Development But Work on Going Forward at a Steady Pace

McCarley No. 1 advised by J. S. Meriwether of the Cooperative Development Company, completing and drilling to go forward steadily.

The well was completed Tuesday as some minor repair was completed—requiring a day—drilling was to be also advised that he has some good news from the last cores secured showing oil.

A letter from S. J. Sloane giving his views after the last cores from this well.

Meriwether, Texas, advised of the cores under the well and also with other strong presence of oil in the well taken below the samples that you had in Houston and had Mr. Texas Company geologist, formation against Mr. geological report and he your formation was run—shallower than what thought you would find Company chemist who the samples with me here in Beaumont also presence of oil from cores that you have given examined. It looks as are near the pay sand, as well as the men who about your well, that you production before you feel I notice that quite iron is being found.

You are now in the Pennsylvania formation. Mr. Dodson's report is right, it looks as you will encounter the (Pennsylvania) sand around 300 feet, and I think that I have any trouble is I beg to remain, Yours very truly, S. J. Sloane,

Consolidate Freight and Ticket Office

On Wednesday of this week the T. & P. Ry. offices of freight and passenger agents at Big Spring were ordered consolidated, and A. F. Pegues has been named to fill the newly created position. Mr. Pegues has been holding the position as freight agent since the offices were separated some years ago.

Tractor Demonstration August 29th.

A demonstration to prove the merits of the Fordson Tractor and the many uses it can be put on the farm will be held in Big Spring, Wednesday, August 29th, from 10 a. m. to 3 p. m.

Baptist Revival in Progress

The Winsett-Hiett Revival opened in the big tabernacle last Sunday and increasing numbers are attending the services to hear the splendid sermons by Rev. Winsett. The stirring song services are in charge of Bro. Hiett.

Another Freak Egg

J. B. Ryan brought us a freak egg from his home in the Luther community Tuesday. This egg is about the ordinary size hen egg but dark brown in color and a light colored strip one-half inch wide completely encircles the egg. Mr. Ryan states that his chickens have presented a number of freak eggs this year—one being an exceptionally large egg which weighed six ounces.

Home Destroyed by Fire

The residence of A. H. Crawford at the corner of West First and Gregg street was practically destroyed by fire about 1:30 o'clock Monday afternoon together with all the household furnishings.

Can We Afford to Take Chances?

Are we willing to take such foolish chances because it may cost a few cents extra? Most of you know that machinery which has been in use as long as our old fire engine is unsafe. Something may break when we need it most, and thousands of dollars worth of property—perhaps some of yours and mine—may go up in smoke because we were too stingy to spend a little money for protection.

Barbecue at Guitar Ranch

Five hundred or more friends and neighbors enjoyed the barbecue at Guitar ranch given by the Guitar ranch and Davis school community last Saturday afternoon about five o'clock.

Good Roads Meeting Postponed

The annual meeting of the Puget Sound to Gulf Highway Association which was to have been held at Fredericksburg on August 17 and 18, has been postponed until September 14 and 15.

Electric Plant Capacity Doubled

The work of installing the big 225-horsepower Deisel engine at the power plant of the West Texas Electric Company in this city has been completed. The engine has been installed and has been given several try outs and only a few minor adjustments are necessary to be made before the big engine will be ready for regular service.

TEXON NO. 2 DOWN 750 FEET

The first offset to Santa Rita has reached the depth of 750 feet according to authentic reports received here yesterday. Water seems to be delaying drilling, however, this is bailed and cased.

The Santa Rita continues to make its daily flow and is making an estimated 100 barrels per day. It is reported that the derrick is completed for the second offset and that drilling will start first of the week.—Big Lake News.

New Test Well for Scurry County.

Scurry County is to get another test for oil. Corsicana oil men are to make the test. The information is that this well will be drilled 4 1-2 miles northwest of the Lou-Tex well. This is to be a shallow well, as they expect to secure production at 1800 feet or less.

Oil News

The drill at the Hull well is going around the 650-foot level, but it is expected that owing to more cave-in material having been encountered, more casing will have to be set.

Drilling out the bridge in the Cushing well is nearly completed. When cleaned, and if oil in paying quantities does not show up, another shot will be given around the 3800-foot level. In the meantime, it is the plan of the company to complete the Sparkman well at an early date.

Drilling at the McCarley is temporarily suspended. The offset well of Santa Rita is being rushed, and the drillers expect to finish within the next sixty days.—Sterling City News-Record.

To Turn in Fire Alarm

Turning in a fire alarm; phone Central and ask her to turn in an alarm, stating that there is a fire on such and such a street—giving number of house if possible—and name of owner or occupants of property.

If all will remember this and phone Central promptly when a fire is noted—a big saving in property will result—as oftentimes the fire can be quickly extinguished if the fire department is given a chance to fight the fire before the blaze gets too great a start. Don't call for any number—just phone Central.

GOOD TOWNS BUILT; NOT ACCIDENTS

Do Our Citizens Want Big Spring to be a City or a Country Town Always

Some one was telling the other day of a lady who had planned to spend $20,000 in buying a home. She had practically arranged to purchase a certain fine house in a well known town that could be named. But just before the deal was completed, she came out to make a final survey.

As she got out at the railroad station, her notice fell specially upon an ugly building near the tracks. Its decadent and uncared for appearance grated on her sharply. It haunted her all day. It made her sore on the whole town.

She was a woman who had a fine circle of friends among gifted and artistic people, and one of her purposes in buying the home was to have a place where she could entertain freely. It came over her that every time one of her visitors came to the city, and had to be met at that railroad station, that friend would gain the first impression of the place from that ugly building. An explanation would have to be made each time as to how it happened to stand there and why people allowed such an eye-sore to exist.

The final result was that that woman gave up her plan to purchase property in that city, and went somewhere else. Many might say she acted in a foolish manner, that wherever she went she would find excrescences and some degree of neglect that would be unpleasant.

She argues however that there must be some lack of public spirit in that community, or they would not let an ugly building occupy such a conspicuous position.

The public spirited of that town could have better afforded to have bought up that property and improved it, rather than allow such a desirable resident to be turned away. While cases like this may be somewhat exceptional, it is constantly happening that people turn away from a town or a street as a place of residence, because the buildings look decadent, and give a bad impression of the character of the community and the people. This is merely a local suggestion.—Carlsbad Argus.

Buy Athans Tailoring Business

J. B. Hodges Sr. on last Saturday closed a deal for the purchase of the J. Athans tailoring establishment, cleaning and dyeworks. This establishment is located at the corner of Main and East Third street and is one of the largest establishments of its kind in West Texas.

John Hodges Jr. is to be the manager of this establishment and Mr. Athans will be with him a week or two to acquaint him with the business.

Mr. Athans disposed of this business to prepare himself for the ministry, and expects to move his family to Fort Worth next month, where he will enter a seminary to study for same.

COMMUNITY PARK TO BE OPENED

The City Federation Will Open New Park With Basket Picnic Friday, August 24th

On Friday afternoon, August 24, from 5:30 to 7:30 an old fashioned family basket picnic will be in order at the City Park, which the City Federation has leased, and has begun to improve. An active arrangements committee has been at work the past two weeks, and the park will be lighted, seats arranged and swings erected for use of little folks. Let all Big Spring turn out at our formal opening. Bring a big basket of lunch and the entire family. There will possibly be music. For two hours let us have a good time and a good supper, after which we may repair to the tabernacle for a good sermon to prove a fitting "end of a perfect day."

The Federation from time to time will add playground equipment and otherwise improve our newest venture. The Park, under the Parrish ownership, has always been open to the public, but since the Federation has leased the site, it will be fitted up appropriately for a public pleasure resort that we may enjoy the year round. Let all Big Spring and Howard County feel that it is "our park," and enjoy it to the utmost. Any help in making it more comfortable or attractive will be greatly appreciated.

Remember opening day, August 24 at 5:30 p. m. till 7:30 p. m. Bring your baskets and come.

Memorial Services for Pres. Harding

Memorial Services were held at the tabernacle in this city at 3 o'clock last Friday afternoon to pay a last tribute of love and respect to our deceased president, Warren G. Harding.

This service was one of the many held at the same hour throughout our land to express our grief upon the passing of the head of our nation. Though the business houses of our city, with few exceptions, closed from one to six o'clock Friday afternoon, the attendance was rather small—much smaller than it should have been.

The following program was observed:

Song, "The Star Spangled Banner."
Scripture Reading—Rev. Ben Hardy.
Song, "Rock of Ages."
Prayer—Rev. Geo. J. Ruth.
Song, "Kindly Light."
Address—Rev. W. L. Shepherd.
Song, "America."
Benediction—Rev. Hardy.
Rev. Shepherd made a splendid talk in which he stated, "That, now that he is gone, the Nation as a whole is beginning to appreciate Warren G. Harding at his real worth. He was a great executive, a great statesman and a great patriot. A man of infinite patience, of unbounding charity, and of unflinching courage. He was a plain, quiet Christian gentleman and one who loved his fellowman—and it was but fitting that we meet to pay a tribute to his memory—he was our president regardless of the fact that he may have been of a different faith politically."

LIKES HOWARD COUNTY BEST

Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Musgrove returned the latter part of last week from an extended visit through South and Central West Texas. At Lockhart he visited a sister he had not seen in over thirty years. He says if you are dissatisfied with Howard County, all you need to do is to take a trip back to any part of the state and he guarantees you will return home thoroughly convinced that you live in the best county in Texas.

He says that the corn crop is already burnt up, and he never saw a field of cotton on the entire trip—and he traveled twenty days without stopping more than two days at any one place, that would make over a third of a bale to the acre and in many localities it would require ten acres to produce one bale of cotton. The land in question was valued at from $100 to $200 per acre, but Mr. Musgrove will not trade his Howard County land—for any he saw.

Miss Vivian Roberts of San Antonio returned with them for a visit.

Advise Fire Alarm System

Two years ago the State Fire Insurance Commission of Texas issued this warning to Big Spring, August 8, 1921: "The absence of an approved fire alarm system subjects your city to the menace of a conflagration, owing to the fact that before the fire department could be mobilized, a fire of somewhat insignificant proportions might gain considerable headway and to this end we strongly recommend the installation of an approved electric fire alarm system; the charge of 5 cents in key rate will be eliminated if this system is installed in strict accordance with the requirements of the National Board of Underwriters."

T. E. L. Class Meeting

The T. E. L. class of the First Baptist Church held its monthly social and business meeting Friday, Aug. 10 in the church auditorium.

Mrs. K. S. Beckett, teacher of the class, had charge of the meeting. After the class song and a bible reading Mrs. Richardson gave a memorial prayer in keeping of the day. We had with us as special visitors: Mrs. Kirby Beckett of El Paso, Mrs. J. P. Warren, of Merkel, mother of Mrs. Beckett; Mrs. Hatch of Lorena, mother of Mrs. R. T. Piner; and Mrs. S. H. Morrison, the latter giving us a delightful and interesting talk of her summer's trip thru Yellowstone Park and showing pictures of places of interest she visited. Mrs. Warren spoke on the system of the Merkel Sunday school, which is the banner Sunday school of the state. Mrs. Kirby Beckett told us of the Junior congregation which is being organized in the larger churches of the state and is a plan to induce the younger people to attend church.

After these interesting talks they adjourned to basement and were served by the hostesses of the afternoon: Mesdames Wynn, O'Brien, King and Lewis, to lovely refreshments.

During the summer months the T. E. L. class has kept up good attendance and our business and social meetings have been full of interest. On one of these occasions we had a housekeeping party, each lady bringing some suggestion for making household duties easier. At another meeting we had as a special guest, Mrs. Hatch of Lorena, teacher of the T. E. L. class there. We greatly enjoyed the talk she gave and hearing of the work done by the ladies of her class.

Our class is now beginning a new year and will be glad to extend a welcome to all young matrons of Big Spring who can possibly attend.

The newly elected officers of the class are: Mrs. Will Bly, president; Mrs. J. P. Dodge, vice president; Mrs. Robt. Piner, 2nd vice president; Mrs. George Brown, 3rd vice president; Mrs. L. King, secretary and treasurer; Mrs. T. C. Cory, reporter.

Romantic Picture With Many Thrills

Sweeping from the rolling hills and blue grass estates of old Kentucky to the shipyard dens New York and then to the rocky promontories of an island off the coast of faraway China "The Kentucky Derby," unrolls a thrilling and romantic breadth of action on the screen of the Lyric Theatre, Monday and Tuesday, Aug. 20 and 21.

The action is of the romantic, adventurous type. If Sir Walter Scott were alive today, one could suspect him of having written it. As an actual fact Charles T. Dazey wrote the stage play from which it was adapted and George Hull made the screen adaptation.

"Human Hearts" marked King Baggot as one of the screen's greatest artists in the direction of super-features and "The Kentucky Derby" follows "Human Hearts" in Baggot's career as an effort consistent with the previous achievement and yet of a marked difference in character. Where "Human Hearts" was an epic of the simple country life, "The Kentucky Derby" is a romantic tale of wide reaching adventure, centered, of course, about the great turf classic.

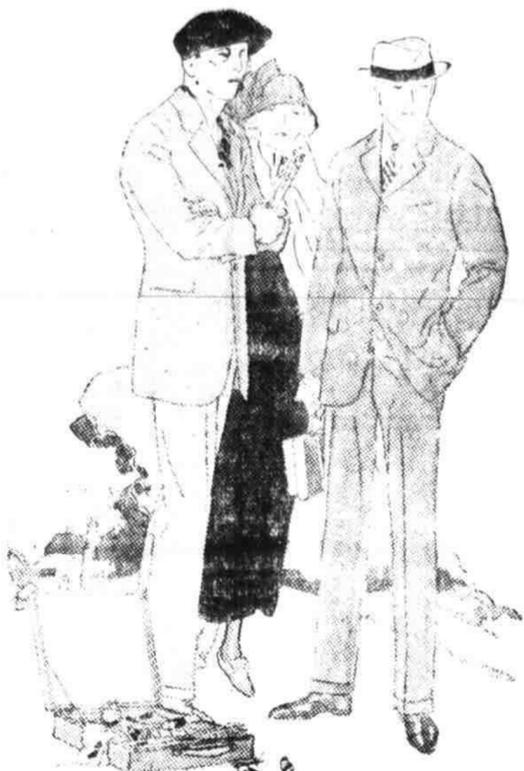

Universal did not attempt to film "The Kentucky Derby" in the usual disguised California atmosphere, but staged it right where the action lay, principally in Kentucky. Scenes meant to be on a faraway Pacific island were staged, not in Chinese territory, of course, but nevertheless on a Pacific island.

Reginald Denny, Universal's star of "The Leather Pushers," has the chief masculine character. Lillian Rich, Lionel Belmore, Emmett King, Gertrude Astor, Walter McGrail, Wilfred Lucas, Kingsley Benedict, Harry Carter, Pat Harmon, Bert Woodruff, Bert Tracy, Anna Hernandez and Verne Winter have the principal roles.

Lawn Party

One of the most delightful parties of the summer was the lawn party given to the Christian Endeavor society at the home of J. R. Creath last Saturday night. The party, which was given as a farewell to Asa (Dock) Howell, took the form of a "four square" entertainment. In the beginning of the evening four captains were selected whose sides as for an old fashioned spelling match. Each side composed a yell for their color and these yells were the signal for much laughter when given lustily, before the judges, Mesdames Russell, Earley and Ruth, the winning scores were marked up on a blackboard placed conveniently on the porch. Jolly stunts, carrying out the "four-square" idea, followed one another in quick succession, probably the merriest of these being a game called "four-square" baseball played with red, blue, white and yellow sacks of rice.

A Columbia graphanola on the lawn furnished music during the evening. When the score was counted, it was found the yellows with Dock as leader, had won. With elaborate ceremony this side was awarded the prize, "a genuine silver loving cup," which when unwrapped proved to be a genuine shining cup but not silver.

Cake was served cafeteria style from a "four-square" table on the lawn and Mildred and Evelyn Creath and Mattie Lou Brown handed around ice cream cones as long as anyone could be prevailed upon to "take another."

Just before leaving the guests gathered about the piano and sang: "We're sorry you're going away. We wish that you would stay. We know we shall miss you. We wish we could kiss you. We're sorry you're going away."

Those attending the party were: Oma Maxfield, Leola Owen, Loma Smith, Janice Pickle, Essie Bradley, Pearl Earley, Louise Weeg, Dorothy and Mattie Lou Brown, Ida Mae Haller, Mariam Purser, Minnie Morgan, Helen, Mildred and Evelyn Creath, Tom Rosson, Louise Owens, Joe and Garland Earley, Dock Howell, Horace Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Ruth, Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Dunn, Mrs. Russell, Mrs. Earley and Mr. and Mrs. Creath.

If it's the will of the majority of our citizens that Big Spring is to go backward—that we are to do without a sewer system, adequate fire protection and other things; because it may cost a little—we can take our medicine with as good grace as the rest of you. Of course we would like to see the old town keep moving forward, even though at a slow pace, but if you folks had rather sit down and refuse to help push, there's no use of a few worrying. We have always favored majority rule and if the majority of Big Spring folks are ready to throw up the sponge, there's nothing else to do.

A Hard Job

Twenty thousand cartloads of stones were picked up and hauled away by J. P. Jakobsson-Elmqvist in clearing land for his farm in Sweden. So no one objects to his winning this year's prize of the Swedish Agricultural Association.

We'll call him Jake for short.

In 1895 he took three acres that no one else wanted; it was such a rock pile. Patiently he set to work, digging up the boulders. Finally he had the stones all removed and the soil bearing crops. Gradually, with profits saved from his harvests, he bought more rock piles. Now he has 80 acres, 10 devoted to crops which support him and his family, and 70 acres of forest which he planted.

Jake used his 20,000 cartloads of stones to build a beautiful wall around his farm and a fine highway along one side.

He and his wife can take things more easily now, for their nine children—whose living was wrested from as hopeless-a-looking strip of land as can be found almost anywhere—now are assisting in the work.

How many men would have the patience and the confidence in their own efforts to attempt the task undertaken by Jake back in 1895?

His success demonstrates that success is largely up to the individual himself, that no handicap is too big to be overcome, that man can create his own opportunity.

The story of Jake's life is enough to make some of the rest of us ashamed of ourselves when we grumble or become discouraged at our lot, though we have easy sledding compared with Jake.

Will power can overcome the lack of opportunity.

A city man, living a relatively soft existence, can't help but marvel at what Jake has accomplished. And yet Jake's career is symbolic of what farmers are doing all over the world, especially the pioneers at the outskirts of civilization.

Respect the farmers, you city chaps, for they are the foundation stones of civilization and carrying a tremendous burden. Considering the financial reward they get most of the time, in comparison with metropolitan income, it's a wonder most of them aren't anarchists. The champion agitators and complainers, however, are city loafers who never did an honest day's work.

The New President

The qualities and the characteristics which Calvin Coolidge brings to the great office which is now his are known to us of Massachusetts. Especially is this so here in the western end of the State, where, following his college days at Amherst, his friends and neighbors have watched the progress in the path of public service which began with his election to Northampton's City Council less than twenty-five years ago. We have seen him as Mayor, as a member and president of our Massachusetts Senate, and Lieutenant Governor and as Governor in the anxious days of Boston's police strike. We know that the country will find him dignified in his simplicity, thoughtful and cautious in word and act, firm when his decisions are made and moved throughout by a profound sense of public duty.

To predict how the new President will meet the special problems before him, involving as they do economic and political conditions, both at home and abroad, would today be beyond the powers of Calvin Coolidge himself, even if he could for an hour be won away from his caution and reticence. But with President Harding's last appeal and argument for our participation in the World Court still fresh in mind, this much at least may be said with propriety and certainty: Not less than the dead chief whom he now succeeds is President Coolidge devoted to the cause of international peace and the honorable adjustment or prevention of international difficulties.

Not fearing "to be called a demagogue," but refusing "to be one," not hesitating to be "as revolutionary as science" nor to be "as reactionary as the multiplication table"—adhering to these and the other rules of speech and action which Calvin Coolidge urged upon the Massachusetts Senate in his now famous address in January, 1923, may he prosper and be wise as the leader of the people!—Springfield Republican.

Things are going from bad to worse in Europe and there is no telling what will be the final outcome. England and France are now snapping at each others throats.

Paint in small cans for any purpose. . . . Cunningham & Philips.

Consolidation of Railroads

Article 3.—Arguments for and against Consolidation of Railways
In the preceding article I have called attention to the problem of the competitors in the same territory. Congress called upon the Interstate Commerce Commission to consolidate these properties so that each strong road would be given its due proportion of weak properties, so that rates could be prescribed which would bring a fair return to the roads as a system. For many months, the Interstate Commerce Commission has been working on this problem of putting the weak roads with the strong. It has found its task almost insuperably difficult. For example, in the Northeast, there are three huge systems that have grown up through the years—the New York Central, the Pennsylvania, and the Baltimore & Ohio. The other roads of the Northeast are relatively much weaker than these three systems, with a few exceptions. To place all the railroads of the Northeast in three systems would perhaps be necessary if the mandate of Congress were obeyed to the letter; that is, that the strong and weak roads should be actually put together. But that would make three systems so large that operating officials are skeptical as to the wisdom of attempting to do so. Moreover, consolidation is voluntary, and it is hard to conceive how it could be otherwise, for it would be very difficult to compel a railroad to buy another railroad. A man may be compelled to sell his property for public use, but we have as yet no law to compel a man to buy what he does not want. Now it has appeared from the hearings that the New York Central does not care to buy the weak roads paralleling it. The same is true of the Pennsylvania and the Baltimore & Ohio.

When we come west of the Mississippi River we get a similar situation. The strong railroads of the West like the Union Pacific and the Hill lines, the Southern Pacific, and the Santa Fe are not very desirous of taking on hundreds and even thousands of miles of property that have not been able to earn a living. We have in the Southwest a number of railroads that from time to time have been in the hands of receivers. It is true that much of the financial difficulties have been due to their being overcapitalized. But financially weak they are, piling up deficits from month to month and from year to year and passing through one bankruptcy proceeding after another. Congress had in mind that such properties would be consolidated with the financially strong systems. But it appears to be very difficult to interest the strong competitors in taking over these weak non-dividend paying and frequently bankrupt railroads. Consequently the tentative proposal put out by the Interstate Commerce Commission in August, 1921 to provoke criticism and thought, contains several systems made up almost entirely of financially weak roads. There are such systems in the Northeast, in the Southeast, in the West and particularly in the Southwest. The so-called systems 18 and 19 of the tentative plan, the consolidation of the Frisco, the Katy, and the Cotton Belt into one system, and of the old Gould lines into the Missouri Pacific system, furnish examples of the difficulties which are actually met in consolidating these roads. Since the Commission evidently was not able to get any assurance from the strong systems that they would take over all of these Southwest lines, these lines have been treated individually and consolidated into two relatively local and competing systems composed of financially weak properties. A strong chain cannot be made up of weak links. A strong system can hardly be constituted of financially weak properties.

Cotton Market Takes Note of Drouth

In the literal sense at least, it may be true, as is stated in a dispatch from New York, that the advance that has taken place in the price of cotton during the last four or five days has "added $176,000,000 to the total value of the crop." It is certainly true, if the calculation is correct. But the crop to whose value this addition has been made had itself been prospectively reduced in size by the drouth, so that the advance in price merely recoups for the farmers a loss which they had previously sustained. It is something, therefore, that should console rather than reprove the farmers. It shifts from them to the wearers of cotton goods the toll which the weather has taken of their labor. The price advance which yields them a net profit is one that is caused by an increase in the prospective demand, and not one that is caused by a decrease in the prospective supply. There is a disposition to make the price of a commodity the index of the farmer's fortune. Of itself, it isn't. It has to be considered in relation to the quantity of the commodity that he will probably be able to bring to market.

It is worth remarking, parenthetically, that the drouth's quick effect on prices would not have been possible if there were no speculative market for cotton. There are those who say the price of wheat would not be so low as it is if speculative trading in that commodity were as free as it is in cotton. That is not a self-evident proposition, nor one that can be proved or disproved. But it is a debatable one, and is worthy of some consideration. Speculation results from a difference of opinion as to the relation of a prospective supply to a prospective demand. A speculator is successful in the degree that he correctly guesses, estimates or calculates the relation of those two unknown quantities. It is to his interest, therefore, whether he is speculating on the bear or bull side of the market, to ascertain the fact with the greatest approximation possible. Hence, if the desire of the producers is to have the value of their products determined by the law of supply and demand, they have a motive of self-interest for insisting that the politicians keep their hands off the speculators. To say that the speculators have done more for the farmers than the politicians have would be a harsh judgment, and also a false judgment. But as a means of emphasizing the idea that the speculators do not deserve the esteem which the farmers have been taught to feel for them, the statement may be allowed to stand. —Dallas News.

Lloyd George's Visit

Lloyd George modestly asserts that his trip to Canada and the United States in October is to be largely for the purpose of "self-education with regard to America." Perhaps it would be juster to say that its object is to round out his knowledge of the country, for it appears from his itinerary that he is already pretty well informed on American affairs.

Thus he desires to "visit two or three of the smaller 'Main Street' towns," and to motor from Springfield, Ill., with its Lincoln associations, to Indianapolis, with the idea of "viewing a typical farm region." He is "particularly eager" to get personally acquainted with the great Middle West. He intends to see the battlefields over which Lee and Stonewall Jackson fought. Kansas City, which he considers "the real heart" of the country, is on his list; Pittsburgh, "because it is the center of an American community of fellow-Welshmen, and Scranton, which has the largest proportional Welch population of any city in America." Were Americans themselves generally aware of these distinguishing characteristics of the two Pennsylvania cities?

The former British premier apparently will see "the States" to some purpose as knowing in advance what is best worth seeing. That is not always the case with visiting celebrities from abroad who view the country from car windows. Some of Lloyd George's appraisals of American sights are perhaps a little old-fashioned. Greenwich Village and Broadway do not seem to be on his list. But at any rate he knows the substantial. —New York World.

Where Do You Strike Matches?

It has not been long now since America proudly, solemnly, reverently brought home the ashes of the Unknown Soldier and placed them at rest in Arlington Cemetery amid scenes which awoke the hearts of a whole people to old exaltations, old wounds and old sacrifices. It was an occasion of dedication. America renewed her vows, paid homage to her loyal dead and arose from her knees with the light of a freshened faith in her eyes. But that was yesterday. Today vandal tourists come into Arlington grounds and strike matches on the tomb of the Unknown whilst gum-chewers snap kodak exposures of them in the act. And the match-striker, the gum-chewer and the sleeper underneath that simple slab of marble—all are Americans. It does not seem possible. Yet it is so.

Go into the most splendid public building to be found in the land, and you will find the mark of matches on plaster and carvings, on varnish and alabaster, pedestal and stairway. It makes no difference where. Wherever the impulse for a "light" can seize upon a man, there you will find also the enduring evidence of his selfish destructive carelessness. Those who would not think of wantonly slashing at hangings or deliberately destroying a handsome stained window will deface a wall or scar an exquisite panel of woodwork without so much as a thought for the ravages they wreck.

It is so American, so distressingly American, to let the petty wants of the moment mar the enjoyment of all lovers of beauty who are to come after us. Indeed, when we make our last journey here below and continue it in our first into the beyond we shall know the pearly gates on high—if so be any Americans have gone before us to knock there—for as surely as St. Peter is a trifle slow of foot in opening to the knocks without, so surely will some new arrival from the U. S. A. fish a match from his vest pocket and leave the mark of it upon the tablets supernal that lead to the of gold.—Dallas News.

In a little, lamp-lighted room in the isolated Vermont hills, a young, collarless old farmer—a back-country notary public—administered a solemn oath to a young man, his own son.

By that oath the greatest power of the greatest earth was transferred from the old man that had yielded to death to the young man, his own son.

The simplicity of it, the power of it, the steadiness of it, the purity of it and the drama, are awe-inspiring. Only a strong, solid, stable, rooted system of government can be party and witness to such a thing.

We ought to know, by other scenes in other parts of the world, that we are well off.—World Press.

The Pull-Together Wins

Lubbock on the Plains today is rejoicing with becoming modesty the congratulations of its recent rivals on its selection as the home of the Texas Technological College. It is a worthy victory, and a worthy testimonial to the natural advantages and the fine cooperation of the South Plains people whose united efforts were devoted to bringing the prize to their favored city.

It is in this manner, we believe, that Lubbock was advanced most favorably in the considerations of the locating board. All of the other towns, we do not doubt, possess good land, as good climate, as abundant and accessible water, and many of them as great and greater transportation advantages than does Lubbock. But Lubbock was able to campaign on a wider community interest. Lubbock asked for the college on behalf of the entire South Plains, and Lubbock received the active support of dozens of South Plains towns that might have been with propriety, candidates themselves. Cooperation, as usual, was able to make the most appealing showing, and the college goes to the South Plains.

The hearty good will displayed by the "listeners" representing a large number of the other towns seeking the college when the selection of Lubbock was announced in Fort Worth Wednesday afternoon was a capitulation with honor. The other towns lost, but they lost as they had fought nobly—Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

Most of us are too busy to go out of our way to make visitors feel that we are interested in them. We heard one citizen, who should be a real booster for our tourist auto camp, say he had never visited it to meet and welcome the tourists who might be camped there. Have you ever taken time to do so? Remember it is these little courtesies that count nothing that give your town a good name. Treat the tourists like they were real folks and they will remember your town and come this way again. You can well remember the places where you were shown courtesies when you were making your auto trip.

His Life a Success

Consider "Pop" Bowler! "Pop" is... or was... an engineer on the Pennsylvania Railroad. He traveled one million seven hundred and forty-six thousand miles during fifty years of continuous service, without accident, loss of life, or injury to anyone in his charge. For the past ten years he has been engineer of the Congressional Limited between New York and Washington.

Now "Pop" is retired. He looks back on a lifetime of modest and unassuming achievement, and tells his friends happily of his boys and girls, college men, and successful wives, of his well-to-do estate, and his willingness to bow to the rule of the road which puts an age limit on engineers.

The odd, the encouraging, the beautiful part of the story is the amount of space "Pop" has received in the newspapers. For "Pop" committed no crimes, figured in no scandals, made no large amount of money, did nothing politically, founded no universities, did nothing that gets people space in newspapers except live an honest, upright, manly, patriotic, American life, doing his best, just a little better than the other fellow, being faithful to his trust, achieving the greatest success possible in his profession. Yet what he has done has been enough to get columns of space.

And that is beautiful, for the newspapers reflect the public desires, just as much when they tell a story like this as when they give news of a prize fight or a scandal.

"Pop" Bowler has a 100 per cent record as engineer, as father and as citizen. But perhaps not the least of his achievements is one he never knew he had accomplished until retirement brought him into the limelight; that of supplying a fine lesson for his fellow men, and an example of which even newspaper editors... least sentimental people that be... were quick to see the beauty and the romance.

615,000 Oil Wells Drilled Since 1859

According to a compilation just completed, 615,000 wells have been drilled for oil and gas in the United States since the beginning of the industry in 1859. Were all the derricks represented by these wells standing at the present time, they would comprise a veritable Black Forest of timber and steel. The investment in material and labor going into these wells runs into billions of dollars of capital privately invested.

Of the oil wells completed some produced a million or several million barrels each. Some produced only a few barrels and were scarcely more profitable than dry holes. Some produced for years, some for months, some for weeks, some for a few days and some for only a few hours. Some blew in as great gushers and were "flowing" wells. Some were "pumpers" without any gas or other pressure to create a flow. Some had to be "shot" with dynamite before they would produce at all. Some were mere "showings" and yielded oil only by means of artificial stimulation. Some of the great gushers flowed for brief periods and became meek "pumpers."

The leadership of the United States in petroleum is not told by a mere comparison of production statistics which reveals that it is producing 64 per cent of the world's oil, unless thought is given to the relative magnitude of the field work necessary to achieve this production. America has about 280,000 producing oil wells at the present time. Few foreign countries have 1,000 producing wells each. The average of production of all the wells in the United States is less than five barrels a day.

Mexico developed a production one-third as great as that of the United States with less than 500 producing wells.

According to latest reports there are about four cent thousand producers of oil in the United States, consisting of individuals, partnerships and companies. Among these are many legitimate "wildcaters" who discover new pools in unproven territory, not in the haphazard way of the old days but in scientific operation and well planned, but expensive, development campaigns.

The records show that persons or companies seeking production are at present drilling 5,700 wells. In 1922 they completed 24,000 wells, involving an expenditure of over half a billion dollars.

As to Immigration

Periodically some one arises to demand that we close our doors to immigration. They think we already have enough foreigners in this country.

Others are loud in their demands that we let down the bars and allow them to flock in by droves. They need a certain illiterate class to work in steel mills, where it is difficult to induce a native American to labor.

Both are right in one way and wrong in another.

We do have too many foreigners in this country, of a certain stripe. They are the agitators who are always "against the government," wherever they may be. We should be getting rid of such gentry instead of multiplying the number in our midst.

Without the negro to work its cotton and other plantations the south would be seriously handicapped, if not in desperate straits.

The same applies to the great steel mills and kindred industries. They are dependent upon a class of labor that is extremely difficult to obtain among our own people. Hence in their extremity they turn to the immigrant, whose past life fits him for such work.

The duty of congress is to admit such foreigners as are actually in demand for legitimate purposes, but to restrict such admission to people who are able to prove by their past lives that they are law abiding and peaceable people who would conform to the laws and customs of our country.

Our immigration doors should be closed, barred and padlocked against the agitator and his whole brood.

W. J. Crawford is willing to wager that the Big Spring section is a natural grape country. On Monday he gathered from a single grape vine at his home in the Cole and Stray, horn addition five heaping bushels of grapes. He states that an additional bushel had been on the vine but the birds had exacted a heavy toll. He said other folks should try a few grape vines around their home.

Since the majority of us expect to make our home in Big Spring permanently, we might just as well join hands and make it the kind of a city we would like to live in. We can have some of the conveniences many other cities enjoy if we but so decide. We can't live always, so why not enjoy life a little more pleasantly as we go along.

Leave It To Congress

Uncle Sam's budget experts explain how came that surprising three hundred million dollar surplus of June 30, 1923. The receipts were, in round numbers, 790 millions more than estimated and the expenditures 360 millions less.

To put it in other words: They took 790 millions more out of us than they thought they could and spent 360 millions less of our money than they thought they would.

But cheer up! Congress won't let that surplus hurt us any. — Fort Worth Press.

Folks are beginning to come to the Big Spring section seeking homes and the number will increase considerably from now on.

The handsome new home of Clyde E. Thomas on East Third Street was completed last week and the family are now occupying same.

J. W. Shive of Coahoma was here last Friday to attend the memorial services at the tabernacle in which our folks paid a last tribute to our honored president, Warren G. Harding.

Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Edwards, Mrs. Patterson mother of Mrs. Edwards, Will Knox Edwards and family and Marion Edwards and family returned last week from a fishing trip on the San Saba river and report a delightful time.

Our neighbor city on the southeast, Sterling City, on Saturday, August 4th, voted a $50,000 bond issue for a new school building. This is the spirit of West Texas and Sterling will never regret this great gift to the men and women of tomorrow.

The Ford Motor Company will soon contract for $7,000,000 of advertising to be placed in newspapers and other publications in all parts of the country during the coming year. Mr. Ford has long since learned that even a going concern needs to keep advertising.

The City Council at their meeting Tuesday night authorized Jess Heffernan, in charge of the auto fire engine, to employ a mechanic to assist him in thoroughly overhauling the fire engine. A truck will be equipped to serve as a hose cart while the fire engine is being repaired.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Garrett of Lubbock, her mother Mrs. Arch Davis and Miss Grace Davis formerly of Longview, Texas, were here last week enroute for an auto trip to points South. We are informed that J. M. Garrett, who was formerly identified with the W. J. Garrett Dry Goods store in Lubbock, is seeking a location to engage in business.

DeMolay Ceremonial

On Friday, August 31, Gainesville will be host to hundreds of members of the Order of DeMolay from all portions of the state on the occasion of the Texas DeMolay Get-Together Ceremonial. The program for this event includes degree ceremonies of both DeMolays and Rainbows, a mammoth parade headed by the Gainesville DeMolay band, patrol contests, addresses by prominent DeMolay officials, banquet, swimming party, band concerts and other activities.

Preparations have been made to take care of 800 visitors, and the registrations are coming in from all portions of the state, according to George T. Atkins, chairman of registrations. Much interest is being shown in the patrol contests and a silver loving cup is being offered for the best showing made by a visiting patrol. One of the most interesting events will be the concert by Gainesville's famous 147 piece Boys' Band, the largest musical organization in the southwest.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Cardwell returned Monday from a visit with relatives at Wichita Falls. Mrs. Cardwell's sister, Mrs. B. J. Scarborough of Pittsburg, Okla., accompanied them home for a week's visit. Mr. Cardwell states that he returned home better satisfied than ever with old Howard County. He made the trip to Wichita Falls in his automobile, had ample opportunity to study crop conditions and asserts that at no point along the route did he find crops to compare with ours. In fact Howard County looks like a garden spot compared to the greater part of the territory he passed thru. He said that for a distance of approximately one hundred and fifty miles the feed crop was almost a total failure and that the cotton crop was suffering from the dry and hot weather. He said some of our folks who are displeased with conditions here should take a trip and get permanently cured.

Ted Smith and wife of West, Texas, arrived last Friday for a visit with his uncle J. M. Bates and family. Mr. Smith states that he finds the crops here better than in any section he has passed thru between here and McLennan County. It even surpasses his river bottom crop. He states that the trip has educated him and when he can dispose of his farm he is thru raising cotton on $150-acre land, when he can come to West Texas and produce as much and better cotton on land that can be secured at one-fifth that price.

It was certainly a splendid spirit which prompted the Colorado Band to home to Big Spring on last Thursday and furnish music for the City Federation's Ice Cream Supper. Their coming was indeed appreciated, not only by the members of the City Federation, but by our entire citizenship, and the fine program rendered was thoroughly enjoyed.

Less Thomas is having a three-room cottage with bath and sleeping porch, erected on the 600 block on Gregg street. Mr. Thomas is building this to help take care of the new home-seekers that are moving to our city.

City Federation Notes

The Ice Cream Festival and Band concert on the courthouse lawn last Friday night was a very delightful affair. It was another of those get-together, community gatherings of which Big Spring has all too few and which the Federation is anxious to promote more frequently. The Colorado Band made us a neighborly visit and gave a fine concert, every number of which was thoroughly enjoyed. The Federation is most grateful to the band for coming and so generously giving this splendid concert. A committee of Federation ladies with Miss Barnes as chairman, provided a dainty lunch at the "Y" for the members of the band and the ladies who accompanied them. The Federation is also grateful to Mr. H. R. Debenport for making their announcements on this occasion and especially for drawing up for them gratis a contract for the Park.

The ladies of the City Federation are delighted to announce that they have secured a lease on the beautiful grove belonging to J. T. Parrish and it is now open to the public for park purposes. Drinking water will always be provided and soon it will be electrically lighted and there will be seats and swings, and gradually many things will be added to make of it an up-to-date park. Mr. Parrish expects, before another season, to remove the barn and cow lot, which now somewhat mar the entrance to the park. On Friday afternoon, August 24th at 5:30 o'clock the whole community is cordially invited to come to the new Park and enjoy a picnic in honor of its opening. Let everyone bring a full basket and make it a jolly time of rejoicing because of our good fortune in securing this beautiful spot for community use.

Remember the date, August 24th, at 5:30 in the evening.

Cotton Seed to be in Demand

Judging from the present outlook cotton seed is going to be in big demand at planting time in 1924.

According to all reports this section of the state is going to produce the best cotton and naturally the best cotton seed.

The members of the Howard County Farm Labor Union purchased for planting this year, about 4,000 bushels of pedigreed Mebane cotton seed, and the seed from this planting should be saved for seed that will be needed throughout the state of Texas. A move should be made by the Farm Labor Union at once to conserve this seed. It's too valuable to be sent to the oil mills; and is going to be needed in other sections of the state. Every agency should be utilized to enable this seed to be saved so that farmers in other sections of Texas will not have to plant inferior seed in 1924.

If the drought continues throughout Texas and Oklahoma, good cotton seed will be worth almost as much as cotton, and special efforts should be put forth to save pure seed from the pedigreed Mebane cotton planted here.

Every bolt and bar made of the toughest steel that science can produce; every piece of metal put there for a special purpose with ample reserve strength to withstand the most unusual strain; and every drop of kerosene that goes into the tank transformed into power—that is the Fordson Tractor.

Whether it is required to drag the implements of agriculture across the fields or to turn the wheels of stationary machines, the Fordson will do all that is claimed for it and more.

We will gladly demonstrate to you this the most powerful tractor for its size on the market.

Economy in some instances is well and good and in some cases it is criminal—especially when some are going to be heavily penalized. A few dollars means more to some than the health of our citizens. Protecting property against needless hazards is more important than saving a few dollars today.

It seems that Big Spring can't do a thing—poor old burg. We might lighten the load by selling our water system to a private corporation. We are satisfied they could make it pay. Then, too, we might get a private concern to install a needed sewer system in our city, since we seem unable to secure one, even though our citizens voted for same.
