NOSIN... With Polly

Since the March 30 issue of the Canyon News came out an article in a column written by publisher Troy Martin about articles that have appeared in the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal and Castro County News mentioning our school superintendent Bill Mann and a deluge of letters to school officials in various schools across Texas in a campaign effort for Ben Barnes.

The following is the clip taken from the Canyon deluge of H. M. Baggerly's denouncing Dolph Briscoe as the villain of the Eagle School tax litigation in the state.

The column says Briscoe tried to get the school district over financially as a result of the suit by refusing to pay school taxes on time.

School officials at Eagle Pass are not so but that Briscoe actually saved the day for school district by talking disgruntled taxpayers into going up to the school could time.

The latest letter came to people here from W. L. superintendent of the Eagle-Earth school system.

The letter was on a school head so I would assume ending it was some extending to the school and state.

Letter I saw was addressed to Dr. Dudley Moore, president of the Canyon school board, and it was nothing more than an outright campaign letter on behalf of Ben Barnes.

If you remember, the Briscoe story was released by the Tulla editor the day after the Ben Barnes campaign train whistled through Tulla.

Now it's alright if the Earth superintendent wants to campaign for Barnes or anyone else as a private citizen but when he uses stationery paid for by the state and campaigns in his capacity as a school superintendent on state payroll it becomes the business of everyone.

On April 13 The Lubbock Avalanche Journal came out with this item in connection with the letter from our superintendent.

Letters bearing Earth I. S. D. letterheads and Austin postmarks have been received by most, if not all, school district officials in the state. The writer describes Briscoe as "no friend to public education."

Briscoe accused no single opponent for canvassing the state with the letters, but produced endorsements from all of the Eagle Pass school officials and urged voters to take a close look at the facts.

"People are getting very interested in the campaigns, and I think the interest is going to continue to build until the May 6 election," the campaigner observed.

Wayne Davis is issuing another appeal to all boys, ages 13-15 years, who wish to play baseball on a Babe Ruth team to be at the ball park in Earth Saturday morning at 10 a. m. if enough boys do not show up to organize a team, the idea will be dropped so that boys who do want to play can get on another team in another town.

Band Concert Tonite

The Annual Spring Band Concert will be held tonight, April 27, at the High School auditorium. The concert will feature four bands and the stage band.

Starting time is 8 p. m. and there will be a small admission.

Mr. SoRele urges everyone to attend as this will be the last chance for the public to hear all the bands perform. It will be a light concert and shall be very enjoyable.

The beginners band of 5th grade students will start the program by playing three selections. They are "Aurora Lee", "Carnival", and "Streets of Laredo." The 6th grade band will then play, "Carumba", "New Colonial March", and "Little English Suite". The junior high band will play, "La Banda Nascente", "La Nut" and "Courtly Festival."

The high school band will start their program with a John Phillip Sousa march called "El Capitan", followed by a medley of pop tunes, written by the Carpenters. They will then play the theme from the movie, "Summer of 42" and finish their performance with a folk rock type song, "Alla Barocca".

The stage band will end the program with two or three selections.

On May 11, there will be an extra concert performed by the high school band and chorus. The program will have a patriotic theme and will feature all 50 flags on 6 foot poles plus a 14x28 foot American flag.

Mr. SoRele stated that he hoped to involve the Boy Scouts in the program and that members of the other bands would assist with the flags. Everyone is invited to attend this concert.

The 6th grade and junior high bands will go to contest at Dimmitt on May 13 and some of the selections they will be playing tonight will be played at the contest.

There will be a Band Boosters Meeting following the band concert tonight to elect officers for the next school year. Discussions will be held concerning blazers for junior high band students, also. Mr. SoRele will have samples of these blazers.

Daylight Savings Time in Effect Sunday

This Sunday, April 30, we will lose one hour during the hours normally set aside for sleep.

At 2 a. m. Sunday morning, the six month boon to sun worshipers - known as daylight savings time - will once again come into existence.

To keep up with the time, remember the little phrase, "Springing forward, fall backward." In other words, in the spring the bar is of the clock must be moved forward one hour, in the fall they are moved back.

Sunday is the day all clocks must be moved up one hour either before retiring Saturday night or at 2 a. m. Sunday morning.

CHRISTIAN LOVE DOES

By DAVID HARTMAN

"... Not demand its own way." The Amplified Bible states it, "Love (God's love in us) does not insist on its own rights or its own way, for it is not self-seeking."

This suggests that others and their welfare comes before mine. If we really applied this to life what would happen? William Barclay makes a pertinent observation at this point:

"In the last analysis, there are in this world only two kinds of people--those who are continually thinking of their duties; those who always insist upon their privileges and those who always remember their responsibilities; those who are always thinking of what life owes them and those who never forget what they owe to life. It would be the key to almost all the problems which surround us today if men would think less of their rights and more of their duties. Whenever we start thinking about "our place" we are drifting away from Christian love."

Would things go differently at home, school, work, and church if you practiced Christian love by refusing to always demand your own way? Try it and see what happens.

Sanderson-Singleton Vows Read

Miss Joan Sanderson and Anthony Singleton were united in marriage at a double ring ceremony Saturday, April 1, at the Coronada Baptist Church in El Paso. Officiating at the ceremony was the Reverend Frank Dearing, pastor of the Coronado Baptist Church. He was assisted by Reverend William Buck, Church of El Paso. Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. W.G. Sanderson of Earth. Anthony is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Singleton of Alpine, Texas.

Matron of Honor for the bride was Carolyn Kirkwood of Lampasas, Texas, sister of the bride. She was attired in a floor length gown of aquamarine with a high empire waist and long lantern sleeves. The gown was accented by heavy French lace at the waist and cuffs. She carried a bouquet of yellow gladioli with aqua baby's breath.

Mrs. Bonnie Haberer and Ted were in Amarillo Tuesday evening for a reception, honoring Mr. and Mrs. Dolph Briscoe, candidate for governor for the state of Texas.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. W.G. Sanderson of Earth. Anthony is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Singleton of Alpine, Texas. Mrs. Charles Dierdorf, accompanied by her son, Bobby, at the organ, sang "Calm as The Night," "I Love You" and "The Lords Prayer." Mrs. Dierdorf is a friend of the couple.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was beautiful in a floor length white satin gown with a high empire waist, tucked silk organza yoke at the neckline and long lantern type sleeves. Heavy lace trimmed the waist and cuffs. The gown had a full chapel train trimmed in the same lace as was the dress. The bridal veil was waist length of silk illusion, worn with a crown of organza lace beaded with tiny seed pearls. Her bouquet, carried atop a white Bible, was of white gladioli, accented with yellow baby's breath.

For the traditional "something borrowed", Joan wore a gold cross necklace that her mother wore when she was married. Her dress was "something new", a ring with a blue stone belonging to her sister-in-law, Evelyn, was "something blue" and a penny with her birth year was used for "something old".

The alter pieces were cut bouquets of yellow carnations with accents of baby's breath and greenery. Pale yellow electric candelabras were used in the background, decorated with yellow bows. A white satin kneeling pillow was in the foreground. The aisles of the church were decorated with yellow satin bows.

A reception was held following the ceremony in the Fellowship Hall of the Church. Registering the guests was Lisa Caye Kirkwood, niece of the bride, at a table decorated with trailing ivy and yellow carnations. A hurricane lamp with a yellow pencil candle and yellow flowers in the base was on the registrar table.

The long serving table, covered with a white cloth, strewn with trailing ivy and yellow carnations, was centered with a beautiful three tiered cake decorated with yellow flowers and accents of green. A bride and groom adorned the first two tiers and the crowning tier was topped with a gold cross, intertwined with wedding bands.

Serving punch from crystal punch bowls at each end of the table was Mrs. Fred Watkins of Houston, sister of the groom and Mrs. Vandertulip of El Paso, a friend. Serving the cake was Mrs. Carl Sanderson, the bride's sister-in-law. Special made mints of yellow flowers and green leaves were served.

For a wedding trip to the West Coast for a week of sight seeing, the bride wore a red and white two-piece jersey ensemble and red accessories.

The couple are now at home at 300 Shadow Mt. Drive, Apt. 104, El Paso, Texas. Joan is employed as head of Children's Department, El Paso Public Library. She has B.A. and M.

Living Bible Paraphrases "The Word"

"About this time Caesar Augustus, the Roman emperor, decreed that a census should be taken throughout the nation. (This census was taken when Quirinius was governor of Syria.)"

"Everyone was required to return to his ancestral home for this registration. And because Joseph was a member of the royal line, he had to go to Bethlehem in Judea, King David's ancient home -- journeying there from the Galilean village of Nazareth. He took with him Mary, his fiancée who was obviously pregnant by this time."

"And while they were there, the time came for the baby to be born; and she gave birth to her first child, a son. She wrapped him in a blanket and laid him in a manger, because there was no room for them in the village inn."

Perhaps the pastor read this version of the Nativity story (Luke 2:1-6) at your Christmas services last year. It is taken from the most recent version of the 66 Books of the Old and the New Testaments called "The Living Bible," which has been in circulation for a little more than six months.

This Bible is a departure from the numerous other products. It is a "thought-by-thought" paraphrase, instead of a "word-by-word" translation, by Kenneth N. Taylor, a Wheaton, Illinois, Bible scholar.

The project grew from a proper seed -- a child's question.

Taylor, a graduate of Northern Baptist Theological Seminary, would read the Bible regularly at home to his 10 children.

After a difficult passage, he would usually have to paraphrase it into simple English, with the footnote, "That's what it means."

"Then why doesn't it say so?" a child would ask -- many times. After a few such questions, Taylor himself began to wonder why the language was so difficult, especially since it's the young whom teachers of Christianity are trying to reach.

Then, about 1956, he began to put his rephrasings on paper. By 1962, he had finished all the New Testament Epistles. He tried to get them published.

This, however, was only 10 years after the publication of the Revised Standard Version, which had produced such a storm over certain translations deemed to be "modernist" in their shades and therefore an undermining influence in "true Christian teaching."

In the forefront of these criticisms during the early 1950s were the conservatives and "evangelical Protestants." They believed that changing any line of the King James Version risked negating the "Word of God," even though the literary masterpiece produced by the scholars in the reign of the first Stuart had been the "Word" only since 1611.

As late as 1962 some evangelical scholars still doubted the wisdom of "tampering". Four publishers turned thumbs down on the project.

"I was crushed," recalled Taylor, who is no modernist. "My whole background is respect for God's Word and belief in its inspiration and authority. My purpose was not to 'tamper' with it, but to convey its real content more accurately and clearly. Only the Lord gave me the courage to go ahead with it."

Like a religious man, he remembered Matthew 17:20, which in "The Living Bible" is "For if you had faith even as small as a tiny mustard seed, . . . nothing would be impossible."

So, on faith, he had 2,000 copies of his paraphrasings produced privately under the title, "Living Letters," when a printer extended him credit. He handled mail orders from a home garage in Wheaton, Illinois.

Orders trickled in until, in 1963, his work caught the eye of Billy Graham, who ordered 50,000 copies for distribution.

Taylor did not stop, with such a giant "evangelical" as Graham on his side. He paraphrased other parts of the Bible and printed them under such titles as "Living Gospels," "Living Prophecies" and "Living Psalms and Proverbs."

The sale volume hit nine million copies. By last September, the entire paraphrasing project was produced in one 1,020 page book titled "The Living Bible." It is in its fourth printing with 2 million copies in circulation. In many big cities it has landed on the best seller list.

During National Bible Week, the annual award of the Layman's Bible Committee went to Taylor for his 16 years of work.

A side epic is the growth of Taylor's home born publishing firm, Tyndale House, Wheaton, of which he is president. Tyndale House now handles 75 other published titles and has a multi-million-dollar sales volume. It has an expanded $300,000 plant, more than 50 employees and a branch in England named for William Tyndale's colleague in Bible translations, Miles Coverdale.

Taylor channels royalties from the sale of Bibles into a foundation that provides translations into 51 languages.

Said Graham about the completed project: "In this book I have read the age abiding truths of the Scriptures with renewed interest and inspiration, as though coming to me directly from God. "The Living Bible" communicates the message of Christ to our generation. Reading it will give a new understanding of the Scriptures."

Other conservative Protestants have also praised the book, men like Hershel H. Hobbs of Oklahoma City, past president of the Southern Baptist Convention; Robert H. Pierson, president of the Seventh-Day Adventist Church; and Joseph H. Jackson of Chicago, president of the National Baptist Convention, U.S.A.

These testify that the conservatives, after seeing many a Bible translation since the RSV shook them up, seem to have lost their fear of "tampering with the Word."

One of the objections to the Revised Standard Version was the translation in Isaiah 7:14 as, "Behold a young woman shall conceive and bear a son, and shall call his name Immanuel. . ." This passage, interpreted as forecasting the birth of Jesus, was offensive to fundamentalists and other conservatives, because it used the words "young woman" instead of "virgin," and thus, they thought, detracted from the divinity of Christ.

In "The Living Bible" the word is "Virgin."

Troop 373 Discusses Building Fires

Troop 373 met Wednesday afternoon for their regular meeting. After the opening ceremonies they discussed the different types of fires. Mrs. Beverly Taylor, leader, showed the girls how to lay and light the fires. They worked on their requirements for a camping badge and discussed the Scout Camp at Rio Blanca.

Jackie Lewis served refreshments to Hattie and Oetha Thomas, Belinda Hampton, Donette Taylor, Patricia James, Debra Houston and the two leaders.

"You can't appreciate home till you've left it, money until it's spent, your wife till she's joined a woman's club, nor Old Glory till you see it hanging on a broomstick on a shanty of a consul in a foreign town." — O. Henry.

The snack food market has emerged in recent years to the point where potato and corn chips, puff snacks and crackers totaled more than $1.5-billion in sales last year.
