NOSIN... With Polly

Last week we received a press release from a group named "Stop Immorality on TV" headquartered in Warrenton, Virginia. The group has announced that its supporters intend to "Black Out" CBS network TV programs during the early weeks of the fall TV season, if that network goes through with its plans to re-broadcast two episodes of the "Maude" comedy series, originally presented last November, which deals with abortion and vasectomy.

The group membership will protest against any companies placing advertisements on either of these programs. Their protest will consist of furnishing its members with a list of comparable products from companies in competition with those who advertise on the programs.

Paul A. Fisher, executive director of "Stop Immorality on TV," has written letters to Robert D. Wood, president of CBS TV, and to heads of 100 companies which are leading TV advertisers.

Fisher indicated in his letter, that "To joke about killing the innocent unborn is, an abuse by the network of a public trust." He added that it was a direct insult to viewers who protested those shows when presented before.

These episodes are said to be so controversial when aired last November, that two CBS affiliates refused to air them, and a number of companies withdrew their advertising from the show, following subsequent viewer protest.

SIO TV is a project of the society for the Christian Commonwealth and claims over 150,000 supporters.

There is little more detail that, yours truly, can give other than to say, we did not see either of the two episodes of "Maude" as we never see the program. However, if it is any worse than the movie, "Whose Aired of Virginia Wolfe," which we did see, and in our opinion, had nothing of value for the viewer, and certainly should never have won any awards. Therefore, we conclude, it takes all kinds to make a world like we have today.

Advisory directors of this group include many familiar names, including Red Skelton, entertainer; George Murphy, former Senator from California, also actor Andy Devine; George Liberace, musician; Ann Blyth, actress; Rev. Vincent P. Miceli, S. J. theologian, authors and many others. Does seem there must be a few script writers today, who would enjoy writing more scripts and making more programs like "The Waltons." This program, in my estimation, is the very best on TV.

"NOSIN"
 The FDA has been studying vitamins, minerals and food supplements for the past two years. Since that time, there has been concern over the final regulations they would hand down, and these will be handed down within the next few days.

Personally, I would like to know which vitamins to take to supply super-duper strength to be able to run a full 24 hours a day, seven days a week, as it is beginning to look as though it will require that intensified effort to, and I used the term lightly, make a living, if inflation continues to increase.

Taking into consideration that the FDA comes up with all the questions bugging the public about vitamins, minerals and food supplements, and their actual value to us, I'm wondering just how they will go about rewriting the labels clear enough that the ordinary "John Doe" will understand it completely. The next thing they may have to do is require each of us to go to pharmaceutical school to know how to take care of ourselves.

We're inclined to believe that when everything is said and done, there will be one poverty stricken group, members of the Fourth Estate, who won't have the money to buy them anyway.

My concern lies in the direction that I hope the crops in the Nation are good. I'd rather eat, than take a pill!

"NOSIN"

We noticed in the Slaton paper that a Rabbit Processing Industry wanted to locate a plant in their town. The plant is expected to be projected to have an annual payroll of nearly three-quarters of a million dollars paid to 119 employees.

That sounds good to us, hadn't thought of a rabbit processing industry, as rabbits bring back the thought of depression to many folks. However, domestic rabbits are delicious.

We wouldn't mind Earth being known as the "Rabbit Capital of the World" if it would help build the area by bringing industry here. We ladies would enjoy the domestic-farm raised rabbit meat, as it is all white meat, and best of all-extremely low in calories and cholesterol and very high in protein content. Rabbit would probably beat starvation diets all to heck.

Already, we can hear folks say Earth couldn't stand a chance for that kind of industry, because we don't have a railroad. We don't feel the train is absolutely necessary to every industry ever mentioned here. All we can say is, we know rabbits hop, but never saw a rabbit "hop a freight train."

Hail Suppression Meeting Held in Austin

Meeting of the Texas Water Development was held at 9:30 a.m. in Austin on August 28. Item #2 on the agenda was concerned with testimony presented by the Farmers and Ranchers for Natural Weather of Littlefield, the group opposing the hail suppression program currently operated primarily in Lamb and Hale Counties. Testimony for the opposition was presented by Mr. Harrell Feldt, attorney from Midland. The opposition stated the program is largely experimental and it has not been proved that hail suppression is effective in stopping. Further concern was expressed that the program was decreasing rainfall over the operational area. The opposition asked for immediate relief from the continued operation through some action by the TWDB.

Mr. John Carr, consulting meteorologist and special investigator for the TWDB, presented information on the Board's continuing investigation of the hail suppression and other weather modification programs operating in Texas. Mr. Carr noted that Atmospheric Incorporated operating the program for Better Weather Incorporated in Lamb County had fulfilled all obligations under the current Texas Weather Modification Act. The program is a privately financed operation and has been operated with professional level supervision in such a way that satisfies the weather modification permit requirements. Mr. Carr further stated he finds nothing new in the opposition testimony which indicates harm to residents within or near the operational area. Mr. Carr recommended to the Board that on the basis of opposition testimony, the permit, as issued to Atmospheric Incorporated, remain unchanged and the operation be continued.

He further recommended the Board take the opposition remarks under advisement and refer the information to the state's weather modification committee, which is composed of scientific and lay persons who advise the Board in this area of state interest. The opposition was invited to provide additional information to the Board and its advisory committee if they felt any further factual information is available.

Attending the meeting for Better Weather Incorporated was Orville Cleavinger, president, Dale Stanley, secretary treasurer, Thomas Henderson, president appeared for Atmospheric Incorporated, Ted Samson of Kirby-Ratliff and Samson, appeared as counsel for BWI. Ross Lumsden, Billie Smith and Dean Elms appeared for the opposition.

Liquor Election Petitions Received

Justice of Peace, precinct 4 in Littlefield received petitions asking for a local option liquor election just before 5 p.m., Friday, August 24.

A spokesman for those circulating the petitions said the 70 petitions contained a total of 915 names and according to their estimate, 877 would probably certify.

Before a vote can be called, at least 743 voters signatures will have to be certified.

Following certification, the petitions will be presented to the commissioners' court at their next regularly scheduled meeting. An election must be called not earlier than 20 days nor later than 30 days from the day the commissioners canvass the votes.

Soybean Harvesting Tips Aired

College Station -- Soybean growers annually lose an average of 10 per cent of their crop through improper harvest practices and management.

With October prices of $6 to $7 per bushel on the present soybean market, growers are anxious to harvest as many soybeans as possible, says R. J. Hodges, agronomist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

At an average yield of 40 bushels per acre, harvesting losses could amount to $25 an acre. Most of this loss can be saved by proper combine operation and adjustment.

"The first step in saving more beans is to prepare the combine ahead of harvest. Follow the operator's manual to make adjustments and then add any attachment or accessory you think will help you harvest more beans," says Hodges.

He offers these harvest reminders:

--Begin harvest when moisture in the soybean seeds reaches 13 percent; higher moisture content may result in mold in the bin; lower moisture content will result in increased losses due to shattering, lodging and cracking. Your local elevator can probably arrange to give you a moisture test.

--Cut soybeans as close to the ground as possible. From a half to one-and-a-half bushels per acre are lost for every inch of cut above ground.

--A floating flexible cutter bar extension, mounted below and 10 inches forward of the original cutter bar, will follow the contour of the land and save more beans.

--A variable speed reel permits feeding the beans to the cutter bar with minimum shatter loss.

--A hydraulic reel height control to feed tall or short beans into the auger is necessary to lower or raise the reel while the combine is moving.

--Some combines use an automatic height control on the header. Its sensing fingers operate a hydraulic lift for controlling cutting height.

"You can quickly figure your own soybean loss by measuring 10 square feet in an average area that has been combined and counting the beans left. For every four beans per square foot, there is a loss of about one bushel per acre," explains the agronomist.

For a better look at harvest efficiency, measure an area

Lynn Hamilton Receives Discharge

First Lieutenant Lynn Hamilton received his discharge from the U. S. Army recently at Fort Dix, New Jersey, following three years of active duty. He was stationed at Pirmesans, Germany during his three year term, with exception of three months in the U. S. A.

Hamilton served in the Headquarters Department of the Military Police during his stay in Germany. Pirmesans was the location of one of Hitler's last command posts. Lt. and Mrs. Hamilton, the former Jill McCord, lived on the old Siegfried line area. The Siegfried line was a line of fortification between Germany and France.

Since his discharge, Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton have been visiting their parents here, Mr. and Mrs. B. T. Hamilton and Mr. and Mrs. Pat McCord.

The couple moved last week to Tempe, Arizona, where they have enrolled in graduate school work at Arizona State University. Hamilton is studying on his master's degree and Mrs. Hamilton is working on her master's degree in nursing.

one foot wide and 10 feet long across the direction of travel of the combine. A count of 40 beans or less in this 10 square foot area indicates a good job of combine operation. More than 40 beans means corrective operation and adjustment is necessary, adds Hodges.

Pilfering Holds Health Hazards

Pilfering of corn, peas, beans and melons from fields can be a health hazard.

Unless these crops are being grown to be harvested fresh, most are sprayed with insecticides like methyl parathion and disyston, two potent poisons.

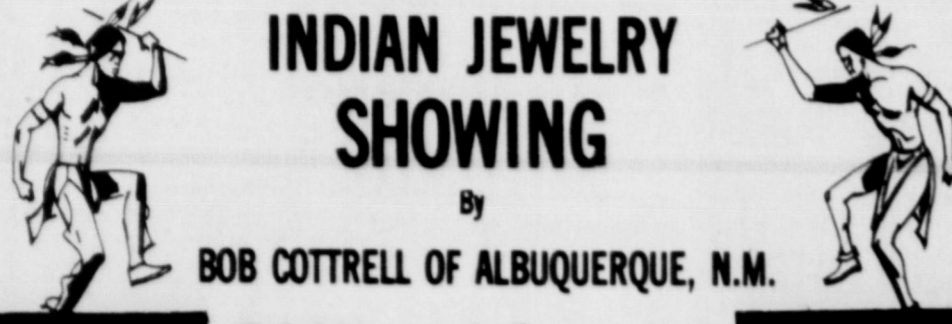

People who help themselves to the crops are taking a chance on becoming very sick if the produce has been recently sprayed.

Many of the fields have signs posted stating that corn or melons have been sprayed. If the crops are being grown for seed, and most of them are, the chances are almost 100 percent that insecticides have been used and there is a health hazard involved.

LASER DISCUSSION--Robert L. Neely left, of San Angelo and Steve Sanderson of Springlake discuss the technicalities of a nitrogen laser in an Electrical Engineering laboratory at Texas Tech University. They were among 16 students participating in an Electrical Engineering summer research program at the university funded in part by the National Science Foundation under its Undergraduate Research Participation program. Neely is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Neely of San Angelo, and Sanderson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Sanderson of Springlake.

TT Research Program Profitable For Steve Sanderson

Lubbock-Electrical engineering senior Steve Sanderson of Springlake considers his summer research program at Texas Tech University a "profitable learning experience." He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Sanderson of Springlake. He was one of 16 students participating in an Electrical Engineering program, funded in part by the National Science Foundation under its Undergraduate Research Participation (URP) program. Sanderson chose as his research project the construction of a nitrogen laser which can be converted easily into a neon laser.

Sanderson said his summer work had taught him practical laser design. "I also learned to approach a problem with a positive attitude and confidence of finding a solution. I am sure the whole program will be beneficial to my career as well as providing me with immediate practical knowledge of laser construction and operation."

The nitrogen laser, he said, emits light in the ultraviolet, below the visible light spectrum. It can be used as the excitation source for a dye laser. Since the pulse is so short, he added, a neon laser can be used as a "flash bulb" for taking pictures of very high speed activity such as that which occurs in fast plasma heating.

His faculty advisor was Dr. Marion Hagler. More than 1,300 top students from 155 colleges, universities and nonprofit organizations received grants from the NSF for the program. Grants totaled more than $2 million. The URP projects are designed to improve college instruction by demonstrating the superior teaching effectiveness that results from placing major responsibility for learning upon the student.

Of the 16 students at Texas Tech, nine were supported by the NSF grant, two from Sweden were supported through resources of the dean of engineering and five others through resources of the Department of Electrical Engineering.

Of the nine receiving NSF support, five were from Texas Tech, four from other universities, including University of Texas at El Paso, Oklahoma State University at Stillwater, and University of Texas at Arlington.

Shozo To Return Home Following Stay In Earth

Shozo Tsukamoto is an exchange student who requested to visit Texas and was sent to Earth. He is one of the students who came to the United States as a part of the Lion's International Youth Exchange Program. He has been at Earth for five weeks and will depart for Japan on August 26. Like Walter Seltmann, Shozo has enjoyed the beautiful girls, the expansive country side and friendship of the people of Earth.

Shozo is 19 years old and will complete his second year of study at Kanazawa Economics College in March. This first two years of study are called "Common Sense" which consists of courses in Japanese language, physical training, chemistry, science, philosophy, mathematics, English language, religions, and physical geography. The students take these courses for a full year with time off for summer vacation in July and August, winter vacation in December and they have examinations in September and March.

Shozo is interested in all sports and is very physically fit. He belongs to a soft tennis club at college and will return there the last of August to resume practice as a part of the team. He plays soft tennis which differs from the American tennis in that the ball is very soft and the racket is much lighter. He has played American tennis here and does very well.

His home is in Sapporo, Haddaido which is the northern island of Japan. His father has the Kotoji Transport and Warehousing Company. Possibly Shozo will return to Sapporo to help his father in business when he completes college. He attended the Winter Olympics when they were held in Sapporo.

Shozo says Texas is very big and the sky very clear and seeing the horizon in this flat country has fascinated him. Since there are no mountains at Earth, the roads are very straight so "I've seen that the earth is truly round," Shozo said. He thinks that if the children in Tokyo could see this view, they would think there is another earth on the opposite side of the world.

He has observed that Christianity is a part of American life for many people. There are many more churches in America, more than Japanese temples. Churches are usually free to be used by young people and children for recreation. He thinks that this helps children love church first, then they begin to believe in God and Jesus Christ. He thinks this freedom at church is good for children and young people.

Schools in Japan are similar to those in America. Children attend elementary school for six years, junior high school for three years. Then they take examinations to enter a famous high school. Shozo took examinations and entered Sapporo Nishi High School which has 1500 students. He and all Japanese students also take examinations to enter a University or college.

Japan is a very thickly populated country and they drive many small cars like the Mazda, Datsun and Toyota. Gasoline is sold by the litre and is possibly more expensive in Japan.

His host family, the Sulser family, like many kinds of sports and they often play tennis or water ski. Water skiing was a new sport for Shozo. He expressed it as being an enjoyable sport. "In fact," he said, "I cannot express in words how thrilling it was for me to learn to water ski. This was very exciting."

He explained, "In Japan, the lakes are used for sight-seeing or as national parks, so they are not used for water skiing."

Shozo expressed his feelings by saying, "I am envious of big Texas and America. There are many fine memories, for instance, we went to Six Flags, the Wax Museum and the Kennedy Memorial. Visiting the Kennedy Memorial was my special request."

He also enjoyed "Texas" at Palo Duro Canyon with the Hollands. This was a very nice show, according to Shozo.

He summed up his interview with, "I cannot express enough my feelings for the fine memories of Texas so I want to finish. Texas is a nice state. If I ever get the opportunity, I will choose to come to Texas again. I will come back to Earth to see you. If I ever meet a man in Japan who wants to come to America, I Observe these varieties which already have proven performance and several NEW varieties that are being evaluated to insure adaptability for your area.

- SX 520... A P-A-G single cross Hybrid Corn that is an excellent dual purpose corn for high grain yield - high quality ton silage. NUMBER ONE in yield tests conducted in the Dimmitt area during 1972 with a yield of 221.5 bushels per acre.
- SX 98... Distinctive because of its dark green color and relatively upright leaf for maximum light utilization. Has a bred-in "digestive system" that gives it the capacity to make full use of large amounts of fertilizer.
- 344... A very attractive 3-way cross with dark green color and large girthy ears. A real producer.
- 492... A tall, rugged 4-way with the built-in capacity to produce "tone" of high quality silage over a wide range of conditions. 492 produces lengthy ears with dense grain high in test weight.
