

Menard Affray Fatal To Pair; One Wounded

SAN ANGELO, Sept. 11 (AP)—L. D. Rallsback, 24, cafe cook, died in a hospital here this morning, the second death in a Main street shooting at Menard, 65 miles southeast of here, last night.
Ike Willingham, 52, cafe owner, died instantly with nine bullet wounds in his body.
Mrs. L. D. Rallsback, 35, former wife of Willingham, also was shot and was in a critical condition.
Rallsback had been shot one time with a .45 calibre pistol, the bullet entering his left chest, just below the heart, and passed through his body. He made a statement to authorities here before he went to the operating room.

City May Fix Special Costs Against TES

Probability that the city commission and officials of the Texas Electric Service company may discuss a street and alley rental charge for poles and lines this month was seen Wednesday in an exchange of letters.
C. S. Blomfield, district manager for the company, advised the city that he hoped to be able to arrange a parley with the commission at some future date.
The proposition of adopting an ordinance setting up a pole charge has been under consideration by the commission since a League of Texas Municipalities meeting here in the spring brought out such practices elsewhere.
In approaching the matter, the city called attention to the fact that the gas company now paid a five per cent gross receipts tax and the telephone unit a two per cent.
The matter is in no wise related to the electric company franchise which was granted by the city in 1910 to L. L. Stephens (predecessor to the TES) for a period of 35 years. Hence this franchise will not be up for consideration for another five years.

Tax Equalization Hearings Underway

Hearings will continue throughout Wednesday and through as much as Thursday as is necessary to clear the docket.
On the board this year are G. H. Hayward, Morris Patterson and Curtis Driver.

HOUSTON, Sept. 11 (AP)—Burton J. Stripling, 35-year-old painter, was shot to death today in the front yard of his home.
Half an hour later a 27-year-old man surrendered to police to whom he made a statement. Charges had not been filed at noon.

Younger Men Called First

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11 (AP)—Although congressional agreement was still in abeyance on conscription age limits, the war department has made plans, it was disclosed today, to register men from 21 through 30 years old as a separate group on event the broader 21-through-44 age bracket eventually receives approval.
The war department's decision was said to be in the interest of minimizing delay on the actual start of the compulsory military service program, once the Burke-Wadsworth legislation becomes law.
The age question continued the major problem today, as the joint senate-house conference committee sought to compose differences in the varying drafts of the bill voted by the two chambers.
House conferees were to give their answer to a compromise proposal by senate members for fixing the upper age limit at 39, instead of the year maximum previously approved by house vote.
The senate version of the measure called for registration of all men from 21 through 30.

Ashurst May Lose Place In Senate

Trails In Arizona Returns; Other Senators Win Renomination
By the Associated Press
Mounting returns from Tuesday's primary elections found Senator Ashurst (D-Ariz.), long a colorful capital figure, in an apparently losing fight today in his sixth bid for renomination, but the prospects were happier for three of his colleagues.

WINNER, LOSER—Renomination was assured for Senator Alvin H. Vandenberg (top) in Tuesday's primary in Michigan; while Senator Henry F. Ashurst (below) was trailing in results from Arizona's primary.

Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich.) was assured of renomination by an overwhelming lead. Senator Shipstead, Farmer-Laborite who joined republican ranks this summer, enjoyed a wide lead in Minnesota over a field of eight as the choice of his adopted party. And in Vermont Senator Austin received renomination unopposed.
Ashurst, whose opposition to the conscription bill was urged against him in the Arizona campaign, trailed his opponent Ernest W. McFarland by a vote of almost two-to-one. Ashurst has been senator since the state's admission to the union in 1912.
Louisiana returns meanwhile indicated that four members of the house of representatives had gone down to defeat, with three others facing the uncertainty of run-off primaries. Gov. Sam Jones, elected last winter by the anti-Long forces, had urged the defeat of all eight incumbents as supporters of the Long organization. One did not seek re-nomination.
Besides renominating Senator Austin, Vermont republicans picked Gov. George D. Aiken, frequent new deal critic, for the senate vacancy resulting from the death of Senator Gibson (R.). Aiken won the short term nomination decisively over Ralph E. Flanders.
In gubernatorial contests, two well known figures were riding high.
Gov. Harold Stassen, keynoter of the republican national convention, had a huge lead in Minnesota for renomination over two critics of his administration. Stassen's activity in behalf of the republican presidential nominee, Wendell L. Willkie, was stressed in his campaign.
Michigan's octogenarian Gov. Lauren D. Dickinson, who got national attention some months back when he condemned big city vice and the evils of liquor, was far out in front of six younger rivals.

Texas Deputy Is Abducted

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 11. Fear for the safety of a kidnaped Texas deputy sheriff was expressed by the Oklahoma highway patrol today when his abduction was reported sighted in a car near Kiowa, Pittsburg county, this morning. There was no sign of a third person in the automobile, the dispatcher said.
The dispatcher said the fugitives were reported heading north toward McAlester.
The deputy, George Robertson, 54, was abducted by the men as he attempted to arrest them at a Paris, Texas, filling station yesterday.
The case recalled the abduction of two Paris officers by Arthur Gooch, first man executed under the Lindbergh kidnaping law, who was hanged at McAlester penitentiary June 19, 1936.
Three men, one identifying himself as a travel bureau driver from Fort Worth, were detained at McAlester for questioning. One of the two passengers said his home was in Prescott, Iowa, and the other said he lived in Weston, W. Va.
Harold Anderson, agent in charge of the FBI field office here, said a number of agents had been assigned to the case.
Texas state police had heard no word from Robertson at an early hour today, the patrol reported.
The kidnap car was sighted at Grant, Choctaw county late yesterday afternoon. Kiowa is 80 miles north of Grant.

Sudden Illness Is Fatal To Mrs. Boyle

Funeral Services For Big Spring Woman Set Thursday
Death came with stunning swiftness to one of Big Spring's popular homes Tuesday night, as Mrs. Frances Melton Boyle, wife of Dr. Frank Boyle and member of a well known family here, succumbed to a sudden illness.
Mrs. Boyle, 34, died in a local hospital, within a few hours after she had been stricken. She had attended a family dinner at the home of her mother, Mrs. C. S. Holmes, Tuesday noon and apparently was in normal health. During the afternoon she felt ill, drove to town to her husband's office to consult him. He accompanied her home, called another physician and decision was made to take her to the hospital for observation. Her condition grew worse rapidly, and efforts to relieve her were in vain. Physicians said death apparently was due to a heart involvement induced by the acute illness.
Word of Mrs. Boyle's passing brought a cloud of sadness over the city, where she had resided for many years. Born in West Virginia February 3, 1906, Mrs. Boyle had lived here since early childhood. She was graduated from the Big Spring high school and, following her graduation from Hardin-Simmons university, returned here as a member of the school faculty. She was an active worker in the First Baptist church, and held in high esteem as a faithful Christian devotee.
Her husband, county health officer, is actively identified in church and civic affairs.
The funeral services will be held at the First Baptist church at 4 p. m. Thursday, with the pastor, Rev. C. E. Lancaster, and Rev. Elmer Dunham, pastor of the Fourth Street Baptist church, officiating. Burial will be in the new city cemetery, under direction of the Eberley funeral home.
Besides the husband and mother, Mrs. Boyle leaves an infant son, eight-months-old Frank Gordon Boyle, whom the couple adopted two months ago; two brothers, U. B. Melton of El Paso and Stanley Melton of Big Spring.

Proposed Air Route Checked By Braniff

Three representatives of the Braniff Airways, applicant for a north-south airline through West Texas, were here Tuesday on a survey in support of the company's bid for the service.
W. R. Beattie, assistant to the vice president at Oklahoma City, headed the group seeking supporting data. With him were Russell Rau, Houston, and Kenneth Walker, Dallas. Rau and Walker remained here Wednesday getting statements from business men and other pertinent data.
Tuesday evening Dr. P. W. Malone, chamber of commerce aviation committee chairman, J. H. Greene, chamber manager, and Art Winters, airport manager, discussed the proposed route which extends from Denver, Colo., to San Antonio by way of Colorado Springs, Pueblo, Amarillo, Lubbock, Big Spring and San Angelo.
The Texas cities have long been pushing for such a line and Greene is chairman of the inter-city committee organized for that purpose. However, the cities are on record for the route and not for carriers.
Others applying for similar routings are TWA from Denver to Amarillo to Abilene, Austin and Houston with a spur from Abilene to Fort Worth; Continental from Hobbs, N. M., to Big Spring to Austin and Houston.
Beattie said that his company was encouraged over the calling of a pre-hearing by the CAA this month and hoped that a hearing date on applications would be set at that time.

Trash Hauling Gets Final OK

An ordinance regulating the collection and disposal of garbage and trash in Big Spring was passed on a third and final reading by city commissioners Tuesday.
The law will be published soon, and copies of it will be available in booklet form. Plans are announced by city officials call for distribution of these booklets in person by a city representative, who also will discuss problems with individuals.
Under terms of the ordinance, certain types of closed trash cans will be required, and must be located inside fence lines by alley, or on curbs where there are no alleys.
Full information may be obtained at the city hall. Meantime, the city continues its regular collection service, reporting large daily hauls of garbage.
At the city commission meeting when the garbage ordinance was passed, the commission also took action to prohibit the hunting of dove, quail, ducks or other birds on city lake property. The land will be set aside as a game preserve. Reason for the action was that the space is too small to permit shooting, and that an unsanitary condition might result from wounded birds getting into the lake.
The commission also called attention to the agreement with Bob Powell prohibiting passage between the Moss Creek and Powell Creek lakes except in line of city duty.
Small tracts of land on the abandoned highway section between Gregg and Scurry at the southern end of town were given in quit claim deed to Mrs. C. L. Williamson and the Lincoln Tank Co. in quit claim deeds.

Farm Loan Assn. Meets Thursday

Twenty-third annual meeting of the Big Spring National Farm Loan association will be held at the Queen theatre from 1 p. m. to 6 p. m. Thursday.

The 425 members of the cooperative organization through which farmers and ranchers obtain long-time land mortgage loans will have the opportunity to elect two new directors. Members of the unit reside in Howard, Martin, Dawson, Borden and Glasscock counties.

MRS. SCHLEY RILEY'S FATHER SUCCUMBS

Funeral services were held in Stephens, Ark., Tuesday afternoon for R. B. Allen, father of Mrs. Schley Riley of Big Spring.
Mr. Allen succumbed after a brief illness Sunday at his home in Stephens. Two weeks ago he was a visitor in the home of his daughter here.

Historic Buildings In Both Capital Cities Are Bombed

LONDON, Sept. 11 (AP)—The rending crash of bombs on historic buildings in London and Berlin and the tumult of air battle was punctuated today by a warning to Britons by Prime Minister Winston Churchill that Adolf Hitler's invasion may not be far off—perhaps next week.
Hitler is preparing by moving hundreds of self-propelled barges into sheltered harbors of the French and Belgian coasts, Churchill said in a radio broadcast, as the air ministry announced all-night attacks had been carried out to smash these concentrations.
An eight-hour bombing of Ostend harbor was carried out, and another three hour assault on Calais, the air ministry said, and new attacks were made on the artillery batteries concealed opposite Dover to lay down a barrage for the invasion. Other barge collections.

These signs of an approaching crisis in the greatest air war in history developed as German warplanes made repeated, determined thrusts at London. There were three air raid alarms in the capital in the day. Raiders fought desperate battles with the British air force.
Other developments included: A time bomb was disclosed to have blown out a corner of the royal residence, Buckingham Palace, on Tuesday, injuring no one. British dive bombers rained explosives on the Potsdam railway station, the air ministry said, and Berlin dispatches declared the famous old reichstag building and Brandenburg gate in Berlin, had been damaged.
The fierce, fast-falling blows of the British air force, doing its best to break up an invasion before it can get off its bases, was reported by the air ministry to have silenced some of Hitler's big guns and sunk two of his little speedy torpedo boats which are counted upon to run interference for troop-landed barges.
Naval airplanes as well as the regular air force took part in the attack, it was said, centering particularly upon Calais and Dieppe. Today, three more air raid alarms were sounded in London.
A formation of probably 125 German planes encountered savage resistance from British fighters and the heaviest anti-aircraft fire yet heard in London in one daylight thrust at the capital.
The sound of heavy bomb explosions thundered in the southwest and southeast parts of the city during an 80-minute alarm that started at 3:20 p. m. (8:20 a. m. C.S.T.). The Germans broke up into twos and threes.

BUCKINGHAM PALACE IS HIT BY BOMB

LONDON, Sept. 11 (AP)—A delayed-action bomb hit Buckingham Palace, residence of the king and queen of England, Sunday night and exploded Tuesday demolishing one corner of the north front and sending flying glass over the first floor. King George and Queen Elizabeth were not in the palace at the time and a palace spokesman said today there were no casualties.
Reporters were permitted to inspect the wreckage at the century-old residence this morning.
The turn-out part was the glass-enclosed swimming pool, just under the queen's sitting room facing an expansive shaded lawn where the annual July garden party was given in peacetime.
Great pillars of white stone were toppled in fragments around a crater 15 feet deep and 35 feet wide.

CITY ACTS TO TRIM INTEREST COSTS ON $60,000 BOND ISSUE

Steps toward calling and refunding a $60,000 City of Big Spring waterworks bond issue were taken by city commissioners Tuesday evening.
Anticipating a sufficient cash balance by April, 1941, when the 1961 issue becomes callable, the city plans to retire $30,000 of the bonds.
An agreement was reached with the State National Bank in Big Spring which holds $20,000 of the bonding firm of Brown & Crummett, holder of $10,000 of the issue to refund the remaining $30,000 serially at 2 3/4 per cent interest. The original bonds carried a six per cent rate.
The refunded bonds would be retired by 1961, thus not only effecting a saving of 3 1/4 per cent per annum on the issue over the old rate, but cutting down the interest period by 10 years. Retirement of the $30,000 in April 1941 would save all interest on this portion of the bonds.
Estimated savings on the transaction would run into several thousand dollars.

STATUS OF HAAKON IS UNDECIDED BY NORWEGIAN GOVT.

OSLO, Norway, Sept. 11 (AP via Berlin)—The Norwegian parliament today declared King Haakon no longer able to function, but decided to postpone until after the war the question of whether he will be allowed to return to his country.
By the decision, the Norwegian government in London, where King Haakon also took refuge after his country was occupied by the German army, is considered to have resigned and a new government is named.
The chief of the new government is Ingolf Elster-Christensen, 64, who will rule as regent.

GERMANS SAID PREPARING FOR INVASION OF ENGLAND

LONDON, Sept. 11 (AP Via Radio)—Prime Minister Winston Churchill said today Germany is preparing for the invasion of England by moving hundreds of self-propelled barges down from northern ports to the French coast opposite Britain's shores.
These craft and troop convoys, the prime minister said, are moving into position under the protection of the big German guns set up on the French coast.
"No one should blind himself to the fact that this German invasion is being planned with all the German craft and method characteristic of them," he declared.
The next week, he said, "must be regarded as a very important one for us in our history."
He compared it with the attempt of the Spanish armada to invade the British Isles and the later attempt of Napoleon.
"Every man and woman must prepare to do his duty, whatever it may be, with special pride and care," he said.
"Our fleet is very powerful, x x x our shores are well fortified and well manned, and behind these lines we have a better equipped and far stronger army than we have ever had before."
Adolf Hitler, Churchill said, "has ignited a fire which will burn with a steady flame until the last vestiges of Nazi tyranny and brutality have been wiped out x x x and the old and new worlds join their great forces to build that which has been destroyed."
Turning to the effects of the air raids on London, the prime minister said, "all the world marvels at the courage, the fortitude of the people who are withstanding these attacks."
"Our forces at sea know they have a people behind them who will never flinch, will never fail them, x x x but will draw from the suffering a victory won, not only for our side, but for the better days that are to come."
Churchill, in opening his speech, said the air attacks so far had "failed conspicuously."
The Royal Air Force, he said, was stronger than at the start while the naval force was being worn down.
An attempt to invade this country without gaining mastery of the air, he said, would be "a very hazardous undertaking."
He added, however, that Germany was preparing for such an invasion.
"It may be launched at any time now on England, Scotland, Ireland or on all three."

10,000 Plane-Loads Of Bombs A Day For London

BERLIN, Sept. 11 (AP)—Ten thousand plane-loads of German bombs are to be sent daily to the London area in smashing attacks in the next few days, exceptionally well-informed German sources said today.
"I wouldn't give one farthing for the houses of parliament," said this informant, a man whose connections with Reichsmarshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering are especially close.
"Now that our reichstag building has been bombed there is no reason why we shouldn't bomb the British parliament out of existence. If they try to hit the chancellery, Buckingham or Windsor Castle will go as surely as you live."
(A delayed action bomb exploded yesterday in a wing of Buckingham castle, the British government announced today.)
This informant asserted the "British are already licked and don't know it."

Fall Weather Visits Texas

A mass of cool air rolled deep into Texas today, routing summer's heat temporarily from the coast to the Panhandle. The temperature dropped to 56 in Big Spring.
It won't last long, the weather bureau suggested in a forecast of warmer West Texas temperatures tomorrow. The fallish weather was supposed to get cooler along the coast tonight, however.
Sample temperatures reported today: Corpus Christi 71, with 60-65 tonight; Houston 72, after the summer's highest mark, 99, yesterday; Beaumont 67 after yesterday's 96, highest this summer; Port Arthur 68; Sherman 59, lowest for this period in years; Pampa 55 and a touch of rain after a minimum last night of 32 degrees; Corsicana 62, not quite as low as temperatures June 19 and 11; Wichita Falls 57, tying season's low recorded last month; Fort Worth 60; Dallas 61; Tyler 60.
In Oklahoma the mercury took a dive in many places, touching 39 degrees at Vinita, Bartlesville and Woodward. Elsewhere the range was from 40 to 50 degrees.
Coolest temperatures reported for Texas were 45 degrees at Miami in Roberts county, northeast of Amarillo, 49 at Dalhart and 50 at Amarillo.

Night Discussion To Be Held On Child Welfare

That the exploitation of the child by its own parents is one of the major problems to be dealt with in Howard county was revealed in the discussion Tuesday afternoon by a group interested in the organization of a Child Welfare Unit for this county.

The meeting was held in the Episcopal parish house with Mrs. Shone Phillips, president of the Council of Church Women, presiding, and with Miss Lydia Cagle, chief speaker, discussing "What Child Welfare Is." Such meetings will continue through the week and all persons interested in the welfare programs of the county are urged to attend.

The service of a trained worker is furnished by the state to selected counties and the county will be responsible for the expense of the work proper. A local board of seven persons will be in charge of the administration of the unit.

Nolan and Taylor counties now have the only such welfare units existing in West Texas and it is the plan to make Howard county the third.

Thursday night at 7:30 o'clock, the discussion will be held at the parish house with the county and city commissioners invited to attend and G. C. Dunham, mayor, and E. V. Spence, city manager, are to be present.

The meeting is to last one hour and others interested in the establishing of a child welfare unit here are invited to be present. The sessions will conclude Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the parish house.

MISS LANCOSU'S NOTES

By Mary Whaley

Folks who are absent-minded come in for a lot of ribbing from other people and cartoonists have made the absent-minded professor a laughable creature. Personally we don't think it is funny, and that's because we easily come in that class.

If we are invited places, we have to write ourselves little notes to be sure and show up on time and if it is something we don't want to do, we have to add stern words to the notes.

We keep a calendar circled with days and times of things we mean to do but even so, if we stop looking at it, we still forget appointments.

And as for misplacing things! We lay down hats, gloves, purses and other miscellany and never see them again. Actually somebody usually has to remind us that we have forgotten something or we wouldn't miss it for days.

We are the sort of person head waiters are always following to the door with our belongings clutched in their hands and a sorrowful expression on their faces. We leave a stream of personal effects wherever we go.

But contrary to fiction, neither our acquaintances nor outsiders find it very amusing and although we have been trying for years to break the habit, it still remains.

We once invited several to a party and then forgot to go; and that's one we are still living down. We, too, laugh at the professor who kisses the cat and puts out his wife but confidentially it really isn't very funny to be so afflicted.

Miss Farnsworth Begins New Year With Big Project

Anniversaries are usually observed as holidays but today, marking the fourth year that Miss Lora Farnsworth has been county home demonstration agent in Howard county, finds her beginning a new project—mattresses.

Equipped with a gas mask, the agent with home demonstration club members, is demonstrating the work. There are 220 applicants for the mattresses and 70 are to be made in this center, 40 in Comahoma and others to be divided between the other centers.

The project which the home demonstration club is sponsoring is being done in connection with the Federal Surplus Commodity corporation which is supplying the ticks and the surplus bales of cotton.

The women learning how to make the mattresses wear masks to prevent dirt from flying in their faces but according to Miss Farnsworth, "we really don't need them very much as this is fine cotton, only the outside is dirty." The work is being done at the community center east of the park and when things get underway, Miss Farnsworth hopes to turn out eight completed mattresses during a day.

In addition to demonstrating the mattress work, Miss Farnsworth is demonstrating the care of bedding and bedding protectors. Each applicant for a mattress is given instructions on the whole project and then goes through the whole process. After she has completed her mattress she assists with the others.

The work goes on from 8:30 o'clock to 5 o'clock at the community center.

During the year the county agent reports the addition of the Center Point 4-H girls club. The major project for the women's club during the year was kitchen improvement and home food supply with emphasis on meat cookery. In the girls' clubs the major projects have been gardens with emphasis on frame gardens and bedroom improvement.

Would Tighten Citizenship Requirements

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11 (AP)—House action was sought today on a new nationality code which sponsors claimed would "drastically tighten" existing naturalization regulations that communists, nazis and fascists could not acquire United States citizenship.

Before the start of debate, Rep. Rees (R-Kas) told reporters the main purposes of the legislation were "to implement the fight against fifth columnists and to clear up thousands of cases of doubtful American citizenship."

Although no groups are mentioned by name, Rees asserted belief that communists, nazis and fascists could be barred from naturalization by new eligibility provisions.

Present law bars anarchists, polygamists, persons unable to speak English, army and navy deserters and draft dodgers.

The new legislation also would deny citizenship to those who advocate the overthrow by force or violence of the United States government or who distribute literature or contribute money for prom is anything of value" to that end. Aliens who engage in or advocate sabotage also would be barred.

Silhouette for 1941

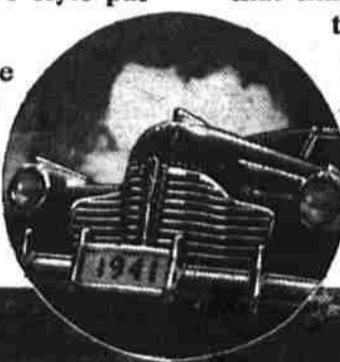

Buick SPECIAL 6 passenger 4-door Sedan, $1052 delivered at Flint, Mich. Wheel shields and white sidewall tires, extra.*

As surely as the new Buick FIREBALL* straight-eight engine sets the performance pace for the coming season, the graceful silhouette of the new Buick SPECIAL and CENTURY cuts the automotive style pattern for another half decade.

It is the practical quality of great room enclosed in sleek and flowing lines—more room for legs, for elbows, for heads, more room for entrance and more room for carrying luggage—that makes this the silhouette the cars of the future will seek to achieve.

The reason is not alone the grace of its Buick-created lines, nor the appearance of solid substance in action that gives this honey the look of a speedster straining at its leash.

Why wait for that—when in this Buick you travel in a car that, like time and tide, obviously isn't waiting for any man?

*According to the Encyclopaedia Britannica, a super motor which travels with a series of explosions like the shock waves of a great projectile is called a "FIREBALL."

Buick SPECIAL 6 passenger Sedan, $1006 delivered at Flint, Mich. Wheel shields and white sidewall tires, extra.*

Buick prices begin at $935 for the Business Coupe delivered at Flint, Mich.

Steers Display 'Possibilities'

"They have possibilities," Head Coach Pat Murphy of the Big Spring Steers laconically observed in commenting on the showing made by his football proteges in an intrasquad game last night.

Playing a brand of ball that was effective as a whole but lost some of its efficiency because of a tendency to bog down, the Longhorn regulars had pretty much their own way against the reserves and chalked up 19 points to their opponent's none. They advanced very little through the center of the line, most gains being made with sweeping runs around the flanks and swinging wide off tackle. Billy Shaw, Hal Battle and Hunka Stewart, reserve linemen, were able to stop most of the proposed crashes through the middle sector.

Houston And Beaumont Nab First Games

By the Associated Press
Houston's Buffs, one-up on Oklahoma City and also on a Texas league "jinx," will push young Howard Kriel, a 23-game winner, to the firing line tonight in the second game of the Shaughnessy play-off.

Houston, failure in three previous years in the first round of the play-off, beat Rogers Hornsby's Indians 5-0 behind the four-hit hurling of Sam Nahem last night.

Young, hustling Beaumont will use Les Mueller, of no-hit, no-run fame, in an effort to make it two straight over San Antonio.

Last night Beaumont nosed out the Missions 4-3, coming from behind with a four-run spurge in the fifth. Virgil (Fire) Trucks started for Beaumont but didn't last, Charley Fuchs finishing and receiving credit for the victory.

Oklahoma City will rely on the slants of veteran Otho Nitchoias in the second game tonight. San Antonio will use Bob Muncief, 22-game winner.

Baugh's Tosses Odessa Has An Untried Team

ODESSA, Sept. 11 — Joe Coleman's green and inexperienced Odessa Bronco meet the Lubbock Westerners, current champions of Texas high school football, on Fly field Saturday night, Sept. 14, at 8:15.

Odessa will throw a team of untried youngsters containing only three lettermen against the veteran, smooth-working machine from the South Plains.

Billy Hogan, quarterback and passer, weighing 130 pounds, will head the backfield. Assisting Hogan in the attack against the powerful Westerners will be Fred Christean, reserve last season, 160 pounds at left half, Lewis Bewley, reserve squad, 150 pounds, at right half, and Royce Meadows, a 154-pound lad, no previous football experience, at full.

Reserve backs include Jimmy McCracken from last year's B squad weighing 160 pounds at full, DeWitt Fly, B squad, 130 pounds, at a half, and Tom Lewis, junior-high squad, weighing 135 pounds, at a halfback.

Probable starting line for the Bronchos will have the other two lettermen, Jack Coats at center and Ed Thomas at right guard. Jake Rhodes, B squad, Billy Jack Anderson and Kimball Cook round out the alternates at guard.

H. J. Halbrook, 175 pounds, and Raymond Evans, 180 pounds, will likely start at tackles. Halbrook was a reserve squad last season. This will be Evans' first year. James Clay, Lloyd Halbrook and Ralph Wright complete the tackle possibilities.

Starting ends will be either Otis McKelvey or Don Henderson at left end and Keith Evans at right end. Henderson was a member of the B team while the other two boys have had no experience. Reserve ends are R. D. Slay and John Cowan.

OIL YIELD HIKED

AUSTIN, Sept. 11 (AP)—Production in the O'Hara field of Webb county was increased from 3,561 barrels daily, basic, to 5,138 barrels in an order announced by the railroad commission yesterday.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With Jack Douglas

Coach Joe Coleman's Odessa Bronchos are putting on the steam in preparation for their tilt with the Lubbock Westerners Saturday. All indications are that the wild horses are going to be grazing in a mighty rough pasture because the thing that they lack is the item with which the pistol-toters are well supplied—reserves. Where the Westerners have players stacked four deep for every position, or so they report, the Bronchos will just be able to eke out a starting lineup, according to the sad words being tossed around by Coleman.

Lack of capable reserve strength can cause a good starting squad to look rather weak when it comes to putting those tallies on the board. Injuries can very easily throw the entire team so far out of gear that they might as well pick up their marbles and go home. And then, players, no matter how capable they might be, cannot keep pounding away full blast unless they are exceptionally rugged performers.

This year, Billy Hogan seems to be the best prospect in the Odessa camp. He is a little fellow but has a good arm for passing and is capable of moving across the field fast enough to leave a good many would-be tacklers sprawling on their faces.

The Bronchos tackle positions are liable to be the weakest points in their front line because the two most likely prospects are without experience.

Although they don't have a cinch on the title, we will line up with the rest of the soothsayers and poor guessers and say that the Texas Aggies are slated to give a repeat performance of their championship play this year. According to all reports, ole Army has already visited the old lady of the Brazos bottoms and has been told that the cards are indicating the Southwest title of 1940 will be kept by the maroon and white. If this happens, it will be the first time that a team has copped the flag two years in succession. Jarring Jawn Kimbrough will be in the Aggie backfield what time he isn't in the opponent's, and to Aggie followers that makes it a dead sure shot for another pennant to be nailed to the masthead.

NATIONAL AMATEUR TOURNEY INTO 'SUDDEN DEATH' ROUNDS

MAMARONECK, N. Y., Sept. 11 (AP)—The qualifying scramble ended, 64 earnest young golfers paired off at Winged Foot club today in two "sudden death" rounds of match play in the national amateur championship.

In the last two days the field had been reduced from 146, at dusk tonight there were due to be only 16 left.

Gone were such notables as Johnny Goodman, George Dunlap, Jr., Chick Evans and Francis Oulmet—all former champions. Gone also was young John Cree of Hamburg, N. Y., who shot a sparkling 71 on his first qualifying round and then scored to a remarkable 87 on his second try.

Dick Chapman of Winged Foot was the one all were watching as he teed off in his first test today. Dick, a night club crooner during the off-season, shot two sub-par rounds of 71-69 to capture initial honors. His two-day total was five strokes better than the 145's registered by Marvin Ward of Spokane, Wash., the defending champion, and by Duff McCullough of Philadelphia.

Four players tied at 116 George Dawson of Chicago; Maurice McCarthy, Jr., of Cincinnati; Tom Whiteway of Cleveland and Harold Mandly of Avon, Conn. Frank Strickland of Brooklyn, Freddie Hanes of New Orleans and Steve Kovach of

Baugh's Tosses Figure In Win Over Stars

BOSTON, Sept. 11 (AP)—linen Sammy Baugh, the Washington Redskins' famed forward passer, left town today with a decision over Holy Cross' Ronnie Cahill, but only because the National professional leaguer was supported by a stronger cast.

After throwing 33 high-powered operators into action last night before 26,000 at Fenway Park, the Redskins emerged with a 35-12 victory over the second edition of Nils (Swede) Nelson's Eastern all-star collegians.

Baugh tossed three touchdown passes, two to Charlie Malone and another to Hayward Sanford. Cahill launched the all-stars' scoring by contacting Lloyd Ickes with a 28-yard heave and then, in the fourth period, the ex-Cruader raged 15 yards for the collegians' other tally.

While Baugh rested in the third and most of the fourth period, Dick Todd and Roy Zimmerman rolled up the Redskins' total by a touchdown each.

Old Lefty Grove The Hero As Red Sox Edge Detroit; Race In A Bigger Muddle

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer
Life does begin at forty and Lefty Grove, the giant ghost with a magnificent past and doubtful future, has returned to haunt the trembling American league as proof. Old Moss maneuvered through 18 innings yesterday to conquer the Detroit Tigers 6-5 and cast the chaotic pennant race into greater confusion with Cleveland again in front.

RESORTERS HAVE THE LIGHTEST TEAM IN SCHOOL HISTORY

Coach Cy Perkins of Mineral Wells will send a starting team out half; Harold Bonwright, half; on the field against the Big Spring Kenneth Knight, fullback. The Steers for the opening whistle of the season with the lightest weight average of any Resorter squad in the history of the Mineral Wells school.

One man, a left tackle weighing 180, tips the scales for more than 100 pounds. The right tackle, who is starting his first year as a regular, comes next in line, weighing 157 pounds. The Resorters line will average 154 pounds, with the center weighing in at 132 and the left end putting the balance on 140 pounds. Peppy Hount, Big Spring Steer end hits 118 and Ralph Stewart, starting on the other flank, is very near the same poundage.

The Resorter backfield barely hits the scales at 150 pounds, making the average for the entire starting string 152.

Eight lettermen will be on the field for Mineral Wells at the kickoff. They are Jack Vaughn, left tackle; William Highman, left guard; Roy Squyres, right guard; J. A. Keller, right end; Leland

Earlier this season old Moss, 36 last March, seldom managed to last nine innings. When he broke a bone in his foot in August and was reported lost, to the Boston Red Sox for the year, nobody figured it made much difference to Boston one way or the other—except sentimentally.

Then a week ago Sunday he came out of the limbo of the lost and battled for 3 innings against a strong kid half his age, Sid Hudson of Washington, and finally was beaten 1-0.

Yesterday Grove was up against the leading pitcher of the league, Buck Newsum, winner of 18 games against three losses, and a gallant front that was on the hot end of a five game winning streak and in first place in the league.

Grove gave up three hits, one of them Hank Greenberg's 20th home run, for three tallies in the first inning. But after that he allowed only one run in the next ten innings and was never behind after his teammates led up the score at 3-all in the sixth.

His victory lifted the Red Sox within four games of the lead. The Cleveland Indians and the New York Yankees were kept idle by rain yesterday and both gained through Detroit's downfall, leaving this situation:

Games To
Cleveland 76 87 371 ... 21
Detroit 77 88 370 ... 18
New York 75 87 368 ... 18
Boston 73 82 341 ... 18

The Indians and Yankees were scheduled for a doubleheader today with Detroit tackling the Red Sox in a single game.

The Washington Senators subdued the Chicago White Sox 5-2, and the Philadelphia Athletics whipped the St. Louis Browns 6-4.

The only National league games that escaped the rain were in a doubleheader that Pittsburgh captured from the Phillies 11-3 and 11-1.

Editorial

Not all the men who are detected snooping around are spies, trying to learn something to sell a foreign government, to the disadvantage of this country. Some of them are just plain rubbernecks, filled with that insatiable curiosity that seems a part of the mental makeup of so many of us. Few things that this country is doing are of such importance that it would be detrimental to our welfare for a foreign government to be advised of them. Most of the talk about spies is only talk, with nothing to support it and no reason for it.

There is some danger of what we have come to call sabotage and that danger is not confined to aliens, who are being fingerprinted and registered. Some native born Americans, whose forebears run back for generations in this country, are just as ready to do damage to an industrial plant, to put the operation of it out of business, if they have what they are pleased to call a grievance. Some of them are so badly out of balance, mentally and morally, that they will take advantage of the present near hysteria over the rumors of spies to do such things as would be laid to spies, just to create a little excitement, like those occasional pyromaniacs who start fires just to see the apparatus run.

It is right and proper that any and all leas in this country be done away with. There should be no bonds nor other organizations which glorify the beautiful of dictator government. Free speech should mean free speech in support of criticism of our institutions but not the advocating of changing what we have for something that is burdening European nations. If we clean out those organizers, refuse to let their screens go through the mails, decline to allow them to hold meetings and drills, we shall do more to preserve the integrity and safety of this country than by all the spy hunting and rumoring that we can arouse. The aliens are not the only threats to our peace and quiet.

Washington Daybook

By CLAUDE PEPPER
U. S. Senator From Florida

The national defense program, long in preparation, rolled into high gear on May 26, when President Roosevelt made his speech outlining our defense needs in the present emergency.

Two days later, the president appointed a National Defense Advisory Commission to insure that the defense program should proceed with the utmost efficiency. Since that time, the president as Commander in Chief of the Army and Navy, and the congress have been working on legislation to increase our army to 1,200,000, to provide material for equipping an addition 800,000 men and to provide the nation with a two-ocean navy and an air force second to none.

What has been done?

In the three and one-half months that have passed since that time, over a quarter of the $10,000,000,000 estimated 1941 defense appropriation has been placed under contract.

Already manufacturers are at work on contracts calling for 10,000 new airplanes.

As a result of recent programs, the navy now has 381 ships in actual commission and work is going forward on 133 ships.

Vital supplies of raw materials are being stored in stock piles. In the case of rubber, arrangements have been made to increase the stock pile by 150,000 tons, bringing the reserves arranged for in this particular commodity up to 415,000 tons. In the case of manganese, over three-quarters of the stock pile has already been arranged for.

New contract forms have been worked out which will spread the defense program throughout the country, among manufacturers who have heretofore been unable to participate. Under the first of these policies, large orders may be split up so that the small manufacturer can take part. An adjunct to this policy calls for delivery of materials at the plant door. The government then pays transportation charges, allowing manufacturers in all parts of the country to compete on an equal basis.

New methods by which the government shares the risk with industry of the costs of plant extension have been worked out and put into effect on contracts. Notable among these is a single contract calling for 20,000 airplane engines.

Production of tanks for defense is rising rapidly. Under a single contract, five tanks a day are being produced on a total order calling for 1,156 tanks. At the same time, a $453,000,000 contract calls for construction of a plant to build tanks on a scale and at a price never before thought possible.

Production of a new type semi-automatic rifle for the army will soon reach over 1,000 a day. Ship construction time has been sharply cut. New ships will come into service many months ahead of original schedules.

This policy states that all employment on the defense program should comply with the federal laws protecting labor standards, as well as state and local statutes affecting labor relations, hours of work, wages, workmen's compensation, safety and sanitation. It further states, in accordance with American traditions, that there should be no discrimination because of age, sex, race or color and that adequate housing facilities should be made available for employees engaged in the work of defending their country.

Lastly, in regard to labor, the administration of President Roosevelt, which irresponsible persons have declared to be inefficient, has already enrolled a hundred thousand men in the industrial labor training program.

Thousands more are eager to participate in the great work of national defense. For their benefit, the defense commission has made public its new labor policy.

Man About Manhattan

NEW YORK—Sometimes the mere mention of a name turns a man's mind into a picture gallery. There are four names that have this effect on C. V. (Sonny) Whitney.

Flin Flon is one. Flin Flon is a mining camp up under the Arctic circle. You get copper there. A lot of that copper, most of it in fact, now goes to the British and American governments. It is a mine that Whitney developed with Roscoe Channing, a famed metallurgist. The name comes from an old legend that concerned the inventor of a sort of submarine who dived to the center of the earth, where he discovered gold. Flin Flon is that legendary lode, C. V. (Sonny) Whitney likes to say.

Equipoise is another name that produces an immediate effect on Mr. Whitney's imagination. Equipoise was Sonny's horse; still is, in fact. He won the Kentucky Derby. He won $372,000 in purses. Today Equipoise takes his oats and his ease on the soft blue grass of a Kentucky farm. He's under the care of Ivor Balding, an Englishman and a horse breeder, who still goes to college, learning things about horses. Old Equipoise has some new shoes now. The ones he wore when he won the derby have been silver-plated and today they are in Mr. Whitney's office, on the 18th floor of the Chrysler Bldg., where they serve as ash trays.

Mention Beryllium to Whitney and his face lights up like a Hollywood premiere. Beryllium, in a sense, is his baby. He spent a lot of money on research, developing it. Beryllium is a substance that you mix with copper to achieve that metal far lighter than aluminum and far stronger than steel. It's good for airplanes and machine guns.

Mention Pan-America Airways and you will get still another gleam of interest from Mr. Whitney's eyes. At this writing he is on a return flight from New Zealand, where he and a number of publishers have gone, charting new trails. Whitney always flies the routes before they are in actual operation. He has been at it since the first World War. He was an instructor in that war. He left Yale at 17 to go to France. As chairman of Pan-America's board he flies constantly. One of his ideas, already in operation, is the training of cadets in Florida for long distance transport navigation. Navigation is important for pilots who span the Caribbean and who ply the Americas. Whitney thinks courses in training on our Gulf coast will be invaluable to future Pan-America pilots. The names of those from the eastern section selected to take these courses have already been announced in the newspapers.

A long time ago Sonny Whitney's name used to find its way into the Broadway columns, and he was not an infrequent visitor at the night clubs. His visits are rare now. Perhaps Flin Flon up under the Arctic circle, and Beryllium in Pennsylvania, not to mention Pan-America Airways, and an occasional visit to see old Equipoise down in Kentucky, are reasons enough for his absence.

Hollywood Sights And Sounds

HOLLYWOOD—"Brigham Young." Screen-play by Lamar Trotti, based on story by Louis Bromfield. Directed by Henry Hathaway. Principals: Tyrone Power, Linda Darnell, Dean Jagger, Brian Donlevy, Jane Darwell, John Carradine, Mary Astor, Vincent Price, Jean Rogers, Ann Todd, Willard Robertson, Moroni Olsen.

When a movie combines stirring adventure with good biographical probing it's an unusual movie, and in this instance it's an "epic," much as that word has been abused.

"Brigham Young," thanks to pointed writing and action-first direction, is a superior "western" and portrait of a great American figure, the Mormon leader. The characterization of Young by Dean Jagger, a strapping fellow from the stage who once was slighted by Hollywood, has home-spun-and-leather strength.

The picture finds Joseph Smith's followers attempting to live in their Illinois refuge, harassed by religious intolerance. Mobbled and slain, their leader Smith (Price) jailed and lynched, the "Saints" finally are led in westward flight by the rugged, plain-speaking Smith disciple. Forces opposing his leadership are represented by the heavy, one Angus Duncan (Donlevy), whose "religion" is a cover for some not-so-religious traits and ambitions. The colony flees by night across a frozen river, pursued by avenging citizens (in some great action scenes), and the people accept Brigham Young's leadership and challenge to follow him across mountain and desert and establish a refuge where they can live, work, and share alike, free from persecution and intolerance.

It is a gigantic migration, filled with hardships, and incidentally, eye-filling scenery. Crossing the Rockies, the fever-stricken Young by intuition selects the site he has dreamed of—the broad valley on which is now Salt Lake City.

The climax comes after the first winter, of hardships, strict rationing, famine. It is a thrilling climax—the descent of swarming crickets upon the fields, Brigham Young's despairing admission of his failure, never completed because at the same moment the famous rescuing sea gulls arrive in pest-devouring clouds.

The story is Young's—and Jagger's. Yet Power and Darnell, as the romantic interest, have interesting roles, and Mary Astor as Brigham's first wife (the polygamy matter is handled tastefully and not stressed) is exceptionally persuasive. Vincent Price delivers his best work—his first screen job, in fact, untainted by a certain hamminess.

"Public Deb. No. 1" George Murphy Brenda Joyce Elsa Maxwell. Good fun in safe society, with the communists kidded until they're Red in the face. "Haunted Honeymoon" Robert Montgomery, Constance Cummings. Amusing, if rather leisurely, mystery stuff from the Dorothy Seyers novel, "Busman's Honeymoon."

"Flowing Gold" John Garfield, Pat O'Brien, Frances Farmer. The poor man's "Boom Town."

Chapter 12
BARBECUE

From boxes the delighted Dolores brought riding breeches of twill; boots and sombrero; and a silk shirt of sapphire blue with a golden yellow kerchief for her throat.

"El Cabrillo colors," Dolores explained.

Constance tried to stifle her thoroughly feminine love of clothes. Was Pedro trying to put her so deeply in his favor that she would agree to sell?

But when she was dressed, she whirled before the mirror and was pleased with what she saw. Meg had gauged her measurements accurately; even the boots fit smoothly.

"I look like a colored poster in front of a dime theater," she laughed, and went out to find Peter Taylor waiting for her.

"Muchasimas gracias," she sang out, and bowed low before Pedro.

"My word, the gal speaks Spanish," chuckled Pedro. "Now turn around and look at Pancho. He's waiting a word of approval."

Constance caught her lower lip between her teeth as Juliano, festively attired, appeared around the corner of the house leading a beautiful palomino, his coat pale golden tan, his mane and tail a creamy white.

"Pancho the beautiful," cried Constance, and ran toward the horse, unaware of the cries of warning from Juliano, Taylor and a few guests who were drawing near.

"Madre de Dios," murmured Juliano fervently, as Pancho, after one startled, head-tossing neigh and swift baring of teeth, dropped his head to nuzzle the sapphire blue shouder.

And—"Holy mackerel," sighed Pedro, who had sprung across the path, white of face.

"That settles it," announced Mrs. MacKelvey. "The girl may be a throwback, but she's a Cabrillo as well."

Constance looked up from her caressing of Pancho, to find her polygot—no, Juliano, "son" hold him, I can mount, now watch—

Pancho made a full swing, but Constance had one foot in the stirrup and by the time he was around she was seated, flushed, laughing, then sobered by the look on Pedro's face.

"Cabrillo," he agreed, and Meg, who had been in the background, anxiously addressing her patron Saint, murmured, "That needn't make you a piebald mule."

For a moment the two stared angrily at each other. "Try to remember," burred Meg, "that history teaches us the Irish are half Spanish; remember the Moors with their high, fine steppin' horses brought us a love of horse flesh.

Memory Of The Moon

And above all, Peter me lad, don't be a jackass."

"Pedro grinned and finding his horse, grunted and rode up to Constance.

"We'll wait for introductions until we reach the grove," he told Constance. "I think the caval-cade's ready. You, as a Cabrillo, should lead the parade alone, but I'm not trusting you. You're quite apt to lead us to Maria's."

They rode up and behind them some seventy-five neighbors fell in.

Constance pulled up on a hill and looked about her. Never had she seen such sunshine, such a blue sky, such gold-and-purple hills.

"Pedro," she laughed, "I could love you for planning this—"

"Don't, Michael," he returned, soberly. "Don't say that. I can't spend the rest of my life eating barbecued beef."

"Would you, Pedro?" she teased. "I am afraid—"

"I was afraid—" he stressed the word and she remembered the night of their first meeting, "that I would."

But no chill could live with her.

"For the sake of your digestion," she spared, "I withdraw the statement...oh, Pedro, is that the grove down there?"

Kinship

It was the grove. Live oak shaded it, though the sun was merely golden and not warm. Scented smoke arose from it, and men in white aprons and caps moved about tables spread under the trees; tables heaped with baskets of bread and platters of salads; gay confectons and tall bottles of wine.

Constance met her neighbors. She was warmed by their reception. She found kinship with these leather-faced men and sunburned women. But she wondered at the girls of her age and younger. They didn't like her. They were affable, a few were sincerely glad to meet her, but there were others who looked at her with hostile eyes.

And then she understood and an chill touched her happiness for the moment. She was only one of a dozen who knew the fascination of young Peter Taylor.

But no chill could live with her.

Trailer Tintypes

Pedro on one side and Mrs. MacKelvey on the other, and Meg, who had come ponderously up on a horse built upon her own lines, hovering in the background.

Constance sat at the head of the table, as the first Don Cabrillo had sat in the early days, dispensing hospitality. In the little arena beyond the grove, she watched the bull-dogging contests, the roping and outlaw riding, and she, the Cabrillo, handed out the awards.

Pedro didn't compete. "He can outstride and outlope any man here," Mrs. MacKelvey whispered, "and he's too good a sportsman to show them up."

The day ended all too soon. Gray fog came up, and the rim of the coast range, and the party mounted.

Constance rode with her neighbors. Somewhere behind her Pedro was riding with a stuffy-haired little blond girl who plainly adored him, and just in front of him a red haired girl, dashing, bold, thought Constance, was daring him to race.

Pedro accepted the dare.

Blitzy, holding Pancho in with all of her strength, Constance watched the race, contemptuous and a little angry, while Pedro "made a fool of himself," she thought. Didn't he know that girl wanted him to catch the reins of her horse and draw her close; couldn't he see?

Of course!

Mrs. MacKelvey rode up. "Why don't you come on home with me now," she suggested. "Pancho's fresh. We can take a short cut and be there in an hour."

Constance welcomed this chance. She said goodbye to her guests at crossroads, and conscious of Peter sitting motionless on his horse watching her, rode away with Mrs. MacKelvey.

Once she looked back. Peter had wheeled away from the girl with the red hair and was riding back to El Cabrillo alone. Constance wondered why she felt so triumphant. Pedro really meant nothing to her—permanently.

"Sold Shouder"

The MacKelvey ranch lay behind the first range of mountains and was free of heavy fog. Constance's first impression was of pristine neatness, of acres confined into proper sections by white fences; of white barns set precisely in their lots. Even the cows gave the impression of impeccable grooming.

"They are groomed," Mrs. MacKelvey affirmed. "They are washed and brushed before each milking."

It was milking time, and Constance was led through vast white caverns with spotlessly clean cement floors. No picturesque milkers squatted on three-legged stools; the milkers were electric, operated by remote control in the hands of one man. And the milk traveled by tube to a pipe which ran through the barns to a depot, where it poured into cans on wheeled flats, to be rolled to waiting trucks.

"It's all so efficiently handled," Constance marveled.

"Efficiency and economy are synonymous," Mrs. MacKelvey assured her. "I learned that through costly experience. Here are the workmen's homes; rather nice, don't you think? Let the wives plan the homes they were to occupy. They have free rein with their gardens."

"Another thing I learned," she mused, "is that contented wives mean contented workmen, and contented workmen are efficient."

And Constance, looking at a lurid pink bungalow with blue shutters, saw nothing to forewarn her of future trouble.

Mrs. MacKelvey's preciseness stopped at her own front gate. A white, old-fashioned garden sprawled from fence to steps, only a few marigolds and chrysanthemums holding out against the encroaching winter.

The house was roomy, cheerful with light paint and flowered chintz. The living room was lived in, books everywhere, a grand piano heaped with dog-eared music.

Tea was served before a roaring hearth fire and afterwards, when the shadows grew thick, the talk drifted to personal things.

"But with the responsibility of this ranch, one might call it an enterprise, on your shoulders, don't you ever feel the need for something to lean upon?" asked Constance.

Mrs. MacKelvey shot her a quick whimsical glance. "I know that feeling," she admitted. "My parents were touched with the gypsy's wand, happy-go-lucky musicians. I married for security, with the red hair and was riding back to El Cabrillo alone. Constance wondered why she felt so triumphant. Pedro really meant nothing to her—permanently."

The Herald's Serial Story

Chapter 13
BARBECUE

From boxes the delighted Dolores brought riding breeches of twill; boots and sombrero; and a silk shirt of sapphire blue with a golden yellow kerchief for her throat.

"El Cabrillo colors," Dolores explained.

Constance tried to stifle her thoroughly feminine love of clothes. Was Pedro trying to put her so deeply in his favor that she would agree to sell?

But when she was dressed, she whirled before the mirror and was pleased with what she saw. Meg had gauged her measurements accurately; even the boots fit smoothly.

"I look like a colored poster in front of a dime theater," she laughed, and went out to find Peter Taylor waiting for her.

"Muchasimas gracias," she sang out, and bowed low before Pedro.

"My word, the gal speaks Spanish," chuckled Pedro. "Now turn around and look at Pancho. He's waiting a word of approval."

Constance caught her lower lip between her teeth as Juliano, festively attired, appeared around the corner of the house leading a beautiful palomino, his coat pale golden tan, his mane and tail a creamy white.

"Pancho the beautiful," cried Constance, and ran toward the horse, unaware of the cries of warning from Juliano, Taylor and a few guests who were drawing near.

"Madre de Dios," murmured Juliano fervently, as Pancho, after one startled, head-tossing neigh and swift baring of teeth, dropped his head to nuzzle the sapphire blue shouder.

And—"Holy mackerel," sighed Pedro, who had sprung across the path, white of face.

"That settles it," announced Mrs. MacKelvey. "The girl may be a throwback, but she's a Cabrillo as well."

Constance looked up from her caressing of Pancho, to find her polygot—no, Juliano, "son" hold him, I can mount, now watch—

Pancho made a full swing, but Constance had one foot in the stirrup and by the time he was around she was seated, flushed, laughing, then sobered by the look on Pedro's face.

"Cabrillo," he agreed, and Meg, who had been in the background, anxiously addressing her patron Saint, murmured, "That needn't make you a piebald mule."

For a moment the two stared angrily at each other. "Try to remember," burred Meg, "that history teaches us the Irish are half Spanish; remember the Moors with their high, fine steppin' horses brought us a love of horse flesh.

"For the sake of your digestion," she spared, "I withdraw the statement...oh, Pedro, is that the grove down there?"

Kinship

It was the grove. Live oak shaded it, though the sun was merely golden and not warm. Scented smoke arose from it, and men in white aprons and caps moved about tables spread under the trees; tables heaped with baskets of bread and platters of salads; gay confectons and tall bottles of wine.

Constance met her neighbors. She was warmed by their reception. She found kinship with these leather-faced men and sunburned women. But she wondered at the girls of her age and younger. They didn't like her. They were affable, a few were sincerely glad to meet her, but there were others who looked at her with hostile eyes.

And then she understood and an chill touched her happiness for the moment. She was only one of a dozen who knew the fascination of young Peter Taylor.

But no chill could live with her.

Trailer Tintypes

Pedro on one side and Mrs. MacKelvey on the other, and Meg, who had come ponderously up on a horse built upon her own lines, hovering in the background.

Constance sat at the head of the table, as the first Don Cabrillo had sat in the early days, dispensing hospitality. In the little arena beyond the grove, she watched the bull-dogging contests, the roping and outlaw riding, and she, the Cabrillo, handed out the awards.

Pedro didn't compete. "He can outstride and outlope any man here," Mrs. MacKelvey whispered, "and he's too good a sportsman to show them up."

The day ended all too soon. Gray fog came up, and the rim of the coast range, and the party mounted.

Constance rode with her neighbors. Somewhere behind her Pedro was riding with a stuffy-haired little blond girl who plainly adored him, and just in front of him a red haired girl, dashing, bold, thought Constance, was daring him to race.

Pedro accepted the dare.

Blitzy, holding Pancho in with all of her strength, Constance watched the race, contemptuous and a little angry, while Pedro "made a fool of himself," she thought. Didn't he know that girl wanted him to catch the reins of her horse and draw her close; couldn't he see?

Of course!

Mrs. MacKelvey rode up. "Why don't you come on home with me now," she suggested. "Pancho's fresh. We can take a short cut and be there in an hour."

Constance welcomed this chance. She said goodbye to her guests at crossroads, and conscious of Peter sitting motionless on his horse watching her, rode away with Mrs. MacKelvey.

Once she looked back. Peter had wheeled away from the girl with the red hair and was riding back to El Cabrillo alone. Constance wondered why she felt so triumphant. Pedro really meant nothing to her—permanently.

"Sold Shouder"

The MacKelvey ranch lay behind the first range of mountains and was free of heavy fog. Constance's first impression was of pristine neatness, of acres confined into proper sections by white fences; of white barns set precisely in their lots. Even the cows gave the impression of impeccable grooming.

"They are groomed," Mrs. MacKelvey affirmed. "They are washed and brushed before each milking."

It was milking time, and Constance was led through vast white caverns with spotlessly clean cement floors. No picturesque milkers squatted on three-legged stools; the milkers were electric, operated by remote control in the

WAITRESS EARNED HER $46 TIP FROM HENRY FORD
PORT WAYNE, Ind., Sept. 10 (AP)—Good service as a waitress in a hotel dining room—which included "keeping" curiously seekers away from Henry Ford—brought Ethel Goff, 19, a $46 reward.
When the girl found the change after the $4 luncheon check of Ford's party had been paid she thought it might have been left by accident.
But Harry Bennett, personnel director of the Ford Motor company, said at Detroit last night that he "left the money purposely" after paying the bill because Miss Gaff had given good service and kept curious persons from disturbing the automobile magnate.

GUARDIANS WARNED
BUCHARST, Sept. 11 (AP)—Rumania's military dictator, Gen. Ion Antonescu, broadcast a warning today against "dissatisfaction and anarchic movements," which he said have begun to show themselves.
Political circles believed the warning was intended especially for members of the pro-Nazi Iron guard.

Bombins

When the fighters pitched into them.

Soon a third alarm was sounded at 5:03 p. m. (10:30 a. m. C.S.T.) This third alarm ended after 22 minutes.

An earlier alarm at 11:53 a. m. (4:53 a. m. C.S.T.) lasted but ten minutes, then, reconnaissance planes apparently sought to explore damage after their night-long raid last night.

The bomb which destroyed part of a wing of the royal residence was dropped Sunday night in the first of the big raids on the center of London and exploded Tuesday.

A special bulletin announcing the raids on the German capital was issued as this war-battered capital experienced a 10-minute air raid alarm, the first of the day, after a fourth successive night of still heavy, but lessening German attacks in which bombs fell near three famous museums and in Regent, Oxford and Bond streets, the "shop window of the empire."

Hundreds of incendiary bombs rained on the Potsdam station, only seven-tenths of a mile from Adolf Hitler's chancellery, the air ministry said, after every one of the British war planes had made a direct hit with heavy explosives.

"Several of them made glide attacks through the anti-aircraft barrage," the special bulletin said.

Many fires were started. The station was described as one of Berlin's major railroad terminals, handling traffic for Magdeburg and southwest Germany.

Clouds over the London area were turned to livid red last night as German bombers made their fourth successive large-scale nocturnal visit. Other cities, far and wide, shared the heavy punishment this time, some of them for as long as two hours. Nevertheless, an official communique said "preliminary reports indicate that this is less severe and that the casualties are considerably lighter than on the preceding nights."

Warehouses and factories on the Thames waterfront and in the city were set afire, and bombs were scattered in South Wales, the Bristol channel district and western and eastern England, the communique said.

Heavier anti-aircraft appeared to observers to have turned most of the raiders away from the central city.

Nevertheless, bombs demolished one big apartment building on a square in central London, hit a large maternity hospital, smashed streets and caused large business blocks to quiver from the blasts.

Workers still were struggling to restore some of the transportation, water and gas services disrupted by previous attacks.

Ready To Repay Pension Loan

AUSTIN, Sept. 11 (AP)—Texas old age pensioners, numbering 119,000, had cause for moderate rejoicing today.

Final repayment of $2,300,000 borrowed two years ago to bolster faltering old age assistance payments was only a matter of technicalities.

The state treasurer was ready to cancel the debt with $180,000 cash as soon as warrants were presented.

Start of $180,000 and $200,000 monthly liquidation payments on the loan from a Dallas bank caused a flat $6 slash in individual payments last October bringing the average pensioner's check down from $14.41 to $8.41.

Board of public welfare officials, however, pointed out the entire slash could not be reinstated at once due to a number of factors, chief among which was lack of money in a revolving fund which had been used to boost pensions to their pre-October-1939 levels.

Current payments, which will be mailed 119,007 recipients in a few days, average $11.16 each as compared with $10.86 last month and represent an increase of $2.75 over the average payment when the slash was imposed. They amount to $1,328,259.

Louisiana Cases Up To High Court

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11 (AP)—The justice department urged the supreme court today to refuse to review the conviction of four men on a charge of using the mails to defraud Louisiana State University.

Those appealing included Seymour Weiss, associate of the late Huey P. Long, J. Emory Adams and Louis C. Lesage. An appeal also was pending in behalf of Monte Hart, who died recently, but the justice department said its decision of his separate petition "may well be unnecessary."

Dr. James Monroe Smith, former president of the university, also was convicted but did not appeal.

H. F. Malone Is Named To District Job

Haddon F. Malone, county project supervisor for the recreational program here for the past three years, will become assistant recreational supervisor for WPA district No. 19 effective Monday, it was announced Wednesday.

Malcolm Bridges, widely known in this section of the state as a recreational leader, will succeed Malone here as project supervisor.

The change is part of a general movement of supervisors in the district and amounts to a promotion for Malone, who will have supervisory capacities over the entire district.

He came here with his family in August of 1937 when the city went into the WPA recreational setup. Since then six playgrounds have been set up or utilized in the city, and two programs have been organized at Moore and Hartwells communities. From practically no supervised recreation, the program has grown until it touches thousands annually.

Bridges, who now is at San Angelo, is known for the boxing teams he tutored at Kermit and is famed as producer of marionette shows.

Grid Prospects Are Reviewed By Coach Before Lions Club

Reviewing the financial picture of football in Big Spring high school, Coach Pat Murphy Wednesday told the Lions club that the sport pays its own way in this city.

No tax money is diverted into sports, he said, football making possible aid in other fields of activity, Murphy pointed out.

This year the team has an expectation of $13,000 in gross revenues, of which only about half will be the local share. The net will amount to about $2,000 and this will be applied to retirement of stadium indebtedness.

The coach sketched plans for development of a practice field and when indebtedness is cleared, to build a dressing room and club house at the stadium. He said all of this was an investment in boys.

Murphy said a hard schedule, with only four home games, lay ahead of the boys, but predicted that they would make every attempt to deliver. He asked for club cooperation in attending the games and encouraging boys to play clean, hard play.

Two Children Are Killed As Train Hits School Truck

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Sept. 11 (AP)—Two children were killed, another probably fatally injured, and four others hurt when a Santa Fe streamliner, El Capitan, struck a school pickup truck at Bernallillo today.

Wreckage of the light truck was strewn down the track. Investigating authorities said skid marks indicated the driver, Candido Sandoval, father of one of the dead, tried desperately to stop the car in the face of the approaching train.

son, rocked the house when he arose to answer keynoter Hal H. Collins' criticism of some of the new deal's major policies.

"There are no Willie democrats," young Roosevelt, gesturing in shirt sleeves, roared. "But there is a renegade democrat heading the republican ticket."

He defended the administration's spending as the "thing that has kept the spark of life and hope alive in all Americans, regardless of circumstances."

Keynoter Collins, who had flayed excessive governmental spending and described the Wagner act as taking away powers from courts, without a great round of boos during his radio address, but smiled and said:

"I like all of you folks—and I want you to know I'm not speaking against that great man, President Roosevelt."

McDONALD WON'T SAY HOW HE'LL VOTE

AUSTIN, Sept. 11 (AP)—State Agriculture Commissioner J. E. McDonald said today the Texas democratic convention had a right to criticize his actions as he had a right "to vote for the presidential candidate who offers the farmers the soundest agricultural program."

He was commenting on a resolution adopted at the convention in Mineral Wells yesterday calling on him to say whether he would vote for Willie or Roosevelt. The resolution expressed condemnation if he should support the republican presidential nominee.

The commissioner, re-nominated by Texas democrats for a sixth term of two years, did not say in his statement how he would vote.
