STANTON, (SC) - Dan Mowry inspector with the Texas Health Department has been here assisting Mrs. Leo Turner, city-county sanitarian, in an inspection of the city and county situations.

He described conditions here as

Mrs. Turner said facilities at the city dump, three miles south of town, will be constructed before summer to bring it up to the specifications outlined by the Health Department. At the same time she announced that barrels still beused for trash and garbage will be emptied through January 3, but that after that date all bottles, cans, garbage and other things calculated to draw flies must be placed in the covered garbage cans with which the residents have well supplied. These cans will be emptied once a week, she

Liberty In Our Land Remains Assured Under Bill Of Rights

The Bill of Rights, the code we live by, got quite a workout on the occasion of its 161st birthday. With the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution, 4t was deposited in a helium-filled vault in the National Archives Building where these charters of American freedom will be as safe from atomic bombs and the ravages of time as human ingenuity can make

In dedicating this new shrine President Truman observed that freedom is menaced both by Communists and by some who hate Communism yet "want the government to regulate matters of the mind and spirit."

In another mausoleum-like building not far away in time and space the United States Supreme Court was handing down a decision which reminded American legislators that they cannot apply totalitarian methods of justice to Americans protected by the Bill of Rights.

It overthrew an Oklahoma loyalty test which, Justice Clark wrote in an 8-0 deelsion made association alone the test of

"Indiscriminate classification of innocent

with knowing activity must fall as an assertion of arbitrary power," the opinion held. The Oklahoma law failed to provide any form of relief for persons who innocently and in ignorance joined any group declared by the attorney general (while Clark himself held that office) to be subversive. This ex parte condemnation of persons "offends the due process" provision of the Bill of Rights, it was held.

Under our law every person, no matter who his associates are or how ornery his conduct, is presumed innocent until proved guilty. This is the exact opposite of the Communist method of declaring persons guilty and then carrying on a mock trial to confirm the pre-trial verdict, from which there is no appeal.

It was Lord Acton's dictum that "power corrupts, and absolute power corrupts absolutely." Where the citizen has no protection against the powers of the government there is tyranny, and nothing but tyranny. As long as the Bill of Rights stands between the citizen and the little tyrants of government, there will be liberty in

Finally, policy dividends on life insurance amounted to $600 million.

Gyrations, Sound-Effects Are More Important Than The Song

The opinions contained in this and other articles in this column are sololy those of the writers who sign them. They are not to be interpreted as necessarily reflecting the opinions of The Herald,—Editor's Note.

There's a song for every occasion (hear "I Saw Mommy Kissing Santa Claus") and some for no reason at all these days (hear anybody's radio).

So one critic (of everything) suggests that modern American music may be the era's outstanding form of art. This, he intimates, isn't necessarily a bouquet for the songwriters as there aren't many poets. novelists, or "artists" of any other variety in operation today. (He apparently and conveniently overlooks the necessity of a master's dying before his greatness is recognized )

In this opinion, if today's music is "art" we've about run out. Beaucoup of the songs are nothing but "revivals" and the others usually are attached to someone else's tune, modifications of the classics or mere conglomerations of words and rackets.

The recording companies are taking advantage of tastes for the latter. They say we're in a "sound phase" as far as popular music is concerned, and a listen to the echoes, one-man trios, and out-of-control accompaniment you can tune in any day

substantiates that diagnosis of music's

The record makers pay more attention to sound engineering than the song composers. Take the tear-jerker, Johnny Ray, for example. They hook him up to a battery of voice boxes and echo chambers, tangle up his arms and turn him loose. Probably few pay any attention to what he has to sing about. It's the gyrations and sound effects that put him into the out-of-the-ordinary class. Or some of the others, like Patti Page, Bobby Maxwell and the Paul-Ford team. who play around with echoes, double and triple recordings and the like to attract

They're all in the popular field, but the hill billies are in the same business, with electric guitars carrying on the dying note after the singer's voice cracks, and crowding in a few weird runs between lines.

I'd like to hear some of the racket with the ear of Toscanini who, they say, can tell when a 78-rpm record is making 781/4 turns per minute. We'd probably agree: Some of it would sound better under water.

Generosity Must Not Cause U.S. To Lose Sense Of Nationality

Averell Harriman once raised an exciting idea in the realm of the impoverishment of our great nation, when he said:

"I don't know of any way that one people can be rich and the rest of the world poor any more than one man in the country can be rich and the rest of the people poor.'

This dictum evades the whole of human history, the developments of civilizations, the varying cultural levels of peoples, as let us say the natives of the Marianna Islands as compared with the natives of France. It ignores geography, sociology, as well as history.

What seems to bother Harriman is that he believes the United States with only 10 per cent of the population of the socalled free world possesses over 50 per cent of its wealth and productive capacity. His figures are a little wrong, but I understand what he means.

Averell, only one generation removed from a constructive builder, his father, E. H. Harriman, does not realize that what we have, we have earned. Few in the whole 300 years of Americans on this continent inherited very much. Harriman is an exception; he inherited a mighty lot. But most Americans earned their way by hard work, by building something. by inventing something, by creating something.

Our productivity was not inherited from the Indians nor was much of it imported from Europe or Asia. It was made in America by Americans. Our productivity comes out of the genius of a free people, whose greatest freedom was the right to risk their careers and prospects on their judgment.

Averell Harriman's theory is the application of levelling nations as Socialism levels men down. When men speak of equality of sacrifice, they generally think of a ratio of say 9 to 1, if you look at what we contribute to the United Nations and the Korean War, or about 5 to 1 when it comes to the defense of Europe We are only 156,000,000 people as compared with about 240,000,000 among the socalled free peoples in Europe; yet we have contributed well over $100,000,000,000 Europe since 1939 and they have contributed nothing to us. They say: But they lost men in war, but so did we and we are still doing it in Korea and other

The exaggerated internationalism and confused sacrificial masochism on the part of men like Harriman, stimulates a reaction in this country against Europe which many Americans have come to regard as a leech upon our economy. They drive so hard against the interests of the United States, that many Americans turn not against these Americans, but against all Europeans. As a matter of fact, a feeling growing in this country that being proBritish is only less evil than being pro-Russian because we dislike the Russians more than the British dislike us.

Common sense might be applied to international relations. We are a nation that has been generous to our friends and even to our foes. We have created a great productive capacity which in two wars and in the periods between wars, we have shared with all the world.

And such generosity will continue as long as we can afford it. Yet, such generosity must not cause us to lose our sense of nationality. Aid for other nations does not involve a subordination of our policies to those of other countries, as we have actually done in Korea.

During the past three decades, every propagandistic device has been employed by all sorts of so-called educational agencies to lessen the belief of our own people in nationalism, in their deep-rooted faith in their own country. Even our children have been taught that America is Jess to be considered than what they call "the world." Instead of contracts among free countries, we were told to take a global point of view. Yet, nowhere else in the world has nationalism so lost caste as in the United States. The British speak of their Commonwealth with pride and of their Queen in reverence, but our children are being taught of the globe, not of their own country.

Yet internationalism stirs no emotion of pride or satisfaction or even joy. It is a sterile doctrine, negative and without prospect. The opposite to internationalism is not isolation; it is contractual partnership among equals for mutual aid and transactions.

Fought Hard Against 'Tamina'

When men desire to capture jungle beasts alive, it is usual to try to take them while they are young. There is, however, an important exception to the general rule. Elephants are the largest land animals, and are fierce enough, but the custom is to capture them after they are of full size.

The island of Ceylon is one of the few places outside of Africa where wild elephants roam. From time to time, scores of natives go into the jungles to try to round up some of the big beasts.

One day a group of beaters in Ceylon drove nine wild elephants into an area where a heavy fence had been built. This was a good start, but there was much more work to be done. After wild elephants are placed in a pen, they remain dangerous. They may charge at anyone who comes inside.

When the time seemed right, the fence gate was opened a little, and six natives went through, also two tame female elephants. Each tame elephant carried two men on her back. The other two natives walked behind

The leader of the nine wild elephants— a huge bull—had been spotted. A native slipped toward him, and tried to place a shook it off. The native was barely able to save himself by running behind one of the tame elephants.

Another native ran toward the bull, and placed a noose around one of his hind feet. The other end of the rope had been tied to the collar of a tame female. Step by step, she pulled the bull back toward a group of strong trees. The elephant-taming natives now joined in putting nooses around the other feet of the buil, tying each rope to a tree with a heavy trunk.

For hours the bull elephant struggled and moaned. Kicking and jerking, he tried to break free. He even tried to stand on his head, but all was in vain. The ropes

After that, the other wild elephants were roped up. All through the work, the tame females played their part. They were loyal toward the men, but not toward their wild relatives.

to prevent Korea from becoming a larger war is to accept the Communist position on the prisoners held in United Nations prisoner camps. In a series of editorials he has argued that the Geneva conventions governing prisoners of war do not actually require that the wishes of the prisoner be taken into account and that therefore the United States can approve turning over all those now held, including prisoners whose intention of not going back is on the record. This campaign has won

At the same time, of course, he That comforting belief can no longer be suggests that the role of American forces in a stalemated war on the frontier of Communism is no more than that which Britain performed for so long in her century of world order-keeping.

These signs can be ready by the men in the Kremlin. They could conceivably strengthen the Soviet determination to prevent any settlement in the conviction that the West will sooner or later give up the weary Korean burden. In contemptuously brushing aside the Indian peace plan. Andrei Vishinsky showed that this determination was already strong.

Eisenhower's homecoming statement said about all that could be said. There was no hint of any easy solution and certainly not of withdrawal or accession to Soviet demands. It is hard to imagine the Eisenhower administration taking any step that even looked like withdrawal.

So, therefore, one comes up against the ratio of time and patience. How much longer can the war continue in its present phase without precipitating an irrestible demand to end it by some all-out solution? Twelve months would be an optimistic guess. Six months would seem to be nearer the mark. This means that in the first half-year the Eisenhower administration will be precariously balanced between a small and intensely unpopular war and the dire threat of a larger conflict.

Born on this day in 1813 in Boiling Springs, Pennsylvania David Spangler Kaufman, who as a Texas lawyer and statesman won fame for his power of oratory. An 1833 graduate of Princeton, at Natchitoches, Louisiana, He moved to Texas in 1837. His elec-tion to the Congress of the Republic in 1839 began his public career; from that time until his death in 1851 he held some office. An ardent supporter of annexation, Kaufman did much to help President Anson Jones in his negotiations toward that end, and was appointed charge d'affaires to the United States in 1845. He was the first Texan to be seated in the House of Representatives of the United States. During his early days in the Texas Congress, Kaufman enjoyed the doubtful distinction of being a participant in the bloodiest brawl ever to take place in the halls of that august body. Attacked by Representative James Mayfield on the floor of the House in the most vituperative language, Kaufman restrained himself until adjournment. Then he went after Mayfield with a stout cane. Mayfield was armed; as Kaufman came very close he drew a gun and shot Kaufman twice, the second shot lodging "on the right side directly under the suspender button." according to an eye-witness report. Of the 18 boys who won varsity football letters for Snyder Hig School the past season, five were seniors, six juniors, four sophomor and three freshmen.

Wharton Junior College, which sends its National JC Championship basketball team here to compete in the first annual HCJC Tournament next month, is located 60 miles south of Houston and boasts an enrollment of about 800 students.

Like HCJC, it is a young school. It was founded as recently as 1946.

And, like HCJC, it was housed in temporary quarters at one time. It was situated in the County Fair buildings, whereas HCJC's home

The school's team is known as the Pioneers. Its head coach is Johnnie Frankie, who received a BS from Rice Institute back in 1936. Del Mar, arch rival of the Whartons, will compete here, too. # HC Hawks Are Only Unbeaten Zone Quintet

Howard County Junior College's Jayhawks, who play the powerful Arlington State College quintet in the opening round of the Ranger Tournament Friday night, are the only unbeaten team among Western Zone clubs.

HCJC has now won seven straight games, a new record. Clarendon won its first two games, then ran afoul of the McMurry B team, los-ing 51-46. McMurry later was beaten by Odessa's Wranglers.

In other recent games involving Zone teams, Frank Phillips of Borger defeated Sayre, Okla., 53-47; and Garden City, Kansas, turn-ed back Amarillo JC, 48-42. All of the teams within the circuit are playing at least .500 ball. Amarillo, with two wins and two losses, has the worst record among the five clubs. In 22 starts. Zone quintets have emerged victorious 17 times. HCJC is the only Zone outfit in the Ranger Meet. The Hawks play Arlington at 7:30 p.m. Other first round pairings pit Navarro against Cisco at 2 p.m., Ranger against Tarleton at 3:30 p.m., and Lon Morris against San Angelo at 9 p.m. The meet ends Saturday night.

If you have, don't be alarmed. It's just Mrs. Charles Tompkins, who is planning an old-fashioned Christmas this Christmas this year complete with relatives from near and far and a dinner of turkey and dressing.

It isn't the first Christmas that the Tompkins have had a family get-together at the Yuleide. But it is the first time that Mrs. Tompkins has had to nurse a sick child, son, Tommy Jon, whose tonsils will be removed Saturday, and prepare for the gathering at the same time.

"My cooking doesn't bother me, though." she grinned. " Iguess Charles would eat sandwiches and nothing else each day, he's so easy to please," she added.

The Tompkinses, married 15 years, met in Big Spring but were married in Sweetwater, her home. Immediately following their mar-riage they moved here. He is a farm implement dealer.

Mrs. Tompkins is very active in the affairs of the Junior Woman's Forum and the Exemplar chapter of Beta Sigma Phi sorority. She attends the Barbara Reagan Sunday School Clas of the First Baptist

Toy cars, space ships, dolls, and brother-in-law, Mr. and packages of chewing gum and Albert Spencer, and Shirlene candy Santas are favorites with clever tree-trimmers.

Bright packages of chewing gum are especially popular with many homemakers because they're neat and inexpensive. And they add a touch of real beauty to any tree with their sparkle and smooth, glistening appearance. Some chewing gum even comes wrapped in traditional red, green and white colors. Just the thing for holiday spirit. Best of all, you needn't wor ry if little Johnny or Jane picks a package of gum off the tree, because the protective wrapping keeps the gum clean and whole-some, and the youngsters can enjoy the contents without spoiling their appetites.
