K. B. Parish, talented in many fields recently decided to demonstrate some of his diving know-how talents to his two sons in an all-out effort to teach them how to dive properly. He dived himself out in his favorite swim suit, and with his muscles flexed he dashed out on the board with real gusto and enthusiasm for putting on a convincing show for his two admiring sons. He dived long and deep... The boys were so impressed too... but K. B. having the same luck most fathers have when being observed by their devoted sons, dived too deep... so deep in fact he is now all diked out wearing white bandages on top of his head where he scraped off hide and hair... I'm not positive the lads learned how to dive, but I'm pretty sure K. B. learned how to get out of combing his hair for a few days.

 Life has become so much easier with so many "Instant products" on the market today, like say for instance, Instant potatoes, Instant coffee, etc.

All these things I truly appreciate, believe me I do... However, there is one Instant product that I think "Instant Markets" have doubtless fact overlooked, and due to the fact it is so necessary today I would love to here and now submit my petition to all Instant product makers to channel their efforts in one direction and come up with One Instant Product that would doubtless tend to make life rosey for all us Peons, as well as the Bobby Bakers and Billy Sol Estes of the land... and come to think of it President Johnson couldn't find any excuse for that Poverty Bill he is trying to push through the House and Senate... and better still we could then all even afford to pay the high taxes to support the government while it indulged in competitive business against us, losing money and subsidizing it with our own tax money, while at the same time, cutting down on profits made by Private Enterprise, demanding support until the ultimate end, which of course is closing down privately operated businesses...

All this wouldn't seem so unfair, or make so much difference if we had oodles and gobbs of that wonderful ingredient, "Instant Money", something you mix up with a little water. Wouldn't we all have pockets that jingle, jangle, jingle??? Hohum, such pleasant thoughts but with my luck when the big news broke that "Instant Money" was available someplace, one of two things would take place, I'd either be afraid to get out to get my rightly portion, as doubtless it would mean certain death, the gold rush of '49 would resemble folks just standing still in comparison with the souped up engines of today, driven by us money mad Americans, or secondly, and equally as bad I'd probably be living out in a desert and on the hour the news broke that Instant Money mix was available my well would run dry... with no liquid available for miles.

Come to think of it, a third thing could happen, if I got the mix, and if I had the water, I'd probably just go wild, wild, wild, and use every drop of water I could get my hands on to mix with and become a modern day King Midas, and go down in books as "old greedy I. M. P." (definition: old greedy Instant Money Polly) and die of thirst after using up every available ounce of water to mix instant money, without a thought of a drink for the tomorrows.

(Am't we Americans doing precisely the same thing?)

Mrs. Irvin Ott came by last week to confirm the statement that it is indeed a very small world... and to tell us "hello" from some of our friends and neighbors she by chance met in Chickasha, Oklahoma. She said, "It's funny everywhere you go you meet someone you know, or someone who knows someone you know or something of the kind."

The story goes, she stopped in Chickasha on Highway 61 at the "Big Burger", and in a conversation with the owner-manager, Mrs. Vera McCornin and her lovely daughter and son-in-law, the Jack Aits, she found them to have been our neighbors in Holdenville for many years. (I didn't know where Vera had gotten off to--I knew I had missed seeing her on my visits to Holdenville) Knowing Vera, the O's were treated warmly because no one can be more friendly and warm hearted than Vera... So folks if you are ever through Chickasha, stop by the "Big Burger" and say hello to Vera and family for us.

Fortieth Anniversary Celebration Planned

The city of Earth is rapidly laying the groundwork for a 40th Anniversary Celebration scheduled for the last week in August. Friday, July 17, Mayor Marshall Kelley called a town meeting to discuss the possibility of the celebration. Since that time, the Jaycees have voted to sponsor a beard-growing contest, with several more local civic clubs anticipating called meetings to decide upon a project for the occasion.

If any organization has not already scheduled a meeting to organize their project, they are urged to do so immediately. The celebration is only as successful as the people of Earth want it to be.

Area Bank Deposits Total $30,355,312

The six Lamb County Banks show a total deposit of $30,355,312.81 in a count taken June 30. The figure represents almost the same amount reported in the bank call made this time last year.

Loans and discounts ran almost identical also, which included commodity credit Corporation loans on cotton or grain.

This represents in the eyes of many bankers a gain for the economy since the figure is one which follows a relatively tight 1963 cotton crop, while the 1962 crop was a record one.

One banker described this as an indication of the stability and strength of the area's economy.

The 1964 figures by banks are as follows: First National Bank, Littlefield; Deposits-$5,943,535.64--L&D-$4,163,466.44. First National Bank, Amherst; Deposits-$3,637,284.23--L&D-$1,432,316.77. Security State Bank, Littlefield; Deposits-$8,859,919--L&D-$5,275,318. Citizens State Bank, Olton; Deposits-$2,631,443.75--L&D-$1,342,466.09. Olton State Bank, Olton; Deposits-$6,406,275.54. L&D-$4,418,936.16. First National Bank, Sudan; Deposits-$2,876,858.78--L&D-$2,299,301.88.

Jaycees Sponsor Beards For Anniversary

The Earth Jaycees voted Monday to sponsor a beard growing contest in conjunction with plans made for the Earth 40th Anniversary Celebration, scheduled to be held the last week in August.

Ward herein is issued to all prospective beard growers to begin immediately, for there will be only three alternatives for the male population of Earth--a fine beard, a license permitting the holder a bare face, or a dunking in the horse trough. A word to the wise...

Rory Jones of Sunnyside visited his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Glascock, Monday.

Springlake Schools Gain One Half Teacher Unit

In preparation for the current school year, Springlake Schools report a gain of one half teacher unit in the Home Economics Department of the high school. This will not be an assistant or helper to the Home Economics instructor but actually a regular classroom teacher employed on a one half day basis. Bill Mann, Springlake Superintendent of Schools reported a gain of approximately 12 on average daily attendance over the 1962-63 school year though actually the gain was more than indicated because the figure was cut by several periods of epidemic illness that caused excessive absenteeism among the students.

The teacher gained this year will be Mrs. W. C. Maxey, Olton, who along with Mrs. Cecil Slover who will instruct Home Economics classes.

Mann reported that the teacher units gained in the coming year will be based on current average daily attendance, which in past years it was decided upon by the preceding year's ADA. This means many districts, including Springlake Schools, here the teachers needed and do not know until the end of the school year what amount of reimbursement from state funds they will receive. In the 1963-64 year, one teacher unit was gained.

GENE BROCK

Gene Brock Joins Faculty

Joining the Springlake Faculty is Gene Y. Brock, who comes here from Oklahoma, Texas where he taught sixth grade. Brock is a graduate of Hardin-Simmons University with BS Degree and also has done graduate work at Texas Tech.

Brock was at Oklahoma for two years, and school officials report the Brock family will arrive here around August and reside at the Guy F. Deiley farm. Mr. and Mrs. Brock have two children.

CUT AGAIN--Another 28,602-barrel cut in daily oil allowables was ordered by the Texas Railroad Commission as it held August production to 26.5 per cent of the capability of the wells. Two large purchasers complained they are over-supplied with oil and unable to sell it.

A POPULAR PLACE--Texas State Capitol is being invaded daily by both Texans and out of state tourists who come here to pay tribute to the history of the state. Men, women and children about three times as many children as parents, it seems--literally crowd the Capitol's halls, their number reaching as many as 1,200 a day.

One of the most popular stops on the informal tour (there are no guides) of State buildings is the State Archives and Library, just across a walkway from the Capitol.

There, renowned artists Peter Hurd and his son-in-law Peter Rogers are executing a mural of Texas' history, featuring remarkable likenesses of Stephen F. Austin, Sam Houston and Anson Jones, as well as Davy Crockett and William B. Travis. The mural depicts the conquistador as well as the cowboy. Visitors are invited to pull up a chair and watch the artists at work, and they do. They are also treated to a newly-arranged re-creation of a room from Gov. Elisha Pease's 1853-57, 1867-69 mansion. Furniture was donated to the archives when former Gov. Allan Shivers bought the venerable mansion.

WEST TEXAS SCHOOL--West Texas cities that want to be home to a new West Texas School for the mentally retarded will have to wait until at least September 14 to learn which will be chosen. Chairman of the Board for State Hospitals and Special Schools' site selections committee of the civilization resulted. Soil salinity reduces crop yields by reducing the amount of available water to plants, damaging the physical condition of the soil or through direct toxicity to the plants, Welch points out.

C. E. Bentley of Abilene, said his committee will make a definite recommendation on a single site at that time.

ATTORNEY GENERAL RULINGS--Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr ruled that a county election board must furnish voting booths for all polling places within each city of 10,000 or more inhabitants. Carr also ruled that a county clerk does not have authority to charge the fee for releasing of a chattel mortgage or lien on personal property at the time such mortgage is filed.

VETERANS' COMMISSION--State Auditor C. H. Cavness reports that the Veterans' Affairs Commission helped Texas Veterans and their dependents and survivors obtain $93,591,000 in benefits during the year which ended August 31, 1963. Commissioners are John E. McKelvey of Electra; Justin M. Morrow, Rotan; J. Walter Janko Somerville; Joe F. Ramsey, Jr. Houston; and Charles C. Ford, Longview.

The Soil Testing Laboratory at Texas A&M University has facilities for testing both soil and water for salinity and we urge farmers to use them, says the soil chemist. For more information on soil salinity testing, contact the county agricultural agent or write Dr. C. D. Welch at the Soil Testing Laboratory, Texas A&M University, College Station, Texas.

Irrigated Soils May Contain Harmful Salts

Now is the time to test soils for salinity. Harmful salts, advises Dr. C. D. Welch, Extension soil chemist, are often deposited in the soil during irrigation and while irrigation is active, it is a good time to do some checking.

Salinity may reduce crop yields as much as 25 percent and under extreme conditions may ruin soil for almost any type of agricultural production. All waters contain some salt and a salinity threat exists whenever irrigation is practiced, says Welch.

A soil test to determine the nature and severity of salt conditions should be the first step in management and treatment of salt affected soils.

Authorities attribute the downfall of many civilizations indirectly to soil salinity, especially of those where heavy irrigation was practiced. Salts accumulating in the soil soon become the limiting factor in crop production and ultimately the fall programs when the punctured square count reaches 10-15%. More difficulty and expense will be encountered if populations are allowed to build up to high levels before control is started.

In order to avoid the heavy populations and late season migration which occurred last year, good control measures must be carried out above and below the Caprock. The success of a diapause control program this fall may depend on how well the boll weevil infestations are contained during the season.

Susan Gail Hickman, Edna Texas, who has been visiting her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Hickman, will return home Friday accompanied by her cousin, Debbie Barton to spend a few days.

These light weevil populations now appearing above the Caprock are confined to small areas and can be controlled without spraying the entire field.

Light boll weevil infestations exist in at least two areas above the Caprock.

During the last ten days punctured squares have been found above the Caprock in Dickens County about 14 miles east of Crosbyton and also approximately 7 miles south of Crosbyton in Crosby County. It is likely other infestations may show up soon, says county agent, W. T. Kimbrough.

A Prometryne spray at layby keeps killing weeds for weeks

Effective weed control—that's what you get when new Prometryne® herbicide is applied now, at layby. A layby spray of Prometryne will keep on killing weeds in your cotton for weeks. With Prometryne on the job, weeds won't have a chance to compete for moisture and nutrients. And, you won't have rank weed growth to interfere with good, clean picking.

Gets tough weeds

Three years of research by State and Federal research workers in the Southwest proved the effectiveness of Prometryne in controlling most annual broadleaf weeds and grasses. It does an outstanding job, for example, in handling annual morningglory and pigweed (carelessweed).

Easy to use

Prometryne is easy to handle and apply. Its use will not result in residue problems in the cotton seed. It is non-irritating to humans and animals. It can be used on a wide range of soil types, including sandy soils. A fall seeded crop should not, however, be planted the same season that Prometryne is used.

See for yourself

Don't miss this opportunity to prove for yourself what an excellent job Prometryne can do. Call your herbicide supplier now and make arrangements for enough Prometryne to treat at least a portion of your acreage. See what outstanding, economical weed control a layby spray of Prometryne can give.

Grain Sorghum Irrigation Time Here

It's grain sorghum watering time. Some grain sorghum is already showing signs of moisture stress and should be watered immediately.

County Agent W. R. Kimbrough says grain sorghum uses very little water up to the silver-leaf stage. However, some grain sorghum is past this stage. He also stresses grain sorghum requires the most water at boot and bloom stage. No benefit is gained from irrigation when grain is past the soft dough stage.

Kimbrough says grain sorghum at the silver-leaf stage uses about one-tenth inch water daily. From this stage through blooming, water use rises rapidly.

At booting stage, the crop is using over four-tenths inches water daily. Water use drops sharply after blooming is completed.

Water stress at any time during the growing season through soft dough stage will reduce yields. Examine soil for moisture conditions often, says Kimbrough.

Keep moisture at least to the 50% available moisture level, especially during boot and bloom stages. Most plant roots are in the top two feet so this area must have the moisture replenished.

Water stress at the boot stage can easily cut production 25%. Stress at bloom stage can cut yields as much as 50%. But, Kimbrough warns, excessive moisture after soft dough stage delays harvest and causes tillering or suckering, which complicates harvest and lowers quality.

Plain soils will hold from one to 2.5 inches of moisture per foot of depth, depending on soil types. The more clay and organic matter present in the soil, the higher the water-holding capacity. Total water requirement during the season will run from 16 to 24 inches a year, depending on the year, adds Kimbrough.

BOLL WEEVIL ACTIVITY
Boll weevils which survived the winter have now reproduced and the first generation has laid its eggs, contributing to the rapid development of weevil infestations both below the Caprock and in some areas above the Cap. Don Rummel, Area Entomologist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, advises: "It is imperative that all possible steps be taken to obtain a good control program."
Light weevil populations were present during the week of July 12 in several different areas above the Caprock in Dickens and Rammel counties that many more infestations would undoubtedly show up soon.
In a letter to County Agents in Dickens, Briscoe, Floyd, Crosby and Garza counties, Rummel said: "The Plant Pest Control Division of the USDA has several survey teams working above the Caprock, and these teams have advised to contact the County Agent at once when they find weevil infestations above the Caprock." He further instructed the Agents: "When you are informed of a new weevil infestation, please contact the farmer concerned at once, check out the weevil situation in his field and advise him on control measures."

The surveys and control efforts are a part of the overall weevil control program during this growing season designed to reduce the size of the control zone that will need spraying in the diapause program to begin this fall. Through this diapause program the entire weevil problem on the Plains is expected to be reduced to a simple patrolling operation in three years.

Most of the early populations above the Cap are confined to fairly small areas and can be controlled without spraying the entire fields. At least two applications at 5 to 7 day intervals are being recommended for effected control, and the first should be applied as soon as weevils are spotted.
Below the Caprock, the Extension service is recommending that treatment begin when punctured square counts reach 10 to 15 percent.

TEXTILE INDUSTRY RESPONDS TO COTTON PROGRAM
According to the latest quarterly survey on spending intentions, conducted in May by the Department of Commerce and the Securities and Exchange Commission, the textile industry plans capital outlays totaling $800 million in 1964--27 percent higher than in 1963.
This fact is attributed by Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman to the renewed feeling of confidence in the textile industry brought about by the new cotton program enacted in April. He also cited a 7 percent second quarter increase in expansion plans over winter intentions as an indication of this renewed confidence.
In the same news release, Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman quite pointedly reminded the textile industry that the Department is waiting for the downward movement of prices for textile goods. He said: "The textile industry has repeatedly assured the Department that lower costs of cotton will be reflected in lower consumer prices, particularly because of the competitive nature of the industry. The price of yarns and cloth at wholesale already are reflecting about half the reduction in the cost of cotton."
NEW INTEREST IN AGRICULTURAL CHEMICALS
Just how much of the stepped-up interest in agricultural chemicals was precipitated by Rachel Carson's book "Silent Spring," we don't know, but the book's cursory indictment of both manufacturers and users of each chemical probably did play its part. And, while the book has been severely criticized for its failure to treat the subject in greater depth, it now appears that some good may yet come from the author's efforts.

At the request of President Johnson, the Bureau of the Budget has approved $29 million for accelerated research and education in the field of pest control--research which could eventually bring far-reaching benefits to the High Plains and to Agriculture in general. The proposed program is directed at all agricultural pests, including insects, weeds, and diseases, and has provisions for contract and grant research by universities and new facilities at State experiment stations.
The Supplemental Request, which has yet to be approved by Congress, is said to include $20.3 million for research, $2.3 million for education, $600 thousand for regulation and $5.8 million for constructing new facilities necessary to the expanded program.

In justification of the request, Secretary of Agriculture, Orville Freeman said: "In spite of the tremendous benefits of pesticides to agriculture, the programs inherent in their use must be recognized. Within our available resources, we have endeavored to find new ways of fighting pests without the accompanying hazards of chemical pesticides, but we have not been able to move ahead fast enough."

Education Programs Are Now College Trends

A cooperative education program under which a student alternates between a job and classes is a growing trend among colleges, says Mrs. Wanda Meyer, Extension home management specialist at Texas A&M University.

Cooperative education programs are in operation in 60 colleges around the nation and have some 30,000 students enrolled. The National Commission for Cooperative Education reports: "In a typical plan, a full-time job in industry or a government agency is shared by two students. When one student is on the job, the other attends college. At the end of a semester or quarter, they swap places. Thus the employee is the equivalent of a full-time worker, and each student spends about half of his time in college."

Educators in charge of cooperative programs say they benefit a student in two ways: He earns considerably more--about $500 a year on the average--than a student who works full time only in the summer and part-time during school; and he gets valuable experience in his particular career work.

Cooperative programs are most widely used in engineering colleges, but now are being extended to other fields. Interested students can obtain the list of cooperating colleges by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope to: The National Commission for Cooperative Education, 8 West 40th Street, New York, N. Y.

Visiting Mrs. Sarah Clark last week saw Mr. and Mrs. Denson Dudley and family of Seagraves. The Dudley's and Mrs. Clark visited Mr. and Mrs. Sam H. Raper in Dimmitt and other relatives in Olton, as well as the Wesley's there.
