Learn Talent Search

The fall semester brings a flurry of football games, pep rallies, bonfires and a resumption of school studies for high school pupils. Freshmen begin finding their place in the new life of high school while seniors look toward college or obtaining a full-time job.

Amid the activity, preparation for continuing post-secondary education gets underway in many a counselor's office. Working in cooperation with high school counselors in over forty area schools are vocational counselors from a federal agency, LEARN Educational Talent Search.

Sponsored by the U.S. Office of Education, LEARN Talent Search is designed to provide information assistance and counseling in areas of career/vocation choice, admission to college/vocational programs, and sources of available aid for students desiring to continue with post-secondary education. Talent Search counselors also work with persons who have an interest in obtaining a G.E.D. certificate or in reentering high school.

The project functions under the direction of Art Chavez who has been with the agency for four years. Assistant Director/Counselor, Adelaida Montemayor, is beginning her third year on staff at LEARN Talent Search. The counselor for Springlake-Earth High School is Janis Farquhar.

Janis was born in Denver City, Texas, and attended Brownfield Public Schools where she graduated in 1972. She holds a B.S. degree in secondary education with specializations in Spanish and guidance associate counseling from Texas Tech University.

Working with young people for several years has given her experience in the field of vocational counseling. While in high school she was involved in teaching in the Adult Education program, served as a leader for a junior high girls church group and was an active member of several school organizations. Upon graduation from Tech in December, 1975, she

Ambulance Service Asks Equal Footing

Publicly funded ambulance systems deserve to be put on the same footing as police and fire protection services, the chairman of a new regional organization for better emergency medical care says.

"When you walk up to a county commissioners court or a city council and ask for $15,000 or so for a modern, well equipped ambulance, they're likely to go into shock," said Post Mayor Giles McCrary, chairman of the South Plains Emergency Medical Services Inc., board of directors.

"On the other hand, if a similar request for money should come from a fire department or law enforcement agency, public officials may not even flinch. They already know how vital those services are," McCrary said.

"The point is, a good EMS system is no less important than a good fire or police department, and it needs the same kind of attention from our local governments. They not only have a moral obligation, but a legal obligation to see that adequate emergency medical care is available," he said.

McCrary's group is not out to hound public officials in the 15-county South Plains region to upgrade their EMS systems, he said. The organization has neither the authority nor the in-

Sr. Adult Of The Week

The First Baptist Church of Earth recognized Mrs. J.J. Barlow as its "Senior Adult of the Week." Mrs. Barlow was born in Enid, Oklahoma, in 1894. She was reared in a Christian home. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J.W. Mitchell, moved with their eleven children by wagon train to Teaca, Oklahoma in the early part of the 1900's. She went to school in a one room school house which also served as the church house on Sundays. Mrs. Barlow became a Christian in 1909 in a small Baptist Church.

She met Mr. Barlow in Teaca. They both attended school there. After they were married Mr. and Mrs. Barlow moved to Featherston, Oklahoma, where Mr. Barlow worked for the railroad. Mrs. Barlow still remembers riding to town with their older children on a railroad hand car. The transportation was not the best in those days, but they managed to get around.

The Barlow's then moved to Burkburnett, Texas, in 1920. Mr. Barlow then worked for Guld Lease. They joined the church there by promise of letter. By stelling the stock Mr. Barlow had purchased in this company were able to move here in 1929, and buy their farm and build their home. They became members of this church when it was only a little white one room building.

Mrs. Barlow's favorite songs are "He Touched Me" and "We'll Work" and her favorite scriptures are John 3:16 and 23rd Psalms.

Mrs. Barlow has 12 children. Three of whom are deceased. She has 22 living grandchildren, 26 great grandchildren and 2 great great grandchildren.

Consumers Investigations

Senator Ron Clower (D-Garland), Chairman of the Subcommittee on Consumer Affairs, announced that the Subcommittee has begun investigations into, among other issues, problems consumers experience in the areas of auto repair, home improvements, and the practice of "red-lining," where some mortgage companies may deny home buyers loans in certain inner city areas.

"Consumer offices throughout the State have expressed concern with the large number of complaints they are receiving from consumers experiencing problems with automobile repairs and home improvements," Senator Clower noted. "The subcommittee is committed to reviewing complaints from consumers, and to proposing actions that will help to correct abuse in these areas."

Senator Clower indicated that he would be interested in having people write with information they have about problems in these areas. The address is Senator Ron Clower, P.O. Box 13088, Capitol Station, Austin, Texas 78711.

Trash Dumpsters

The new trash dumpsters are in place and available for immediate use. The City of Earth has purchased this new service through contract, and they feel that it will serve the public more efficiently and at the same time provide a much more sanitary disposal method.

There are several reasons for this changeover, not the least of which is the fact that effective very soon, there will be no burning of trash in Earth. Also, there is a new state law that sanitation workers are not allowed to lift anything more than a 30-gallon barrel. In this respect, the smaller containers would be virtually impossible to cope with, as there would have to be more than twice as many as there are now.

The city is asking for cooperation during the transition, and ask that some simple rules be followed. Please, no rocks nor large tree limbs in the dumpsters. Pile these alongside the dumpster and they will be picked up. Break up all boxes before putting them in containers. No dirt in the dumpsters. Please dry all grass clippings and wood.

If we all follow these simple steps, the system will benefit the whole community in a much cleaner and more sanitary environment.

Trash collection is scheduled for Thursdays for homes, Monday for businesses.

clination to do that he added.

"This is strictly a volunteer organization. We're not trying to impose or enforce anything on any community," McCrary said.

"What we are trying to do is establish a cooperative effort in determining what the region needs with regard to EMS and how we can work to meet those needs," he said.

Fog years, McCrary explained, ambulance services were run mainly by the private sector—namely, funeral homes. But with encroaching regulations from the federal government and greater needs in the community, public entities, have had to take over the responsibility, he said.

"For the most part, they've done a good job," McCrary said of the counties and cities now running EMS systems. "But this has been in spite of, not because of, planning.

"There's still a lot to be done in the way of training emergency medical technicians and securing up-to-date equipment. It's not a matter of neglect or oversight on the part of public officials. In so many instances, they haven't been made aware of what makes up a good EMS unit."

An immediate goal of the regional group is to educate the public and elected officials about the EMS concept, McCrary said.

Also, with the entire South Plains area working together, the organization hopes to apply for federal grants to assist local communities in upgrading and coordinating their ambulance operations, he said.

"So typical of many situations, the feds are looking over our shoulder," McCrary said. Unless local governments assume responsibility for improving emergency medical care, the federal government may step in with a set of regulations and red tape, he said.

The regional EMS group has been made possible through cooperation by the Texas Tech University School of Medicine, Lubbock County Hospital District, South Plains Association of Governments, South Plains Health Systems, the area Texas Department of Health staff and other groups, McCrary said.

LEARN TALENT

participated in the internship program in counseling at Trinity Church in Lubbock. She taught at a small private school in Lubbock last fall and began graduate counseling studies at Tech in January, 1977.

The Talent Search motto is "Opening the doors of education." These doors began to be opened in Lubbock ten years ago. Now serving Cochran, Crosby, Dawson, Floyd, Hale, Hockley, Lamb, Lubbock and Terry counties, over forty high schools participate in the program.

The primary target group of the project encompasses those who meet two basic criteria: demonstrated financial need and/or cultural need. The program identifies qualified youth, between the ages of 14 and 27, who meet low-income requirements and/or come from an environment which has not provided educational skills and other necessary skills to succeed in post-secondary education but do possess the potential to succeed.

Each academic year the program's district is divided into areas which are then assigned to one of the counselors. The counselor then makes contact with secondary school counselors, community center directors and church group leaders in each community and arrange a visit.

During the year students are counseled according to individual vocational needs. Program assistance comes in the form of providing career guidance, selecting a vocation, referring clients to other agencies, applying for ACT or SAT college entrance examinations, filling out admission forms to vocational or college programs and submitting applications to different grant, scholarship, loan or work-study programs.

When not travelling to the communities in a 60-mile radius from Lubbock, counselors are involved in a variety of activities. Numerous clients walk-in to the office for assistance. These are assigned to a counselor who works in the student's area. Each counselor is also a volunteer for Joint Action in Community Service (JACS) and works with referrals returning to this area from any one of the Job Corps Training Centers in the nation.

Staff development is emphasized at LEARN Talent Search. Keeping in step with current developments in vocational counseling and financial aid will find the counselors participating in conferences and workshops throughout the years. This fall an on-site visit was made to the Job Corp Training Center in McKinney in addition to attending the Texas Association for student Special Services Programs conference in San Antonio and the College Entrance Examination Board Workshop at Texas Tech.

Membership in professional guidance organization and encouragement to enroll in graduate studies will find the counselors at Talent Search in Lubbock active in both areas.

Parents desiring information or persons interested in post-secondary education should contact LEARN Educational Talent Search at 763-4256 or go by 1203 University directly across from the Texas Tech campus.

GHOST WELLS - Today, many gas wells are deserted. Although recent Federal Power Commission price increases have helped to encourage some increased production, they are still inadequate and still perpetuating the double standard pricing of "old" gas and "new." The artificially low price of older gas continues to preclude increasing the recovery from marginal fields. Because development costs exceed the price that can be recovered under government controls, this situation forces wells to be abandoned before they are fully depleted. In addition, producers need revenues from current production to pay for new development of deeper and costlier wells.

Brownds Return From Trip

Mr. and Mrs. Gene Brown recently returned from a 10 day trip to Oklahoma, Arkansas, Missouri and Tennessee.

While in Oklahoma, they saw the Cowboy Hall of Fame in Oklahoma City. In front of the Hall of Fame, is a life-size statue of Buffalo Bill.

In Memphis, Tennessee, they saw the Memphis Queen come down the Mississippi River and watched the barges used to transport merchandise up and down the river. They also toured Elvis Presley's mansion "Graceland" and visited with Elvis's uncle.

In Dyersburg, Tennessee they visited with Mr. and Mrs. Gene Stevens, Shawn and Shane. While there, the Stevens took them across the river to Missouri to a famous sea food restaurant to eat.

Traveling to Nashville, Tennessee they saw lots of beautiful country. They visited the Grand Ole Opry, Country Music Hall of Fame, many star's homes and the wax museum.

On display at the Country Music Hall of Fame was Elvis Presley's solid gold Cadillac. The top opened regularly, so people could see the inside of the car.

They toured the Parthenon, which is a full sized replica of the Ryman Auditorium, which was the Old Grand Ole Opry downtown and is now abandoned, and will be made into a new museum, the stage of Hee Haw at WLAC-TV, which is taped in June and October.

World Famed Parthenon in Athens, Greece. They toured the Hermitage, home of Andrew Jackson, Ryman Auditorium, which was the old Grand Ole Opry downtown and is now abandoned, and will be made into a new museum, the stage of Hee Haw at WLAC-TV, which is taped in June and October.

live recording station, the state capitol building and grounds, and old Fort Nashborough.

They toured the "Upper Room," where the literature is printed for the United Methodist and Southern Baptist Churches.

In the front of the Upper Room is a carving of "The Last Supper" which covers one wall. In the back is a stained glass window and it was explained who donated each parcel of glass. In the chapel there is a table replica of the "Last Supper."

On their way home they came by Tulsa, Oklahoma and visited Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Thomas. Mr. Thomas was one of Mr. Brown's World War II buddies. They had a very enjoyable trip.

J.V. Loses Finale

The Junior Varsity Slew Crew lost to the Farwell Steers by the score of 26-0. The Slew Crew played an excellent first half and at the end of the second quarter the score was 8-0 in favor of the Steers.

The second half saw Farwell expand their lead as the Slew Crew could only move the ball between the 20 yard lines, and could not cross into the promise land.

The season final showed a much improved J.V. composed mainly of freshmen and sophomores. The Slew Crew will now move into basketball as they take on Amherst Tuesday and Sundown Friday in Wolverine Gym.

PLAYER OF THE WEEK

Steve Monreal was selected as player of the week for his never dying spirit as he played with a broken arm and very well.

8th Grade WINS

The 8th grades passing attack was to much for that of the Farwell's 8th grade. With two touchdown passes, Todd Moore led his team mates to victory in their last home game of the year.

Starting the game primarily in a running attack against the Steers, the defense was noticed to be pulling in very tight. A play action pass was called and executed perfect to Lyle Loudder, who by the way played most the season with a broken hand, for a touchdown. Big Ramon Olivaras who had another good night running as fullback, scored on a slant play off tackle for the extra point.

The next scoring was done by another pass from Moore to Frank DeLeon who ran for 20 yards for the touchdown and again the extra point was by Olivaras. Todd Moore once again startled the Steers by running a quarterback sneak through the middle for a 75 yard touchdown. Unfortunately it was called back because of a penalty.

But this was not to hold the young mentors down for they came back and scored once again with a run by DeLeon again through the middle. The defense had a fine night stopping the Steers powerful option which was considered to be their bread and butter play.

Ramon Olivaras, Claude Barlow, Sam Ott, Allen Clayton, Arturo Sammaron, Miguel Samaniego, and Dusty Stovall all need to be credited with outstanding defensive play in their final game. These young men have much to be proud of in the good finish in which they had. The final score was Springlake-Earth Jr. High 8th-22 and Farwell 8th grade 0.

believable year in 1978. The Slew Crew is headed towards a great year and will need all your support.

Varsity Players were the inspired effort of the Slew Crew in the second half after a horrible first half that saw us do nothing. The Crew showed themselves that they can play if they want to, and 1978 will be a good year.

Varsity Game

The Slew Crew closed out the 1977 season with Farwell and lost 48-0. The first quarter started out with the Crew moving the ball while recovering a quick kick. Toward the end of the quarter, Farwell had scored 13 points. In the second quarter, the Slew simply could do nothing right as they gave up 35 points. At half, the score was 41-0.

In the second half, the Slew came back to dominate the play by causing 7 fumbles and having 3 goal line stands inside the line. It was like a different ballgame.

The entire team was inspired as Farwell could only get one score on a flea flicker pass. The Slew had a final goal line stand with 8 seconds left as the Farwell team moved to score again. The entire Slew Crew would like to thank the loyal fans for their support in 1977, and those who have contributed so much to our program. We are excited about next year and look forward to an un-

By JOHN FARRIS
Lamb County Extension Agent

LAMB COUNTY COTTON-Over 63,895 bales of cotton have now been ginned.

MARKING SEED COTTON MODULES WITH SPRAY PAINT- "Some ginners and producers are using spray paint to mark the ends of modules with numbers. It is very important that the seed cotton marked by the paint be removed prior to ginning. It takes very little paint on seed cotton to cause a problem at the textile mill. We have had reports of cotton being reduced in grade due to "tinge" which may be a result of this marking method.

This practice of marking ends of modules with paint should be discouraged in the future. Marked seed cotton should be removed prior to ginning. This could become a serious problem."

The above information was made available by Dr. Calvin B. Parnell, Jr., Agricultural Engineer-Cotton Ginning Specialist, TAES.

THE ENVIRONMENTAL PROTECTION AGENCY(EPA) has proposed that certain uses of 23 pesticides be classified as restricted.

These pesticides appeared in the Federal Register Volume 42, Number 170, pages 44178-44188. These compounds were entered on September 1, 1977 as proposed rules. From September 1 through October 3 interested parties were given a chance for rebuttal or revision of the working for formulations, use patterns, classifications, and criteria influencing restrictions.

The following pesticides will probably be finalized as restricted use pesticides.

1. Acrolein (Aqualin R)
2. Acrylonitrile
3. Aldicarb (Temik R)
4. Allyl Alcohol
5. Aluminum Phosphide (Phostoxin R)
6. Azinphos Methyl (Guthion R)

7. Calcium Cyanide
8. Demeton (Systox R)
9. Endrin
10. Ethyl Paration
11. Fluoroacetamide/1081(Compound 1081)
12. Hydrocyanic Acid
13. Methomyl (Lannate R)
14. Methyl Bromide Methyl Paration
15. Mevinphos(Phosdrin R)
16. Paraquat (dichloride and Paraquat bis(methyl sulfate))
17. Ficloram
18. Sodium Cyanide
19. Sodium Fluoroacetate
20. Strychnine
21. Sulfotepp(Bladefum R)
22. Tepp

Please remember that these are proposed as being restricted and some formulation and use patterns might change. One may check at the County Extension Office for restrictions of specific formulations and use patterns.

GOOD PHOTOS HELP TELL 4-H STORY-Good photographic composition means arranging things in a picture so they look pleasing and tell the story better. A lot depends on choosing the right camera angle and placement of the subject.

Background is also important. A simple background makes the subject stand out. A light-colored background is best for dark subjects; a dark background for light colored subjects.

The photographer should move in as close to the subject as possible to eliminate distracting background elements. Or, shoot from a high or low camera angle.

4-H photography projects and activities are fun and educational. As they learn-by-doing to take and use pictures, 4-H members begin to appreciate photography as an art, a science, and a communications tool. Kodak offers recognition to program members at all levels of participation: six $1,000 scholarships nationally, expense paid trips to National 4-H Congress for one member per state, and four medals of honor in each county. Winners are chosen by the Extension Service and awards arranged by National 4-H Council.

4-H'ers can share their best photographs with others each year in the National 4-H Photo Exhibition during National 4-H Congress in Chicago. This noncompetitive show features single photos, or picture stories of typical 4-H activities. As many as four photos may be selected from each state. 4-H'ers need not be photography program members to participate.

More information on the 4-H photography program is available at the county Extension office.

HANGING BASKETS SAVE SPACE-If you don't have room for all the gorgeous plants you wanted to put in your house, don't worry. Just hang them somewhere.

Hanging baskets can live up terraces, porches, eaves or the walls of a house. Any types of drooping, spreading plants such as ferns or airplane plants look good in hanging baskets.

Asparagus sprengeri ferns are good for hanging baskets because they can tolerate a lot of direct sun and some cold. Succulents are also fairly hardy plants. Boston type ferns require high humidity and partial shade.

Periwinkles are well suited to hanging baskets and will bloom through the hottest weather until the first frost. Petunias, which also look attractive in hanging baskets, are best to use during the spring and early summer.

Any clay or ceramic or ceramic pot with good drainage hung in a galvanized wire, wooden, terra cotta or string hanging planter is suitable to use.

Use a good potting soil which is high in organic matter. Put the plants in the basket at the same depth they were originally growing. Allow about an inch of space between the soil line and the top of the container, so water does not overflow.

A convenient way to water and fertilize hanging baskets is to immerse the entire container in a tub of water containing a small amount of soluble fertilizer. Hanging baskets may have to be watered once a day during hot, dry weather.

Hog Killing Time

The old saying "after the first arther and hard freeze in November," its hog killing time. Everybody that had meat and lard for their families had to kill hogs. Ranches had a crew of their own, and when the weather was right, everyone on the ranch had to help with the hog killing. A lot of wood had to be gathered for the scalding vat. Most ranches had a 'ood pile,' tree trimmings, mosqueto and hick berry, or whatever was available. The ranchers usually had a scalding vat of their own. They just dug a long trench open at both ends and then set the flat vat on top of it, then they built a flat platform beside the vat to scrape the hog on. Either a block and tackle with a tripod, or a lot of man power was necessary to scald the hogs. And after they were killed and dragged up to the vat, the big job was on. One at a time they tipped the hogs in the scalding water, pulled them out and scraped the hair and dirt off, and with a stick between the hind legs they were soon hung with the head down, gutted and completely cleaned and left over night to cool out and be cut up the next day. Cutting up the meat and getting it ready for processing was always a big job. Large tables and benches were used to lay the meat on. Hams, hocks, shoulder, sausage, back bones, ribs, and lard were packed in separate piles. Many ranches had a rather large meat house where the ham, bacon, and houlders were packed in salt, or sugar cure to cure. It took at least a month to cure. Then it was taken out of the cure, and brushed and a string or tendon placed in each piece to hang it up to dry and be smoked.

But just the placing the meat in the cure was only a small part of the processing. Lard or fat trimmed from the hogs, and rendered or cooked in a large kettle to be strained and placed in cans to furnish cooking fat for all purposes during the year. The lean trimmings were ground into sausage and stuffed into small socks or casings, and hung up to be smoked with the other meat in the smokehouse.

The cracklings or left overs refuge of the lard was made into soap. The crap meat and pig feet were put up in a sack and hung on the windmill, and had to be used within a short time.

Farmers and town folks just had hog killing days, and thru cooperative efforts usually had some meat of their own. But, until recent years, or about the turn of the century, you had to cure your own, or do without.

But, now in modern times big packing companies like Swift, Cuddahay, Armor, and a lot of others have taken over the meat and packing business. And with modern transportation makes it possible for everyone to enjoy a more modern way of processing.

Refrigerator cars and trucks makes it possible for everyone to enjoy all kinds of meat products.

Hog killing time was a big day seventy six years ago, but modern man has come a long way in this own century.

conclude the day's festivities.

Everyone is welcome and invited. Make your plans now to come to Pep on Thursday, November 24th, 1977.

Country Stores

Most senior citizens can still remember the country store, that was a must in all farming areas, before the automobile and tractor came along. They carried a lot of necessary supplies, that could be had with a minimum effort. These, often small stores, located in early every rural area that was more than a few miles from town. Most of them contained a rural post office over in one corner, where one could buy stamps, post cards, and envelopes, and purchase a money order.

A lot of fond memories of the many items these stores had that are not on the market today. Most of them bough cream and eggs, and a lot of them could buy your butter, a few extra sacks of potatoes, if you had them to spare. Folks that operated these little country stores were usually extra friendly and like the modern day merchants. In the winter time they tried to keep a good fire in the pot bellied stove, and a few cane bottom chairs and nail kegs, so you could come in and warm. In summer time they could hand you a paste board or palm leaf fan to cool off with. They all carried a good supply of coal oil, or as city folks say "kerosene." Before electricity came along, nearly all lamps and stoves burned coal oil.

These stores carried a line of groceries that are seldom available today. School supplies looked something like this: Big Chief tablets, crayolas, cedar pencils, bottled ink and pen staffs, and note book paper.

Flour in all size sacks, and for those who didn't want so much, a barrell set there where you could get any amount well as the famous Pep Sausage will be served from 11:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. and from 5:00 p.m. to 7:00 p.m. Adult plates will be $3.00, children under 12, $2.00 and take-out plates will be available at both meals.

you wanted. Coffee came in large cans. You could get whatever amount you wanted, and they would grind it for you. Remember that big cast iron grinder that set on the counter by the cash register, and the scales. Country kids that got to come to the store always liked to turn the coffee grinder. Lard could be purchased from a can with a large ladle left sticking in it. You could get any amount you wanted, if you brought your own container. Syrup came in gallon buckets, and crackers by the barrell full. Cured meats, like dry salt bacon, was to be had for those who didn't kill enough hogs last fall. Salt, pepper, and a few spices, made up most of the available groceries. Bill Durham, Prince Albert, Cigars and chewing tobacco, and matches.

But, these early day merchants had a lot of other responsibilities to their customers. They carried stock salt, poultry feed, and many other supplies for livestock. Axle grease, collar pads, trace chains, buggy whips, knee pads, cotton sacks.

Now, it was quite a treat for the younger set to go to the store, get some soda pop, and stick candy. Neighbors liked to visit at the store, and usually a lot of gossip whether you liked it or not.

The big trucks and super markets, chain stores of this modern day have so much advantage of these small individual owned store, they have no longer use to exist, and are merely memories of the past. But, That's The Way It Was.

How to replace a coupler gasket on a circle irrigation system:

Their way. Our way.

A coupler gasket doesn't need replacing often, but when it does you ought to know what you're up against when you do have to replace it. Some circle irrigation systems require that you bring a boom out to the field to support the pipe while you replace the gasket. With a Circle-Master you don't need a boom. You just bring two 1/2" wrenches out to the field and replace the boot gasket. Easy as that. The Circle-Master has a split metal coupler joint that gives you easy accessibility to the boot gasket. You'll find that no other system has all the features of the Circle-Master.

7th Grade Wins

The 7th grade Slew Crew finished the season with flying colors this week with a victory over the Farwell Steers, 14-0. During the first series of downs which consisted of 10 plays the Jr. Slew Crew's running back Lorenzo Monreal scored the first touchdown with 2 minutes and 30 seconds left in the first quarter. Hector Flores scored the extra point with a sweep around end.

From this point til the 4th quarter, the defense went to work, stopping 2 drives inside the 15 yard line. Clifford James was credited with 1 fumble, and Danny DeLeon being credited with several tackles.

The 7th grade was not to score except for the quickness of one of its linemen, Bobby Pyle. In the 4th quarter when they were driving for the goal line, they were on the 5 yard and ready to score. Clifford James hands off to James Price who fumbles and Bobby Pyle recovers in the end zone which makes it a touchdown. But the extra point was no good. This was a fine effort by the Jr. Slew Crew in finishing up the season with a win. We hope this will lead them to many more victories in the future.

Census To Be Taken

Local representatives of the Bureau of the Census will conduct a survey of employment in this area during the week of November 14-19, 1977. Percy R. Millard, Director of the Bureau's Regional Office in Dallas, announced today.

The survey is conducted for the U.S. Department of Labor in a scientifically designed sample of approximately 70,000 households throughout the United States. Employment and unemployment statistics based on results of this survey are used to provide a continuing measure of the economic health of the Nation. For example, in September the survey indicated that of the 97.9 million men and women in the civilian labor force, 91.1 million were employed. The Nation's unemployment rate was 6.9 percent, down from 7.1 percent in August and substantially below the recession peak of 8.9 percent reached in the second quarter of 1975.

Information supplied by individuals participating in the survey is kept strictly confidential by law and the results are used only to compile statistical totals.

United Way Campaign in deep trouble "Unless we have a resurgence, I don't think we'll make the goal," United Way Campaign chairman Jack Edwards said as the fund drive ran into trouble during its fourth week.

As the campaign entered its final seven days at last Thursday's report meeting, Edwards reported that only $9,484 had been pledged or donated-57 percent of the goal of $16,750.

As a result, Edwards said he was extending the campaign at least until November 17. The drive was originally scheduled to end today (Thursday, November 10).

Some of the businesses and people we were expecting a lot of help from are disappointing us this year.

The funeral of Henry L. Ivy, 73, of Lazbuddie, brother of Hopper Ivy of Dimmitt, was conducted Monday afternoon in the First United Methodist Church in Bovina with Rev. James Putman officiating.

Burial was in the Bailey County Memorial Park in Muleshoe.

Born in Blue Ridge, he moved to Farmer County in 1925 and married Grace Patterson in 1948 at Lompasa. A retired farmer, he was a World War II Veteran.

He is survived by his wife, Grace, two sisters, Onita Wagoner of Muleshoe and Juanita Garrett of Las Cruces, New Mexico, and five brothers including Olan, Shanks and D. B. of Lasbuddie and Tony of Vinita, Oklahoma.

Funeral services for Edward J. Simons, 69, were held recently at Burk Burnett. He was the father of Patricia Welch of Dimmitt. One of his sisters, Pauline Dillard of Walsh, Colorado, is a former resident of Dimmitt.

Mr. Simons, who lived in Burk Burnett since 1930, died in a Wichita Falls Hospital. The funeral mass was conducted by Rev. S.J. Blank, pastor at St. Jude Catholic Church in Burk Burnett. A farmer, Mr. Simons was born at Scotland, Texas.

His survivors include his wife, two daughters, six sisters and three brothers.

Funeral rites for John E. Conyers of Hereford, father of Bill Conyers of Dimmitt, will be conducted today (Thursday November 10) at 3:30 p.m. in the Smith and Co. Funeral Chapel at Hereford. Mr. Conyers died Tuesday afternoon at his home in Hereford at the age of 69.

He was a native of Burnille, Oklahoma, and a retired farmer who had been a Hereford resident 27 years. He was married in 1942 at Ardmore, Oklahoma.

Survivors include his wife, Myrtle, two sons, Bill of Dimmitt and Fred of Jacksboro, two sisters, three brothers and one grandson.

Funeral services for Mrs. Eva Dement, 82, mother of Mrs. Robert Dobbins of Dimmitt, were conducted Monday afternoon in the Avenue Baptist Church at Hereford, by the Rev. Bill Fraizer, pastor, and Rev. Johnny Timms, pastor, of the Friona Baptist Church.

Mrs. Dobbins is survived by two other daughters, Sue Harper of Dumas and Opal Wedel of Amarillo, a son, John D. Warren of Kansas City, Kansas, 10 grandchildren and one great granddaughter.

Mrs. Francis Upfold, a Dimmitt teacher, had surgery last week at High Plains Baptist Hospital in Amarillo, and Lindon Hallis, also a teacher, went to Temple for a physical checkup.

Mrs. David Keith attended the funeral of her father near Wichita Falls. He had a heart attack.

Alma and Glover Frazier were Sunday dinner guests of her son, Bo and Wanda Owens in Amarillo. They visited with her sisters, Mae and Lon Coffee and Velma Hicks in the afternoon.

James and Mitzi Dewart and baby, James Ray, moved here recently from Pampa. They will attend church at the Methodist Church here.

Davis will be sworn in Friday November 11, at 10:30 a.m. in the district courtroom.

There will be an electronic hearing test given at the senior citizens center on Wednesday, November 16, from 10:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. Factory trained hearing aid specialists will be at Southeast Third and Lee Street to perform the tests. The hearing test will be given free of charge. Everyone should have a hearing test at least once a year.

Goodpasture, Inc., announced last week that it is curtailing operations in a portion of its new plant here and laying off 12 of its employees in a belt tightening move.

Owen K. "Pete" Stewart, plant manager, issued this statement: Goodpasture Inc., has curtailed anhydrous ammonia production as of November 9 by shutting down one ammonia unit. Production has become unprofitable, due primarily to the steadily increasing cost of the natural gas feed stock, and electrical power and a depressed market.
