PROSPECTS LOOKING BETTER

In Iatan-Westbrook Field Will Show Productive Oil Sands

The Iatan-Westbrook section of the Maxwell well No. 1 of the Maxwell Company seems to have caused excitement last Friday when it started shooting rock, etc., from a depth of 600 feet. As this well was in the red beds the oil fraternity does not expect anything from this gas well on T. & P. No. 2 of the Underhill Oil and Refining Co. has been drilled this week while repairs on the other were underway. The boiler blew about 11 o'clock last Friday morning, fortunately no one was injured and machinery was not seriously damaged. T. & P. well No. 2 is to be given an effort to bring it in a proper, equal or better than Morrison No. 2, located just a short distance to the north. A Knight well No. 1, in the northern part of the Ed Dupree lease, in block 29, T. & P. survey, is to be started Sept. 2nd.

The Petroleum Operators Association well No. 2, in the southwest corner of the southeast quarter of section 20, T. & P. survey, is to be started in about September first.

Drilling of Eta Brennan was resumed this week. This well is down 200 feet and will be drilled to a depth of 300 feet or more.

The Stewart No. 1 of the Maxwell Company, located one mile north of Iatan, is down to a depth of 200 feet. They expect to encounter the gas sand within the next one hundred feet. The Capps-Lucas No. 1 of Maxwell Johnson Co., is down to a depth of 275 feet. Drilling had to be suspended temporarily on account of a shortage of water.

The Fenland Oil Co.'s Read No. 1, located at Coahoma, is getting 8-inch show at 2215, having drilled 27 feet in a hard lime. Much is expected of this well as geologists claim it is located in sand settings.

The Murphy well is being plugged and will be given a shot between the 2700 and 2740 foot marks.

The Magnolia Oil Co.'s Foster No. 1, in the Iatan section, is setting 2 1/2 inch casing at 500 feet.

The Rio Grande Refining Co.'s Lucas No. 1 is drilling below 2745 feet. The oil sand has been encountered, but has not penetrated to a depth of 20 feet and it is believed a good well will be developed.

The walking beam at the Mitchell well broke causing a delay in this well. Their well is 400 feet deep.

Drilling jobs are now reported at the Stewart No. 2 of the Colorado-Texas Co., 2000 feet deep, and at the Colorado No. 1 of the Underhill Co.

The California Company have a rig in the Richardson tract, five miles north of Iatan and expect to spud in within a short time.

Drilling Near Odessa

Drilling of hard sandstone was encountered in the well being drilled by the Farmers Oil Co., Odessa, last week and the officials are of opinion that the salt beds will be encountered soon and at a much greater depth than was expected.

The 2 1/2 inch drill is being used and samples of the formations encountered are being kept. This will be in charge to ascertain the possibilities of that section as well as all the possibilities. This test has run more than 600 feet deep.

Officials predict that the first potash will be probably not more than 1000 feet in thickness, but the potash strata will be found between 1000 and 1200 feet. There is also a possibility that the drill will encounter red beds in varying thickness between 1000 to 1200 feet.

Greater precautions than are employed will be observed in the drill that encounters salt in the next fifty feet.

Dr. Dougherty as soon as salt is encountered no cores will be taken to the surface except in the case of the driller and the chemist employed by the Farmers Oil Company.

The hole, all helpers about the well, all operators asked to step out of the hole. The driller and the chemist will handle the core until the hole is covered.

The procedure serves to emphasize the importance which the Farmers Oil Company officials place in their operations. It is well known that there is a great deal of unleased acreage in the area, which in spite of the vast amount of the Pennsylvania company, might easily form the basis for the strongest kind of competition. — Odessa Times.

Independent Oil Operators Here

M. A. Maxwell and Roy Johnson of the firm of Maxwell and Johnson, independent oil operators, who are making three deep tests north and northwest of Iatan and W. M. Maxwell of Fort Worth, spent Wednesday in Big Spring. While the drop in the price of crude has put a damper on the oil game in every field in the United States and has been a blow at every independent operator these men continue optimistic and expect to reap a big reward from their operations in the Iatan section. Two of their wells, the Stewart No. 1 and Capps-Lucas No. 1, are nearing the depth where a good oil sand may be encountered.

Humble Oil Co. Men Here

T. H. Farris, a special representative of the Humble Oil Company, with headquarters in Houston, spent two days in the Big Spring oil field recently. Mr. Farris was accompanied by C. A. Calvert, a geologist of national repute.

Mr. Farris made no comment as to what his company plans to do, but he expressed himself as well pleased with the outlook for this field.

Work Resumed on Lamesa Well

Operations have been renewed on the test well in Dawson County, about 16 miles southeast of Lamesa and prospects are that the well will be pushed to completion.

A forfeit of several thousand dollars has been placed in a Lamesa bank to drill 4000 feet if necessary.

Union Get-together Meeting

The Union men's get-together meeting at W. O. W. hall Wednesday night was well attended and full of "pep" and interest. More than one hundred men and women took part in the evening's program.

J. W. Bonner presided and kept the business of the meeting moving along smoothly.

Some fine talks were made by the ladies as well as the men and these were thoroughly enjoyed. The talk of J. A. Kinard, national organizer of the Farm Labor Union, was especially appreciated.

It was decided that hereafter the get-together meetings will be held the second and fourth Wednesday nights of each month in the W. O. W. Hall and the union men and women of the county are cordially invited and urged to attend these meetings.

Remember the next meeting will be the second Wednesday in September.

Smith-Smith

Thad Smith of Big Spring and Miss Daisy Smith of Sterling City stole a march of their friends when they eloped last Saturday and were married at Sterling City by Rev. Malcolm Black.

Immediately after the ceremony they returned to Big Spring and will make their home in this county.

The bride is one of Sterling City's popular young ladies respected and beloved by old and young. The groom is one of our popular young farmers of the Moore community. We join many friends in extending to this worthy couple best wishes for much happiness.

Cotton Going Up

There was a sharp advance in the cotton market Monday morning owing to continued reports of poor crop prospects and an improving demand for cotton goods.

December contracts which had reacted from 22.234 to 21.614 yesterday afternoon advanced to 22.45 or more than $4 per bale.

Thomas-Parrish

On Sunday August 20th J. A. Coffman Justice of the Peace performed the ceremony which united in marriage Cliff Thomas and Miss Thomas Parrish, two of Coahoma's respected and esteemed young people.

We join a host of friends in extending best wishes for a long, happy and prosperous journey thru life.

ICE CREAM FACTORY DAMAGED

Ice Cream Factory and Bottling Works and Northside Grocery Suffers Heavy Fire Loss Thursday

The Big Spring Ice Cream factory building suffered considerable damage about four o'clock Thursday morning when fire gutted a portion of this building. The building in addition to housing the ice cream factory and bottling works was also occupied by J. T. Leonard's Cash Grocery and this stock was badly damaged. Mr. Leonard had about $1200 worth of goods with no insurance and as his stock was damaged by fire, water and smoke his loss will be heavy.

The fire originated in a storeroom in the northeast corner of the building and that portion of the structure was practically destroyed. The interior throughout is badly burned and scorched and the insurance of $1000 will not nearly make good Mr. Leonard's losses.

The fact that the portion of the building in which the ice cream factory was located had a concrete floor prevented the flames from doing much damage there. And while the fire has badly demoralized things Mr. Leonard believes he can get his factory in operation in a few days and has a reserve supply of cream to tide over until the factory is again in operation.

This fire hit at a bad time as the ice cream factory has many orders booked and they are going to have to get up and hustle; but they are going to make good and fill all orders.

Mr. Leonard is inclined to believe this fire was of incendiary origin as it seemed to have been started in, or underneath, a storeroom in which metal ice cream cans were the principal article; and the floor was saturated with salt water.

That good work was accomplished by the fire department can be seen if you visit the factory.

The damage would have been much less if the fire alarm had been turned in more promptly.

Daughter of Max Weisen Dead

It was indeed a shock to friends and relatives in this city when a message was received Saturday announcing that Mrs. Christine Edwards, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Max Weisen of this city had been claimed by death.

Her death was due to acute cardiac dilatation and occurred at 1:30 o'clock a. m. Saturday morning August 19th at Fort Worth Texas.

She was seemingly in the best of health and spirits when she retired Saturday night and when her roommate awoke about 1:30 o'clock she found Christine struggling to get her breath; and she died shortly thereafter.

Mrs. Edwards had left here but two weeks ago to resume her duties as trained nurse at All Saints Hospital, and where she had been one of the popular nurses for a number of years.

Deceased was born and reared in Big Spring and was loved and esteemed by all who knew her. She was a noble woman, a dutiful daughter, a true friend; always eager and anxious to alleviate the suffering of others and aid those in distress. Many hearts are saddened by the death of this noble woman.

The remains were brought to Big Spring for interment; funeral services being conducted at the family home, 306 Montezuma street, at 3:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon and a large concourse of friends accompanied the remains to their last resting place in the Catholic cemetery.

To the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Max Weisen, the brother and sisters, Joe F. Weisen of Dallas, Mrs. R. J. Campbell of Sherman, and Miss Margaret Weisen of Fort Worth, and to the other relatives, who mourn for her who was dearly beloved goes out the heartfelt sympathy of our entire citizenship.

Blankenship-Angel

At the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Angel, in the Center Point community at 8:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon the ceremony was performed which united in the holy bonds of matrimony Theodore Blankenship and Miss Ida Angel.

The bride is well and favorably known throughout our county, respected and esteemed and will make a true helpmeet to the man she has honored with her heart and hand. The groom is one of Center Point's dependable young men and is respected by those who know him.

We join their many friends in extending congratulations and best wishes.

Mrs. E. F. Harris left Thursday evening for a visit with her sister at Aspermont, Texas.

Here in Behalf of T. W. Davidson

W. P. Lane, from Marshall, spoke in Midland last Saturday to a big crowd of Midland County citizens in behalf of Senator T. W. Davidson's candidacy for lieutenant governor. He called upon the good citizens of this county to stand by a man who was their sincere friend, and a man who would never break faith with the great western citizens who were building history here on the beautiful plains of the golden west. Senator Davidson unquestionably stands for the enforcement of the constitution of Texas, first, last and always, and he does not believe in any clique or clan taking the authority of the courts in hand to the destruction of those fundamental principles upon which that constitution is founded. Mr. Lane paid a high tribute to the great western citizenship, and firmly believes that Senator Davidson will carry the west by a tremendous majority.

He also stated with emphasis that a record of Senator Davidson's faithful service and achievements will last forever in the annals of the grand old state we all love.—Midland Reporter.

To Get Rid of Ravens

G. D. Griffice states that if our melon growers wish to protect their melon patches against the ravages of ravens it is only necessary to construct martin boxes or boxes so scissor-tails may build their nests in the vicinity of the melon patches, and the martins and scissor-tails keep the ravens away.

Hardly any woman in East Texas will attempt to raise chickens unless martin boxes are prepared near the home as these little fighters will keep hawks and crows from preying on the young chickens.

In addition to driving away the destructive ravens and crows these birds will also destroy insect pests.

It will not cost much to prepare these bird boxes and those who expect to raise melons should give this a trial; it may prove to be worth many times the labor and money you expend.

Mr. Griffice states the martins will return each spring in increasing numbers if you prepare homes for them.

Baseball a Losing Game in West Texas

As a money making venture the West Texas baseball league is anything but a success, but it has been decided not to shorten the schedule. At the meeting held at Sweetwater last Saturday it developed that practically every club in the circuit had lost heavily. Ranger claimed a deficit of $10,000; San Angelo has an investment of $18,000 with $8,000 being carried by four men of that town; Abilene is in the red nearly $9,000; the new Stamford owner is already $500 in the hole; Lubbock claims a $10,000 investment, with Clovis not far behind, and Sweetwater and Amarillo in the red about $4,000 each.

A large garage is at a convenient distance from the house, and large barns will be erected upon the completion of the house. The land for miles surrounding the house is covered in grass, knee-deep, upon which high-grade cattle graze.

This home of Mrs. James Currie will be one of the most beautiful homes in the West and it will be situated on one of the richest ranches in Texas.

Speaks for Earl B. Mayfield

Hon. R. A. Milam of Fort Worth was here Monday in the interest of the candidacy of Earl B. Mayfield for the U. S. Senate and spoke to a crowd of several hundred on the court house lawn Monday night.

Mr. Milam, while not a flowery speaker is a forceful one and his every utterance was to the point. He outlined the lives and achievements of the two men who aspire to the great office, comparing Mayfield's sixteen years service in public office wherein he served faithfully, efficiently without a single charge of misconduct; while Ferguson's brief service as a public official is marked by graft charges, misconduct in office, impeachment and disgrace. He declared Texas would be disgraced in the eyes of the nation if James E. Ferguson was selected for the office of Senate and urged everyone to lay aside all prejudice and vote for the man with a clean record, a man who would serve our State with honor and credit.

Mr. Milam outlined Ferguson's record while governor, his impeachments and the mud-slinging campaign he is now waging and urged thinking folks to renounce him as he renounced the Democratic party some two years ago.

He pointed out that Mayfield was kept busy answering the baseless charges Ferguson hurled each day, practically the same charges Ferguson used against Ball when they were opponents.

If reference to the Ku Klux question the speaker held it had no part in this campaign, discussing this feature at some length.

While the audience gave the speaker a respectful hearing there was not much enthusiasm aroused though the speaker was given applause occasionally. Owing to a misunderstanding as to the date Judge Milam was due here the attendance at the speaking was much smaller than it otherwise would have been.

It was given out last week that Judge Milam was to have been here last Friday and it was not until he arrived Monday about noon that an effort toward advertising his speaking date Monday night was made.

There is no getting around the fact that we are going to have a short feed crop through West Texas. On most farms cotton has been made the principal crop and some of our prosperity is going to be gobbled up in buying high priced feed with "cotton money."

'Warfare' on Labor Unions Criticized.

Washington, Aug. 18.—"Warfare" on labor unions has been officially recognized for the first time by President Harding as a strikebreaker and a hindrance to strike settlements.

In his address to Congress Friday, he made it plain that this "warfare" has "no sympathy or approval of the government."

It has been such "warfare" which labor union leaders designate as the "open shop" movement, that repeatedly has been laid as the basis of labor's answer to the employers' defy for a "finish fight."

"In the weeks of patient conference and attempts at settlement," Harding said on this subject. "I have come to appraise another element in the engrossing industrial dispute of which it is only fair to take cognizance. It is in some degree responsible for the strikes and has hindered attempts at adjustment. I refer to the warfare on the unions of labor."

"The Government has no sympathy or approval for this element of discord in the ranks of industry."

"We recognize these organizations in the law and we must accredit them incalculable contribution to labor's uplift. It is of public interest to preserve them and profit by the good that is in them."

"But," he added, "we must check the abuses and excesses which conflict with public interest precisely as we have been progressively legislating to prevent capitalistic, corporate or managerial domination which is contrary to public welfare."

The Captain Won

When General Pershing was in Coblenz he reviewed the entire "Rhine Division" at Weisenthurm, near there. All officers were instructed to snap out of it and answer any questions put by the general without hesitation. One captain had this especially well in mind.

"How many expert riflemen have you in this company?" queried the general.

"Twenty per cent, sir," snapped back the captain.

"How many sharpshooters?"

"Forty-two per cent, sir," just as snappily.

"How many marksmen?"

"Seventy-six per cent, sir," instantaneously.

"How is this, captain?" asked the general, after his aide had showed him the total of figures he had jotted down on his pad. "This totals 133 per cent. of your company."

"The company is over-strength, sir," snapped back the captain.—The American Legion Weekly.

Making Big Things Out of Little Ones

Some 20 years ago several bankers and businessmen met in a conference in the town of Rocky Ford, Colorado, for the purpose of finding a way to push their town forward. The town seemed to have got in a rut and it was doing nothing out of the usual in any line.

Someone suggested that they persuade the farmers to specialize on cantaloupes. The bankers pledged special support to the movement, and the farmers were persuaded to take it up. This led the town to gain a reputation all over the country for growing cantaloupes. From a little one-horse town Rocky Ford grew to a place of handsome streets, business blocks and hotels.

Specializing on one product, and getting out a superior article did it. Any town can make some degree of progress by doing the same thing.

It is but natural that big business is against the soldier bonus bill. They made billions while the war was in progress and it naturally hurts them to have the boys who faced shot and shell, in addition to sacrificing their lives, fortunes and even their jobs get a small amount of cash. We believe that our country owes the soldiers a bonus and they should have it.

Dairying Usually Profitable

One serious drawback has been found to having an income of a million dollars a year; it is necessary to pay a large income tax each year. Yet no person has been found who would surrender the income rather than refuse to pay the tax.

A cotton farmer who turned a portion of his holdings into a dairy farm several years ago says he has met with this same objection to dairy farming. Of his several farms, the only one which has returned sufficient profit to require payment of an income tax is the dairy farm. But, instead of selling the cows, he is figuring on buying more and turning some more of his cotton land over to forage and feed crops for the cattle.

In a country so blessed as the Cotton Belt, with fertility of soil and excellence of climate, it seems strange that so many families should struggle against poverty year after year because depending upon cotton for an income, they lose the income and go into debt when the crop fails. Once weather conditions caused occasional losses; now the boll weevil is at the bottom of annually recurring deficits.

The people living in northern zones have developed livestock, dairying and wool growing into never-failing sources of income, and it has been proved that all of these are even more profitable in the southern zones. Consider the little island of Iceland, where there are upward of one million sheep and some twenty-five thousand cows. The people have had a hard battle against nature, but have triumphed. The lower classes are poor, but also very enlightened and more books, newspapers and periodicals are printed and sold in Iceland, in proportion to population, than in any country in Europe. Dairy products, horticulture and truck farming are the sources of revenue in many parts of the island. Thoroughness is at the bottom of their success.

The Southern farmer can raise velvet beans and corn at small cost. These ground and combined with a small portion of cotton seed meal provide a cheap, mixed feed that can hardly be excelled. Roughage and winter pasturage is easily provided. With proper care, any good cow can be made to yield an income of $12 to $15 each month. A few such cows will bridge the space between poverty and affluence on any farm.

But the cows must have constant attention. The feed and water must be right in quantity and quality. Ticks must never be permitted, and it will be found that good results follow currying. The farmer may laugh at these things as being trivial, but frequently they spell the difference between success and failure.

Thoroughness counts on the farm as in big business. Diversify the crops and give the proper attention to each and farm failures will be few.—Fort Worth Record.

Only Bona Fide Democrats Can Vote in Run-Off Primary

For information of voters in the run-off primary, we here quote: Article 317ww, of the revised statutes of Texas, Page 545.

"At each and every primary held for the purpose of nominating a candidate for United States Senator no person not a qualified elector to vote for United States Senator under the Constitution of the United States shall be permitted to vote and no person shall vote for any candidate for United States Senator who does not belong to the same political party with which the voter affiliates and when any voter attempts to vote for any person as a candidate for nomination for United States Senator, and is challenged, he shall, before being permitted to vote, make affidavit that he is a bona fide member of said party and if he voted in the preceding general election held for the election of state officials, he voted for the nominee of the party whose ticket he desires to vote. Upon making such affidavit he shall be permitted to vote."

It seems that those who did not vote for the nominees of the Democratic primaries—if they voted at all—in 1920 are barred from voting in the run-off primary.

Big Spring Boys Making Good

To the Editor of The Herald:

In view of the fact that the four boys from Big Spring and its vicinity who are in training at Fort Bliss in the C. M. T. C. division have made such a splendid record, the Commanding Officer desires that their report be submitted to their home town paper.

Gill Alfred Barnett, a student in the Air Service, who has had previous military training at Texas Military College is showing up most excellently in all branches of athletic activities. He also qualified as "high man" in his organization as Sharpshooter and was awarded the official medal given by the War Department.

Lynn Hatcher, a student in Battery A of Field Artillery has the distinction of being the only "First Course Student" to be made an active Chief of Section with the rank of Corporal. He is confined to no particular branch of activities but is social editor on the camp newspaper and is usually to be found a popular guest at the Hostess House when off duty. On the range Hatcher was one of three out of Battery A to make Pistol Sharpshooter qualification.

T. B. Hoover, a student in the first company of engineers is a very steady worker and has also distinguished himself in the camp activities. In baseball Hoover made the Engineers team as first pitcher. In social life he has the name of being "good looking and popular among the ladies."

John Quinn, ranking sergeant of Company A Infantry, and acting sergeant major of C. M. T. C. battalion, comes from Westworth Military Academy of the class of '22. He shows to have mastered the principals of military training previously and on the range his shooting ability was evidenced by winning an official "Sharpshooters" medal. On the camp newspaper he is Sporting Editor and Company reporter. It is a general saying, "There's not a dance without Quinn."

Strikers Are Upheld at Meeting At Louisville

Sympathy for striking shopmen and appeals for government ownership of railroads were the themes for discussion at a public meeting held at Louisville, Ky., attended by 3,000 strikers and sympathizers. The principal speech was delivered by Laurence B. Finn, former member of the Kentucky state railroad commission, who said that during federal control the executives ran the roads extravagantly so that private ownership could be obtained. He declared that millions of dollars can be saved through government ownership, charging that men who own the roads also own the agencies which sell commodities to the lines.

When members of the committee in charge of the meeting saw P. H. Callahan in the audience they called for a speech from him. Mr. Callahan is president of the Louisville Varnish Co., and is famous throughout the south for fair treatment of his employes. He is given credit for having started the relief work of the Knights of Columbus and other important work during the war.

Mr. Callahan said he was "for" the strikers. He said that it would require steadfastness and courage to win the strike—Labor.

Will Hays speaks in a vein that is pleasing to most Americans when he says that the first duty of the motion picture products is to youths. "We are not so much interested in the millions of dollars invested in the industry," he told an audience in Los Angeles the other night, "as we are in the millions of children whose morals and education are invested in it." That is a common sense view for those in charge of the motion picture production and distribution to take. Some producers seem to have the idea that if a picture is to pack the houses in various sections of the country it must be filled with daring scenes built upon a salacious plot. Such pictures appeal to a certain class of theatre-goers; but this class is not as large, we are inclined to believe, as many critics seem to fear. The trouble about a motion picture is that no one knows just what he is going to run into until he gets inside the theater; for the billboards do not always tell the story. Often a good picture is spoiled by its name; sometimes a sorry picture gets over by virtue of its title and clever advertising.—Athens Reporter.

Leagues of women voters in various states have undertaken to supply a deficiency that exists under the primary method of making nominations by soliciting from candidates themselves the facts about themselves and their records that voters should know before presuming to cast an intelligent ballot. The effort is well worth while, and the women are rendering a distinctly valuable service that no agency of government or parties supplies.—The Commoner.

The drouth, boll weevil, army worm and chinch bug are all busy these days and are going to play a big part in reducing cotton production in Texas. Unfavorable conditions prevail over much of the cotton section and the price of cotton is due to advance.

Harold Hoots of Midland was a business visitor here the forepart of this week.

Our Brothers, The Railroad Shopmen (By Mercer, Greene Johnston*)

Sure, they are our brothers! They are not mechanical toys to be played with, broken, and to be cast away by the spoiled children of the hard-boiled class.

Sure, they are our brothers; They are not just "hands," to be bought, like gloves, by the pair or gross, and worn out and thrown on the trash-pile and forgotten.

Sure, they are our brothers! They are not monkey-wrenches, or even mere human wrenches. They are not adjustable tools. They are not nondescript automatic manipulators of tools and machines. They are men, with all the parts and passions, with all the hopes and fears, with all the loves and loyalties of complete men. First, last, and all the time they are human beings. And each one of the 400,000 shopmen on strike is just as distinct a human being as your brother, or father, or husband—with just about the same proportions of sweet simplicity and cantankerous complexity. "Human, all too human"—like the rest of us. Made in the image of God, way down yonder in the well-nigh inaccessible depths of their troubled hearts; and therefore made after the very pattern of you and me.

Sure, they are our brothers—bone of our bone, flesh of our flesh, spirit of our spirit. They "belong." And that no unbiased brotherly heart will deny.

So we trust that the whole body of the people of our country will deal faithfully with our brothers, the railroad shopmen, in the stand they have taken against further exploitation by those who pretend to represent the common welfare but who really represent interests that have always preyed, that are this moment preying and devising insidious schemes to prey forever more, to prey without ceasing and without mercy upon the people who constitute the backbone and the sinew and the hope of America.

We have considered the grounds of this strike with painstaking care. We have listened to the arguments pro and con, and thought upon them. We have faced the uglier possibilities of the strike with a troubled heart. And here is our opinion: The railroad shopmen are right in the stand they have taken. They are so strongly in the right in the stand they have taken that they would be decidedly in the wrong if they had not taken that stand.

Not only have they not sinned against the general welfare by taking that stand, but they would have sinned against the general welfare if they had failed to take it.

It was their plain duty, not merely to themselves or their families but to society, to take that stand and to maintain it.

It is not social loyalty, it is social treachery, not to take a stand against the social marauder of the Atterbury type masqueraded as a savior of society.

Our brothers, the shopmen, are not less worthy of our love and trust by reason of the stand they have taken; they are more worthy of them. And this though the stand they have taken may make serious demands upon the rest of us. The stand was necessary not only from the standpoint of the shopmen but of the whole social body that the predatory groups plan to loot the moment its resistance is weakened. Therefore we must bear with equanimity our share of what it costs to make the stand. If at any time we are emptied to "feel sick and tired of the strike," let us remember that but for the fact that we had let our lazy social consciences lie abed and slumber when they should have been up an doing, here would have been no strike.

Penny Appeals Rail Board Contempt Case

Attorneys for the Pennsylvania railroad last week filed notice of an appeal to the United States Supreme Court on the adverse decision rendered by the United States Court of Appeals, Chicago circuit, in the case of the carrier against the Railroad Labor Board.—Labor.

Treating folks white is what makes a town popular. Not only is it necessary to give homefolks a square deal, but visitors as well. A town that holds up visitors gets considerable free advertising but it is not the kind of advertising that makes a town popular. Square-deal folks and square-deal towns form a winning combination.

The Stokes Motor Co. received a carload of Ford auto trucks Monday. If things settle down within the next few weeks we can expect busy times throughout this section. Cotton picking will be on in full swing and quite a sliding program may be looked for in our city.

Watermelon Party

On last Monday eve the following folks enjoyed a watermelon party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Will Crawford: Misses Venie Lynch, Willie Smith, Ruth and Birdie Shockley, Avenelle Talbot, Roberta Gay; Messrs Ben Carpenter, Joe Dally, Walter Price, Clarence Shockley, Jack and John Johnson and Bill Mittel. Miss Hilma Crawford and Mr. Yale Crawford delightfully entertained these young folks in their charming way. Games were planned for the evening and after a few hours of playing games "Good Old Watermelon" was served. Everyone reported a good time. We are hoping they will give us another watermelon party before they are all gone.

Watermelon Feast

On Thursday evening August 10th, Miss Mittie Owen entertained the members of the Christian Endeavor with a watermelon feast, at her home, in honor of her aunt Miss Eva Owens of Fort Worth.

After participating in several athletic contests and games the following were invited to the brilliantly lighted lawn and served with deliciously chilled watermelons: Misses Oma Maxfield, Lola Owens, Stella Shubert, Pauline Shubert, Ella Brown, Maud Carter, Louisa Jenkins, Essie Bradley, Topsy Haller, Marian Pursler, Helen Creath, Mittie Owens, Barker and Eva Owens; Messrs Ernest Ross, Jimmy Mason, Mac Earley, Courtney Davies, Elmo Ory, Charlie Dunn and Louis Owens.

League of Women Voters Meeting

Everyone is cordially invited to attend a meeting of the League of Women Voters at the courthouse tonight, Friday, August 25th.

An interesting meeting is in order and every man and woman is cordially invited to attend.

Michael Collins, head of the Irish Provisional Government and the Irish National Army, was shot and killed from ambush near Bandon in County Cork, Monday. We thought that Ireland, after her 700-year war with England would be ready for peace but it seems not so. Some day we are going to trouble State Press of the Dallas News to inform us as what the present "peace" in Ireland is all about.

C. E. Picnic

On Tuesday evening August 8th, the Christian Endeavor entertained its members and several friends with a picnic and swimming party at Moss Springs, a jolly bunch of young people gathered at the Christian Church at 8:30 o'clock and, after a great deal of scrambling for the best seats on the two trucks, they were off.

When they reached Moss Springs, it took only a few minutes for the majority of the crowd to get into the water. A bunch of about ten, however, thought they knew where a better swimming hole was, but after searching quite a while, they found it—but alas! it was dry. They returned to the real swimming hole just as the others were getting out so they never had time to get in. When the swimmers returned to the trucks, they found a delicious supper awaiting them. After the supper had been disposed of, the young folks started back to town, wishing for the time when they should return, especially those who had found the dry hole.

Those enjoying this delightful picnic were: Misses Ella Brown, Mittie Owens, Lola Owens, Carmen Barclay, Fannie Gilmer, Oma Maxfield, Helen Creath, Marguerite Essell, Ida Mae Haller, Marian Pursler, Louisa Jenkins, Maud Carter, Hazel Line, Minnie Morgan, Esther Leach, Ara Leach, Georgia Billingsley, Elleine O'Keefe, Louise Davies, Lillian Shubert, May Fitzgerald, Eva Owens; Messrs Charlie Dunn, Mac Earley, Joe Earley, Louis Owens, Henry Smith, Courtney Davies, Ben Studville, Jimmy Mason, Ralph Smith, Ernest Ross, Jack Johnson, Pitt Gardner. Mrs. Essell, Mrs. Brown and Mr. Creath chaperoned this jolly bunch of young folks.

Just received a nice line of new hand-grips and a few trunks direct from the factory and the prices are right. My house is almost full of second hand goods and I have a shipment of chairs, cabinets, tables, etc., coming soon. Come and see me. If I haven't got it, maybe I can get it for you. And I still make mattresses. Yours for business, J. R. CREATH.

F. N. Brown Dead

The announcement of the death of F. N. Brown at El Paso brought sorrow to the hearts of many friends in this city. He died Saturday evening, August 19th, following an operation to relieve locked bowels. He had only been ill a few days and therefore the news of his death came as a great shock to friends in this city.

Mr. Brown and family had but left Big Spring last week to make their home in El Paso while he held the run as passenger brakeman on the Texas & Pacific railway between Big Spring and El Paso. For fifteen years Mr. Brown had made his home here and was in the employ of the T. & P. Ry. as a conductor. He was a competent and efficient employe, a substantial citizen, a true friend. He believed in exemplifying the teachings of the Golden Rule in his dealings with his fellowman and he was ready to meet his Master when the summons came. Funeral services were conducted at the J. J. Kaster Undertaking Parlor at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon by Rev. Knickerbocker, under the auspices of the Order of Railway Conductors. The remains were laid to rest in the O. R. C. plot in Evergreen Cemetery at El Paso.

To the wife, daughter and two sons, Miss Ella, John and Robert Brown, who mourn for a faithful husband and an indulgent father, goes out the deep sympathy of a host of friends in Big Spring.

Simmons College Notes

Simmons College suffered a serious loss in May when Cowden Hall, its only hall for men was destroyed by fire. The college faces the problem this fall of taking care of the men attending the institution in private homes. The citizens of Abilene responded generously and nobly, however, and every young man entering Simmons College will have the privilege of staying in a good private home.

Plans are being drawn for the erection of a modern hall for men to cost $150,000. Work on the proposed building will begin about the middle of January, 1923.

Simmons College has two halls for women, Mary-Frances Hall and Smith Hall. Both of them are practically full already. Those who expect to have accommodations in either would do well to seek reservations early.

The Plant of Simmons College has had a most valuable addition made to it for the coming year. The Fine Arts Building, construction of which was begun about 20 months ago, will be completed and opened for use. It will be devoted to the Fine Arts: Piano-forte, Voice, Expression, Public Speaking and Painting. The building is one of the most beautiful in design, finish and in appointment in connection with any college in the southwest.

Indications now point to a large registration in Simmons College this fall. The plant and equipment will not accommodate more than 700 at one time. To the end that those who expect to enter Simmons may not be disappointed, the college authorities have put on a campaign among former and prospective students, urging that everyone who expects to enter for the fall term register by mail in advance.

Mrs. Wm. Neill Jr. Sought
An effort is being made to locate Mrs. Wm. Neill Jr. of El Paso, who is supposed to be visiting in or near Big Spring, to acquaint her of her husband's death.
J. H. Heffley, chief of police, received the following message Tuesday from F. H. Kilver of Denver for whom the deceased worked:
"Please try to locate Mrs. Wm. Neill Jr. of El Paso who is supposed to be visiting in Big Spring, while her husband covered territory for us in Southern Texas."
"Advise her that American Vice-consul wired us that her husband died at Matamoros, Mexico, Sunday. An effort was made to have body embalmed and held, but it was necessary to make burial, Monday, August 21. No particulars as to cause of his death."
"F. H. KILVER,
"Charles Building, Denver, Colo."
Mr. Heffley has been making a diligent effort to locate Mrs. Neill but so far his efforts have been in vain.

Harry E. Briant of Portland, Oregon after several weeks spent in the Big Spring territory and a thorough study of all development in Howard, Mitchell, Sterling and Glasscock counties, left Sunday for his home. He was favorably impressed with the great development work being carried forward and believes a good field is going to be brought in.

The tariff measure as doctored by the U. S. Senate, means a bonus of a billion or two for the plutocrats who own the big industries; and the ultimate consumer must pay the bill. The monied interests get all the coin eventually so why should they object to the soldier enjoying handling a bonus just a short while.

Harry J. Lawrence left Friday morning for a several weeks' business trip to Chicago, Ill., and Sturgeon Bay, Wis. Mr. Lawrence is in charge of the Big Spring office of the Chas Oil Association Inc., of Boston, Mass. Mrs. Lawrence of Sturgeon Bay, will accompany Mr. Lawrence on his return to Big Spring.

J. W. Johnston of Bosque County is here to make arrangements to locate in Howard County to engage in farming. Mr. Johnston reports that conditions in his section are the worst ever known, due to the severe drought many farmers being confronted with a complete crop failure this year.

Naturally J. P. Morgan, Otto Kahn and other Wall street guys think Uncle Sam should cancel the eleven billion war debt that Europe owes us. It would enhance the value of the mortgages they hold on European industries—All they want is the earth.

To Those Interested
Mail receptacles save the carriers' time and hasten deliveries. It is therefore the desire of the postoffice department to have suitable receptacles of some character at every residence, and if possible, at business houses.

The absence of a mail receptacle not only tends to inconvenience the patron, but unquestionably results in inferior service through delaying the carrier on his route.

In the circumstances carrier delivery service should not be extended to any new dwelling not equipped with suitable receptacle.

When a patron changes his residence he will be required to provide a receptacle at his new address before being accorded delivery service.

The above being a copy of instructions from the Post Office Department it is to be hoped that all interested will give the subject due consideration. Yours truly,
J. W. Ward, Postmaster.

Thursday Entertainments Free to Shop Crafts

Yuell Robb, manager of the Lyric, has set aside one day each week where-in every member of the Shop Crafts out on strike as well as every member of their family may attend the Lyric free of charge. Thursday of each week is the day and the first of such days was inaugurated yesterday.

In addition to enabling the families of the men out on strike to attend an entertainment at least once each week the men and their families deeply appreciate the spirit which prompted Mr. Robb to make this generous offer.

W. W. Poe of Gunsight was here this week looking after land interests in this section. He stated that he had been traveling over the state a good deal this year and he found crops here better than at any place he has visited, and especially the cotton crop. He thinks we have a great country and says the time is not far distant when it will be the leading farming section of Texas.

We have one optimist in the person of Joe Stokes. His guess is that Howard County is going to produce 15,000 bales of cotton under present conditions; 20,000 bales if we receive a good general rain anytime soon, and 25,000 bales if we have a good rain and a late frost.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Flanken returned Saturday night from a two weeks' vacation and report a most delightful time. They visited in Dallas, Jacksonville, Galveston, and San Angelo; spending a week in Jacksonville with old time friends.

Captain Charles Breckenridge and family of Breckenridge were here Monday looking after farming interests in our county. He reported crop conditions much better here than in his home county or in any county thru which he passed on his way here.

Murphy is plaintiff, and Harry Abney is defendant, and said petition alleging suit to establish debt evidenced by promissory note for the principal sum of $3200.00, dated April 10, 1917, executed by defendant, payable to the order of plaintiff on 3rd day of February, 1922, bearing interest at the rate of 7 per cent per annum from Feb. 3, 1917 until maturity, interest payable annually at Denton, Texas; all principal and interest not paid when due to bear interest at 10 per cent per annum; that if placed in the hands of an attorney for collection, or if collected by legal proceedings, 10 per cent on principal and interest to be added as attorney's fees.

Said note was executed in renewal and extension of note for $3200.00, dated Feb. 3, 1914, executed by defendant, payable to America Crenshaw Hann on or before three years after date and secured by deed of trust on South half section No. 3, Block No. 33, Twp. 2 South, Cert. That defendant, Jones, is tenant-farmer on said premises; that customary rental tenant-farmers award to and pay their landlords and which landlords receive in the vicinity of said premises is 1-3 of feed and 1-4 of cotton grown on said premises and such rental is reasonable and equitable.

Plaintiff prays for recovery of title and possession with writ of ouster, such possession immediate as to defendant, Caffey, but as to defendant, Jones, when 1922 crop is harvested by him at or before Jan. 1, 1923, for costs of suit and special and general relief, legal and equitable.

The Apotheosis of Hypocrisy

"The government goes right on ignoring the prohibition law on sea while making some ineffective efforts to enforce it on land," remarked August Busch, of Anheuser-Busch, Inc., when he arrived last week from Europe. Mr. Busch further stated that passengers on the George Washington discussed the buying of liquor from the government on board the ship and then inviting the government to arrest and prosecute them when they reached shore.

It would certainly be a nice legal question as to whether the government could use money from the United States Treasury to sell liquor on its ships at a profit and then prosecute a purchase for violation of the law.

It is true the government is in an awkward position. The Shipping Board is expending thousands of dollars to stimulate passenger traffic, but much of the money is wasted because a dry ship has a hard time to win travellers.

The majority of the people of the United States may be dry but they don't travel the ocean enough to back up an American Merchant Marine along lines of moral conduct.

Official dignitaries who publicly espouse prohibition have their cellars, the private room at the public banquet is a recognized factor at all "successful dinners." Even the offices of some of our Congressmen are said to be storehouses for booze.

Summed up, the country stands today the apotheosis of hypocrisy. The American Merchant Marine seems to rest in the balance, but hypocrisy will stink the ships quicker than any restriction.

Let us have enforcement or repeal, one thing or the other.

The Twenty-Five-Cent Sandwich Picnic

No, this isn't an article on the high cost of living or sandwiches either, but an Endeavor Picnic. Imagine it.

On Tuesday August 8th at exactly 7 p. m. the Senior Endeavors set off with a buzz and a hum, in trucks for Moss Springs.

The admittance charged to this picnic was twenty-five cents and as many sandwiches as you thought you could eat, and would you believe it, some one brought two dozen. No I won't tell their name, they might blush. But anyway we arrived at our destination, sandwiches and all, somewhere around 8 o'clock. Into the water we plunged and we didn't come out either until the moon was just peeping over the hills.

Oh my, when we began to eat our lunch we all wished that we had brought two dozen sandwiches, for you know they say that swimming makes a body hungry.

Supper eaten and the scraps cleared away, we began to make preparations to come home. We hated to leave for the place is really beautiful by moonlight, and we had really had a good time there. But home we came and not one accident to mar the pleasantness of the evening.

Now the Senior C. E. believe in making their meetings just as live, interesting and as full of real enthusiasm as their picnics. If you've never been why not come and see, you're always welcome. An Endeavor.

The Two Standards

"But if I had been a world war soldier and had come through unhurt I would be so proud to have had the opportunity to fight for my country that I would not touch a nickel of the bonus. I think the right spirit of young strong Americans is to get out and make a way for themselves. No, I am not in favor of their receiving any aid in buying homes or farms."—Charles M. Schwab, head of Bethlehem Steel.

Suppose we should turn this about and say: "If I had the honor of furnishing steel for the great war I should be so proud of my place in the leading industry of America and of the contribution I could thus make to the winning of the war that I would not touch a nickel of profit."—Des Moines Register.

Must We Learn By Another War

A few governments are trying to get back to normalcy, but they aren't making any noticeable progress.

In some respects the U. S. is taking the lead. We have already given birth to a coal war and a railroad war with the usual result; nobody in the country has reaped the slightest benefit.

We have lowered wages and then wondered why the workers didn't buy our goods. By concerted efforts and propaganda we have "brought labor to its knees" utterly ignoring the fact that it is an impossible position in which to do any work. Pretty soon we hope to erect such a tariff wall that all competing nations will be kept as poor as we can keep them; then we shall send our salesmen abroad to tempt them to buy our goods with the money they haven't got.

Altogether it looks as if the world were in for quite a spell of poverty and peace, but if by some miracle, it can get on its feet, then we shall have prosperity and war.—Chas. W. Wood, in Dearborn Independent.

Cannot Prohibit Strikes By Law

Strikes are the result rather than a cause of the prevailing industrial unrest. The prohibition of strikes by legal means may result in wrecking our whole industrial and economic structure. Labor strikes are absolutely necessary in order that men may not have to endure intolerable conditions in the industry where they have had experience and have become skilled workmen.

The impression that strikes in essential industries can be prohibited because they menace the integrity of the country and that there is no difficulty in enforcing the most drastic legislation ever placed on our statute books, is at fault, because the prohibition of strikes is incomparably more difficult of enforcement than the prohibition of the liquor traffic. No man clings to booze as an ideal, but is willing to suffer tribulations in defense of the right to strike.

The time lost as a result of strikes is but a small percentage of that lost each year through unemployment, the fixed feature of modern industrialism. This presents a much greater problem than the strike. Any figures relating to the loss of wages and time as a result of strikes lose much of their force when accompanied by the realization that there never is continuous employment for the workers, who by striking are merely altering the time of their employment.

Destroy the forces behind the collective bargain and you nullify the greatest step that has thus far been made toward industrial peace.

The Hen Calls For Help

Finally the food profiteers have locked horns with a real opposition. They are facing the inexorable persistence of the great American hen and panic reigns.

Some years ago the American hen gave warning that she might prove a dangerous enemy and bring about fair prices, but the shrewd profiteers countered, and when the hen laid in sufficient volume to feed the people the cold storage warehouse was conceived.

Instead of being distributed at prices governed by the law of supply and demand, eggs were stored, kept from the people, and doled out at uniformly high prices.

It appears, however, that the great American hen has been thinking. The result is she has again come to the front with a production so bewildering that the cold storage plants cannot take care of it.

True, in spite of this, eggs in New York are selling from 60 to 75 cents a dozen.

But the bump is at hand. If the hen gets a little support from the public and a little tiny egg strike be started, the backbone of the price extortion will be broken.

It is all very well to store eggs, but when it comes to erecting more and more great steel and concrete structures equipped with the expensive freezing plants to take care of them, then it may be thought better to sell the present stock at a fair price.

There are now 303,000,000 dozen eggs in storage—more than three dozen for every person in the United States.

And the great American hen is still on the job.

Old Man Benson

By CHARLES E. BAXTER
Copyright, 1922, Western Newspaper Union.

Old Benson put on his hat. "Think I'll just go for a little stroll, mother," he said, patting his wife on the shoulder. "Looks like clearing."

"Like our troubles," smiled Ada Benson. "John, dear, you do think you'll get that position with the Sanders firm, don't you?"

"While there's life there's hope, mother," he answered gayly.

But once in the street, unbearable depression took hold of him, and he viewed his life in dismal retrospect. He had left Crawford with prophecies of success from all the professors. Benson was an analytical genius, and he should go far in the chemical field. He had secured a good position immediately.

How had it all come about? Personally! An athlete at college, he still had been too shy to make friends. He had remained 12 years with the Spicers people, had risen to $5,000 a year, had made their fortune with his discovery of a substitute for manganese. He realized they were plucking his brains, and left to work for a rival concern at $4,000.

Ten years later they went bankrupt; and Benson's daughter had died after a lingering illness. They were childless, now, Ada and he, their savings gone. He had been wrapped up in his home, he had gone with his wife and child to Florida, where it was hoped she might recover.

Vain hope! He returned to take a position at $2,000 with a new company. The best of his work was done. At fifty Benson was on the shelf. He could not work except in an atmosphere of sympathy. And people were impatient of slow research nowadays. They would not wait while he elaborated his methods.

Yet he knew that, given the opportunity, he could still teach something to the younger men. If he had a chance! But who would give a chance to a broken man of fifty?

He had drifted from one job to another, he had even been a druggist; at last, in desperation, he had applied to the Sanders people, who wanted a $10,000 man to head their laboratory. No answer had come.

Old Benson looked up as the sound of laughter and cheering came from a big room on the ground floor of an uptown building. He had wandered a long way.

"What's that place?" he asked a policeman.

"The Crawford club," the man answered. "Annual meeting for old Crawford men."

Benson started. Never, since he had left college, had he come into touch with any of his old associates. Why shouldn't he? Well, why shouldn't he forget for the while that he was a broken man of fifty?

Ten minutes later he found himself ensconced in a rear seat of the room. His heart beat as he heard the old, remembered songs. He began to recognize the faces. Why, that stout, bald man was Johnson, whose sturdily locks had been one of the jokes of the college. There was Hartigan—"Kid" Hartigan, a genius giant of six feet four.

What was that? Each man was singing, reciting, telling a story. They were standing up in turn. "My experiences . . ." And it was coming nearer and nearer to him.

"Say, what's your name?" asked the man next to him. "Benson? Not Bill Benson? Good Lord, who'd have thought—? You don't remember me? Aren't you the discoverer of that substitute for manganese? Good Lord, Bill Benson!"

"What'll I tell 'em?" Benson whispered.

"Oh, tell 'em what you've been doing, or—" he glanced at Benson's shabby clothes. "Sing 'Old Crawford,'" he suggested.

When Benson's turn came there was a shout of demand for his name. He heard whispering. Every glance seemed hostile. He stood up and sang desperately. He found his ground. He forgot. He recalled only the old days. When he sat down the room rocked with applause.

The next man, Benson had been forgotten. He must go home. He had had his hour, his unexpected hour. Quietly he prepared to slip away.

"You going?" It was his neighbor.

"Say, wait a minute! I'll walk with you. You don't remember me? Well, well, tell me what life's brought you, old man."

"Benson faced him. "Not much," he stammered. He choked.

"Guess I'll have to say good-night, old man," he said. "Glad to have met you."

The other laid his hand on his shoulder.

"Wait a moment, Benson," he said, "can you drop in at my office for a chat in the morning? You see, if you aren't engaged, why, I want to talk to you about taking up some chemical work for me," and as Benson stared at him dubiously, he added:

"I meant to answer your letter today. My name's Sanders."

Seniority Among Employees

Seniority seems to be the bone of contention—a very large bone for the employees and a very small one for the employers, unless the real purpose of the latter is to destroy organization among laborers. Seniority means a good deal to the working man if he has a right to use it but it is worse than worthless to him if it measures the power of the employer to coerce him into submission to any terms that the employer may see fit to impose. Seniority brings with it the opportunity for a man to have a home—on no other basis can he be sure of a permanent dwelling place and an environment such as a family man has a right to enjoy.

Seniority means the right to be the last man discharged and the first one reinstated when employment fluctuates. The employer determines how many men he will discharge and how many men he will employ. If the rule of seniority is destroyed the employe is helpless and must do whatever the employer says. Without the rule of seniority his right to strike becomes an empty thing. If leaving work (as the only means of enforcing what the employe believes to be right) forfeits his relative position—his seniority rights—when he goes back, his home may have to be sacrificed and all local friendship severed unless he accepts a position of serfdom and enters into involuntary servitude. The fact that the employers have refused to accept the President's proposition, rejecting all terms because they want to destroy seniority rights of the strikers, strongly suggests that their real purpose is not to conserve the interests of the railroads but to destroy the labor organizations—the wage-earners only security against corporate oppression.

When a railroad company employs tens of thousands and can lay off any person at will. It is not attending a business really its own—it is fixing the conditions under which thousands live. Civilization is impossible if the multitude must each day look up to a few employers and petition: Give us this day our daily bread, with the alternative of starvation unless the employe surrenders all rights.

The answer of the railroad heads gave President Harding an opportunity to call the public attention to the arrogance of big business. If he had given them a definite time in which to manifest their interest in the public's welfare with the alternative of temporary public operation of such roads as continued to ignore the public's interests in this strike, the obstinate railroad managers would have soon learned the quasi public character of the railroads—a character which railroad magnates always understand when the railroad wants to exercise the government's right of eminent domain but seldom recognize at any other time.

Methodist Notes

Our W. M. Auxiliary had an unusually good attendance at the social service session last Monday. Under the able instruction of Mrs. Stripling we are learning many interesting things about legislation, both passed and pending, of real social service to us all. Next Monday at 4 the Circle meets at the "Y." Every Methodist woman is invited and urged to come. Mrs. Eason and her group of helpers have a most pleasant and profitable afternoon planned. Don't miss it.

And now the Supt. of the S. S. wishes to take her readers—especially the "non-sirs"—on a personally conducted tour. It is Sunday, 9:45 a. m.—Come right in—every one is welcome here. Take a look at the N. E. corner. That is our class of big boys—most of them stewards, trustees, and charter members of our church. Meet Mr. Deats, the teacher. He "has been teacher here, man and boy, forty years," to quote an old favorite. Perhaps twenty years anyway. And his kindly, gentle face is greatly missed on the occasional unavoidable absence. Now the S. E. corner. This is Mr. O. H. Morris in charge of this big bunch of intermediate boys. They are fine fellows—teacher and all. But your eyes are straying. Meet our young people, and "near-young" people and their teacher, Mrs. Hardy. Two things commend this class. They are "easy to look at," and they "listen well" to their teacher who has missed very few Sundays in the three years she has taught them.

And now let us pass on to the Coffee Memorial class. Aren't they the sort of whom Solomon wrote: "Their price is far above rubies." Meet Mrs. Talbot and Mrs. Hoard who have had charge the past year, but with the coming of fall the regular teacher, Mrs. Stripling returns to her own—Emma Ruth comes with her, as mascot. We welcome both most heartily.

Now let us go up in the balcony. This is Miss Lillie Sue Settles and her group of teen age girls. They are a loyal, lovable bunch, "a thing of beauty and a joy forever." But you really must come on. Meet Mrs. J. V. Davis and her 25 Junior boys. That's right, youngsters, give a rousing cheer. It's the liveliest bunch you'll find anywhere, and under Mrs. Davis' wise and judicious training the best behaved.

Come down stairs. Let us visit the Suzanna Westleys. You didn't know from 25 to 40 young homemakers could get away on Sunday morning, did you? This is a banner class. If you read next week's Herald you'll learn more about them. Here is Mrs. Morris, now, the teacher, bringing an almost weekly floral offering for the pulpit, an unexcelled musician and the best beloved of our entire force, perhaps. This is Mrs. C. W. Davis and her Primary class, 25 beautiful little girls—a punctual and well behaved crowd. Mrs. Davis has had the best attendance for the whole year of any teacher. This is Miss Schull and the Primary boys of the same age. They are fewer in number but an adorable group of small boys. Meet Mrs. W. A. Miller and her Junior girls here on the front seat. Mrs. Miller has not missed a Sunday this year. Isn't that an excellent record? And her class, also, is fine. This is Mrs. Cordell and her first year Junior boys. Can you beat 'em? The class has grown like magic, and they are as nice as they look.

This bunch of little girls who look as if a page of fairies had come alive, belonged formerly to Mrs. Crocker, but have been taught most vacation time by Miss Hazel Lane. The Supt. is possessed of a lively fear that some visitor, seeing what a bunch of darlings they are, will kidnap the whole group. Come over to the choir now and meet Mrs. Flewelen and her 35 or 40 boys and girls of the Senior League. Aren't they great? This is the class, that, summer or winter, never fails to be on hand. And from this class come all the substitute teachers, almost. Among them is Wilbur Matthews who is a wonderful Bible student, and always ready at a moment's notice to be of service.

Come across the porch to the study. This is Mrs. Leslie Thomas and a score of Junior girls. Look at their graded books. They do the best work of any class. And they are a bunch of boosters too.

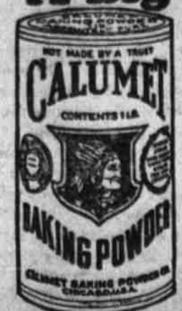

Open the door here into the Beginners' Dept. Isn't it a busy hive? Aren't they the dearest babies you ever saw? Meet Mrs. Hughes and Mrs. Manuel, the teachers. Look at the sand table, and the little tables entirely surrounded by bright flower faces. I know you hate to leave, but we have another class yet.

Come across the lawn. Be careful of the grass. Brother Hardy has made our parsonage and church lot to blossom like the rose. This is the new Bible class of men. You have met Mr. Manuel, the teacher at the "Y." Meet our treasurer from the First State Bank; class sec. business manager of the Union store; other members, carpenters, painters, machinists, late attorney, past attorney, or ex-attorney whatever he now is, and several railroad men from various departments. Aren't they a splendid set of S. S. students? And their tribe is increasing. Hurry now, we must get back to the

The pretty girl at the piano who is just starting the assembly march is our Sterling School pianist, Miss Ruth Johnson. And now you know us all. Won't you join the class to which you belong and become a regular member? Of course you will. Sit here under the fan and listen to the best sermon you ever heard. ### Railroad as Lawbreakers

Only 12,000 violations of the inspection law are said to have been committed by the railroads during the month of July alone. The law provides a maximum penalty of $100 for each violation but what's a measly $1,200,000 between friends?

This is the report made to the U. S. Senate. Furthermore the report shows at least 50 per cent of the country's locomotives and cars are now unfit for service because of neglect resulting from the railroad shopmen's strike. Yet the railroad officials are reporting nearly full crews of skilled workmen and repair work about up to normal.

50 per cent of the locomotives unfit for use means that 35,000 are on the scrap pile but at least 12,000 have been run without adequate inspection which would have resulted in their condemnation to shop for extensive repair. And you must remember there are only 50 inspectors to cover the entire country, so they can't begin to get around often.

This is not news to the Interstate Commerce Commission as fifty Federal inspectors in the daily reports the detailed effects of locomotives have been described.

The most general defect is said to be boiler trouble, which is a forerunner of locomotive explosions.

These and other interesting facts are set forth in the original draft of the report now before the commission for approval.

It's queer the government is not requested to utilize force to compel the railroads to obey the laws.

Greatly Exaggerated
It seems that the kidnapping and flogging case at Fort Worth was not as serious as first reports would indicate. The first stories were to the effect that a Miss Hinkle was kidnapped, taken to the country, stripped, tied to a tree and beaten with barbed wire and then left lying partly nude, unconscious beside the road.

These stories and others of a similar character led to the "law and order" meeting held Saturday morning by open-shoppers at which a call for the sending of Texas rangers to Fort Worth was advocated.

Miss Hinkle admitted she exaggerated in order to hurt the union and in the hope of securing claims against the owners of the plant she was working for.

Communication from the Boy Scouts encampment at the Double U ranch on the Concho are to the effect that the boys are having the time of their lives. The only complaints are that the days are too short—and so are the nights.

Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Matthews and son Wilbur returned Tuesday from an auto trip to Christoval and other points south.

Dr. G. S. Tron and family returned Tuesday from a visit at Belton and other points in that section of the state.

Jim Slaughter Dies at Hico

R. E. Slaughter returned Thursday from Hico where he had been called by the death of his brother Jim Slaughter, aged 82 years. Mr. Slaughter had been a resident of Hico for more than thirty years and was loved and esteemed by everyone. He was as honest as the day was long and everyone was his friend. He died early Tuesday morning August 22nd, and was buried Tuesday afternoon.

He is survived by a wife, one brother, four sisters, and three sons. H. H. Slaughter of this city was a son of deceased.

Many friends in this city extend sympathy to R. E. and H. H. Slaughter and other relatives in the time of sorrow.

To a man up a tree, the severe spell of dry hot weather we are being treated to looks anything but encouraging yet people arriving from all points of the compass state that crops in old Howard County are as fine as found most anywhere and so much finer than in most parts of the state.
