Week-end Mission Trip To Arizona Is Wonderful

The proof that God is alive and still performing miracles was observed August 24, 25 and 26 when twenty-six area people chartered a Greyhound bus and took a 1400 mile trip to San Pedro Baptist Church in Winkleman, Arizona to share their love for Jesus with the people who were willing to make their way to the little mission that boast of having 100 members.

During the three-day event there were at least seven conversions and many, many rededicated lives. The Lay Witness team left a happy God loving mission in contrast to the cold uninspired mission they entered on Friday.

Hershal Wilson, a member of the Sunnyside Baptist Church, was co-ordinator for the lay witness mission. He said that when they chartered the bus, they had no idea how they would raise the money to pay the bus company. The regular charge was supposed to be $1 per mile and the amount would have been $1400. The bus company helped by cutting their fee to $920, and furnishing the cold drinks. The bus was driven by bus employee, Herman Wisian of Amarillo, He and his wife, Mary, were team members of the mission.

Every member of the team shared the expenses to pay for the transportation and food,

When the people of the little mission realized these 26 people had found a way to charter a bus and pay their own expenses to relate to them about what God can do with a totally dedicated life they began to realize the personal in their home for the next few relationship each member of months.

IT TAKES MORE THAN HARD WORK

MEANING OF PRODUCTIVITY

Words can be confusing. For example, if you call a oung lady a "vision" she will consider it a compliment, but if you say she is a "sight," then watch out. Yet, basically they both have the same meaning.

Now, let's take the case of productivity and production. There is an important difference. Production refers to the total quantity of goods produced, while productivity is often expressed as the measurement of output per man

Just as a football player, no matter how much skill he has, or how hard he works to keep in condition, needs good equipment to produce victories, increased productivity by business and industry is achieved by melding all factors-raw materials, labor, and capital costs-in the manufacturing of a product. A major result in the efficient use of capital funds is an increase in output per man hour with no increase or reduction of the physical work effort in the creating of products.

A better appreciation of what productivity is all about is essential if we are to compete successfully in the marketplaces of the world.

Favorable weather so far this season points to a successful Texas cotton crop that will cotton producing state since pay farmers their highest cotton prices since 1951.

"Tight supplies andrelatively strong demands, both domestic and export, indicate that the average 1973-74 cotton price to the farmer will be higher than in the past season even though mid-season demand will again be weak," says Charles Baker, marketing economist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"Early season cotton last year was heavily contracted to cover domestic mill needs for the last quarter of 1972. However, the anticipated large crop resulted in a weak midduly depressed. Domestic mills and foreign buyers sharpened demand in late 1972 and early 1973, resulting in depletion of uncommitted stocks, contracts for much of the 1973-74 crop and record prices," explains the special-

Goverment Still A Bargain

While city and school taxes increased steadily in the past several years, most Texas counties have experienced comparatively lower cost increases, notes Charles E. Law-Bonnie Haberer, Mr. and Mrs. rence, county officials program specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. Others included Rev. David In fact, many counties are granting tax reductions.

> The ability of county governments contain their costs is the result of their unique structure, explains the Texas A&M University System specialist. Since all executive department heads are elected by direct vote of the people. hey have a personal stake in seeing that their respective offices function with maxinum efficiency and at reasonable cost.

> The Commissioners' Court, five-member executive body. as well as the other elected county officials, have occasionally been unjustly critized," says the specialist, "Although they are more limited in authority by statute than municipalities, counties have had an excellent track record in rendering high quality service at a very modest cost.

The fact that county leaderhip is collective rather than singular does not seem to impair its effectiveness in reponding to public need," adds La wrence.

On the whole, office holders whose tenure depends upon the direct action of the voters tend to be much more sensitive to public demands than are nonelective public servants. With more than 5,000 Texans holding elective county positions, it is only natural for Texas county governments to operate economically," says Lawrence.

Many Children Die From Lead Poisoning

children die and several thousand others are crippled by a disease most of us know little about. The disease? Lead toms, poisoning.

Its victims may suffer blindness, cerebral palsy, kidney disease, mental retardation and other permanent brain damage. say state health officials.

Some 400,000 children are poisoned annually in this country by repeated intakes of lead-based paints, with 4,000 of this number receiving ermanent damage. The tragedy of this silent, man-made threat is that it is preventable.

While most instances of lead poisoning in children is traceable to flaking paint on old houses, other sources also are suspect. These include automobile exhausts, innocentlooking playthings, and leadglazed ceramic ware.

Americans are beginning to realize the potential danger that lies hidden in lead-based paint -- an unforseen legacy from pre-World War 11 days. Even after the war, many paints were pigmented with durable white lead. Even though manufacturers of paint now must meet stringent regulations for indoor paints, millions of children throughout the United States still are exposed to existing toxic paint in addition to the cloud of lead - laden exhaust fumes covering many cities and metropolitan areas. Research is underway now to determine the defects of automobile exhaust furnes on city dwellers. Lead poisoning occurs when children eat the sweet-tasting chips and flakes of lead-based paint from walls and other surfaces of old houses. Most of

of one and six years. The first nationwide survey vice should be sought. of blood lead levels in children indicates that almost any city with decaying housing has youngsters in danger of lead poisoning. Investigators found high blood levels of lead in 85 percent of the communities tested. Studies indicate that 10 to 25 percent of children in high-risk areas have blood levels indicating they are eat- hair.

> Experts say children eat paint chips because it has a sweet taste with a sort of alcoholic aftertaste. But even if paint had a bad taste, children probably would eat paint chips for their crunchiness, say health experts.

An underlying reason for eating chips of leaded paint and such things as paper, cigarette butts, crayons, matches and clay-may be that children have "pica". Pica is a little understood but compulsive urge to eat strange things even when a person is not Lead poisoning can be prevented. Parents and others living in homes where leaded paint may be a problem should be warned of the dangers. Children should be prevented from chewing on painted articles or picking up chips from the floor.

Mass education and information is being focused primarily on residents in deteriorating housing-such as ghetto areas. Although lead poisoning isn't limited to poor people, they are most likely to be living in such buildings. But even better quality homes may have been painted with lead-based paints. Also important is the matter of toys and atmospheric lead from pollution.

Public health nurses, sanitarians, parents and others need to be on the lookout for early symptoms of lead absorption. These vague symptoms include irritability, poor appetite and chronic constipation. While symptomatic of other problems as well, these are indications that medical ad-

Is there hope for a leadpoisoned child? Yes, say state health officials, if the malady is detected soon enough, Laboratory analyses of blood and IN PERRYTON urine can detect lead's presence. Another ingenious method of finding lead -- by a process called spectrophotometry is in a snippet of the victim's

Lead poisoning can cause severe handicaps and be a costly malady. Health authorities estimate that a moderately brain-damaged child needs about 10 years of special education and care at a cost of $1,750 per year -- or $5.6 million for 3, 200 of the children who are annually afflicted by lead poisoning. The other 800 children permanently damaged required life-time, institutional care costing some $4,000 per year -- or $3,2 million during their life spans.

Often the symptoms of lead poisoning go completely unnoticed. But lead, like other metals, accumulates in the body. State health authorities estimate that it takes only two or three paint chips little bigger than a fingernail, chewed daily over a period of some three months, to cause severe

Texas Farmers Set Production Levels For Year

Texas farmers and livestock raisers are setting new production levels this year, Agriculture Commissioner John White reported. Records, according to White, are being tied or broken for wheat, cotton, grain sorghum, corn, peanuts, soybeans, oats, * barley, rye and rice. Texas is first in the nation in cotton and grain sorghum and fourth in wheat production.

Texas cattle on feed total 2.3 million, said White, about 700,000 more than the second ranking state, Iowa, and an increase of nine per cent over last year. White said cattle producers marketed more cattle during June and July than they did a year ago, proving that they are not holding back because of the price freeze on White predicted that removal of the beef price ceiling will not cause skyrocketing of meat prices and may even help bring them down.

He said there are warning signs consumer resistance to the rising prices of food products is stiffening.

CLEAN ENERGY

FOR TODAY AND TOMORROW

A Natural Energy Home uses natural gas for heating, cooling, water heating, cooking and clothes drying to save you money and help conserve our cleanest natural energy resource . . . natural gas.

That's because electricity in West Texas is generated by burning natural gas, and in the process of generating and transmitting electricity to your home, 2/3 of the gas energy is lost.

So, by using gas directly in the home for the jobs it can do, you're helping to conserve it and you're getting more energy for your money.
