Thanksgiving

... to give, with gratitude

Thanksgiving ... in the word lives the essence of the day. We give thanks ... for blessings large and small, bestowed on one and all. And because we are thankful, we gladly give of our energy and our efforts, our aims and ambitions, on behalf of all, that everyone may be blessed, and be thankful. On this Thanksgiving Day, we look back across the years and forward to the future with thanks for the plenitude that we have been privileged to enjoy, and with the steadfast resolve that in the years ahead we will do our part to bring forth more achievements, more good things for all. To our many friends, best wishes for a Happy Thanksgiving.

"Barking up a tree" is not always an exercise in futility. The wood conversion industries find it profitable to take a big bite of the tree bark by producing 20 million tons of bark every year in the United States.

And if you think bark is only used for canoe shells, you're in for a surprise. Approximately 10 million tons of bark are used annually for fuel; 5 million tons go for mulch and other commercial purposes, and nearly 5 million tons are treated as waste.

The demand for bark is growing today because it is an aid in reducing air pollution. Also, bark is a soil conditioner and mulch for nurseries and homeowners. Not only does it serve as a protective and soil-nutritive cover, but as an exciting landscape scheme.

Gardeners like the look of bark as a handsome accent around flower beds, shrubs, and trees. It also inhibits weed growth and saves on yard maintenance. It prevents packing of clay soils and reduces evaporation of water so that less hoeing and watering are required.

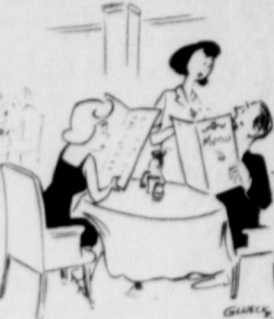

Bark mulch saves money as well as time since it lasts up to six years after the first application. Only a minimal amount of new material need be added annually to retain the proper depth.

Aside from being an excellent landscape material, bark is used by the building material industry in making hard-board and insulation board. Oil well drillers have found that a bark-and-mud mixture prolongs drill life. Highway departments and airports are experimenting with bark as an effective surface de-icer.

Because of the growing popularity of bark, a national association of bark producers has been formed. Comprised of processors, suppliers, and marketers, the association will coordinate activities and information for the industry.

NOSIN... With Polly

Thanksgiving is a special day across this great nation. It is a day for remembering all the things we hold dear.

It might be well, nationwide or worldwide, for each of us to use the day primarily for self analysis to see wherein our true values lie. It might be a Soul-shattering experience to realize what the focal point of our life is, what rates number one with us.

It could very well be making money. The Bible says, the LOVE of money is the root of all evil. It could be our children or it could be innumerable things--however, if it isn't focused on God our lives are out of focus.

As a photographer takes time to focus his camera on the object he intends photographing, so should we take time out during busy days, to survey our own lives, to observe our own interest, for where our interest is, our heart will be also.

All of us have seen photos that were not in good focus, that looked blurred, cloudy and are hardly recognizable. That is the way our lives become if the focus is not on the Heavenly Father. Our goal in life is blurred, the pathway is not legible and no one can recognize us as Christians, we are out of harmony with God.

Friday, Ruth Sorum is slated to have surgery. The doctor has told her all the things that can happen. There is a possibility she may just not awaken after being put to sleep. Ruth and Ted have talked out these facts, and Ruth has chosen to undergo surgery. The odds are many, but she has completely placed her life in God's hands.

She lives moment by moment with her eyes focused on God, willing that His plans for her will be fulfilled whatever they be. Though her pain is so severe at times, her focus is undimmed for God is the center of her life.

I'm not at all sure who is the sick one and who is well when

I think of Ruth, then observe myself sometimes fretting about trivial things instead of putting them all in the hands of God.

This Thanksgiving day, I pray that you and I will seek a closer walk with God, and that Thanksgiving '72 will have real true meaning for each of us.

School Dismisses Today

Superintendent William L. Mann announced that Springlake-Earth School will dismiss (today) Wednesday, November 22 at 3 p.m. for the Thanksgiving Holidays.

Classes will resume Monday, November 27.

CORRECTION

Following is a correction of the last paragraph in the November 16 paper on the School Board meeting.

P. A. Washington moved that, in view of possible legal action against the Board, Supt. Mann and President Kelley be authorized to secure a competent lawyer, if needed, to defend the Board's action relating to the special meeting. Jimmy Criff seconded the motion. Ray Joe Riley moved to amend by authorizing a committee of the whole, composed of board members, to function as needed, in making decisions, subject to the President Kelley, Dave seconded. The amendment and the motion as amended both carried.

Re-elected President Of PCG

Cotton Growers Association for its sixteenth anniversary in Lubbock, Nov. 22. Over 500 cotton and business members...

praise for the effectiveness of PCG as Washington spokesman for cotton producers on the plains. He said the information and guidance supplied by PCG was a great help where cotton legislation was concerned.

Both Riley and Johnson in their reports mentioned technological developments in the textile industry which offer possibilities for greater utilization of the kinds of cotton widely grown on the Plains.

And Riley suggested that "Participation by producers, or 'vertical integration,' in the textile processing of our own fiber may prove one of the solutions to our cotton price problems on the Plains." He pointed to the price benefits that have accrued to feed grain producers from the growth of the High Plains cattle feeding industry, and said "If we can develop and invest in an economically feasible textile industry on the Plains that will use 20 percent, 10 percent or even 5 percent of our production, we will have done a lot to relieve some of the supply pressure on our prices."

"I think this may be a definite possibility in the not-too-distant future," he stated.

Local Students Make All Region Choir

Five Springlake-Earth High School students were selected to participate in All Region Choir, Saturday when try outs were held in Lubbock.

The students making the All Region Choir are Steve Hay, Becky Smith, Colita Biles, Joe Herrera, and Eright Johnson.

The students have been under the capable direction of Wayne Anderson for the past two years. Anderson reports that Eright Johnson scored in the top four of his section making him eligible to try out for All State Choir in January.

The students competed against 4-A schools including Lubbock, Plainview and Denver City as well as schools in their own district.

Light Snow Falls

Saturday morning area residents woke up to find a light snow covering the ground. By noon the snow had melted.

Again, on Monday, snow mixed with rain fell. Snow fell in large flakes for about three hours, but melted almost as quickly as it reached the ground. However, Monday evening snow covered the ground and remained on the ground Tuesday. Some snow melted but quite a lot remained on the ground.

The accumulated moisture of snow and rain measured about an inch. The wet weather has stopped the grain and cotton harvest.

Area farmers are all wanting sunshine so the remainder of the feed crops can be gathered and the cotton harvest can get into full swing.

Mr. and Mrs. S.N. Towwater of Oklahoma City visited in the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Kelley Sunday and Monday. Mrs. Towwater is the sister of Mrs. Kelley.

Young Farmers To Present Wildlife Program

The Springlake-Earth Young Farmers will meet Tuesday, November 28, in the Vocational Agricultural building at S-E High School at 8 p.m.

Robert Gossett will present the program, "Insuring Wildlife Habitat in the Panhandle."

All interested farmers and ranchers are invited to attend the meeting. Refreshments will be served.

Thanksgiving Is....

THE TIME TO-- Broaden your thinking to include, and love your neighbors as yourself.

THE TIME TO-- Be Thankful for everything God has given us, for everything belongs to Him.

THE TIME TO-- Remember that we only pass this way once and what we do this day and everyday counts.

So let's all pray today, "BELIEVING" and make this THANKSGIVING DAY, 1972, a day to remember!

The strength of a great nation is in its people. People who are proud, but not boastful, who know humility, but not weakness, who are industrious, but also generous, are the foundation of a land whose freedom is the only light that shines hope for many less fortunate people.

In the foreground of a prosperous land, our symbol of pride, humility, and generosity is a pair of hands clasped in a prayer of thanksgiving.

Our warmest wishes
 To you, our many friends and customers... for a grateful joyous Thanksgiving...

7,000 Texans Has Special Personal Identifications

AUSTIN--Colonel Wilson E. Speir, director of the Texas Department of Public Safety, reported today that almost 7,000 Texans have obtained special personal identification cards since the DPS began issuing them September 1, 1972.

The cards, which were authorized by the 62nd Texas Legislature, are laminated and contain a color photograph of the holder. They are the same size as a Texas drivers license. Information appearing on the cards includes the holder's date of birth, height, sex and eye color. Each card has a special identification number issued by DPS.

These cards are especially valuable to those persons who do not hold a Texas drivers license, but who need some sort of official card to help establish their identity. Applicants have included the elderly, persons too young to obtain drivers licenses, and blind and handicapped persons. All Texans are eligible, however," Speir said.

In order to obtain a personal identification card, the applicant must appear at a DPS drivers license field office, execute a special application form, present a birth certificate or other documentary evidence of identity and date of birth, be fingerprinted and pay a statutory fee of $5.00.

The applicants' photograph will be taken and he or she will be issued a temporary receipt. The regular, laminated card will be processed and mailed from DPS Headquarters in Austin.

Speir said identification cards are dated to expire four years from the applicant's next birth-date.

Can you recommend a durable, washable wallpaper for kitchen use?

There are three categories of washable wallpapers available: plastic coated wallpaper, latex-impregnated vinyl and polyvinyl chloride. Polyvinyl chloride is considered most durable for heavy-duty areas as it is a woven cloth laminated with vinyl and the thicker the resin-bonded surface, the more durable the wallpaper.

GSPA Asks USDA To Continue Present Set Aside

The Grain Sorghum Producers Association has appealed to Secretary Butz to retain the 1972 level of set-aside. Fear that the increased grain sales to Russia and other buyers would cause the USDA to reduce too many 1973 set-aside acres, thus again resulting in grain surplus and low market prices, is the reason for the GSPA concern.

In a letter to Secretary Butz, GSPA Executive Director Elbert Harp says, "the tendency may be to reduce the set-aside program. However, we urge you to consider all the facts before making such a decision. We oppose such a cut-back because it would create and, by so doing, an extreme hardship on farmers."

Harp justified his adding, "recent production studies have American farmers for a price decline, barely breaking prices at the present

"We strongly oppose not to allow a repeat of 1967 and 1971 grain Harp concluded, year, by proclamation president, the fourth day in November is set as a national Day of giving.

Thanksgiving

There may be some who are so enamored in the problems of life that they can't reason to be thankful. I suggest that we have two voices from our past.

Heritage
The voice from the past, J. Edgar Hoover: Thanksgiving Day is a day of thanksgiving and it is right that we set aside a special day to count our blessings and good fortune. In so many ways we are continually blessed as we live in a land where people can still dream, hope, and work for their minds and hearts.

Our nation does possess a heritage which is unique in the history of man. But today we have lost our religious and moral principles.

As Americans, enjoying the blessings of liberty and abundance, we have special reason to take this to heart.

ourselves, our faith in our country, and our faith in God."

Pilgrim Speaks
Now let's listen to the voice of William Bradford, governor of the Pilgrim colony, who issued the first Thanksgiving proclamation. As Bradford remembered the stormy voyage across the Atlantic, when the Mayflower had 50-foot waves breaking over her, as he remembered the first winter, when many died, as he remembered, too, the first Thanksgiving, when the grateful Pilgrims thanked God for the abundant harvest resulting from their first year's labor, he said:

"As one small candle may light a thousand, so the light here kindled hath shone unto many; yea, in some sort, to our whole nation. . . . We have noted these things so that you might see their worth and not negligently lose what your fathers have obtained with so much hardship."

In the Book which the Pilgrims brought to this land is this word: "O that men would praise the Lord for His goodness and for His wonderful works to the children of men."

As Americans, enjoying the blessings of liberty and abundance, we have special reason to take this to heart.

Feeding Molded Feed Is Playing "Russian Roulette"

Have you ever heard of "Mycotoxicosis Russian Roulette"? You may not have, but chances are you're playing that deadly game if you feed molded feeds to your pigs.

According to Dr. Gene Cope, extension veterinarian, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Amarillo, Mycotoxicosis is a two-dollar word which means "poisoning of the host following entrance into the body of one or more toxicants produced by a mold." While the condition has been recognized for many years, serious research was not initiated until the last decade.

The problem is complex, says Dr. Cope, because the production of toxin is influenced by many factors:

- 1) The strain of fungus; not all fungus produces toxin.
- 2) The temperature at which it grows; the best environment for toxin production seems to be a period of moderately warm weather followed by a period of cool weather and a fairly high moisture content.
- 3) The length of time it grows.
- 4) Other bacterial growth associated with it.
- 5) The species of animal to which it is fed; this may be even more specific, with toxare of particular interest to them.

"Learning to live a life, a chance to grow and develop, that's what 4-H is all about," contends Stormer.

Through this new expansion effort, 4-H should indeed continue to progress as one of the state's and nation's foremost youth organizations.

ity varying with sex and age. RESULTS OF MOLDED FEED POISONING

Research indicates that animals which eat feeds contaminated by mycotoxins suffer from a variety of debilitating and lethal conditions such as hemorrhaging, anemia, cancer, poor growth rate, poor feed conversion and others.

Some molds produce a toxin which elicits similar responses in sows as the hormone estrogen, points out Dr. Cope. In sows this response to the toxin may be one of swollen mammary glands and prolapse of reproductive organs.

"Apparently, mycotoxins affect the reproductive system in varied ways, from completely stopping milk production, marked decrease in the vitality of new born pigs, numerous stillbirths and lowered ovulation rates to normal pregnancy and lactation.

Check Your Antifreeze

At this time of the year most of us start thinking about our car's cooling system. Although there are some air cooled cars on the market, most are cooled by water.

While water is an effective agent for cooling the engine of these cars, and certainly it is cheap enough, it has several disadvantages as a coolant. Water contributes to rusting and corrosion of the metal parts with which it comes in contact. The freezing temperature of water is relatively high, 32°, and it boils at comparatively low temperatures, 212°.

Because water freezes so easily, we add an antifreeze solution to the water. This solution should do three things. It should prevent ice from forming in the cooling system during freezing weather. It should raise the boiling point of the coolant in your engine and it should help reduce rusting and corrosion in the cooling system.

There are two main types of antifreeze products. Methyl alcohol is generally composed of 90% or more methyl alcohol. The balance of the solution is water, dye and, normally, corrosion inhibitors. If you mix one-half methyl alcohol and one-half water your coolant has a freezing point of 51° below zero but the boiling point of the radiator fluid is lowered from 212° to 179°. It is apparent that a mixture such as this will boil away rapidly in the cooling systems of most modern automobiles.

Ethylene glycol is composed of about 93% ethylene glycol, 4% water, 3% rust and corrosion inhibitors and dye. In addition, some brands have anti-leak material. If your radiator contains one-half ethylene glycol and one-half water, your coolant has a freezing point of 34° below zero but the boiling point is raised to about 265°. Since this boiling point is high enough to prevent ethylene glycol from boiling away at usual engine operating temperatures, such a solution should last for thousands of miles of driving.

How can you tell which is the best quality of antifreeze? The best way is by reading the label on the container. The label will show the number of quarts of antifreeze coolant needed in your car's cooling system to prevent freezing at different temperatures. If a solution of one-half ethylene glycol and one-half water does not provide protection against freezing down to 34° below zero, the product probably is below standard.

If for some reason you need greater protection against freezing, you simply add a larger percentage of ethylene glycol antifreeze. For example, a solution of 70% ethylene glycol and 30% water protects from freezing to 85° below zero and also raises the boiling point of the cooling system to about 275°.

Of course, before putting in a new supply of antifreeze you should prepare your car's cooling system by draining and cleaning it thoroughly. Also check all hoses for leaks. To be sure you do this job prop-ly, refer to the car owner's manual. If you use a cleaning solution, be sure to follow label directions exactly and thoroughly flush your cooling system following cleaning. To be sure that you have not lost your protection, you should check your coolant solution from time to time throughout the winter.

"The future is that time when you'll wish you'd done what you aren't doing now."

Thanksgiving Inventory...

Thanksgiving is just what its name says it is--or is it?

A home management authority viewed resources in Texas homes and asked families to share her findings by taking a long hard look at their own homes--a "Thanksgiving inventory."

Lynn Bourland, home management specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University, took issue with today's "gloom-makers" and directed more attention to five resources.

"Thanksgiving is a time when families pause a few hours in their busy lives to offer thanks for their many blessings.

"As you offer thanks this year, consider all the resources you have been granted--human resources, material possessions, space, time and natural resources."

Human Resources -- "The greatest resource your family has is each family member and his or her potential.

"Recall the many times each family member has given of himself to help the family reach its goals. What have the children done for the family that saved others time, energy and money? Likewise, how have the parents offered their time, energy and talents to enable the children to have and do things that might have been impossible otherwise?"

"Your family may recall other family members and friends who offered their human resources--motivation, determination, joy, comfort, knowledge, or energy--to help your family make life in your home more satisfying."

Turning to material possessions, the specialist called for another inventory.

"Material possessions are the more obvious resources the family can see come and go as they're used.

"Everything the family owns, including money and all it can buy, are material resources. Make a list of all the material resources your family has received and used this year--you'll be surprised at the number."

Another resource, space, gained attention as Miss Bourland continued her report.

"Space on earth is limited, but every family has space in their home, some space around it, and some types of community or public space available for their use.

"As your family offers thanks, express what it means to have a place to sleep, play, work and share with others."

Time is the fourth resource--one we all have in equal amounts--24 hours a day.

"Without time, other resources would be useless. Satisfaction your family receives from time depends on how you choose to use it. "Be grateful for time to enjoy your family, time to share with others, time to work to reach family goals, and time to make your contribution to the world," she said.

Thanksgiving takes a slightly different turn with the fifth item--natural resources.

"Today we've been alerted to the scarcity of our natural resources. We'll need to ask for wisdom in seeking ways to use them more wisely in order to conserve them and develop substitutes for them.

"With the scientific and technological efforts being exerted

Kin Of Local Resident Perish In Fire

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Huggins perished in a fire that completely destroyed their Plainview home early Saturday morning.

The fire was discovered about 3:30 a.m. Saturday by a man who lived several blocks from the Huggins, who had reportedly seen flames from the back portion of the Huggins house.

Death was attributed to asphyxiation, according to Justice of the Peace, Glenn Stone. "Although both were burned, they probably were dead from asphyxiation before the fire reached them," Judge Stone said.

Huggins was the brother of Mrs. Paul Wood of Earth.

Funeral services were held Monday, November 20 at 11 a.m. in the First Baptist Church in Plainview with Rev. Carlos McLeod officiating. Graveside rites were held Monday at 4 p.m. in the Quannah Cemetery with the Rev. W. E. Norman, pastor of Quannah First Baptist Church officiating.

Other survivors include a son John M. Huggins of Houston and two grandchildren.

In addition to Mrs. Wood, Huggins is survived by another sister, Mrs. Wilmett Tarter of Quannah.

Mrs. Huggins is survived by three brothers, Taft Green of Carthage, A. D. Green, Jr. of Childress and James Green of Big Spring; and a sister, Mrs. Buddy Mitchell of Quannah.

Students To Have Less Diseases Due To Immunization Laws

Texas school children and some of the common childhood diseases, hopefully, will soon no longer be frequent companions. Thanks to a mandatory school immunization law being implemented by state and local health authorities, Texas school children have the best protection against disease outbreaks they have ever had in the history of the state.

After the first full year since implementation of the new state law began, state health officials report immunization levels of the school population are up considerably over previous years. And early indications this year are that those immunization levels will continue on the upswing.

As of May 1, 1972, the great majority of all school children in Texas had begun or completed their required immunization program for five common childhood diseases: diphtheria, polio, measles, rubella and tetanus.

Smallpox, the standard immunization school children received for decades, is no longer a required immunization.

"We feel great progress has been made in the past year, particularly when you view the fact that out of 2.9 million school children in Texas some 2.3 million are on record in their schools as protected," said Dr. James E. Peavy, Texas Commissioner of Health. "Our forecast is for even better levels next May."

The mandatory immunization law passed by the Texas Legislature in April, 1971 required a monumental effort on the part of health authorities, school officials, and private medicine. Prior to enactment of the law, each individual school district set their own immunization requirements and some had no requirements. Quite often, in those areas where children needed the full range of protection, smallpox was the only immunization required. Under the new law, a child must be immunized against certain diseases to enroll in school.

School authorities worked closely with health officials to see that all parents were advised of the new requirements and that all school children began their immunization program as soon as possible. The result was that three-fourths of more of all Texas school children were protected against each disease by the end of that first year under the new law. With the 80 school districts that began late campaigns and continued enforcement of the mandatory law in all school districts, state health officials foresee a substantially better immunization level at the end of this school year.

"Our Immunization Program has spot-checked several school districts around the state, with most reporting a rise in their immunization level to include more than 90 percent of all school children in their district," said Dr. Peavy. "Less than one percent of the school children involved admitted no immunizations at all. We believe the outlook for achieving close to 100 percent protection among the school population is very bright."

Of the 1200 school districts in Texas, 400 are being revisited this year by state health authorities.

School officials are offered assistance, advice, immunization clinics, and assistance to their school nurse from state or local health authorities.

"If it were not for the work done by local health departments and school nurses, the program would not have been as successful as it has been to date," said Dr. Peavy. "Of course, a lot of the immunizations were obtained through private physicians, and their cooperation has also been phenomenal."

Taking all groups as a whole, probably among the best immunized at the present time in the state are Catholic school children, with better than a 90 percent immunization level.

As of May 1, 1972 some 74 percent of all Texas school children are immunized against polio; 79 percent against diphtheria; 79 percent against measles; 78 percent against rubella; and 79 percent against tetanus. Health officials believe the required two ages of polio vaccine required booster dose factors that caused the statistics to trail off in diseases, in many cases result, complete immunization against polio was reported by the end of the reporting period on May 1. "We feel the pre-school child, from birth to first of age, is where the disease in Texas," said Dr. Peavy. "By May 1, 1973, occurrence of these common childhood diseases in the pre-school population will be our biggest remaining problem."

State Health authorities already mounted a mass school immunization campaign. The Texas Immunization Program will plan to work closely with Department of Public Health in enforcing the required immunizations in kindergartens and day care centers, BIRDS OF A FEATHER...

THANKSGIVING, 1972

All of us can be proud of and thankful for our remarkable heritage, our many blessings, and our hopeful future.

With hindsight we can quibble about some of the actions of our forefathers, but we should be forever grateful that they fought for freedom and won, that they sought and achieved a government responsible to the public will, and that they developed a competitive economic system under which our people have grown and prospered.

George Washington's call for "humble thanks" in his first Presidential Thanksgiving Proclamation asked his countrymen to pray for forgiveness of "our national and other transgressions," for performance of their duties "properly and punctually," and for a "government of wise, just and constitutional law, discreetly and faithfully executed and obeyed."

The Father of our Country urged his people to pray for other nations "to bless them with good governments, peace, and concord; to promote the knowledge and practice of true religion and virtue, and the increase of science among them and us; and generally, to grant unto all mankind such a degree of temporal prosperity as He alone knows to be best."

Letters To The Editor

November 6, 1972

Dear Polly and Ross,

My papers are due. Keep them coming and send me a bill for my daughter at Big Spring, Mrs. Duke Baker and Mrs. Gene McClure, Tulare, Calif., and myself. I will try to get around there and give you some news before too long.

Yours,
Rufus Carter

Dear Editor:

If at all possible, please print the attached article. In compliance with a Federal Court Order, we of the Texas Extension Service are making a strong attempt to reach more people of all races, socio-economic levels, etc., and we feel that use of mass media will help us spread the word that our services are open to all.

Sincerely,
Lynn Bowerman
County Extension Agent

"If you like to learn new and better ways to do things, then try joining a home demonstration club," said Mrs. Lynn Bowerman, Extension county home demonstration agent in Littlefield.

The agent said that home demonstration clubs offer an opportunity for the homemaker to learn the latest information about home and family life.

Anyone may join a club. Any person interested in improving home and community life is eligible for membership, according to Mrs. Bowerman. "A home demonstration club is a group of homemakers who learn together," Mrs. Bowerman said. "Members help determine and develop ideas for programs."

Members take part in discussions, participate in club-sponsored community projects and even teach lessons at meetings. The club meets twice monthly. Elected officers conduct a short business session.

The agent pointed out that it's not necessary to join a club to learn about homemaking.

"You can participate in short courses, workshops, special meetings and tours sponsored by the Texas Agriculture Extension Service," she said.

A less formal group is the Extension home economics study group which meets fewer times annually. It often has a series of programs about a single subject matter area. An Extension home economist study group may either have elected officers to only a chairman who directs business that arises.

"There are no required dues for membership," Mrs. Bowerman explained. "Your major investment is your time to learn and share new information. Clubs have fund-raising pro-

New Law Will Lead To Flame Resistant Fabric For Children

A burned child is not a pretty sight, and protection for children against some fabric burns is on the way, says the Texas State Department of Health.

A new law has just become effective which eventually will lead to the use of flame resistant material in children's sleepwear and children's outer clothing through size 4.

At this time, children's sleepwear in sizes 0 to 6X must be resistant to flames or have a warning placed on it that it is flammable. At the end of next July this clothing must be flame resistant.

The labeling option in sleepwear gives manufacturers a year in which to begin using flame resistant fabric, but on July 29, 1973, all children's sleepwear through 6X must meet the standard or not be sold, says the State Health Department.

Compliance date for larger sizes of sleepwear and outer garments will be announced in the future, and manufacturers will again be given 12 months to comply following the announcement. Also covered will be mattresses and protective pads.

Incident after incident in Texas point up the need for flame resistant fabrics. When a person's clothing ignites, there's more than a good chance that the person will be burned—sometimes horribly, sometimes fatally, but always painfully. Burns in the United States are killing and crippling more people than polio did in its peak epidemic year in 1954. In 1954, about 50,000 persons contracted polio and 1,500 died of it. In contrast, according to National Safety Council figures, 6,700 persons died in fires and of burn injuries in 1970, and 250,000 suffered disabling injuries.

In clothing, says the State Health Department's Bedding and Product Safety Division, it is the quick igniting fabric which causes the greatest human losses. These soft, fabrics, usually highly-flammable, are put into children's clothing as well as nightgowns and robes worn by adults. All too often the frills which decorate fabrics burn rapidly, at the speed of ignition of ment itself. Experience has shown to protect our children—as adults—and the standards in the Texas Substances Law are through in solving the death problem in the
