

HELPING THE POOR

BY DAVID HARTMAN

The August, 1974, issue of MINISTERS LIFE LINE, a newsletter published by Ministers Life and Casualty Union Insurance Company, had an interesting article titled "Helping The Poor." I want to share it with you.

"A five year study of the poor in America, carried out by the University of Michigan's Institute for Social Research, comes in with facts that contradict generally accepted ideas. For example, the breadwinner's mental attitude has nothing to do with getting ahead or falling behind economically. Confidence and success orientation have no demonstrable effect in pulling families above the poverty level.

Likewise, educational level has little influence. Neither do family behavior patterns, such as ability to plan for the future or willingness to economize. The one significant factor in helping to pull families out of poverty is an institution which can help or inform—such as a church or labor union.

Perhaps your representative can get you a copy of this report, which was produced under contract with the Office of Economic Opportunity. It offers much information about the poor in America, which, incidentally, turns out to be a constantly shifting group."

Interesting, I sure would like to see a copy of the report so I could form my own conclusions.

Wayne Davis Winner of Weekly Contest

The Earth News-Sun football contest got off to a good start last week with just eight contestants missing one game.

The tie-breaker score made the difference in these eight entries.

Wayne Davis placed first and Jimmy Randolph placed second. Guy Kelly and Monty Price tied for third place with each one having the same tie-breaker score.

Some of the entries left the tie-breaker score off that had nine correct. The tie-breaker score is important only in place of a tie for the top three spots in the contest.

Others guessing nine games correct were: Bobby Angeley, Wayne Henderson, Jamie Washington, Carrie Dawn Bean and Lance Phelps.

Vicki Freeman, Micky Price, Larry Price and Keevin Kelley had eight games correct.

Loyd Hood, Randy Latham, Roxie Ludder, William P. Holland, Jr., Jerry Been, Kelley O'Hair, Bill Lunsford, Jerry Barden, Terry Ott, Ann Jones, Mike West, Rodney Geisler, Doug Jones and Earlene Thomas had seven games correct.

Tommy Barlow, James Thomas, Randy Bills and Kirk O'Hair had six games correct.

Robert Conner, Mary Fulfer, Dickie Brown, Andy Ellis, Arlie Ellis, Allen Moore and Gayland Stephens had four games correct.

The contest is just beginning and anyone can be a winner, so get your entries in. Friday at 5 p.m. is the deadline for entries to either be in the news office or postmarked.

Baby's Crib Can Be Dangerous

Most of an infant's first months of life are spent in a crib. Safe as it looks, baby's crib can be a very dangerous place. The U. S. Consumer Product Safety Commission estimates that 150-200 children die every year in crib accidents not related to the sudden infant death syndrome. Another 50,000 infants suffer crib injuries.

To help reduce this heavy accident toll, new federal safety regulations governing the manufacture and design of baby cribs went into effect in February.

Prospective buyers of new cribs should know, however, that cribs meeting these standards are only slowly trickling into the market and that the older, less safe cribs still will be around in the retailer's showroom and warehouses until they are either sold or disposed of. That could mean years. There is no law demanding that retailers stop selling the older-type of crib.

The big change demanded by the new law is spacing of the crib slats 2 3/8 inches apart. It is to prevent children from either slipping through slats and falling, or getting caught and strangling.

Other changes include safety locking devices for drop-sides to prevent the accidental lowering of side rails. Drop mechanisms must now be designed either to operate under ten pounds of pressure or else to operate only after the working of two separate triggers.

Metalwork on the new cribs must be designed to avoid all injury to the infant.

The close fit of mattress to crib is now standardized by the law, preventing baby's head from becoming wedged and warding off the child's possible suffocation. The length, width and rail height are all standardized by the new regulation. Standardizing the rail heights help avoid the most common of all crib accidents--the fall.

Because the parent or buyer will have to look and separate the older-type crib from the new in the showroom or make adjustments if an older crib must be used, the Safety Commission gives these suggestions: Take a tape measure with you when you shop and select a new crib with narrow spacing between the slats. The closer spacing is to the recommended 2 3/8 inches, the safer your infant will be.

Remove all plastic packaging material on a new crib and get rid of it immediately. Bumper pads should be used on any crib--new or old--whose slats exceed the 2 3/8 inch spacing. These run around the inside of the entire crib and normally tie or snap into place. Those which tie should have at least six straps and any excess strap length should be trimmed off.

Many child development specialists recommend only clear, inflatable plastic bumpers. That way the baby can still detect the stimulating color and movement around him.

But any bumpers should be used only until your child can pull himself to a standing position; after that he might use them to try to climb out of the crib.

Buy a mattress that fits snugly on all sides. If you can fit more than two fingers between the mattress and the crib side, the mattress is too small.

The overall condition of an older or second hand crib should be thoroughly checked before it is used. See that no bolts or other fasteners are loose or missing and that all slats are unbroken and securely in place. Check teething rails for damage--they can cut a child's mouth. All missing or broken items should be replaced.

If the crib needs repainting or refinishing, use only paints or varnishes that are labeled non-toxic and lead free.

Inspect the metal parts and edges of the crib frame for sharp or rough edges. File, sand or tape any such areas.

Check the latching mechanism for the drop-side when choosing a crib. The ideal release is one that can't be tripped either by the infant inside the crib or by a small child playing outside the crib.

The majority of crib injuries are suffered in falls from the crib. To help prevent this kind of injury, the mattress should be placed at its lowest setting as soon as the infant can pull himself to a standing position. No toy or other article that could be used to aid climbing should be left in the crib. And no child should be kept in a crib once the side rail height becomes less than three-fourths of the child's height.

Following these suggestions should significantly reduce the possibility that a child will be injured in his crib, according to the Safety Commission report. A final Commission suggestion is that parents remember that a crib is meant for sleeping--and is not to be used as a playpen.

Somebody's trying to take something that belongs to you.

Right here in Texas

In fact, somebody's trying to take something that belongs to all of us: freedom of speech. Somebody's undermining your right to communicate, to listen, to have all available information on a given subject.

Somebody's trying to tell certain Arkansas companies they may not advertise their services.

But advertising is just another word for communication. It is public information; it gives you a choice. It encourages new and better ways of doing things and helps continue the development of newer, better and more economical consumer goods.

Now, however, the right of certain Texas companies to communicate with their customers is in danger. This could ultimately have more far-reaching effects on free speech as we know it.

Right now, we want you to think very long, very hard and very deeply about advertising and about the good it does in America. We want you to think about its effect on business, on your own entertainment, on radio, television, newspapers and magazines, on your right to know.

We want you to think about the effect advertising has on your company's sales, and how the sales of your company affect your own life-style.

Right now, we want you to think very long, very hard and very deeply about the issue of free speech. Then we want you to write Governor Dolph Briscoe, State Capitol, Austin, Texas 78711, and your legislators and your friends and tell them how you feel.

The ball is in your hands. It's up to you not to drop it.

Advertising is everybody's business.

This ad appears as a public service of this newspaper.

BRIGHT STAR IN THE GALAXY OF ELECTRIC HEAT

THE HEAT PUMP

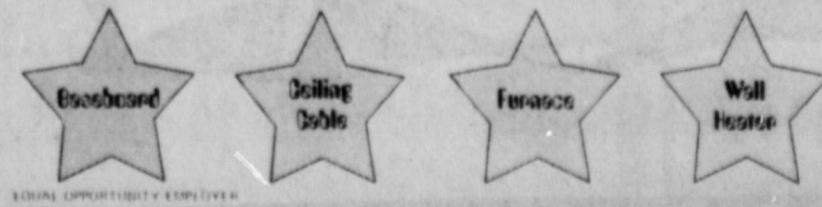

ENERGY EFFICIENT...

We call the heat pump a "Bright Star" because although the idea has been around for some time now... there's a lot more interest in saving energy than ever before... people want to save energy, but they don't have to give up their comfort. With the heat pump, you don't have to give up anything. The heat pump makes wise use of energy because it uses otherwise wasted heat and electricity to heat and cool your home. Electric heat, in any form, is a wise use of precious energy and the heat pump is today's star of the system... more than 100% efficient at the point of use - actually provides more energy than it uses. Call us this week for a free electric heat cost survey of your home... and ask about the heat pump!

Highway Week September 22-28

AUSTIN---Country music star Eddy Arnold is the national chairman for the observance of National Highway Week, September 22-28.

Arnold has used his role as national chairman to call attention to the need for improved highway safety.

"Much has been done to improve highways in recent years," he said. "Our modern Interstate Highways are the safest man has built. Increased emphasis has been placed on safety features in the motor vehicle itself. That leaves you and me--the drivers," he said.

Highway Week is sponsored by the American Association of State Highway and Transportation Officials and member state agencies.

In Texas the Texas Highway Department will sponsor a variety of activities during the week, according to State Highway Engineer Luther DeBerry.

Theme for this year's observance is "Better Roads--Better Living."

It's Important for Children to Play

Play may seem foolish and a waste of time to adults--but for children, hours spent playing are important ones, according to Ilene Carrington, family life education specialist.

"Play provides opportunities for children to learn about their environment, to learn by doing as they play. It provides an emotional outlet and a chance to prepare for future roles," the specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, said this week. Physical play--running, climbing and jumping--builds large muscles and improves coordination.

"Fine body muscles develop and eye-hand coordination improves through the hands of play where a child manipulates or experiments with various materials."

When a child cuts, paints, builds with blocks or investigates how a magnet works, he is also developing physically and mentally. He learns to try different alternatives and to solve many problems, she said.

"Another advantage to play is that the child learns to get along with other people. Learning to share, take turns, and respect the rights of others is not easy to learn. Group games and sharing toys help children learn these difficult lessons."

Dramatic or imaginative play allows children to become more sociable and express emotions more freely.

Texas Now Has 1 1/2 Million Veterans

Latest Veterans Administration population figures show Texas has moved past Illinois into fourth place in national ranking in number of veterans. California, New York and Pennsylvania continue to rank first, second and third, according to Jack Coker, VA Regional Office Director.

Texas with 1.55 million veterans now exceeds Illinois by 1,000. "Veteran Population," published semi-annually in June and December, reveals California now has 3.27 million veterans, compared to 2.51 million for runnerup New York. Third-ranked Pennsylvania has 1.74 million.

States with the fewest veterans, according to the VA publication, are Alaska, 41,000; Wyoming, 49,000; and Vermont, 62,000.

As fiscal year 1974 ended, there were 29.27 million veterans and the largest group, 13.76 million, came from World War II. The second largest group comprises 7.09 million Vietnam Era veterans (service after Aug. 4, 1964).

Korean Conflict veterans (June 27, 1950-Jan. 31, 1955) numbering 5.96 million, are the next largest group. About 460,000 of this group served during both the Korean Conflict and the Vietnam-era, while another 1.25 million Korean Conflict veterans also served during World War II.

Other groups in order of size include 3.10 million veterans who served between the Korean Conflict and the Vietnam-era only; 1.08 million World War I veterans; and 1,000 Spanish-American War veterans, the smallest group.

The VA pamphlet lists the average age for all veterans as 45.5 years, with most, 4.90 million, in the 50 to 54 years age group. The next largest group includes 4.20 million veterans 45 to 49 years old, followed by 3.62 million veterans who are the oldest group, averaging 94.5 years old, contrasting with 48,000 Vietnam-era veterans under 20 years of age.

Spanish-American War veterans are the oldest group, averaging 94.5 years old, contrasting with 48,000 Vietnam-era veterans under 20 years of age.

F.T.A. Elects Officers

Monday, September 2, at 6:00, the local Springlake-Earth Chapter of Future Teachers of America met at the high school for the first time this year.

Officers were elected as follows: President-Kathy Winders Vice-President-Lisa Clayton-Secretary-Karen Smith Treasurer-L'Anna Sulser Parliamentarian-Margaret Street Historian-Cindy Dent Cindy Dent is also the Student Council Representative. Mr. Jerry Beard is again the sponsor of F. T. A. Fourteen members were present.

The overall discussion was what would be done in F. T. A. It was decided that members could be teacher's aids during their study hall. Points would be earned this way and also by selling candy.

The more points earned, the better the chance of getting to go to the state meeting at the end of the school year. Student of the month was also discussed. Lisa Clayton and John Cleavinger were elected for September.

Cotton Pest Management Pays

There's an old saying about the "proof in the pudding." And when it comes to proof about the benefits of cotton pest management, it's a clear-cut case of a paying proposition.

When all the air had cleared and a close look was taken at the cotton pest management program in Texas during 1973, net profits had jumped an amazing $1,203,529. That was an average net return of $35 for every dollar invested by farmers in the pilot program which covered 36,000 acres of cotton in four of the state's major producing areas.

Profits were up mainly due to increased yields and decreased insecticide expenditures. Total yields were up 4,300 bales.

Counties involved in the program are Cameron, Willacy and Hidalgo in South Texas, Frio in Southwest Texas, Pecos and Reeves in Far West Texas, and Hill and Ellis in North Central Texas. Producers in all but Frio County reaped higher net profits per acre, with the high being $55.31 on irrigated cotton in the three-county area in South Texas. Profits were down in Frio County due to increased costs of a full-scale disjunct boll weevil control program.

The three-year program under the direction of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service began in 1972 when 33,000 acres were included. However, the program did not get underway early enough in the season to get a sound economic assessment the first year.

Coordinator of the pest management program in Texas is Dr. Raymond Frisbie, Extension entomologist headquartered at Texas A&M University. The program depends heavily on five county Extension entomologists plus some 28 field scouts who keep a close check on field conditions and insect populations during the cotton season.

"The main objective of the pest management program is to reduce production costs while maintaining optimum yields," points out the entomologist. "Pest management is integrated into the total production program and includes such things as planting early, taking full advantage of beneficial insect populations, careful timing of insecticide applications when pest numbers and economic damage indicate the need, and destroying crop residue."

According to Frisbie, the pest management program revolves around the county Extension entomologists and the field scouts. "These are the people on the scene and in the fields. They assess pest numbers and damage along with the number of beneficial insects and the growth stages of the cotton crop. Then they evaluate the situation and discuss it with the growers as to whether or not control measures should be taken."

Frisbie points out that an important part of the program involves a close working relationship between growers and the county entomologists and field scouts. "Each must have confidence in and be dependent on the other. And that's the type of situation that exists in the pilot areas. Everyone is working together to produce the best cotton crop possible."
