astounded some people by beating Texas in Austin. It should have come as no surprise. The Bears have been coming on and their game with Tech here was an indication of the fine job that Jim Haller has done.

The Raiders have a chance to be only the fifth Tech team in history to finish with 20 victories in a season if they can beat Baylor. Twice the Raiders have posted 21 victory seasons, along with one even 20 victory campaign. Last year, of course, was the best in history.

So, if Tech gets by Baylor, then Houston, if the Cougars win, the Raiders could tie for the second best Tech record. A victory in the finals, against Arkansas, would make them the second best, ever.

The Bears present problems. Tech beat them twice in the regular season and that is one problem. It's always hard to win from the same team three times.

Of greater importance, however, is the fact that the Bears have quickness and speed. They move the ball well and, led by Larry Spicer, have a good shooting team. They were plagued by turnovers in the second Tech game, or else they might have won here in Lubbock.

So, there is nothing easy about this game. The Bears will go all out to stop Tech and advance and the Raiders will have to play one of their better games to win.

If Steve Dunn is completely well, that would help. Tech needs his defensive ability, along with his playmaking agility. And Grant Dukes needs to have a hot hand, along with Mike Russell. Tech ought to win, along with Houston, to set up a great semi-final game Friday.

No matter who gets to the finals against Arkansas, it will have to be a tired team. Three games in as many nights is tough in itself. Three hard games makes it even rougher. The Razorbacks have a definite advantage in having a 10-day rest.

Still, that rest might backfire. Even with practice sessions, timing could be a little off. The Porkers might not be quite as sharp, and that could be fatal against either Tech or Houston.

It's too bad that the conference decided not to televise the games in hopes that the attendance would be better. The league's position is understandable. At the same time, fans from many miles away are penalized, fans who wouldn't, or couldn't, spend the time and money to go to Houston.

Hopefully, next year the league officials will change their minds. The publicity alone would be worth it and fans deserve an opportunity to see the best in the conference play.

The SMU-Aggie game was interesting, primarily because the Aggies intimidated the Mustangs. They did it, of all things, by drawing excessive fouls. Indeed, SMU was in the one in one in less than four minutes from the opening tip.

The Mustangs picked up 11 points from the free throw line, but the Aggies, with good depth, had a clear shot at the goal. They made the most of it and easily held the upperhand. They forced SMU out of its normal game and controlled the tempo.

Gerald Myers was restless Saturday night as the Raiders met Rice. Tech built an early lead and then had trouble holding it. The Owls never tied the score and they never led, but they came within five points in the second half and that was too close.

"Yes I was concerned," Gerald said later. "They were controlling the tempo of the game. And when they came within five points, that was too close."

Tech, of course, after a chat with Myers, settled down to play something more like its normal games. And, when the Raiders did that, they soon had a 24-point lead and the victory wrapped up.

There weren't many on hand, probably just the real hard core faithful, but they gave the seniors the type of ovation they should have had from 10,000 fans.

And even Bob Polk, the personable Rice coach, drew a generous hand when they announced that he had coached his last game after a long and illustrious career.

So the days dwindle down. Basketball won't be with us much longer. Already the colleges are playing baseball and the pros have gone to spring training. Over a week ago I saw my first kite of 1977 and, it's said, that heralds spring being a month away. It'll probably snow next week, but spring definitely has sprung. Bring it on!

SWARM OVER TEXAS TECH—Visiting high school and junior college students crowded the Ballroom in the Texas Tech University Center for University Day to ask questions and get answers about Texas Tech. More than 1,300 students, parents, and high school counselors attended Texas Tech's second University Day. (Tech Photo)

Texas Tech Sponsors University Day

High school seniors by the hundreds from many parts of Texas and New Mexico thronged the Texas Tech campus, buildings and facilities Friday (Feb. 25) to give the institution a close look with the thought of enrolling this fall.

Many were accompanied by their parents and high school counselors, according to Marc Scott, associate dean of admissions and records. By nightfall, total attendance was expected to be 1,300 to 1,500 students.

While on campus they were given information regarding the colleges of Agricultural Sciences, Arts and Sciences, Business Administration, Education, Engineering and Home Economics. They also were given opportunity to visit with university officials in the areas of counseling, testing, recreation, student organizations, housing and other activities and programs related to campus life.

This is the second year that Texas Tech has conducted University Day for high school and junior college students who may be interested in attending the university.

Tina Moore Receives Scholarship

Tina Z. Moore, a senior at Estacado High School, was notified by Ms. Lorene L. Rogers, president of the University of Texas, that she has been selected to receive an Achievement Scholarship at the university. This scholarship will include $1,000 per year for four years of education, plus such additional aid as "financial needs indicate."

Moore, an active student at Estacado, is expected to major in the College of Business Administration where she hopes to specialize in the area of accounting.

In her letter to Ms. Moore, Ms. Rogers said: "I congratulate you on our selection as an Achievement Scholar. I hope that you will plan to take this opportunity to further your education as a student at the University of Texas at Austin."

Ms. Moore told the West Texas Times that she is looking forward with great excitement to attend the University of Texas. "I'm sure it will be a challenge for me, but I'm willing to work as hard as I can to contribute something to the University of Texas," she continued.

Happenings at Estacado HS

In celebration of "Texas Public Schools Week," Estacado High School will host an "open house" Monday, March 7, at 7:30 p.m. The "Expo 1" will include displays from all departments in the building with an opening program in the auditorium beginning at 7:30.

On Saturday, March 12, the Estacado Student Council will sponsor its 10th annual "Coronation & Grand Ball" and will crown its Mr. and Miss EHS in the Estacado auditorium, beginning at 7:30 p.m. Outstanding student representatives from the school's various departments will be honored. Admission to this event is free, but a 75 cent charge for the "Grand Ball" to be held in the cafeteria following the Coronation.

Rites Read for Jessie Mae Hicks

Final rites were read last Thursday morning for Mrs. Jessie Mae Hicks, 61, 3320 East 17th St., at the Mount Gilead Baptist Church with Rev. S.R. Roberts, pastor, officiating.

Interment was held in the City of Lubbock Cemetery under the direction of South Plains Funeral Home.

A resident of Lubbock for nearly 23 years, she died last week in Methodist Hospital. She was a native of Waco.

Survivors include her mother, Mrs. Mary Cross of Waco; a son, Willie L. Foster of Houston; two brothers, Cleveland Cross and Ferris Williams, both of Waco; three sisters, Mrs. Katherine Rynes and Mrs. Millie Mosely, both of Lubbock, and Mrs. Lula Mae Tucker of Waco, three grandchildren, other relatives and many friends.

Sheridan's Ride

by Jack Sheridan

Of course, the big, big news of this coming week is the official Grand Opening Week of the brand-spanking-new downtown Lubbock Memorial Civic Center. On the site of wholesale destruction by the killer tornado the night now seven years ago (already!) come May, a brand new, modernistic complex of theater, banquet hall, exhibit hall has risen and this week it gets its official blessing.

To commemorate the grand dedicatory week, the powers-that-be have arranged a cross-section series of events that represent the local music, drama world of this city and so I am going to devote a little time right here, since this column appears on the day that the festivities start, to events for your information.

Today at 4 p.m. the official ribbon-cutting ceremonies will be held and following that, there will be guided tours by nearly 200 volunteer guides to show the whole complex to you. You'll see every facet of this multi-million dollar project in its shining newness.

Then, for the first official event in the new theater, there is a free public program, a joint venture by the Lubbock Theatre Centre and the Lubbock Civic Ballet. It will consist of four new works totally new for Lubbock and directed by Civic Ballet's gifted Rick Brame. What you will see in the dance department will be "Spring Waters," a traditional Russian ballet, to the music by Rachmaninoff; "Koto Song," a dance stylized form around Dave Brubeck's "Jazz Impressions of Japan;" "Dance for Flute and Dancer," music by Liberman, climaxing in "John Human," a "total theater" involvement for the joint groups, based on the play "Dark of the Moon" about the mountain boy, as adapted by Ric Brame. Now this is a free event, but tickets are in order and you may pick them up at the Civic Center box office, if they have not already been napped up.

KLLL, the popular radio station, then brings in concert, at 8 p.m. Friday, Littlefield and Lubbock's own Waylon Jennings and his wife, popular Jessi Colter in a country western concert for the benefit of the Texas Boys Ranch. This is a "paid" event and again I refer you to the Civic Center box office or outlets around town.

Saturday brings a Western Heritage Festival which is free, without tickets, at the Center. This is five hours of continual entertainment featuring six musical and dance groups in a program of Southwestern sound blending the country and western music and the Mexican American flavor. Check the Center for time on this one.

Sunday is the Memorial Service for the victims of that May, 1970 tornado, honored by the Center, which is, of course, free and I suggest you check the newspaper for time on this one.

Sunday night Henry Mancini, the man who wrote "Moon River," "The Pink Panther" score and a host of other tunes, will be leading the Lubbock Symphony Orchestra in a "paid" performance. This is Sunday, March 6, at 8 p.m. Tickets are at the Civic Center box office and going fast.

"Holiday on Ice" the extravaganza show bows at the Civic Center on March 10 and repeats through Sunday, March 13. Tickets are available at the Civic Center and Furr's Family Center. This all-family show has a 2 p.m. matinee Saturday, March 12, at which juniors, 12 years or under get in for half price. This is the first ice show in the major sense to visit Lubbock in a good while, so get your tickets quickly; it's going to be a winning engagement.

Climaxing the whole chain of events will be the First United Methodist Church's production of the Rodgers and Hammerstein smash musical success, "The Sound of Music." It is set for Friday night, March 11 (sold out) and a repeat Saturday night, March 12. You better check the First United Methodist Church on tickets (paid event) before that performance "goes clean," too.

In answer to the continual wish by many Lubbock devotees of the dance, the Lubbock Civic Ballet is sponsoring the two-night appearances at the Municipal Auditorium of the celebrated San Francisco Ballet. Their vehicle will be a three-act dancing version of "Romeo and Juliet." There will be the full company and a big orchestra and tickets are on sale at the Auditorium box office and at the University Center at Texas Tech. This is a glittering event for Lubbock and attendance should be strong for both nights. Dates are March 15-16. Time is 8 p.m.

Incidentally, to touch back once more on the opening week at the Civic Center there are continuing exhibits being displayed, reflecting the whole spectrum of Lubbock endeavors. They include the Arts and the Crafts. There are no charges to view these, of course, and they deserve your attention, certainly.

I urge you to see "Rocky," the much-talked about film that is up for 10 Academy Awards later this month. This is the American Dream film that was produced on a low budget for today, being written by a newcomer Sylvester Stallone, who held off peddling his script around until he got just what he wanted, a producer and the chance to crack the title role himself.

He held firm and now his drive has paid off. He is up for an Oscar as Best Actor, and for Best Writer. His leading lady is up for Best-Actress, his film for Best Picture and on and on.

And this modest yet powerful film deserves all it gets. It is the story of a "born to lose" South Philadelphia boxer who tenaciously holds on, who gets a chance to fight the champion on a "fluke" and who turns that bloody, realistic battle into a statement of today that is both harrowing and inspiring in its content. I am going to be touching on this film in greater detail later on. For the moment, I want you to remember "Rocky" and don't let it get by. It's more than a picture; it's a vital and moving experience.

That's all for the moment. We've still got some films in the offing and other comments which must wait for another day.

by Harold M. Chatman
People are complaining more but doing little or nothing about it. We hear everyday people talking about children are not minding anymore or you can't say anything to children anymore.

Just who is to blame for this situation? Parent or children? We are quick to say that it is the child, for our reasoning is that you just can't say anything anymore because it's a new day and time. What one so easily forgets is that trends usually go around in a cycle. All children will try parents, teachers, authorities in any shape form or fashion for its their very nature to challenge and feel their strength and to determining their limitations in the society which they are surrounded by.

If you as an adult stop and remember that you were a child once and you didn't like to be disciplined but it didn't hurt you, except may be a little in the sitting down area. Today you still have respect for your parents or elders and you don't use profane language in front of them or if you do its a slip and you quickly offer an apology. Children now days think nothing of using profanity in front of others or parents and see nothing wrong with doing so. If we don't correct our children when they use profanity at home, then don't get uptight when someone else's child uses it on us away from home. Also don't be shocked when a child (other than your own) calls you by your first name, when your own child does so at home and before other children. Don't be angry when some other child does something to you but when you try to correct them you are told you can't tell them a thing and find it reverts back to the time when you have taken the word of your child over that of an adult, and they know it. I know adults do say things that aren't true sometimes, but ninety percent of the time what they are saying is true. We believe everything about everyone else's child except our own.

Oh yes don't let me forget one of the pet complaints that parents often use, and that is the teachers aren't teaching our children anything and that's the reason things are as bad as they are. How can we effectively teach morals, respect, obedience and love of their fellow man when these things are the responsibilities of the home. We do teach subject matters and try to reenforce the home values (except religious ones) or changes them if not acceptable in the society in which we live. I also know what you will say about society not always being right and I agree, but the way to correct it is for you and the general public to take part, but not use our children to take out our frustrations on, or use them as tools of your own wishful thinking.

Modern techniques are good but don't forget the old altogether for they have brought us a long ways so far. Yes, use both the old and the new together and weed out the bad of both.

March 2—Midland-Odessa, Texas—We had our first opportunity to visit Ideal Baptist Church in Midland recently and we received such a warm welcome "back home." The late pastor of Ideal was a personal friend of this correspondent: The Rev. I.M. Woodard. We remembered when we pastored just down the street from him in his lifetime and how he so often lent spiritual and financial encouragement to "a struggling Methodist preacher."

It did seem that Woodard's spirit was still alive at Ideal and his "son in the ministry," Rev. Rase Gowans was carrying on in a great way and in "the West Texas Times has always been popular in this area and we promised Pastor Gowans that we would return for a speaking engagement in Ideal and conduct a subscription campaign within his congregation. It's a promise. There are a lot of bellringers in Ideal and a lot of them read us regularly in The Midland Daily Reporter Telegram.

New club members in Midland are Lester A. Davis of 118 E. Nobles, a staunch friend and Methodist layman through the years and Bro. Alexander of the Church of Christ, Bro. Gowans and others that we will be noting here from time to time.

Over in Spur, Texas, the Rev. Joseph Stanley Ferguson of 2611 E. Aulison St., Lubbock, Texas continues to bring things to pass at the First Baptist Church in Spur. He has a real program outlined for the young people that is creating much interest and you will be hearing from this young preacher and "sweet singer of Zion" within the near future.

"The Church of the Miracle," the Pleasant Green Baptist Church of Hobbs and pastored for some years by Rev. H.R. Watkins, was the scene of a great Brotherhood program recently. The message was delivered by Elder W.G. Patton of Bethel Pentecostal on "Real Brotherhood." Pete French is president of the club and others participating were Jack White, Rev. B.T. Woods, Roosevelt Triplett and the men's choir. We enjoyed much the afternoon. Tune in every Sunday on KCIA to the Golden Bell Hour in Hobbs, N.M. 1110 on your dial.

West Texas and the entire Permian Basin will be in on the Ninth Annual Black History Tea & Forum to be held in Hobbs, New Mexico on Sunday, April 3, 1977. The time: 2 p.m. New Mexico time. This promises to be one of the most interesting and challenging of all previous ones held in West Texas-New Mexico.

The main scheduled speaker is the Hon. H.M. Baggary, internationally known editor of The Tulia Herald of Tulia, Texas. So T.J., Norman and all the gang at the West Texas Times—this is it.

Come on down and hear the "Country Editor" who is said to be the editor of one of the most influential weekly newspapers in the U.S.A.

States Baggary: "All political writing is nothing more than one man's opinion, whether it be that of the editor of a New York or Chicago daily, or that of a crossroads weekly out in the sticks. Very often a small town editor gets a clearer perspective of the entire political picture than can the big daily editor . . . The weekly newspaper must stay abreast of its readers in the matter which determines their way of life—politics." end of quote.

This is the man who has been friends of a number of Presidents, Governors and politicians in all walks of life for many years and will have a message when he speaks.

I really need to update you again on who is going to be in town. La Costa will be performing at the upcoming ABC Rodeo. That should be enjoyable, judging by the response that La Costa received the last time that she was in town. Kenny Rogers will also be in town at Bigger 'n Dallas, March 12. You can plan on finding yourself among a big crowd when that show rolls into town. Those are the two that initially come to mind, and then there is the one that is an absolute must. That being Waylon Jennings and Jessie Colter, this Friday, March 4th. The concert begins at 8 p.m. and, of course, it is the first concert ever to be held in the Lubbock Memorial Civic Center. For ticket information, call the civic center box office.

While I mentioned La Costa, I didn't mention that she just finished recording her new single at a studio in Los Angeles. The only interesting thing here is that this is the first time she has ever recorded outside of Nashville.

Here is a very interesting story—People have reason to believe Larry Gatlin is psychic as well as a sensitive songwriter. Following a performance of a new song, "Jacob and Marcy", and an interview on a radio show at WINN in Louisville, Kentucky, a woman called to request permission to send a tape of the show to relatives in Scotland. Receiving such, a month went by and the woman called the station to report the wonder her relatives felt upon hearing the song. Their questions were, Who is Larry Gatlin? How does he know so much about our family? Seventy-five years ago, one of their clansmen named Jacob apparently had an affair with a barmaid named Marcy whom the family regarded as bad people. How did Gatlin know, they wondered, that on a certain day Jacob's people insisted he end the relationship? Then when he went to bed with Marcy one more time and told her he couldn't see her again, she killed him and blood filled the sheets, just like in the song. Gatlin said he was driving in the car when the song just came to him.

If you are in the market for some new albums, let me tell you about a few that are out now. ADIOS AMIGOS is the new album from Marty Robbins, again proving that he will change to fit the music industry always by stepping forth with something new and yet true to form. JOHN DENVER'S GREATEST HITS VOLUME II is just what it says. When someone is as popular as Denver, you know that every song on the album is certainly one that you've heard enough times. JOHNNY DUNCAN, the artist and album title. This album is a fascinating twist from the normal for Duncan. After talking with Columbia records, I think that the reason would be his recent change to recording in the studio with his own band, rather than studio musicians. NEW HARVEST-FIRST GATHERING is the latest work of art from Dolly Parton. This excellent album is also produced by Dolly. Which in laymen's terms means the entire finished product, from the cover to each little note from each little instrument, had to pass the judgment of Dolly. Which is obviously a good deal. And the album proves it.

We have one more week of Country Music Bingo left on KLLL. Next week is the last and the color of bingo card that you will need is green. If you are not close enough to one of our sponsors to get your card, we still want you to play. If you will send us a stamped, self-addressed envelope to KLLL BINGO CARD, P.O. Box 10326, Lubbock, Texas 79408, we will send you a green bingo card. All of the rules are on the back.

In short, the biggest thing this week is of course the grand opening of the Lubbock Memorial Civic Center. Try not to miss those festivities.
