FARMERS UNION CO-OP MEETING

The Lazbuddie Farmers Union Co-op personnel feted the members with the annual steak-chicken barbecue supper Friday evening April 11, in the school cafeteria, catered by Underwoods of Lubbock. A lovely floral arrangement graced the honored guests table. Red, white and blue covers on the dining tables carried out the patriotic scenes. April showers had fallen all day, ending just before the evening, making everything just about perfect for the occasion. Rev. Johnny Timms of Lazbuddie gave the invocation. A program given by local group of boys entertaining and then different classes of girls singing special numbers accompanied by music director, Ruth Wilson at the piano. The song we all love, "Them Cotton Fields Back Home", rang out in harmony and just about lifted the huge crowd to its feet. Another highlight was the song given by two small local girls, Candy Moore and Carla Little, field singing "Farmer County P. T. A." Farmer sounded a little better we thought than Harper.

The local Farmers Union Co-op manager, Freeman Davis introduced the auditor, Jim Berry of Farwell who gave the annual report concerning conditions of the financial findings of the Lazbuddie Farmers Union Co-op. Members seemed pleased to know conditions were so good. Another honored guest was T. J. Parker, fieldman from Hale Center. The guest speaker for the evening was Therman Smallwood from Kansas. About the first thing he wanted to know was, where did all these folks come from and why wasn't there some one along the way to direct the bumper to bumper traffic? Mr. Smallwood's knowledge of facts and figures of the farm situation and of the help of the Farmers Union Co-op was able to give valuable information to the listeners. His travels from states, about the past and current happenings, made it known that things looked brighter for the farmers but urged that they work hard closely together to accomplish things in store for them. The humorous jokes he told along with his well spoken diction kept the crowds attention, and oh yes, by the way he told how the local Farmers Union Co-op manager, Davis attended a meeting in one of the far away states and found there were no reservations for him at the hotel the group of farmers were staying at. But Davis did get a room, "that of the President of the U. S. A." because he beat the president there. "Well, ask Davis how he managed that?" Following Mr. Smallwood's speech, a new man J. J. McDonald was voted in on the board, -to take the place of J. D. Carpenter whose time had expired. Fred Burch was re-elected on the board.

During the time the men were counting the votes several children were in a balloon blowing contest. Little Sherry Reese popped the first balloon for the girls and Buddie Hobbs was the winner for the boys.

Students on the entertaining program were presented with gifts also. Mrs. Ruth Wilson, music director and Nola Treider, lunch room supervisor were honored with nice gifts for their faithfulness to help in so many ways. The janitor that every one knows best as Slim was also honored at that time. Drawing of the door prizes was next on the program. J. R. Johnson was the lucky name drawn for the $300 deep freeze.

Many other lovely and useful prizes were drawn by: Susar Mimms, Linda Baldress, Kirka Johnson, Timmie Menefee, Russell Windham, Buddie Hobbs also Ginger Johnson, Kathy Hardage, Charlene Cargile, Branda Johns, Brad Treider, Junior Barnes, Dennis McBell, Junior Treider, Sam Barends and Ray Edwards. Dividend checks were then passed out and now folks are looking forward to next year when Lazbuddie Farmers Union will again meet for the annual meeting.

Recent visitors in the Raymond Houston home were their son and family the Eugene Houstons of Lubbock and their daughter and family, the Clyde Redwines from Hub.

The Rev. Johnny Timms pastor of Lazbuddie Baptist Church is presently holding a revival in Oklahoma. The guest speaker for the church at Lazbuddie Sunday was Murl John, Lazbuddie. Fred Wilbanks has returned home after having minor surgery in the Methodist Hospital Lubbock recently. He is back on the job teaching this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Watson visited Leon and Benny Watson at WTSU, Canyon Sunday.

Farmers in the area seem to be in good spirits and we can guess they were hollering down their neighbors in barrels (telephone lines that is) how nice the rain was - Everything is greening up - That precious moisture from on high is always appreciated this time of the year.

Birthday Greetings go to Twila Albertson, Neil Fuquey, Michelle Schumann, Loy Dale Clark, Paul Ward, Donnie McDonald, Susan Henry, Clay Mimms, Susan Radford, Bobby Jo Jones.

Bill Harvey has accepted a job at the Muleshoe Nursing home. Linda Gleason was home the past weekend to visit her parents

Mr. and Mrs. T. L. Gleason also Terry Perham was visiting his parents Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Parham. Both students are from Texas T.

G-4697 is a medium maturity high-yielding, strong-standing hybrid producing grain of excellent quality. Yields of 179.5, 175, 154, and 143 bushels per acre have been recorded in 1968 in Castro county. G-4697 produces uniform wide leaves and sturdy ears. Excellent threshability is reported. Plant early for highest yields and superior standability.

G-4333 is a short season high-yielding, strong-standing, single cross which established top yield records in 1968. At Tulla 183 bushels per acre was chalked up and 147 bushels per acre made at Dimmitt. G-4333 is very attractive with uniform stalk and ear height. It responds to higher plant population and narrow rows where fertility and water make top yields possible and does unusually well under average conditions. G-4333 has out-yielded competitors in this early maturing category. Be sure to plant G-4333 in 1969.

G-711AA is a full season high tonnage silage hybrid with good grain content. G-711AA was the highest yielding corn silage hybrid in the High Plains Research Foundation tests at Halfway, with 30.03 tons per acre at 70% moisture. G-711AA tends to have higher protein content than many hybrids. This well known top yielding silage hybrid with many 30 ton yields to its credit is hard to beat. If you are planting for silage you should be planting G-711AA.

"The Seven Last Words" To Be Presented April 25 - 27 By Plainview Choir

April 25th, 26th, and 27th are the dates set for this year's presentation of the sacred cantata, "The Seven Last Words". Theodore Dubois' dramatic and moving presentation of the seven last statements of Christ on the cross will be portrayed by 92 members of the Church Choir and supporting cast of Plainview's First Baptist Church. Music will be under the direction of Mr. Ed Wittner with Mrs. Rex Ramsower directing the drama. Many hours have been spent in preparation of the costumes. Staging crew includes, Mr. Curt Sharp as lighting engineer, Mrs. Ivyloy Bishop, make-up and many other help with the huge sets and special sound effects. Soloists are Ric Hunt, Peggy Sides, Merle Wittner, Sam Brown, JoCoombes, and Jim Holcombe. Hundreds from Plainview and the surrounding area thrilled to this dramatic cantata last year when it was presented on two nights. Admission is free of charge and this year a third performance will be given in order that everyone will have opportunity to participate. Mr. Wittner states that the auditorium will seat 1800 and due to the City Fire Code admittance will be limited to this number.

Applicants Needed For Patrolman School—May 6

Specialized training in an elite field and a rewarding career are the opportunities being offered by the Texas Department of Public Safety. A call was issued today for applicants to fill a 120-man class beginning May 6 in Austin. Because of the short time remaining to test applicants, immediate inquiry is urged for area young men interested in becoming a member of the Texas DPS.

signed to one of the four field services—Highway Patrol, License and Weight, Motor Vehicle Inspection and Drivers License. For complete information concerning the position of patrolman, training and benefits, young men are encouraged to contact the nearest DPS patrolman or DPS office. Hurry—for the time is short before the start of the May 6 training school.

Applicants must be between 20 and 35 years old, at least 68 inches tall, weigh not less than two pounds or more than 34 pounds per inch of height, and be in sound physical condition. They must have a high school education or the equivalent and their record must be able to stand a rigid examination pertaining to character and citizenship.

A number of residents in this area will be visited by Bureau of the Census interviewers during the week of April 13 as part of the monthly survey on employment and unemployment conducted in cooperation with the U. S. Department of Labor, according to Director Francis H. Wilmer of the Bureau's regional office in Denver. Local households to be visited are part of a scientifically selected sample of all U. S. households. In addition to questions about employment there will be some questions about work experience throughout 1968.

Those selected will take their training at the Texas DPS Law Enforcement Academy in Austin. This training period will last for an approximate period of four months. Upon graduating, the patrolman will be assigned to one of the four field services—Highway Patrol, License and Weight, Motor Vehicle Inspection and Drivers License.

Additional supplementary questions will be asked in a small number of households to complete two surveys started last month—one to determine family and personal income levels in 1968 and the other to learn the number of Americans who have moved since a similar survey was conducted in the spring of 1968.

Leave Wildlife Alone In Woods

Austin--Leave newborn wildlife alone," warns Robert G. Mauermann, deputy director of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

Mauermann said that many species of wildlife are bearing their young this time of year, and encounters between the young and humans could lead to problems.

Young animals alone in the woods have not necessarily been abandoned by their mothers. It is customary for example for does to hide their fawns when feeding or in the face of danger. Well meaning human foster parents can do as good a job of rearing young wildlife as can the real parent.

"They may look cute and cuddly," he said, "but handling the young could bring more trouble than you bargain for."

Mauermann said first off there was danger from the parent animals. "Many animals are quite fierce when defending their young," he said.

Another consideration is the dilemma which occurs if the young animal takes a playful nip off your finger. "You have the heartbreaking decision to make either to destroy the animal and have the head examined for rabies or separate it from its mother so that it can be kept under observation," Mauermann said.

Another important consideration is that in many cases the possession of the wild animal is illegal regardless of intent.

"The safest thing to do when you encounter a young animal is to observe it from a safe distance," Mauermann said.

Tips On Frozen Foods Given By Health Department

AUSTIN--Can you get food poisoning from frozen food? If frozen food thaws out, should you refreeze meat that has thawed out?

State Health Department officials say these questions persist, although frozen foods have become an integral part of modern-day living. Properly stored, handled and prepared, frozen foods will serve you and your family well.

Food poisoning, originating from frozen foods, is a rarity. Processors are careful to prepare and freeze their products at the peak of freshness, insuring that bacteria are at a minimum. The very act of freezing the food suppresses the ability of the bacteria to multiply. Not until food temperatures rise and conditions become favorable to growth of the bacteria do they begin multiplying.

And what about frozen foods that have thawed out... must they be destroyed? Not necessarily. After all, they must be thawed before they can be cooked and eaten. If foods have been thawed only for a short time, they may be safely eaten. The important question is how long they have been thawed and how high the temperature has been.

If the temperature went to no higher than 45 degrees, the foods may be maintained at this level safely for several days, but should not be refrozen.

Is it ever safe to refreeze meat that has thawed out? Refreezing meat is permissible if the meat was fresh at the original freezing and if it was thawed for only a short period. There may, however, be some degradation of flavor and quality with the second freezing.

The risk in refreezing cured or smoked meats is greater. These meats may be slightly spoiled even though there is no discoloration, off-odor or other signs of spoilage.

Can you determine the quality of frozen food simply by looking at it? Loss of quality--resulting from improper handling or extended storage--is usually indicated by loss of flavor and color. (This is particularly true of vegetables.) Orange juice, as it deteriorates, tends to separate and "settle out" rapidly when reconstituted. Cream sauces appear curdled and the liquid begins to separate.

To preserve the quality of frozen foods, store them at the lowest possible temperature, and when you transport them from the store to your freezer, do so as quickly as possible. Rising temperatures cause chemical changes which influence the food's flavor and quality.

During the Colonial period, a three pound sterling note was issued in New Jersey. In the center was a picture of a tobacco leaf, while the top and bottom borders were made up of signs of the Zodiac. Five marching honey bees decorated the right hand edge. Along the left border was this warning: "Tis Death To Counterfeit"

The Madison and Indianapolis Railroad, by authority of the General Assembly of the State of Indiana, issued spiffy five dollar bills which resembled a miniature art gallery. Six illustrations included a farmer fussing with wheat sheaths, his wife cuddling a rake, two portraits of government V. I. P.'s, a railroad train, and a ploughman. That's a lot of art for five bucks.
