Class Officers, Favorites are Elected

In class meetings held immediately after assembly on Friday September 1, the students of Springlake-Earth School elected their officers and class favorites for the 1972-73 year.

FOOTBALL— Contest Begins

It's that time again with the football season beginning and everyone in the mood to show their skill at picking the winning team each week, so the Earth News-Sun has again, as in previous years, began their football guessing contest.

In addition to the weekly prizes, a grand prize of two tickets to the New Years Day game played in the Cotton Bowl in Dallas plus $25.00 in cash will be given.

It is an easy game to play, just clip out the official entry blank on the contest page each Thursday and mark your winning team, and the tie breaker game scores for the Wolverines and opponents, and mail or bring it into the News office.

The weekly winners will be announced along with the standings.

Contestants are urged to enter each week, because the grand prize will be awarded to the contestant with the most points, and missing only one week will put the contestant far behind in competing for the grand prize.

Weekly winners will be awarded $5.00 for first place, $3.00 for second place, and $2.00 for third place. In case of a tie, the tie breaker score will be used to determine the winner.

Entries will have to be in the News office no later than 4 p.m. on Friday for the cash prizes and for a chance at the grand prize, the Cotton Bowl.

We're Better Off In America

the other day it was raining in Earth and as the rains poured down outside, my wife and I, sitting in our Den in our house began talking, about how expenses seemed to be increasing each year. Our electric was up, so was our gas and insurance rates on our property had increased, as had taxes, medicare insurance, and our auto insurance going up each year.

These increases were taking a larger bite out of our fix-income. Our postal rates were making subscriptions on our magazines, even telephone had taken a we chatted, I wondered if we were as well off as my family was forty eight years ago when I was then at home on my farm in England.

So Lady Ann Wilkins went down south of England and bought herself a large castle. She took all the furniture that belonged to her as well as all the servants and set up house-keeping on her own. George moved his family, his wife and two daughters, into the mansion and became Lord of the Manor. All went well for this family for about four years, then George Wilkins died.

This was now 1914, and the property was then inherited by the next brother in line, Fred Wilkins, who became the Lord of the Manor and the inheritance had to be paid again. Fred was not as well-to-do as some of his brothers, and was having a little trouble raising the money.

One Sunday morning, the mansion was the scene of a fire and after the fire was brought under control, it had only damaged one wing of the building. Finally everything was going fine, until in 1919 Fred Wilkins died. Now William was the next in line to the property and the Lord of the Manor. Again, another inheritance tax had to be paid.

William knew he could not pay the tax, so after his brother Fred was buried he was found in one of the buildings on the estate with a rope around his neck; he had hanged himself.

The property was then passed down to the last brother, Charles. He was fairly well off and could pay the inheritance tax so all was well and Charles Wilkins became Lord of the Manor.

Here we will leave the Wilkins family and tell of family no. (2), the Brockshaw family.

This was a wealthy family and the only difference was their property was not an inherited property and could be sold if the need arose. Lord Brockshaw had two sons, the eldest, William, was rather a wild kind of a fellow. His father did not approve of the way he did so he disinherited him and left the property to the second son, Harry.

William Brockshaw came to live in our Village. He rented a large Villa. He was single, but was courting one of the George Wilkins daughters. Finally they married; each one had a small income and he later became Justice-of-the-Peace. Their idea was that someday Lady Ann Wilkins would die and still leave some of her money to the daughters of George Wilkins.

Here we move on to family no. (3), the Denton family who were very wealthy and like the Brockshaw family they had two sons and their property was not inherited so it could be sold.

Like the Brockshaw family, the eldest son, Randauf, was a wild boy and finally went down to London and married an actress. This disgraced the Old Squire so much, Randauf found himself disinherited and his fathers property would be inherited by his brother, Seymore, Randauf, whose name was like his fathers' had a son and gave him the name, Randauf, too. (It was a common thing in England at that time to name the eldest the same as his father.)

After a few years the old Squire Denton, became very ill and as he was on his death bed he sent for Randauf. Arriving on the estate, his mother forbade him to go near his fathers room, so the old Squire died without seeing his son and without knowing his son was so near and yet so far away.

When Randauf's son became of age, twenty-one, his mother brought him into the Village to see his grandmother to see if something could be done in order that the son could have some kind of an income from the estate. Mrs. Denton refused to see either of them and forbade them from entering the estate. They went down into the Village and stayed at the Inn for three days and they tried to see Mrs. Denton again without success, so they both returned to London.

In the meantime, William Brockshaw had given Mrs. Denton a large painting of himself in a beautiful golden frame. Mrs. Denton was very proud of it and hung it in the hall, but one day Mrs. Denton's head game keeper told her someone was stealing her turkeys and she told him to set some kind of a trap and see if he could catch the thief. It only took about three days watching and one night the keeper heard a big fuss in the turkey house. On investigating, he found the thief to be none other than the justice-of-the-peace with 3 big turkeys in a sack. Mrs. Denton was so shocked, she had the beautiful painting of the Justice-of-the-Peace taken down and placed in the basement where it hung with its face to the wall. It was hanging in that position when I left home. She never forgot and never forgave. She must have thought more of animals than some people.

Lady Ann Wilkins died. Her castle and all her belongings were to be sold. She left a small amount of money to each of her faithful servants, and the rest of her money was to be divided between several Dog and Cat homes in the country.

I left my home in England in the year, 1923, to spend three months in Canada in the harvest fields helping the Canadian farmers. By the time my three months was up I decided I had not seen much of Canada and would like to stay at least one year to learn what the Canadians did the rest of the year. I stayed there for three years and in the meantime I received a letter from a school pal of mine. He had followed me to Canada and was in the east. He wanted to go to New Zealand and asked if I would go with him.

I wrote to my father and told him I might go and I received a reply from him by return mail telling me I was too far from home now and if I did make a change to come home instead of going to New Zealand. I answered by telling him I would stay in Canada one more year than I would come home to farm in England.

When my year was up I came to the United States; I spent a long time in California and Arizona and after another twenty years, I came to Texas.

After all these years I believe things have changed for the better. I married my first wife while in Kingman--after her death, I married again in California and Mary and I are now living in Earth.

We have a nice brick home with electricity, instead of the 300 candle power coal oil lamps we used downstairs on the farm in England and the tallow candles we used upstairs in the bedrooms. Those candles only cost a penny each in those days but they were made to give a light. Today we can buy candles for fifty cents and up to more than ten dollars each, all they do is look pretty. We have city water, natural gas, also a good car and medicare, so looking back to 1923, when I left England, we have come a long way. Oh yes, we have a colored TV that was something we never even dreamed of in those days. Not going back to England I do not know what finally happened to the Wilkins Estate or the Brockshaws Estate, but the Denton Estate was sold some years ago after the young Squire Seymore died leaving no children.

Baby Recovering From Acid Burns

Little Shane Fondren, 11 month old son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Fondren of Earth, was burned on his face and part of his body Wednesday evening at 7 p. m. at the Gulf Service Station. Shane was at his uncle's station playing and hit the container lid of the carburetor cleaner acid, splattering the acid on his face and body. His left eye and lips were affected, but the doctor thought this was probably caused from the child rubbing his eye and mouth with his hands that had been in the acid. His vision will not be effected and he was dismissed from the Mulshoe Hospital Thursday morning and is home doing well.

In describing the way a man should conduct himself the apostle Matthew wrote: "Love your enemies, bless them that curse you, do good to them that hate you, and pray for them which despitefully use you, and persecute you."

Each week's entry must be turned in or mailed to the Earth News-Sun office. Contestants are given a week to prepare and turn in their entries.

Entries must be in by 4:00 p. m. Friday or postmarked on that date. All late entries will be discarded.

In case of ties, a coin will be flipped to determine the winners.

Each week the number of games correctly predicted will count toward each contestant's season total. The person picking the most games correctly for the entire season will receive the grand prize. In the event of a tie on the seasonal total, a coin will be flipped to determine the winner.

The weekly prizes will be given to the persons picking the most number of games for that week. The tie-breaker will count as one of the games picked, and the predicted score will be used to determine the top three places in that week's contest, if necessary.

Wolverines Tangle With Morton Friday Night

The fighting Wolverines face their first opponent of the season when they travel to Morton this Friday night and kick off time is 8 p. m.

Coach Locke reports that the B team and seventh and eighth grade teams will not play this Friday, but are anxiously waiting for next week's game.

According to Coach Locke, the Wolverines physical condition looks good, however, Guy Lynn Davis, tail back for the Wolverines, will not be able to play this Friday night, due to a knee injury received in last week's scrimmage with New Deal. His knee is doing well, but he will be unable to make the starting team this week at Morton.

"Although," Locke said, "there has been good response in the pre-season workouts, the Wolverines had trouble last Friday night with New Deal as the offense team did not look good." He further stated that he mostly just ran the boys in to see what they could do, as the scrimmage session could answer a lot of questions which he and the coaching staff have about the team.

The defensive team looked good, and they are ready and anxious to get going. They are in good shape and the coaches are very enthusiastic, waiting to see how well they can handle Morton Friday night.

All Wolverine fans are urged to attend this first game and get behind them - all of them - fast man, slow man, big man, and little man, for they are all very, very special!

There seems to be some confusion in the use of the terms "legalization" and "decriminalization" as they are applied to the status of marijuana. Very often they are interchanged, much to the chagrin of whichever politician publicly verbalized his stand on the issue.

As outlined by the President's Marijuana Commission, "decriminalization" means that there would be no legal charges leveled against the simple use or possession of small quantities of marijuana. "Legalization" means that there would be an established system to govern the sale and use of the weed. (Under "legalization" the only criminal acts regarding marijuana would be similar to those involving improper use or sale of alcohol).

The President's Commission announced in March in its first report that it was recommending the decriminalization of marijuana. Later that spring the Le Dain Commission of Canada released a similar report for that country. The Canadian government has already begun to act. In late July the Canadian Department of Justice announced that it was urging the courts not to impose jail sentences on persons convicted of a first offense of marijuana possession. A few days later the Department of Health announced that while legalization was out of the question, research would be stepped up and new penalties would soon be decided on.

VA Reminds College Vets to Contact Office Soon

The Veterans Administration today reminded college bound veterans that they should contact VA as soon as possible to avoid unnecessary delay in their monthly education allowance checks.

Jack Coker, Director of the Waco VA Regional Office offered these additional tips for veterans looking forward to getting started in college:

"The first thing a veteran should do," Coker explained, "is to decide on an educational objective. He should then choose a school and apply for admission as soon as possible."

"The veteran should then request a certificate of eligibility from the nearest VA office. VA will send two copies of the certificate, which must be submitted to the school. The school will endorse one copy and forward it to the VA Regional Office," he said.

"The VA official strongly suggested that the veteran check back with the school to make certain the certificate has been forwarded. This is to help insure that the veteran starts receiving monthly education allowances checks promptly.

Veterans returning to the same school need not get another certificate. Those who plan to change schools or educational objectives within the same school, however, must get VA approval.

To be eligible for educational benefits, a veteran or serviceman must have served at least 181 days of continuous active duty, any part of it after January 31, 1955. Or, he must have been separated from service because of a service-connected disability without regard to length of service.

Veterans were urged to contact their nearest VA office, veterans county service officer, or their local veterans service organization representatives if further information on educational benefits is desired.

Farm Machinery Will Be On Display At Field Day

Latest innovations in farm machinery and agricultural equipment will be on display during the 16th Annual Field Day and Open House, September 14, at High Plains Research Foundation near Halfway.

According to Dr. Tom Longnecker, Foundation director, equipment exhibitors and representatives of seed and agricultural chemical companies have reserved display areas in the exhibit area located west of the Killgore Building.

Dr. Longnecker said the number of exhibitors will not be known until Field Day but he indicated that numbers should be similar to last year's.

In a departure from past Field Day activities, the regular evening program with a special guest speaker will not be observed. Also door prizes and drawings for other prizes given away during afternoon activities will be open to all who attend the activities. Three $25 savings bonds will be awarded after each field tour and a color television will be awarded following the last field tour about 4:30 p. m.

Featured during activities which begin at 1:30 p. m. will be the tours of field research plots with two discussion stops scheduled for each tour. At these stops, four Foundation scientists will discuss research activities in their respective fields of interest.

Numerous other area agriculture agencies will have displays and special exhibits throughout Foundation facilities. All facilities will be open for public inspection.

Everyone is invited to attend. "No matter what occupation one is engaged in, in this area, agriculture is the main industry and what is important to agriculture is important to us all," Dr. Longnecker said.

THE FTA OFFICERS that will lead the organization to a successful year are 1 to 7: Historian, Gaye Ellis; Vice President, Barbara Buckner; President, Renay James; Program Chairman, Doug Freeman; Secretary-Treasurer, Toni Sanders; Student Council Representative, Vicki Head.

PARTY LINE

Mrs. Laura Fennell and Mrs. M. W. Messer spent Friday visiting in the Warren Thompson home, the Ed Thames home and with Mrs. Nora Painter, all of Amarillo.

Mary Nell Walker of Amarillo, spent the Labor Day weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Walker and Earlene.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Mitchell and son enjoyed visiting this week-end in Hobbs with Mr. and Mrs. James Smith and family.

Kansas. The contract was awarded on a low bid of $1.24 per gallon of insecticide, which according to Dean is well below an average low contract awarded to three contractors last year of about $2.00 per gallon.

Cotton producers on the Plains support the program and insure themselves against a weevil invasion by per-bale contributions. Their part of the cost is paid as a part of compress receiving charges, amounting to 80 cents per bale in 1964, 40 cents for the next three years, 25 cents in 1968, 30 cents in 1969, 50 cents in 1970, 40 cents last year and back to 30 cents this year.

These funds, plus varying amounts each year from the Texas Department of Agriculture, are matched dollar for dollar by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Mrs. M. R. Burton is home recuperating after a lengthy stay in the Littlefield Hospital. She will have to have plenty of rest, but otherwise, is doing all right.

COTTON TALKS

FROM PLAINS COTTON GROWERS, INC.

Caprock made it obvious that a concerted effort was necessary to prevent prohibitive insecticide costs and devastating crop losses to all High Plains farmers from the Caprock to the New Mexico line and beyond.

In the 1971 program only about 10,000 acres required treatment the first of September. Program officials say mild 1971-72 Winter and wet 1972 Spring, ideal weather for weevils, is responsible for the increased early infestation this year.

Early applications in the control effort are designed to break the weevil's reproductive cycle, while later treatments, up to a maximum of six, will prevent weevils that may not be killed earlier from entering diapause and going into winter hibernation. Twelve ounces per acre of ultra low volume Malathion is the dosage now, and this will be increased to 16 ounces later in the season.

The first application, again thanks to "unfriendly" weather, got off to a slow start with high winds halting operations the first day after only about 3,000 acres had been covered. Planes were able to fly all day on August 31, then rains came to again interrupt the schedule September 1.

"But we'll get planes back in the air as soon as possible," Dean said, "and there's no reason to believe we can't carry out another successful program this year."

Eight planes are involved in this year's opening salvo which covers cotton in Garza, Borden, Crosby, Dickens, Motley, Briscoe, Floyd, Kent and Hall Counties. Some cotton in Dawson, Lynn and possibly along either side of Yellowhouse Canyon in Lubbock County will require spraying in subsequent applications. As acreage increases, more planes will be added to assure timely treatments.

Aggregate acreage that will require insecticide this year cannot yet be determined. Last year the largest acreage sprayed in a single application was 130,250 and aggregate acres covered in 1971 totaled about 400,000. The original control zone in 1964 covered 300,000 acres of cotton and total acreage sprayed piled up to over 1 million.

The Control Program was begun by PCG in 1964 when overwintering of weevils above the approaches five percent, he said.

In previous years all cotton in a prescribed control zone was treated with insecticide on a set schedule. But it has been found more economical and just as effective to survey all fields weekly and spray only those which meet the 10 percent and five percent criteria.

"Our objective is to prevent weevils in infested fields below the Caprock and along its edge from migrating westward onto the High Plains," Dean said, "and seven years of experience in this program has convinced us that the job can be done with this spray-as-needed approach."

Fungus Diseases Invading Lawns

Two fungus diseases that attack St. Augustine lawns are currently causing some "headaches" for Texas homeowners. The culprits are "grey leaf spot" and "fading-out," according to Dr. Walter Walla, plant pathologist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. "Grey leaf spot causes irregular brown to gray spots on the leaf blades of St. Augustine grass," points out Walla. "The disease develops rapidly under warm, moist conditions and is usually noticed first in shady areas."

In areas of heavy disease development, Walla notes that the grass may have a burned or scorched appearance. Grey leaf spot often invades newly sprigged or rapidly growing grass. The Texas A&M University specialist explains that fading-out is a serious problem in many lawns where the grass is thin. The fungus disease develops rapidly, causing large dead areas in the turf. "Thatch build-up is one of the major causes of fading-out," says Walla. "Such a build-up comes by allowing grass clippings and dead leaves to accumulate on the turf. This provides a favorable environment for the disease." The plant pathologist encourages homeowners to follow good cultural practices so that lawn grasses will stay healthy and thereby resist diseases. These practices include mowing at the proper height, fertilizing according to a soil test, watering properly and avoiding thatch build-up by removing leaves and grass clippings. If a disease situation becomes severe, a fungicide may be applied to hasten recovery, adds

Walla. He suggests that homeowners contact their local county Extension Office for additional information on controlling disease in the home lawn. Martens left Sunday for several days visit in Irving with their daughter, M., and Mrs. Harold Powell and son, Todd.

Consumers Want to Know

by MARGARET SPADER
Director of Consumer Affairs
National Association of Manufacturers

I've noticed washing instructions on leather clothes in some stores. How come leather is washable now?

A new tanning process allows leather to retain its softness and prevents shrinking after washing. However, all leather clothes are not washable. Before buying and washing leather, read the label for washability and washing instructions.

Why don't manufacturers standardize directions for the use of fabric softeners?

Formulas for these products are so varied that directions for their use must be tailored to fit the product. Basically there are two types of fabric softeners: one type is added in the rinse cycle; a newer type can be used in either the wash or rinse cycle. It is very important not to add other agents such as bluing, water conditioner, etc. when using products formulated to use with the rinse cycle. That's why it's impossible for manufacturers to standardize directions for fabric softeners as well as many consumer products on the market today.

Is bluing supposed to clean or bleach clothes?

Bluing does not clean or bleach. It counteracts yellowing. Many of today's detergents and laundry aids contain bluing agents or brighteners. If the label stresses brightening action, you can assume it contains "optical brighteners." When using such products, you don't need bluing. Bluing is available in granules, liquids, cubes and pellets. It's important to read the directions before adding to find out if it should be dissolved and diluted before use.

82,248 Attend "Texas" Musical Drama During Season

The company of the musical drama, "Texas", by Paul Green, played the last performance of the seventh season on Saturday, August 26, 1972. As the final notes of the bugle sounded and the blazing lights faded on the great cliff facing the audience the patrons walked very enthusiastically down the ramps, remembering the sweep of the finale with the galloping riders carrying the six flags which have flown over Texas. As they reach the patio, they greet the cast, explore the concession building, watch the wax works - played by members of the company holding positions so quietly that they do not seem alive, and finally drive up the great Canyon trail to the top, following a coiling line of red car lights winding up to the top cliff a thousand feet high.

People travel many miles to come. In 1972, 25% of the people traveled more than a hundred miles each way. 34% were returning for the second (or third or even in one case, the fortieth) time, and many of those who were returning had traveled great distances to do so.

In 1972, "Texas" drew more patrons than in previous years. On August 24, the record attendance of 1970 was broken and the total for 1972 was 82,248.

The "Texas" dates for the eighth season in 1973 will be from June 21 through August 25. There will be one Sunday performance on July first and the other Sundays will be dark. For information about auditions for this coming season, write to "Texas", Box 268, Canyon, Texas 79015.

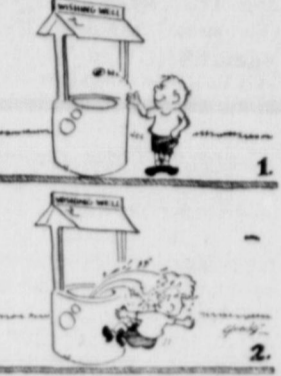

Marianne Messer, Karen Dunnam and Melissa Been were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ricky Byers of Lubbock.

Mr. and Mrs. Elvis Heston of Portales were Sunday guests in the home of her mother, Mrs. B.J. Brochette and Sunday evening they visited in Pritchard with Mr. and Mrs. Randy Heston and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Ted Borum visited in Oklahoma City with their son, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Borum and family Sunday through Wednesday of last week.

Mrs. Blanche Ramseur of Brownfield is visiting in the home of her daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Belew and family.

South Plains Evening College Offering Wide Range of Subjects

Vacancies are still open in Auto Mechanics, Refrigeration and Heating Mechanics, Computer Introduction, Physical Fitness for Women, Aviation Ground School, Radio and Television Repair, Welding, and the Secretarial fields, at South Plains Evening College, according to Don Yarbrough, Director of Continuing Education of the college.

Persons seeking either private or commercial aviation license will be interested in enrolling in the Aviation Ground School course.

The Auto Mechanics course is intended for both the person who is unfamiliar with the field and for the one who is more experienced. This course will be taught on a practical and individual basis with each person obtaining actual shop experience. The Auto Mechanics class will meet one night a week for three hours each class meeting. How to tune a car, general trouble shooting and as many other areas as is possible to cover in the allotted time will be covered. Claude

Kirkpatrick, Diesel Engine instructor at South Plains College, will be the Auto Mechanics instructor.

SPC is again offering its facilities to the women of Leveland and surrounding areas for physical fitness course for the Fall semester. Facilities will be open daily Monday thru Friday beginning September 4. After the women counsel with the instructor of the course, they are permitted to come at their own convenience between the hours of 8 a.m. and 8 p.m. The course will last for fifteen weeks and the total cost is $15.00.

A number of courses are being offered in the evening college for persons interested in the secretarial vocation. Elementary typing is offered for the very beginner and for the person who knows typing, but has been away from it for some time and needs to refresh his or her skill. A beginning course in shorthand is also available for those realizing their need for that particular skill.

As many secretaries must deal

with many types of business machines, a course in business machines is taught and it is very practical with proficiency obtained on many essential types of office equipment. Accounting courses are available for those needing help in that particular area.

The main purpose of the Refrigeration and Heating Mechanics course is to take unskilled persons and make them into skilled representatives of commercial and domestic refrigeration equipment service repairmen, in order that they will be able to assume their vocational place in society any time and any where. Another purpose of this course being taught in the evening college is to train persons to make a better than average living in the realm of refrigeration equipment service repair.

SPC Evening College offers students a three phase program in welding which includes Welding Technology, Apprenticeship Welding, and Job Entry Welding. These three different types of welding are taught in the evening college program, which emphasizes not only theoretical knowledge but practical skill application.

The SPC Evening College also offers the same course coverage as the day program on a half-time basis. Half-time course meets three nights weekly for a total of fifteen hours.

For further information about any of those previously mentioned courses being offered at South Plains College Evening classes, interested persons may contact Don Yarbrough, Director of Continuing Education at South Plains College, 894-4921.

How Good Are The Good Bugs?

How good are the good bugs? That's the question being answered by Dr. George Teetes, a grain sorghum insect researcher for Texas A&M University, located at Lubbock.

The emphasis on the utilization of naturally occurring beneficial insects has brought about the need to determine the efficiency of these beneficial insects. This is one area of research being conducted by the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station employee, who is working on the development of a management system for the greenbug on grain sorghum.

"Since we no longer talk in terms of total elimination of insect pests, we must learn much more about the beneficial insects that we plan to depend on," states the researcher. "This is especially true when we use naturally occurring predators and parasites in conjunction with insecticides to keep insect pests below damaging numbers," Teetes continues.

"The 'environment' regulates insect population, but both the biotic and abiotic components must be considered," states Teetes. The abiotic components, such as wind, rain, blowing sand, sunlight, and temperature are factors which are difficult or impossible to manipulate, but their effect on insect populations can be measured quantitatively. "What we are doing is attempting to remove portions of the harsh abiotic environment and then measure how greenbug numbers increase under these situations," states the scientist.

When the biotic components (predators and parasites) are removed, the effect on greenbugs can also be determined, Teetes explains, "that by use of various methods including cages out in the grain sorghum field, we can measure how much effect predators and parasites have on greenbugs and we can get some idea of the ratio of 'good bugs to bad bugs' that must be present to have an effect."

"When we simultaneously remove the harsh abiotic and biotic components, we in essence allow insects (greenbugs) to increase at the rate commonly referred to as their innate capacity for increase," Teetes states. It is under these situations that we can see how Mother Nature through time has equalized forces to live naturally regulate animal numbers.

"From our studies, we have realized several very important principles." For example, rain, especially hard blowing rains typical for the High Plains, drastically effects green bugs. When greenbugs are protected from rain, it would be expected that their number would increase. Basically, this is true. When greenbugs are protected from rain, their population also protected and doesn't increase to the point would be expected.

"Of all the many factors such as economic, the use of selective insecticides that go together to develop pest management programs still lack much information on the natural forces regulating pest populations," Teetes explains. We plan to increase our emphasis in research in this area.
