VOLUME 8 10 CENTS EARTH, LAMB COUNTY, TEXAS, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 23, 1961 8 PAGES NUMBER 16

Today is Thanksgiving and across this great nation, people will doubtless pause in Prayer and Thanksgiving for the many blessings that God has bestowed upon this bountiful nation, as families gather together to enjoy this family day of Thankfulness.

This Thanksgiving, doubtless the conversation will be along different lines to that of our pilgrim forefathers on that first Thanksgiving day so many years ago. Today folks can talk about Fall-Out-Shelters, Nuclear and Hydrogen Bombs and the way Russia is eating away at Democracy, trying to destroy our religion and our way of life by seeking to embed within us the fact that Communism is much better than our way of life.

Feeling that most Americans are complacent they have gone to the trouble recently to give us a new definition of Communism.

"Communism they say, is a classless social system with one form of public ownership of the means of production and full social equality of all members of society. Under it the all-round development of people will be accompanied by the growth of the productive forces through continuous progress in science and technology. All sources of public wealth will gush forth abundantly, and the great principle 'from each according to his ability, to each according to his needs' will be implemented.

"Communism is a highly organized society of free, socially conscious working people in which public self-government will be established, in which labor for the good of society will become the prime vital requirement of every one, a necessity recognized by one and all, and the ability of each person will be employed to the greatest benefit of all the people."

They called it a new definition. Actually, it is nothing but the same old, tired promises of a system that has never worked, is not now working anywhere it is being used and can never work for the simple reason man was created to be free. To make his way according to his ability and ambitions.

We carefree Americans can't really realize the full impact of living under a Communistic Rule for we are to busy enjoying American luxuries to see what is going on or give it to much thought.

It's pretty tough here, we say, trying to make a living, I certainly will agree with that, but what a living!

We hop out of bed, turn off our electric blanket, put our feet down on carpeted floors. As we arise we are not uncomfortable. Our heating system is never to uncomfortable day or night. But what about Russia? Do you think they have the luxuries we have? Possibly a few may be living it up, but it is an uncommon thing. Women can be seen laying brick, digging ditches or doing the heaviest kind of work. We American women would doubtless take a dim view of a muscular job of that sort. We still like to be feminine and do jobs requiring lesser muscular exertations, and with more prestige and femininity than brick-laying.

So on this Thanksgiving Day 1961, with our world in fear and turmoil it would be wise for each of us to count the many, many blessings that is ours to enjoy. Our precious freedom, our right to worship, our freedom of speech, and our freedom to fail if we so desire.

With a second look at the average American today, we are prone to feel that only on our knees in Prayer to God will we find the answers to what Americans need most. A REVOLUTIONARY movement toward obeying the first of the Ten Commandments, "Thou Shalt Love Thy Lord Thy God With All Thy Heart, With All Thy Soul And With All Thy Mind."

And remember: Who, but Americans, can afford chairs that vibrate and cars that don't?

Thanksgiving - A Result of Free Enterprise

By C.L. KAY
Vice President for Public Services
Lubbock Christian College

The first Thanksgiving Proclamation was made by Governor Bradford in 1623, three years after the pilgrims settled at Plymouth. Students of history will recall that it followed the acceptance of "free enterprise" as a way of life.

From 1620, to 1623, the pilgrim fathers lived under the Communal system. The families received their goods from the common storehouse. The people gave according to their ability and received according to their needs. The goods in the storehouse dwindled, and the colonists faced starvation. This situation, according to Governor Bradford: "Was found to breed much confusion and discontent and retard much employment that would have been to their benefit and comfort. . . . The strong men of parts, said Governor Bradford, had more in division of victuals and clothes than he that was weak and not able to do a quarter the others could; this was thought unjust."

For three years the pilgrims watched their settlement wither under Communism. What had happened in Plymouth Colony also happened in Jamestown a few years earlier.

Thus was instituted the system of "free enterprise"; men were free to own their own property; "they were given the privilege of planting and harvesting as they pleased." Did it change things at Plymouth Colony? The housewife came out of the kitchen; the children worked in the field, and within SIX MONTHS, THE COLONISTS HAD A SURPLUS OF FOOD. This surplus of food led to the first Thanksgiving. A Thanksgiving Proclamation was made by Governor Bradford. It reads as follows:

"To all ye Pilgrims: "Inasmuch as the great Father has given us this year an abundant harvest of Indian corn, wheat, peas, beans, squashes, and garden vegetables, and has made the forests to bound with game and the sea with fish and clams, and inasmuch as he has protected us from the ravages of the savages, has spared us from pestilence and disease, has granted us freedom to worship God according to the dictates of our own conscience; now I, your magistrate, do proclaim that all ye Pilgrims, with your wives and ye little ones, to gather at ye meeting house, on ye hill, between the hours of 9 and 12 in the day time, on Thursday, November ye 29th, of the year of our Lord one thousand six hundred and twenty-three, and the third year since ye Pilgrims landed on ye Pilgrim Rock, there to listen to ye pastor and render thanksgiving to ye Almighty God for all his blessings. WILLIAM BRADFORD, Ye Governor of Ye Colony."

Our system of private enterprise has been the key behind the growth of American industry. It is no "pie-in-the-sky". It is hard work, sweat, and tears. Because of our private enterprise system, we are blessed with an abundance of material and spiritual wealth. We are privileged to own 300,000 public schools, 1,800 colleges and universities, 250,000 places to worship, 7,000 public hospitals, 12,500 newspapers and magazines, 64 major museums of art, science, and industry, over 3,000 public libraries, 50 percent of the world's students in school have 50 percent of the world's wealth, drive 75 percent of the world's automobiles, and 50 per cent of the American home dwellers own their own homes.

I do not apologize for our abundance, but I am thankful for it. I do not think that we ought to brag about it, but I do think we ought to understand its source.

Perhaps it can best be summed up in the phrase inscribed on our coins: "In God We Trust". It is this belief in the power and presence of God that guided the Pilgrim Fathers, the early American statesmen in their time of crises, suffering, and day by day responsibilities. They looked to God as the giver of every good and perfect gift. Should we do less in 1961?

Thanksgiving Transition

The very first Thanksgiving Day was celebrated in Plymouth Colony for quite a simple reason. Colonists and friendly Indians shared that first feast in gratitude for a bountiful harvest after a winter of great hardship.

Now, three centuries and forty years later, we are thankful for the growth of our Nation. We are thankful for its great strength which stands as a fortress of protection for free people in a world filled with tyranny and oppression.

Let us, as good Americans, express these thanks and rededicate ourselves to preserve and maintain this spirit of freedom.

Book Review —

A Review of Kazantzakis' "The Last Temptation of Christ"

By Tommie Osborne

More than a few people have written a biography of Christ but they all seem to be on one of three levels: that of philosophical theology, filled with more than the man in the street either appreciates or needs; that of the sugary-sweet being too far from human feelings for us to easily relate our lives to; the familiar, chatty works of the popular churchman which are combinations of the two aforementioned types with a little flesh spattered on the framework here and there. Nikos Kazantzakis is a Greek writer whom I first met in his monumental sequel to the Odyssey, Ulysses, the adventures of Ulysses after he returned from the Trojan war. This work dealt with man's struggle to find his destiny; knowing that the author himself had struggled with this question of the greatest good, and chocolate cake was served. The birthday cake was iced in white and decorated with seventeen candles.

this writer rather suspected that would be autobiographical in nature, dealing with a struggle of the most intense intellectual, physical, and spiritual fervor in the history of humanity. It did. The book is written on the giant scope of the human heart and the human soul. Its narration and description are such that one lives the book rather than reads it. The vivid and glorious portrayal of the life of Christ still takes me back to the still, silent nights under the shimmering stars of Jerusalem where The Master wrestled with His Soul when I am alone. In this book the Son of Mary goes on a quest to find God and his destiny, his identity. Through desert monasteries to the Galilean fishermen to the Hill of the Skull the path leads. It is fraught with snatches of certainty that He is the Messiah and endless frustration when few believe. In his death throes, the last temptation comes as a dream of an ordinary life with children, wives and the normal joys of men. As the dream progresses He comes to the realization that the most important thing in life is finding and fulfilling one's individual destiny, not getting comfort and security; thus in a burst of funeral glory, the Lamb of God is sacrificed for the sins of men. This book is a parcel of quiet dynamite. I suggest this book as free reading for every thinking man, be he Christian, Buddhist or what not. There is no doubt that the experience will present challenging and enlightening concepts of Christ and of Man.

This article was published in the October 61 Book Review of the Prairie View A. M. College official paper, the "Panther" by Tommie Osborne, of Springlake.

Market Referendum Is Set For December 12

Referendum on the 1962 crop of upland cotton will be conducted between the hours of 8 a.m. and 6 p.m. on December 12, 1961, to determine whether marketing quotas will be in effect on such crop.

If more than two-thirds of the farmers voting over the nation approve marketing quotas, penalties will apply on farms having excess cotton acreage in 1962 and price support will be available to cooperators within the range of 65 to 75 per cent of parity, the exact level to be announced later.

If more than two-thirds of the farmers voting do not approve marketing quotas, there will be no penalties on 1962 crop cotton and price support to cooperators will be a rate equal to 50 percent of parity.

"We all know that the number of farmers voting in marketing quota referenda in recent years has been trending downward", L. D. Aten, County ASC office manager, said.

"But it is the responsibility of every farmer and his wife to go to the polls and vote on this very

Local Post Office Commended For Sale Of Savings Stamps

Postmaster Harold Miller said he had received a letter from William H. Neal, National Director of the U. S. Savings Bond Program, commending the local post office for the promotion and sale of Savings Stamps during the past year.

"In this 20th anniversary year of the United States Savings Bond Program," the letter read, "Americans in all walks of life, in communities throughout the country, own more than $44 billion in Series E and H Savings Bonds... an all-time record. You have had a real share in this success, and we in the Treasury are grateful for your efforts over the years to promote the sale of Savings Stamps and Bonds in behalf of your country."

"In these critical times, the sale of Savings Stamps and Bonds affords young and old alike an opportunity to help their country as they help themselves. To the extent that we can increase our sales, to the same extent to we strengthen the foundations of our national economy, upon which rests our efforts to preserve the peace and promote the general welfare of all people."

"During the school year your help is especially needed to sponsor and service the School Savings Programs in your area. In the country as a whole, some six million students are now attending schools where the Stamp Plan is in operation. We would like to see this number increased substantially during the coming year."

Postmaster Miller reminds the public that Savings Stamps are on sale at the post office at all times. Adults can buy them, too, he added - "an easy way to buy Savings Bonds on the installment plan."

Hamilton Park Recreation Center was quite a bit of activity daily. The games, City wide tournaments dance and drama, flower shows, art, needlework and handicraft are very helpful as well as cultural.

Tommy lasted two and one half hours in a citywide checker game as the Hamilton Park representative and was asked to represent the Park in the Chess Tournament but we had to leave. Both boys play chess well.

By special invitation we attended the first lecture and discussion on introducing the teaching of geometry in the Elementary Schools in San Francisco. These experiences and others enable us to return to our work refreshed

Halloween Observance

The children made their own false faces for the most part with the help of some of their parents. They paraded through Junior Hi and the Elementary School and back to our school after which we had a pie march. Pies were won by Willie James Thomas, Curtis Ray Norman, Daisy Ruth Washington, Tim Ray Matthews, Willie Dean Spraglin and a former student from the Olton school, Chris Lavon Clayton. Daisy Ruth and Tim Ray Matthews won their pies in scholastic contests. English and arithmetic, and Willie Dean Spraglin bit the apple. Refreshments of peanuts, candy and orange pops were served to all.

Science Display

Mr. Osborne's science class had a very good display on finding direction at sea and communication. The children constructed the Latitude gun and the sextant and the telegraphic sending and receiving Morse code instruments which worked by electricity.

Mrs. Osborne's Writing, English, Spelling, dictating, puzzle solving, reading, and drawing displays received parents favorable comments also. Robert Lee Washington, and Charles Ray Brown did clay molding of prehistoric animals free hand which also received admiration.
