Allred Not To Take Action Today On Denison's Status

Denison Takes Office In Face Of Rejection

Ely And Martin Pay No Attention To Call For Meeting

AUSTIN (AP)—Attorney General Allred announced he would not take court action Monday to determine the status of F. L. Denison, Temple, who claims chairmanship of the highway commission in the fact of the senate's double rejection of his appointment by Governor Ferguson.

ABILENE—W. R. Ely, state highway chairman, will ignore Frank L. Denison's call for a Monday meeting of the commission, he indicated Saturday. In the controversy raging over Governor Miriam A. Ferguson's attempt to place Denison on the commission, as chairman, Ely had, until Saturday declined to make any statement. But said: "Mr. Martin"—(D. K. Martin, member of the commission)—"and I do not know of any extraordinary reason why the commission should meet at this time. I recognize the right of the chairman of the highway commission to call a special meeting, but until it is judicially determined that Mr. Denison is a member of the commission I do not feel that I should be running back and forth to Austin at his beck and call, any more than I would that of any other citizen. "When I have the time I shall be happy to meet with Mr. Denison to discuss matters pertaining to the highway department, or otherwise, but I feel that he ought to be certain of his right to call a meeting before he does so."

Red Bluff Dam Bids Received

Contract Contingent Upon Loan From Reconstruction Board

PECOB—After bids for construction of the $5,000,000 Red Bluff reservoir were opened here Saturday afternoon by Vernon L. Sullivan, in charge of the project, announced that the successful bidder was S. J. Grove and Sons of Philadelphia.

Terms of the contract were such that the exact amount involved could not be announced at this time. There were 32 contractors bidding for the job.

The dam will open for cultivation 100,000 acres of arid land along the Pecos river.

Construction of the dam is contingent upon the district obtaining a loan from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. Negotiations with the R. F. C. have been under way for nearly six months.

A special law to legalize the Red Bluff district and empower it to levy taxes for repayment of the R. F. C. loan is now before the Texas legislature. The Reconstruction Finance Corporation was expected to give a final ruling on the Red Bluff loan some time in March.

SPOTLIGHT

CHAPTER XLII

Dick and Sheila followed Dorothy to the curb and saw her into the car. Dorothy knew Dick wanted to talk to Sheila alone and did not press her invitation that they should come with her. After a few moments' hesitation, Dorothy said good night and the huge limousine disappeared silently around the corner.

Sheila watched almost wistfully. Was it fair that she and Eve and Tillie and dozens of others had to toil for every cent they owned when some girls had so much and did nothing to deserve it? Not that Sheila begrudged Dorothy Trevor her fortune. Nor did she ordinarily begrudge her own fate. Tonight, however, Sheila was tired. It seemed unfair that this other girl should have everything in the world to make for happiness while Sheila herself must toil and save and sacrifice. No, it didn't seem fair.

Standing beside Dick in the quiet street, Sheila said some of these things. It was he who finally broke the silence.

"Would you like a taxi," he asked, "or shall we take the bus? I don't think it will be crowded at this hour. Wonderful car Dorothy has, don't you think so?"

"It's marvelous," Sheila agreed. "Foreign, isn't it? I've never seen one like it."

Dick told her the car bore a French trade name and was extremely expensive. "The whole family thinks it's shocking the way that kid spends money," he went on. "But after all it's hers. I guess she has the right to do as she pleases with it."

They started walking slowly toward Fifth Avenue. The street was almost deserted except for a few pedestrians. Now and then a taxicab rolled past and in the distance a lumbering bus was disappearing.

"Does Dorothy have lots of money?" Sheila asked. "I know she's considered one of Henri's best customers."

Dick nodded. "Oh, yes, she has money, all right. More than she can spend. It's all in her own name, too. Her father was Warren Trevor. Maybe you've heard of him. Built up an enormous fortune on Wall Street and died while he was still comparatively young. He left the entire fortune to Dorothy."

"She doesn't seem a bit of a snob," mused Sheila.

"Oh, she's not," Dick spoke loyally. "His cousin, for all their playful quarreling during the evening, occupied a warm spot in his heart. She isn't in the least bit snobbish. Why should she be? She's always had money and doesn't think anything about it. Dorothy's there was a chance that something could be done. Dick decided privately to call on Mandrake casually some day soon and find out. It could do no harm and it might help Sheila.

"If Mandrake had a good part I think he'd give it to Frances Barton," the girl added.

"But she's not such a wonderful dancer."

"She's very good, Dick, as a matter of fact. And she's built up a name for herself."

"That was what so many veterans of the stage had told Sheila she should do. Stay in New York instead of going on the road. With a part for herself in a Broadway show where the critics would see her. That was the way to success on the stage. It would mean better parts and a higher salary for her. McKee, the comedian in the 'High-he' company, had told her that. Others had said the same thing and Sheila, sure what she wanted and that it was not Broadway fame, had refused to listen.

She and Dick parted without making any definite arrangements to meet again. Somehow this hurt Sheila. She knew that she had treated Dick badly. Still to have him appear neglectful was a blow.

In her own room, evading the questions of the sharp-eyed Eve who had slid into bed a few moments earlier, Sheila undressed and reflected on all this. It was probably true that Dick was treating her exactly as she deserved. Then, too, the date with him tonight had not really been a date at all. Dorothy had arranged it and Dick had been helpless to escape.

Brushing her hair, dabbing her face with cream to cleanse it, bathing her tired body in hot water, Sheila was at last ready for bed. Eve's bright, bird-like eyes looked up at her from across the room.

"Anything wrong, Sheila?" she asked sympathetically.

"No. Go to sleep like a good child."

But Sheila herself did not sleep for a long while. She snipped at the light and then lay still and wide awake. She was thinking of Dick, no longer the attentive, pleading sweetheart but a pal, a friend. He had talked to her exactly as he might have to any of a dozen girls. Asked about her work and showed friendly interest. Now that Dick was apparently out of reach he

Land Bank Official Declares More Common Sense, Less Bluff Needed In Mortgage Situation

By Ray Black
United Press Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO, (UP)—More common sense and less bluff is the solution to the farm mortgage foreclosure problem, as seen by C. B. Jennett, vice president of the First Trust Joint Stock Land Bank of Chicago.

"It is time to think of the investor as well as the farmer," he said.

"The attitude of mortgage holders who put the farmers on the defensive by forcing the issue now is lamentable," Jennett told the United Press.

"That attitude results in demonstrations by farmers as those at Kankakee, Ill., and fans the flames of trouble. If the idea becomes widespread, it will result in refusal of city groups to pay interest on mortgages and may force a general moratorium.

"Consequences of such a situation are disastrous. Purchasing power of the investors would be drastically curtailed and the pinch would be felt all along the line."

Jennett stressed that no expensive machinery would have to be set up to carry out a common sense solution of the problem, as seemed much more attractive.

Was it possible that she could be falling in love with him? With Dick? Was it possible that she had been mistaken in her devotion to Jerry?

All that Sheila was sure of was that she was very tired and miserably unhappy.

She arrived at Henri's promptly next morning. The day moved much as the one before it except that it was easier because she knew what to expect. True to her word, Dorothy Trevor arrived in the afternoon and ordered several frocks. She must have said something to Henri about Sheila because he drew Sheila aside just before the end of the day and said quietly, "This once I shall close my eyes to the fact that last night I saw you drive away with Miss Trevor. Oh, yes, I saw you! See that you don't do it again, however!"

YOUNG INSULT AT SENATE HEARING

It is worthless from a naval standpoint. NEW YORK By James McMullin

Correction— In this column last Monday reference was made to former Governor James M. Cox having recently suffered a stroke. That was a most regrettable error. There never has been any "stroke."

Loans— A good way of promoting local confidence in banks and helping employment at the same time has been found by a Washington newspaper.

It is conducting a campaign for repairing and remodeling homes. Bankers of the city formed a half million dollar pool for that purpose. Money is being lent in amounts up to $500 at 6 per cent. Loans must be repaid in twelve months. Only the personal note of home owners is required. Only depositors are eligible and only at banks where they have been doing business.

Loyalty— Mr. Hoover is trying to take care of his close associates who will join the ranks of unemployed with him after March 4. Some are urgently in need of jobs. The nomination of his political secretary, Walter Newton, as a federal judge was only a complimentary gesture. Newton sounded out the senators some weeks back and found there was no chance to be confirmed. Republicans are trying to arrange a deal on it with the democrats. They have little to offer. Newton will probably return to Minnesota to practice law. Mr. Hoover is seeking a good post for his publicity secretary in the newspaper field. The confidential secretary will remain in his service.

Safety— Bernard Baruch says thousands have asked him what to put their money in nowadays. He said he always replied: "I don't know." One inquisitive friend asked: "Well if you do not know, how in the world would I ever find out?" Baruch replied: "I don't know." He did not say what he had his mind on.

Dud— The Harrison economic investigation was buried in a storm of chicken feed. They tried to get one big man on the stand each day to preserve the Page One publicity standing of the investigation. The men they counted on avoided and delayed their appearances for one reason or another. In their places came a crowd of selling plasters who wandered around in all directions.

The only effect of the inquiry so far has been to stimulate the budget balancing and sound currency ideas on a smaller publicity scale than was anticipated.

Prevention— Legislation to prevent a recurrence of such a thing as the Insull financing is now in the making. The senate hearings produced little evidence that was not already known. It did make a record on which to base the legislation senators have in mind.

So many other things must be done in the next congress that this subject will be delayed. However, you may expect to see action probably within a year.

Relief— The Hoovers have taken the November election result very gracefully. Mrs. Hoover was positively gay at two recent receptions. The President is obviously relieved. Apparently they both have reached the practical conclusion that a great burden has been lifted from them.

Notes— There is a deep legal question involved in Japan's announcement that she will hold her mandated islands after her withdrawal from the League of Nations. We have a treaty with her whereby she gives us an annual report on those islands despite the fact that the Japanese mandate was obtained from the league. We may not get aroused if she keeps the islands but we will expect our annual report concerning them. The island of Yap is not a part of the difficulty. It received a lot of notoriety during the Washington arms conference when we received the right to put a cable station there. The Japs have never interfered with our cable station.

Radio— The big radio chains are up against a new kind of competition. Quite a few advertisers are trying the stunt of having their programs electrically recorded and distributed through small independent stations. Savings are good and the practice is spreading.

Heat— The farm Board is still holding his counsel was eagerly sought by men desirous of public office.

He was a close friend of Col. Edward M. House, another Texan who was Woodrow Wilson's friend and advisor.

Gregory's benefactions to the University of Texas, where he obtained his law degree, were well known, although no estimate has been placed on them. He was an enthusiastic supporter of that school's athletic organizations, particularly its football teams.

The Gregory gymnasium at Austin was named in his honor.

Son of Confederacy Gregory was born Nov. 6, 1861, in Crawfordville, Miss., the son of Francis Robert and Mary Cornelia Watt Gregory. His father, an infantry captain in a Mississippi regiment of the Confederate army, died in the service in 1862.

After attending private schools in Mississippi, Gregory entered Southwestern Presbyterian University at Clarksville, Tenn., where he was graduated in 1883. He studied law a year at University of Virginia, later entering the University of Texas law school at Austin and receiving his LL. D. degree there in 1885.

Upon graduation he was admitted to the Texas bar and began practicing law in Austin. He served a year as an assistant city attorney of Austin. He declined appointments as assistant attorney general of Texas and as district judge. In 1890 he formed the firm of Gregory and Batis, which was employed by the state to prosecute various corporations for violations of the anti-trust statutes. Eight years later he was appointed assistant U. S. attorney general in charge of investigation and prosecution of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad for violation of the Sherman Act. With this appointment began his Washington career.

Attorney General President Wilson appointed Gregory attorney general of the United States on Aug. 29, 1914, and he served in the cabinet until March 4, 1919. His record as attorney general during the difficult years of the world war was one of distinction.

Following his retirement from the cabinet he was a member of President Wilson's second Industrial conference, in 1919 and 1920.

He was a regent of the University of Texas from 1899 and 1907, and was a trustee of Austin Presbyterian Theological Seminary. He was the author of several pamphlets, including: "The University and the State"; "Reconstruction and the Ku Klux Klan"; "Woodrow Wilson and the League of Nations," and important legal briefs.

He was married Feb. 22, 1893, to Miss Julia Nalle of Austin. Surviving besides Mrs. Gregory are two daughters, Mrs. George S. Eyer and Miss Cornelia Gregory and two sons, Joseph and Thomas Watt, Jr.

Took CARDUI for Pains, Cramping "I have taken Cardui for irregular trouble, also for pains and cramping, and it helps me," writes Mrs. Mattie Crummer, of Arkansas, Texas. "I gave Cardui to my daughters and it helped them very much. They had pains and cramps, and it did them good."

Cardui is given the credit for relieving so many cases of womanly suffering that it is widely and favorably known. Druggists, everywhere, sell it. If you are weak, run-down, suffering monthly, take Cardui. Take it for a reasonable length of time and try it thoroughly. As your health improves, you will share the enthusiasm of thousands of women who have written to say: "Cardui helped me."

Taking the Chase Out of Purchase

'ADVERTISING benefits the man who buys as well as the man who sells. It is part of the Golden Rule of Business and it works both ways.

Don't miss the advertisements in this newspaper. Many of them are interesting just because of their news and educational value alone.

But more than that: Advertisements take the chase out of purchase and make every penny do its full duty.

This last statement is one particularly to be remembered when common-sense economy is not only a national duty, but an individual necessity.

Jesse James Posed As Own Slayer And Got Reward, Says Old Friend

"How the people held their breath when they heard of Jesse's death and wondered how he came to die; for the big reward little Robert Ford had placed on his head."

DUBLIN (UP)—Contradicting the old saloon-day refrain Uncle Bill Goodwin, 77, former peace officer and boyhood playmate of the James brothers, claims that Jesse James posed as his own slayer and collected the bounty which had been placed on his head.

"What really happened was that when Jesse found Bob was plotting to kill him, Jesse killed Bob and sold Ford's body to the law, claiming it was that of Jesse James."

"How do I know?" Goodwin anticipated the inevitable question. "I saw Jesse and talked to him in Brownwood long after the funeral was held. He was a prosperous and respected business man at Brownwood."

According to the version of his former playmate Jesse James died with his boots off in a lined bed at Brownwood in 1888.

Goodwin is positive of the identity of the famous desperado. "Frank James, his brother, was with me at the time. We went to Brownwood for the very purpose of seeing Jesse. Besides, when I was a kid back in Clay county, Missouri, I played with Frank and Jesse."

A Robin Hood code of ethics was one of the virtues seen by Goodwin in the most publicized highwaymen who ever held up a southwestern stage coach.

He recalled how the James brothers, touched by sight of a weathered widow's tears, inquired the cause of her sorrow and learned that a mortgage was to be foreclosed because she was unable to meet a $600 payment.

Jesse, according to Goodwin, gave the widow money to pay the mortgage when the sheriff called, then lay in wait and robbed the officer.

"How do I know?" asked Uncle Bill. "Well, I was somewhere thereabouts." Goodwin has lived here 50 years, acting as marshal of the town through the 90's. During the Civil War his father was shot to death by Missouri bushwhackers. Goodwin set out to find the slayer.

Was he successful? He prefers not to say, but he is no longer on the hunt.

West Leads For Garner's Place

SAN ANTONIO, (UP)—Milton H. West, Brownsville attorney, continued to hold the lead as tabulation proceeded of the vote in the first Democratic primary to pick a candidate for the congressional seat now held by John N. Garner, vice-president-elect.

The latest tabulation gave West 8,221 votes; Gordon Griffin of McAllen 3,894; and Charles R. Tipton of Three Rivers 3,227. It was believed that there are insufficient votes outstanding to change the positions of the three leading candidates.

Nine men sought the Democratic nomination. A run off primary between the two leaders will be held March 5. The winner will oppose Carlos C. Watson of Brownsville, Republican, in the general district election April 22.

March 15 Last Day For Filing Of Tax Returns

March 15 is the deadline on filing income tax returns with Uncle Sam and in the meantime, citizens who are confronted with this task of giving the government its share of 1932 revenue will be busy trying to figure out just how much they are expected to pay.

In 1932, single persons had an exemption of $1,500 and married persons $3,500. These have been reduced to $1,000 and $2,500 respectively.

All persons and business having a gross income of $5,000 or more, regardless of net income, also are required to file a return.

For the purpose of indicating possible exemptions and deductions, consider for example, a single man receiving a net income of $1,500 and a married man $3,000. Each would take his personal exemption of $1,000 and $2,500 respectively, leaving a taxable net income in each case of $500.

A single person may also be the head of a family and be entitled to the same $2,500 exemption which the married person received. A bachelor supporting his mother in his own home or other dependents, is the head of the family. He may further claim $400 additional exemption for each dependent.

The married man may deduct $400 for each of his dependents. Other exemptions include contributions to churches, amusement taxes and all other Federal levies paid by the consumer and not the manufacturer. Cigarette taxes are not deductible. Fire and theft losses not covered by insurance are deductible as are taxes paid directly to a state or its political subdivisions.

Interest paid out, bad debts, stock losses on family held two years, and automobile license fees are other deductible items. The tax rate is 4 per cent on the first $4,000 of the finally ascertained taxable income. For amounts beyond this, the tax is 8 per cent. In addition, if the net income is over $68,000 there are graduated sur-taxes running up to 55 per cent.

Large Crowd Attracted By DeMille Film

"The Sign of the Cross" To Be Shown Today and Tuesday

Spectacle upon spectacle, magnificence outdoing itself—Cecil B. DeMille's "The Sign of the Cross" opened its local engagement Saturday night at the Ritz Theatre and treated a large audience to a vivid picture of pagan Rome in all its glory. It will be shown today and Tuesday. Many believed, and steadfastly contended, that the day of the film spectacle passed with the advent of talking pictures.

Here is unfolded the whole pageant of Rome in the time of Nero—at once the most dissolute and the most colorful period in Roman history. Here is the dramatic contrast between the palaces of the patrician Romans and the humble, hidden abodes of the early Christians.

And here, as a climax to the whole spectacle, is the Circus Maximus with its gladiatorial combats, its wrestling matches between black men and bears or crocodiles, its battles between Amazons and dwarfs, its chariot races, and its featured event—the feeding of the Christians to the lions. Here, in short, is an unforgettable panorama of an age of blood and licentiousness and passion and majesty.

Once more, as in the days of "The Ten Commandments" and "King of Kings," enormous crowds mill before the camera, and once more, DeMille proves himself the undisputed master of crowd effects. The street scenes and the scenes laid in the Circus Maximus are masterpieces of mob excitement.

In its cast, too, "The Sign of the Cross" merits extravagant praise. It is difficult to imagine a more perfect Nero than Charles Laughton. The manner in which this young Englishman portrays the cruelty, the lewd madness of Nero and yet maintains an absolute semblance of reality, is little short of miraculous. It is a performance that will go down on the screen role of honor.

March's Greatest Role As the cruel sensualist, Poppaea, Claudette Colbert is also responsible for a performance of unusual brilliance. Elissa Landi rises to new and unexpected heights of emotional acting as the Christian, Mercia, and Fredric March surpasses anything he has ever done for the screen as the favorite of Nero's court, Marcus Superbus, whose love for the Christian girl proves stronger than tradition, wealth, position or even life.

In the secondary roles are Ian Keith as a sinister villain, captain of Nero's guard; Vivian Tobin, charming in her first screen role as a gossip Roman matron; Fredinand Gottschalk bringing his fine talent to the role of a philosopher; Tommy Conlon as a Christian boy, and a dancer named Joyelle as the courtesan, Ancharia.

El Paso Tigers Defeat McCamey

ALPINE—The El Paso Tigers forged ahead in the final period Saturday night to defeat the McCamey Badgers 25-19 here for the District 17 high school basketball championship.

Last year McCamey won the title, breaking a string of 12 consecutive wins for one or another of the four El Paso schools.

McCamey led at the first quarter three points and the count was tied at the half and third quarter.

In the semi-finals, El Paso defeated Lytle 41-19 and McCamey beat Fort Hancock 43-12. There are 12 counties in this district, whose champion is scheduled to meet the San Antonio regional victor in bi-district competition.

THE LAZY DOGS BALT LAKE CITY—The "vicious" dogs which B. H. Clegg and Wendell Jarvis, filling station attendants, left to guard their station are in disgrace. While the two men were at a dance a clever burglar entered the station with a pass key and stole $26.74. When Clegg and Jarvis returned to their station the two dogs were sleeping peacefully.

Under The Dome At Austin

By GORDON K. SHEARER United Press Staff Correspondent AUSTIN (UP)—Fred Minor of Denton, who was speaker of the Forty-Second legislature, is to be a candidate for attorney-general in 1934, if Attorney General James V. Allred does not again seek the post.

Minor, perhaps one of the most popular speakers to preside over the House in many years, has a host of friends among the legislature before becoming speaker of the Forty-Second. He comes from the 100 mile circle which is said to include nearly two-thirds of the voting strength of the state.

Despite the calls for cheapening government, the Forty-Third legislature is beset with the usual lot of bill proposing boards to license various occupations.

Photographers now seek such a measure and declare that people are being victimized by itinerants. The barbers set the pace two session ago. Beauty shops followed the next session, but failed to get their bill through. They are asking one this year.

Licensing of architects and electricians is also proposed, with appropriate fees for salary paid officials to examine and supervise.

The state owns deer on several big ranches but hunting is prohibited without permission of the ranch owners. Chairman A. E. Wood of the state game commission told the house state affairs committee.

The King and Schreiner ranches were cited in the discussion. Wood said there are large tracts, particularly in Southwest Texas, where hunting is still open.

The ranchmen are willing for the state to transport deer from the ranches, Wood said, but they are so wild that efforts to trap them have been abandoned.

"We can trap them, all right," he said, "but they either kill themselves so badly that they do not live long after being moved."

Some attempt to spread deer is made by having fawns captured and fed until they are big enough to move.

Many turkeys from the ranches are trapped and moved, Wood said. The only way to give the people a right generally to shoot the public game, Wood said, is to repeal the trespass statutes.

The counsel table used by the senate highway commission investigation committee is in the form of a letter "T".

Wily conjurers wonder "if it was pure chance, if the 'T' is patriotic for Texas, or if it is an initial capital letter for TROUBLE."

Blood entered the senate highway commission inquiry twice in one day.

After Senator Waiter Woodward had crowned Attorney J. F. Hall with a water pitcher, Senator Clint Small, chairman of the senate investigating committee, was seen dabbling at his nose with a handkerchief. The red spots on the handkerchief were from a nose bleeding from natural cause, or it may have been the power of suggestion.

Texas rapidly is emerging from a dry state so far as water supply is concerned.

Records of the state board of water engineers have indicated that $75,000,000 worth of water storage and distribution work has been done in the state in five years time.

The board has passed on $30,000,000 worth of bond issues to be used in public water projects in that time. It is estimated the private projects, constructed without public bond issues, have amounted to half as much.

Among the privately financed projects have been a series of dams on the Guadalupe and the large dam project on the Colorado.

Texas' health department appropriation, at first glance, seems on a par with other states, says Dr. J. C. Anderson, retiring state health officer, but the size of the state, the possession of five seaports and a long international border line, really make it less.

Louisiana, about a fifth as large, spends 60 per cent more, Dr. Anderson has computed. To be on a par, he estimates Texas should spend $1,000,000 a year instead of $281,000. The United States quarantine service, however, assists in preventing introduction of diseases either by the seaports or along the Mexican border.

Mrs. R. V. Hart has returned from visits to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Haley at Cross Plains, and her sister, Mrs. James E. Ross of Biard.

HOW TO READ YOUR GAS METER

There is nothing mysterious about the reading of a gas meter. The ability to read a meter will acquaint patrons with the rate with which gas is being consumed on their premises. A meter also is valuable in detecting leaks. The accompanying illustration shows what is known as a four dial meter, such as is in common use. The small dials at the bottom are disregarded in reading meters.

EASY TO READ A METER

To read the above meter, first take the dial at the left marked "1 million," it is divided into 10 parts of 100,000 each. Look at the Pointer, it is between the numbers "1" and "2." So put down the number "1" which the pointer has just passed.

The second dial is marked "100 Thousand," having 10,000 to each division. The pointer is just past the cipher, so put down the cipher after the "1" from the first dial, and you have "10."

The third circle is marked "10 Thousand" each division representing 1000 cubic feet. Put down the number the pointer has just passed, which is "8" and you will have the number of thousand feet consumed, 108.

The last dial to the right is divided into 10 sections of 100 each. The pointer has just passed "4", so the complete reading is 108,400.

The amount of the gas statement from this meter will be the difference between 108,400 and the previous month's reading. You can check your gas consumption at any time during the month by comparing the previous month's reading given on your gas card with the present state of meter.

LOWER DIALS ARE USEFUL

The lower dials will help you determine whether there are leaks in your gas pipes, or in finding the rate at which any of your gas appliances are consuming gas. To find leaks, turn off all gas outlets tightly and then note whether the hand on one of the lower dials moves. If it does there is a leak somewhere. But DON'T LOOK FOR THE LEAK WITH MATCHES. Use a heavy soap suds on the connections, and see whether the gas bubbles through. Then, if you don't know how to mend the leak yourself, call a plumber—for gas leaks are dangerous and expensive.

The rate of any gas appliance may be determined by shutting off all other outlets and then noting how long it takes the appliance to consume a certain number of cubic feet of gas.

The Empire Southern Service Co., service department, always is glad to cooperate with consumers to the end that they may obtain the greatest possible heat return from the gas which they purchase.
