All immunizations and other preventive health services are available without charge.

In addition to the clinics mentioned above, the office will be open in Earth every Friday in March, except March 3rd, from 9:00 a.m. to 12:00 noon. Call telephone number 257-2094 for further information.

Community Library

Several have inquired if the Community library in the Farmer's Union Office is still in existence. It surely is. There is no librarian per se; however, usually someone is in the office. Feel free to browse, choose the book you wish to read, sign the card, leave it on the table, and don't forget to return the book. We have lost very, very few books in the almost two years, and we like to keep our good record.

To those of you who have loaned books and would like to pick them up, please, do so soon. Leave a note and a list of the books removed, that I may strike them from the invoice in the record book.

Sincerely,
Gladys Parish

Mahon Press Release

Congressman George Mahon, having learned that his picture is being distributed throughout the district in a political advertisement issued by one of the candidates for Congress, made the following statement:

"I was shocked to learn that one of the candidates for Congress in our District had, without my knowledge or consent, placed a picture of him and me in a political advertisement. The picture implies my endorsement of his candidacy. I emphatically disavow this implication. I have not endorsed his candidacy.

"I had thought that citizens generally, and candidates in particular, knew of my often repeated statement that I would not seek to influence the people of our District in the selection of my successor. I deplore the unauthorized use of my picture and the implication which it suggests."

"We Do Business The West Texas Way"

Letter To The Editor

Dear Editor:

As a concerned American I felt I could no longer criticize my government unless I wrote and explained my position to all of the Senators. Hope you will print the names of these United States Senators as others may wish to write. I have just finished writing all of them to express my deep concern of the giveaway of our Panama Canal.

I just can't understand the giveaway of one of the wonders of American ingenuity. To buy friendship with the price tag of the Panama Canal, is just too costly and dangerous. What would it take next year to please these and other so called friends.

Why didn't Carter tell of his giveaway plans while on the campaign trail? What will he give away next year? And if the treaties are such a good idea, why is he spending so much time trying to sell ideas to the American people who are not illiterate, and pressuring the Senators?

If you are concerned please write as some Senators are not listening to the voice of the people one of which is our very own.

Sincerely,
Ann Kelley

Cutting Electricity Bills

New lighting systems hold the promise of cutting our electricity bills—and seeing that our tax dollars go further.

At home, for example, by changing lighting from ordinary light bulbs to fluorescents, you get more light from the same number of watts. And the new fluorescent reduced-wattage lamps consume 10 to 20 percent less energy than conventional tubes.

Highway lighting, street lighting and outdoor lighting generally work to save lives, reduce crime and improve security—so cutting down on light is not necessarily an answer for saving on electricity bills, says the National Electrical Manufacturers Association. Changing to new high-pressure sodium or metal halide lamps means getting more light from less power. Quite a bit can also be done in older commercial buildings by changing patterns of use, by changing the position of lights with respect to those needing them and by changing lamps. A bright future for electrical savings doesn't have to mean dim homes and offices.

(nee Tammy Davis)

Davis-Simpson Vows Exchanged

In a beautiful double ring ceremony on Saturday, February 4 at 7:00 p.m. at the First Baptist Church in Springlake, Tammy Davis became the bride of Matt Simpson. Officiating the ceremony was Br. Glenn Smith.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Davis of Springlake and Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Houchin of Earth.

Decorations included the choir rail decorated with garlands of greenery and baby's breath surrounding candelabras with white tapers and blue bows. Baskets of white carnations and pink roses enhanced with greenery and pink bows, adorned either side of the candelabras.

Musical selections included "Evergreen" and the "Wedding March" by Mary Kate Belew on the piano. Singing "Oh Perfect Love" was Mary Lee Clayton accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Belew.

The bride presented in marriage by her father, looked lovely in her gown of candlelight ivory silk organza, elegantly trimmed in seed pearls. The bodice was enhanced with a scoop neckline, offset by long sleeves bordered with wide lace ruffled cuffs. Her head was adorned with a Juliet cap holding a waltz length chantilly lace edged veil of illusion accented by scattered lace motifs. For something old she wore a ring belonging to her grandmother, something new, diamond necklace, something borrowed, diamond ear studs and the traditional blue garter. For good luck she carried pennies in her shoe minted in the year of their birth. She carried her white lace trimmed Bible, topped with the bride's bouquet of symbolium orchids on baby's breath and small blue and pink silk flowers.

Serving as maid of honor was Pam Ott. She was attired in a light blue floor length dress and carried long stemmed white carnations with light pink and blue bows.

Bridesmaid Jill Barden and Junior bridesmaid Jan Payne, cousin of the bride from Lubbock, were dressed identically to the maid of honor.

Stacie Payne, flower girl, cousin of the bride from Lubbock was dressed in a floor length light blue dress. Ring bearer was Tim Anthonise, cousin of the groom from Lubbock.

Serving the groom as best man was Tim May. Groomsmen were Del Davis, brother of the bride and Duane Simpson, brother of the groom from Lubbock.

Serving as ushers and candelighters were Lonnie Neinaast and Terry Pollard, uncle of the groom from Three-Way.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the fellowship hall of the church. The bride's table, covered with a white lace over satin floor length cloth was centered with an arrangement of pink flowers with gold accent. Serving the pink three-tiered heart shaped wedding cake, pink fruit punch, nuts and mints from crystal and silver appointments were Celeste Simpson, sister of the groom, Rosie Lewis and Vicki Freeman.

Ranae Winder registered guests in the bride's book from a table covered with a white floor length lace and linen cloth accented with floral arrangement of blue and pink silk flowers.

Passing out rice bags from white baskets with light blue bows were Brene Belew and Susan Clayton.

Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Carl Pollard, groom's grandparents from Stegall, Kathy Antonise, Tim and Lori, aunt of the groom from Lubbock, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Pollard, uncle of the groom from Tulia, Mr. and Mrs. Terry Pollard, uncle of the groom from Three-Way, Mr. and Mrs. C.L. Houchin, groom's grandparents and Christine Payne, Jan and Stacie, aunt of the bride from Lubbock.

For their short wedding trip the couple were dressed in identical western attire. The bride is a Senior at Springlake-Earth High School. The groom attended Springlake-Earth High School and is presently employed at Earth Pump & Machine. The couple is at home in Earth.

HINTS ON HAVING HEALTHY HOUSE PLANTS

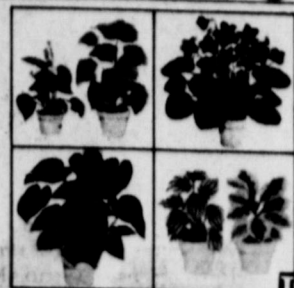

Anyone can have a "green thumb"—it's no mystical power, but just a matter of having a little plant care know-how. Here's some advice for keeping your house green all year long:

• Make sure you start out with healthy specimens. Look out when plants aren't perk up, like webs or dried-out brown spots on leaves.

• Think about your home's lighting before you buy a plant. If you get little light, for instance, an African violet won't thrive unless you grow it under artificial light.

• Feed your plants. Soil has some nutrients, but they may not be enough or the right kind to make leaves their greenest or to make plants bloom. But make sure you get the kind that's right for your plants. For instance, the House in Bloom line, which you'll find displayed in your supermarket, is the convenient way to mistake-proof plant care. It includes four kinds of plant food you just spray into the soil: for flowering plants, for foliage plants, for African violets, and for people who want an organic food with no chemicals.

• See that you're using the right pot size. When roots fill the pot, the plant can't grow; if you use too big a pot, roots can become soggy and rot. Always move plants to the next size container—from a 4-inch to a 5-inch pot, for instance. The Plantool, which you'll find in the plant supply display will help you report and do other chores. It's a tiny all-purpose indoor gardener aid for grooming, pruning, aerating and tamping soil—and even helps take cuttings.

• Make sure plants have enough humidity—most homes are too dry. Spray them with a plant mister weekly. Also put a layer of vermiculite in the tray under the plant and keep it wet for added humidity.

This was prepared by experts in the plant care laboratories of House in Bloom.

Stay Slim Meals

Restaurants offer "stay slim" meals when their customers follow a "no fats" rule-of-thumb and eat according to the Daily Food Guide, advises Frances Reasonover, a foods and nutrition specialist.

The guide recommends eating foods from the four Food Groups every day. Groups are milk, meat, fruit-vegetables, and bread-cereals, she adds.

Miss Reasonover is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the Texas A&M University System.

For stay-slim menus that include these, the secret is to eat only the recommended amounts of each and focus on low-calorie items.

As a general guide for amounts, adults should drink two or more cups of milk, and eat two servings of meat, four servings of fruits and vegetables, and four or five servings of breads and cereals every day.

A "no fats" rule-of-thumb includes several "stay slim" ideas:

*Ask that vegetables be trimmed from chops, steaks, chicken or fish and request that meat be broiled without fat.

*Ask that vegetables be prepared without fat, and avoid those that are buttered, creamed or prepared with sauces that contain fat.

*Select gelatin and fruit salads without cream cheese, sweet or sour cream.

*Limit the amount of margarine, salad dressings and other fats.

*Select skim milk, fruit juice, vegetable juice, coffee or tea as a beverage, but pay close attention to only the recommended amount.

*For dessert, choose fresh or unsweetened fruit, fruit ice or gelatin-type desserts, and pay strict attention to amounts of these.

How To Use Your Fireplace To Save Money

Everyone likes to save money. If you own a fireplace and know how to use it effectively, you may be able to save 14 percent or more on winter fuel bills this year.

The following hints on getting the most from your fireplace as a supplemental heating source are taken from "The Fireplace Efficiency Report," published by Duraflame, Inc., the leading firelog manufacturer.

• Make sure your fireplace draws well. Prune back overhanging limbs or large trees close to the chimney. They can create a downdraft, causing the fireplace to smoke on windy days.

• Check the height of your chimney. It should be at least two feet higher than any point within a ten foot radius on a sloped roof, three feet higher than a flat roof. Add prefabricated, stainless steel liners to increase chimney height.

• Have your fireplace and chimney inspected annually and cleaned, if necessary.

• Always build a controlled fire. Use three hardwood logs, tightly crumpled paper and kindling to make a good cordwood fire or burn Duraflame-type logs which provide a controlled fire naturally.

• Open the damper when the fireplace is in use to keep from choking the fire; close it when the fire is out to keep warm room air inside. To be sure the damper closes tightly, hold a hand mirror inside the flue to check for light cracks.

• Don't close the damper if the fire is still smoldering. Instead, block the front of the fireplace with a tight-fitting metal cover or a glass screen.

• Make sure the fire gets enough air to burn properly. Leave a window in the room ajar or, if possible, clean and open the ash pit so that outside air can flow directly into the fireplace.

• Turn the thermostat down and close off the doors to the rest of the house. When there's a fire on the hearth, plan family activities to center around it.

ASTROWORLD-Houston, Texas. Guests get a cool, refreshing splash down the oriental water flume of the Bamboo Shoot, one of Astroworld's more than 100 rides, shows, and attractions to be enjoyed within a one or two day's time.

ASTROWORLD-Houston, Texas. The futuristic design of Astroworld's newest launching loop coaster, Greezed Lightnin', (left), in contrast to the massive wooden structure of the world's No. 1 roller coaster,

The Texas Cyclone, (right), illustrates the uniquely distinctive thrill sensations in store for thrill-seekers at the Houston-based theme park this year.

Entertainment Creates Astroworld Fun

The new and different experiences that Astroworld continuously offers its guests generate yearly return visits from millions of fun-seekers who are lured to brave the newest thrill ride or witness the latest attraction.

This season, Astroworld will unveil its latest thriller, "GREEZED LIGHTNIN'." An innovative loop coaster which combines instant acceleration with backward motion to produce a unique kind of excitement.

"GREEZED LIGHTNIN'" exemplifies our constant effort to provide an ever-changing assortment of entertainment experiences," says Bill Crandall, Vice President and General Manager of the Houston theme park.

Putting that philosophy into practice has spurred record-breaking attendances for the park each year since Six Flags, Inc. resumed operations in May 1975. That year, the park took on a new look as ride capacity was increased with the addition of three new attractions. Food and drink stands as well as shaded rest areas were added for the comfort and convenience of guests.

In 1976, Astroworld's theme worlds became even with the 1920's Coney Island section featuring a 1200 seat, air-structured theater and the world's number one roller coaster, the Texas Cyclone. Astroworld will begin weekend operations March 11 with special daily operations during Easter week.

The emphasis was on live show entertainment in 1977 when shows at Astroworld totaled nine as compared to one in 1975. The expanded show schedule continues into '78 with several full-scale musical extravaganzas, water skiing exhibitions and a dolphin show among others to entertain guests by day and high-diving feats and fireworks spectaculars to spark magic until midnight on summer evenings.

Talented high school and college students will debut in such Broadway calibre productions as "Happy Trails," a "down-home" country show with a western flavor and "Once a Year Day" a foot-stomping hillbilly musical revue.

Special events highlighting 1978 include in June, "A Touch of Elvis," a Polynesian Revue featuring Tahitian dancers throughout July, and in August, a month-long salute to Mexico complete with mariachis and "south of the border" charm. Celebrities scheduled for Astroworld appearances include Wolfman Jack, the Starland Vocal Band, the Ohio Players, and Marilyn McCoo and Billy Davis, Jr.

Thrill Seekers Paradise

"To ride or not to ride" is the decision that faces most amusement park goers today as monster sized thrill rides are becoming the dominating force throughout the nation's thirty-three major theme parks in a competitive bid for "king of the thrills." The typical thrill-seeker's choice is "to ride", and the more ferocious the thrill, the better.

In reaction to this thrill fever, Houston's Astroworld is building up a Texas-sized repertoire of unique "scream machines" that are enticing thrill enthusiasts from across the state and the nation.

Astroworld's first claim to thrill fame is the world-renowned TEXAS CYCLONE, a devilish wooden roller coaster whose high speed, curves, and dips have placed it as the world's number one thrill ride on expert Robert Cartmell's elitist list of top ten roller coasters.

The novelty of the TEXAS CYCLONE is that it recaptures the golden age of roller coasters that debuted during the 1920's. It is a faster, steeper, higher, and longer version of the celebrated New York Coney Island Cyclone, originally built in 1927.

The TEXAS CYCLONE's popularity is a result of as Robert Cartmell puts it, "a free-for-all of curves-big bad curves-blurred hills, speed, sky, and cars that you would swear are curling under the tracks!"

The success of the TEXAS CYCLONE prompted Astroworld officials to add another thrill ride to the season that equaled the TEXAS CYCLONE in the thrill department.

It was discovered that a factory in the seemingly quiet and quaint community of Munsterhausen, West Germany was manufacturing the nerve-tangling ride that Astroworld officials were seeking, an innovative launching loop coaster that German ride experts say "offers more thrills per second than any other ride in the world today."

The launching loop is an engineering masterpiece in that it propels riders from a complete standstill to sixty miles per hour in less than four seconds through the use of a catapulting drive mechanism.

Riders orbit upside-down around an 80 foot high loop, up a 138 foot incline at a steep 70 degree angle, pause momentarily, then prepare to experience the entire once again, this time "backwards."

The name "GREEZED LIGHTNIN'" will aptly reflect the new loop's outrageous split-second thrill sensations of acceleration, near weightlessness, upside-down, and backwards motion when the ride joins Astroworld's thrill collection in the late spring. Whether the Astroworld guest decides "to ride" or prefers "to observe", Astroworld officials say that just watching friends orbit upside-down on GREEZED LIGHTNIN' or ride the massive network of hills and curves on the TEXAS CYCLONE, can be "visually thrilling" as well.

What makes man seek those preposterous new thrills? German ride designer, Warner Stengel, who invented the launching loop, says, "Men have always throughout centuries, tried to build amusement rides out of available materials because of a need to experience something abnormal, extraordinary. This is what a good thrill ride should achieve."

Rider or not, Astroworld's set of "terrifying machines that Americans love" will challenge even the most ardent sightseer, or thrill-seeker.

built to save

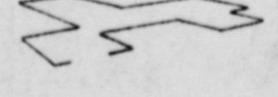

The key to saving IS INSIDE...

THE WALLS AND CEILINGS
The outside walls of the ENERGY EFFICIENT HOME meet standards according to three options. The first option uses 6 inch studs with 6 inch batt-type (R-19) insulation. Option two has 8 inch studs and 3 inch insulation (R-11) with 3 1/2 inch styrofoam sheathing. The third option uses R-15 minimum insulation with any other method. All options include a vapor barrier of 6 mil. polyethylene or foil-backed sheetrock. Sill insulation or sill caulking between the bottom plate and the floor also is required. If ceiling is insulated with R-30.

THE DOORS AND WINDOWS
Outside doors and windows on the ENERGY EFFICIENT HOME are weather stripped and caulked. In addition, double pane glass or storm windows and insulated core or storm doors are vital contributors to the dollar-wise built to save ENERGY EFFICIENT HOME. A recommendation is made that maximum glass area comprise 8% or less of floor space.

THE FLOORS
The very foundation of the ENERGY EFFICIENT HOME is the floor - an important factor in saving energy and money. Sub floor joists are caulked in the cavity between bricks and laid up to the top of the floor. An alternate is a layer of rigid urethane or styrofoam minimum of 3 1/2 inch thickness from top of floor along the outside edge of the slab down to the brick ledger. Wood floors (per and beam) must be insulated with R-13.

When you're planning to buy or build a new home, you start by taking a really good look inside. Because the key to comfort and saving is INSIDE - INSIDE the walls, in the doors and windows, under the floor and in the ceiling. So peek INSIDE the ENERGY EFFICIENT HOME - really INSIDE. You can see that it's BUILT TO SAVE - Energy and Money.

PIONEER

More Income Per Acre

In 61 field comparisons during 1977, 3541 recorded an average income advantage of more than $25' an acre over competitive hybrids... and averaged 2.7 points drier at harvest. This new medium-maturity hybrid dries faster and stands better than competitive full-season corns. But 3541 yields more than others of similar maturity, so it gives you a greater potential for profit. 3541 has the performance characteristics you need.

*Based on corn price of $3.70/100 lbs.

- Excellent head smut tolerance
- Excellent standability
- Outstanding yields
- Good ear retention
- Fast drydown

THE COTTON FARMER'S CORN

PIONEER 3780

- Yields more than sorghum for greater income potential
- Early water use makes it the best companion to cotton
- Dries fast to reduce harvest, hauling and dockage costs
- Excellent standability

Pioneer brand 3780 corn is an ideal companion to cotton because it uses water early in the growing season... long before your cotton needs water. And because of its unusual water use pattern, 3780 won't need water later in the season when wells begin to drawdown.

Compared to other corns or sorghum, 3780 matures sooner, dries faster and requires less fertilizer and insecticides. It'll be harvested and in the elevator long before your cotton is ready to harvest, so you'll use machinery and manpower more efficiently.

If you're looking for an ideal companion crop for your cotton, consider "the other crop"... 3780 the cotton farmer's corn.

The incident that took place in Amarillo last Tuesday is regrettable when some nuts hit or tried to hit Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland with eggs and snowballs or whatever else they could get hold of. There will always be a few nuts involved in any large gathering, whether it's farmers, publishers, lawyers, doctors or coal miners. There is no way however, to justify physical rudeness or violence.

The egg throwing incident will no doubt get more attention in the electronic media than will the points made by striking farmers in their arguments for a chance to operate their farms in a sound agriculture climate. The indiscrete acts of a few individuals shouldn't be allowed to slow up the American Agriculture movement.

The president and his secretary of agriculture are missing the point when they discuss the problems confronting the American farmers and their relationship to the national economy. Unless there is something done immediately to enhance the outlook for agriculture industry, the depressed conditions that are facing the farmer will spread like wildfire to all segments of the American economy. A sure result of the farmer's plight, due to the price cost squeeze will be other segments of the national economy marching on Washington. Something must be done. All the farmers want to see a little light at the end of the tunnel.

Carl King of Dimmitt, testified before the House Agriculture Committee on February 14, the president of Texas Corn Growers Association, backed a House Agriculture bill introduced by Congressman Jack Hightower (D Texas) rather than the somewhat similar Dole bill in the Senate. Hightower's bill introduced two days before King testified last week would set higher prices for farm loans as well as for target price, and would be for four years instead of one. King will return to Washington on March 1 to testify before the Senate Agriculture Committee. There, too, he said, he will push for adoption of the Hightower bill. King said on his return last week that the two bills, Hightower's and Dole's will probably go to a House-Senate conference committee, "and I imagine we will come out with a compromise, probably with a two-year bill being recommended." I doubt seriously that it will give us 100% parity but hopefully it will give us a shot at hanging on a little longer and staying in business at least until things get a little better for the farmer," he said.

President of the Texas Corn Growers Association, King testified for that body as one of 24 representatives of farmers. Jay Boston of Hereford, president of the Panhandle Farm Gas Users Association, also testified before the House Agriculture committee on the cost of natural gas.

King's testimony also called for a special rate for natural gas used for irrigation. It was the Dimmitt man's third trip to the national capital in the past three weeks, when farmers from over the U.S. have been pushing for legislation and executive action to ease the present farm crisis.

Asked if he feels chances are good that Congress will "crum a new Agriculture Act down the President's throat," after President Carter's indication of indifference to the farmer's requests, he said, "I hope they do." In addition to his formal statement, to which was attached statistical analysis of crop and livestock production on the Texas Plains, and costs of this production in comparison to market prices of the crops, King made this statement to the committee:

"Many authors have predicted the Great Depression of 1979 in this country. I say to you that the Depression has already started on the farm now, in 1978. In my opinion the President and Mr. Bergland (Secretary of Agriculture) will not implement discretionary powers to avert this financial crisis. Therefore, it is up to this committee and the Senate Agriculture Committee to save this great rural area and the nation as well."

While he was in Washington, King also visited Senator Lowell Weicker (R-Conn.) and his energy aide, Senator Pete Domenici of New Mexico, Senator Ford of Kentucky, Senator Henry "Scoop" Jackson of Washington and Senator Bartlett of Oklahoma.

On the first of his three recent trips, the main objective was to discuss industrial rates for gas and incremental prices.

"We were told we couldn't expect any change for at least a year in gas pricing policies; that means we're stuck with the pass-through provision for at least another year," he said. The House Agriculture Committee's 26 members only 8 were present last week to hear the men who testified, King said.

After presenting his formal recommendations, which were framed by directors of the T.C.G.A. as their proposals "to alleviate the plight of the American farmer," King concluded by saying "We believe a strong farm economy is a must, not only for the farmer but the American consumer as well. This will help stimulate the economy by creating more jobs, assuring abundant supply of food and fiber and continue to be a contributing factor in helping our balance of trade."

The recommendations included endorsement of the "flexible parity act" introduced by Congressman Hightower and others, allowing full parity of target prices at the 50 percent set-aside level, also the loan provision of the Hightower bill "put a solid floor where prices are now and not allow the world market to go any lower."

They stressed market development including more exports of farm products through more competitive interest rates and longer term credit sales, "as customarily used in the past, with each county ASCS Committee having discretion."

The recommendations emphasized that higher grain prices were not being sought at the expense of livestock feeders, "because in a year's time 30 tons of an ocean-going ship won't be any grain to feed."

They also touched on extended reserve loan program and the crop disaster program, as well as the cost of natural gas used in crop production. After his experiences in Washington and seeing the effect of other farmers and farm groups in their attempts to influence favorable legislation, King said "The farmer needs to keep applying grass-roots pressure, not just right now, but from now on. What we really need is a group of lobbyists that will work for the farmer's interests, the same as the foreign sugar lobby and all other lobbies in Washington."

Senator Bob Price Proposal

Senator Bob Price, announced from his Pampa office recently that he is now drafting a proposal earmarking an appropriate amount of state funds for Texas agricultural sales teams, which would travel to foreign countries to sell Texas agricultural products. Price plans to introduce this proposal when the Legislature meets in January 1979.

Senator Price said that the sales teams would be responsible for making contact in advance with interested buyers in foreign countries, so that future meetings could be arranged to sell the products. The sales teams would consist of people selected by the agriculture producers themselves.

"For too long, we have relied on government agricultural salesmen and overseas attaches to be our salesmen," Price said.

"It is time the agriculture producers of this state and the nation take on the responsibility of selling their products in the world market. I believe an aggressive world sales force can double our overseas sales in five years, with results that production would not have to be curtailed. Our great country was not built on running at half throttle."

Senator Price explained other duties of the sales teams. Prior to transactions of a sale, the sales team would be responsible for obtaining export clearance forms from the U.S. Department of Agriculture and contacting the proper authorities for export licenses. In addition, Price said, the teams must check on the availability of foreign sales nations, and they must secure land and see transportation for products they sell.

Senator Price also announced today his staff selections for his district office in Pampa and his Capitol office in Austin.

Margaret Spearman will head the office in Pampa. Margaret is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Spearman, who ranch near Pampa. Margaret graduated with honors from Pampa High School in 1973, and holds a B.A. degree in History from Texas Tech.

Kathy Morris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Ray Morris of Perryton, holds the position of first secretary in Austin. Kathy has had extensive experience as legal secretary and office manager. She was personnel officer for the American National Bank, and she also worked for the American Quarterhorse Association.

Kathy was raised in Perryton in Ochiltree County. Her father farms near there, and her mother is a school teacher in the Perryton school system. Kathy graduated from Harding Academy in Searcy, Arkansas, where she majored in business. She attended Amarillo College, Harding College in Searcy, and Midwestern University in Wichita Falls.

Senator Price's legislative assistant is Thomas Davis, 47. Davis, a graduate of Texas Lutheran College, was Senator J.P. Word's administrative assistant, and was also the chief clerk of the Senate re-districting committee in the early 1970's. He is married and has two daughters. Rex Andrew will be press and research assistant. Andrew, a journalism graduate from the University of Texas has been an aide to Senator Walter Mendon.

Mrs. Marion Mercer Damsen of Austin will be a secretary in the Austin office. Marion, a graduate of Southwestern Texas State University, has worked in state government over a period of years. She has worked in the Attorney General's office, and she has also been a legal secretary for several prestigious law firms.

Senator Price said that his offices in Pampa and Austin are ready to help with requests and questions by mail and phone. Those addresses are: Hughes Building Annex, Rm 264-A, Pampa.

USDA To Pay Stamp Benefits

People who would have qualified for a 30-day emergency allotment of food stamps but were turned down under 1974 verification procedures may be eligible for back benefits, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Carol Tucker Foreman announced today.

People whose applications were delayed or denied or who contacted food stamp offices but didn't apply because they thought the 1974 rules would cause delays or other problems also may be eligible for retroactive benefits, Ms. Foreman said.

A federal district court in San Francisco recently ordered the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) to pay the back benefits, after ruling the 1974 verification procedures invalid because they were not published for public comment in the Federal Register, as required by federal law.

"USDA allows applicants in urgent need of assistance to get an emergency 30-day food stamp allotment without having to wait for all the information on the application to be fully verified," Ms. Foreman said. "This aid is limited to applicants who list net income low enough to qualify for free food stamps—$30 a month for a family of four."

However, under the 1974 rules, applicants could only receive this emergency aid without verification once every six months. Local food stamp offices also could not issue the emergency stamps until they got preliminary confirmation of household circumstances from a source with knowledge of an applicant's financial situation.

Ms. Foreman said would be limited to those who applied for or asked about food stamps after August 4, 1974, the date that the verification procedures went into effect.

State welfare agencies will have until April 7 to notify people who might be eligible for back benefits. People who think they qualify should contact their local food stamp offices for further information.

Investment Program Hit

State Treasurer Warren G. Harding Friday said the state's investment program had hit a new milestone, according to figures compiled by the Treasury Department.

Harding said that the percentage of unobligated public funds invested in interest-bearing time accounts in Texas banks had reached 90.64 percent on February 8, the highest in the history of Texas.

Calling it a "significant development," Harding also said that for three days this month, the percentage has stood above the 90 percent mark. He said the figure for February 7 was 90.55 percent, the first time ever in the history of the state that figure has gone above the 90 percent mark. For February 9, the figure stood at 90.61 percent.

The state treasurer, who was appointed to that office last Fall, emphasized that time deposits averaging $1.78 billion, an earning interest in 1,300 Texas banks at a 6.5 percent rate.

"What is important to note," said Harding, "is that this means that for the first time ever less than 10 percent of the public's money is sitting idly, not earning interest, in Texas banks."

Harding added that even those figures are deceiving because while that 10 percent figure represented an average of $184.6 million in demand accounts, the state was in the process of paying out $126 million during those three days, leaving only $44 million in the accounts, "as a cushion."

"When I came to this office I emphasized that I would take a cautious approach in seeking to improve the investment situation of the state," Harding said. "I think these figures indicate that that approach is paying off in greater benefits for the people of Texas."

Harding said that his office will continue to make a thorough study of methods to improve state's public funds investment program.

Prior to Harding coming into office, the percentage of funds invested in time accounts had been consistently at about 50 percent. That figure rose to an average of 60 percent during Harding's first three months in office.

DAIRY HERD TESTING—Increased emphasis on dairy herd management, the goal of the Dairy Herd Improvement (DHI) program, has helped Texas dairy industry make solid gains in the past several years, notes a specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. DHI figures show 388 herds and more than 47,000 cows currently enrolled in the DHI testing program. Milk production now averages 13,400 pounds per cow per year compared to 12,631 pounds in 1973.

HELPING THE POOR TO HELP THEMSELVES

TALKING WITH RELIEF WORKERS in Guatemala Bishop Edwin B. Broderick (in shirt sleeves, right) after shattering earthquakes killed more than 38,000 persons and caused $1 billion property damage.

The greatest needs of the poorest countries in the developing world are the simplest. When you come right down to it, the basic needs of the very poor are the basic simple ones of food, clothing, sanitation and the opportunity to build a better life for themselves," according to Bishop Edwin B. Broderick.

Bishop Broderick is Executive Director of Catholic Relief Services (CRS). The agency he heads is one of the largest voluntary relief and development organizations at work in the developing world. CRS owes its existence to the continuing support of the Catholics of the U.S. and their Bishops who have set up CRS to give concrete expression to the Christian affirmation that all men are brothers.

Catholic Relief Services last year provided aid, rehabilitation and development assistance in 85 countries. Its programs and activities touched the lives of some 18 million men, women and children overseas providing goods and young. That's why we have committed our dedicated young staff and rely on thousands of local volunteers to help break this vicious cycle of poverty by zeroing in on the basic problem of good diet."

Besides Africa, CRS is at work in South and Central America, Asia and the Middle East. "Our single greatest resource is the more than 700 American, international and local CRS staffers who work abroad, often under difficult circumstances and with great personal sacrifice," the Bishop said. With their help and the generous support of American Catholics and others concerned with the poor and needy overseas, CRS is engaged in a broad variety of activities.

CRS is perhaps best known for its emergency and disaster work. Bishop Broderick visited the staffers in Guatemala City last year to see first hand the continuing efforts they are making to rebuild that earthquake-shattered land. In the past year, CRS also provided food, clothing, medicines and cash assistance for 14 other lesser emergencies.

Among these were earthquakes in Italy, Guam, the Philippines, Mexico, Turkey and Rumania as well as drought in Haiti, northern Brazil, Bangladesh, Indonesia and several areas in Africa. Civil strife in Lebanon and Ethiopia also claimed CRS assistance as did refugee problems in Portugal, Lebanon, Yemen and Jordan.

"For more than 34 years, the American Bishops, the U.S. Catholics and many private agencies have demonstrated their great compassion for the poor and needy around the world by supporting the work of Catholic Relief Services and this past year was no exception," the Bishop explained.

Are You Addicted To our Eating Habits?

It were proven to you that a "test" food would prevent medicine, would you voluntarily choose to eat it?

Probably not, says Dr. Martin H. Floch, Chairman of the Department of Medicine at Norwalk Hospital and Clinical Professor of Medicine at the Yale University School of Medicine.

Unless you practiced behavior-modification techniques and not unless that food was particularly appealing.

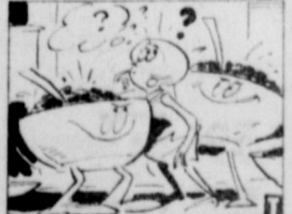

During an eight-week experiment, subjects ate an appetizing bran cereal for breakfast but when the test food, only one third of which was continued to include high-fiber food in their diet. This, despite the fact that all were aware of its healthful benefits.

Dr. Floch found, as did other researchers, that encouragement is necessary to ensure a food's acceptance and inclusion in the diet.

High fiber foods, which help ensure a healthy digestive tract, often fail the "sensory factor" test, Dr. Floch says. The subjects in the experiment ranked the cereal low in appearance, aroma, flavor and texture. They complained they had to eat too much of the palatable bran to produce the desired effect.

Dr. Floch recommends starting diets to individual tastes, substituting other foods sensorially pleasing sources of fiber such as Metamucil. A rounded teaspoonful of Metamucil powder, a natural source from the outer husks of psyllium seed, can be added to juice, water, iced tea or coffee, and provides less than 15 calories per serving.

Similar "tailoring" has worked with low-cholesterol "egg products" and spun soy-protein meat substitutes.

Or, dieters can change their attitudes and seek social reinforcement for them. Such behavior-modification techniques have helped people control their weight, limit smoking and alcoholic intake, feel less chronic pain and experience less hysteria or depression—conditions in which the results are apparent.

However, behavior modification may not work as well in increasing fiber intake, where there is no obvious benefit. "We'd have to spread the word about the risks of a fiber deficient diet and possible disease states to influence their choices," says Dr. Floch.
