"THE LADY AND THE PANDA," By Ruth Harkness; (Carrick & Evans; $2.50). It would be nice if explorers could (all of them) have the quiet sense of Ruth Harkness, and her genuine humor.

BABY DIES

TOLEDO, O., Jan. 14 (AP)—An unusually large hole in the nipple of a nursing bottle caused the death early today of Glenda Sue Boeker, three-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glen Boeker.

Bill Harkness struggled against fate and Chinese officialdom for months on end, and finally obtained permission for his expedition into Szechuan province and beyond, into the fringe of Tibet. Two weeks later, he was dead.

Mrs. Harkness thus inherited an expedition, although of course nobody expected her to do anything about it. A curious determination to hunt the mythical Panda came over her; to the invariable astonishment and occasional horror of her friends, she sailed in April, 1933, for China, where she expected to pick up the threads of her husband's life and carry on.

Her unique expedition (the outlines were determined by a sense of proportion and a sense of humor) is neatly described. Her luck held throughout. She not only got a Giant Panda; she found a baby Panda and successfully got it out of China and into a new home in Illinois. There is everything from tragedy to low comedy in the story, and it all is given point and salt by the affection Mrs. Harkness felt for her captive, and the extraordinary instinct which led her to treat the baby as an individual—the only successful way to handle an animal. This is a first rate book.

TODAY AND TOMORROW

By Walter Lippmann (Mr. Lippmann's column is published as the Information and News feature. His views are personal and are not to be construed as necessarily reflecting the editorial opinion of The Herald.)

THE RETURN OF THE NATIVES

Although the oratorical symphony played at the many Jackson Day dinners was in several parts and in many moods...

LIPPMAN, Theodore Roosevelt and Woodrow Wilson. The president placed himself in this line, seeking to convince his audience that his purposes are those of his great predecessors...

Thus, though he made something of an effort to placate and reassure the frightened conservatives, he directed his main appeal to the disaffected liberals and progressives...

It is in that point alone that there is serious division of opinion: It is from those who think that the New Deal is unconsciously reactionary in its main tendency...

For my own part I have no doubt that this is an altogether sincere expression of Mr. Roosevelt's conception of his own role. This is where his heart is. This is where the overwhelming mass of supporters wish to be.

It is on that point alone that there is serious division of opinion: It is from those who think that the New Deal is unconsciously reactionary in its main tendency...

No one realizes that better than Mr. Roosevelt himself. No one is more fully aware than he that what stopped him in 1937 was a revolt of the liberals and progressives.

The proof is that all his oratory now is devoted to regaining the confidence of the orthodox liberals who rebelled against the threat of centralized and personal government presiding over a comprehensively directed economy.

It is not the fashion in political oratory to tell more of the truth than seems expedient. Thus the Jackson Day orators united in pretending that because the New Dealers had incurred the enmity of the very rich and the very powerful, their policies must be the same as those of all the patron saints from Jefferson to Wilson.

There are some of the president's critics who think that he is dominated by advisers who are conspiring according to a systematic revolutionary plan. I do not myself think there is anything in this notion.

Certainly the president himself is an improviser who likes new and bright ideas rather than the kind of scheming fanatic who conducts revolutions.

Most of all it seems to me grossly misleading to suppose that the New Deal is either "communist" or "fascist." To be sure it belongs to the same genus in that in many of its projects it assumes that nothing can be done and nothing can be reformed except by the sov-

Anglican Church Group's Report On Biblical Interpretation Stirs A Storm Of Controversy

LONDON, Jan. 14 (UPI)—Controversy swirled today over an Anglican church commission's 292-page report on religious doctrine, which sets forth that one may reconcile the biblical account of the world's creation with evolutionary theories, and that the Bible need not be taken as the judge of historical or scientific investigation in any field. Twenty prominent leaders of the Church of England took 15 years to complete the report dealing with fundamental questions of the Virgin Birth, angels, demons, evolution and the resurrection. Speedy reaction came first from the church association, through its secretary, the Rev. E. C. Bowring, who said today: "The commission has incubated a report which is merely an added orthodox egg for they disclaim the idea of defining what doctrine is permissible in the Church of England. According to the archbishop's commission, you can think what you like and still be Christian." The church association was founded by evangelist churchmen who favor simplified forms of worship and oppose ritual of the high church section. Here are some of the findings by the commission: Miracles—the commission was divided on whether they occur, but agreed that God "could do" them if he "would." Some held he would not wish to perform them. Angels and Demons—"It is legitimate to suspend judgment" or treat them "symbolically."

Resurrection—Jesus' rising from the dead "however explained" is to be understood to have been an event as real and concrete as the crucifixion itself and an "act by God wholly unique in human history." The Future—"we shall have means of recognizing each other in future life."

The Bible—"its authority must not be taken as prejudicing conclusions of historical, critical or scientific investigation in any field." Virgin Birth—historical evidence is "inconclusive," but this was one of the many things the members of the commission, with the Archbishop of York, who headed the commission, reporting that he accepted as historical fact the Lord's birth from a virgin mother and his physical resurrection from the tomb.

ALLEGIANCE TO KING CAIRO, Egypt, Jan. 14 (UPI)—Troops in every Egyptian garrison swore allegiance to the Koran today to their young commander-in-chief, King Farouk.

Negro Dies In The Chair

Arizona Claims Life Of Slayer, Another Faces Death

HUNTSVILLE, Jan. 14 (AP)—Peckerwood Hill, prison cemetery, today received the body of Albert Lee Hemphill, 23-year-old negro, who was executed early today for the slaying of F. P. Gandolfo, Dallas grocer.

He was placed in the electric chair at 12:01 a. m. and pronounced dead at 12:08 a. m.

Hemphill was among five negroes convicted for the slaying of Gandolfo Dec. 4, 1936. Four others are serving prison sentences.

STATE PRISON, Ariz., Jan. 14 (AP)—Elvin Jack Odum, 28 years old, of Corsicana, Texas, confessed murderer of a fellow farm worker, died in the Arizona lethal gas chamber before dawn today after muttering a condemnation of the justice that decreed his fate.

Odum, who killed Charles E. Goode, 55, last October 23 during a robbery which netted him only 54 cents, showed no emotion as he entered the chamber and breathed the deadly fumes.

"I'm going, but I didn't get justice from the court or before the state board of pardons and paroles," he said as guards strapped his arms and legs to a straight-back chair in the chamber.

BILLINGS, Mont., Jan. 14 (AP)—"If you're born to be hung," said Frank Robideau, scheduled for execution on the gallows tomorrow, "you'll never die in a feather bed, and if you're born to die in a feather bed you'll never be hung."

Robideau, one-time prison cook who confessed killing Mr. and Mrs. Mike Kuntz, then ordered fried chicken, cold mince pie and a watermelon—if it could be found—for his last meal tonight.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Spence of Tyler, who have been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. V. Spence, plan to return to their home tomorrow.

tell the boys to be careful how they voted because they might go to the pen. He said he spoke to his brother about the talk.

Inquiries On Ballots

R. L. Warren, county clerk, said absentee ballots came in at 5:30 p. m. Dec. 4 and that he kept the office open Sunday to accommodate absentee voters. He estimated 12 or 15 inquired about the ballots prior to their arrival.

Ernest Potter, O. B. Arnold and W. C. Jones declared that they were prevented from voting because of the lack of absentee ballots and that they would have voted wet. B. A. Sturdivant said his son, F. L. Sturdivant, was prevented from casting an absentee vote for similar reasons. A. E. Harley asserted from the stand that he had secured affidavits from 10 persons in box No. 1 showing how they voted, but the court ruled this inadmissible.

Lee Potter, deputy tax collector, and A. J. Merrick, deputy sheriff, testified about issuance of certain poll taxes and about the residence of certain voters.

In the Thursday afternoon session, counsel for contestants called Lou Baker to the stand. Baker testified as to seeing electioneering within the prohibited distances and said Mrs. Richbourg and B. Reagan were passing out cards inside the courthouse. He also told of several persons voting in rural boxes and raised the question as to their being properly qualified as voters.

In the courthouse

O. L. Williams testified in the same vein concerning one of those named and said he raised the question of propriety with T. C. Miller, Miller, in turn brought to the stand, said he cautioned Mrs. Richbourg, John Burns, who said he voted absentee the Saturday preceding the election, related that he noted Mrs. Richbourg and Reagan "electioneering" in the hall and that he saw Reagan pass out cards and carry voters to the boxes, that he insisted on one elderly man voting.

R. L. Wolf, deputy sheriff, said from the stand that he saw Mrs. Richbourg in the hall and was going to talk with her but that she left the building. He said he never talked with Reagan.

Answering the allegations, Reagan emphatically denied that he electioneered within the prohibited zone and that he took a man to a box and told him how to vote.

Denies Electioneering

"I was in the hall on a number of occasions during the day. I didn't electioneer. I did not hand out ballots. I told others not to electioneer in the courthouse, that we didn't want to violate the law."

"But as to my handing out ballots, I didn't do it. So far as electioneering or trying to influence anybody in this courthouse, I didn't do it."

Lawrence asked him several times if he had cards in his hands while in the courthouse on election day. Reagan replied that he did not recall, and that if he did, it was a card some one had handed him.

Counsel for contestants asked him if he had not talked with one Gomez on election day. Reagan said that he had and that "I told him he had as much right to be wet as I dry, but if he were to bring Mexican people over to get them registered just to vote wet, some of them might go to the pen."

Lawrence contended this was tantamount to a threat, and after several references to it, Reagan objected to the court against "the implication that I made a threat. It was a friendly warning."

The contestants alleged that Roy Phillips had voted in two boxes, but contestants offered testimony of Edgar Phillips to show that he cast one of the votes in question. Glenn Cantrell, election judge of the box where Phillips voted, bore this out. J. W. Brigrance, E. L. Elyum and J. L. Nix testified similarly, saying that if the name "Roy Phillips" were entered on the list, it was a mistake.

Mrs. Beulah Carnrike, deputy county clerk, testified as to certain names being on poll lists and that to her understanding some of them carried by initials in one place and by name in another were one and the same person. She also referred to residences, so far as she knew, of some voters.

Porch testified that she had secured a poll tax and that she voted in the Soash community. She bought the poll tax when she lived in town and that she since moved to the Soash community. J. E. Clifton, Foran, testified similarly about a Glascock county poll tax. He said that he had voted on it under the impression that a year in the state will six months in the county entitled him to vote in the county of his residence.

Carolina senator said he understood Locke had a private bathroom in the building "that makes the glories of Nero and of Rome fade into insignificance."

Senate Republicans contended meanwhile that the filibuster would force the administration to make a delicate political decision—whether to throw its influence for or against the bloc of southern democrats opposing the bill.

If administration leaders try to limit debate and end the filibuster, these Republicans said, southerners might make good their prediction the measure would split the democratic party.

On the other hand, they argued, northern proponents might resent an administration attempt to shove the bill.

Senator Norris (Ind-Neb.), a Roosevelt supporter, expressed concern that the continued filibuster might create ill-feeling which would endanger the president's legislative program.

C-C Committees Are Selected

Committees were named by 13 of 15 committee chairmen of the chamber of commerce in a called meeting Friday noon at the Crawford hotel.

The remaining five committees were to have personnel assigned when their chairmen are available to make assignments. J. H. Greene, manager, indicated.

Committees this year are being appointed at the request of the head of the groups instead of being named directly by the president as has been the custom. The chairmen of the organizations various units were named in a meeting of directors Monday.

KERMIT CHILD TAKEN BY PLANE TO DALLAS FOR TREATMENT

DALLAS, Jan. 14 (AP)—A blind night flight through a North Texas storm brought George W. Hubbard, Jr., eight, to Dallas today for expert medical attention which may save his life.

George was run over by an automobile yesterday in Kermit, Texas. His arm was mangled and a bone broken. Kermit physicians hesitated to amputate the arm but feared infection might set in.

Bill Hudson, Fort Worth oil operator who employs George's father, offered to fly the lad here for treatment. A nurse, George's father and George were placed in the plane. Near Sweetwater Hudson, piloting the ship, encountered dense dust and sand. He flew blind, detoured to Waço to get his bearings and brought the ship down here shortly after midnight.

Dallas surgeons decided not to amputate at once. They encased the cleaned arm in plaster and waited.

CLUB SPONSORS IN CONFERENCE HERE

Sponsors of 4-H girls in Howard county were to convene at 2:30 p. m. in the Crawford ball room to consider plans for the year.

Selection of material and construction of aprons for the club girls were to be discussed with the sponsors by Lora Farnsworth, county home demonstration agent. The sponsors in turn will promote the making of practical aprons by the club girls.

CLUB REPORTERS TO CONVENE SATURDAY

Home demonstration club reporters have been called to confer with Mrs. W. D. Lipscomb, Elbow, at 2:30 p. m. Saturday on details of work for the year.

In addition to outlining procedure in reporting club meetings and events, Mrs. Lipscomb will list rules for a reporters contest. It is hoped that the winner of the contest will be furnished a free trip to the short course in the summer. Prizes awards are planned for second and third places.

"The doctors found this a hopeful sign," he added.

HD Club Women Attend Meeting At Sweetwater

Seven women from home demonstration clubs of Howard county returned Friday from Sweetwater where they took part in a district party on recreational activities.

Heading the local group was Mrs. S. T. Johnson, Knott, council recreational leader. Others were Mrs. W. H. Ward, Fairview; Mrs. Walter Barbee, Highway; Mrs. A. R. Rude, Chalk; Mrs. R. D. Hatch, Mrs. I. H. Severance and Mrs. W. L. Yardley, Cramer.

In the Sweetwater meeting which referred to residences, so far as she knew, of some voters.

Porch testified that she had secured a poll tax and that she voted in the Soash community. She bought the poll tax when she lived in town and that she since moved to the Soash community. J. E. Clifton, Foran, testified similarly about a Glascock county poll tax. W. D. Coffee Asks Sheriff's Place

W. D. Coffee, pioneer resident of Howard county, announced Friday that he was seeking the democratic nomination for the office of sheriff.

He came to the county 43 years ago and for the past three decades has lived here. In announcing Coffee said that he felt that his two score years in the county had constituted a record familiar to all old timers and open to anyone.

"I am confident that I can make the people of Howard county a good sheriff," said Coffee. He added that he was making the race purely on the basis that he believed he could satisfy his constituents in the performance of the duties of the office. Coffee asked serious consideration of his candidacy.

Ed Brown Candidate For Reelection

J. E. "Ed" Brown, county commissioner from precinct No. 1, said Friday that he would be a candidate for a second term in his office.

"I wish to thank the voters for the honor and support they accorded me in the last election. I feel that with the experience I have gained, I will be better qualified to serve my precinct in a second term."

In announcing subject to the democratic primaries, Brown said that if returned to the office he would continue without interruption into the duties of the position and "do my best to fulfill it to the best of my ability." Brown is a long time resident in his precinct.

FRIENDS WORRIED ABOUT CLERGYMAN WHO IS ON FAST

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Jan. 14 (AP)—The Very Rev. Irsael Harding Noe's display of vigor in spite of continued abstinence from food and water worried physicians and churchmen today, the 13th day of his fast.

Whatever may be his condition in the privacy of his home, the pale and thin dean of fashionable St. Mary's Episcopal Cathedral has shown no public sign of the weakness medical friends fear will result in an inevitable collapse.

One physician said the 46-year-old clergyman could "last only a few days."

The dean subsisted last year on oranges alone, giving up water last February. He says he has had neither oranges nor water since Jan. 2.

ABif o' Thinkin' Salesmanship

Two many of the acres of books, courses, lectures, and what not on Salesmanship are devoted to ways and means of outsmarting the other fellow.

The basic principle, in our opinion, is for a salesman to put himself into the customer's shoes...to study his needs, find out what will best meet those needs, and to get it for him, in a good quality and at low cost.

That's our idea of salesmanship; to think and work for our customer's interests to the best of our ability. And we didn't get that idea out of a book.

REPORT PROGRESS ON LAW REPEAL

WASHINGTON, Jan. 14 (AP)—Rep. Bruce Barton (R-NY), who campaigned for congress last fall on the pledge he would seek repeal of one law a week, reported progress today.

"I have introduced four repeals to date," he said, "there are 20 more in the bag."

The four laws are: he wants repealed are the emergency banking act of 1933, the Thomas Banking amendment, and those relating to the Commodity Credit Corporation and the War Finance Corporation.
