Semi-Annual Tax Payment To Be Sought

Sterling Favors Measure Proposed By Wichita Falls Senator

MOODY TO SUBMIT

Bill Would Affect This Month's Bills If Plan Adopted

Staff Correspondent
AUSTIN, Jan. 13.—In keeping with the plan approved at Houston Monday by Gov.-Elect Ross S. Sterling, Senator Ben G. O'Neal of Wichita Falls announced here Tuesday that Gov. Dan Moody has agreed to submit Wednesday for emergency action Mr. O'Neal's bill to divide state taxes into semi-annual payments this year and next. Sen. O'Neal said he will offer the bill and seek to have it enacted before Jan. 31 to make it effective this year. His bill will permit paying one-half before January 31, and one-half before June 30, with customary penalties applying on the amounts after these dates, instead of the 10 per cent penalty on all taxes accruing after January 31.

Members Of Cotton Co-Op Gather Here

Field Man Heard On Plan Followed By Organization

A small crowd of members of the local branch of the Texas Cotton Cooperative Association heard S. A. Debnam, field man for the organization, speak Monday afternoon in the district courtroom regarding work of the organization. Debnam discussed different angles of the business of the cotton organization, and answered questions of members regarding different phases of the work. Debnam offered services of field men to the farmers "at any time you want us." He declared the organization was "neither sponsoring nor condemning" a movement to make cut in cotton acreage compulsory. He declared the reduction will not be as great as hoped for. He declared a good grade of cotton for this section is midding 15-16th, and urged farmers to use good seed. He suggested that a 10 acre block be devoted to good seed production. Debnam declared the estimated carryover will be six million bales. "An invidious campaign is already being carried on to undermine confidence in the farm board and the cooperatives," he declared. "A tremendous fight will be waged at the next session of congress to repeal or modify the Agricultural Marketing Act in a manner which will prevent successful operation of the farm board and the cooperatives. "We cannot avoid the consequences of over-production, but we can save ourselves from receiving the full consequences at one blow. That is what the cooperatives and the Farm Board did, by holding three million bales of cotton off the market. World-wide depression has caused cotton prices to use three million bales less this season than they did last season. The supply on hand is three million bales more."

Plain old Will Rogers, worth much money, known by most every man, woman and child in the country, is a very busy man. But Will has an awfully big heart. If he were not full of human kindness his journey from home in Hollywood across the western states to Fort Worth—by airplane—would not have been made Monday.

He took the trip on his own initiative after wiring Texas men he wanted to make a series of public appearances to help raise a fund for relief of unemployed and needy in the more heavily stricken sections of Texas, Oklahoma and Louisiana.

He took the trip on his own initiative after wiring Texas men he wanted to make a series of public appearances to help raise a fund for relief of unemployed and needy in the more heavily stricken sections of Texas, Oklahoma and Louisiana.

His journey to Fort Worth to make final arrangements for his whirlwind campaign of mercy brought him to the Big Spring airport for 29 minutes late Monday. Due to misunderstanding between the S. A. Debnam, operator at the field, and a newspaper reporter, about 1,000 local people reached the field too late to see Will.

He's just a big, country cowhand. He is, and he isn't.

When Mrs. J. R. Roberts, 113 Lincoln, wishing to meet the visitor became tired of standing before a crowd of people.

SPEECHES PLANNED
FORT WORTH, Texas, Jan. 13 (AP)—Will Rogers' tour of Texas in the interest of relieving immediate needs caused by unemployment will begin January 25 and eight cities have tentatively been selected on the itinerary of the celebrated cowboy humorist. They are Fort Worth, Dallas, Houston, Austin, San Antonio, San Angelo, Amarillo and Waco. The places were chosen by Rogers himself, who insists upon paying his own expenses of the tour and will require that all proceeds from his appearances go to relief of the needy.

The famous humorist's talks will be sponsored in each state by the Federated Women's clubs with various social welfare agencies, including the American Red Cross and community chest organizations cooperating. Rogers made clear that he wanted all the proceeds of his appearances to go to the fund for relieving families in rural sections made destitute by crop failures and the needy unemployed of the cities.

He found the chain barrier stretched to keep the crowd away from the big tri-motor Fokker, she stepped over it. Mrs. W. A. Earnest and Mrs. Adam Talley followed her. "Why do you introduce us to this man?" asked Mrs. Roberts. A newspaper man introduced Will to the ladies. And Will was plainly embarrassed. Like a cowhand just in from a long "work" on the range thrust suddenly into a drawing room full of richly dressed women. "Excusing the embarrassment of Mr. Rogers, Mrs. Roberts, smilingly reminded him that she didn't figure he'd be embarrassed around women, since his recent little act with Clara Bow, when the latter lost some cash in a border banquet, etc., place. "Yeah," said Rogers. "They told me in El Paso this morning gambling had started up again in Juarez. I told 'em I reckoned I'd better bring Clara down."

Reminded that Alfalfa Bill Murray had been inaugurated governor of his native Oklahoma earlier in the day Will voiced sincere desire to have been on the scene. "Papa served on the Oklahoma constitutional convention with Mr. Murray and seemed to like him pretty well. Papa was the oldest man in the convention," he said.

Informed of Mr. Murray's inaugural address, especially his statement pardons could not be bought Will, without a snicker and half-in-fun said, "they all start good."

Mr. Rogers said he left home in Hollywood early Monday, would meet a committee in Fort Worth Tuesday morning to plan his speaking tour and then would fly on to New York and Washington, there to "tell Hoover how to run the country."

"I'll tell him. Yeah, I'll tell him. He'll have to take or leave my advice," he said, grinning sheepishly.

"Wish you had time to drive in to town," said Dr. E. O. Ellington, president of the Chamber of Commerce, who was among the first to greet Rogers.

"What is it?" he said, looking eastward in the direction of the business district, hidden under the hills.

"What you got, wheat?" he asked.

"No, Cotton mainly," he was told.

Furore Over Act Shock to Magistrate

Fellow Club Men Visit Geore Parks In Bastille

COURT HIMSELF VISITS HIS FRIEND, WHOM HE SENT TO PRISON

SWEETWATER, Tex., Jan. 13 (AP)—Efforts will be instituted immediately to procure release of George Parks, young Sweetwater reporter who went to jail here yesterday on a three-day sentence for contempt of court, Millard Cope, editor of the Sweetwater Reporter, announced this afternoon.

Cope said he had employed counsel in behalf of his reporter, and would institute habeas corpus proceedings, probably in the court of Judge Fritz R. Smith, who sent Parks to jail for publishing information on an indictment prior to the arrest of the defendant.

Cope said he had received offers of assistance from newspapers, including the Scripps-Howard group which had offered to send him an attorney from Fort Worth to contest Judge Smith's decree on the ground that the court had exceeded its constitutional authority.

Cozily removed from the furore aroused over his commitment, Parks is enjoying his experience, forcibly reminding that he is no ordinary prisoner. He said today he was being showered with attentions "from the outside." His editor, Millard Cope, in person is taking him three square meals a day. The Sweetwater Lions club, of which Parks is a member, went to the jail on Monday to pay its respects—and to fine Parks 25 cents for missing attendance. A portable typewriter, writing material, was sent to him late yesterday, and today he was covering his courthouse run by telephone and between times entertaining callers.

"So many people have come to see me," he confided, "that I have started a guest book for their autographs."

Today Parks' fellow prisoners held kangaroo court on him, fining him $2.05 and the money he had on his person for "breaking into jail without giving notice to pay his respects—and to fine Parks 25 cents for missing attendance."

Following the embarrassment of Mr. Rogers, Mrs. Roberts, smilingly reminded him that she didn't figure he'd be embarrassed around women, since his recent little act with Clara Bow, when the latter lost some cash in a border banquet, etc., place.

Connecticut Senator Now Favors Tariff On Crude Oil

WASHINGTON, Jan. 13 (AP)—Enactment of a tariff on oil at this session was advocated in the senate today by Senator Shortridge, Republican, California. Shortridge contended the tariff could be initiated in the senate under the guise of interstate commerce regulation to avoid the constitutional provision requiring that all revenue legislation must be originated in the house. House leaders have frowned on the proposal for tariff legislation on oil at this session. The senate six times voted down this duty during consideration of the last tariff act.

Fred Minor Not Opposed For Speaker

First Resolution Defeated In House Without Record Vote

WOMAN PRESIDES

Bob Barker Again Made Secretary of Upper House

AUSTIN, Texas, Jan. 13 (AP)—The forty-second legislature convened at noon today for a 120-day session. Mrs. Jane Y. McCallum, secretary of state, presided over the House and Lieutenant Governor Barry Miller rapped for order in the senate.

All 31 members of the senate were present and the chief clerk of the House reported after the roll call that the entire membership of that body of 150 was on hand. Representative Fred Minor of Denton was elected speaker of the House without opposition. He became one of the three or four that have been elected to that post unanimously in the memory of those now around the capitol.

Minor, 42, began his legislative service only four years ago. He served as president pro tempore during the last legislature, while Speaker W. S. Barron of Bryan was ill.

Among those who seconded Minor's nomination was Mrs. Sara T. Hughes of Dallas, one of the five women members of the 42nd legislature. This legislature contains more women members than any previous one.

Bob Barker of Fort Worth, veteran secretary of the senate, was re-elected. Other officers named included: John Deppert, assistant secretary; Wendell O'Neal, journal clerk; A. W. Holt, sergeant-at-arms; Joel Gunn, assistant sergeant-at-arms; M. H. Dryer, calendar clerk; Mrs. Lola P. Lawrence, postmistress; W. A. Collins, doorkeeper and Lee McDougal, custodian of records.

The first resolution offered in the House was defeated without record vote. It was to clear the floor until the speaker was elected.

In opening the House, Mrs. McCallum urged members to place service above self and said tragic need existed for constructive legislation, for proper representation of the citizenry and for defending the integrity of institutions and institutions of the state.

Addressing the House, Speaker Minor said he "craved the cooperation" of all members to the end the session might be successful. He pointed out the legislature was convening under circumstances which offered a great opportunity for signal service and urged that personalities be set aside and efforts devoted to measures that would increase the social and economic status of Texas.

Carl Hardin of Stephenville was elected president pro tempore of the senate without opposition. Both Houses adjourned within an hour and a half.

Senator Joe Moore of Greenville was named chairman of the important senate state affairs committee. Other important chairmanships follow: Tom Deberry of Bogata, penitentiaries; J. W. E. H. Beck of DeKalb, finance; Clint C. Small of Wellington, criminal jurisprudence; W. A. Williams of San Antonio, state highway and motor traffic; and Pink L. Parrish of Lubbock, congressional districts.

HOME TOWN TALK

BY BEDDY

Feller said the other day he reckoned this was about the last 'lean' year this country could stand; that 1930 was bad, 1917-18 worse, and this unspeakably more disagreeable.

Yeah. He figured about the only thing left to do was go off and die.

Said he had some land here in Howard county that he paid about $10 an acre for and he guessed he couldn't sell it for that now etc.

Can you feature that?

On about the same day your humble servant was saying, as usual but absolutely sincerely, that he'd rather be living in Big Spring than any town in the country; that he believed every foot of land in Howard county would be worth more ten years from now.

Which reminds us of a story an old time resident of the county told the other day. It was one of the "lean" years. A farmer north of town had a section of land. He wanted to sell it but he got a price higher than any land in the vicinity had ever brought. His attorney was approached by a prospective buyer. The attorney told him what the client wanted for the land and added that he felt he was asking too much.

"No. You're wrong," said the prospective buyer. "The good Lord has made all the land he's going to make. But more people are being born every day."

There you are.

Temporary dips in the curve of values may occur here, as well as most everywhere else. But, over periods of five or ten years you'll find value of property in this county higher and more substantial than today.

Will Rogers says all these candidates "take flight." Oklahoma showed old Alfalfa Bill into the grind yesterday. Texas will inaugurate Ross Sterling in a few days. Let us hope they both have successful administrations.

Time Drawing Near For Herald's School of Charm

Armiss may proclaim armistices, navies may cease to build ships, crowns' heads may confer in Peace Pacts, and governments may sign treaties, but in her quest for charm, success, and happier womanhood will tolerate no armistice. She will cease to build her hopes. She will sign no treaty with the enemy Time, and make no peace with dullness. That is, if she is a wise general who knows that triumph is to be won when the battle is strategically planned, even if the odds are against her.

But sometimes even the bravest soldier finds her courage flagging, and she wonders whether her strategy is correct or not, and the general camps of pliancy and dismay loom ominously strong.

But reinforcements are coming! The Settles hotel is to be the battleground when the Herald holds its first annual Charm School here from January 20-23; and Miss Nancy Earls is the wise and valorous general who will lead the women of Big Spring to new victories against the ancient enemies of age and unattractiveness.

New plans of attack, new little stratagems, new ammunition, new courage, and new vision Miss Earls brings. And to those who march

Agua Caliente Trail Hit By Stars

Dudley Comes Out of Nowhere To Take Rich Purse

By PAUL ZIMMERMAN
LOS ANGELES, Jan. 13 (AP)—Led by Big Ed Dudley, Wilmington, Del., professional, a chosen hundred of the winter golfing army today took the Rainbow Trail to Agua Caliente, seeking the $25,000 pot of gold which awaits tomorrow the winner of the world's richest tournament.

It was the smiling Dudley's right to head the march, for yesterday he demonstrated a golden golfing touch by winning the Los Angeles $10,000 open and the attendant first prize money of $3,500.

Coming almost out of nowhere yesterday with a 68, one under par, this former Georgian gambled with his shots and won a champion's place in the sixth annual Los Angeles test by posting a score of 285 to lead the field by two strokes.

Dudley had never won a major tournament. Interest had centered in a quartet of the old guard, Tommy Armour, P.G.A. champion from Detroit, Leo Diegel, Agua Caliente pro Al Espinosa, veteran campaigner from Chicago, and his fellow townsman, Eddie Loos. Through sixty holes it had been a close contest with this foursome always in the running.

Then Big Ed came to the difficult sixteenth. He donned a 30-foot putt for a birdie 3.

He made a champion's shot on the eighteenth which won the tournament. Behind a tree with his second, he bravely pitched over to the barranca isolated green. The ball dropped sixteen feet from the pin and got it with the one stroke.

Meanwhile the leading quartet blew up individually. Loos and Espinosa came in with 74's for a total of 287 and second place. They won $1,312.50 each. Next came Armour, who tied with Frank Walsh, Chicago, with 288. This earned them $500 each.

Diegel tied for sixth with Craig Wood, Bloomfield, N. J., pro, with 289, which paid 4th place $225 each. The low amateur, Roland McKenzie, is from the same club as Dudley, the Concord Country Club of Concordville, Pa. McKenzie, whose home is in Washington, finished with 285.

Trials of Chicago Boxer Continue to Grow Worse

CHICAGO, Jan. 13 (AP)—The trials and tribulations of Pete Wistort, young Chicago heavyweight, continue.

About a year ago Wis it saved $9 from a stickup man by slaming the fellow on the jaw. But he fractured his right hand and was unable to pursue his trade for nine months.

Last night in a bout with Andy Shanks of Grand Rapids, Mich., Pete launched a murderous right swing, missed, and "ill on his face. The fall caused him to suffer a fracture of the right shoulder and Shanks was awarded a technical knockout victory.

Three Matches For Stribling Are Suggested

Solons Would Have 'Young' Sign For Trio Of Battles

By HERBERT W. BARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK, Jan. 13 (AP)—The complex heavyweight situation has reached the point where the fighters are being asked to sign not for one bout but for three.

The plight of Young Bill Stribling, Macon, Ga., contender, might be taken as an example. Young Bill's father-manager, "Pa" Stribling, was all set to sign Bill to a title match with Max Schmeling in June. Now they're asking him to agree to two more battles in the event that Stribling relieves Schmeling of the championship. They want Bill first to meet Primo Carnera in September, "they" being the Hearst Milk Fund officially and Bill Carey, president of Madison Square Garden, unofficially. Then they would have Stribling fight again in 1932 against the best available opponent for the milk fund alone.

Under the terms of this three-edged proposal, Stribling would post $25,000 of his 12-2 per cent cut in the Schmeling-Stribling gate as a forfeit for the match with Carnera.

"Pa" Stribling took this offering under advisement although it was plain he was not particularly pleased with it.

Yesterday's conferences were between milk fund promoters, representatives of Stribling and Schmeling and Bill Duffy, American manager of Carnera. Bill Carey was not there for a New York commission order forbids, under pain of suspension, any promoter to negotiate with a suspended fighter.

Carnera has been under suspension here since his unsatisfactory bout with Leon Chevalier in California last year, and Schmeling and his manager, Joe Jacobs, were placed under the ban last week when the commission vacated Her Maxie's crown because he failed to agree immediately to a title bout with Jack Sharkey.

Negotiations For Removal Of Waco Franchise To Galveston Underway

GALVESTON, Texas, Jan. 13 (AP)—Two sources were credited today with statements that negotiations for the transfer of the Waco franchise of the Texas League to Galveston were under way.

Shearn Moody, capitalist of Galveston admitted he was angling for the Waco franchise and that a conference would be held tomorrow with Derrill Pratt, manager of the Waco club, and Alvin Gardner president of the league.

Gardner admitted knowledge of the proposed move, but said details would have to come from the persons more directly interested. Galveston would be a welcome member in the league, he stated, because of its status as an amusement center and its ancient rivalry with Houston and Beaumont, other members.

Efforts by assistants of Mr. Moody to sell stock in a Galveston baseball club were said to be meeting with success and were hailed as indicative that a transfer might be effected in a few days.

Gardner denied reports that Shreveport would drop out of the circuit.

Just a few months ago Harry Taylor brought to Big Spring a bunch of football players, sent them against the Steers, and went away with the apples. Tonight the Steer quintet will invade Colorado and endeavor to reverse, to a certain extent, that victory.

Bill Stevens will send his charges against the weaker Colorado aggregation at Colorado at 7:30 p. m.

The Bovines will go into the contest the favorites to win in a whirlwind. The Wolves lost to the W. C. Stripling five, a team which the Steers ousted in a pair of games. There is the hope, if any is needed and cared for.

Tonight's contest will mark the first of three for this week. Friday and Saturday nights the Steers will clash at the local gymnasium with the Warner Memorial University cagers of Eastland.

PEIPING—The former boy emperor spends much of his time reading the sporting pages and enjoying himself the things he reads about. Henry Pu Yi, now 30, and 20 years ago nominal ruler, is quite a tennis player, having a private professional instructor. He also likes to ride a bicycle and skate.

THE WATER BUCKET

If one likes to look for things, especially that, pertains to high school football, one may find, if diligence is practiced to the utmost degree, somewhere near this spot a new Texas high school grid arrangement. Henderson has cut out sixteen districts, and from the looks of the layout it should satisfy the customers. Even Wesley D. Hodges, the Breckenridge sports writer, whose skin is still itching because Breckenridge hasn't been consulted as to dividing things up.

Tonight Bill Stevens will pack up his trunks and his jerseys and he himself and his cagers to Colorado for a little tilt with the Wolves. On account of this department being engaged, our representative will by necessity be a young man named "Squeaky," the manager of the Longhorn cage activities.

This department has just been visited by the great J. T. Prater, a walking proof of the theory that the more a man sits the fatter he becomes. Mr. Prater made the fatal mistake of dropping by the office, sitting on the glittering top of our mahogany desk, turning over the paste pot, picking up one of our pencils, and stalking out without so much as donating a single one of last month's magazines. He dropped the news that his basketball team won a game from some team somehow last night, his bowling team is advancing rapidly, and his cigars were fresh out. Whataman!

With the new district being carved, J. Gordon Bristol, whom someone dubbed Obie way back yonder, will have an excellent opportunity to carry his Steers to a district title this year. The separation of the schools in this end of District Two, simply means that the old adage of "let dog eat dog," applies to the others on the east end. Abilene, Breckenridge, Cisco, Ranger and Eastland in one district! And what a melee that is going to turn out to be. San Angelo, veterans in one way, but infants in another, of the district, might be lonesome for a few years without the usual conflicts with an enemy down east, but perhaps the village will be able to snap out of it and beat Big Spring out one of these sons.

On account of the wise judgment displayed by this chronicler in selecting his 1931 All-American calendar, we have been engaged to head man at the Charn School to be conducted by this newspaper. We'll play our harp between ahwa.

Detroit Sees Reawakening As Factories Open

DETROIT, Jan. 13 (AP)—Detroit is reawakening today.

The city of automobiles has been in a condition of industrial hibernation for more than a year. Factory wheels have turned only intermittently. There have been gaps in assembly lines at the numerous automobile factories.

But the go-ahead signal has been given, and the ever hopeful population of this essentially youthful community believes that "things will be different now."

The Detroit street railways made preparations to transport thousands more workers to their jobs today than went to work last Monday.

Most of these, of course, are of the thousands laid off December 18, when the inventory period began, and most of them are going back to work on part time schedules. Nevertheless there is a more optimistic feeling than has existed for many months.

Announcement was made that 75,000 employees of the Ford River Plant would be notified to return to work today. Another 32,000 Ford workers were to report at other plants in the Detroit area.

Other automobile factories have issued similar call to their workers. Dodge, Hudson, Lincoln, Buick, Cadillac and Chrysler are going into production after the annual inventory.

Chevrolet has promised 30,000 workers steady jobs through the winter.

Optimistic reports have come out of the New York automobile show, and statements of industrial leaders that the depression is soon to be a thing of the past are accepted at their face value in Detroit.

"Hard times" of the past year have appeared worse in Detroit than elsewhere because of the greater contrast with normal conditions of prosperity. In days of prosperity when the assembly lines are crowded, Detroit is a boom town. Money appears plentiful for all purposes. People stand in long lines to gain admittance to all places of amusement. Downtown streets are jammed with shoppers. But during the past year it has been possible to walk into a movie theater and take a seat without waiting. The streets have not been so crowded with automobiles.

During 1930 automobile manufacturers were careful to produce less cars than were sold, so the surplus stock has been absorbed. The people of the Detroit area have been pinched by this policy, but the industry has been placed on a firmer foundation.

All announcement by automobile manufacturers have stated that only former employees will be considered for positions, and unemployed

Watchman Trained Between Train and Auto

DALLAS, Texas, Jan. 13 (AP)—C. M. McLain, 65, watchman at a state highway department warehouse north of Dallas, was crushed against a box car and killed Sunday when an automobile skidded into the train, which was stalled at a crossing while a "hot box" fire under one of the cars was being extinguished. H. C. Wilmouth, driver of the automobile, said mist obscured his vision and he did not see the train. His wife was cut and bruised but was unhurt. They were en route from McKinney to Fort Worth.

DOG IN TALKS

HOLLY SPRING, Miss., Jan. 13 (AP)—Evergreen Jersey Mack, a pointer owned by E. S. Groves of Rivertown, N. J., and Panhandle Lady, an English setter owned by J. C. Dickie, Jr., of Anarillo, Texas, were favorites today in the final of the derby of the United States.

The event is a flid trial for blind dogs not more than 7 years old. With birds plentiful and good weather going on entries and handlers 14 dogs ran the preliminary 45 minutes heats yesterday. The final today is for an hour's run.

A Typical Boy

THE MOST interesting thing to us in this story of the kidnap-ing of the Bach grandson in St.
Louis was the attitude of the boy himself displayed towards his kidnaper. Questioned after he had returned home, the boy revealed that the first thing he said to his kidnaper was not, "Where are you going to take me?" or "What are you going to do with me?" but "What kind of a gun have you got?" And when the kidnaper told him the boys
curiously was appeased.

OPINIONS OF OTHERS

We Can't Afford to Cut

Dallas News
Time to crime wave is a poor time to fire policemen. When there is a tremendous fire sweeping the community nobody tries to save water. Pouring water in the tank to save gasoline has been proved by experience to be poor economy. You admit all that. A simple plan can see as much. Well then, in 1931 are you for a bigger budget for the Dallas Chamber of Commerce or a smaller one?

The chamber brings more business to Dallas. Do you think we have too much here now? The chamber brings thousands of convention visitors here to spend their money here and our town. Do you think Dallas is too full of cash customers? The chamber is bringing pay rolls to Dallas. Is there more pay in circulation here than you think is good for your business? The chamber is a dynamo of community energy and enterprise that has made Dallas a bright and shining light. Are you ready to pull the switch or dim the light?

The sensible thing is to redouble
our efforts for new business, more customers, better contacts, friendlier relations. The best way to do that is to invest more money in the Chamber of Commerce, rather than less. "One can't cut off the leg going up hill," says the Memphis Press-Scimitar in speaking of its own Chamber of Commerce budget for 1931. We can't afford to.

How Is Your HEALTH?

Edited by Dr. Iago Goldston
for the New York Academy of Medicine

QUININE

The modern conception of an effective technique for the control of an infectious disease postulates
a knowledge of its cause, its mode of transmission and the manner of its disease production.

Treatment and prevention are based upon these facts, if and when they are discovered.

In contrast to this very reasonable conception, the history of medicine contains a number of significant instances where effective treatment for certain diseases was developed without any such knowledge of either the cause or the nature of the disease.

Mercury was effectively used for the treatment of syphilis long before the syphilis germ was discovered.

An even more classical illustration of this is to be found in the history of quinine.

Malaria, for which quinine is in the nature of a specific remedy is an ancient disease.

The treatment of malaria by cinchona from which quinine is derived dates from about 1638.

Cinchona is obtained from the bark of certain trees native in South America.

Tradition has it, though it is not well substantiated, that the South American Indians were acquainted with the virtues of cinchona. In the early days cinchona was also known as Jesuit's Bark. It was said to have been taken to Europe
by Jesuit missionaries who learned of its value from the Indians. This designation of cinchona prejudiced certain groups against its use. It was, however, accepted when the great English physician, Syden-ham, advocated it in 1658.

To this day quinine has been a standard in the treatment for malaria and to some degree it is a good illustration of the value of empirical procedure on practical results in medicine.

SOUNDS

BY ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—The year 1930
was a great one for the adventurers of filmland, and the fruits of their wanderlust will be served this year to movie fans who appreciate glimpses of unknown lands and peoples.

Last year's notable feature was a quickened interest in films of exploration, the leader in timely and historical importance being the camera recording of Commander Byrd's pioneering at the South Pole.

While the partly spurious "Ingrid" perhaps created more of an immediate flurry at the box-office,
the Byrd picture is destined to be seen for years to come.

OTHERS WORTH WHILE

Other outstanding films of the type released in 1930 were "The Silent Enemy," "The White Hell of Pitz-Paul" and another of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Johnson's camera adventures.

Those five present a record to shoot at, but 1931 will have at least one active contender for honors in "Rango," contributed by Ernest Schoedsack, who with Merriam
Cooper made the memorable
"Grass and Guts."

ROMANCE ENOUGH

There is considerable interest,
too, in F. W. Murnau's South Seas film "Tabu," which the director of "Sunrise" has been making during the last year.

out. I think it's going to help us—keep from being foolish. Let me try to make you see why I want to keep on as I'm doing."
"You know you can count on me," he interrupted.
"Of course. Sometimes I've wished I couldn't—that you weren't so darned loyal."
"You mean that you've wished—"
Aileen felt his muscles tense.
"Not really," she added quickly.
"But still, I owe you some explanation. You've scolded me for not going out, for not trying to advance myself through influential friends. Vivienne does, I know—but we're totally different. Vivienne is mother's daughter. I am more like dad."
"I've heard of him," said Jimmy,
"but I don't recall your mother."
"You're too young on Broadway to remember that sensation. Dad either couldn't or wouldn't make capital of it. I adored my father.
But he was only a mediocre actor."
"Well, you've talent—if he hadn't," Jimmy spoke earnestly.
"But now-a-days you've got to grab opportunity and lead it by the nose."
"I know that line," she reminded him. "But I want you to know the rest. My mother's family disowned her when she married. Actors were anathema then. She'd been used to everything, and until she died, Dad gave her all he could. He felt that he owed her indulgence."
"I get it all," said Jimmy. "You're carrying on—and Viv is like your mother. But damn it, Aileen, it's up to her to get things for herself.
You'll break down if you keep on."
"You don't know me! I'm a born trouper. Dad must have foreseen how things would work-out. He wanted Viv sent to a boarding school."

Chapter 3
LOVE VERSUS LOYALTY

JIMMY CRANE gave a prayer of thanks to the god of thunder.
Aileen was terrified by storms. As a result of this one, Jimmy was holding her on his lap as he might have soothed a child.
Tenderly, he stroked her head.
The light of the lamp brought out a coppery tint in the tousled gold.
Jimmy adored red hair. Not a belligerent red like his own—but the curly, rebellious sort of crop that usually goes with freckles. He adored the subtle shade that blended with the cream of Aileen's complexion. He felt the palpitation of her heart after each deafening crash.
The warmth of her body, close to his, made his pulse race faster.
Now the worst was over. Aileen
sat up.
"I know I'm a little fool," she smiled, but I just can't help it!
I hope Viv wasn't out of doors—
but it doesn't frighten her."
Jimmy frowned and held his peace. He wished Aileen would think more of herself; less about Vivienne. With a little sigh she slipped from his lap. Jimmy had no notion how contented she had been there. Nestling close in his arms had stirred her with a poignant longing. With a fierce determination she refused to listen to this plaintive inner voice. To yield would only complicate the problem
she saw before her.

Family camaraderie and her loyalty to the theater were the dominating sentiments of which she always had been conscious. Now she was bewildered. She resented a gnawing hunger which must not be satisfied. Possibly Jimmy was battling too.

Jimmy looked at her longingly.
Why the devil couldn't he tell her that he worshipped every inch of her—that there wasn't another girl in the world with her spunk and pluck? It was all wrong, he resented. Aileen thought of nothing but her work. She was only 20 and she foolishly resisted every urge of youth. How hard she often found this, Jimmy was unaware.

Out of the ominous summer stillness came another terrific crash.
Aileen screamed and would have fallen if he had not caught her.
She was limp in his arms when he carried her to dayvenport.

With unconsidered impulse, he bent down and kissed her. Her arms wrapped about him. Eyes still closed, her lips met his in passive understanding. Each was reluctant to break the spell
that bound them for the moment.
Yet both knew they must.

"Jimmy, old dear," she said,
slowly, "I'm glad we've both found each other."

"The point is, what is it getting you?" Jimmy seemed unimpressed.
"I'm getting a hundred and twenty
a week," she answered practically. "That takes care of my personal needs and pays for this apartment."
"You mean that you foot all the bills?"

"Viv helps—when she's making money—but her work's apasmodic.
Jim—I'm afraid if I don't stand by—"

"I get you," he said, resignedly.
The sound of Vivienne's key in the door kept him from adding more.
Both of them stared at Viv in surprise as she greeted them casually.

"What's the plot of this foolish opera?" Jimmy inspected her quickly. "So Cinderella runs true to form. You go out dolled up like a movie star, and return as a kitchen mechanic."

"Perfectly natural theater," Viv laughed carelessly. "Now that the party's over, I'm ready to get breakfast." She told them about her dressing. "Channing loaned me this maid's uniform."
"But the dress!" exclaimed
Aileen. "Is it completely ruined?"
"Channing said not to worry."
Apparently Vivienne wasn't in the least concerned. "He's going to phone to Gallatin and fix things up in the morning."

Sixteen Districts Included In New League Suggested By Roy Henderson

A new arrangement effecting all the districts of the Texas Interscholastic League is suggested in a letter from Roy B. Henderson, athletic director to George Gentry,
principal of the Big Spring High School.

Henderson declared he would recommend to the state executive committee that sixteen districts be created in Conference A, and that the district championships shall be certified not later than the Saturday before Thanksgiving. If the proposed plan is adopted, Big Spring, Brownwood, Midland, San Angelo and Sweetwater high schools will be in District No. 9.

This would place Abilene, Breckenridge, Cisco, Eastland and Ranger in District No. 4.

The proposed conference for 1931
follows:
District 1—Amarillo, Lubbock,
Pampa, Plainview.

District 2—Childress, Electra,
Quanah, Vernon, Wichita Falls.
District 3—Austin (El Paso),
Bowie (El Paso), El Paso, Fabens
and Yaleta.

District 4—Abilene, Breckenridge, Cisco, Eastland, Ranger.
District 5—Fort Worth Central,
Mineral Wells, North Fort Worth,
Polytechnic (Fort Worth), Strip-
pling (Fort Worth).
District 6—Dallas Technical,
Forest Avenue (Dallas), Highland Park, North Dallas, Oak Cliff, Sunset (Dallas), Woodrow Wilson (Dallas).
District 7—Denison, Denton, Galvestone, McKinney, Sherman,
District 8—Greenville, Marshall,
Paris, Sulphur Springs, Texarkana.

COMPLAINED TO A FRIEND

She Said To Take Cardui, and "It Made All the Difference In My Health."

Poplar Bluff, Mo.—"For a long time I suffered with pains right across my back," writes Mrs. E.
M. Boatwright, of 839 Park Avenue, this city.

"I had nervous headache and sometimes I could not sleep.
"When I began to take Cardui
I began to feel better. I was complaining to a friend how bad I felt.
She had been taking Cardui and she told me to try it, so I did.
Before that, I just could not relax,
and I got very little rest at night.
"I took Cardui for several months and it made all the difference in the world in my health.
I felt stronger and better than I had in many a year.

"I recommend Cardui to other women when they suffer from weakness and bad health."
Thousands of women have been benefited by taking Cardui, and their experience prompts them to recommend it to their friends.

Cardui is a pure, will make medical tonic, and contains nothing harmful or injurious.

WILL ROGERS—

"What? Cotton? In this cold country?" he asked.

Yes, he knew there was an oil field near here. He didn't recall any old friends living in Big Spring but knew some of the Midland and San Angelo men in the old ranching days.

"I'll take a look at your town," said Will as he climbed back into the ship.

At Abilene he stopped six minutes, changing from the regular mail plane which flies directly to Dallas before doubling back to Fort Worth. He got in a special plane sent out from Fort Worth for him.

was bright and smooth slips into scraggles. And that personality, which with its sparkle and vivacity and grace was once the envy of all his friends, has sunk, under the weight of perhaps just a few years, into a colorless, lifeless, annoying thing. Defeated, this marvellously fortified woman, because she felt she need not fight.

"And what battles, what gay and gallant battles, that woman must wage who must march from the very bottom of the hill. Many of us do, you know. But the most delightful thing about it is that those of us who do have to begin at the very beginning have even a sweeter victory than those who launch the battle with waving plumes. Not only the keen sense of satisfaction in winning over handicaps, but also the fact that our reward is actually greater. That is to say, the charm which a woman who is not merely pretty attains has a subtle element of power to which prettiness can never aspire. I am almost convinced that prettiness is an actual liability, so often do I see pretty women utterly lacking in charm, and clever women surmounting what might be their plainness and with an adroit hand turning some positive irregularity into an elusive, intriguing and potent charm.

Delightful "And another delightful thing about this war fare of the born plain, is that success and triumph are assured. No woman lives who cannot make of herself an attractive, charming and happy person.

So sounds the clarion call. The cohorts are gathering for the initial foray on January 20 afternoon in the Settles banquet room. And thence, the grand offensive proceeds on January 21, 22 and 23. The Herald believes that every woman in Big Spring will want to join the ranks.

Mrs. Jennie Keathley, Garden City, is a patient at the Big Spring Hospital.

CHARM CHATS

by Nancy Earle Noted Authority and Writer on Health, Chances

When you were a little girl, did you use to sing that little jingle about the bird with the yellow bill? I suppose everybody in the Western hemisphere knows it.

"Little bird with yellow bill Hopped upon the window sill Cooed his shining head and said, Ain't you 'shamed, you sleepy head!"

Wasn't it fun to discover that you had managed this morning to route the dream - man sooner than Sister Sue or Brother Bob, and as soon as your own eyes were thoroughly open to fly to their beds and "rouse" them with this song?

Most of us are chronic "sleepy-heads" whom most any little bird with yellow bill could put to shame with his early morning lay.

It's hard to waken, it's hard to pry ourselves out of warm slumbers, and it's hard to tug ourselves out from between warm cozy blankets. And it's hard to get thoroughly awake even after we have finally negotiated the leap from the downy couch.

Hard to "get going." Hard to inch upward to normal interest in things and feel genuinely "all there."

Many of us drag through most of the morning rath "half there," ruffling our feathers, growling a little, gazing a "into space."

It is true that continued lack of vitality means something wrong about the body machinery. That "no-count" feeling as Uncle Mose out in Texas calls it does not round one unless it is to warn him that something somewhere is out of order.

Then the gradually cooled water, until you are having a cool or cold bath. This is truly exhilarating, and makes you feel as if you could dash out and vanquish any ordinary lion who might by inadvertence of himself cross your path. Certainly you can turn up a scornful nose at any little yellow-billed bird who may make remarks.

MOSCOW—Miss Amy Johns, a lady bird from Britain, is enthusiastic about skills, that is, when they are on an airplane. Trying out a government plane she was thrilled by landings that seemed easier than if the plane were on wheels.

Starting that's swift... starting that's safe, because this free-flowing oil never leaves working parts....

CONOCO GERM PROCESSED PARAFFIN BASE MOTOR OIL. Tomorrow morning, as you step hopefully on the starter, will there be a 4-to-w disappointing groan, as it tugs at your unwilling motor? ... Or, will there come a swift responsive roar? If you're having trouble starting, you're probably using an old-type oil that congeals at temperatures well above freezing. You should change to Conoco Germ-Processed. But that's not all! To ward off the wear that these prolonged starting periods bring, you want an oil which provides instant lubrication at the first reluctant revolution of a cold motor. ... And there's just one oil which can do that! Because there is one lubricant which penetrates metal surfaces and never drains away in idle periods. Conoco Germ-Processed Motor Oil is that one lubricant. Change to this motor oil with twin advantages for winter use. ... 35 cents per quart for all grades at the sign of the Conoco Red Triangle.

GOOD DANCE ORCHESTRA TO PLAY FOR SETTLES TOMORROW

Another gala event for the Settles hotel and its rapidly growing list of dance patrons in Big Spring and many other towns and cities of West Texas will take place Wednesday evening.

Jack Gaynor's Little Ramblers from Dallas, with Ralph Baker leading the band, will play at a special dance, Wednesday evening, 8 p. m. to midnight.

The Little Ramblers, led through the country for its radio performances, and its work for the Dallas Athletic Club, was obtained at considerable expense. The social management, however, has earned through experience that the people of this section are anxious to patronize a dance where the finest music is assured, and, in fact, demand just that type of entertainment.

ENGLWOOD, N. J.—Light on a frustrated youthful ambition comes from the wife of the governor of New York. He has a large collection of ship models, compasses and other things nautical. PALM BEACH—Vacationing high society is going to hear a lot about the "series" of lectures on current events. Don't Throw Away Empty Glass Jars; Call Mrs. Allgood

A use has been discovered for empty peanut-butter jars, pickle jars, jam and jelly jars—in fact all sizes of glass jars bigger than the dime piecemeal containers.

Mrs. Louelle Allgood made the discovery.

Last summer she heard of women in Howard County who were financially unable to buy jars in which to put up the vegetables and fruit that they had grown. She began hunting jars for them to use.

Their neighbors helped her out, denying themselves; so did a few town women who heard about it.

This is the season when women who do little canning are buying most heavily of food products put up in jars. If they will save all empty glass ware and call Mrs. Louelle Allgood (telephone 1139) she will send after it and see that it gets into appreciative hands.

This word of caution, it is not enough just to call. The spirit of kindness which will prompt women to save glass jars must go far enough to enable them to cooperate with Mrs. Allgood in picking them up.

Don't expect her to come at once. She will send for the jars whenever she finds the family who can pick them up. It is impossible for her to collect all the town's glassware; but the county women who need it will be glad to send their children for it, when they can.

Save unneeded jars! Call Mrs. Allgood! Wash them and put them where they can be easily picked up on short notice.

Methodists In W.M.S. Groups At the Church

Mesdames A. C. Yeager and W. H. Remele, Leaders In Bible Study

The Missionary Society of the Methodist church met Monday afternoon in the parlor of the church. A very interesting study club was held.

Mrs. Manion gave the devotional. Interesting talks were rendered. Mrs. Yeager's subject was "Moses, The Dreamer."

Mrs. Flewellen spoke on "Jeremiah, The Thinker."

"Job, The Heretic" was Mrs. Miller's discussion.

Those present were Mesdames: V. H. Flewellen, Russell Manion, W. A. Miller, C. M. Watson, Frank Hodges, J. M. Manuel, R. E. Gay, A. C. Yeager, R. E. Morris, J. B. Pickle, C. E. Thomas, G. E. Flewellen, S. D. Wilson, C. E. Talbot, Lawrence Simpson, R. A. Eubanks, and a visitor, Mrs. W. A. Burns, from Fargo, North Dakota.

Birdie Bailey M. S.

The Birdie Bailey Missionary Society also met yesterday afternoon at the Methodist Church for Bible study.

Mrs. W. H. Remele was in charge of the program. The women studied the life of Samuel.

Mrs. C. T. Watson led the devotional service.

During the business session it was decided to meet with the W. M. S. for the next social session.
