

Sheppard Seeks Change In Volstead Act

HOME TOWN TALK

BY BEDDY

Beginning Wednesday of next week the city will haul away, free of charge, all trash collected and placed so that wagons may be loaded without unnecessary delay and inconvenience.

This is the opportunity to rid every lot in town of debris, trash and other unsightly, unsanitary matter.

In the Coffee Shop of the Settles last evening your writer thought

We have been asked to issue an appeal from a married woman who is in real need of employment. She would be anxious to do housework of any type. Persons having work for her, even if but a few hours of it, are asked to call The Herald.

habit or accidentally overheard a gentleman telling Leonard, manager of ceremonies and daily functioning of the catering department of the hotel, this: "For the man or men who designed and built a hotel so magnificent in a city of this size; and who are conducting it along such modern lines, with the pleasing service, fine food and hospitality. I have the greatest admiration. Power to them! I hope they are fully repaid. You can find nothing in any city, large or small, any better, and I have been all over the world."

Edging into the conversation, we met A. O. Rorabaugh, Wichita, Kansas, president of numerous large merchandising firms, who has offices in New York, London, Berlin, Vienna and Florence.

Mrs. Rorabaugh put in her word of praise of the hotel, too. "We had luncheon here on our way westward three months ago and so we stopped for the night this time," she said.

We cite this incident in an effort to emphasize the importance and value of good hotels to this or any other city. Big Spring is fortunate in having not only the Settles, but the Douglas, the Crawford and several other strictly modern institutions.

Stand in front of one of these hotels for an hour along about twilight, or right after late breakfast time any day and watch the people who get into their automobiles and drive away. You'll be surprised.

It occurs to us that we folks here in Big Spring are liable to overlook the value of our hotels. While they are being praised throughout the land it is very unbecoming that some of the people right here at home frequently may be heard saying things that belittle local institutions—this in the midst of much pleading for patronage of home industries.

Time is nigh for the second warm weather season with City Park open to the public.

Why not begin now with an annual community handshaking program out there in that beautiful spot that is going to hold even more attraction this year than last due to numerous improvements?

Visit City Park! That should be made a slogan every spring.

Rep. Claude Hudspeth Carried To Hospital

WASHINGTON, March 3 (AP)—Representative C. B. Hudspeth, of El Paso, Texas, was taken to a hospital in Baltimore today to undergo treatment for a serious disorder.

Hudspeth is retiring voluntarily tomorrow because of ill health. He has served in six congresses as representative from the sixteenth district. For 12 years he was a member of the Texas house of representatives and was president of the state senate for four terms. He also was chairman of the democratic party in Texas at one time.

'30 Good Fire Record Credit Much Lower Than for Year 1929

Because of numerous fires last year, Big Spring residents will receive only a three percent good fire record credit according to a telegram received here today by Jess Heffernan, H. S. marshal, from J. W. DeWeese, insurance commissioner.

The rate is a drop of twelve percent over that received last year. Prior to 1930, Big Spring had a six percent credit.

Clean-Up Of City Begins During Week

City Trucks To Start Collecting Trash March 11

The city's clean-up campaign will get underway this week. City Manager Verner R. Smith announced today that trucks furnished by the city will start hauling trash gathered by Big Spring residents, Wednesday, March 11. The hauling will be done without charge to local residents. Trucks will be kept working as long as there is trash to haul, Smith said.

City officials urge residents to gather all trash and place it where it will be convenient for trucks to load.

Authenticity Of Bible Used Now Sermon Subject

The revivalistic services being conducted at the Church of Christ by Evangelist Early Arceaux are attracting much attention. Mr. Arceaux came for but three services, but the interest demanded that he continue. A very fine audience greeted the speaker last night, when he spoke on the subject, "How Do We Know That We Have the Bible As It Was Written?"

Mr. Arceaux called attention to the fact that there is no controversy about the canon after 350 A. D. since there are four complete manuscripts from that period and more than eleven hundred others that are practically whole. These manuscripts were all written by the best scholars of the age, and concur in the fact that all men were agreed on the canon of the scriptures at that time, he declared.

Then, there is no dispute about the first one hundred years of the Christian era; so this leaves a period of two hundred fifty years, he continued.

"It is a very remarkable fact that many thousands of volumes were written by the Apostolic Fathers, and many of these books are still intact. These men quote and attribute to the authors of the New Testament, Books, all the contents of the New Testament. The Old Testament was arranged and translated by Jewish scholars two hundred years before Christ, hence we can know that our Bible is substantially the same that men of old were familiar with," he said.

Many other interesting facts were pointed out.

Services will continue until the latter part of the week. A Bible drill will be given each day at 3 p. m. and a revivalistic sermon will be preached each evening at 7:45.

Russian, Canadian and Mexican Arrested Here Awaiting Deportation

A Russian, a Canadian and a Mexican, were held in jail here today, awaiting deportation to their respective countries.

Sam Levine, the Russian, and William Pelletier, the Canadian, were arrested by members of the Border Patrol, at Wander Inn, the city's public "hotel" for transients. They will be taken to Marfa by the border patrolmen, and turned over to immigration authorities.

Midterm Finds President Hoover Showing Marks of Many Battles But Physically Sound and Well

WASHINGTON, March 3 (AP)—Herbert Hoover has reached mid-voyage of his term as pilot of the ship of state with a face harrowed and hair whitened by the storms that lay behind.

He was pronounced, however, physically more fit than when he shouldered responsibilities of the presidency two years ago.

Looking Back Over Hoover's Half Term

March 4, 1929—Inaugural President. Signed farm relief bill. July, 1929—Kelllogg - Briand peace pact declared in effect. October, 1929—Met Premier MacDonald and planned London naval conference. November, 1929—Conferred with leaders of industry and finance on stabilization of business. December, 1929—Signed French war debt agreement. February, 1930—Named Charles E. Hughes chief justice. May, 1930—Parker nomination. Supreme court rejected by senate. May, 1930—Vetoed Spanish war pension bill, later re-passed over veto by congress. June, 1930—Signed Hawley-Smoot tariff. July, 1930—Signed London naval treaty. February, 1931—Signed drought relief bill. February, 1931—Vetoed veterans bonus bill. March 4, 1931—Halfway point of administration.

Atwart the course he charted in advance for that voyage, two great disasters thrust themselves, drought and worldwide economic depression. From heights of prosperity never before attained, the nation fell into depths of distress rarely reached before in its history. It still remained for the stocky, wide-shouldered man in the White House to point a way of escape as he turned that two-year corner of his term.

Many Bitter Exchanges Overshadowing those first two years lay the inability of the President and the senate to agree without bitter exchanges on programs of relief for drought-stricken farmers, for depressed industry, for an army of unemployed greater than the American forces mobilized for the world-war, for war veterans caught in the depression maelstrom.

Sinnett Answers!

Answers to questions asked Sinnett, who is appearing this week at the Ritz theatre in programs demonstrating astrology, were mailed to The Herald. Answers to some of those received Tuesday morning follow:

Mrs. F. D. S., Big Spring: Q. Will we sell the property we are figuring on selling at the present time? A. There is a sale of this property indicated in the month of May to the people whom you have in mind.

Mrs. R. L. L., Big Spring: Q. Will I have to undergo the operation the doctor advised? A. It is my opinion that you are unnecessarily worrying over this matter, and I see no reason for the fear that is existing in your mind. This doctor is a very honest, conscientious man and you should place confidence in him and take his advice. It will I believe, prolong your life.

Miss H. R. M., Big Spring: Q. Will I eventually marry the man I hope to and is he telling me the truth? A. This man cares nothing for you and the grief that you are responsible for in this matter, will eventually react and cause you much unhappiness. Place yourself in the position of this man's wife. He is married and although there is a domestic discord in his home, he has no intention of divorcing his wife, and you are the one that is causing much of this domestic trouble. Break the friendship of this man. You have nothing to gain and all to lose.

Mrs. A. J. J., Big Spring: Q. Where is my brother who has been gone eleven years? A. It is my opinion that your brother is in St. Louis, Mo., and if you will get in touch with his brother in St. Louis, I believe you will learn of his whereabouts much to your surprise.

Mr. H. P. W., Big Spring: Q. Will I be called back to my old position soon? A. The company seems to be starting on a full time schedule in the latter part of this month at which time you will be given back your old position, and it will be permanent.

Mrs. C. N. F., Big Spring: Q. Does my husband know what I think he does? A. Yes. He was in San Angelo the night you have in mind and saw the car that you were riding in.

Miss A. L. H., Big Spring: Q. Will I and I ever marry? A. This young man is still young his wild oats, he has no desire to settle down, and also there is another young woman in his life. I see that you are making the acquaintance of a man in the latter part of August this year that you are going to feel very kindly toward and which will eventually end in a happy marriage the first of 1932.

Mrs. F. F. R., Big Spring: Q. What makes my husband so cold and indifferent toward me? Does he love me any more? A. Are you ignoring a natural law that is bringing about the attitude on the part of your husband. If you will place into operation one natural law that you are ignoring you will find that he will respond in the manner that you would like for him to. Attend my special matinee for ladies only Friday morning at 10:30 theatre and you will learn some scientific facts that will do much to bring about

Mother Gives Testimony In Bennett Trial

Becomes Ill After Telling Jury of Events After Bridge Game

COURT RECESSED

State Seeks to Attack Credibility of Elderly Witness

KANSAS CITY, March 3 (AP)—Mrs. Alice Adkins, 67, became suddenly ill today after testifying in behalf of her daughter, Mrs. Myrtle A. Bennett, charged with the bridge quarrel slaying of her husband, John G. Bennett.

Court was recessed while the defendant rushed to her mother, who was in another room of the criminal court building.

KANSAS CITY, March 3 (AP)—Mrs. Alice Adkins, 67, mother of Mrs. Myrtle Bennett, accused bridge quarrel-slayer, repudiated today in a statement she was alleged to have made after the shooting of Mrs. Bennett's husband in a fashionable Kansas City apartment in September, 1929.

With her testimony, the story of the bridge game and its tragic sequel as reconstructed by police had been contradicted by every person present at the time.

Mrs. Adkins acknowledged the signature on a police statement handed her, admitted she had been questioned, but said she did not write or read any statement the morning of the investigation and was in such mental confusion she does not now remember what she said or under what circumstances she signed the paper.

Questions asked by James R. Page, prosecutor, indicated that in the purported police statement Mrs. Adkins had said she asked her daughter why she wanted Mr. Bennett's gun at such an hour and had gone immediately from her bed to the room in which the shooting occurred when she heard one shot.

Mrs. Adkins testified yesterday that she woke to find her daughter searching in the bureau drawer in which the gun was kept, asked, "Myrtle, what are you doing?" and was told "Jack wants his gun. He is going to St. Joseph." She also testified that, on hearing two shots, she hurried from bed but went in her confusion in the wrong direction, entering a bathroom before she discovered her mistake.

On these differences in the story she told off your chest, the credibility of Mrs. Adkins. During part of this morning's session, Mrs. Adkins sat beside her daughter at the counsel table and Mrs. Bennett, seemingly in much better spirits than yesterday, when her crying caused a court recess, talked to her frequently and held her arm.

Defense Opens In Gary Trial

VALPARAISO, Ind., March 3 (AP)—An order for exhumation of the body of Miss Arlene Draves, Gary high school girl, was issued by Judge Grant Crumpacker in Porter county circuit court today on petition of counsel for Virgil Kirkland, her 20-year-old sweetheart.

Kirkland is on trial for her murder at a gin party last November.

VALPARAISO, Ind., March 3 (AP)—Judge Grant Crumpacker today overruled a motion for a directed verdict of acquittal and the defense began its case in the trial of Virgil Kirkland for the murder of Arlene Draves, his 18-year-old Gary, Ind., sweetheart.

Dr. R. E. Harger, professor of toxicology, Indiana university, the first defense witness, testified he examined the stomach contents of Miss Draves and found 3.5 grains of grain alcohol, 17 of wood alcohol and 22 of formaldehyde.

Mrs. M. D. Merritt Dies In Colorado

COLORADO, Texas, March 3 (AP)—Mrs. M. D. Merritt, 24, wife of a Colorado business man and cousin of Lieutenant Governor Edgar E. Witt, died at a hospital last night after an operation. Besides her husband she is survived by a two-year-old daughter and her mother, Mrs. Corine Ferguson of California.

Cranfill Again Heads Independent Oil Men of State; B. F. Robbins New Vice-President for This District

FORT WORTH, March 3 (AP)—Tom E. Cranfill of Dallas will head the Independent Petroleum Association of Texas for another year. He was re-elected president at the annual convention yesterday.

Other officers named were Claude C. Wilde of Fort Worth, vice-president (re-elected), Mel Davis, Pampa, P. B. Flynn, Wichita Falls, B. F. Robbins, Big Spring, George Calvert, Fort Worth, Harry Pennington, San Antonio, and J. A. Deering, Houston, district vice-presidents.

A resolution supporting ratable purchase of natural gas was adopted. Other resolutions called for further experimentation to discover new uses for petroleum and ask the legislature to appropriate $25,000 for a laboratory at the University of Texas equipped to analyze petroleum and its products. A resolution pending in congress and proposing an investigation of the oil industry was endorsed.

Revival Gathers Momentum; Dr. Hall Fills Pulpit

Speaking on the topic: "Life in the Presence of God," Dr. W. R. Hall, pastor of the Manhattan Presbyterian church, El Paso, who is filling the pulpit twice daily in a revival meeting at the First Presbyterian church, was greeted by an unusually good Monday evening congregation.

Services open at 10 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. daily.

In the discourse of Monday evening the speaker pointed out that "it is essential to know we are in God's presence in the following crises of life: unshared sorrows, unshared joys, hours of temptation and in the hour of death, God's presence insures victory and rest—rest in toil and after toil. Rest in toll is pointed out in Matthew 11:28-30 'Take up your cross and follow me'—and rest after toll in Revelation 14:13 'rest from their labors but their works do follow them.'"

B.C.D. Suggests Two Ordinances

An ordinance to levy a special tax upon bankrupt stocks of merchandise brought into the city from other points was urged in a resolution adopted Monday evening by the board of city development.

The board also recommended to the city commission that the city itself take over collection of garbage and trash in both business and residential districts.

The honor roll was selected from the total enrollment of 3,900 in the college of arts and sciences for high scholastic records.

Possession In Homes Object Of Texas Measure

Deletion of Sentence From Act Specific Goal of Measure

WASHINGTON, March 3 (AP)—Legislation to make the possession of liquor in the home unlawful was introduced today by Senator Sheppard, democrat, Texas.

Sheppard offered a bill to eliminate from the Volstead act a sentence which permits possession in the home.

It reads: "But it shall not be unlawful to possess liquors in one's private dwelling while same is occupied and used by him as his dwelling and such liquor need not be reported, provided such liquors are for use only for the personal consumption of the owner thereof and his family residing in such dwelling, and of his bona fide guests when entertained by him therein; and the burden of proof shall be upon the possession in any action concerning the same" to prove that such liquor was lawfully acquired, possessed and used."

FIREMEN PLANT THINGS AROUND THEIR STATION

Big Spring firemen, between fires, are dealing in horticulture. As a result, the northwest corner of the courthouse square is expected to be one of the most attractive business section plots this summer.

The firemen were authorized by the county to improve the lawn to the south and east of the city hall.

The lawn has been covered, and new flower beds filled with fertilizer. Flowers will be planted along the walk leading to the west entrance of the courthouse. A number of Chinese elms have replaced cedars. Shrubs have been planted.

The firemen, today, were removing soil from a bed to be planted along the front walk. Rich dirt and fertilizer will replace the soil.

Health Nurse and Committee Leader To Visit Ackerly

Mrs. M. R. Showalter, county health nurse, and Mrs. J. C. Douglas, chairman of the health council, will go to Ackerly Thursday to work with school officials.

Pupils of the Ackerly school will be given health examinations. The health program for the year will be outlined by Mrs. Showalter.

Mrs. Showalter was asked by the Ackerly school officials to aid in the health program.

Wounded Negro In Serious Condition

Marshall "Kit" Gordon, negro, who was shot above the heart during a quarrel that followed a dice game Sunday night, was still in a serious condition at the Big Spring hospital today.

One bullet from a small caliber pistol entered Gordon's body just above the heart, penetrating the lungs. Pneumonia has set in.

I. E. Green, negro, who is alleged to have shot Gordon, was charged in Justice of the Peace Cecil C. Calhoun's court with assault with intent to murder.

He waived examining trial and was released on bond in the amount of $1,500.

The shooting occurred in an alley in the rear of 1502 Johnson Street.

Rev. E. L. Whitaker Delivers Sermon

In the first of a series of week night special services at West Side Baptist church the pastor, Rev. E. L. Whitaker, spoke last night on "Loves Thou Me?" A portion of his text follows: "In the question Jesus went to the heart of the matter. It went deeper than a love for the kingdom; deeper than profession of the lips; deeper than moral rectitude of life; deeper than a question of loyalty. The query is not with the love of God or God's people but is concerning the love for the Son of God. It deals with a personal attachment for a personal Christ. "May we hear Christ asking each of us the same question. None of us can escape the necessity for answering the inquiry. No amount of outward religious expression, enjoyment of Christian privileges, great amount of zeal, self-denial, or walk with Christ proves our love for Christ. Peter had left all, was fervent in his zeal for the Master, had been favored with inclusion within the inner circle of Christ's bosom friends and was on the mount of transfiguration, but Christ must ask him, "Loves Thou Me?" Likewise must we hear the question. After all these experiences it might be possible that we really do not love Christ. "We must love Christ or nothing for the future is right. All our blessings are from His nail-pleasured hands. Our love for Him will cause us to hold on to him; will inspire us to forge ahead in spite of difficulties; will make us more like Christ; and will prepare the heart for the hour of meeting Christ beyond the portals of glory. "Love for Christ will make of effect our professions, or teaching, our singing, our exhortations but if we love Christ not then our outward work is a sham and may be but vain beating of the air." Services will be conducted each night this week.

Steer Cagers Should Meet Stiff Test In Second Round

Expect Mathis To Battle Quintet

The county track and field meet will be held March 27 and 28, J. A. Coffey, the head coach, revealed to this department today. The events will be staged in Big Spring.

We haven't talked with Bill Stevens regarding his satisfaction or dissatisfaction, as the case may be, of the drawings made for the state basketball tournament. But we rather suspect Stevens' kick, if any, doesn't register much of a wallop. We imagine he is well satisfied. The Yancy aggregation should go clattering down the cellar stairs in the first round. It's the second round that is going to be a lulu. Mathis and Bardwell tangle in the opener and the winner meets the winner of the Big Spring-Yancy contest. Bardwell is rated by some of the dopesters as the pony with the ebony hue in the tournament. Mathis is a veteran unit. It is just as well, perhaps, that one of them will go out of the fray in the initial round. The Steers have received little publicity. Some of the state papers have even overlooked them altogether. Others have placed them in an astounding division. Athens and Denton are the favorites to breeze through to the finals. The Steers, we believe, won't fall by the wayside early. They are likely to come galloping to the fore as the blackhorses of the tournament. One never knows what is going to happen, but one does know that a veteran cage organization like the Steer outfit is, which boasts of three youths that hover around the six foot mark, and a couple that are expected to be rated as all-state material when it comes to guards, can't be ousted from the chase with just a brush of the chubby hands.

Stevens takes ten men with him to Austin. They include the formidable five, Hutto and Hopper, forwards; Flowers and Phillips, guards; and Pardue, center. Reid, Rockhold, Morgan, Forrester and Woods are the other cagers to make the trip. Cecil Reid has had a hard row to hoe and rake this year. The lanky youth is really good, but he replaces a good man in fact a better man than Reid is

CECIL REID

Reid is Elmer Fardue's substitute at center. Those who have witnessed the games this year realize Fardue's worth to the Steer quintet. He is tall, and agile, good on the defense, hard to beat on the offense, and rates high when it comes to the tipoff. Fardue isn't jerked from the game unless it is for reasons known only to Stevens and his cohorts. It is seldom he amasses a quartet of personal fouls to be tossed from the tile by the referee. As a result, Reid has been warming certain portions of certain chairs in certain gymnasiums all year. It is doubtful he will get into any of the state contests, unless it is the first round battle. Reid, if we're not mistaken about it, will return next year to take his place on the maple wood expanses.

Primo Carnera, the big hoof and foot man from Italy, and Jimmy Maloney, one of the things Boston allows to hang around without being censored, will endeavor to attract the dollars and cents at Miami this week. The battle doesn't mean a great deal. It's just another conflict, with the crowd going to see the behemoth Italian rather than the fight. Last week the Walker-Risko battle barely slid over the expense edge, with no one making a great amount of money out of the thing. The heavyweight battling game, at the present, is in rather drab circumstances. The Stribling-Schmeling affair may draw to some extent, but probably not half as much as it would if Tex Rickard was alive and in control of the situation. Fight fans are becoming rather weary of the same old faces, Schmeling and Carnera, it is true, are rather refreshing, but American fight fans want to see another mauler rise up from the mining shaft and become heavyweight champion. To the manager that finds a dark horse with a sock full of millions are waiting. Instead of turning out for the fight racket, the athletic minded are rapidly flowing over to the wrestling end of the game. In a wrestling match one sees all angles of sports. One views wrestling, perhaps, and slug ging, football, flying tackles, tennis, his job and what not. There are those that maintain all wrestling matches are framed. Perhaps they are. But they still maul each other, and that is the main thing.

WILLCOX MOVE BACK HERE

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Willcox have returned from the T. C. Ranch, near Van Horn. They will make their home here in the future.

Expect Mathis To Battle Quintet

Yancy Should Fall Before Longhorns in Opening Round

With their first game scheduled for Friday morning at 11 o'clock, the Big Spring high school Steers will leave Wednesday morning for Austin to participate in the tournament for the state schoolboy basketball crown.

It was announced Monday by Roy Henderson, head of the Texas interscholastic League, that the Steers would clash with Yancy in the initial round. The Medina County representative in the state play, won the right to enter the tournament, when El Paso forfeited by not paying the registration fee in time. Although the first round should furnish stiff competition for the Longhorn loop brigade, they should emerge with flying colors to clash with the winner of the Mathis-Bardwell affair.

With Mathis favored to eliminate Bardwell in the opening round, the Steers should meet their test in the second round battle. Mathis, although not hailed as contenders for the state title, is rated high on paper. The cage crew, should it be successful in defeating the Bardwell quintet, and should the Steers prance over the Medina County cagers, will prove troublesome to Stevens' tall tossers.

Athens, favored to cap the state title for the third time, Nocona and Plainview, drew byes in the first round. Sidney Lanier of San Antonio and Denton clash in the first round. Other pairings include San Joaquin of Houston versus Governor, Locker vs. Austin; and Plainview vs. Nacona.

The Steers—all ten of them—will leave Wednesday morning for the site of the state tournament. They will workout once en route.

FRANKFORT, Ky.—Kentucky has an ocean-going navy. Governor Sampaon is commissioning Sloan-Danehower of Lyme, Conn., as admiral of Long Island Sound on his staff. Danehower will command the submarine Nautilus which Sir Hubert Wilkins is to use in the Arctic.

HONOLULU—Brother Joseph Dutton, who for 44 years has labored among the Molokai lepers and is now in a hospital, has been granted a pension of $300 a month by the territory.

NEW YORK—There's a fellow in town who can crawl through a keyhole. It's a keyhole 1-2 inches wide and 12 1-2 inches long—specially made for his stuff. Sam Brawner, 3 feet, 5 and 150 pounds, buttonhole maker, who has ambitions as an entertainer, demonstrated it in Union Square. He also crawled through a tennis racket and lay upon 1,200 iron spikes—lying out of the ground in the case of a crash.

Wilcy Moore, Who Thought He Was Through With Baseball, Is Close To Hardest Worker With Red Sox

PENSACOLA, Fla., March 3 (AP)—Wilcy Moore, the former Yankee game-winner, comes pretty close to being the hardest working man in the Red Sox camp.

"Cy thought he was done for when his arm went back on him while with the Yanks, but a year with the St. Paul club of the American Association has given him a new start. He weighs 205 pounds, stands six feet tall, and in 33 years old and has to work mighty hard during the training season to get in trim. His age and size won't let him chase flies but he does plenty of stooping, bending, hopping and chasing going after bunts.

HUMORS HAVE SALE SACRAMENTO CLUB

SACRAMENTO, Calif., March 3 (AP)—With the Detroit Baseball club in camp here, "farming out" reports that the Sacramento Senators of the Pacific Coast League may be sold were heard here today.

Stanley Harris, manager of the Detroit club, denied a report that Des Azele, his promising young catcher who worked the larger part of the 1930 season, would be farmed out to Toronto this year.

Frank P. Navin, owner of the Detroit club, was reported en route to Sacramento and it was rumored he would confer with Lewis Moore, owner of the Senators, regarding purchase of the team.

JOHNSON COUNTING ON BROWN, SOUTHPAW

BILOXI, Miss., March 3 (AP)—Walter Johnson is counting on Lloyd Brown, agile little left hander from Corpus Christi, Texas, to get the Washington Nationals off to a flying start this season as he did last year.

Brown, who believes in the early bird adage, has been here about a month, golfing, fishing and hiking to get in shape.

"Brownie was a life saver for us at the start of last season," Johnson observed. "If my pitchers were all like Brownie we would get so far out in front in the first two months we never would be caught."

QUEBEC PREPARING FOR FOUR GAMES

AVALON, Calif., March 3 (AP)—One more day of Rogers Hornsby's course in baseball strategy and the Chicago Cubs will engage in four games by the first of next week.

Hornsby held a class in strategy for pitchers and catchers and planned to repeat it today. Tomorrow and Thursday the regulars and irregulars will meet, and Saturday and Sunday Joe Brown's team of movie actors will oppose the Cubs.

HIGH WINDS BOTHERS WHITE SOX PRACTICE

SAN ANTONIO, March 3 (AP)—All the Chicago White Sox except Moe Berg, Smead Jolley and Carl Reynolds were present for today, but unless there was much less wind than yesterday, another session of throwing was on the program.

Berg and Reynolds are listed as holdouts over salary figures, while Jolley has a boil on his left leg. The Sox have done little batting, due to wind, but were down for some today if the weather behaved.

JUST ANOTHER BABE IS WITH CINCINNATI

TAMPA, Fla., March 3 (AP)—There's another Babe Ruth in training here with the Cincinnati Reds, but there are some who wonder whether he will live up to advance notices during the regular playing season. Manager Dan Howley, speaking of Outfielder Nick Cullough, acquired from Minneapolis in the American Association, said: "He packs as heavy a wallop as Babe Ruth. If he can acquire confidence in himself he is going to be a big boy for us."

STIFF COMPETITION IS FACING INDIANS

NEW ORLEANS, March 3 (AP)—Whoever wins the left-fielding job for the Cleveland Indians this year is going to beat out some stiff competition. Manager Roger Peckinpach has two worthy veterans, Bib Falk and Charley Jamieson, and two highly rated youngsters, Bob Seeds and Joe Vosmik, for the post. Peck hopes one of the youngsters comes through because Falk and Jamieson have to be rested occasionally.

QUAKER TWILLER PLEASES SHOTTON

WINTER HAVEN, Fla., March 3 (AP)—Stewart Bowen, left handed pitcher drafted from Baltimore by the Phillies, is one of the new Quaker boxmen who look good to Manager Shotton. "He's a fine prospect," Shotton said, "and should make the grade."

BOLEN IS UP WITH THE MAJORS

BOLEN is up with the majors for the fourth time, having previously been with the St. Louis Browns twice and the Athletics once. With the Orioles last year he won 19 and lost 9, despite a sore arm.

FREDDY LINDSTROM INCREASES WEIGHT

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, March 3 (AP)—Freddy Lindstrom has turned up in the New York Giants' training camp with a waistline of almost identical proportions. Somebody wanted to know where Freddy had found so much excess weight.

"In Chicago," he said. "It's a great climate. They told me I was going to be an outfielder this year so I wanted to look like Babe Ruth and Hack Wilson."

33 PLAYERS JOIN IN YANK WORKOUT

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 3 (AP)—Joe McCarthy, manager of the New York Yankees, has 33 players in camp. All he wants now is to be happy in a few days of Florida sunshine he's heard so much about.

The Yanks have been in camp only seven days but already they've seen more wet weather than in any one training season in the last six years.

Jim Thorpe, Once World Rating Athlete, Now Works Daily With Pick and Shovel

By JEAN BOSQUET
LOS ANGELES, March 3 (AP)—Jim Thorpe, acclaimed the greatest football player of all time and once holder of the title of world's best all-round athlete, is working as a laborer with pick and shovel for $4 per day, but he can still grin.

The once mighty Indian of Carlisle, who in 1912 almost single handedly cornered Olympic honors for his native country, only to relinquish his trophies later under charges of professionalism, is not ashamed of his job.

Big Jim is determined to beat back. "I'm not through," he said today.

Jim is a nonentity in a motley crew of diggers excavating for the new Los Angeles county hospital. He answers to "J. Thorpe" at the paymaster's wicket.

No one pays any attention to the clouds he's digging up now.

After work Jim goes home to a small cottage where Mrs. Thorpe who also can smile with and Phillip, 4, and Billy, 2, wait for him. Sometimes at night Jim opens a big book and the little Thorpes look properly awed, as though understanding it all. The book contains many clippings and some photographs.

The photographs include snapshots of Jim being handed something by the King of Sweden, and there are pictures of what the king gave him.

There's a picture of a bronze viking ship, which Jim got for winning the decathlon, and a picture of a bronze bust of Sweden's king, which went to Jim for winning the pentathlon.

It's hard to find a reason for the present state of affairs of the smiling former athletic king.

"Guess it's an old story," he grins. "I liked to be a good fellow with the boys. But I'll come out of this. And I'll do some saving when I do."

Thorpe attended Carlisle Indian school from 1907 to 1912. He starred in football, baseball and track.

Solons of Chicago Cubs Refuse To Make Predictions About Chance In 1931, Remembering Fate Last Year

By PAUL ZIMMERMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer
AVALON, Santa Catalina Island, Calif., March 3 (AP)—The spectre of last year's ill-fated happening which went a long way toward keeping the club from a National League pennant, has put caution on the tongues of those who would like to prophesy a great year for the Chicago Cubs.

Rogers Hornsby, playing manager, who figured prominently in these disastrous occurrences, steadfastly refuses to predict, although he willingly admits that the pitching prospects are much better than last season and the rest of the squad holds greater promise.

William Wrigley, Jr., whose money has made this possible vouchsafes that it is the "best outfit he has ever seen assembled here," but he recalls the untimely death of Harold Carlson, veteran pitcher; Hornsby with a broken leg and Lester Bell and Riggs Stephenson with arm injuries and will not forecast his club's chances.

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 3 (AP)—John Pius Quinn, at forty-something years of age, has amazed Manager Wilbert Robinson of the Brooklyn Robbies with the way he has cut losses with his ancient pitching arm. Robby, who thought one of Quinn's venerable years would need lots of time to get in shape, asked him about it.

"Oh I was heaving them around for a few days at Hot Springs," Quinn answered. "I'm ready now to go five innings. Just call on me any time."

KILFEER HOPEFUL OF WEATHER BREAK

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., March 3 (AP)—Manager Bill Kilfeer of the St. Louis Browns was hopeful today for a break from the weather men. Expect for last Friday, when the sun broke through in a good style, it has rained every day since the Browns reached camp.

Eddie Grimes, slated to under study "Red" Kress at third base this season, had developed a sore arm, but Trainer Tommy Brammell believes it will be o. k. soon.

Mustangs Meet Frog Cagers Tonight

FORT WORTH, March 3 (AP)—Southern Methodist Mustangs and T.C.U. Frogs, stacking almost equal offensively and defensively, take the painted court here tonight to settle the who is who question in the Southwest Conference cage race. They are in a deadlock for leadership with eight wins and three defeats each.

The Mustangs, in eleven played games, have scored 433 points against their opponents 342 points. T.C.U., in the same number of games, registered 412 points against 330. Thus the Mustangs, on season's play, are 21 points in front of T.C.U. offensively, but 12 points behind the Frogs defensively.

There isn't enough difference here to establish either quintet as a pre-game favorite.

CARDINALS NOT TO MEET IN PRACTICE
BRADENTON, Fla., March 3 (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals will hold no practice games among themselves.

"I believe that's a waste of time and effort," Manager Gabby Street said today. "If that more can be accomplished staging morning and afternoon practices."

For these reasons, those who are so privileged would like to predict a great year—but hold their tongues, lest lightning strike twice in the same place.

Rooting Out Yankee Habits.

SOME of our American customs don't seem to set very well with certain classes of Mexican citizens. Students at the National University in Mexico City, for instance, find many of the Yankeeisms distasteful in the extreme.

Certain groups of students organized a "terror committee" charged with the duty of stamping out Yankee practices that have grown up among freshman hordes. On the blacklist are such outstanding Americanisms as chewing gum, wearing spats, going hatless, carrying canes and affecting sideburns. A student with a severe attack of American sideburns was thrown to the ground and suffered the indignity of having his head shaved. He jumped up, tore loose from the terrorists, and executed that quaint old American custom of pulling his freight. One of his tormentors pulled a pistol and shot the runner in the leg.

University authorities, we are assured are considering steps to depistolize the students lest the occasional firing at Kankeized Mexicans becomes a regular festivity.

The situation had its peculiarities. For instance, we were under the impression that American youths had adopted a good many Mexican customs—including the bullfighters' habit of wearing sideburns. Our youths adopted the bell-bottomed trousers of the Hidalgo and in some cases the color ed sash of the Mexican lady-killer. Sleek hair, too, might be said to have come from Latin influence.

If Mexican boys play football, they may be expected to adopt other habits of American youths. And they are going in for football on a large scale.

OPINIONS OF OTHERS

What They Want Is Money

Tulsa Daily World:
THE difference between idleness and unemployment or between honest need and impudent begging may be illustrated in simple tests. We know men in Tulsa who, being approached by other men who said they wanted meals and lodging, led to eating places and were deserted. The men asking for aid did not want meals; they wanted money. That happens a great many times every day.

It is certain a great many have come into Tulsa for the pickings they may get from liberal people. There is so much publicity for drought and unemployment aid that men's hearts are rather tender and they will "give up" coin. It is well to offer the meals or the lodging and see what occurs. The applicants often make elaborate get-aways.

The Christian Science Monitor, editorially, tells of a neat little job which Mayor Curley of Boston put over on the Communists. They marched to the city hall, demanding work. The mayor shocked them by inviting them in. A long, elaborate address was read to the mayor and then he began offering jobs. Not a red would accept any of the jobs offered; they would not even give names of people who should have jobs. They emphatically did not want to work. They, on the level with the panhandler of the streets, were merely seeking advantage. The panhandler wants money; the red wants notoriety, attention, opportunity to make a speech.

Confine efforts to aid to the people who really want and need aid.

Hollywood Sights

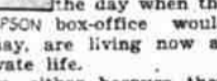

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—The dawn of success for movie youngsters like Dorothy Jordan, Marian Marsh and Maureen O'Sullivan only deepens the twilight of oblivion enshrouding many of their screen predecessors who, like themselves, once thrilled to fan letters and sizable pay-checks.

The more fortunate of these movie old-timers, those who forecast the day when the box-office would say they are living now at ease in private life.

But others, either because they cannot relinquish hopes of a return to fame, or because they are in desperate need, victims of the ever-changing movie order of their own folly, continue to haunt the studios, picking up crumbs of work in support of those who have replaced them.

BETTY COMPSON

Some of them, if you look carefully, may be seen in today's talkies half hidden among the extra mob, playing "bits" or "atmosphere."

Hollywood is full of these fallen stars. A one-time celebrity who resembles Betty Compson sometimes serves as "stand-in" for this player, who was a struggling newcomer in the other woman's heyday.

A former serial star, idol of kids everywhere some 17 years ago, works in unimportant bits—sometimes.

Frequently in the newspapers appear brief accounts of bankruptcy proceedings on behalf of forgotten luminaries for whom such an event three, six, a dozen years ago would have been front-page copy.

TUMBLERS

Try these on your radio tonight: Historical sketch, "Antiques" repeated on request at first presentation of this program's fourth year on the air, WEA and eastern network at 8:30.

Paul Whiteman's band, WJZ and others at 7.

Lillian Knowles, soprano, in the celebrities program, WJZ network at 8.

The Happy Bakers with Theodore Metz, 53-year-old composer, WEA and chain at 8:30.

Howard Barlow Symphony Orchestra, program to include "Rhapsody in Blue," WABC and stations at 8:30.

Special pioneers program, to be restored by talking movies underground, in the air in a submarine, with Ruth Etting as guest singer, WJZ and hookup at 9.

Jesse Crawford, organist, and others in the Radio Playhouse WABC network at 9:30.

Radio transit at 10 followed by Vincent Lopez's orchestra at 10:15 WEA and others.

NEW-STYLE COWBOYS

The old-time western stars of the pre-talkie era used to ride securely in the saddle of prosperity, always in continuous demand because their type of story could not be ground out fast enough.

Now they find themselves, for the most part, superseded by the Gary Cooper and Warner Baxter and Richard Arlen, whose talents are not limited to hard riding and shooting. One such has been augmenting his income occasionally by selling his blood to hospitals for transfusions.

Directors, too, some of them connected with the earlier pictures of today's old-line stars, are sometimes seen in the extra herd, where they are free to philosophize on the ironies of life as they see ambitious youngsters strive for the attention of their successors to the megaphone.

Associated Press Radio Editor
 (Time Is Central Standard)
 NEW YORK, March 3 (AP)—Graham McNamee and Dock Rockwell are to take a hand in the corn pone dunking controversy.

They're to try to debate on the subject before a radio audience tomorrow night. Graham, as a leading announcer, is to argue that crumbled corn pone is the correct way when it's served with polliwacker. Rockwell, the stage funny man, is to insist on dunking.

Thirty minutes have been allotted on the WEA hookup to these two to fight it out. They are to start at 10:15 p. m. Judges will be a boxing referee, a football headliner, a baseball umpire and a six-day bicycle race starter.

Mrs. Emily Post, authority on etiquette, has been invited to serve as chief judge.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y.—Unemployed men are to be permitted to caddy on a Westchester country public golf course and the city of White Plains is starting a school for them.

THE CRIME IN THE DUTCH GARDEN

HERBERT ADAMS

SYNOPSIS: Annabelle Querling's murder remains unsolved, as Jimmie Haswell, young lawyer, assists police Superintendent Richmond and Constable Roscoe in their probe for clues. Marjorie Blake, her niece, has found her crushed fatally by a stone image in her garden, the tragedy occurring just after Marjorie and Dr. Netherton have been told that Marjorie's marriage would forfeit her inheritance. Evelyn, Marjorie's sister, and her fiancé, Lionel Duckworth, say they were singing in the house when Marjorie reported her tragic discovery, and they and the servants confirm her story, while Major Gresham explains that he had just reached the grounds on his way to see Miss Querling when he heard the news. Disappearance of Joe Allen, discharged gardener, points to his guilt, while one-armed Captain Stirling, friend of the niece, surprises Jimmie by directing the conversation to the fact that he owns a car similar to one of the two seen near the grounds on the fatal night.

Chapter 12 THE INQUEST OPENS

IT was Evelyn who broke the awkward tension produced by Stirling's strange attitude.

"Can't we talk of something more cheerful?" she asked. "If it will tell us about some of his cases."

Jimmie, not given to discussing his exploits, related an instance where Scotland Yard's ingenuity had beaten him to a solution of a mystery. He praised its detectives and said that it would be a good idea to let first offenders see the Yard's organization for detecting criminals.

"Delightful idea," sneered Stirling. "Would-be criminals conducted through Scotland Yard. Might help them a lot. No doubt: It is easy to catch old offenders. One might still do a first crime and get away with it."

Again there was uncanny silence. Evelyn shivered slightly. "Shall we go in?" she asked. "It's getting cold."

As they moved toward the house, Jimmie slipped to Marjorie's side. "This is a trying time for you," he said gently, "but don't worry too much. The truth will be discovered."

"Can they prove Joe Allen did it?"

To Jimmie the form of the whiplash question sounded strange. She did not ask if Allen committed the crime, but if it could be brought home to him. Was it tense eagerness for proof? Or could it be that other fears or something approaching knowledge would let her sacrifice the innocent rather than face a dread alternative?

"If he did it," answered Jimmie, "he is not likely to escape. Not one murderer in fifty does."

The girl shivered, though it was a warm night.

"Your sister said you had not been sleeping," he went on. "Why don't you get a sedative from the doctor?" She made no answer, and he added, "Have you seen Dr. Netherton today?"

"No."

"His mother said he was busy. I suppose he couldn't get over this evening?"

"We did not ask him."

So Bill Netherton had not been asked. This to Jimmie proved they were not openly lovers, or he would have come without being asked. If they were lovers in secret, they might wish to keep apart until Richmond's suspicions were lulled. Jimmie knew there must be something hidden, but it baffled him. Why had Stirling come to the house? How was he concerned?

The dark-eyed Janet served them coffee and cakes in what was still called the young ladies' room. Stirling suggested playing cards, but the idea was not much liked, and when Duckworth declined to sing, all seemed to agree that music and mirth would hardly be seemly in the house of sorrow. Then Jimmy had a happy thought. He turned to Duckworth.

"It is as easy for singers to get engagements today as it was in the days before the movies and other modern amusement virtually eliminated the concert halls," he asked.

Duckworth, without directly answering the question, pointed to the modern demand that variety programs include two or three good singers. "Listeners demand it," he added.

"Speaking of listeners," said Donald, "how does the radio affect you?"

"Badly. The broadcasters hire a dozen artists and put hundreds out of employment."

"How about the graphophone?" continued Jimmie.

"I hate it. There are royalties of course, from records, but they reduce attendance at entertainments."

"I would never have one in my house," said Evelyn warmly.

"Have you ever tried one?" asked Jimmie.

"No, Aunt Annabelle would never allow it."

And so the talk went on, at least making the evening more pleasant.

When Jimmie returned with his friends to their home a message was awaiting him, left the maid said, by a policeman on a bicycle. It was from Richmond and read:

We were right. J. A. is clear. He left the Brown Bear at 8:30 and rode straight to Belington near Sheffield to say good-bye to a sister in service there. Arrived before 9:30. Her employer, Colonel Welsted, saw him. Offered to put him up for the night and to give him temporary job. J. A. stay. Coat-iron alibi. So we are where we were. Hope you will be able to attend inquest tomorrow. G. R.

Certainly this development made the approaching inquest more important. At any rate, by the time Monday morning arrived nearly every one present for the investigation knew of Joe Allen's alibi.

When Jimmie and Nancy Wade reached Querling Institute, where the inquest into the slaying of its donor was scheduled, the hall was crowded. Police from Bradford were directing matters, but Constable Roscoe never felt himself quite so indispensable. Audrey Winford sat with Jimmy and Nancy, whose husband had worked for the day and could not attend.

Nine men were on the jury—three farmers, two private residents and four shopkeepers—and three women, one being hostess at the Brown Bear. They were sworn taken to see the body and with solemn faces filed back and took their seats.

Dr. Burbeck, the middle-aged coroner for the district, after a few preliminary remarks called Evelyn Blake as the first witness. Jimmie thought that Richmond, who was near the coroner's table, had some reason for the choice.

Evelyn, pale and distressed, tried to steady her voice and answer without nervousness. After giving Miss Querling's name and age, she said that she, her sister and her brother, in London, were the only living relations. She told of her aunt's habit of sitting in the Dutch garden and explained, so far as she knew, how each member of the household was employed on the night of the tragedy. As before, she stated she was in the house with Mr. Duckworth, when Marjorie brought the news. There was only one inquiry that hinted any particular line of thought in the coroner's mind.

"You are engaged to be married to Mr. Duckworth?"

"I am."

"Is your sister, Miss Marjorie Blake, engaged or is there any engagement pending?"

"There was perhaps a moment of hesitation, but the answer "No" was quite firm.

"Now, I must ask you this. Did you leave that sitting-room or approach your aunt while she was in that garden?"

"I did not."

"Thank you. That is all."

Evelyn left the box and resumed her seat between Duckworth and Marjorie some distance from Jimmie and his friends.

Henry Roscoe, the next witness, was impressed by the importance of his role. He told the time he was called to Merrow Craig where he found that the body had been take into the house. He produced a plan of the property and a photograph of the Dutch garden, with its fallen image and its broken companion still in position.

As the exhibits were handed to the jury Dr. Burbeck asked the constable if the figure could have fallen by accident.

"No, sir. It couldn't. The wall it stood on had a level surface and the figure was well balanced."

Roscoe had seen the two images before and declared they were identical.

"Now look at this photograph," the coroner directed, handing him a picture of the unbroken figure. "Suppose there were a flaw in the stone of one or both of those legs, might not the figure topple over by its own weight?"

Roscoe looked at the figure and scratched his head doubtfully. There was a tense silence in court. Perhaps after all the mishap had a perfectly natural explanation.

Nothing wrong about a chance meeting at church, Netherton tells the coroner tomorrow. But he faces a real dilemma, despite Audrey's reassuring smile.

EASILY TIRED, WEAK, NERVOUS

"I Took Cardui, It Built Me Up and I Felt Like New," Says This Lady.

Clarksville, Tenn.—"When I was a girl at home, my health wasn't very good," writes Mrs. Della Pentecost, of 945 Charlotte Street, this city. "I suffered quite a bit from pains in my side and back. My mother thought I ought to take a tonic, and knowing Cardui was good, I decided on that. Just two bottles cleared up my skin and eased the pain, and I felt much better."

"After I was married, I was weak and run-down, and at times very nervous. I would get tired easily, and did not feel like doing my work. I took Cardui again, two bottles, and it built me up and I felt like new. I am glad to recommend it as a reliable medicine."

If you are run-down, nervous, or suffer every month, take Cardui, a purely vegetable reconstructive medicine of long established value. Experience of several generations has shown that Cardui helps women to health.

Get a bottle of Cardui, today, and try it in your case.

Christian School Concludes Services And Plans Another

The Community Indigenous Leadership Training School which has been in progress at the First Christian Church for the past six weeks came to a close last night with 7 leadership training credits being granted. The original enrollment was for 81 units, it being possible for each pupil to earn two credits.

The school dean was Rev. D. R. Lindley, pastor of the church, who also taught two courses, one on "The Christian Family," and one on "Training in Worship."

Other members of the faculty were Mrs. H. E. Clay, who taught a course on "The Pupil," and Mrs. L. M. Brooks, who taught the course on "The Message and Program of the Christian Religion."

At the closing session last night announcement was made of another school to begin within the next few weeks.

a happy harmonious condition in your home.

Miss E. W. W., Big Spring:
Q. What makes me so unpopular with the boys? I am a high school graduate and am considered a good looking.

A. There are many things I see that you could do to make yourself more popular with your friends. Come to the theatre and get one of my books on scientific thought. It will give you much information along the line that is causing you worry.

Mrs. Q. P. C., Big Spring:
Q. What should I do under the present circumstances? Will the present succeed in breaking up my home?

A. You are misjudging your husband and there is no third person in this matter. You have brought about the condition in your home by continually nagging and arguing with your husband. You cannot expect a person, even your husband, to treat you kindly and considerately when you continually remind him of the fact that you think he is a failure in life and that he is untrue, when in reality he is as much above the average as I see that your husband is. The trouble with you is that your husband is well liked by everyone who knows him. He is successful and because you do not have friends as you would like to you are merely jealous of your husband and imagine in your mind that because he does not respond to your insults with compliments that there is some other woman in his life. You are following a path that will bring sorrow, unhappiness and misery to yourself. He is not to blame. You are responsible for the conditions existing in your home.

Mr. E. D. S., Big Spring:
Will I get the position I have applied for?

A. Much to your surprise the mail tomorrow morning seems to bring a letter from this firm informing you to report to Fort Worth for work.

Mrs. C. S. C., Big Spring:
Q. Will my little daughter ever overcome her affliction?

A. It is my opinion that this child is rapidly improving and I believe by continuing the treatment of the doctor. That she will eventually be entirely normal.

Mrs. T. M. B., Big Spring:
Q. Should I make the investment that I am contemplating?

A. You are trading on thin ice. This picture that has been painted so bright and alluring to you by this young salesman will bear investigation. Do not make this investment until you have consulted your banker. Have him look this proposition over and take his advice. I am warning you carefully.

Mrs. A. B. L., Big Spring:
Q. Do you give private interviews?

A. No, I am an astrologer and not a fortune teller. If you have some personal question or problem that you would like my advice on, you can see me in person at the theatre after each of my appearances. By purchasing one of my books, Scientific Thought, I will give you my advice or opinion on two questions in privacy free of charge.

BEING OF SERVICE TO OTHERS.

Being of great service to others is the best objective in life that can be assumed by anyone. No matter how trivial a task may be, if it is beneficial to any one person or makes someone's life happier, it is worth exercising some energy on. It has been said that one gets out of life just what he puts into it. Life will seem much more valuable and worth while if you share your friends' responsibilities along with your own. While working in various phases of any activity, one should not consider a medal, banner, or any similar trophy, the only incentive for performing the task, but the material development and training of the mind, your assistance to others, and your contact with the general man of people should be the principal encouragement in undertaking any work. Even though a person may sacrifice many of his personal pleasures to assist others, he will eventually realize his gain to be sufficiently great to overbalance his loss.

ENCOURAGEMENT

It is easy to become discouraged as one goes through trials and troubles, and it seems sometimes that it is all because of other people. It seems that if they would only be cheerful and that if they would only encourage us a little bit, our loads would not be nearly so heavy. This is something that we all need to remember. Always encourage anyone who is tired or discouraged. Praise him for the effort he has already made. Make him feel that what he has done is appreciated, particularly if he has done something for you. Most of us have experienced the disappointment of putting forth a lot of effort to please someone, or of giving a gift, and barely receiving thanks for it. But the receiver really appreciates what is given to him, we derive great pleasure from our gift. It is the same when one works hard. As a usual thing he is working to benefit someone else, and if he receives praise and gratitude, he will be much happier in his work than if someone neglected to thank him. It is the same when one works hard. As a usual thing he is working to benefit someone else, and if he receives praise and gratitude, he will be much happier in his work than if someone neglected to thank him.

Etchings To Be Given School By Senior Members

It is customary for the Senior class each year to donate something to the schools. On Wednesday of last week a joint committee of juniors and seniors met for the purpose of selecting something which they thought would be appropriate for the school. A decision was made, and the juniors and seniors would like to obtain etchings. Among them are the Alamo, the Battle of San Jacinto, and other historical drawings. It has not been fully decided how many classes are going to be able to buy nor when they will come if they are selected. The seniors are to pay their share of the debt this year, and those who are juniors now and will be seniors next year are to pay the remaining cost. Careful consideration has been given to this affair as the pictures are well worth the money; they are educational as well as decorative. The Star Engraving company of Houston is offering the classes this means of buying the etchings.

Book Review

GIANTS IN THE EARTH O. E. Rolvaag, A. L. Burt, N. Y. This book was originally written in Norwegian and had to be translated into English for the American people. Rolvaag, the author of this book, was a Norwegian himself and came to America as a youth and is now teaching in the University of Minnesota. The book deals with the early pioneer days when the Norwegian immigrants settled the Middle West. It tells of their trials in gaining a foothold in the new world. Rolvaag expresses the beliefs and customs of the Norwegians clearly by the use of simple words which are easy to understand. The book is full of interesting incidents relating the life of these immigrants in the new world. One's interest is held to the last page. This book is of historical value as well as being an interesting novel. J. R.

Lubbock Girls Win, Boys Debate to a Tie

The Big Spring Debating team met Lubbock Friday afternoon at the local school. The Lubbock girls' team won over the Big Spring girls and the boys' debate was a non-decision. After debating the two clubs were entertained with a 6 o'clock dinner at the home of Miss Edith Ford with bridge. Miss Clara Cox and Miss Maurine Garrett were also present. Jack Edwards, a student in Wesley College at Greenville, was in Big Spring a part of last week.

City Park Replaces Moss Spring, New Wells As City's Recreation Ground; Improvements Being Added

By HUDSON HENLEY There are still a few old-timers here who can remember 'way back when Moss Spring was about the only known good picnic ground. Although it is yet an excellent site for outings, hikes, picnics, and the like, it has been greatly superseded. Long ago there was even enough water in the draw, which winds from the spring itself to the steep red clay wall, to swim in. In fact, some of those old-timers can tell of many gay swimming parties to Moss Spring. However, as the custom is, the old must give way to the new. A few years ago the New Wells, as they are popularly called, were opened to the public and became very much liked and frequented. Two or three spots, in particular, have seen a great number of barbecues and picnics, seldom a week passing when they missed an outing. But even these are losing their patronage. The new City Park has taken the place of the New Wells, just as they took the place of Moss Spring. Hardly a year old, it is the most popular recreation scene in Howard county. In the first place, it has all the advantages of either Moss Spring or the New Wells: fresh water, beautiful scenery, barbecue pits, benches, ample room, etc. Besides that, the new City Park offers tables for eating, ash-cans for scraples, besides the comfortable benches for convenience to eating and idle contemplation. In the second place, it affords a complete playground for children and lively grown-ups with swings, see-saws, giant strides, merry-go-round, what more could an energetic and enthusiastic youngster wish for? In the third place, there is a small platform with a number of benches facing it, from which a lecturer or teacher, or even a soap-box politician, may deliver an oration at will. It might be added that a few of the younger set have even used it to dance on. Moreover, there are still some improvements to be made. If the plan goes through, a swimming pool will be installed in addition to the kiddies pool already there. Trees are being planted to beautify it and add more shade. All this has been made possible by donations from local service clubs, brotherhoods, and private individuals, as well as contributions of materials from several local companies. Everyone in Big Spring should feel welcome to drive out to this spot and enjoy life awhile. Perhaps some people never heard of the City Park. It would be worth their while to drive out the South Pike about three miles, turning left across the cattleguard adjacent to the golf course entrance, following the short road past the city reservoir, and then casting an eye upon one of Nature's beauty spots. Surrounded by a white wire cable, supported by orange poles of pine, the park is resplendent with its gaily painted playground equipment, solid orange tables and benches, transparent sheet of warm water in a pure white concrete bed, green grass and trees, chalk white drives around by the park, and the inviting aspect of it all. No wonder the birds chirp and sing merrily in the brilliant sunshine.

IDLE CHATTER

Well, well, the Steers really did beat the "Batling" Buckaroos from Breckenridge! We're proud of them, too. Didn't get to see the game that was played in Breckenridge, but from what we hear we nearly got the small end of the deal until the Steers realized that the end of the game was uncomfortably near, and then the fun began, or maybe it was work. These two teams were certainly well matched. Thursday night when the Steers entertained the Buckaroos here, it seemed neither of the teams could get a substantial lead. But the Steers did it—like they're going to do when they go to Austin.

It seems every team has its ups and downs and Thursday night our team had mostly downs. Bill Flowers took a fall that will probably go down in history to say nothing of the free slide Tommy Hutto took. If there happens to be any person living in Big Spring who didn't see this memorable game, we want to say that he certainly missed a thrill of a life time. The Steers and Bill Flowers did some of the best guarding that the Steer fans have witnessed in a long time, to say nothing of the goal pitching ability of Tommy Hutto and Davey Hopper. And for the first time since the season started, we saw Elmer Fardus's tip off. He believes that tip-off raised everyone in the gym to a standing position. We don't believe we have ever seen so many tense looking faces. But the action that was taking place on that court would have made the most unemotional person in the world have at least one tense moment. Personally, I had about sixty of them. Of course, during the half the tension was released but how anyone could sit through a game like that one and not get a little excited is more than I can understand. This game gave us an idea as to what to look forward to when they go to State. Keep up the good work boys, because we're pulling for you stronger every day.

Junior Stunt Night Program Secrets Partially Divulged

Has everyone bought his ticket to the Junior Stunt Night? If not, please heed to this inside information on the matter, for the sponsors and actors both guarantee all comers their money's worth. Indeed, it is well worth the meager price of admission to get to listen to the small but energetic Steve Ford read along, announce the different programs over the supposed ether. Although the axiom actors are all fretting and fussing over their costumes, they are inwardly delighted to portray the proverbs. John Nall and Georgia Belle, as husband and wife, get along fine, agreeing on everything. (Oh, yeah!) Howard Kyle, the neglected husband, will furnish a distinctive thrill when he shoots Joe Clare, the false wife-snatcher. Hudson Henley, the shrewd Dutchman (?), will make you wonder at the facility with which he gyp St. F. Collins, the farmer, out of twelve dollars. Nearly every Junior in high school and a few other classmates, are in the program in one or more places. Under the strict coaching of Mrs. Etter and Miss Butler these students are rapidly becoming prepared to dazzle and please an appreciative audience.

McMurry Chanters Scheduled for Concert Friday Evening at High School Under Auspices of Seniors

The McMurry Chanters sponsored by the senior class will give a concert at the auditorium of the Big Spring high school Friday evening at 7:30 o'clock. The Chanters have appeared in many West Texas towns including Cleco, Ranger, Sweetwater, Odessa, Midland. The club is made up of nine boys and nine girls under the direction of Mrs. Gypsy Ted Sullivan, head of the school of fine arts of McMurry College. The accompanist is Hjalmer Bergh, professor of piano at McMurry. Those who enjoyed the cantata given by the Chanters Sunday evening at the Methodist church will be glad to hear the following program which will be given Friday evening: The Anvil Chorus—From II Trovatore..... Verdi The Chanters Gently Fall the Shadows..... Mildenberg Ma Curly Headed Baby..... Clutson At Close of Day..... O'Hara The Gitanas Uncle Moon..... Scott Old Black Joe..... Foster Talk About Jerusalem Morning..... O'Hara Messrs. Bowers, Baldrige, Carver Lo, Hear the Gentle Lark..... Bishop Asale Key..... Smith A Tale of Woe..... Bliss Mosquitoes..... Bliss very little energy on your part. Have an interest about those things that are happening in your country every day. This is a wonderful age in which we live, and even though all things do not go just right, yet each day that is so full of new opportunities for you to do the best in anything you attempt. Do not let troubles down you; just gather up new strength and enthusiasm and smile. There's magic in the twilight. White magic in the dawn. That makes today as wonderful as any day that is gone. BE ENTHUSIASTIC.

Dr. W. R. Hall Heard in Monday Assembly

At the assembly period on Monday, March 2, Dr. Hall of the Manhattan Presbyterian church, El Paso, was the guest of the high school. Dr. Hall is now conducting a revival service at the Presbyterian church and was introduced to the assembly by Rev. R. L. Owen, pastor of that church. Dr. Hall brought a message on being a success in life by following the will of God and being guided by Him. He said that a person who was a failure in his profession had chosen a line to which he could not be guided by God. This chapel was greatly enjoyed by all present and Dr. Hall made many friends among the student body by his short visit.

We were just wondering the other day about a few little insignificant things that few people probably never notice. Some of them are: Why Tommy Neal is so fond of being on the third floor in the vicinity of the Foods lab, and the Spanish class room? Why Elmer Fardus waits at a certain corner for a certain girl every day at noon? Where are all the boys go between classes? Why Evelyn Merrill, Miss Barley, and Valera Sligh etc. so many winners and sandwiches, etc. Friday night, when there were so many seniors who would have loved to have joined them at their picnic? Why Sam Collins and Lennie Mae Cotton hold hands while strolling down the hall? Well, this will give the readers something to think about—I just know they could never guess what the answers are.

We fear that a little sadness will visit our school tomorrow in the form of the report cards. Sad it may be, but nevertheless it's true. It's too bad these bearers of sorrow are to be distributed just before the Austin trip—but then maybe they will be instrumental in some person's making the trip. Well, we hope so.

We noticed an article in a certain paper in which a certain sports writer for a certain paper "let down" another sports writer for things he had said about a winning basketball team. Well, we guess that certain sports writer was for his town and team, but we guess the other sports writer was for his town team. We're for the sports writer who's for our town; so power to him!

"Tiger" Flowers, a 1929 graduate of Big Spring high school and a sophomore in Texas Tech, was in Big Spring over the week-end.

Burma Barley, a freshman in Texas Tech spent the week-end in Big Spring.

About Teachers

Miss Georgia Kirk Davis was born in Anson, Texas. She was the youngest child in a family of four, being eight years younger than the third, consequently she had as many "bosses" as there were brothers and sisters. She started to school in Anson at the age of six, and on May 1, 1916 she moved to Midland.

Miss Davis was graduated in the class of '25 from Midland High School. She was valedictorian of her class with an average of 93.4. Miss Davis enrolled in N.T.S.T.C. at Denton in the summer of '25. She didn't seem to realize what college life was all about until the following spring; then she began work with the Y.W.C.A. and the Mary Arden. She represented the Y.W.C.A. of N.T.S.T.C. at the Southwestern Regional Encampment at Montene, Arkansas, during the summer of 1925. She expected to see bare-foot men and razor-back hogs in Arkansas, but the only bare-foot men were seen at the swimming pool.

Miss Davis worked on the Yucca, the yearbook of N.T.S.T.C. her Junior and Senior years, earning a letter each year. The first year she was assistant class editor; the second year she was associate editor-in-chief of the annual, which won the prize in the Texas Inter-collegiate Press Association.

She served on the Publication Council for one year and was one of 17 in "Who's Who" section in the 1928 Yucca.

During her senior year Miss Davis was president of the Mary Arden; vice-president of the Y.M.C.A.; senior representative to the young Women's Forum Council; and belonged to the following clubs: Pen-Type, Kappa Delta Pi and the W. H. Bruce Scholarship Society.

Miss Davis majored in English and minored in Latin and French while in N.T.S.T.C. She was graduated in 1928 and has been teaching in B.S.H.S. since the fall of '28. She attended the University of Texas in the summer of 1930.

Miss Davis likes to ride horse-back, watch football and basketball games, and study the actions of people. She likes teaching and when she gets to where she can't enjoy her pupils she will quit she says.

Miss Davis is a wee bit superstitious. She believes in White Magic and rabbit's feet. Friday the thirteenth is her lucky day.

Miss Davis not only teaches English in B.S.H.S., but sponsors the girls' pep squad. Her work and interest in the girls has made it one of the best organizations in the school.

Miss Davis wants a Master of Pedagogy degree and when she receives this the pupils of Big Spring high hope that she will again come back to teach in B.S.H.S.

Frank Etter was born in the Indian Territory in Oklahoma in 1902. From there he moved to Montague county in Texas and started to school there. He finished high school in Childress in 1922.

not working on the paper or annual he was courting his girl. It must be remembered that Mrs. Etter also attended A.C.C. at the same time that Mr. Etter did.

Mr. Etter likes teaching. "Not so much the teaching part, but the contact with the pupils is what I like," Mr. Etter said.

Mr. Etter sponsors the annual staff, and likes it immensely, because it gives him the contact with pupils that he enjoys.

J. A. Coffey, teacher of mathematics 2a, commercial arithmetic, physics and trigonometry in B.S.H.S., was born in Sulphur Springs, Texas. He finished his work there the first year after completing high school he took a post graduate course instead of attending college.

While in high school, Mr. Coffey played some basketball. The clubs were scarce and he did not belong to many. He had an average of 94.74 and was salutatorian of his class, the valedictorian beating him only by 3-11 of a point.

While taking the post graduate course Mr. Coffey served briefly as substitute teacher in Latin. He also substituted in mathematics.

Mr. Coffey attended Baylor U. four years, making good grades there in everything except English. He was a student assistant in mathematics, a member of the Scholarship society and the Kappa Epsilon Alpha. He belonged to the comic organization known as "The Noses." Each member was known by some term as "long nose," "flat nose," etc. Mr. Coffey has forgotten just what he was.

While in Baylor Mr. Coffey taught as a substitute teacher in chemistry for a short time.

He has been with Big Spring high school ever since he completed his four years in Baylor.

The Royal Ambassadors of the First Baptist church met yesterday with Mrs. George Williams, as leader.

The members present were W. L. Grant, Sidney Robinson, James Williams, Ralph Lamar, Billy Powell, and Lee Wright.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Grau are leaving today for Tampa, Florida, where they will make their home.

East Fourth Baptist W.M. S. In Program

'Measuring the Home Task' Is Topic of Home Mission Study

The East Fourth Baptist Church W.M.S. met yesterday afternoon at the church for a study of "Measuring the Home Task." Mrs. Hart Phillips was the leader.

The following talks were made: "Measuring the Function," Mrs. D. P. Gill; "Measuring the Field," Mrs. S. H. Morrison; "Measuring the Forces," Miss Vera Forbes; "Soldiers and Seamen," Miss Ruth Hull; "Among the Negroes," Miss Juanita Jones; "Measuring the Funds," Mrs. J. F. Connell; "Measuring the Future," Mrs. H. Phillips.

Mrs. Jim Robertson told the story of the mother of a hundred boys and Mrs. Martin told the story of the ladder lady.

The announcement was made of the address to be given at the church tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock by Dr. Jacob Gartenhaus, missionary to the Jews. All members are urged to be present.

The following members were present: Mrs. J. M. Robertson, R. A. Browning, C. N. Meskinen, S. H. Morrison, Ben Carpenter, J. L. Moreland, A. H. Bugg, Luis Murrah, L. G. Malone, T. E. Stringfellow, S. Burr Store's Staff Gives Party for Mr. and Mrs. Iglehart

Members of the L. C. Burr company's staff held a store party Friday evening honoring Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Iglehart, who left Saturday evening for Blackwell, Okla., where Mr. Iglehart, who has been assistant manager here, will become manager of the L. C. Burr company store.

The personnel of the local store went on a "treasure hunt" into each department of the store. In such instructions were found directing the hunters to the "Pot of Gold" which, when discovered, contained gifts for the winners, and refreshments of cake and ice cream.

Those present included Mr. and Mrs. Leslie White and little daughter, Wauville, and their niece, Miss Marie Williamson; Mrs. Jane Humphries, Mrs. E. W. Prescott, Miss Lillie Cardwell, Miss Anna Elder, Miss Jimmie Reeves, Alvis Lovelace and Mr. and Mrs. Iglehart.

V. H. Vaughn, who has been with the J. C. Penny Company in Denton, has succeeded Mr. Iglehart as assistant Burr manager here.

HEFLEY'S HAVE VISITORS
Mr. and Mrs. Howard Hefley of Corpus Christi are visiting Mr. Hefley's father, "Dad" Hefley, and family of 1103 Johnson and other Big Spring relatives.

R. F. Shoemaker has been ill for the last few days.

West Texas Scene To Be Part of Coming Art Display

One of the artists whose pictures will be on exhibit next week as part of the Texas Fine Arts Exhibit sponsored by the Hyperion club, will be Lois Denton, an El Paso artist.

Mrs. Denton's picture is called "Prickly Pear and Ocotillo." The artist is a native of Texas and a pupil of Cyril Kay and Xavier Gonzales.

West Texans, unlike some East Texans, do not need to be told beforehand, how beautiful and striking a picture of West Texas cactus can be. This is said to be one of the best in the collection and certainly one of the most high-priced.

Current Events Club Sees Slides of Mesa Verde National Park

The Current Events club brought Paul Franke, National Park Ranger and naturalist, as its speaker for the March meeting. The meeting was held yesterday afternoon in the high school auditorium and consisted of a lecture by Mr. Franke and slides showing scenes in the Rocky Mountain National Park and Mesa Verde National Park.

The most interesting part of the lecture dwelt with the cliff-dwellers, tribes of Indians said to have been living in America 400 years before the discovery of the continent by Columbus. It is the belief of archaeologists, said Mr. Franke, that these people built the homes which are preserved in Mesa Verde National Park about 900 A. D. and left them permanently in 1300 A. D.

The reason for their migration has not been known but it is believed to be due to a drought of long standing. Descendants of these tribes live in the valleys of New Mexico and Arizona today.

The Mesa Verde National Park and its ruins were discovered by cowboys in 1888 and in the park are the largest and best preserved traces of these early Americans in existence.
