Financial Facts

By Norton Dudley

Starting with July, 1929, all new bills printed were of a smaller size. They were approximately 2.61 inches by 6.14 inches and .0043 inches thick. This is our currency size today.

These new notes will stack 233 to one inch. One dollar bills stacked the height of the Washington monument would be worth $1,552,974.00. This would be fitting through expensive companion piece. George Washington's portrait is on the one dollar bill.

When paper currency becomes too worn for continued circulation, it is withdrawn and replaced. They are destroyed by incineration and must be reduced to ashes.

A one dollar bill can take about 18 months of vigorous circulation wear. There are over a billion of them in circulation.

Texas Starts All Out Effort Against Hog Cholera

It has been announced by Dr. James B. Henderson, Executive Director of the Texas Animal Health Commission, and Dr. E. S. Cox, Veterinarian in Charge, Animal Health Division of the United States Department of Agriculture, that Texas will enter Phase III of the National Four-Phase Hog Cholera Eradication Program August 1, 1969.

Standards for this phase of the eradication program call for the complete disposal of all infected herds, with State and Federal indemnity funds available to compensate hog producers whose herds must be destroyed because of the disease.

As of August 1, 1969, a total of forty-eight states and Puerto Rico, containing over ninety-eight per cent of the nation's hogs, will have reached the final phases of the campaign to wipe out hog cholera.

Here is how the new phase of the program will work in Texas:

When hog cholera is suspected, State or Federal regulatory workers quarantine the farm and make a count of all living hogs, by weight and class. If hog cholera is confirmed, final appraisal is made on the basis of this count.

All apparently healthy hogs of marketable weight may be salvaged by sending them direct to approved slaughtering plants under special permit. Such hogs must be inspected and appraised prior to shipment and inspected again prior to slaughter.

The remaining infected and exposed hogs not suitable for slaughter are destroyed and the owner reimbursed with State and Federal indemnities.

Appraisal of hogs will be made by State and/or Federal regulatory workers in the presence of the owner. Hogs will be appraised at their actual value for meat, feeding, or breeding purposes, with the following limits on indemnity payments: (1) In the case of grade animals, only females shall be eligible for appraisal based on breeding value and no such appraisal shall exceed three times the animal's meat or feeding value; and (2) maximum indemnity shall not exceed $80 per head for grade swine or $100 per head for registered purebred and inbred or hybrid swine.

Both Dr. Henderson and Dr. Cox urge immediate reporting of all illness which is suspicious of hog cholera. "This disease can occur in many forms," they point out. "So if a farmer has sick pigs, he should call this veterinarian at once to get a diagnosis. If the veterinarian suspects hog cholera, he will contact State or Federal livestock disease control officials."

"Remember," they said, "indemnity cannot be paid on hogs which have died before regulatory workers make their initial visit. So this is another reason for promptness in reporting outbreaks."

No Permit Needed For Special Teal Hunt

Austin--Hunters will not need a special permit to participate in the nine-day September teal season which runs from September 13 through September 21.

All that will be needed is a Federal duck stamp, plus a valid Texas hunting license if you hunt outside your county of residence.

ALWAYS CHECK LABELS on cleansers and follow the directions strictly, to be completely safe. Many of these products have ingredients, which could prove harmful if carelessly used.

The teal season was closed last year while biologists evaluated the results of experimental teal hunts which took place the three previous years. Special permits were required for the experimental hunts to a survey could be made of the participants.

PARENTS AND CHILDREN CAN HAVE HAPPY RELATIONS

By Bertram S. Brown, M.D.
Deputy Director
National Institute of Mental Health

We hear so much these days about parents and children being on opposite sides of everything that we sometimes wonder if anything ever goes right between them.

Indeed it does!

Fortunately, most parents have good instincts and most children have a hardy capacity to grow and flourish. In general, if we hope the best for our children and can relax and raise them with some humor through the hardships of growing up, they will turn out to be quite mature and happy citizens.

The human being is a marvelous combination of strength and weakness.

He is loving and hateful, angry and warm, selfish and considerate, happy and troubled, eager, timid, and bold. He is careful and impulsive, foolish and wise.

To the degree that he does not suffer from lack of love and nurturing, maternal deprivation, neglect or smothering, parental conflict and neuroses, or sudden loss and separation, he is able to achieve stability.

We know that the young do not thrive under neglect, abuse, rejection (open or implied), inordinate demands, hate, overprotection or exploitation. Some elements of healthy rearing such as these can be learned and applied, to be sure.

But, as parents, we serve the child best as models, not as directors, of his unfolding years.

The scenes of well-meaning parenthood are already too cluttered with advice, counsel, shoulds and should nots. Some facts are, however, enlightening. Modern science can tell us, for example, about various signs of mental and emotional illnesses in children.

Most parents can usually handle the ups and downs of their growing charges. But, on occasion, if a situation is persistent and puzzling, they can and should turn, without fear, shame, or postponement, to a trained person for help.

In research on human growth and development, science has underscored the essentials, what a child needs to mature in a mentally healthy way. We know that he needs affection, a feeling of security, that he can depend on those around him. He needs a feeling of personal significance—an assurance that he is a "Somebody" and can amount to something. He needs a chance to learn, to live through his own growing pains.

Once having done so, he may, like his own parents, contribute to the healthy growth of his own children, in his own style.

"Mental and Emotional Illness in the Young Child," written by Doctor Brown, is a new, 12-page booklet available free from: Distribution Unit, National Institute of Mental Health, 5454 Wisconsin Avenue, Chevy Chase, Maryland 20015.

WTC of C Supports Change In Sales Tax Exemptions

The West Texas Chamber of Commerce supports the position that additional State taxes to be raised by the special session of the Texas Legislature should be in the form of elimination of some of the current sales tax exemptions or an increase in the current sales tax rates.

The WTCC State Affairs committee passed a resolution expressing this position in a special meeting, July 18. It was pointed out by the committee that Texas business currently pays 38% of the State sales taxes and 50.5% of all State taxes. This is a higher percentage than business pays in most of the other states in the nation, it was pointed out by chairman Reuben Senterfitt of San Saba.

WTCC president J. Fike Godfrey of Spur said that additional taxes on business would weaken the State's competitive industrial development position.

Business leaders from all sections of West Texas attended the State Affairs meeting and expressed concern over the increasing taxes placed upon business in Texas.

"Increasing taxes on business will tend to increase prices on services and consumer items to the buyer, thus contributing to increased inflation," Senterfitt said.

"Our five greatest competitors for industrial expansion are California, New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Illinois. In each of these States business pays a considerably less proportion of total taxes. We must not burden our potential industry with even greater taxes," Godfrey said.

WHEREAS, Texas business currently pays 50.5% of all State taxes; and

WHEREAS, additional taxes on business would weaken the State's competitive industrial development position;

NOW, THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED that the West Texas Chamber of Commerce supports the position that additional State taxes to be raised by the Special Session of the 61st State Legislature should be in the form of elimination of some of the current sales tax exemptions or in the form of raising the current sales tax rates; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that this resolution be sent to the Governor, Lieutenant Governor, Speaker of the House, members of the State Legislature and news media

Suds Brighten Brass Hardware

College Station. To remove dirt and tarnish from old brass hardware, unscrew it from the furniture and brush-scrub it with salt and vinegar (mixed in a ceramic dish). Then wash it with soap or detergent suds, rinse and wipe dry. The next step is to oil the screws and reattach brass to the furniture. This advice is from Linda Jacobson, Extension home management specialist.

Give us this day our daily bread.—(Matt. 6:11).

Wherever we live, to be successful we must make the most of our own abilities, talents and energy. Prosperity is more than money, investments, property, education, title position, personal power. It may include all these, but prosperity is the result of our creative productivity. In praying for prosperity, pray as Jesus prayed, "Our Father... give us this day our daily bread."

Pee Wee Season Closes

The Springlake-Earth Pee Wee Team met the Olton Pee Wee in a return game Monday, July 21 at the Pee Wee Ball Park in Olton.

Springlake-Earth played a close game but trailed by one point as the game closed, leaving the Olton team in the winners circle with a 9-8 victory.

Donnie Well aided by Carlton Gregory, led the pitching effort for the local boys.

Following the game, the Springlake-Earth players and their parents returned to the Springlake Park where they enjoyed a weiner roast and home made ice cream, as closing for the 1969 Pee Wee Season.

The coaches and players wish to thank everyone for their support and especially to the parents who took the time to allow their sons to participate in the Pee Wee Program.

Radiation And Color TV

College Station, -What is being done to prevent possible harm by x-ray emissions from color TV sets?

A new federal law, "Radiation Control for Health and Safety Act," indicates national concern and action. The Act, passed by Congress and signed as a law in October 1968, gives the secretary of Health and Educational Welfare authority to establish performance standards (on health and safety) for all radiation-emitting electronic equipment.

Mrs. Doris Myers, Extension home management specialist, says standards are being developed for color TV receivers, laser devices and microwave ovens by HEW radiological health experts.

A technical committee representing government, industry and labor will review the standards before they are implemented. Some months will pass before the full impact of the new law is felt, adds the specialist.

A competent TV serviceman checks the receiver on older sets for harmful rays. Some sets might not have adequate built-in shielding, or the voltage settings might have been increased above manufacturer's recommendation to improve picture brightness, thus increasing the radiation hazard.

North Continues To Dominate All Star Victories

The Northern All Stars, coached by P. D. Fletcher of Stratford, continued to dominate the Texas Women All Stars as the Saturday, July 19 game ended.

The North players won their 15th victory, 85-65, in the Duncanville Gym. The South has managed to win only one game during the 16 years of play.

North guards, Rita Payne of Stratton and Nancy Huffman from Sundown, held their opponents to four points in the third quarter of play while the North managed 11.

The fourth quarter closed the game, showing a 28 point tally for the North. Marsha Dawson was among the top scorers of the Northern team with 10 points.

Kathy Allen, Stratford forward, led in total points, scoring 32 points for her team. Marcia Shieldknight of Spearman was next in line with 14 points and Judy Townsend followed with 12.

There were 16 players selected for each team by the coaching association. The six starting players played 4 minutes and then returned to the bench so that other team members could get into the action. The other members were on the court for 3 minute intervals during first three 10 minute quarters. The last quarter allowed the coaches to play the girls at will.

Miss Dawson was a starting forward for the North team and played much of the fourth quarter.

Museum At Tech Gathering Facts On Fort Mc Kavett

The Museum at Texas Tech University has been doing the historical archaeology on State-owned portions of Fort McKavett, Menard County, through an interagency contract between the Texas Parks and Wildlife Dept. and Texas Tech University.

Under the supervision of Dr. Earl Green, director of the Museum, the project is to provide information through research, excavation and testing that will assist in the authentic restoration and interpretation of the fort buildings and structures.

Fort McKavett is one of five historic sites acquired under authority of the Historic Sites and Structures Act. The State of Texas provided an appropriation for its restoration.

Established in 1852, the fort played a vital role in frontier defense until it was abandoned in 1883.

Described as an impressively large establishment at the height of its development, the complex at one time included officers' quarters, barracks, kitchens, mess rooms, shops of carpenters, wheelwrights, saddlers and blacksmiths; commissary and storehouse, guardhouse, hospital, bakery and other buildings.

In 1850, the establishment was terminated due to the approaching Civil War and diminished Indian troubles. But in 1886 the fort was re-established under the command of Col. Randall S. Mackenzie.

After its official abandonment in 1883, shops, residences, a church and a school which had been erected were adapted by settlers to suit civilian needs.

With a colorful history, Fort McKavett is now abandoned ruins. The Texas Parks and Wildlife Department is formulating plans for the restoration of the three buildings now under its jurisdiction; the schoolhouse and two barracks.

Long-range plan of the Department is to interpret the historical significance of Fort McKavett by establishing a historic park for the people of Texas.

The Menard County Historical Survey Committee has been extremely active in promoting the development of Fort McKavett. Interpretive displays and a visitors' center will be opened for public use when the park is developed.

Dr. Green's work at the site terminates the middle of July.

Independent Colleges And Universities Organization Endorse Amendments 6 and 8

Waco--The Independent Colleges and Universities of Texas organization has endorsed two of the proposed constitutional amendments, Propositions Six and Eight, to be submitted to the voters of Texas on Aug. 5. Abner V. McCall of Waco, president of the association of the 40 private colleges and universities in Texas, announced the executive committee of the group unanimously voted approval of the two proposals at an Austin meeting.

McCall, president of Baylor University, said while the two student-loan proposals are primarily for the benefit of students in state colleges and universities, they are of great benefit to higher education in general in Texas.

Proposed Amendment Six would remove the interest limitations on all bonds authorized by the state constitution. At present, a maximum of four per cent interest may be paid on state's College Student Loan Bonds, which provide funds under the Hinson-Hazlewood College Student Loan Act. Experts say the interest limitation will make it difficult to sell the loan fund bonds in the future.

Amendment Eight authorizes the state's college and university system coordinating board to issue $200 million in college student loan bonds in addition to the previously authorized $85 million in bonds. It has been estimated that unless the additional bonds are voted, the student loan program might end by the summer of 1971. Supporters of the amendment say the additional bonds would keep it going to the summer of 1976.

Three Vehicles Involved In Minor Mishap

Doug Shelby sustained minor injuries in an automobile accident which occurred Sunday evening, July 20 at approximately 9:55 p. m. Shelby, traveling east on U. S. 70, apparently lost control of the 1969 model Ford he was driving.

The vehicle struck the rear of a 1955 Chevrolet pickup belonging to Johnny Enloe. The pickup was shoved into a 1961 Ford pickup which is owned by the City of Earth. Both pickups were parked in front of the Enloe residence.

Shelby was taken to the Medical Arts Hospital in Littlefield where he was treated for minor injuries.

Students Attending Music Camp

Leland, Karen and Darla Dear are presently enrolled in the 11th Annual Music Camp which is conducted each year by Lubbock Christian College. The session began Monday, July 21 and will continue through August 1.

They are receiving instruction in choral singing, band music, theory, sight singing, song direction and Bible. The camp is under the direction of B. Wayne Hinds, Head of the LCC Music department, who is being assisted by Charles Cox, LCC Choral director, Eddie Chance, LCHS band and choral director, Horace Coffman, music director of the Broadway Church of Christ and other area band and music directors. Myrna Dear, LCC Freshman, is serving as a counselor for the two week camp.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Williams of Bula, Mr. and Mrs. Billy Cooper of Morton and J. D. Swanner of Corpus Christi have been recent visitors in the Low-ell Walden home.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Starkey were his sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Durham of Plainview. They all spent Sunday in Clarendon.

Mr. and Mrs. Bud Matlock and family spent last weekend in Rudoski, New Mexico.

J. W. (Bill) Henderson, a 1951 Agricultural Education graduate of Texas Tech, will join the staff of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc. on August 1, according to Donald Johnson, PCG Executive Vice President.

Johnson said Henderson will serve the 25-county cotton producer organization as a field man, stepping up PCG's personal contact and services to the area's cotton farmers, ginners and other allied businessmen.

Henderson, now 42 years old, moved with his family to Leveland from Morton Valley, in Eastland County, at the age of 17 and has been a High Plains resident since that time.

He taught vocational agriculture at Leveland High School for a year and a half and later associated with a Lubbock farm supply store as part owner for 15 years. He was most recently manager of Lubbock Municipal Auditorium-Coliseum on the Tech campus, resigning that position to join PCG.

He stated that he had been happy in his work with the Auditorium-Coliseum, but had wanted for some time to "get back into something connected with my first love-agriculture." Johnson said in his announcement "I believe PCG is fortunate to secure the services of a man with Henderson's qualifications and background, and we expect him to make a significant contribution to the work of this organization on behalf of the High Plains cotton industry."

Henderson will be remembered by many on the Plains as one of Texas' most promising young boxers in the late 1940's. While attending Tech he captured state Golden Gloves championships in 1947 and 1949 and in 1948 was Texas Amateur Athletic Association champion. He had 145 amateur fights as a featherweight, winning 142.

In 1949 he turned professional as a lightweight and lost only 3 of 49 professional bouts, many of which were staged before Plains audiences. Henderson resides at 4612 30th Street, Lubbock, with his wife, Jackie; a daughter, 16, and twin sons, 14.

Donald Johnson, Executive Vice President of Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., Lubbock, told the House Committee on Agriculture and high officials of the U. S. Department of Agriculture in Amarillo July 20 that "The present cotton law contains the framework of a national program to maintain a solid and prosperous cotton economy for the future."

He also told the Committee that "massive, whole-farm land retirement programs such as those recently introduced to both houses of Congress will not alone do the job for cotton."

The House Committee was in Amarillo as part of an agricultural tour which took them July 18, 19 and 20 through much of the district of Congressman Bob Price, including Tutia, Hereford, Halfway, Flatview, Pampa, Memphis, Perryton, Dumas and Stratford.

Johnson explained that the constant presence and intensity of competition between cotton and substitute fibers made cotton's situation different from that of other farm commodities.

The philosophy behind general land retirement programs, proposed in the House by Paul Findley (R-Ill.) and in the Senate by Everett Dirksen (R-Ill.), is that when enough land has been taken out of production, supply-demand conditions for farm commodities will give farmers an opportunity to achieve parity of income from the marketplace. But Johnson's contention is that because of competition from synthetic fibers, if cotton prices rise beyond a certain point there will be a corresponding

Duck Outlook Bright

Austin--Reports from Canada by Ducks Unlimited indicate the possibility of a good duck season this year.

"It now appears that we are looking at the most successful breeding season since 1952," says D.U. "The performance of the early nesters has been nothing less than spectacular, and with secure water there is no reason why the later-nesting species and nesters won't do well."

The private conservation organization says although rainfall has been below average this year in the nesting areas, below average temperatures have held evaporation of pot-holes to a minimum.
