You've heard that old expression, "Everyone and their dog was there" and Andy Anderson, City Secretary, says she is fully aware of what that statement now entails, following dog vaccination day in Earth last Thursday, when everyone and their dog did show up, literally. She said it was a real dog show, with several puppies participating in real good fights and ever/thing.

NOSIN
 Seems sorta funny that as yet no one in Earth has reported having received a reply to letters written to Senator Ralph Yarborough, in regard to the Civil Rights Bill, although most everyone writing to Senator John Tower has now received an answer with a full statement of his stand on the Civil Rights Bill (He's against it) Her was also against the cloture bill that passed last week that will shortly bring to a close the legislative argumentation on the power grasping Civil Rights Bill, that will now doubtless see passage within the very near future. . . You people who are against it may still have time to write Senator Yarborough. . . However, it seems to be a lost cause, attempting to get most Senators in Washington to hear the voice of the grassroots of America, the plain ordinary citizen, the backbone of American civilization.

Seems to me that most Senators receive their mail and telephone calls with a "closed hand that cannot receive," and a "deaf ear that cannot hear" These traits are indeed bad for any human, especially for an elected official who is supposed to be representing the wishes of the majority of the people. Remember a closed hand cannot receive, no one can even shake hands with a clenched fist. . . to be a sower of seed, a man must first open his hand. He must do this also before he can reap. . . The process doesn't stop here. . . to possess knowledge, wisdom, and foresight, he must likewise open his mind. . .

Look around you, folks, and you'll see many a shining example of the truth of these words, a closed hand can't receive, partly because it is shut, and nothing can get in, but chiefly because it has nothing to give the world. . .

NOSIN
 Sunday is Father's Day across this great nation and on this day, Papa's everywhere will be honored. . . Fathers are those quiet, kind, lovable dads who have spent hour after hour, day after day and year after year to earn funds to feed and clothe their family, emerging from these long years of hard work with calloused hands, aching backs, a gentle smile and a soothing voice that somehow seems to make the world seem a little nicer. . . So, this weekend, we plan to leave for Marmaduke, Arkansas, where we will visit my 83 year old father, after an absence of five years. . . We plan also to visit Ross's parents, and my mother in Oklahoma, before returning Saturday June 27. Hope all you folks will have the privilege to be with your fathers, Sunday.

FARM ROAD 1055 north of Earth was closed to through traffic Saturday after Friday night's heavy rainfall, caused the low land on either side to overflow from the drain-off. Motorists detoured around the lake until Tuesday when several vehicles began to travel through. In the background on the right, is Billy Homer Hodges' residence, and on the left is the residence of Mrs. Ann Hodge.

Rainfall Heavy In Area

Severe thunderstorm warnings and torrential rains were the weather picture on the South Plains, Thursday, Friday, and Saturday night that dumped a reported 8 inches of rain on parts of the area, over the three day period. Tornadoes whirled earthward near Clovis and at Lazbuddie Saturday afternoon. A barracks building located on the North Lazbuddie Gin Company lot, was destroyed, strowing mattresses, bedding and house hold furnishings, stored in the unoccupied building, over a large section of the gin lot. The building was the only one of five long barracks on the yard to be damaged, when the funnel dipped down out of the blackened sky around 6:30 p. m. Seven families of Latin American farm workers occupied one of the buildings nearby, that was left undamaged. The twister was reported moving in a northeasterly direction, suddenly switching southeasterly, hitting two cotton trailers on the gin yard but leaving the gin building undamaged.

Vicious clouds and high winds struck near Earth Thursday night, when a picnic table was moved by twisting winds and shingles were ripped from the roof in various places on the H. F. Hodge farm, located four miles north of Earth. A passenger compartment was also removed from a pickup truck, belonging to Daniel Tomez on the Hodge farm.

Highway 70 between Earth and Muleshoe was closed for a period of time, both Friday and Saturday mornings, until the highway crews could remove mud and debris from the highway, that was washed there by the torrential down-pour occurring during the two nights. Several other farm roads were closed due to the overflow of lakes along the roadway.

U. S. Highway 84, west of Sudan, is blocked by a quarter mile wide lake that measures five feet in depth. This will no doubt block the heavily traveled highway for approximately two or three weeks. Motorists are finding it necessary to detour through Needmore, from Muleshoe to reach Sudan.

Conditions on several dirt roads in the area are bad, with intersections completely washed due to the heavy runoff waters that prevailed during the three day period. Highway department employees have been kept busy this week, in their efforts to repair the roads back to normal.

Several farmers in the area received hail damage during the three day period of turbulence, reporting a complete crop loss. Other farmers received light hail damage and will not have to replant.

On the W. G. Sanderson farm 7 1/2 miles north of Earth, rain gauges measured between four and five inches of rain all three nights. Light hail damage was reported to crops on the Sanderson farm and surrounding areas. However, bright warm sunshine the next week or 10 days would bring the crops out of the set back, caused from the weather.

From 5 to 6 inches of rain was recorded on the Roy Gover farm five miles west and four miles north of Earth. Light hail was reported in that vicinity, but no extensive damage was done to the small crops. Mrs. Dan Hulcy, who resides two miles south of Earth, reported to the News office Tuesday their rain gauge measured a total of nine inches of rain for the three day period. Light hail fell on the Hulcy farm, but did little damage, compared to the damage to the farmland by swift floodwaters, washing out the crop rows. Here in Earth, approximately 5.75 inches of rain was recorded at the C. P. Parish

First Load of Wheat Arrives at Springlake

The first load of wheat for the season rolled onto the Springlake Elevator scales, Tuesday afternoon, June 9, weighing 10,120 pounds, and brought in by Snyder Brothers farms, located north of Circle. The Wichita variety wheat had a test weight of 58 pounds per bushel and the moisture content was 18%.

The Snyder brothers, J. L. and Jack, were paid $1.45 per bushel for the golden grain by the elevator. Jarvis Angeley delivered the second load, Monday, that was harvested Friday, June 12. The test load weighed 3,080 pounds and held 15.90 moisture content.

Last year's first load was also delivered on June 9, at the Elevator, brought in by G. D. Daugherty, who also farms north of Circle. The majority of the wheats ready for harvest, and as soon as the ground dries enough for combines to get into the fields local harvesting of wheat will be in full swing.

residence and in Springlake a total of 5.06 inches of rainfall was reported. The rains as a whole were a welcome relief to most farmers, who have suffered heavy wind damage from the hot, dry high winds that have lashed the South Plains over a long period this spring, while some irrigation farmers received less wind damage. Farmers who could get in their fields with equipment Sunday and Monday, were running sand fighters in their efforts to eliminate land blowing and further damage to crops.

County Accidents Increase 18% in First Five Months

The Texas Highway Patrol investigated 13 accidents on rural highways in Lamb County during the month of May, according to Sergeant D. S. Lawson, Highway Patrol Supervisor of this area.

These wrecks accounted for five persons injured and an estimated property damage of $7,105.00.

The rural accident summary for Lamb County from January through May of 1964 shows a total of 48 crashes, resulting in five persons killed, 19 persons injured, and an estimated property damage of $49,255. The Sergeant expressed serious concern over the increase of fatal motor vehicle traffic accidents and deaths throughout the state.

"For the first five months of 1964, 1025 persons have died in traffic, compared to 871 for the same period of 1963," the Sergeant stated. "This 18% increase is very alarming and when you realize our heavy volume traffic months are still ahead, we must anticipate increasing problems in the accident picture. There is an increase of all types of accidents throughout the state and it is something that merits our greatest concern," he said.

"The driving public must assist in the reduction of this trend if we are to turn it downward. Otherwise our death count at the end of the year will far exceed the record number of 2,729 deaths in Texas traffic during 1963. If you are driving, your life literally is in your own hands so, won't you help yourself and others by resolving not to become one of our statistics?" the Sergeant asked.

Solution To Cotton's Basic Problem Lies in The Industry

Solution of cotton's basic problems lies within the industry's efforts in its own behalf rather than through legislation, Burris C. Jackson Hillsboro, Texas, emphasized today in Keynoting the Silver Anniversary Meeting of the American Cotton Congress.

Mr. Jackson, general chairman of the Congress, pointed out that the market for fiber products is a growing and dynamic one worldwide.

"If we had been competing for this market instead of riding a political roller coaster, there would be no surplus. Farmers would be expanding their acreage. All other branches of the industry would be enjoying the volume and profits that go hand in hand with healthy and increasing demand.

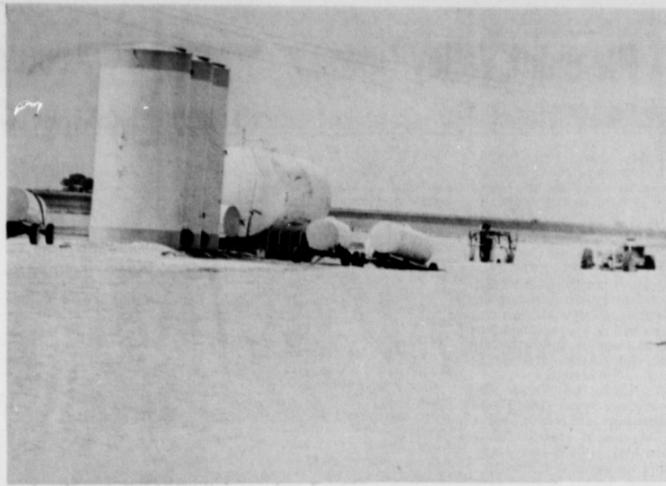

"This goal is within our reach but it will not be achieved by passing a law. It will be achieved by people like you and me exercising our own initiative within our own private spheres and working together as an industry."

More and more people are finally becoming convinced that the solution to cotton's problems lies within the industry, he noted.

"We see in the tremendous acceptance and support accorded the Cotton Producers Institute, in the continuing success of the programs of the National Cotton Council, in the worldwide interest in cotton through Cotton Council International, and through the unselfish and dedicated effort of many individuals in other organizations."

Discussing the Congress theme, "Cotton's Past, Present and Future" the industry leader pointed out that it is paradoxical that during the last 25 years when cotton was having its ups and downs on the pol-

NORMAN'S PRIVATE ISLAND!!! Earth Farm Chemical Co-Owner, Manager, Norman Hinchliffe has always displayed a broad smile and an honest respect for his fellow man, but after last week's three days of heavy rainfall left his place of business under several feet of water, Norman had a hard time smiling, for wondering WHEN the water would recede and he could get back into full operation again.

tical roller coaster it was making some of its greatest gains otherwise.

He explained that yields had increased from 238 pounds of lint per acre in 1939 to more than 500 in 1963, that man-hours to produce a bale had been cut from 200 to less than 45, and that the past quarter century had brought such innovations as anhydrous ammonia, chemical weed control organic insecticides, defoliation, and mechanical harvesting. Tractors now provide the power for virtually all pre-harvest operations except chopping, whereas in 1939 animal power accounted for 70 to 80 percent.

Furthermore, cotton today is the prestige fiber of the fashion world as a result of a combination of alert promotion and vast improvements in textile finishing and other techniques.

Unity of the industry to fight for its markets was cited as the most significant development over the 25 year period. Determination is expressed, he stated, in programs such as that of the grower-financed Cotton Producers Institute which is putting $800,000 this year into research and more than $1.5 million into domestic sales promotion. Promotions of the National Cotton Council and CPI combined will total about $3 million.

He predicted a substantial improvement in cotton's competitive situation as a result of the recent passage of legislation.

"The emergency legislation promises temporary relief in a situation that threatened disaster for cotton. It can get us out of the ditch for the time being," the Congress keynoter said.

"It can help us on the road toward our long-range goal of making cotton truly competitive in price, promotion and research. And when we look to cotton's future, therein lies the key to whether it will be relegated to a relatively minor role in our national economy."

Methodist Conference In Dallas June 29

Two major items of business will be before the 8-state South Central Jurisdiction of The Methodist Church when it meets June 29 in Dallas at the First Methodist Church and the Sheraton-Dallas Hotel. The conference will elect a bishop to fill the vacancy to be created by the retirement of Bishop Wm. C. Martin who has served the North and Central Texas Conferences of the Methodist Church for 16 years. Bishop Martin also headed the Northwest Texas Conference for 12 years.

Also before the conference, will be the General Conference Recommendations for integration of the geographical or "white" jurisdiction with the Central or "Negro" jurisdiction. The knotty problem before the delegates will center around the degree of integration to be recommended to the annual conferences. Some favor transferring the Negro conferences as conferences into the South Central Jurisdiction. Others favor transferring the Negro congregations into the White annual conference; within the jurisdiction. A few whites and Negroes may push for integration at the congregational level, but since Negroes may now join white congregations if they choose, a strong effort to merge existing white and Negro congregations is not likely to develop.

The Jurisdictional Conference, which will be presided over by each of the bishops of the 8-state area, is under a mandate to develop a plan of voluntary integration of the Central Jurisdiction into the geographical jurisdictions by 1968. If integration has not been achieved by that date, the General Conference has asked a committee of 36 to submit a report to its 1968 session outlining mandatory abolition of the Central Jurisdiction. Acceptance of the report, however, would depend upon the action of the General Conference, and the acceptance of a constitutional amendment by the several annual conferences.

According to rules adopted by the General Conference which met in Pittsburgh in April, the newly elected bishop cannot serve for at least four years in the area from which he was elected. A minister now serving in the North or Central Texas Conferences if elected to the episcopacy could not be assigned to the Dallas-Fort Worth area to succeed Bishop Wm. C. Martin. Assignment of bishops to the Episcopal Areas is made by the Committee on Episcopacy composed of laymen and ministers.

The conference, which is expected to draw more than 1,000 delegates and visitors, (338 are elected delegates) begins registration at 9 a. m. June 29. The first session will be held at First Methodist Church, Dallas, at 4 p. m. The sessions are open to the public.

Jimmy Littleton left Saturday to spend this week with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. L. Z. Anglin in Ruidoso.

Everybody benefits

when food is fresher... more plentiful

—thanks to America's Rural Electrics

Rural power is a wellspring of America's food abundance.

Thanks to his consumer-owned rural electric system, America's farmer does his work faster and more efficiently.

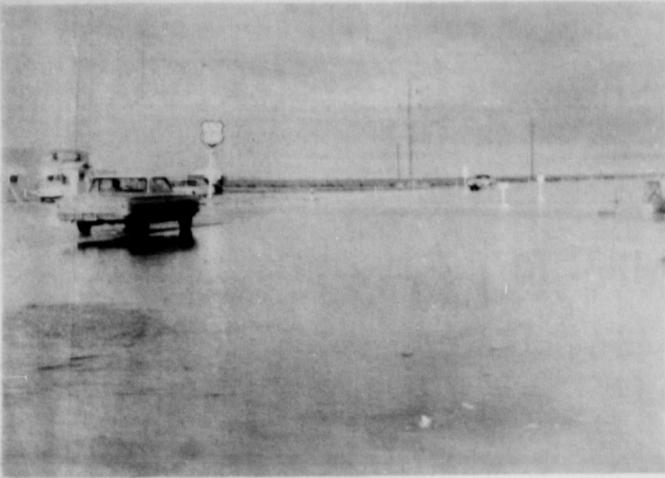

Electricity helps him feed and water more cattle and hogs, hatch and care for more chickens, milk more cows. It lights his barns, cools milk and cream, and keeps food fresh and safe. The end result is fresher, healthier food on your table. And it takes less of your family budget than ever before.

Consumer-owned rural electric systems—in most cases cooperatives—help guarantee that America's farmers will be able to meet all of this nation's growing demands for food. These rural electrics were built with the help of Rural Electrification Administration loans—and they are owned and directed by the people they serve.

As farmers use more and more electricity to produce more and better food, REA loans continue to help the rural electrics keep pace with the growing demand—and everybody benefits.

Soybean Testing Program Underway For 1964

Six hundred and sixteen individual strains and varieties of soybeans were planted in the 1963 soybean breeding program at the High Plains Research Foundation. These seeds originally came from scientists in foreign countries, and the Paymaster Seed Farm at Aiken. During the growing season, agronomic data was taken on all entries. Each strain was rated with respect to early seedling vigor, bloom date, lodging, plant height, shatter resistance, and yield. Several different strains were grown in the greenhouse for the purpose of cross breeding and observation. Some of these will be developed into varieties for future releases to certified seed growers who support the research program at Halfway.

The HINN variety of soybeans is the first variety to be developed in the breeding program at the High Plains Research Foundation. It has been released to certified seed growers for the 1964 growing season. Other strains show promise for this area.

Twelve strains and varieties of soybeans will be tested in the Farm Centered Research program of the High Plains Research Foundation in 1964, according to Barry Love, Associate Agronomist at the Foundation. The experimental strains will be compared with the Lee, Hill and HINN varieties. Jack Werner, new Assistant Agronomist of the Foundation, will supervise the planting, cultivation and harvesting of the varieties.

These tests are located at Vega, on Raymond Thompson farm with Mr. Kelley; at Littlefield, on the Troy Moss farm; Muleshoe, Allison brothers farm; Hartley, Tom Moran farm; Farnsworth, Leland Wilson farm; Texline, on Forrest Texline farm; Dumas on the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station farm near

Follow Simple Rules In Automobile Accident

Vacation time is here. Soon millions of people will be driving about the country, and automobile accidents will occur with increasing frequency. What should a person do when involved in an accident?

At such times it is hard to keep your wits about you and just what to do. It is therefore a good idea to plan to advance just what you would do in event of a smash-up. Here are a few simple rules that every driver should commit to memory.

1. Stop! Failure to stop can result in serious criminal consequences.
2. Render Aid. If anyone is injured: (1) Render first aid, (2) Stop bleeding, (3) Call a doctor or an ambulance or both, (4) DO NOT move an injured person in any way that could possibly add to his injury.
3. Protect the Scene from further damage. You may be liable for damages to approaching drivers, unless they are properly warned. If the highway is obstructed at night have someone turn his headlights beams on the wrecked vehicles.
4. Call an Officer. Police-men, Highway Patrolmen, Sheriffs and their deputies are trained accident investigators whose testimony may be invaluable in establishing your civil claim for damages.
5. Gather information... Write it down. Don't trust your memory. Don't guess—be specific. Measure skid marks. Step off distances. Be sure to obtain names and addresses of witnesses. You are required by law to exhibit your driver's license to the other driver, and he must do the same.
6. Be careful what you say. Even if you feel you probably are to blame, it is best to make no admission. You may learn later that the other driver was equally at fault, or more so. Emotional comments can be misconstrued by others, or may be misquoted. Whatever you say, make it factual.
7. See your doctor if there is the slightest chance you may be injured. Serious injuries do not always result in immediate pain or bloodshed.
8. Consult your lawyer immediately. The sooner your lawyer is brought into the matter, the better he can advise you and protect your rights. He can obtain statements from the witnesses while their memories are fresh, and do many other things to insure that the true facts are preserved. Get your lawyer's advice before giving any interviews or statements to investigators or adjusters for the other side.
9. Inform your insurance company promptly. Failure to do so may void your policy.
10. Report the accident to the Department of Public Safety. This is required by law if there is any injury or death, or if total damages exceed $25.00.

An official accident report form may be procured from the Police, Sheriff's Dept., Highway Patrol, or State Department of Public Safety.

TSTA Opens Ranks To All Teachers

The 90,000 member Texas State Teachers Association has taken steps to open its ranks to all teachers, regardless of race, and at the same time has moved toward establishing standards of membership.

The final decision, however rests with the TSTA House of Delegates which will meet October 24 in San Antonio at the close of the association's state convention. Any changes in the constitution must be approved by this representative legislative body of the organization.

"Any white teacher or white friend of education" is eligible for TSTA membership under the present constitutional provisions.

The proposed revision approved by the TSTA State Executive Committee would provide: "Membership in the Texas State Teachers Association shall be open to school related personnel holding certificates or qualifications appropriate to their respective duties."

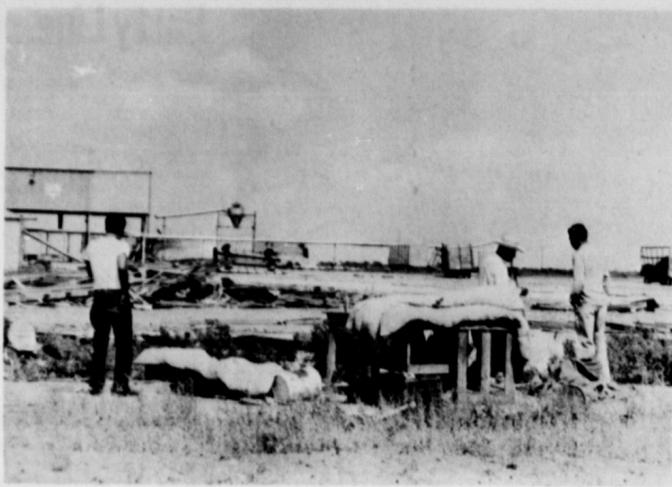

A "grandfather clause" permits current members to maintain their membership on a continuing basis, even though they might not meet the proposed new requirements.

The revised membership eligibility language would remove the word "white" which would permit—but not require Negroes to join TSTA. It also tightens slightly the present wide open membership provisions.

The Negro teacher organization, the Teachers State Association of Texas (TSAT) has headquarters in Austin and has several thousand members throughout the state.

Another proposed constitutional amendment approved calls for the entire TSTA membership to vote in run-off elections for TSTA president was required for the first time and in keeping with the present constitution, the vote was conducted in the 800 member House of Delegates.

The Texas State Teachers Association was organized in 1881 at a meeting in Mexico. At this meeting a committee was named to call on the Legislature and to request that a STRONG WINDS, of tornadic nature destroyed an eight room barracks building at the north Lazbuddie Gin Company Saturday about 6:30 p.m. The unoccupied building was used as a storage for household furnishings used by the Spanish American workers. Pictured cleaning up the debris are three farm workers living in an adjoining barracks. No one was hurt.

University of Texas be established. There was no race question at that time.

Since last October, however, the TSTA desegregation timetable has moved rapidly. During October the Texas State Teachers Association (white) was holding its convention in Fort Worth, while the Teachers State Association of Texas (Negro) was meeting in Austin. During that period, the Negro group made its first, formal request to the white association to consider the integration question.

In February, at the TSTA State Executive Committee's first post-convention meeting, the matter was discussed and referred to the Organizational Affairs committee for study.

The Organizational Affairs committee then asked each of TSTA's 13 district organizations to vote on the question in its own House of Delegates meeting during March. Eleven of the 13 districts voted affirmatively on the desegregation move. This was the basis for the proposal presented to and approved by the State Executive Committee.

Miss Antoinette Miller of Houston, president of TSTA District I and chairman of the state Organizational Affairs committee, made the presentation to the executive committee.

Health Tips On How To Keep Cool

Officially, summer doesn't arrive until the later part of June, but you couldn't tell it by the weather.

Hot weather is here for the summer, but if you follow a few simple health rules you can make your summer a bit more bearable.

First of all, avoid heavy, fat loaded meals. They are difficult to digest during hot weather. Emphasize fruit and vegetables on your summer menu rather than proteins, eggs, fish and meat—which your body needs for fuel during winter months.

Perspiration helps cool the body, but at the same time it drains the body of vital fluids. To replace these fluids, drink plenty of water or other liquids. Fruit juices are a pleasant way to make up the loss. But don't gulp down large amounts of ice water when you are overheated.

The body also loses salt through perspiration. Replace your salt loss at meals, or if your work or exercise causes you to perspire profusely, take salt tablets—about one every half hour with a glass of water.

Parents can place extra salt in children's diet with salted nuts or crackers plus a little added salt during meals.

Your clothing plays an important role in keeping cool.

Loose, light clothing is highly recommended for summertime wear. Normal body temperatures are dependent on the evaporation of sweat.

Avoid wearing clothes that inhibit evaporation. Also, remember that white or light colors are cooler than dark ones, since they do not absorb hot sun rays so readily.

Exercise is an essential part of a well-rounded, healthy life, but it can easily be overdone in the summer. Use common sense and start gradually if you are initiating a summer exercise program. Also, confine any long periods of hard yard work of active tennis games to the cooler parts of the day.

Swimming is one of the best summer sports, provided the proper safety rules are followed—Including not swimming alone, getting chilled, waiting at least an hour after meals and avoiding tiredness. All in all, summer can be one of the most enjoyable seasons of the year, provided you use your head as well as your body.

June Is Dairy Month

You never outgrow your need for milk. And the people of Texas need to consume more dairy products for best health conditions, observes Shannon Carpenter, area dairy specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Since June is Dairy Month, now is a good time to plan meals which utilize the abundant supply of wholesome dairy products, says Carpenter. Too, since the temperature is approaching summer levels, it is also a time when refreshing, easy-to-serve meals come in to their own and dairy products fill the bill.

From our earliest colonial history, the dairy cow has played a major role in the progress of our nation, says Carpenter. The early settler depended upon the dairy cow for a large portion of their food and today the nation's dairy industry supplies an ever increasing population with an abundance of wholesome and healthful dairy products—many not even dreamed of by the pioneers.

And still back of the mighty industry is the dairy cow, a marvelous creature, says Carpenter. She takes the grass and grain from our fields and makes them into nature's most nearly perfect food—milk. And what's more, according to the specialist, dairy products, including milk, are a food bargain in today's supermarkets. Compare their cost from the standpoint of food nutrients supplied with other sources of these same nutrients and you will readily see why dairy products are a best food buy, Carpenter says.

Tips On How To Live Longer

American Medical Association data indicates that about twenty years ago the average American could expect to die when he reached the retirement age of 65.

Today seventeen and a half million Americans are over 65 and the generation that can expect to live an average of 100 years may well be the generation now being born.

But just living longer isn't enough. Extra years mean little unless they're healthy, active years. You can enjoy all the added years modern medicine has given you--you can keep young in spirit, body and mind--by practicing a little moderation and following these seven simple steps:

1. See your family physician regularly for physical check-up. Today he can diagnose and treat successfully almost any disease or ailment, if he finds it early enough. He can also prevent many of the illnesses that may otherwise come your way.

2. Watch your diet. As the years pass you usually need less food, and there is some shift in nutritional requirements. You will need more proteins, vitamins and fluids, but fewer fats and calories.

No one can feel young and peppy when he's carrying extra weight. It's not only tiring, it's a threat to your health. If you need to lose weight, see your physician. He can establish a proper diet by which you'll lose weight without missing out on important nutrients.

3. Get adequate rest. Both

TORRENTIAL RAINS with strong winds followed by spotted hail, small in size, damaged the crops in the area. Farmers, however, indicated the damage to the crops is small in comparison to the benefits derived from the moisture. They seem to agree that the crops will be fine if we can have real warm weather for the next couple of weeks. The damaged crop pictured, belongs to Mike Dent.

mind and body need peace and quiet to recoup from the rigors of the day. Know your limitations and avoid over-exertion and strain, both physically and mentally. Excessive emotional tension can wear you down too, so take each job as it comes, not everything at once. Plenty of rest can help you see things in their proper perspective, and a sense of humor is your best antidote for tension.

4. Pursue physical exercise. The mark of an "old" person is creaking joints, aching backs and a myriad of complaints. Keep all your body parts in good working order by using them. Frequent and planned exercise -- mov-

"Reduction cottons"--cotton reduced in price or loan value because of low micronaire, gin damage or excessive foreign matter--cost High Plains farmers in the neighborhood of $3,000,000 in reduced income from the 1963-64 crop. Obviously, some of this loss was unavoidable, but most of it could have been saved by the use of proper cultural practices and care in harvesting. The loss figure is calculated from a USDA report which sets out the number of bales of such cotton, by causes in the Southwestern area. The report itself states: "Many causes of 'reduction cottons' cannot be controlled by mortal man, but those factors that can be controlled far outnumber those that cannot."

Foreign matter found in cotton that reduces its price are listed in the report as bark, dust, grass, hulls, motes, oil, sand, seed and stems. Of these, the High Plains produced almost 19,000 "barkies" about 2500 "grassies" and negligible amounts of the others. Total bales reduced in price at least one step by all these causes is reported as just below 22,000. This involves a reduction in price of any of these extraneous materials.

Only about 8,000 of the High Plains two million bale crop last year were reduced in price because of "Preparation" or gin damage. Such damage can result from the condition in which cotton arrives at the gin or from faulty gin machinery.

Where the High Plains is really hurt each year is in cotton that is classed as "wasty", principally by reason of its low micronaire, or immaturity of the fibers. Wasty bales in 1963-64 numbered about 100,000 in this area at about a $20 per bale reduction $2,000,000 in lost income from wasties alone. And even that loss is not the whole story of "low-mike" cotton. These bales which mike 2.6 or below are classed as wastie, while buyers quote 3.5 as the tenderable micronaire limit and look with some degree of disfavor on any cotton miking below that level. This causes additional price losses in the millions of dollars.

Last year, the High Plains crop, as we said above, had about 100,000 bales of cotton miking 2.6 or below at a cost to the farmer of about $2,000,000. Then there were another 308,700 bales (4.7 percent of the crop) miking 2.7 to 2.9 which this year will carry loan reductions of $15 per bale--another loss of over 4 1/2 million dollars. PCG figures show 33.6 percent of the crop, or over 700,000 bales miking between 3.0 and 3.4.

Later plantings, early frost dates, drought conditions, varieties--all play a part in the production of immature cotton, but research people tell us that they play only a minor part. The real villain is the improper use of harvest aid chemicals. Desiccants or defoliants should never be applied before at least 60 or 70

Teenagers Need Money Management Training

Many Texas teenagers don't know how to use money wisely. And many parents fail to provide an opportunity for young people to learn money management.

Recent research conducted in the Blackland area of the state has revealed a "lack of perspective or understanding on the part of parents concerning money as a training instrument." What training occurred was often incidental and not planned, says Fatsy Reynolds, Extension specialist in family life education at Texas A. & M. University.

Dr. Bardin Nelson, who presently is on leave from the A&M Agricultural Economics and Sociology Department to assist with the establishment of an agricultural university in Syria, conducted the research.

Three-fourths of the parents of 15 and 16 year olds studied by Dr. Nelson followed a system of doles or dictated method of providing their children with money. Even with limited allowances, parents should provide the child with a bit more money than is absolutely necessary, so there is an opportunity to make choices about spending money, points out Miss Reynolds.

Many parents supervise their children's use of money closely in order to prevent mistakes. However, people learn from mistakes, and a misspent dime may teach a lesson which may prevent a misspent dollar, the Extension specialist says.

Just as a child must have planned systematic training to learn to read or write, he should have planned opportunities to learn to use money wisely. Boys enter military service at 17, and both boys and girls go away to school or work at this age. Young people need to learn money management before they are "on their own" Miss Reynolds emphasizes.
