David Jaquess Named City Pool Manager

Heaven gained a precious soul Thursday, when "Pappy" (Ross's father) slipped quietly away to inherit his mansion in the sky.

Pappy was like the Rock of Gibraltar to all who knew him. He was kind, patient and ever loving. He wasted not a moment of his life in criticism and fault finding of others, but spent his days helping others in a most gentle manner.

He did not leave a big monument, or many earthly treasures, but rather left a memory so tender and sweet it can never be erased.

NOSIN

This week, the staff is doing their best to put out a paper without the Chief (Ross), who remained in Oklahoma, at the bedside of his mother, who was hospitalized Sunday night. If it is not quite up to par, his crew plus the help of Louann Britton and Don Watkins (who came to the aid) has tried one hundred percent.

GUEST EDITORIAL

WHERE IS EARTH ???

BY: JIMMY STOCKSTILL

Not long ago I was reading a book which was about the life of Robert Frost, a great poet. While reading this book I came across a certain passage which told of Robert Frost's first attempt at writing. It was a serial which was about a long, lost, forgotten tribe and village. Immediately I thought of Earth. Why would I think of Earth? Well, why not? What future does Earth have? Let the readers of this article try to formulate an opinion or answer after they have seen Earth through my eyes.

I was born in Earth and I lived most of my nineteen years in Earth. I like the people in Earth and I like Earth as a town, or community, but what does Earth have to offer to me in the way of a vocation? Nothing as far as I can see. And I believe that I am not the only person to recognize this fact. Why have so many people left Earth to go to other cities such as Houston, Austin, Lubbock and many other cities? Why do so many people such as myself, who are born here, grow up here; leave - and then never come back to make their homes in Earth. The answer to these questions can probably be answered in one word. OPPORTUNITY! Earth does not offer any good opportunities.

There are a few people in Earth who want nothing more in the world than to see Earth grow and grow. But these few people cannot carry this kind of load alone. Only the co-operation of the entire community and its surroundings can do this. Earth needs industry, better recreation, something to attract tourists, something to get Earth turning on its axis. If this does not happen then be assured Earth will die, because the young people are not going to return, outsiders are not going to move to Earth and the people already here will either leave for better opportunities or die in Earth.

So people of Earth ask yourselves, in the future do you want people saying "I know where Earth is", or "Where WAS Earth?"

FOR AGRICULTURAL CROPS: Commercial grower use, over many years, has proven that CYGNON provides excellent control of leaf miners, lygus bug, aphids, trips, leafhoppers, grasshoppers and mites. The three-way action of CYGNON kills insects by systemic protection from inside the plant, as a contact killer and as residual insecticide. These unique toxic actions of CYGNON make the product unusually effective against hard to kill insects, such as: leaf miners and insects on the underside of leaves or rolled into leaves. USDA Registration 241-94 extends the use of CYGNON close to, and up to, harvest as listed in the dosage table which follows:

4-H Sunday To Be Observed

Texas 4-H members will emphasize the "Heart H" of their Head, Heart, Hands, and Health organization on 4-H Sunday, May 19.

Floyd Lynch, state 4-H leader at Texas A&M University, said the 4-H'ers, their families and friends will be observing a tradition tracing back to ancient history. 4-H Sunday developed from "Aural Life Sunday," the fifth after Easter. This is closely linked with Rogation days, celebrated from centuries in the Christian Church during the three days preceding Ascension Day.

Lynch said the tradition is modified to the present 4-H Sunday throughout the Nation and emphasizes the meaning of Christianity in everyday living, in addition to the past emphasis on seeking the blessings of God upon the land, the seed, the cultivation of the earth, and the enrichment of home and community life.

The spiritual side of 4-H is highlighted in the observances, the state leader said. The total 4-H program, he added, not only encourages spiritual but physical, social and mental growth and development.

Lynch said no statewide activities have been planned but that many local and county 4-H groups, in cooperation with their churches, would be participating in church services or arranging for special Sunday afternoon or evening programs. The public has a special invitation to attend the local observances and learn about the spiritual phase of 4-H, he said.

Sherbet Caloric As Ice Cream

Chicago, Ill. - In the taking fun-out-of-life department; there is no significant difference in the caloric value of ice cream and sherbet. This edifying but depressing bit of news comes from no less an authority than Phillip L. White, Sc. D., Secretary of the Council on Foods and Nutrition of the American Medical Association. He says that a serving of ice cream (about a sixth of a quart) would provide only about 15 calories more than a serving of the same amount of sherbet. In addition, the nutritional return of ice cream is much greater than that of sherbet. Ice cream supplies "appreciable amounts of calcium, protein, riboflavin, and vitamin A to the diet, while sherbet provides much less of each.

Businessmen Optimistic Over Outlook

Businessmen interviewed in the latest Dun & Bradstreet, Inc. quarterly survey were exceedingly optimistic about business prospects for second quarter, based on performance of several significant indicators -- near-peak corporate profits in 1967, mounting industrial production and rising capital outlays. These executives boosted their sales and profits expectations to the highest levels in six surveys, despite inflationary pressures at home, unstable international money market, and disquieting international incidents. However, they held even stronger opinions than in the previous study that prices would continue to rise. Majority of the 1,552 corporate leaders interviewed foresaw no change in their employee rolls and their inventory. Sales optimism index advanced seven points in this survey to the strongest level since late 1966. Slightly over three-fourths of all the manufacturers, wholesalers and retailers forecast sales increases in the second three-month period this year over the three-month period last year. Durable goods makers and retailing businessmen lifted their sales predictions the most from the previous survey.

Progress Made Toward Cotton Legislation

Progress toward enactment of cotton legislation to succeed the current law is moving along satisfactorily, according to Donald A. Johnson, Executive Vice President of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc.

Hearings before the House Agriculture Committee were completed on May 2 and members are now in the process of digesting the testimony heard and hammering out details of a bill to bring before the full house.

Congressman Bob Poage of Waco, Chairman, has expressed the hope that a bill can be brought out of the Committee by the end of May and will work toward getting it out of the floor of the House at the earliest possible date.

Reasons legislation is being pushed this year boil down to two. First, farmers in general and especially wheat farmers who will plant the 1970 crop in 1969 need to know what to expect following this program if they are to plant future operations with maximum efficiency.

Second, the make-up of the 1969 Administration and Congress is an unknown factor which might make passage of a farm bill even more difficult next year.

Regardless of how favorable the 1969 Congress might be to farm legislation the very earliest a bill could be passed next year would be September or October and it could very well be delayed until December or January of 1970.

That would mean wheat farmers would be planting their crops for 1970 harvest without a farm program. Provisions of the 1970 cotton program should be announced in the Fall of 1969, too, and this will be difficult at best and perhaps impossible unless Congress acts this year.

The big obstacle to enacting a bill this year of course is the preoccupation of legislators with Vietnam, racial unrest and other domestic problems. But farm congressmen and other spokesmen for agriculture are hopeful that a concentrated effort may at least get a bill through the House and possibly through the Senate this year.

Virtually all testimony heard by both House and Senate Committees has been in favor of extending for at least four years the Agriculture Act of 1965. Some changes are being advocated from various sources but with a few exceptions no one appears willing to push for changes that would hinder passage of legislation this year.

Texas cotton producers, through the newly formed Texas Association of Cotton Producer Associations, will have constant representation in Washington as the situation develops. J. B. Kirklin, Executive Vice President of Trans-Pecos Cotton Association, was in Washington for the week of April 28 and reported to the other five member-associations.

"Feminine" Women Are More Accident-Prone

Los Angeles, Calif. (WMNS)—Are some women more susceptible to accidents than others? The answer is yes. This is the conclusion of a novel study of 226 women made by psychologist Joan S. Guilford, Ph. D., winner of the Metropolitan Life Award of Merit for her study of home accidents.

Noting that more "disabling accidents occur in our homes than on our highways or in our factories," and that the victim of many of these accidents is the housewife doing such routine chores as preparing family meals, or washing dishes, or doing the laundry. Dr. Guilford set about finding out why and how the accidents occur.

With a grant from the U. S. Public Health Service, Dr. Guilford equipped a house trailer with a model kitchen of average size. The trailer could be moved into different neighborhoods so that the women studied would come from a variety of socioeconomic groups.

Homemakers were attracted to the experiment by ads offering $10 for four hours' work in the kitchen. They believed they were helping study kitchen equipment. Unknown to them, they were observed through a one-way mirror by a team of two persons who noted every move they made as they performed such tasks as putting eggs on to boil, making a bacon, lettuce, and tomato sandwich, cole slaw, carrot sticks, baking cupcakes, washing the dishes, and washing, bleaching, and ironing a blouse.

BUILT-IN HAZARDS. The kitchen was carefully arranged with built-in hazards such as a child's ball on the floor near the refrigerator, a towel bar pointing into the room, toaster and iron set on "high" and unplugged. Some needed items were placed high on shelves, out of reach.

How women behaved in the kitchen was nothing short of incredible, Dr. Guilford found. When reaching for an out-of-reach item, many women ignored the step-stool provided for that purpose, and instead clambered upon a folding chair or a card table. Some used broom, mop, or ironing board to knock bottles down from high shelves.

They ignored cutting boards using slippery table tops instead and were careless when disposing of hot grease. When cigarette ash fell into the cole slaw it was mixed right into it—after all it does resemble pepper—and tomato that fell onto the floor was popped right into the sandwich.

The observers polled some 714 accidents during the tests, as well as 767 near-accidents such as leaving unused burners on or leaving spilled food unmopped.

Direct observation and psychological tests revealed that the accident-prone woman is generally shorter than average and quite feminine in appearance. She is slightly hypochondriac, is quite emotional in her approach to problems, and is not well organized. Sloppy workers were accident prone.

The accident-free woman, on the other hand, is taller, calmer, faster at her work, well-organized, uses the correct tools, and follows directions. Dr. Guilford concluded that training in safety awareness is essential to cut down the home accident rate. Human beings, not equipment, are generally responsible for accidents.

Mr. and Mrs. Buddy Adrian, Susie, Camille Haberer and Kim Holder visited in Amarillo and the Palo Duro Canyon over the weekend.

Mrs. Deanne Kolmer of Lubbock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Buddy Adrian is now at home after being in the West Texas Hospital at Lubbock.

Geraniums For Flower Garden

Geraniums are excellent plants for mass effects in the landscape. They may be planted any time after the night temperature remains above 50 degrees Fahrenheit, says E. E. Janne, Extension landscape horticulturist at Texas A & M.

Geraniums are easily grown and will tolerate a wide range of conditions providing sound, healthy plants are obtained, Janne adds. Plants of the new All-America seed selections should be available in the nursery and garden center outlets at this time. Plants grown from seed will usually provide a source of disease-free plants for the garden. These All-America Seed selections include the following varieties: Care-free Bright Pink, Care-free Deep Salmon, and Care-free Deep Scarlet.

Any good, well-drained soil with several inches of coarse peat moss spaded into the top six inches should produce good geraniums, advises the horticulturist. Two to three pounds of complete fertilizer per 100 square feet, such as 8-8-8 or 12-12-12, should be incorporated into the soil with the peat moss.

Even though the plants are small when set, be sure to allow ample space for their growth and development. A minimum of 15 inches should be allowed between plants. If the plants are watered and fertilized at regular intervals, they will soon provide a solid blanket of green foliage topped with attractive flowers over the entire bed. Although it is often advocated, pinching the top out of geranium plants is not necessary if ample space is provided. It is only crowded plants that produce the tall, leggy growth, reminds Janne.

Sunday dinner guests in the Clarence Kelley home were Rev. and Mrs. M. B. Baldwin, A. M. Sanders, Mr. and Mrs. Mary Sanders and Pruda, M., and Mrs. Sandy Sanders and children, Mr. and Mrs. Bobby D. Green and boys, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Kelley, Norma and Kirby, M., and Mrs. Ray Kelley, Miss Glenda Cox from Iran, Tex., M. Olen Massey from Fort Worth, Mrs. Barry Lewis from Mesquite and Mr. and Mrs. George Nichols from Amarillo.

Texans Told It's Time To Take To The Cellar

If you grew up in Texas 30 years ago, probably you "went to the cellar" when spring storm clouds gathered.

There you waited in the dampness among Grandma's jelly and jam-filled Mason jars until the anticipated blow (which frequently did not materialize) was over.

Even though the safest place to be during a tornado is still in a cave or storm cellar, there are few cellars remaining even in rural areas of the state. And, the days of tornado-watching and forecasting by the head of the household are about over. Texans today depend on local weather bureaus to alert them to any approaching danger from tornadoes.

However, The Texas Safety Association warns the same danger is present in today's tornadoes as yesterdays. Weather alerts do give that extra margin of time that may mean the difference between life and death, but it's still up to every individual to take the safety measures necessary to protect himself in a tornado.

The Safety Association, which also reminds Texas that it's tornado time from now through September in Texas, offers these tips for survival in a tornado:

If you are in open country: Move at right angles to the tornado's path. Tornadoes usually move ahead at about 25 to 40 miles per hour.

If there is no time to escape, lie flat in the nearest depression such as a ditch or ravine.

If you are in a city or town: Seek inside shelter, preferably along the inside walls on the lower floors of a steel reinforced building. Stay away from windows.

If you are at home in a frame-type house, the southwest corner of the lowest floor, especially a basement, offers the greatest protection. People living in a brick or stone home should find other shelter.

If time permits before a storm strikes, turn off the gas and electricity in your home. Open doors and windows on the north and east side of the house to help reduce damage to the building from outdoor pressure differences.

If you are in a school building: In city areas: If the school building is of strongly reinforced construction, stay inside, away from windows. Remain near an inside wall on the lower floors when possible. Avoid auditoriums and gymnasiums with large, poorly-supported roofs.

In rural schools: If the school building does not have strong reinforced construction, remove children and teachers to a ravine or ditch if storm shelter is not available.

If in an industrial plant: Upon receiving a tornado warning, post a lookout to keep safety officials advised to the tornado's approach. Advance preparation should be made for shutting off electrical circuits and fuel lines if the tornado approaches the plant. Workers should be moved to sections of the plant offering the greatest protection.

Anyway that you are: Keep calm. It does not help to get excited. People have been killed by running out to the streets and by turning back into the path of a tornado. Even though a warning is issued, the chances of a tornado striking one's home or location are slight. As a rule, tornadoes cover such a small area that relatively only a few places in a warned area are affected. However, you should know what to do "just in case."

Keep tuned in to your radio or television station for latest tornado advisory information. Do not call the Weather Bureau, except to report a tornado, as your request may tie up telephone lines urgently needed to receive special reports or to relay advisories to radio and television stations for dissemination to thousands in the critical area. For those who are still fortunate enough to have a storm cellar, the Safety Association has this advice:

Be sure you have an air outlet to equalize the air pressure. Keep cellar fit for use - free from water, gas or debris. Keep pick and shovel handy in case you have to dig out.

Deadline For GI Loans Is July 1970

Some World War II veterans still have more than two years to obtain GI guaranteed or insured loans, Jack Coker, Manager of the Veterans Administration Regional Office in Waco said today.

Final deadline for World War II eligibility is July 25, 1970, he said.

Those eligible may obtain a guaranteed loan to purchase a home, a farm, or to buy or start a business.

Eligibility has been expiring for World War II veterans according to a formula that adds 10 years to the date of their discharge from active wartime service, plus one year for each 90 days of that service plus four days for each additional day of active duty. The date reached by this formula is the individual deadline date for each veteran.

Thus eligibility has already expired for most World War II veterans, but the program will be eligible until the final termination date of July 25, 1970; this also applies to widows of veterans who died to service-connected disabilities.

Coker invited World War II veterans to visit or call the Waco VA Regional Office for answers to any questions they may have concerning the GI loan entitlement.

Loan applications are ordinarily sent to the VA by lenders. The veteran, therefore, should see that his loan application reached the VA before his entitlement expires, Coker said.

CROP HAIL INSURANCE INFORMATION

RANGER IS ANNOUNCING THE "EXTRA HARVEST EXPENSE ALLOWANCE" FEATURE AT NO EXTRA COST TO YOU.

It is a known fact that the growers must send more money to harvest a crop after a severe hail. Ranger is providing insurance coverage to help pay for this extra harvest expense. This is in line with Ranger's philosophy of keeping the hail insurance program as modern as the new farming methods demand.

BEFORE YOU BUY YOUR HAIL INSURANCE CONSIDER THESE FACTS: In Addition to the above extra feature Ranger has the following advantages:

1. GUARANTEED PREMIUM SAVINGS at time of purchase rather than be promised that maybe a dividend will be paid at the end of the season. If the loss experience is favorable. Ranger also offers dividends based upon favorable experience in addition to rate savings to further reduce your insurance costs.
2. RANGER'S STAR STEPLADDER has built-in advantages over other stepladders on the market. Ranger's coverage dates are constant as specified in the policy and are effective regardless of the date of stand. If you replant your crop or have a late stand under the other stepladder forms your coverages may start all over again from the new stand date and if you replant, in some cases the policy becomes void and premiums are earned. Under the Star Stepladder, coverage goes into force faster and earlier, especially on late stands, than other stepladder forms.
3. Large variety of policy forms to choose from best suited to your individual needs.
4. Ranger's rates have been reduced this season as in the past, but we have reduced the maize rates a whopping 15%. Take advantage of this tremendous saving on maize and sorghum crops.
5. It makes "cents" to pay for something only if you want and need it. All Cotton policies expire Dec. 15th this year. Only through Ranger can you reduce your premiums if you do not need the Dec. 15th expiration. If you wish to have your policy expire Nov. 15th the rate will be reduced.
