The expression, "That's gratitude for you," used as sarcasm and disgust, is so often times very apropos to the given situation. That people use this expression so often gives proof of its validity. Validity, that is, in the understanding that gratitude among human beings everywhere is a very short-lived emotion.

Charles De Gaulle is one of the better examples today. He literally kicks us out of France. He allies himself with our greatest enemy and makes mockery of our way of life. He belittles us to the world and tells Europe it has no need for the United States. He did not feel this way during World War II.

We can include the peoples of China in this short-lived emotional gratitude. Japan was kicking the daylights out of them. They begged for help and we responded. We responded with what amounted to catastrophic and heart-breaking results for us, but respond we did. Are we welcome in China today?

Closer to home is Cuba. We have fed them since 1898. We strengthened their economy and lifted their social standards to heights undreamed of by them. What is our status with Cuba today?

There are numerous other historical events such as these above and in each and every one of them, the people we have aided in one form or another have turned against us much more often than not. The question now is, when will the United States learn? When will our chosen representatives truly realize we cannot continue to aid and abet nations that we know in our hearts will turn against us at the very first opportunity?

It does alarm me, Rome became powerful, then tried to buy the friendship of neighboring nations, Rome fell. Are we going to have the same thing happen to us? It is not without its possibilities.

Instead of continuing our system of giving, I think it would be far better to tell these so-called under-privileged nations to begin doing for themselves. We have far too many commitments here at home to continue to worry about the countries overseas. Countries that take our money and our products and our food and laugh at us the moment these goods are delivered.

I am reminded of Japan during the years immediately prior to World War II. They were underdeveloped, they told us. They wanted to build up their industries, peace time of course. We sent them untold tons of steel, iron and other metals. They returned them to us at Pearl Harbor, Guam, Wake, the Philippines, the Marshalls, Iwo Jima, and Okinawa, to mention only a few. Did this teach us? I guess not.

I guess not because we are still doing the same things. We are still sending and giving, sending and giving. There has to be a stopping place somewhere, and I think it is high time we find that stopping place. I think it is high time we, as a nation, begin to admit that gratitude is a short-lived emotion, and the best course in international politics is to follow the old adage, "Take care of your own."

Maybe we need another Theodore Roosevelt. Maybe we need another Great White Fleet and a return to his principle of "Speaking softly, but carrying a big stick."

Central Vacuum Cleaning Equipment Becoming Popular

Homemaker can choose from five types of portable home vacuum cleaners this year, says Miss Joy Arrington, home management specialist with the Texas A&M University Agricultural Extension Service.

The specialist named the upright, canister, lightweight, hand vac, and shop-type cleaners. The shop-type vacuum is designed for heavy duty jobs such as garages, patios, and fireplaces.

More and more home owners are installing central vacuum cleaning equipment. This system has a motor, fan, filter, and bag located in a basement or other remote home location. Outlets are placed in strategic positions throughout the house, a long, portable hose and nozzle are connected to the outlets for cleaning.

Most central vacuum systems collect dust in an outside vented section attached to the motor unit. Dirt collecting bags may be emptied twice a year.

Advantages to the built-in system include non-recirculation of dust, near silence since the motor is remote, and convenience-no unit to carry, and minimum storage requirements.

Many of the portable type cleaners will sport a variety of new features in 1967. One of the most important of these is variable speed setting which will permit step-down speeds for cleaning jobs such as draperies and upholstery.

Canister cleaners that will float on air are in the experimental stage. Air exhaust is directed under the canister, lifting it just slightly off the floor. However, critics of this feature say it merely blows the dust and dirt away from the vacuum.

More research is being done on battery operated vacuums to lengthen the time between rechargings.

The trend toward decorative cleaners is being stepped up in response to consumers' desire

W. R. Stockard Begins 60th Year in Banking Business

Pioneer banker, W. R. Stockard 82 year old vice president of the Citizens State Bank in Earth, began his 60th year in the banking business on February 7 of this year.

The veteran banker has watched Texas towns grow and seen agricultural areas thrive during his many years in banking business. He too, has seen depression and famine hit the country during the thirties.

Observing the fluctuating economy in Texas as well as that of the nation, during his many years in banking business, has been instrumental in providing Stockard with facts and figures on the value of thrift in good times as well as bad times.

His experiences have made him an expert in the advisory capacity and he is quick to advise people to live within their means.

Stockard grew up in Hill County Texas near the town of Mertens where he lived with his parents and two sisters and attended school in Mertens, Texas.

His first real job of importance was that of a telegraph operator in a telegraph office of two railroads, The Cotton Belt and Great Northern Railroads.

Stockard was dissatisfied with his employment there, so when an opening in the Mertens Bank became available, he applied, and was accepted for the position with the stipulation that he would work without pay until he learned the business. This agreement was made on February 7 in 1907 when Stockard was a young man of 22 years of age.

Stockard kept books and worked without pay for one and a half years, until he learned the business thoroughly. He was then paid a salary of $30 a month. Later Stockard received a promotion to that of assistant cashier and was given a raise in pay to $50 a month. He remained on at the bank in Mertens until mid-year in 1910. That year, 1910, Mr. Stockard moved to Novice, Texas, a town about the size of Earth, Texas. Then he assisted in organizing the Novice State Bank. He was part owner of the Novice Bank.

On February 28, while a resident of Novice, he married Miss Madie Haley. They continued to live in Novice until early in 1917, when he became a cashier in the Farmers State Bank at Tahoka.

Having had eleven years of successful banking experience, and full of energy and confidence in the future of the country he moved to Corsicana in 1918 where he was employed in the Corsicana National Bank, the second largest, of the four established banks in Corsicana, a city of 100,000 population.

He remained there two years before he and the president of the Corsicana Bank purchased the First State Bank at Mertens and Stockard moved back to Mertens, to take over as cashier and co-owner of the bank.

Only 13 years had lapsed since the young man of 22 years had sought employment at the Mertens Bank working for free for 18 long months to learn the business, had now returned at the age of 35 as co-owner and president of the Mertens Bank.

Mr. and Mrs. Stockard and their son Bill were happy there, it was home to them, they knew and loved the populace in and around Mertens, so they stayed there for 14 years.

In early 1934 Stockard made a decision to move to Frost where he was vice president of the bank. He continued to buy stock in the bank and later moved up to president of the bank. He continued to purchase stock in the bank until in 1951 when he sold his interest in the Frost bank in favor of moving to Earth. Mr. and Mrs. Stockard and their son, Bill Stockard, Jr. and his family moved to Earth on December 10, 1957 where he and his son founded the Citizens State Bank in Earth. Mr. Stockard served as president and Bill served as vice president. Mrs. Thurman Lewis served as first cashier of the local bank.

Mrs. Stockard passed away on March 5, 1962 and his son Bill died in December 1965.

Stockard sold controlling interest of the local bank to Joe Temple, current president, on January 10, 1966 and remained on at the local bank where he currently serves as vice president.

Stockard at the age of 82 still loves banking business and continues to keep an interest in the people of the area and the economy of the state and nation.

Ag Improvement Program Now Underway

A state-wide effort which could add an estimated $300 million annually to the agricultural income of Texas is now underway.

For several months specialists of the Texas A&M Agricultural Extension Service have been preparing production and management guidelines to be used in a three point educational program. The educational effort is aimed at increasing farmer and rancher income, increasing their production efficiency and gearing production to produce the quality of products demanded by the market.

John E. Hutchison, Director of the Extension Service, in announcing the program said the guidelines combine all of the best practices available from research and from proven demonstrations on the production of crops and livestock. A $300 million increase in agricultural income can be achieved, and is in fact conservative, if producers will put the suggested guidelines into practice, and weather conditions are favorable, he added.

The guidelines, for the most part, include the "what and when to do" for the most efficient production and cover 20 important crop and livestock enterprises, Hutchison said.

He said the state's county agricultural agents took the specialist prepared guides, and working with the county program building committees and sub-committees, adapted them into county programs of action. The finalized guidelines will be reproduced and copies distributed to all producers of economically important crop and livestock enterprises in each county. The crop production guidelines will be distributed first, he added.

Hutchison concluded that this was an effort to make sure that all producers of economically important crops and livestock have available for easy reference the best production guidelines known. This program can greatly increase agricultural income in the state, increase net income to producers, and maintain and improve the competitive position of Texas producers, the director concluded.

When the first settlers arrived in America the dog was the Indian's only domestic animal.

Committee To Study Effects Of Textile Imports On Cotton

At a directors meeting February 23, Plains Cotton Growers President J. D. Smith of Littlefield appointed a four-man committee to look into the rising flood of textile imports to the U. S. and consider the effects on markets for U. S. cotton in general and cotton grown on the Texas High Plains in particular.

He placed PCG Vice President Don Anderson of Crosbyton, Board Chairman Ray Fokner of Lubbock, E. O. Willingham, Morton, and J. W. Borders of Witharrah on the committee. The action came as a result of a letter received by Smith from Saller Love, Secretary-Treasurer of the American Textile Manufacturers Institute headquartered in Charlotte, North Carolina.

Love's letter pointed out that U. S. imports of textiles made of cotton and man-made fibers have reached the staggering equivalent of more than 1,400,000 bales of cotton, and represent cotton that is not grown by American farmers and yarn, cloth and garments that are not made by American employees.

He requested that PCG adopt a resolution which would stress the interest of the cotton producer in sensible limitations on textile imports and call upon the federal government to impose and enforce such limitations. He also asked that copies of the resolution, if adopted, be sent to congressmen, senators, the Secretary of Agriculture and the governor.

The 1966 textile imports amount to a 37.4 per cent increase over 1965.

Perhaps of even greater significance is the fact that 162,000 bales, or 37 per cent of this one-year increase, is in the form of yarn, and came almost entirely from countries that produced the cotton from which the yarn was made. This of course means a reduction of that same amount in the consumption of American cotton by domestic mills.

Some observers feel that this is the great difficulty in cotton's domestic market, and that it threatens to cancel out the cotton gains being made under the current cotton program and those that are expected under the new Cotton Research and Promotion Act.

The National Cotton Council, at its annual meeting recently in San Francisco decided to "support appropriate action to provide reasonable protection against excessive imports of textile products, including apparel."

As the PCG Board discussed the matter, Vice President Don Anderson of Crosbyton expressed concern that a strong effort to restrict or shut off imports from some foreign countries might have an adverse effect on High Plains cotton, much of which goes into export markets.

He said he felt the subject was deserving of additional study before official action was taken, and suggested the possibility that textile import quotas for the various countries might in some way be correlated with the amount of U. S. cotton they bought.

Fokner commented that he believed the bulk of textile imports was coming to the U. S. from countries which were net exporters of raw cotton. But he agreed with Anderson that no action should be taken without first looking at all the pertinent facts.

The motion which led to the appointment of the committee read: "That the PCG president appoint a committee to work with ATMI toward the development of specific proposals for action by the appropriate agencies of the federal government which will accomplish the textile import limitations sought by ATMI without in any way jeopardizing export markets for U. S. cotton, and that the committee present to the PCG Board or Executive Committee for approval any proposal or proposals agreed upon.

There was unanimous approval of the motion.

Do You Know A Real Hero?

Somewhere in rural Texas lives a person who is due a hero's reward. He or she, adult or youth, may be a member of your family or one of your neighbors.

The Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Council is now seeking that individual and you can tell the Council where he or she lives and about the deed performed. The individual being sought may have rescued another person from a burning building, saved a child from drowning or performed an heroic deed of another nature.

Cotton Board Formed For High Plains

Representatives of 14 Texas Cotton Producer Organizations in Dallas on February 14 nominated 26 men from which the secretary will select five members and five alternates to serve on the Cotton Board being formed under the dollar-a-bale Cotton Research and Promotion Act.

Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., with producer members in 23 counties surrounding Lubbock, was represented in the Dallas producer organization caucus by its president, J.D. Smith of Littlefield.

Smith was authorized to speak for PCG by the Executive Committee at a meeting on February 9, and in accordance with the Committee's instructions placed in nomination the names of eight cotton industry leaders well known on the High Plains.

To determine the areas from which the five members and five alternates on the Board would come, Texas was arbitrarily divided into five "Places." Members and alternates from four of these are to represent one or more of the major cotton producing sections of the state.

The Board representative from the fifth Place was to be what might be called a "roving" delegate, and could come from anywhere in the state.

For Place One in Texas, which covers the High Plains area, PCG nominated Roy Davis and Roy Forkner, both of Lubbock, as board members. As alternates, the names of Donald A. Johnson, PCG Executive Vice President, and Joe B. Pate, Jr., were submitted.

All fourteen of the producer organizations concurred in these nominations, and Smith says it can be assumed the Secretary will appoint either Davis or Forkner to the Board and Johnson or Pate as alternates.

URGE SAFER DRIVING

Over 50 per cent of all rural fatal accidents involve only one vehicle, says "Texans for Traffic Safety," and almost one-half of these are caused by a car running off the roadway. Whether the driver falls asleep, is drunk or loses control through carelessness, the end result may well be the same tragedy.

Wolverettes Take Roosevelt 66-32 for Bi-District

None, but none, was left in Springlake or Earth Tuesday night. Although it is unbelievable to imagine that one hundred percent of the local basketball fans were in Abemathy to back the Wolverettes over Roosevelt, however judging from the crowd who gathered there to back the Wolverettes, none was missing as the local team downed Roosevelt 66-32 to take bi-district championship.

One must attend a ball game, such as this to see basketball played in its intended form. On both sides real athletes demonstrated true sportsmanship and a real love for the game plus a deep desire to win, never letting up until the final whistle blew. Cheers went up throughout the entire game, and fans were overheard saying, "Even the deaf could doubtless hear this crowd tonight." It seemed everyone on both Springlake and Roosevelt sides found much to cheer about.

The Wolverettes had a little trouble getting started in the first couple of minutes of the ball game, missing several easy shots, and Roosevelt looked as though they were really going to take over, but once Springlake-Earth settled down and began to move the ball, it was a different story.

The entire game seemed to be much more closely contested than the score indicated. The Wolverettes took the lead two minutes after the game started and kept it throughout the entire game, but it was easy.

At the end of the first quarter, the Wolverettes had a 16-8 lead and at halftime commanded a 28-19 margin.

During the third quarter a few adjustments were made and the Wolverettes moved out to a 47-26 lead, but working tremendously hard to hold it every moment of the way.

During the fourth quarter, the Wolverettes kept the pressure on Roosevelt and ended with a 66-32 bi-district victory.

High point scorer of the night was Anita O'Hair with 31 points, followed closely by Marsha Dawson with 22. The little play maker, Susan Britton scored 10 points. Linda Gregory helped out with 2 points and Beverly Prather scored 1 point. The little freshman forward Vicki Gregory had her only basket voided on a walking foul.

For Roosevelt, Wendy Cramer took high point honors with 10 points, followed by Brenda Kenning and Gwen Kenro with 9 points each and Carla Crumley dumped in 4 points.

The victory over Roosevelt sends the Wolverettes to the regional play-offs in Lubbock. At present time it was not certain just who the Wolverettes would play, but we do know game time is slated for 9:50 a.m. Saturday morning. So fans, the Wolverettes are giving their all, make plans to be in Lubbock Saturday morning and let them know you are with them all the way. Your cheers and support will help them on their way to victory.

Anita O'Hair goes high for a 2 point jump shot against Roosevelt. It was this type of shooting that gave Anita 31 points, high for the night. No. 22 is Susan Britton and 52 is Marsha Dawson of the Wolverettes. No. 52 is Vicki Kimard of Roosevelt who was trying to block the ball.

Anita O'Hair and Susan Britton ganged up on no. 25 Norma Thornton to get a jump ball. Action took place in the fourth quarter against Roosevelt.

Wolverettes Down Forsan 119-37 Saturday Night

The final warmup game of the season, before meeting Roosevelt for bi-district, found the Wolverette starter team just beginning to be turned loose to play an entire game.

The team was turned loose on Forsan, a team that is highly expected to be class B state competition, and sent them down in defeat 119-37 with Marsha Dawson leading the way with 53 points, Anita O'Hair contributed 35 points and Susan Britton followed with 31 points.

The scores by quarter were as follows, first quarter the Wolverettes led 22-6, second quarter 42-17, third quarter 81-25, and the final score 119-37.

The girls from Forsan really had a better team than the score indicated. The entire squad was very shifty and had speed to burn, but just couldn't seem to get things working for them as did the Wolverettes.

High point honor for Forsan went to Mollie Condon with 18 points, followed by Sherry Wahaven with 11 points and Mary Simpson with 8.

With the end of the game with Forsan, all the practice games were over for the Wolverettes and from now on its for keeps, one defeat and its curtains for the year. The Wolverettes are working hard so give them your support. You will enjoy every game you see them play.

Deryl Franklin no. 17 of Forsans, fouls Susan Britton who made the shot and also made the free throw for a 3 point play.

The "Unmentionable" Disease

The diseases that nobody wants to talk about are among the very ones that can blind, cripple, or even kill.

The American Medical Association says venereal diseases are this nation's most urgent communicable disease problem. There's little wonder. VD is infecting 1,000,000 Americans a year--about 3,000 a day, or almost two a minute.

And yet, despite the penicillin cure that has been known for more than 20 years, VD continues to bring tragedy to countless families.

Venereal disease is passed by intimate personal contact. That of course, is why it is so reluctantly mentioned. HVD is to be conquered, however, it must be by a straightforward approach. The AMA and medical societies throughout the country are encouraging people to (1) avoid exposure to VD, (2) seek prompt examination and necessary treatment, and (3) report to their doctor, sincerely and completely, their possible contacts with the disease.

Only by this lawful method can VD be eliminated. And only then can conscientious people stop talking about it.

Heart Disease in Lamb County Below State, National Ratio

How great is the heart disease problem in Lamb County, compared with what it is in other parts of the country? How many people are affected in the local area?

The disease, which accounts for more than half of all deaths in the United States, has been brought into sharp focus at this particular time by President Johnson's designation of February 26th as Heart Sunday.

A major research effort has been brought to bear on the problem, supported by public as well as private funds, to cut down the huge toll.

Progress is being reported, through heart and blood vessel surgery, electronic technology, the cardiac catheter and new chemical tests, among others, to add years of life to people who now have heart trouble as well as toward preventing its development in people who are prone to it but not yet afflicted.

Among residents of Lamb County, according to the latest figures from the U. S. Public Health Service, 39.8 per cent of all deaths are due to heart disease, strokes and other ills of the cardiovascular system.

This compares with 54.2 per cent in the United States as a whole and 49.7 per cent in the State of Texas.

The ratio varies from one part of the country to another. All of the low-ranking states lie west of the Mississippi River and all but one of them lie west of the Missouri River as well.

Suggested as reasons for this geographical difference are air pollution hereditary background amount of physical activity and degree of emotional tension.

The official figures show, for the Lamb County population, a total of 80 heart deaths in the year ending Jan. 1, 1965, with 22 of them caused by strokes.

Advice for the prevention of heart disease comes from Dr. Paul Dudley White, a founder of the American Heart Association.

He says that diet and weight are most important and should be controlled from the age of 12 or before.

"We are an overnourished nation and we should wake up and regard excessive food as a serious health hazard."

"Also, a good blood supply is needed, and this means not only avoidance of over-nutrition but also physical fitness in terms of firm and active muscles."

Cleaning Stretches Life Of Carpet

The beauty and durability of rugs and carpets depend on their basic structure and regular care, explains Mrs. Laura Russell, area Extension specialist in housing and home furnishings.

Dirt is the greatest enemy of rugs and carpets. Fortunately, most of it can be removed by home methods as long as it remains on or near the surface. However, when the dirt has worked down into the pile, professional carpet cleaners are necessary.

A daily once-over-lightly with a vacuum cleaner, using around three strokes over each area, will remove loose dirt, lint, and litter. Thorough vacuuming at least once (preferably twice) a week not only brushes and freshens carpets and rugs, but prevents the dirt from sifting into the pile. When dirt filters down it chips and cuts the pile and backing. Seven strokes over each area should prevent this, Mrs. Russell says. You cannot over-vacuum your carpets, she adds.

Even though the vacuum cleaner is used regularly, the surface of carpets and rugs often becomes soiled and dull. Two methods of cleaning help to correct this condition, but even these cannot replace professional cleaning at regular intervals.

Dry cleaning is the use of solvent-saturated, inert material sprinkled liberally over a large area and brushed in slightly. Directions should be carefully followed. Avoid letting the cleaner get down to the backing if it is made of latex because solvents degrade rubber.

Wet cleaning is suitable for all carpets and rugs. A non-alkaline synthetic detergent with water is a safe cleaning solution. It should be applied sparingly with a sponge or cloth, wetting only the surface with a gentle motion. Then remove as much of the solution as possible with a shampoo machine, cloth, or sponge rinsed in clear water. Always allow the carpet to dry quickly. Too frequent use of the solution may cause more rapid soiling since carpets cannot be rinsed thoroughly on the floor.

Higher Prices Predicted On Sportswear

The National Skirt and Sportswear Association predicts higher prices on all sportswear for this spring and fall.

Two factors are instrumental in this prediction, according to Miss Rhea Boyles, Extension clothing specialist at Texas A&M University.

Higher minimum wage laws will take effect this year with the New York State minimum increasing to $1.50 an hour and the federal minimum rising to $1.40 an hour. Also, new contracts will be necessary with the International Ladies Garment Workers Union. The Union insists on a differential between its minimum wage scales and those of the Fair Labor Standards Act. This means an additional cost burden on the industry.

The sportswear segment experienced the greatest sales and profit increases of the apparel industry, but the higher wholesale costs will have an effect on consumer prices.
