NOSIN.....
WITH POLLY

Jarvis Angeley, one of the bun throwing Lions members, explained that throwing hot buns is an art, but he explained that only adults should participate in this activity. It relieves the frustration due to uncertain cotton crop conditions. (Times have changed, Papa didn't use to know that).

"JUSTA GOIN"

Buryl Hamilton was asked where he planned to go while on vacation. Buryl answered, "I really don't know, here I am nearly fifty years old and this is the very first time in my life, that I'm starting someplace and didn't know where I was going." (Age does peculiar things).
—nosin—

Carl Taylor and Marshall Kelley I'm told are planning to start a club. Two members is enough anyway for a president and secretary, and after all that's enough. One can talk and set up the policies and the other can record the club's activities, what more could he desire? Their club may not become popular, it'll be known as the "Finger Cutter's Club."

Both Kelley and Taylor became bored with life's day by day sameness, and did something about it. At least their hands didn't match. (Carl's off work this week to, and leading the life of Riley).
—nosin—

Rufus Carter of Lazbuddie came into the office this week to renew his papers. He hadn't received a notice (and never does). He just knows his subscription expires in August. That's his daughter's, Mrs. Gene McClure's birthday, and for five years he has sent his two daughters, Mrs. Duke Baker and Mrs. McClure the paper for their birthdays, and at the same time renews his own.

Mr. Carter believes in Newspaper, his son lives in Muleshoe and he sends the Journal to him. His visits to the office is always appreciated and enjoyed, his kind mannerism makes his visit a pleasant one.
—nosin—

Lion Kilroy is gone from our yard. A place is vacant in our hearts after four weeks as our guest. Needless to say he will be missed. (But Mike Dent, don't feel too sorry for us and bring him back).

Kilroy is a precious little fellow, but we'll put up a stiff struggle to get along without his "bah-bah" and in the meantime, we'll try to repair our screens which are left in tatters.

Kilroy has an unlimited supply of energy always ready to play. He chased everyone who dared cross our lawn. Any guest who got past the goat, got a thorough workout before entering the house. In fact, I think he has possibilities in the capacity of "watchdog." I imagine a burglar would feel tired to do any damage if chased around the house a few times. Goats may someday replace dogs. Goats may someday replace dogs. Men just sorta take their wives home and point to that familiar appliance and say "there's the stove, I'm hungry." (Somehow, though we gals keep an undying desire to hold even second place in their lives).

Mrs. Hamilton planted the Flat Dutch cabbage in late April this year and has grown several 6 lb. cabbages. ## Miss LaNell Boyles Marries Robert Ivy In Church Service

Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Boyles of Aspermont, Tex., announce the marriage of their daughter, La Nell to Robert Ivy, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Ivy of Lazbuddie.

The double-ring ceremony was read by Glenn Anbear, minister of the Lazbuddie Church of Christ at 3 p.m. Sunday, August 9 in the home of Mrs. G. C. Green of Earth.

Vows were exchanged before the spacious fireplace, flanked with white asters.

The bride wore a street length princess styled dress of white embroidered faille, fashioned with a brief jacket and deaneu neckline outlined in sequins. She carried an orchid atop a white Bible.

Mrs. Lon Ward of Levelland was matron of honor. Durwood Ivy, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man.

Mrs. Zou Wilson played traditional wedding selections.

Miss Christie Ivy, sister of the bridegroom, served at the Bride's Book.

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony. Assisting in the house party were Mrs. John L. Boyles and Mrs. C. W. Terry.

The bride is a 1956 graduate of the Aspermont High School and also a graduate of Isabell's School of Beauty in Lubbock.

She is owner and operator of the Rainbow Beauty Salon in Earth.

The bridegroom is a graduate of the Lazbuddie High School and attended Arlington Junior College and is serving with the U. S. Air Force at Fort Bliss at El Paso, Texas.

For a wedding trip to New Mexico the bride chose a navy blue chanting sheath dress with white accessories.

In keeping with an old tradition the bride wore a pin made by her grandfather in 1910, for something new the bride was given a white Bible by Mrs. G. C. Green, for something borrowed, she carried a linen handkerchief belonging to Mrs. C. W. Terry, something blue, a garter, a gift from Mrs. Lon Ward and a penny in her shoe, an Indian head penny, from Terry Green.

Miss Wheat - Hal Nicholson Wed -

In a quiet ceremony at 2 p.m. Sunday, August 2 in the Flint Ave. Baptist Church in Lubbock, Miss Leta Kay Wheat pledged vows with Hal Dean Nicholson. Rev. Bruce Giles, pastor of the Flint Ave. Baptist Church, read the ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Wheat of Earth and Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Nicholson of Olton.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a ballerina length gown of chantilly lace over satin. The gown featured a portrait necklace complemented with long petal-pointed sleeves at the wrist. The voluminous skirt was enlaced with tiers of lace. Her waist length veil of silk illusion fell from a tiara of seed pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of white carnations.

Immediately following the ceremony, the couple left for a wedding trip to Red River and Sante Fe, N. M.

The bride is a senior student at the Springlake Schools.

The bridegroom is a graduate of the Olton High School and is employed at Lesters Cleaners.

Stop Washing Dishes and Start To Live Better

Why stand and struggle with piles of dirty dishes when you can sit and relax... letting electricity do the work for you?

Like so many "new" developments in today's world of science, an automatic electric dishwasher cannot be appreciated until it is actually used. Homemakers who have felt that they "must hand wash their own dishes because that's the way it's been since childhood," also sing in unison "I don't know how I ever got along without a dishwasher" ... after they've tried one for a while.

This common attitude has been dramatized by the results of a controlled survey of ten families whose participation in a 39-day handwashing period and a 39-day machine-washing period furnished many kinds of important, objective facts to the Ohio State University home economics department. The recent follow-up questionnaires to the participating homemakers revealed their unqualified enthusiasm for the automatic dishwasher and its contribution to home life. All who replied said they still have the same machine originally installed for the test a few years ago and would not consider being without one again.

The automatic electric dishwasher is but one of many household helpers that provide the homemaker extra opportunities to live better electricity ... and thus discover that time can actually be stretched to include more fun with the family.

And what greater service can the marvels of electricity perform? Not only do the dishes get washed without effort ... but the entire family benefits from the extra time together.

THE DRIVER'S SEAT

Are you dissatisfied with the gasoline mileage you are getting with your car after reading about the famous economy runs? Don't be.

Most automotive authorities agree that the average driver cannot hope to duplicate the mileage figures obtained by the experts who drive in the economy runs. The experts have had long training that enables them to gauge best speed for maximum mileage under any conditions of road surface, grade or traffic.

Rules of economy tests require that their cars be "stock" models, but most economy runs permit such gas-saving tricks as tire pressures that are higher than standard, thinner lubricants than would be advisable for continuous use, and carburetor jets that provide gas mixtures that are leaner than usual.

Not only are their cars carefully tuned, timed and closely checked for any abnormal friction or drag, but they take full advantage of the small savings to be gained by devices like keeping the window closed to reduce wind resistance and avoiding the use of the radio or cigarette lighter because these increase the load on the engine. Through many of these refinements are not practical for general use, most drivers could get more miles per gallon by following other economy run procedures such as these:

—Drive at moderate speeds—most of the experts stay close to the lowest permissible average speed, especially in traffic or when approaching traffic signals.

—Avoid fast, full power acceleration and hard braking—quick stops and starts waste gasoline.

—Be sure your tires are fully inflated—even a pound or two of under-inflation will cause the car to use more fuel. Under-inflation also increases tire wear.

—Maintain engine speed as nearly constant as possible—increasing or decreasing rpm's for hills, curves or any other reason increases gas consumption the less frequently you vary engine speed, the better your mileage.

—Keep your carburetor adjusted for the fuel you are using—higher test fuels usually give somewhat better mileage, but the car must be designed and adjusted for them.

—Automatic transmissions, power steering, power brakes, air conditioning—these and other modern conveniences make driving easier and more comfortable, but they also draw power from the engine and thus reduce gasoline mileage. Laboratory tests indicate that 20 to 25 percent of the energy produced in a large, fully equipped car may go to power such accessories. While you probably are like most motorists and would not want to do without these modern improvements, judicious use of them can save gas.

Use Care In Firing Briquettes

College Station — Be careful when firing charcoal briquettes, says the Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Council. This is a major problem when cooking over an outdoor grill. Don't let an accident mar your family's enjoyment of an outdoor barbecue.

The Council cites two rules to observe when starting a charcoal fire, never use gasoline, either raw or in a mixture, to kindle any fire, and never add any of liquid fuel after the fire has started.

There are several methods you can use to start a fire safely. Paper or excelsior under the briquettes takes time and fanning but produces results. Some manufacturers treat the briquettes with a substance that burns readily when ignited. These cost a little more but are easier to fire.

Persons or a commercial charcoal lighter fluid also may be used. Put some of the briquettes in a five quart oil can and pour the kerosene or starter fluid over the briquettes until they are saturated. Pour off the excess fluid and you can use it again.

Put the saturated briquettes in the pit or brazier and light. Use a long candle or a paper "wick," made by twisting a sheet of newspaper into a tight "stick" shape. This will protect your hands.

Whether your grill or pit is located in the backyard, a lakeshore, park or recreation area, make sure it is located in an open space well away from buildings and trees, the Council cautions. Remember that the first B in barbecue stands for "Be Careful."

Mrs. Cecil Parish, accompanied by Vicki Lynn Talbert, left today for Panama, Calif. where Mrs. Parish will spend three weeks with her daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Denton Talbert. Vicki Lynn had spent the summer with her grandparents.

Weekly Stock Market Round-Up

Prepared by The Investment Research Department of Hemphill, Noyes & Co. Members of the New York Stock Exchange

August 12, 1959

LIFE INSURANCE STOCKS Fair Values in Today's Market

Life insurance stocks, while up substantially from their lows of 1957-58, still appear to offer reasonable values when compared with other growth industries. Although some of these stocks must be considered rather fully valued in today's market, there are still many issues which we believe can be bought for long term capital gains. Among the issues we consider attractive for purchase at the present time are Travelers Insurance, Gulf Insurance, Transamerica and Lincoln. Other issues which offer good long term value, although we do not recommend immediate purchase, include Businessmen's Assurance and Franklin National Life.

Today's economic climate appears extremely favorable for this growth industry. High living standards, inflation, and the general improvement in the overall economy are factors which indicate substantially improved operations for this year, even though the industry is faced with higher taxes due to a revised tax law.

Net gain from operations (earnings) for the industry this year should be aided by many factors. Mortality in the United States again fell slightly in 1958, thereby further widening the ratio between the assumed mortality table and the actual experience of insurers. The overall economic boom and new high in employment for the country as a whole directly benefits life companies through additional writings of group insurance, and indirectly through the increased standard of living. One of the most promising factors for life insurance companies recently has been the trend of interest rates. Most policies in recent years have been written on the assumption that the return on investment capital would be low, as it has been in the past several decades. Most policies currently in effect have been written with 2% to 3% assumed interest rates. While current interest is substantially higher, this is a very vital factor inasmuch as any higher interest derived over and above the assumed rate written on a policy largely represents pure profit. With current interest rates at a new peak since the 1920's, profits from this source of income should soar. Furthermore, as investment portfolios "roll over" and more interest loans are rewritten at higher rates, further improvement in investment income should accrue. Finally, the automation in bookkeeping, in which the life companies have been pioneers, is now bearing fruit in substantial cost savings in personnel.

In June of this year a new tax law was enacted for life insurance companies. This law raised the taxes paid by the life insurance industry by about 40%. Obviously, this new tax bill is not bullish, especially when viewed on its face value. However, if this tax is looked at objectively, it is not as bad as might originally seem. In the first place, it has been common knowledge for the past few years that Congress has been attempting to write a permanent tax law for life companies and the industry has been operating under this mantle of uncertainty. Now this uncertainty is no longer hanging over the industry and the final formula is more acceptable than most bills previously proposed. In the second place, while it is apparent that the new formula will increase taxes substantially, it will not have as much effect on earnings as might be assumed as the actual tax paid by these companies in relation to their size is still small.

Time may prove that this tax problem has been over-emphasized in the stock market. Many a life stock's recent lag in the current overall bull market was based on the inevitable settlement of this tax loophole, even though it has been known for years that this tax would have to be revised and that any revision would not strangle the growth prospects of this dynamic industry.

New Law Requiring 'Mud Flaps' on Dual Wheeled Vehicles

AUSTIN — Enforcement of a new Texas state law requiring "mud flaps" on the rear of dual-wheeled vehicles at all times began August 10. It was announced recently by Col. Homer Garrison, J., Director of the Department of Public Safety.

"Our patrolmen have been instructed to start filing complaints for violations of this law effective August 19," Garrison said. "We feel commercial vehicle operators have had sufficient time in which to comply with its provisions."

The law which formerly applied only when the pavement was wet, now requires protective flaps on the rear of certain vehicles to protect drivers in back of them. It was passed by the 56th Legislature.

Under regulations issued by the Department of Public Safety, Garrison said, the flaps may be made of metal, rubber, rubberized material or other substantial rigid enough to prevent mud, slush, gravel or other matter from being thrown from the rear of a dual-wheeled vehicle into the windshield of a vehicle following.

The statute applies to all road tractors, trucks, trailer and semi-trailers. Exempt are buses, school buses, truck tractors operated alone, pole trailers and vehicles operated on private property.

Penalties for violation of the new law range up to $200, plus court costs, Garrison noted.

Say Dishwasher Electric Servant Most Appreciated

What price freedom from unnecessary hard labor? A few cents a day? Homemakers today simply take this unique service for granted, automatically using so many of the smaller appliances, as well as the large ones, that help them to live better electrically.

However, one of the most important services operated by electricity, is often ignored because it is "traditional" for women to wash dishes by hand. If women are to accept, willingly or otherwise, the inescapable and endless drudgery of washing dishes by hand.

This doesn't have to be so today... just because that's "the way it always was" in the days of mother and grandmother when the facilities to live better electrically did not exist. But today, with an automatic electric dishwasher that saves time, money and energy, the chore of dishwashing is almost a "labor of love" it is so effortless.

According to the Ohio Study, a research project conducted under conditions, the actual dishwashing time is just a fraction of the time spent in handwashing, rinsing and drying. In fact, once the machine is loaded, it takes only the few seconds to add detergent, close it and start it.

What a small investment for freedom, more than half the entire dishwashing process... a few cents and a few seconds! Try it and see.

Editorials . . .

Always In Focus

William I. Nichols, editor and publisher of This Week, a magazine of huge circulation, has something to say about newspapers. Here are his words: "Newspapers are the most powerful force in public opinion today because:

"1. The newspaper is the only medium which talks directly to each reader in terms of himself, his family and his community.

"2. The newspaper is the only medium which remakes its product every day.

"Hence, newspapers are always in focus—always in direct, immediate and intimate touch both with people and with changing times, and this is what gives newspapers their tremendous influence and efficiency."

The newspaper is one of the oldest forms of communication. New competitors have come into being and found their place. But the newspaper's pre-eminence as an influence remains.

The Soviet Exhibit

The Soviet exhibit in New York was an interesting one. All manner of articles and commodities were on display, and some were of outstanding excellence. The purpose of the exhibit, of course, was to impress upon the visitors the achievements of a communist society.

However, things are not always what they seem on the surface, and that old aphorism applies to this case. A current quip says that a typical Russian citizen would have to go to New York to find out how high his living standards are. In other words, the desirable things that were on display are simply not available to the vast majority of the Russian people—either because of scarcity or price.

American and other foreign tourists in Russia have told, for instance, of the state of retail trade in that "worker's paradise." Aside from fundamental necessities, just about everything is in short supply. And just about everything is priced at high and arbitrary levels. For there is no competition, as we understand the word, under communism. The government decides, once and for all, what is to be produced and sold to the people, and at what figure.

News reports have told how members of the famous Bolshoi Ballet, during its American tour, were amazed when they visited typical American stores. They'd never seen anything like them. They bought quantities of things, common to us but rare to them, to ship home.

When we go shopping, we take the fruits of mass production and mass distribution for granted. But, to most of the people in the world, these are material miracles.

Whatever happened to the windmill??

Old "High Lonesome" has virtually disappeared from the rural scene along with the wood stove, cistern and kerosene lamp, swept into obscurity by rural electrification. They are remnants of a romantic past. In their place is the new way of life that electricity brings.

No one can say what electrical marvels the future holds. But hundreds of thousands of rural Texans know that the Rural Electric Cooperatives they own, operate, and enjoy are equal to the task. With nearly a quarter century's experience behind them, these elements of democracy, if unhampered, can continue the great service for which they were founded: Rural Electrification

Chevrolet's exuberant Impala 4-Door Sedan

Chevy's the hottest one on the road

It's the hottest looking, hottest saving, hottest selling of the leading low-priced three. Have you had a taste of pure engine efficiency recently? Well, it's standard equipment in Chevrolet's lineup of eight lively V8's. These are the powerplants that recently won the NASCAR* Outstanding Achievement award for "America's most efficient V-type engines."

One, in fact, produces over one horsepower for every single cubic inch of displacement. It's the only American engine to reach such a high level of deep-breathing efficiency. But whichever Chevy powerplant you pick, you're primed for some of the perkier going you've ever enjoyed, and you'll know it for sure the moment you set your Chevrolet into silk-smooth motion.

Or maybe you're looking for a tightfisted six. Well, Chevy's got just the ticket for you—the savingest six in its field.

And wait, wait till you hook up your favorite Chevy engine to one of Chevrolet's five transmissions, including those precision stickshift gearboxes and ultra-smooth Turbo-glide, among others. We'll leave it to you to choose your favorite from the five, and don't think you won't have fun doing that!

Oh, there's a long, long list of things to like about Chevy, and your Chevrolet dealer will be more than happy to tell you all about it. Why not make it a point to visit him soon?

Soil Conservation Stamp To Be Released August 26

The board of supervisors of the Lamb County Soil Conservation District are very proud of the fact that a commemorative stamp for Soil Conservation is to be released on August 26.

Many commemorative postage stamps are issued to observe the anniversary of a noteworthy historic event or to honor a long-dead national hero. The world's first soil conservation stamp, to be released on August 26, 1959, at Rapid City, S. D., celebrates no anniversary and honors no man. Its issuance is, rather, a dramatic recognition by a grateful Nation that American farmers and ranchmen and their government, are hard at work to protect and improve, for the benefit of us all, our most valuable natural resource, the soil.

The stamp portrays the beauty as well as the bounty that modern conservation farming brings to rural living. The city skyline on the horizon signifies at the same time that dwellers of skyscrapers also have a stake in soil conservation. The stamp will be to them a symbol of assurance that a plentiful supply of food and other products of the land will continue to flow to the seven-eighths of our people who live in town.

The stamp is a tribute to the countless farmers and ranchers who are demonstrating good soil stewardship. It is a salute to their locally organized soil conservation districts, and to the scientist, technicians and other agricultural workers of State and Federal Government who lend assistance. Its design contains a reminder that soil conservation is a orderly combination of practices and land use that carefully relate water, grass, trees, livestock, wildlife and other crops of the land.

Local observances noting the issue of this three color, four cent stamp will be sponsored in thousands of cities and communities by the Soil Conservation Society of America, soil conservation districts, by the Soil Conservation Service and other agencies of the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture, and by other conservation minded groups. On August 27, one day after its first-day release at Rapid City, 129 million copies of the stamp will go on sale at post offices throughout the country.

The observance being planned will combine pride of accomplishment in soil conservation with serious acceptance of the big job still ahead. To complete and maintain a soil conservation program that will insure the wisest and best use of this vital national resource for all time—that is the challenge the first soil conservation stamp lays before all citizens of our Nation.

Farmers Failing To Report Income Lose Social Security Credits

Some farmers are losing social security credit by not reporting their earnings, according to John G. Hutton, district manager of the Lubbock social security office. This means loss of benefits to a farmer's survivors if he dies or loss of his own retirement benefits.

Any farmer who has a profit of $400.00 or more in a year is required to file a tax return and pay social security taxes. This return must be filed even though the farmer has no income tax to pay. Even if a farmer does not have a $400.00 profit but has a gross farm income of $600.00 or more, he can elect to report his farm income for social security purposes.

Farmers who have neglected to report earnings for social security credit may still do so for 1953 or any later years. Hutton said that any farmer who wants to report earnings from self-employment should contact the local social security office or internal revenue office for advice.

A representative of the Lubbock Social Security Office will be in Earth on August 12, 1959 at 11:00 a.m. at the Citizens' State Bank and will be glad to assist in all matters pertaining to social security.

After Dinner Hour Brings Welcome Relaxing Quiet

When the first "automatic" dishwasher was invented about a hundred years ago, homemakers were not beating a path to the door of the inventor . . . because they would still have to hand-crank the machine. It wasn't till the natural powers of electricity and water had been harnessed that the modern homemaker could appreciate what was once just a dream of their grandmothers . . . and a pioneer inventor . . . as reality that's really a dream! At least, that's how many of them describe the automatic electric dishwasher that has brought permanent emancipation from the drudgery of dirty dishes, daily, three times a day . . . and a savings in time of about three weeks every year!

Six Texas plants produce American cheese, according to a recent survey of the Agricultural Marketing Service.

Why are some farm groups opposed to high support prices for cotton farmers???. . . it's explained often enough but there still seems lots of misconceptions . . . many producers think it's enemies of cotton that want to see the price props reduced . . . actually it's the friends of the cotton farmer . . . men who want to see cotton prosper and new markets develop . . . here's what happened: price supports for cotton have reached the point where outside growers sell cheaper than U. S. grown cotton in foreign markets and where items of man-made fibers (or items using some man-made fibers) can be sold to consumers cheaper than cotton items . . . this has lost markets for cotton abroad and at home and surpluses have mounted not from over production but from under consumption . . . under consumption caused in large part by the high support prices . . . all of this was predicted many years ago . . . we know of a cotton merchant who back in the '30's spelled out most of the problems that face U. S. cotton today

... it's all caused by trying to ignore the law of supply and demand . . . we feel that the farmer is due some protection as long as other segments of the economy have protection . . . but if this protection continues in the form of price supports that are far above the world market value of the product, cotton will remain gamed in an unsound economic program.

Farm Cash Up
Farmers are receiving about two per cent more income from livestock and crop sales this year than during like period last year . . . despite predictions that at the end of 1959 the farmer will be in worse shape than at the end of 1958.

Rules Tightened
Soil bank rules now prevent state-owned lands from being put into the soil bank . . . this may stop some renting of land from the state at 25c per acre and putting it into the soil bank for $8 an acre . . . wonder if you can still put the unused part of a cemetery in the bank . . . some town did that, you know!!!

How Big???
Ever wonder how big a farm is???. . . unless it's 10 acres or produces at least $250 worth of agricultural products, it's not a farm . . . that is the standard the Bureau of Census will use next fall . . . time was when three acres made a farm.

Poison Pays
Recent study on control of weevils shows that in the controlled areas enough extra cotton was grown to pay the cost of controlling the weevils several times.

It's well known that the use of an automatic electric dishwasher reduces the use of tea towels from an average of 42 per month to less than half that figure. But how to measure the great drop in the use of hankies and tissues resulting from this homemaker's helper? It's pretty difficult to compute even though most families attribute to the most sterilizing action of dishwashers that factoids are less often "common" to the family, and that there is reduction in the passing around of other contagious illnesses. Bacteria removal through machine washing more than meets U. S. Public Health Standards for cleanliness in dishwashing.
