4-H CLAIMS 23 MILLION ALUMNI, HONORS MANY Awards Program In 10th Year

The 4-H Clubs of America can claim the largest alumni of any co-educational youth organization in the world.

Today's former 4-H members number nearly 23 million men and women, according to the Federal Extension Service. They can be found in virtually every rural community and in cities as well.

Within the next decade, an even larger number will reside in suburban towns and big cities because 4-H is rapidly extending into these areas as the farm population continues to shrink. The latest U. S. census reports the smallest farm population in history in proportion to the entire population. About one person in 12 resides on a farm.

Awards Given

The national 4-H Alumni Recognition program was launched just 10 years ago when 4-H grads numbered around 15 million. Its purpose is to inspire today's youth by citing men and women who credit 4-H with making a valuable contribution to the success and satisfaction of their lives.

Award sponsorship of this unique 4-H program was undertaken at its inception by Olin Mathieson Chemical Corporation, Chemicals Division - Agricultural, of Little Rock, Ark. The Cooperative Extension Service supervises selection of award nominees.

Since 1953, the national gold alumni key has been presented to 80 men and women from 35 states. Several thousand have gained county and state recognition and awards. They represent occupations or professions ranging from homemaker to astronaut.

Candidates may be nominated by anyone. Nomination forms can be obtained at the County Extension office. A judging committee then selects two individuals who best measure up to standards set for meriting county 4-H alumni certificates.

Plaque to Four From all those receiving county recognition, as many as four can be chosen for the state award. The winners receive a handsome, engraved, burnished copper and walnut plaque.

Eight national award recipients are invited to Chicago to attend the National 4-H Club Congress as guests of Olin Mathieson. Each is presented with the 4-H alumni key during the annual alumni banquet attended by 500 national and state 4-H leaders, educators, business officials and other friends of 4-H.

Sisters Bonnie and Margaret Rogers, members of the Six Flags Over Texas guest relations staff, are poised and ready to perform part of their daily duties, which includes the surveying of guests as they leave the Park. The samplings taken enable Six Flags management to assemble statistics which are used in making the magnetic tourist attraction one that is pleasurable to everyone.

ATTENDANCE HITS 200,000 AT SIX FLAGS

As predicted by Angus G. Wynne, Jr., president of Great Southwest Corporation, Six Flags Over Texas has emerged in just its second season of operation as one of the nation's major tourist attractions with attendance to pass the 200,000 mark this week-end.

As of Thursday, June 14, the recorded attendance reached 188,729. This figure was compiled during the 33 days that the 110-acre Park has been in operation since opening April 20. Six Flags, located midway between Dallas and Fort Worth, operated on week-ends only until May 30 and then commenced a daily operating schedule.

Conservative estimates for this week-end (June 15-17) indicate an additional 22,000 visitors, which will boost the total attendance well beyond 200,000 for the season thus far.

Most pleasing to Park officials is the increased number of visitors coming to Six Flags from outside the state.

In a random sampling taken by the Park's Guest Relations Department of 1,000 guests over a 20-day period, it was found that of this number, 14.9 per cent were from beyond the borders of the Lone Star State. This represents an increase of 7 per cent as compared to 1961.

The sampling also indicated that 41 per cent were from Dallas or Tarrant County while 44.1 per cent were from cities in Texas outside of the Dallas-Fort Worth area.

Projecting the 14.9 per cent figure on out-of-state visitors into the heavy tourist months of June, July, August and early September, during which this percentage should increase substantially, Six Flags may draw upwards of 300,000 visitors from outside the state based on an estimated attendance of 1.5 million in 1962.

Mrs. M. M. Morris had Sunday dinner in the G. L. Runyon home.

4-H'ers Tally Year's Work On Dairy Projects

Raising dairy cattle and demonstrating the use of dairy products in meals are popular 4-H Club projects. Hundreds of girls and boys throughout the state, in checking project results, are probably asking themselves the question a prize-winning dairy-maid asked herself.

"Where would I be today if I had not had the opportunity to join 4-H?" According to the youths' own stories, they learn good health habits, accept responsibility and work with others. And they usually profit from their efforts.

The dairy project is open to boys and girls who have one dairy animal or an established herd. Many young dairy members started with a single heifer, and in 10 years or less built a valuable herd.

Of the 134,000 club members in 50 states enrolled in a dairy animal project today, about a third are girls. This ratio held among the six national dairy scholarship winners last year.

Cows Cooperate

The 4-H'ers not only learn how to care for dairy animals, but also adopt proven scientific methods of feeding, milking, marketing and breeding.

Showing and judging cattle are exciting aspects of the dairy program, according to the members. Extension dairy specialists, dairy industry personnel and volunteer club leaders help the young people acquire know-how and skills that will enable them to continue a modern dairy operation.

Seeing Leads to Eating

This year an estimated 200,000 club members from Maine to California are participating in the dairy foods demonstration program.

The "know-how, show-how" project is a favorite of the younger teenagers. Sometimes the girls pair off and work up a team demonstration. Others develop a solo demonstration. Audiences range from a few club members, groups of adults, to television viewers.

Rewards Vary

Among favorite recipes are frosty milk drinks, cottage cheese salads, cakes, sandwich spreads, snacks and party fare. The recipes are double-barreled, youthful meal planners point out, because they are packed with nutrition and good eating.

Each of the 4-H dairy programs has a sponsor that provides incentive awards in the form of medals, wrist watches, educational trips and college scholarships.

This year marks the 15th anniversary of the dairy foods demonstration program sponsorship by the Carnation Company of Los Angeles.

The Oliver Corporation of Chicago, for the sixth straight year, provides the dairy animal program awards.

County, state and national winners are selected by the Cooperative Extension Service, and awards are distributed through the National 4-H Service Committee.
