BIG SPRING FIREMAN TRAIN CRASH VICTIM

Texas And Pacific Threatens Removal Three Trains

Fare Slashing Hearing Opens Protest Filed

Alternative Presented Commission By Frank Jensen

AUSTIN, Oct. 13 (AP)—The alternative of a drastic reduction in passenger fares, or the discontinuance of three trains between Big Spring and Fort Worth were presented today at a hearing on the application of the Texas & Pacific Railroad to slash fares on the trains.

Frank Jensen, general passenger agent, testified that passenger revenues on the division were far below actual operating costs, which did not include cost of maintenance, traffic regulations, etc., and that he presumed that if the effort at reduction in rates failed to bring in more passengers, the railroad would have to ask to discontinue the trains.

The reduction asked was to two cents a mile, as compared with 2.5 cents now charged by railroads and approximately 2.5 cents per mile, the bus charge.

The reduction asked, Jensen said, was an experiment by the railroad to determine whether the much lower rate would impel potential passengers to ride on the trains rather than in private automobiles and buses. He said that most of the reduced revenue was attributed to operation of private automobiles rather than buses, although the per-mile cost of operating cars was greater than the rate charged by railroads.

Suffer Loss
The application would make the rates applicable until December 31, 1930, with an "indefinite continuance" after that date if the experiment increased passenger revenues.

Railroads have suffered a steady decline in passenger traffic for ten years, he said. The Texas and Pacific, he said, hoped to continue running the three trains—all coach day trains in order that express and mail might be delivered along the route, but it might be found expedient to discontinue them.

Jensen's testimony followed a long objection to the reduction filed by Sylvan Lang, Chicago, attorney for the Seull and Greyhound Bus Lines, who declared buses also were operating at a loss.

Lang declared that granting reduction of the rates by the state railroad commission would be in violation of state and federal laws, inasmuch as a discrimination would result between persons, localities and forms of transport.

Compares Rates
He pointed out that a person buying a ticket through from Dallas to Big Spring would pay 2.5 cents per mile, while riding on the same car from Fort Worth to Big Spring other passengers would be paying only two cents per mile; that from Pecos to Big Spring the rate would be 3.5 per mile, thus creating a discrimination between territories, and that other railroads traveling over comparable routes and distances would be paying the higher rate. He also said that the reduction would result in a shorter trip would be more than the cost of a longer trip.

These alleged discriminations as instances in interstate travel, he said, would cause violations of federal laws.

Airmail History To Be Written As First Ship Takes Off For Atlanta

Prominent Figures In Aviation And Airmail Industry To Be On First Ship

(Special To Herald)
DALLAS, Texas, Oct. 13.—Air mail history will be rewritten when the first plane out of Los Angeles takes off October 15 for Atlanta, eastern terminus of new Southern Transcontinental route, and again at Tucson when the sky liner descends for mail. Aboard the tri-motored Fokker piloted by J. W. Martin Jr., will be Earl Ovington, who received the first sack of air mail from former Postmaster General Frank H. Hitchcock, postmaster general during President Taft's administration, when the first airmail flight was authorized. Ovington will act as honorary co-pilot on the run to El Paso.

At Tucson, his home, former Postmaster General Hitchcock will deliver to Ovington and Martin the first sack of mail from that point, and thus, under circumstances vastly different from that of earlier day when delivery of mail by air was more or less an experiment by the post office department and hinted but little of the vast national network it was to become will history be repeated.

Hitchcock will deliver an address commemorating the event, as will Mayor W. A. Julian and Henry Zipp, postmaster.

In addition to Ovington, Lieutenant Colonel Thurman H. Bane, vice-president American Airways, Inc., which will operate the new route through its subsidiary Southern Air Fast Express, Inc., and several newspapermen will be aboard ship.

Postmaster General Walter F. Brown; Clarence D. Young, assistant secretary of the department of commerce in charge of aeronautics, and Second Assistant Postmaster General W. Irving Glover, who will fly with the official party from Atlanta to Fort Worth, will not be able to continue on the second leg of the flight, starting Thursday at Dallas. These officials will return to Washington after a banquet to be given in honor of the party in Fort Worth Wednesday night.

To Washington
Leaving New York in two tri-motored Ford planes at nine a. m. Tuesday, Coburn's party, augmented by an escort plane of Captain Air Transport carrying Captain Thomas B. Doe, president, and other officials, will arrive in Washington at eleven a. m., where government officials will join the group. The ships will be refueled before the party proceeds to Greensboro, N. C., for luncheon at 3 p. m. The next stop will be at

Baptist Minister Jailed Following Forbidden Rites

GARROLLTON, Mo., Oct. 13 (AP)—A Baptist minister was in jail here today as one result of a clash between science and religion.

The prisoner, the Rev. W. W. Woodson, 50, proclaiming the end of the world was at hand, defied medical science in the form of a city-wide infantile paralysis quarantine yesterday in conducting prayer services with a "surrendered band."

He was taken from the pulpit in the county jail building, where Bonnie Jean Schnapp, 8-year-old daughter of Sheriff O. B. Schnapp, died Saturday of infantile paralysis. The services went on in private last night at the church parsonage.

Mr. Woodson's followers, a group of 50 in his congregation of 60 left the church only after Ralph Lozier, representative in congress, presented an appeal on behalf of the children. The same appeal was rejected, however, by the pastor when Representative Lozier, acting as a friend, interviewed him at the jail.

"The world is coming to an end," the prisoner said, "and I must prepare my flock. I cannot cease my meetings until released by the Lord."

Mr. Woodson, said to be a protégé of the Rev. J. Frank Norris, Fort Worth fundamentalist, came to this city three years ago from Temple, Texas.

The "surrendered band," members of the congregation who expressed faith in Mr. Woodson's prophecy, was organized about six months ago. Other members of the church disregarded his warning that the "world was coming to an end."

Engine Leaves Spread Tracks At Eagle Ford

Engine Seriously Hurt In Sunday Accident

While Texas & Pacific Railway officials were seeking to determine the cause of the derailment Sunday of Passenger Train No. 10, eastbound, at Eagle Ford, near Dallas, funeral services were being arranged at Cisco for R. A. Short, 34, Big Spring, fireman, who died in the crash.

Short, a resident of Bauer Addition, was instantly killed when the big 900 engine crushed him.

The train was going 45 miles an hour at the time the engine left the track, and the engine suddenly overturned on the fireman's side. T. B. Getty, 52, Fort Worth, engineer, was seriously injured in the accident.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Crockett of Irving, Dallas county, suffered bruises and slight cuts when their automobile was struck by a portion of the locomotive as it swung sideways from its tracks.

Possible cause was considered that there might have been a slight rail spread, since workmen had been digging at the side of the roadbed and throwing in additional dirt preparatory to laying heavier steel.

Short had been with the T&P for three years. The body was sent from Dallas to Cisco, the home of his wife, where services will be held Tuesday afternoon, in all probability.

He is survived by his widow and a son, nine months old. His father, A. Short, lives at Weatherford. Two brothers, Ben and Wilmer Short, live in California, and a sister, Mrs. M. R. McKenzie resides at Dallas.

West Texas Group Protests "Unfair" School Volumes

AUSTIN, Oct. 13 (AP)—Prepared to resort to mandamus proceedings if other resources fail, a committee from the West Texas Chamber of Commerce was here today to appear before the State Board of Education in protest against "unfair" representation of Texas in public school geographies.

The committee was to go before the board after noon. On the committee were C. E. Coombes, president of the chamber; B. A. Barden, manager, and Max Bentley, director of publicity.

Bentley said the committee was prepared to make revisions which was pointed out last Saturday by S. M. N. Marra, Superintendent of Public Instruction, as the proper approach to obtaining a proper description of the state.

The chamber's protest, it was emphasized, was not especially in behalf of West Texas, but for all Texas, the claim being made that West Texas was not the only sufferer.

The "all state council" of officials of the sectional chambers of commerce was scheduled to meet at the meeting other chambers will be invited to join the West Texas chamber.

Officials here for that meeting, in addition to the West Texas representatives, were Guy Blount, president, and Hubert Harrison, manager of the East Texas chamber, and Ray Leeman, manager of the South Texas chamber. Gray Kinsolving, president of the South Texas chamber, was not present.

A brief had been prepared for presentation to the board, citing statements in three texts used from the seventh grades. The third grade geography was said to be acceptable, but the other two were said to be "not acceptable."

Business Section Suffers As River Overflows Second Time, Plaza Is Threatened

Report From Melvin Says Water Still Rising, Slight Recession Reported At Noon

BRADY, Texas, Oct. 13 (AP)—Flood waters from Brady river, which today overflowed into the business section for the second time in a week, were slowly receding at noon.

However, there was some apprehension over a report from Melvin, 18 miles up the river, that the water was still rising there, being within one foot of last Monday's mark, when a large portion of the Brady business district was inundated, doing estimated damage of $350,000 to mercantile stocks. The water was two or three feet higher then than this time.

HOUSES FLOODED

BRADY, Oct. 13 (AP)—Brady river was out of its banks again today and within one-fourth of a block of the courthouse plaza, 15 business houses had been flooded and the water was rapidly rising after a six-inch rain at Eden, up stream, since 4 a. m.

Many persons who were forced from their homes by flood waters only a week ago again had to seek higher ground and pull out their house-hold goods and personal belongings.

There had not been much rain at Brady and the high water crept up during the night from westward of two forks of the river that has its headwaters in Comcho county, about 30 miles west of here.

Residents up the river telephoned Carl A. Bladg, manager of the chamber of commerce, and a general alarm was given, store keepers aroused and before daylight there was great activity as efforts were made to protect the town from a repetition of last week's flood that wrought $800,000 property damages and made 300 persons homeless.

SLEEPERS ROUTED
BRADY, Tex., Oct. 13 (AP)—For the second time within a week this West Texas city was threatened today by the roaring flood waters of the Brady river which began rising rapidly after torrential rains along its watershed.

Already high after a flood which last week inundated a portion of the business section and inflicted thousands of dollars damage, the river began rising rapidly early today and at 5 a. m. was virtually bank full. Beginning at 3 a. m. it rose at the rate of 18 inches every half hour.

On reception of reports that the river was about to leave its banks and flood the town, a portion of the way from two upper forks, the whole town was alarmed and began preparations to protect lives and property. The municipal fire whistle was sounded, and telephone operators notified all available people that a flood was coming.

Within a short time, in early morning hours, the business section was thronged with frightened men, women and children, all fearful that a repetition of the previous near disaster was at hand. Merchants hastily opened their stores, began removing merchandise from first floors to upper ones and barricading against the anticipated water.

Waco Hotel Lobby Scene of Shooting, Dallas Man is Held

WACO, Texas, Oct. 13 (AP)—Jack Pruitt of Dallas was shot four times and wounded probably fatally as he stood paying his bill at the counter of a hotel here today. A man whose gave his name as H. S. Cunningham of Dallas surrendered to police.

A woman was standing near Pruitt while he paid his bill, according to witnesses. The hotel attaches said Pruitt registered there with "Mrs. Pruitt" yesterday.

Witnesses said Cunningham came into the hotel accompanied by a 10-year-old girl, believed to be his daughter, and started shooting at Pruitt with a small pistol. The little girl made an effort to prevent the shooting and the woman fell across Pruitt's body after he had fallen to the floor as if to protect it, witnesses told police.

Pruitt was in a serious condition at a hospital, where doctors found two bullets in his shirt where they lodged after passing through his body.

Short Wave Radio Ready To Replace Trainman's Signal

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13 (AP)—Red flags and swinging lanterns as long as needed be relied upon to keep the engineer and conductor of a freight train in communication. Short wave radio is ready to take over the job.

Today the American Railway association announced that several years of experimental work have yielded suitable apparatus for maintaining practical, constant communication between engine and locomotive.

The association's experts have found it practical also to use radio in the big switchyard where cars are made up into trains. They are going further afield now, studying the possibilities of using short wave sets in New York harbor between shore stations and tug boats and other craft used in railway service.

Up to now the crews at either end of the often mile-long freights have had difficulties in exchanging important information and signals, especially in bad weather or on curves. The radio sets are expected not only to increase safety but to eliminate delays.

She said she did not believe the eighteenth amendment would ever be repealed.

RAINGER VICTORY OVER BUCKAROS

The Steers have met two of the Big Four and will take on the third of the huge quartet Friday night. They pack up what equipment they have left after someone, or maybe it was plural, cracked open the lockers, and went south with the booty, and go to Cisco. Friday night they clash with the Lobos of Big Dam fame. The game was originally set for this city, but due to financial strains and other matters, the tilt was shifted down the T. & P. in the hopes of staging a coup for a recuperation. Cisco wanted to play the game under the lights. Big Spring needed the money. So the game will be played under the lights beginning about 8 o'clock.

It is rumored—but has not been verified—that the Angelo scribbles has resigned as special secretary and has joined the publicity staff of the Chamber of Commerce.

Ranger won't beat Big Spring as easily as Ranger beat San Angelo. Of course they have the advantage of having the game on their local soil. If the Ranger-Big Spring affair was to be staged here, there wouldn't be more than 14 points difference. If that much, as matters stand it is probable there will be little more than that. A few of those that glean their knowledge from the printed word, ranked San Angelo up with the big ones when this 1936 race was in its infancy. Just why they did so is not known. If the Bobcats don't display a greater and more dependable brand of football than they did the past week-end, the Steers will slash them all over the "cemetery" gridiron. Bill Flowers and Captain Rogers will jack-knife their way over them until they will think maybe another Dangerous Dan McCarty has dropped suddenly in their midst. As we see matters now, after the showing made by the herd the past week-end over the Breckenridge Buckaros, the Steers should find little trouble with any of the rest of their opponents except Ranger and Cisco. The Bobcats may prove a bit troublesome, but if they pull the same thing they did at Ranger the Steers will wham them all over the sheep country and kick them against the laxy Concho.

The laughable outcome of the Ranger-San Angelo game, merely points out the danger of too much publicity for a football team. The Bulldogs have plugged along so far this season, not getting overly much of the limelight, not being told at every turn of the corner that they were going places to do things. Ranger knew her strength, but the others of the district didn't, exactly. San Angelo started off the season with a rush. Great swarms of publicity jumped into view. The Bobcats, the great paper machine of Bill Bissett, were headed for a district championship in a breeze, a canter, a sweet zephyr. Ranger won the ball game, San Angelo got the publicity. The Bobcats suffered for the great amount of hokum spread before they took on a little opposition.

As matters now stand, the district championship rests between Cisco and Ranger. Either of the teams can smother the Breckenridge Buckaros. Get Magness and you've got the whole Breckenridge machine. The Steers proved conclusively to the rest of the district, that Magness is the only direct threat to the Steers. Stapp is fairly good, but with Magness out of there he would be just another football player. The Breck power is wrapped around that passing, punting, shifting player—one of the greatest in Texas, for that matter. The Steers forced Magness to boot the hide upon numerous occasions. The Steers are not rated very high either by the rest of the district. Cisco and Ranger should find little trouble with the Showed aggression. Abilene and Breckenridge should stage a good battle, with the Mayhem men having the edge.

We're glad, in a way, the Steers go to Cisco and Ranger. It will give the dopsters of those two hamlets an opportunity to look over the work of Bill Flowers, Brownie Hanshaw, and Pardue. Flowers should cop an all-district berth in a canter. His work against Abilene was the only bright spot in that slaughter, and the way he flashed against Eastland merely aided him along the path. The assisted 82 yard country run he made for a touch-down against the 1924 40-champs probably cinched the matter of an all-district assignment. Hanshaw was the outstanding lineman in the last fray, although he didn't start the game. Pardue played his usual consistent game, dealing Griffin lots of misery.

Place Captain Delbert Rogers, Elwell, Neal and Flowers as the four jackrabbits; Phillips and Coats, on ends; Hanshaw and Eddie Maxwell at tackles; Glover and Elberson at guards and Pardue at center—place this team in good condition on the field, and none of the teams—Big Four or Little Five are going to exactly crash them without knowing it. Eastland, Mineral Wells and Breck found it out. Abilene, unfortunately for the Steers, didn't.

District One's thrill came over the week-end. Pampa, after staging a great upset by defeating Lubbock, found herself on the little end of a 2-0 score after they met Blair Cherry's Golden Sandstorm of Amarillo. Cherry used to be Ranger's mentor, and in 1926 took the Bulldogs to the semifinals.

Lobos, Herd To Clash Friday

Steer Strength In Breck Fray Attracts Much Attention

Out of the week-end moles in District Two of this great organization known as the Interscholastic League, there emerged two certain and concrete facts.

One of these facts is Ranger. The other is Breckenridge.

One indicates the strength, while the other points to weakness. That is the difference between the two revelations that Saturday brought forth.

Ranger's decisive defeat of Bill Bissett's San Angelo Bobcats was the feature of the week-end, with the wonderful showing made against the Breckenridge Buckaros by the Steers a close second.

The victory of the Abilene Eagles over El Paso's pride was nothing to be astounding. They trounced the westerners 28 to 0, in a game that counted for nothing but a nice long trip, and a hurried trek across the international bridge by the fans. It is an old Abilene custom to defeat El Paso. Other games over the district were just some more games.

Mineral Wells jumped into the win column by proving that every team beats Brownwood. The Red Sox ran up a 21 to 0 score over the Lions, to practically cinch the dollar laurels for the city of crooked streets.

Cisco, in one of her nocturnal affairs, and a wet and muddy one at that, clipped merrily along to beat Spur 20 to 0. The game was played Saturday night. Spur threatened to tally three or four times, but couldn't get the mail through the slot, so to speak.

Results: Ranger 32, San Angelo 6; Breckenridge 19, Big Spring 6; Mineral Wells 31, Brownwood 8; Eastland 6, Sweetwater 6; Cisco 26, Spur 0; Abilene 28, El Paso 0; Conference games.

The Game: Eastland and Sweetwater just couldn't make a go of it, fighting to a scoreless draw at Eastland. This week sees nothing of such vital interest on the calendar. Probably the most interesting affair of the week-end is the Cisco-Big Spring game at Cisco.

Big Spring game at Cisco. The Steers have played just good enough football to stay up with the Big Boys of the district when it comes to threats.

No one, at least few, expected the Steers to do the things they have. No one expected them to defeat Eastland and Mineral Wells, and few had hopes they would hold down the Breck tally. They did all three of them, and Friday night will invade the Eastland county stronghold with the fans of that end of the belt wondering if they can gain share in the honors by holding the high powered black and gold combination that Coaches Chapman and Hill have collected.

Schedule: Hill, who scheduled the Steer-Buckaroo game for the Lobos, remarked the Steers had the best material of any squad in the district, taken collectively. That is the only battle set for Friday. The rest are nullus, with the winners standing out like a freckle on a deb's nose.

Abilene goes to Brownwood; Ranger to Sweetwater; Eastland to Breckenridge; and Mineral Wells to San Angelo.

STORM DAMAGE: GREENSBORO, France, Oct. 13 (AP)—Damage of many millions of francs was inflicted yesterday and last night by a wind of tornado force which swept through the rich walnut growing district between Vinay and Tullins in the Rive Isere district. Wild Rioting As Reichstag Opening Held BERLIN, Oct. 13 (AP)—Wild rioting in the famous Tiergarten today accompanied the opening of the new reichstag. Mobs of thousands of persons clashed with heavy police guards.

Hundreds of police had been marshaled around the reichstag building as a precaution against disorders. These officers were keeping the crowds back to a respectful distance, but when a portion of the throng was forced rearward to the edge of the wooded Tiergarten, rioting suddenly broke loose and the police were engulfed in masses of struggling humanity.

The rioting occurred within a stone's throw of the parliament building, at the edge of the largest and most frequented park in Berlin, an expanse beautifully wooded and landscaped, of about 600 acres extending westward from the Reichstag. Its walks are among the most favored promenades of the German people. It lies adjacent to the famous Brandenburger gate.

Mounted police galloped among the trees, swinging their clubs and driving back the crowds again and again.

While this was going on communists formed a demonstration at another point among the shrubbery but contented themselves with the singing of revolutionary songs.

The police did not use firearms, confining their activities to the vigorous use of their batons. At ten minutes to three o'clock bells started ringing and the reichstag members began filing into the chamber. The diplomatic and other galleries were crowded as never before in the history of the republican parliament.

All went direct to their seats excepting the fascists, who remained in the corridor until 3 o'clock when they formed in a body and marched through the door. Occupying the entire extreme right of the house, heretofore reserved to the nationalists.

Baylor Bruins Battle Pony Eleven In Feature Conflict, Christians To Meet Aggies

Rice Owls Have Arkansas On Schedule; S. M. U. Baylor Game Holds Week-End Spotlight

By GAYLE TALBOT, JR. Associated Press Sports Writer DALLAS, Oct. 13 (AP)—Two veteran eleven, Baylor University and Southern Methodist, ranking contenders for the Southwest Conference football flag, will clash Saturday at Waco in a bout that not only headlines the week's second program but possibly will go a long way toward fortifying the outcome of the 1935 schlembe.

Two other conference tilts are scheduled, but neither assumes the importance of the conflict at Carroll field, Texas Christian, as a result of its crushing 40 to 0 win over Arkansas, may be expected to subdue the Aggies at College Station, while the Rice Owls will be favored their first conference victory in some two years at the expense of Arkansas.

The Mustangs and Bears will occupy the spotlight, with the Methodists perhaps a slight favorite to win. It will be the first championship test for both after compiling brilliant preliminary records. The loser will be all but eliminated from the race before it is well under way; the winner automatically will establish itself a prime contender for the title now held by the Frogs.

Regarded rather lightly up to a fortnight ago, Baylor suggested it might have been overlooked when it held the powerful Purdue eleven to a 20 to 7 score and then provided its point by overwhelming Trinity University, 34 to 6, Saturday. There has never been any doubt of Southern Methodist's punch, even before its sensational performance against Notre Dame.

Rivaling the tilt at Waco as a spectacle, but with no bearing on the championship, is the twenty-fifth meeting between the Universities of Texas and Oklahoma carded at the new state fair bowl at Dallas Saturday. The Longhorns will be seeking their sixteenth victory of the long rivalry, the Sooners their eighth.

Texas' crushing victory over Oklahoma last year is not likely to be repeated. Coach Littlefield's machine is not the powerful one it was this time a year ago, while the Sooners' 20 to 7 triumph over Nebraska in their last appearance was impressive. The Longhorns displayed improvement in humbling Howard Payne college, 26 to 0, Saturday, after being held for a half.

Frogs Strong: The outstanding feature of the last week's warfare was the explosive running attack unveiled by the champion T.C.U. Frogs in their conference opener with Arkansas. If the Christians miss the superb generalship of Howard Grubbs, last year's quarterback, it was not apparent as they moved down the field with Hinton, Leland, Griffith, Dennis, Oliver and Spearman all carrying the ball brilliantly and the Frog forwards functioning almost perfectly, the champs appeared very bit as dangerous as in mid-October last year.

Southern Methodist, incidentally demonstrated a similar plenteous reserve power in crushing Austin College, 34 to 0, on Friday.

The Rice Owls continued to encourage their followers by the business like manner in which they polished off the University of Arizona, 21 to 0.

Unless they take a decided brace, the Aggies will have little hope of stopping the Frogs Saturday, even if they do play at Kyle field, Tulane, with a strong running attack, beat the Farmer line down to a whispier in winning their engagement here, 19 to 9, and it is doubtful the Green Wave can muster a greater set of gallopers or better blockers than Texas Christian displayed against Arkansas.

Suspected Slayer of Wife Takes Own Life

CLEVELAND, Oct. 13 (AP)—Tony Colletto, 21, chose death today to escape the state's threat of punishment for the murder of his 18-year-old wife, Christina. He hanged himself by his belt to the bars of his cell in the county jail. Tomorrow he would have gone to trial charged with first degree murder.

Last August 2 Colletto took his girl-rival, who had returned to her relatives, for an automobile ride and accused her of unfaithfulness. When she admitted she had been in the company of other men he fired five shots and left her body by the roadside, he confessed.

CAPONE AGAIN MISSES SNARE OF POLICEMAN

CHICAGO, Oct. 13 (AP)—The "No. 1 Public Enemy," Alphonse (Scarface) Capone continues, despite the snarers set for him, to elude the law.

A surprise raid on Cicero, the suburb that acquired an unsavory name as the haunt of the Capone "mob," failed to flush the gang leader yesterday, but it was not entirely a lost effort. Twenty-nine men and a woman were arrested, and among them were three somebodies of the gang business—William (Three-Fingered Jack) White, George (Red) Barker, and Claude Maddox. White and Barker are "public enemies." Maddox has been hunted for many weeks for questioning in connection with the murder of Alfred (Doc) Lingle, Tribune reporter.

Pat Roche, special investigator for the state's attorney, led the raid, which was directed against the Western Hotel which was presumed to be the hideout of Capone. He is hunted on a vagrancy warrant, the same as were sworn out for all 28 of the men listed by the Chicago crime commission as "public enemies."

The woman and 28 men arrested at the hotel faced arraignment today on disorderly conduct charges. They also were to be questioned in the hope they might have some word to offer that will aid in the continuing hunt for Capone.

White, Barker and Maddox were charged with carrying concealed weapons. When policemen approached the automobile in which they were seated, White poked a pistol in their faces, dropping the weapon only when he realized he was being approached by "law."

Sergeant Louis Caparull recovered the weapon and stuck it in his pocket, not realizing it was loaded. The weapon was discharged in his pocket, but the bullet struck no one.

Another pistol was found on the seat of the automobile, which was parked near the Western Hotel.

Barker and White were at liberty on bonds following their arrest on the vagrancy warrants. Maddox was described by police as the former operator of a gang hangout known as "the circus," in which the plot for the gang massacre of Valentine's Day, 1929, was hatched.

Buying Blindly

LIKE a man blindfolded is the person who makes a purchase without the knowledge that comes from reading advertisements. Perhaps he will be lucky and stumble upon the best value for his money, but the chances are against him. Advertising is the guiding star to sane and economical buying. Whoever shuts his eyes to its light is contriving to his own misfortune.

The merchant who advertises is dominated by a desire to let people know what they may expect in his shop and from his merchandise. Publicity is his god. The more the public knows about his store the better he is satisfied. He believes in his wares, brings them out into the light of day and backs them with his name and reputation. He is proud of his store and his goods and his salespeople, and he can't help proclaiming it to the world.

Success in merchandising is not an accident. Prosperous businesses don't just happen, Topsy-like. They are the result of serious, untiring application and a sincere ambition to give the public the best the market will supply at the lowest price consistent with quality.

Read the advertisements!

When a merchant advertises in The Herald he has openly declared himself to the buying public, he has gone on record and he knows full well that 15,000 people stand witness, to the manner that his claims are fulfilled.

There is something open and above board about advertising, a straightforwardness that begets confidence. Advertising is like sunlight. It is health to all that is good and an agency of destruction to all that is unsound and unworthy. It is used with enthusiasm by those who have nothing to conceal; it is shunned by those who have something to hide.

The Game of Law

TOO many minds in this country the law is a sort of game, in which the smartest player always wins without regard to the ends of justice.

The only place in our modern jurisprudence where expediency is permitted a place in the coming and going of criminals and their accomplices, the lawyers.

This fact has just been brought to mind by the latest outburst of Clarence Darrow, who seems to be destined to hit the front pages every so often.

Mr. Darrow rushed to the defense of the accused men. He said it was an "outrage" that the law should arrest these men without going through the usual red tape processes.

One wonders just what the effect would be if distinguished lawyers like Mr. Darrow would cease thinking from the criminal's standpoint for awhile and think instead from the standpoint of the triumph of law and order.

If we could just get the brilliant legal minds of the country over on the public's side of the case, we might not have such a tough time getting rid of criminals, individual and gang.

No special blame attaches to the criminal lawyers, of course. Every accused criminal is entitled to his day in court, and he is smart enough to hire the best brains to defend him.

Usually the prosecutor must fight alone, against a battery of high-priced lawyers hired by the defense. It is not surprising that the figure of justice sometimes emerges from such unequal combats a little the worse for wear.

OPINIONS OF OTHERS

No Way to Predict Winter

St. Louis Globe-Democrat: BELIEF of many "old-timers" who predict we will experience a hard, cold winter because we have had a hot, uncomfortable summer finds no comfort or support in official meteorological circles.

"We are now in a period of several years, during which the averages have run ahead in temperature and have run behind in precipitation," Director Marvin is quoted as saying.

There was some belief that a cold winter will follow a hot summer, but this was not confirmed.

RETIRED PLAINVIEW BUSINESSMAN TAKES ORGATONE AND HIS TROUBLES DISAPPEAR

C. S. Davis, a wealthy retired business man, residing on 1605 Seventh St., Plainview, Texas, is still another prominent citizen of the community who comes forward with his endorsement of Orgatone.

"No one seemed to know what my trouble was, but I haven't been a well man in 20 years. I suffered from a very bad case of stomach disorders, and got to where I didn't have any appetite and what I did eat would disagree with me, and my food would lie in my stomach sour and undigested, which caused me to form and bloating spells. I was so nervous and upset I could hardly get any restful sleep at all and simply felt badly all the time, and suffered from severe, intense headaches and had a bad case of constipation.

"My mother had taken Orgatone and received good results and insisted that I try it. I have just taken two bottles and honestly feel better in every way than I have in the past 20 years. I am completely relieved of all my troubles and simply eat like I did when I was a boy. What I eat, seems to give me nourishment and strength and doesn't bother me at all. I rest fine every night and wake up in the morning feeling as if I had a new lease on life. I now recommend Orgatone because it has brought back my health after everything else had failed. I want to recommend Orgatone to my friends.

How Is Your HEALTH?

Edited by Dr. Ingo Goldson for the New York Academy of Medicine

NASAL CATARRH The term catarrh means a free discharge, and when applied to the nose usually is employed to indicate a free flow of mucus.

The nose, as well as the entire respiratory tract, is lined with a mucous membrane—a thin layer of tissue which normally secretes a clear, watery substance known as mucus.

In health, the secretions are not excessive, and we are not conscious of them. When a portion of the respiratory tract becomes inflamed, the inflammation usually is accompanied by an increase in the amount of mucus secreted.

Catarrhal conditions may be acute or chronic. The chronic ones as the term implies, are of long duration.

In nasal catarrh, particularly of the chronic type, the normal functions of the nose are interfered with. The nasal passages may become blocked with mucus and the condition may extend so as to involve the throat and the air spaces (sinuses) of the head.

Breathing is made difficult. The voice may become hoarse, and pain may develop over the eyes and over the cheek bones. Chronic catarrh may give rise to an offensive breath.

There usually is associated both as cause and as consequence of chronic catarrh, a tendency to frequent colds.

Husband Sought For Detroit Shooting

DETROIT, Oct. 13 (AP)—Louis Salvio, who was with Henry Tuppancy when the latter was slain by gunmen July 14, was shot and killed and Mrs. Grace Triano was seriously wounded at the Triano home at 5 a. m. today. Police are searching for Mrs. Triano's husband Felix, who was accused of the shooting by his wife.

Mrs. Triano told police that Triano left the house last night after a quarrel but returned at 5 a. m. and shot first Salvio and then her.

Salvio was identified as the man who was in Henry Tuppancy's automobile when the latter was slain in the outbreak of gang slayings which culminated in the killing of Radio Announcer Jerry Buckley last summer. Salvio was wounded.

Hollywood Sights

THE Dancing Silhouette

By ROBBIN COONS HOLLYWOOD—The industry has a central casting agency to register those ambitious to work their way into the movies, but each year brings a new crop of aspirants too impatient to survive the usually long wait for a call.

They ignore this machinery of selection and go "on their own" to crash the gates sensationally.

Recently a young man paraded outside the lots on a bicycle, clad grotesquely in woman's dress, comically rouged, and shouting would-be smart cracks.

Arrested, he explained he thought he could "get in the movies."

Chapter 31 THE CHASE GROWS HOT "Aunt Mary, where be ye?" The mail came in a woman's shrill tones from the direction of the after deck, and Mrs. Smith's answer rang out loudly: "Here I be."

A moment later an angular female, with coat buttoned to her throat and hat tipped at a rakish angle, appeared in the door of the kitchen, an anxious look on her face; it cleared at the sight of Mrs. Smith.

"I was affared something was the matter," she said, looking with curiosity toward Thorne. "You didn't come to dinner as you promised, an' that there young man said as how you wasn't well."

Thorne broke into the conversation, drowning Mrs. Smith's startled ejaculation.

"Where is he now?" "Most to Washington by this time, I reckon," responded the newcomer. "He was ridin' a motor cycle. He weren't no one I ever seed before."

As the older woman commenced a valuable explanation of recent events, Thorne slipped away unnoticed and sought the stateroom he judged young Jack Winslow had occupied.

Did his hasty exit account for the appearance of his stateroom? Or was it the stranger, who, first knocking Mrs. Smith unconscious and tying her up on her berth, had gone through Jack's belongings? And if so, for what had he been looking? And had his search proven successful?

A cupboard yielded the most interesting objects from Thorne's standpoint, for there had been placed the laboratory articles, which, according to Lambert, Jack had removed from his workshop in the attic at Oklaids.

A Stirring Romance by a Noted Author

The Rose in the Dark

LAWRENCE, MRS. BEN—Suddenly, at her late residence in 35th St., N. W., Washington, last night. Notice of funeral later. "Body at city morgue."

"No," admitted Winslow, frankly mystified by the inspector's impressive manner. "I don't recall any Mrs. Lawrence."

"Well," Mitchell paused for effect; he was enjoying himself. "She was the divorced wife of Dr. Joseph Kane."

"Good Lord!" The exclamation was echoed by his wife as she came into the den. "Singular she and Kane should have died within a few days of each other and both here!"

"No heart trouble the autopsy showed, although dope might have been a contributory cause."

"A merciful death," commented Mrs. Winslow softly. "Poor Sara; her married life was brief and most unhappy. She was at fault, raising grave eyes to the inspector."

He nodded. "I imagine so from what I've learned. You know her career in Boston, Mr. Winslow?"

"I have heard of her, but we never met," responded the latter. "Kane divorced her shortly before I became acquainted with him."

"Ah, then this photograph wouldn't interest you." Mitchell picked it up from the desk as he spoke and turned it about. "It was taken after death at the morgue."

Catching a glimpse of Winslow's agitated countenance, he added hastily: "It's rather a ghastly picture; perhaps I shouldn't have shown it to you and your wife. I'm sorry."

Winslow brushed his apology aside with a wave of his hand. "Let me have the picture." Peering at it intently for a second in silence, he laid it face up on the desk, his excitement rising. "When I said just now I didn't know Sara Kane

Afghan Girls Toss Away Lip Sticks; Resume Old Ways

PESHAWAR, India, Oct. 12.—Remnants of Amanullah's attempt to modernize Afghanistan, 15 unveiled Afghan girls traded their smart European frocks for native costumes here.

They had been sent to Turkey late in 1923 by Amanullah for training as physicians, nurses and chemists and passed through here on their way back to Kabul, the Afghan capital, to take up life as it was in the day before Amanullah's first trip to Europe.

It is understood that the young women were recalled by King Nadir Shah through pressure put on the government by the orthodox who are against the Europeanization of girls' education.

At the frontier the girls who had been wearing European clothing nearly two years, were met by relatives who had brought with them bundles of native costumes.

Without a murmur the travelers cast aside their modern skirts and high-heeled shoes and slipped again into the Afghan attire they had known from childhood.

And at the border line the girls threw away their lip sticks and powder puffs and agreed that the old garments were quite comfortable, after all.

Jr. High P.T.A. Needs Members

Call Issued To All Mothers Of Fourth, Fifth, Sixth and Seventh Grade Children

The Junior High school Parent-Teachers' Association Membership Drive begins today.

This organization will be made up of mothers of fourth, fifth, sixth and seventh grade children. All mothers are urged to join through their children. That is, they should send the seventy-five cents as dues by their child to his teacher.

The room with the largest percentage of "paid up" mothers by the end of next week will win a half holiday.

Mothers who were members last year are not members this year unless they have paid their seventy-five cents.

If, however, any mother is a member of any other P.T.A. in the city and has paid her dues to that organization, her second membership will cost only fifty cents.

Mrs. Shine Phillips, president of the Junior High P.T.A., wishes to make it especially plain that mothers of seventh grade children should be members of this group. Last year they were not, but the ruling has now been changed.

The next meeting of the P.T.A. will be on Tuesday, October 21, the third Tuesday in the month. The program will be as follows:

Hat-hunters In Paris Stalk Baby Bicornes, Evening Berets

By DIANA MERWIN (Associated Press Fashion Editor)

PARIS, Oct. 13.—Hat shopping in Paris evolves into a sort of chant with a theme of "tricornes, bicornes, bonnet or beret."

All are important forms of autumn millinery of the brimless variety.

Tricornes and bicornes fit right into the picture with the modified coquillon coats, double breasted with wide lapels, which will undoubtedly have a big following among the young and slender.

Such coats and a league bodice suits or dresses require small saucy hats turned up off the face.

There is more than a smack of 1830 quaintness in many autumn costumes. The bonnets and baby bicornes and tricornes emphasize it and bring it up to date at the same time.

Berets of many types and materials, permeate the whole range of smartness, sport, tailored, afternoon and even evening.

The smartest tricornes are the shallowest and their upturned brims are a scant three inches deep, folded back closely against the head. Tricornes are worn at a jaunty angle.

Bicornes, or two cornered hats, are less military and fall readily into draped velvet forms. There are many shirred velvet bonnets in the smartest millinery collections.

They may be made of the fabric of the wrap, of silk velvet or scintillant paillettes.

EVERYDAY QUESTIONS

Answered By
Dr. S. Parkes Cadman

Questions from readers are answered by the Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, D.D., Minister of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America. Dr. Cadman speaks to answer inquiries that appear to be representative of the trends of thought in the many letters which he receives.

Indianapolis, Ind.
I have a daughter who is weak mentally. She cannot do her work in school and does not have any companions of her own age. My friends and relatives say that I should put her in a State Home, where she will have such companions and be happy, but I am afraid they would not be good to her. Her father does not want her to remain at home, saying that it is not right to deprive her of companions of her own kind.
What do you think is my duty as a mother under these circumstances?

There is a prejudice against such institutions, whether provided by the state or by private practitioners, because their treatment of patients is supposed to be harsh and unsympathetic. I am of the belief that some unskilled institution for that purpose. In addition, I realize, of course, how you must suffer the pangs of separation from a child whose affection has the more endeared her to your heart.
But physical health and a tolerable amount of happiness are now provided for in the institutions you dislike. Moreover, the public insists on kind and gracious measures for the inmates. Since your daughter can't find any companionship in her present circle, why not sacrifice your feelings for what may prove advantageous to her? I say this with keen sympathy for all concerned and for yourself in particular.
I therefore suggest that you place your daughter in such a home for a brief period and see how she reacts to her new surroundings. If you find she is not happy there you can take her home.

Charleston, W. Va.
What is the philosophical definition of truth?
The term has several definitions. It has an etymological definition: a thing is known as what it is, and not merely the appearance, but the reality of being.
It is something defined as the truth of knowledge, which implies the consistency of what is known with the reality thus apprehended.
A third definition is the correspondence of speech to that which it describes. There is the definition of science, morals and logic as to what is truth.
Life is so departmentalized by the expansion of knowledge that definitions of truth are necessarily segmental, and therefore a given degree descriptive rather than definitive. No single one covers the whole realm of human experience. The purely philosophical definition is the most inclusive. The real base their respective spheres, and their inability to rightly differentiate these spheres is a frequent cause of misunderstanding and controversy.
For the individual truth consists of that reality which he has repeatedly verified in his own life. It may be fragmentary, imperfect and mixed with error or marred by ignorance. Nevertheless, if it enables him to exist more freely and nobly he is obligated to maintain it.

I was born out of wedlock and am often despondent over the social ostracism which that fact frequently entails. I live with my mother. What can a man offer to a good woman in marriage when the bar sinister marks his birth?
Kindly omit address.

You can offer her the devotion of a true lover and the husbandly protection of a manly man. Add to these a good character, self-wrought integrity and independence, and what reasonable woman could require more?
Life's possibilities are as accessible to you as they are to the bluest blood in the land. Accidents of birth do not constrain you from doing justly, loving mercy and walking humbly with God. Indeed the fact that others may reflect on you because of your parents' behavior should stimulate you to give these critics the lie by your manner of life.

What a man is and does are the determinants of his standing in this free nation. Nor has the United States any monopoly of such righteous estimates. Perhaps you are aware that the famous artist Leonardo da Vinci, and Erasmus, the world renowned Humanist, were born out of wedlock. Today we rejoice that they were born at all, for they have enriched civilization with their illustrious gifts. Dr. Alexander Whyte, of Edinburgh, Scotland, and in his day that country's best known preacher, also bore your burden, if it is a burden. I do not suggest you can rise to their eminence. But I insist that you can be what God intends you to be, namely His faithful servant, and the true friend of your fellow men. He gave you your being for that purpose. So keep your record clean, and when you find the woman of your heart she will be only too glad, if she is worthy of you, to improve in you those qualities which shall make you respected and beloved by all who know you.
