HOME TOWN TALK

By BEDDY

One of the differences between a progressive and a non-progressive merchant is whether he really believes in newspaper advertising.

One of the things that make a town dead or alive is whether its merchants are progressive.

The man who attempts arguing that advertising, when used wisely, is dead expense rather than a useful method of increasing sales and profits matches his individual opinion against that of the most successful leaders in every branch of American commercial and industrial life.

Advertising served to reduce the margin of profit rather than increase the total of profit through greater volume the world's most successful salesmen would not be such strong believers in newspaper space.

Every merchant has his own right to a fair margin of profit. The newspaper publisher is a merchant dealing in advertising made useful to the buyer through circulation of a news medium in a given territory.

The newspaper deserves the same chance at a fair profit on investment as the dry goods man, the hardware man or the grocer.

Any newspaper that would attempt, especially during a quiet period, to demand advertising rates that would bring to it an exorbitant profit would not be inviting outside but would deserve it.

The Herald, being part and parcel of Big Spring, is interested in the welfare of the entire community.

The Herald prospers in the same degree that business men of the city prosper. Let the reading public become unable to financially buy the paper and advertising loses in value to the merchant. Let the merchants operate at a loss and the Herald will be forced to do the same thing.

That is why this newspaper at all times, both in its news columns and in its direct business relations with advertisers, practices and will continue to practice a "live and let live" policy.

In connection with this obvious sales talk on advertising we take occasion to quote below a statement reviewing the ideas of Howard Hughes and H. B. Franklin of Hughes-Franklin Theatres, now owners of the Big Spring theatres, with reference to advertising and various relationships with newspapers and newspaper men:

Wiseley, Howard Hughes and Harold B. Franklin are insisting that the manners of their new circuit give serious thoughts to the development of local newspaper contracts, and warns house managers at all times to "play ball" with newspaper men.

"Newspapers are our friends," the house chiefs were told. "We will neither forgive nor forget any break or neglect of that rule. There are too many theatre men smug with success, arrogant with influence, who begin to believe they can get along without newspapers, that newspaper men are interlopers."

"Theatres need newspapers. Newspapers are the first line in any advertising offensive. But more than that, a newspaper is an instrument which reaches into the homes of your patrons, penetrates and stays there, usually speaking as it goes with an authority which its readers have come to respect. That's why they're reading it."

"Remember, these newspapers are gotten out by human beings; people who are working for living; just like you and I. If these human beings think kindly of you and your theatre, it is bound to be reflected in the columns they write, the state of mind they create."

"Some newspaper men are hard to get along with. The majority are not. Their average amiability and reasonableness is as high as any business or profession in the world. They don't like servility; they don't like arrogance; they don't like fake. They are brought up in a school which teaches them as the first lesson of their trade to spot all that hokum wherever they see it."

"You treat your newspaper men respectfully, friendly, honestly, and they will treat you the same way. You are going to ask them for a lot of favors. If they ask you for any, do unto them as you expect to be done by. We don't want you to scheme to become mere space thieves. We don't expect you to get front page stories when Little Glutz takes a milk bath. But we do expect you to do business with your newspaper."

Vastine In Statement

Candidate Reviews His Reasons For Running For Office

Walter Vastine, one of the seven candidates for two vacancies on the city commission, issued a statement Monday afternoon regarding the policies upon which he is seeking the office.

The election to fill the two vacancies is to be held Tuesday.

The following statement was issued by Mr. Vastine on the eve of the election:

"I want it understood clearly in the outset that no one suggested that I make this race for one of the vacancies on the city commission. I entered on my own will and accord, without suggestion from anyone."

"There was one sole reason why I entered. I thought that Jones Valley, my part of town, was entitled to some recognition, inasmuch as we have never had any to speak of."

"I thought the time had come, inasmuch as we have been tied to the City of Big Spring for a period of approximately 40 years and have never received an iota of recognition."

"I sincerely believe we are justly entitled to a part of the tax money of the city."

"After months of work, and the combined efforts of women residents of this section, we finally obtained gas service. We had to obtain 40 meter deposits. We worked strenuously in the bond issue campaign to obtain sewerage and city water extensions. What recognition we have received has come only after a strenuous fight."

"I want it understood that I am in perfect accord with the present city officials. I believe in the city manager form of city government. I feel a change from that would mean a step backward. I believe in the present program of parks and pavement, and various tangents of city improvement."

"It is my belief that the city of Big Spring should maintain at all times an efficient and courteous police department and an adequate fire department."

"It is my belief that the present city manager, V. R. Smith, is an ideal man for the position he holds, and is not 'paid an exaggerated sum, as charged by some. The way I see it, Jones Valley has received more through Mr. Smith's efforts than ever before in history."

"I announced for the office because I wanted to help my end of town. I haven't asked for a single vote. I am offering my services practically gratis. It is a matter of the voter's choice as to whether I will be elected or not. If I do not, I shall continue to give my individual support to all matters of civic improvement, designed to make a better Big Spring."

"I am speaking solely of Jones Valley, and am not the official mouthpiece of this section."

Scout Finds Foreign Coins Under Rock On Mountain During Hunt

While competing in Saturday's Treasure Hunt for Boy Scouts, Robert Haley, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Haley, 212 North Johnson, uncovered a surprising treasure on scenic Mountain.

While hunting there for the clue in the hunt Robert overturned a rock and under it was a small wooden box containing eight or ten foreign coins.

Dates on the coins led to belief they had been hidden but a short time.

Among the coins was an Italian piece, dated 1921; a Hong Kong piece of 1897 bearing a picture of Queen Victoria; a Greek coin of 1904, a two-mark piece from Germany, a 1917 one-cent Canadian piece, five centavos from the Philippines, a French coin of 1913 and two Mexican coins, five and 20 centavos.

YAQUI INDIANS' PASSION PLAY IS PERFORMED

PHOENIX, Ariz., April 6. (UP)—A quick blaze and a wisp of smoke streaking skyward, exemplifying an Indian's idea of fitting punishment for a traitor, was the signal today for commencement of a wild demonstration of aboriginal dancing by members of the Yaqui Indian tribe.

The fire and smoke came from having a paper effigy of Judas Iscariot after which, according to the Yaqui theory and by way of expressing pleasure of "proper revenge" permitted Jesus to live again and ascend to the heavens.

It was the climax to a passion play presented annually by the Yaquis during holy week in observance of Easter and by way of welcoming spring.

Breaking a period of mourning for Jesus which started Friday, shrieks of delight echoed out over the central and southern Arizona desert for miles as tribesmen rushed to the dancing floor where without interruption they will leap, writhe and whirl until exhaustion overtakes them late tomorrow morning.

The bulletin represents a survey of 20 states, and says that without exception the death rate declined every year since 1910. The urban decline exceeded the rural.

longshoremen, stevedores, janitors and building employees were listed in this class.

Dallas Business Man Defendant In Suit For 'Balm'

DALLAS, April 6. (UP)—Charging that he promised to marry her when he was already married and could not, Mildred Lewis filed suit for $80,000 against J. E. H. Chilton, prominent Dallas business man.

The plaintiff contends that Chilton asked her to marry him and that she agreed, believing that he was single; that he persuaded her to live with him as his common-law wife, promising to marry her in a short time, and that recently she discovered he was already married and had never been divorced from his wife.

She met Chilton in January of 1930, according to the petition. It is charged that he persuaded her to give up her position and that he procured a home and furnished it, the claim that he introduced her to his friends as his bride-to-be and later as his wife and that together they travelled all over the United States and Canada, and that they made many trips to Oklahoma where she says that she has many friends.

Had she not planned to marry the defendant she could have married another man last June who was well able to care for her, says the plaintiff. She claims that she has been "injured, humiliated and embarrassed" and seeks actual damages of $10,000, special damages of $50,000 and exemplary damages of $20,000.

HOW CAN YOU JUDGE THE VALUE BEHIND AN UNKNOWN LABEL?

IT IS EASY enough to buy wisely when you can see what you are getting.

But how about those products that you can't see?

Foods, drugs, toilet necessities—all hidden by a bottle or a package.

If you do not recognize the name on the label, how can you judge the value behind it?

You can't!

Shopping experience has proved this to millions of women. But experience uses bitter methods. Costly methods.

When you buy only those products which you see advertised regularly week after week, in newspapers and magazines—when you are guided by the names you know—you are safe.

But when you experiment with untried brands—substitute products which you are told are "just as good"—you may be sorry.

The manufacturer who knows the wisdom of advertising also knows the folly of false claims.

His integrity is the integrity of his product. Your good will is the rock on which he stands. If it crumbles, his success goes with it into dust.

The truthful, consistent advertising of any manufacturer is proof of his pride in the merchandise he offers you.

But it is even more than that. It is his promise of constant quality and definite purity. Of honest weight. Of full value in return for your money and your confidence.

These facts are published by this newspaper in an earnest attempt to help you buy more wisely.

When you shop, accurate information is your best protection against the disappointment which often hides behind an unknown label.

OPINIONS OF OTHERS
Impachment Fodder

Dallas News: WHILE the difference of opinion continues as to whether Alfalfa Bill Murray of Oklahoma is going to turn out a Jim Ferguson or an Andy Jackson, even friends of the Sooner Governor are expressing disappointment so far.
It looks as if Alfalfa Bill is actually courting impachment. His campaign boast that if he tried to im-pach him he would play wildcat to their jackrabbit roles is nearer to fulfillment, apparently than most of his other campaign promises.
The Governor has been a snarling wildcat for some months now, and has nothing to show for it but the enmity of the Legislature.

Texas does not know what the straight of it is in regard to the cement fight in the Oklahoma Highway Department. Texas does not know whether the University of Oklahoma is an "immoral" as Alfalfa Bill is reputed to have charged. Texas does not pretend to pass upon whether the enemies of the common people have set "man traps" to debauch the Governor's honesty or "frame" him criminally or otherwise, as has been hinted. But all this has a painfully familiar sound to Texas.
The parallel is really astonishing to those who think back over happenings in Texas.

The News is not attempting to tell Oklahoma or Governor Murray what to do. It can only hope that these seeming symptoms of coming events are not symptoms at all, and that our neighbors to the north of us will shortly find peace and cooperation and progress. The headlines and the noise do attract attention, it is true, but it is a sort of attention of which both Texas and Oklahoma have already had more than was good for them.

OXYGEN IN PNEUMONIA

One of the serious complications of the disease pneumonia is the oxygen starvation which the patient suffers. The modern treatment for this is to supply extra oxygen.

The patient critically ill with pneumonia is "air-hungry." His breathing is usually rapid and increased and his condition, in consequence, is one of anxiety.

The oxygen starvation of the pneumonia patient is due to a number of conditions. Undoubtedly the toxins or poisons produced by the pneumonia germs are a contributing factor.

So also must be the physical blocking-up of the air spaces in the affected portion of the lung by the presence and action of the pneumococcus in it.

It is to overcome this condition that oxygen is employed. In the treatment of pneumonia, since first used ten years ago, accumulated experience has brought proof of its beneficial effects.

The air-hungry pneumonia patient is permitted to breathe an atmosphere containing from 10 to 20 per cent oxygen, which soon raises the oxygen concentration in the blood to normal. Normal air contains only 20 per cent oxygen.

The oxygen is administered in various ways. Some hospitals have large rooms in which the air is rich in oxygen and temperature and humidity subject to control.

Lacking such elaborate equipment, oxygen may be given, by means of an oxygen tent, which consists of a square hood placed over the head and chest of the patient. The tent is connected to an oxygen tank.

Even simpler is the method by which oxygen is fed the patient through tubes inserted in his nasals.

MYSTERIOUS WAY

SYNOPSIS: Dr. Charters fails in his efforts to have John Wayne judged insane so as to get him out of the nursing home where he is an unwelcome guest. Feeling that the stranger might reveal how he robbed Chink Dorson and "buddy" Schlitz of their shares of the St. Clair diamond haul in America, he had consented to send him on a ship for the Schlitz murder. Wayne tells Dr. MacAdoo of the diamond haul of the Standard 16,500 pounds, the murderer being Marjorie Land-ford, a patient whose aunt was Dr. Charters' old nurse, Mrs. James.
Charters' confidant draws a picture of Wayne when the latter reveals knowledge of his past. After knocking him unconscious, Wayne summons Charters, who declares that the mysterious patient must be "put away."
Wayne is amazed when Wayne calls her "Princess Fanny" later, insinuating to her.

Chapter 12
THE TWO VULTURES
THE rude interruption of Mr. John Wayne into the peaceful current of life at the Monastery had naturally consequences.

"First," Dr. Emmanuel MacAdoo said to the close of one of his daily conferences with his chief, observed quietly, his eyes upon the priestess Bessie, "we do not mention my share of the—er—payable by the—er—share of a certain charming young lady, formerly a patient of mine."
"I don't understand," replied Dr.
Charters, with a perfect truth.

"Oh, I think you do," the young lady's relative, when they were alone, said. "I will have various ill-luminating bills to settle. Heirs of the Deeds, Tradesmen's accounts, Debtors' Lawyers' fees. Understand, accounts, Doctor's fees. . . .
In this case the fees must be fairly divided."

Dr. MacAdoo lowered his voice to a whisper and, with a quick shift of glance, as if for a second the hall probing stare of Dr. Charters' cruel eye was repelled.

"What are you driving at, my worthy friend?" asked the doctor.
"You mean you aren't satisfied with our financial arrangement?
I want a larger bonus or a bigger salary, or what?"

"Oh, I'm perfectly satisfied with my share and my salary. I am not going to go back on an agreement, especially a gentlemen's contract between men of honor. . . . Oh, no!
I've never do that Charters."

"But all that right out," cried Dr. Charters, "and say what's bitting you?"
"Dr. Emmanuel MacAdoo again showed at his partner, or employee, and again quickly looked away.
"When I accepted your offer and terms," he repeated, "I accepted them. Yes. Once and for all. And I am not one to go back on an agreement. . . . er . . . some . . ."

That paused to gnaw a fingernail.
"Some," prompted Dr. Charters,
"let's go through the secretary's books. But this one won't—and I can't my share. I should have done the work and earned the fee if you hadn't taken the case out of my hands, and I'm ready to take the case back. . . . and do the work . . .
and have my fair share of the fee."

A similar situation arose in Allice White's last starring picture for First National, "The Widow from Chicago." Edward G. Robinson, the big gang and gun man, played a supporting role. But after Miss White's contract expired, Robinson stared in "Little Caesar," which was seasonally successful.

Now the Allice White starring vehicle is advertised. "Edward G.
Robinson in 'The Widow from Chicago,'" with Allice White.

BEFORE THE FALL
Several months ago a fairly prominent actor was offered a studio contract, to begin at $750 a week and increase gradually to more than a thousand. He turned it down because the studio would not let him write into the agreement certain privilege clauses.

Today he is down and out, nearly starved, and "looking for a break."
The film rights to the old classic,
"Alice in Wonderland," were offered to a leading studio, and a certain director was eager to have the job of making it. Everyone glad at the studio shared his enthusiasm, until the matter was brought to the chief executive.

"No!" that dignitary said firmly.
"By that foolishness? I never heard of it!"

IOWAN STILL MISSING

Mrs. John Smith and her son, Leo, age 9 (above), wait anxiously for news of their husband and father, Iowa Farmer-Labor gubernatorial candidate in 1930, missing from his Perry, Iowa, home since Feb. 3. It was thought for a time that he had died when his truck burned on that date, but the body found in the truck ruins was found to have been emalmed before the fire. Mrs. Smith would have received $50,000 insurance benefits.

Filling Of World's Biggest Dirigible Gives Helium Plant Year-Round Job

The navy's new dirigible "Akron," with a gas capacity nearly twice that of the Graf Zeppelin, will require a 100 per cent increase in the output of the government's helium "factory" at Amarillo, Texas. The men shown working on the dirigible's nose in the upper picture are standing on 85-foot ladders. The helium for the Akron will be transported in special railroad cars, shown below, carrying 28 cylinders each.

AMARILLO, Texas, (AP)—Manufacture of helium to inflate the world's largest air cruiser, the "Akron," nearing completion at Akron, Ohio, is under way at the government's $2,000,000 plant near Amarillo.

Storage units at Akron and Lakehurst, N. J., are being filled rapidly, and by the time the big ship is floated, probably in late May or June, enough helium will be available to inflate it to capacity. There will also be a reserve supply sufficient to take care of any losses through leakage in the new gas bags.

The "Akron's" capacity of 6,500, 000 cubic feet will require more than two-thirds of the 9,500,000 cubic feet of helium ordered by the government to supply both the army and navy for the fiscal year ending June 30.

Child, Born With Its Lung Collapsed, Lives After Inhalator Used

HOUSTON, Texas, April 6, (UP)— Charles William Edwards, Jr., 2-day-old son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W.
Edwards was alive and happy today.
But yesterday it was a different story. The infant first saw the light of day with collapsed lungs and the chances of his living 1,000 to 1, says a "him."

Attending doctors obtained an inhalator and placed it on the dying baby, as a last resort.

G. H. McDaniels, employe of an undertaking company operated the inhalator all last night. After nearly 12 hours of treatment Charles Jr. let out his first lusty yell. The treatment inflated the lungs and the doctors said his chances of living are now 1000 to 1 in his favor.

Discipline In Rural School Causes Death

ATHENS, Texas, April 6, (UP)— School-room discipline ended in the fatal shooting of D. C. Reese by officers of the City National, thereby giving the First National total resources of $1,122,257.82.

Burton Hughes, 33, school teacher, was placed in jail here today, although no charges have been filed.
He offered no resistance when officers arrested him at his home.
Hughes and Reese quarreled yesterday over the correction of Reese's children, officers said.

HOW TO LIVE LONG
WILLMANTIC, Conn. (INS)—
"I eat what want and plenty." The Mrs. Susan E. Culver explains her years, which now total an even one hundred. She was born March 29, 1831. For a health tonic Mrs. Cul-

I drink a glass of warm water," she says. "Try that, and see if it is

CUSTARD DESSERTS WILL BAKE BETTER IN SMALL DISHES

The smaller the dish, the more evenly and quickly the oven heat can penetrate to the center of the custard. Such results cannot be counted upon when large baking dishes are used.

Applying this principle to roasting their fine blend of coffee, Hills Bros. found the way to develop uniform flavor in every ounce. A constant stream of green coffee, introduced into the roaster in automatically measured lots of about three pounds, and passes through in a steady flow, roasting a little at a time. There is accurate control of both the flow of coffee and the temperature.

This process, patented by Hills Bros.—Controlled Roasting—develops a delicious uniform flavor no other coffee has. The ordinary method—roasting in bulk—is virtually lacking in control.

Grocers everywhere sell Hills Bros. Coffee in the vacuum can that keeps it ever-fresh. Air, which destroys the flavor of coffee, is removed from this can and kept out.
Coffee packed in ordinary cans, even if air-tight, does not stay fresh. Ask for Hills Bros. Coffee by name and look for the Arab-bia trademark—on the can.

City Federation In Last Meeting Before Convention

The City Federation will meet at the clubhouse tomorrow afternoon to complete plans for entertaining delegates to the Sixth District convention of Federated clubs to be held here April 15, 16, 17. This will be the last meeting before the convention and all members are urged to be present. Mrs. Fisher reminds the members of the City Federation that Big Spring is not the only town in Texas to be hostess to club meetings this spring and that other towns are putting on conventions with more elaborate programs than Big Spring has planned. She asks that the members come out tomorrow and put forth their best efforts to make the convention a credit to the hostess city.

tified planes flying high and fast in northerly and easterly directions have filtered into the office of the El Paso district director, along with other reports of discoveries of oil cans and air plane wheel tracks in desolate regions, in one case in the bottom of a dried-up lake. Patrolmen have been instructed to watch for all such signs of aerial smuggler's activities, to check with inhabitants of the area and to identify where possible any suspicious flights.

"I believe there is considerable smuggling of aliens and other contraband by planes," Wilmoth said. "I believe it is increasing and we are not catching a tenth of the aliens being smuggled into this country by plane."

The nature of the cargoes carried by the planes is a matter of controversy among the patrolmen. Some assert they are aliens from European countries, of a high class and able to pay well for such sub rosa transportation. Others insist they are made up of narcotics and expensive liquors. Those inclined to the opinion the planes carry aliens, principally, point out that narcotic smugglers would hesitate to trust a plane, naturally an object of much interest in the territory, with cargoes as valuable as narcotics, but that aliens paying $500 to $1,000 each would be happy to take the chance.

To cope with the situation, Wilmoth recommended establishment of a border air patrol, which would place one plane in each of the three sub-divisions of the El Paso district, or about 350 miles of the boundary, with addition of more planes as need for them is demonstrated.

Children's Pageant Tuesday Evening To Be At Church

On Tuesday evening one of the most interesting programs of the entire conference, being held this week at the First Methodist church, will be a children's pageant given by the members of the Big Spring Boys and Girls Friendship club, in which a group of Mexican children will sing.

One of the numbers will be the Spanish song which the children of Mexico sent to the children of the United States in appreciation of the school bags sent them.

The pageant will be directed by Mrs. Ebb Hatch, assisted by Mrs. Chas. Morris. Native costumes will be worn by the children of different countries. Mrs. Lawrence Simpson, the superintendent of the children's work in the auxiliary, has been instrumental in planning the pageant.

Mrs. R. B. Zinn Recalls Big Spring's Early Days

She Helped Organize First Methodist Church And It Is Only Interest Which Will Outlive Her

It is a far cry from the milk and mush suppers served by the Methodist W. M. S. in the days of Mrs. R. B. Zinn's young matronhood to the elaborate banquets which the society puts now.

Even the Birdwell hotel in those days, she said, "would have considered a kitchen as well equipped as that in the basement of today's Methodist church, too nice to use."

The Methodist church when it was built in 1884 was a frame building 30 by 60 feet and was considered something of a religious achievement, because out of the rapidly growing town which had 500 men in the shops and almost double that in other industries, only five people were eager to organize a church. Of this five, one, Mrs. Zinn, was a Baptist and another, Dr. McIntyre, was a Presbyterian. Mrs. Zinn is the only one living today.

When Mrs. Zinn came to Big Spring the Texas and Pacific was just built and the town was on its first boom. The sound of the hammer did not stop, day or night. Her husband was a contractor and they moved from Fort Worth and Mineral Wells hoping to make quickly enough money to cover up their losses in East Texas. Like most of the town's pioneer residents, they had no intention of remaining. But the years passed and they discovered whenever they talked of moving that they had too much affection for the country to desire a change.

Forty-eight years will have passed on April 16 since Mrs. Zinn arrived. She is strong enough now, even though she is 86 years old, to make herself a home anywhere else she cares to go; should you ask her if she still wants to leave she will tell you that she has here all that is needed to make her happy on earth.

In 1883, the year of her arrival, Big Spring had neither schoolhouse nor church house. Her husband had a store and a saloon. A school house was first built and in the various church organizations met whenever they had a minister, which was about once a month.

When the Methodist church was organized and undertook to erect a building. It seemed as much of a feat to the small membership as the present brick building did to the large membership today.

Child Study Club Reviews Damage Done By Tonsils

Public interest in throat afflictions—endang especially diseased tonsils, has been increasing as facts are gathered concerning the complications which follow this condition. For this reason the Child study club is conducting its bridge benefit Friday afternoon at the Settles hotel says Mrs. Blount, the president. It will use money to pay for hospital expenses for needy children who could not otherwise have their tonsils removed.

Among the complications are the following: heart conditions such as lesion or enlargement of the heart; kidney diseases such as pyelitis or Bright's disease; rheumatism which may involve one or more joints of the body; enlargement of the glands, which are more commonly in the neck but may be all over the body; sinus infections, which cause severe headaches; defective vision; defective hearing and nervousness.

BRIDGE CLUB NOTES
Mrs. W. W. Inkman will entertain the Ideal Bridge Club this week instead of Mrs. Ford. The Informal Club will meet with Mrs. J. D. Biles but not on Friday. The date will be announced later.

days and church suppers became increasingly popular. When district court met the W. M. S. would put on turkey dinners and sometimes would roast whole pigs.

The Cyclone
The cyclone of 1907 which blew Baptist and Episcopal churches away took only the cupola of the Methodist church. That was the cupola of the second building, which was replaced by the present brick structure only a few years ago. Mrs. Zinn remembers well how the ladies buckled down to more suppers and more quilt-making. Quilts were sold for as little as $2.50 and $3. in those days, so badly needed was the money.

Ice cream suppers had become fashionable, says Mrs. Zinn. All the churches put them on; especially popular was the courthouse lawn for these occasions and they were the big get together socials of the town.

Mrs. Zinn enjoyed those early days. She was never afraid, she said. She remembers clearly the night when the whole town was shocked by the sound of the pistol which killed Ranchman Sparks. His enemy waited for him in a clump of trees below the present Frank Pool place on Gregg street. It was a killing in which everyone but the court had enough evidence to convict the slayer.

Early Memories
She also remembers when Lester Fisher was about the size of his little nephew, Edward, and wore kiltie.

She recalls the first big fire of Big Spring which seemed about to wipe out the town, until it reached the Fisher home built of native stone. It is now occupied by the boys' gymnasium. This stopped it from spreading. Also the time the oil house caught fire and people thought the end of the world had come.

She lived comfortably in those days without ice and bought water for about ten years from the water peddler who went up and down the streets selling spring water at 25 cents a barrel. People covered their barrels with a piece of duck and considered the system perfectly sanitary.

Learned to Knit
In her young days, back in Pettie county, Missouri, Mrs. Zinn learned to knit, spin and weave. She has made every article needed in a home from jeans for men and linsey cloth for women, to blankets and carpets. She has still a lovely blue hand woven coverlid of her own making for which she spun the cotton. She could make such things today if she had the tools to work with.

She has lived a temperate life and to that she attributes her remarkable vitality and good health. Her hair is just beginning to turn gray. She uses glasses only for reading. Her memory for exact dates is unusually accurate. If she follows after her mother she will live to be a hundred. As it is, she has survived every member of her immediate family, her husband and all her children.

Her great interest today is the Methodist church. It is like one of her children and after having watched it grow through all its growing pains, she has reached the place where she could sit back and enjoy it, if she wanted to. But her interest is too active. She is as busy as any other member of the W. M. S. this week assisting in the Northwest Texas W. M. S. Conference and being thankful that she has lived to see the work of the women spread from their interest in purely local matters to those of world wide importance.
