DAREN'T START DRY

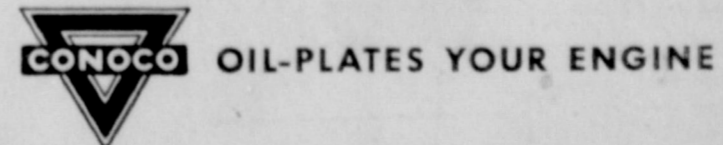

EVEN if this is the camel that holds all records for going-without-more-drink, how long could he last if he had to start dry? Your car and your engine oil can't last either if you keep starting dry this Summer. But how can you help it?

You can't . . . not with any of these oils that are always in a rush to drain down to the crankcase completely.

You certainly can help it though, by getting your engine OIL-PLATED.

NEVER all down in the crankcase, no matter how long or how often you park your car, OIL-PLATING is lastingly close-knit to every inner engine surface by the action of Conoco Germ Processed oil. Patented Germ Processing creates the strong "power of attraction" that fastens non-detachable OIL-PLATING throughout your engine. Does chrome-plating drain down at a standstill? Neither does OIL-PLATING. Therefore actually in advance of starting, OIL-PLATING is ready to slide every working part into easy motion, without rasping dryness. And since OIL-PLATING doesn't fly off or fry up it helps your engine to shatter the record for going-without-more oil. That's why you want to OIL-PLATE today with Germ Processed oil, at Your Mileage Merchant's Conoco station. Continental Oil Company

Mrs. McNeely Is Honored on Visit At Raymondville

Dr. and Mrs. M. McNeely returned last Thursday after visiting their daughters, Nell McNeely and Mrs. G. R. Sensabaugh and family in Raymondville and their son, Holmes McNeely, at Navasota. They were accompanied by Holmes on a trip to Galveston and Houston. Nell, who has been teaching at Raymondville, returned with them to spend the summer here.

While at Raymondville, Mrs. McNeely was honored at a program tea by the Woman's Club. Mrs. Sensabaugh, Mrs. G. W. Musgrave, and Mrs. Ruth Coole were hostesses.

Mrs. McNeely, Nell McNeely, and Mrs. Sensabaugh were among those in the receiving line. A musical program was presented, during which Nell McNeely, a music pupil of Dr. Wallace R. Black, was featured in a group of songs.

The hostesses served dainty refreshments of cake and frappe to eighty-five guests.

The band to attend the July 4 celebration at Clarendon. The band will rehearse in the old gymnasium at the high school until the new band quarters, now under construction on the school grounds as a WPA project, are completed. The new band room should be ready for occupancy by June 15.

Martin, a junior this year at Texas Tech, was selected by a chamber of commerce committee headed by R. S. Greene to direct the band this summer. G. W. Johnson, employed by the Memphis schools as director of the high school band, will be away on vacation until the opening of school, and the band is to be continued through the summer under auspices of the chamber of commerce, with the cooperation of the local schools.

Martin has been a prominent member of the Tech band for the past three years, and has made all trips, including three concert tours, with that organization. He has organized and directed a beginners band at a Lubbock public school during the past year.

Martin will receive his degree with a major in band from Texas Tech next spring. He attended the band school at that institution last summer.

Also well-known as a student of piano, he has studied during the past year under Mrs. Julian Paul Blitz, and also under Professor Julian Paul Blitz, head of the department of Music at Texas Tech. He has had three and a half years' work under Prof. D. O. Wiley of that school.

Martin was presented in a piano concerto at the Lubbock Symphony two weeks ago. He is a graduate of Memphis high school, and son of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Martin of this city.

to serve this four-county area, and promised to try to return here in the fall for a visit in this city.

The promise was made in response to an invitation from the Memphis delegation to visit here.

Dr. Bennett was highly enthusiastic over the fact that the farmers were endorsing his program, and was highly pleased over the success of soil conservation efforts in the Panhandle.

Embezzlement

Flomot school teacher, and it was as a result of information furnished by the victim that he was located here Tuesday.

He had been employed by the Lesley school board last fall as a collector of delinquent taxes. Harper was not placed under bond at that time, officers stated, and the contract under which he was employed has not been made public. Officials said that he had been paid a fee of $250, and in addition the Lesley school district has charged him with collecting an undetermined amount in delinquent taxes which were not turned in.

Charges of embezzlement have been filed in justice court here, and Justice of the Peace Joe Merrick said Wednesday that an examining trial would probably be held this week and the man bound over to await action of the Grand Jury this fall.

In addition the First National Bank of Memphis has filed two charges of swindling against Harper in Hall County court. Two drafts on the local bank, totaling $45, were passed by Harper last December.

No announcement has been made as to when the swindling cases will be brought to trial before the county tribunal. The embezzlement charge will not be brought up until the Grand Jury meets before the opening of the September term of district court.

Hugh Crawford went to Wichita Falls Thursday.

Mary Kathryn Walker, student at WTSC at Canyon, has returned home for the summer.

Euba Fay Hillis, student at WTSC at Canyon, is home for the summer vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Hamrick and daughter Jimmie Carr and Miss Theo Eubank spent from Saturday until Tuesday in Clovis visiting Mrs. Hamrick's sister, Mrs. A. D. Acuff.

Lloyd Rice of Lesley was a Memphis visitor Wednesday.

gan setting poles on the line, working north from Lakeview, early Wednesday morning. Scharlach stated that between fifteen and thirty-five men will be employed on the project, the number varying with engineering requirements of the various sectors.

The power line will cover most of the northern half of Hall County, and will bring electric service to more than 300 farm homes.

A wiring campaign conducted by directors of the cooperative in an effort to have all subscribers' homes wired in time for completion of the project received added impetus as work was actually started this week. Four wiring crews are working steadily in an effort to complete their work before the line is energized, according to Alvis Yarbrough, project superintendent.

More than 200 homes remain to be wired, Yarbrough said, and with only four crews working the members of the co-op are pushing the work as rapidly as possible. All wiring must pass a government inspection.

An announcement was made last week by directors of the cooperative that a wiring and plumbing loan fund of $3,000 has been authorized by the National REA headquarters, and will be made available soon to local subscribers. Loans will be made for a term of five years, and will be available as soon as necessary papers can be signed by the directors and returned to Washington.

Yarbrough returned Saturday from a meeting of REA officials and project supervisors in Dallas. John M. Carmody, national chief of the REA, and several other prominent administrators were present.

Jones, commander of the Charles R. Simmons Post of the American Legion, was in charge of the program. Mrs. M. G. Tarver and Mrs. W. Wilson appeared on the program in a duet, "For What Thy Died, We Now Must Live." They were accompanied at the piano by Mary Helen Lindsey.

Rev. J. Wm. Mason, pastor of the First Baptist Church, closed the service with prayer.

Tuesday morning graves of the World War veterans were decorated with wreaths of poppies and flags. Memphis veterans honored Tuesday included Joseph Stotts, Elam Orcutt, Jesse L. Ballaw, Frank I. Daniel, Elmer Fisher, Alton C. Poe, J. C. Strong, Conley Watson, Roy Y. Yarbrough, Newman Calloway, Glenn Grant Gooch, Haywood Montgomery, Quintuss Schoff, Scott Peddy, Charles Simmons, Frank Fleming, Luther Hancock, Jim Blanks, Crip Barber.

Claude B. Jordan, Watson Stahlman, Benton Graves, Clarence Hopper, W. F. McKenzie, John Martin, R. B. Morgan Jr., Elbert Kittinger Jr., David Fitzgerald, Quinton Duke, Dr. J. M. Ballaw, and Luther Palmer.

Dr. Frank Stone of Santa Fe arrived in Memphis Wednesday for a visit with his daughter, Mrs. James Norman and family.

Mrs. Kedron Ward is reported ill in a local hospital with a streptococcal throat infection.

hive of bees that make good honey. I ate some of it. The bees recently swarmed and settled on a tree in my yard. It was interesting to watch an old bee raiser get them back into the hive. It took him a long time to locate the queen in the mass of bees clustered around the small tree. The bees ought to be doing nicely now, with larkspurs, roses, California poppies and such like blooming in profusion near the hive.

Patrolman Huddleston, of the State Highway Department, stated Tuesday that the traffic violations are becoming more frequent now that schools are out for the summer. He stated that parents are subject to being fined or imprisoned, should their minor children commit some traffic offense while driving. This is just a serious matter brought to the parents' notice.

Thursday, Friday and Saturday of next week the Texas Press Association will hold its annual convention in the western city of Lubbock. Donald W. May, The Democrat's efficient advertising manager, has attracted attention to himself and to The Democrat through the advertising columns, and he has been selected by the TPA program committee to speak at the first day's session of the convention. He will, of course, tell the newspaper people about the fine business men of Memphis who believe in advertising and who put into practice that belief.

If men out in the open at this time of year only realized how much they were envied by those who work over a desk they would get additional fun out of their jobs, for, too often the field man pictures the desk man as living an ideal life untouched by physical discomforts, a life that makes undisturbed and serene and pleasant under any and all conditions, says a printer's house organ.

The year book of the Delphin Study Club of Memphis was one of the gold star year books at the Seventh District Federation. In other words "it tied with some other year books in the race for second place. And the year book was printed by The Democrat's job department.

How many readers know that June 3 is a state holiday? It is the birthday anniversary of Jefferson Davis, who was president of the Confederacy during the War Between the States. Many cities in Texas observe the day as a holiday—more should observe it. The United Daughters of the Confederacy always observe the day in some fitting manner and try to interest others in doing the same.

A business that has attracted people from all parts of this country, including neighboring states, is the M & M Livestock Sales Company which has been operating for several months. According to the Monzingo brothers, the business has exceeded all expectations, and the sales have been better than any other market in the country. Tuesday was the last day of sales until late summer or early fall when the business will be re-opened for the fall and winter. The farmers are too busy now to continue the sales during the summer, the operators stated. They are optimistic over the future of the business.

J. O. Fitzjarrald brought a 20-pound catfish to The Democrat office Tuesday. He demanded that this paper take cognizance of its size, and that he caught it. "People have been talking about my fishing ability and the time I lose trying to catch fish—I want it known here and now that I know my onions—and fish," he said. The fish was caught in Brookhollow Lake. Immediately thereafter, several local fishermen were seen sidling away and going toward home, it is presumed to get their fishing tackle.

Locals and Personals

Duvall Resigns As Manager of Co-op Gin Society

Makes No Announcement As To Plans, Expert Cotton Man Leaves Local Post

H. J. DuVall, manager of the Memphis Farmers Co-op Gin Society, this week announced his resignation with the company, effective immediately. Mr. DuVall has been with the gin company for the past two years, serving one year as bookkeeper and last year as manager.

Mr. DuVall is well known in cotton and ginning circles, not only in this locality but all over West Texas. Last summer he attended a special course in cotton at the Texas A. & M. College.

Mr. DuVall announced no immediate plans for the future following his resignation, but stated that he would make such an announcement in the near future.

Jack Howard of Childress was a Memphis visitor Wednesday.

Trespass

It has come to the attention of the Brookhollow Lake and property that there are persons who are trespassing on the lake and who have no business there. These people using the lake for recreation should be dealt with as trespassers.

This practice must be stopped by the lake and property owners who pay for the enjoyment of the lake and who have no business there. Outside of the rules and use what long to them are to be dealt with as trespassers.

J. R. McCurdy and Gachnaner of Brookhollow Lake are week-end visitors here.

Farmers Read Weekly Papers, Survey Shows

Farm Readers of Both Dailies and Weeklies Show Big Increase

The lure of radio, movies, and automobiles has not taken the farmer's time away from his newspapers. On the contrary, farmers take and read more newspapers today than they did 10 years ago. This was revealed today in a survey made by the National Fertilizer Association on the sources of information which the farmer uses and the farming practices which he employs. The survey reports that more than seven out of ten of the 32,000 farmers personally interviewed in 35 states, take a daily newspaper, and more than half of them take a weekly.

This represents a gain of 7 per cent in farmer-readers of daily newspapers over the number reported in a similar survey made 10 years ago by The National Fertilizer Association. The increase in daily newspapers was not made at the expense of weekly papers, because the weeklies also show a gain of 1 per cent.

In 1929 there were only 2 states in which more than 9 out of 10 farmers took a daily paper. This year's poll reveals 10 states in which daily newspapers are read by more than 90 per cent of the farmers. These 10 states in order of their percentage of farmers taking a daily newspaper are: Washington, Oregon, California, Indiana, Ohio, Connecticut, Minnesota, Rhode Island, Massachusetts, and Illinois.

The questions on reading habits of farmers are 2 of the 25 questions which 650 interviewers personally asked. Others were: "Do you listen regularly to farm radio programs?" "Have you obtained information of value . . . from them?" "What farm papers do you read in order of preference?" "Have you attended meetings or demonstrations conducted by your county agent?" "Have you visited your State Experiment Station, or experiment farms and fields?" "Do you get practical value from meetings or demonstrations attended?"

The gain in farmer-readers of newspapers is credited to the fact that farmers of the past decade have been forced to keep up with better farming methods, and also with local and national political situations, and that the newspapers have kept pace with the demand of farmers for timely and accurate information which they must have in order to conduct their businesses.

Troop News from the Donley-Hall Scout District

Thursday night of last week Troop 34, Boy Scouts of America, sponsored by the Presbyterian Church held an investiture service at their regular meeting and ten boys were installed as Tenderfoot Scouts. J. Troy Israel, field scout executive, of Pampa, conducted the service and installed the boys. The time of meeting was changed from Thursday night to Monday night.

At a meeting Monday night of Troop 34 plans were made for 'kerchiefs and the troop decided to use blue and gold for their colors, the troop's mothers to make the 'kerchiefs. Two of the troop members will attend Camp Ki-o-wa this summer. At Monday night's meeting it was decided to impose a fine of 10c for being absent without a good excuse and 5c for tardiness. Meeting time was changed from 7:30 to 7:45.

At a meeting of Troop 33, with H. B. Hill as scoutmaster, last Thursday night, two boys, Tom Landers and Jim Caviness, received their Second Class Scout badges. At the meeting plans were made for next month's activities. A picnic was planned for Thursday night June 1 when six more boys will be taken into the troop. The 'kerchiefs for Troop 33 were decided upon, the colors to be jade green and gold. Investiture ceremony was held for one tenderfoot scout, Temple Deaver, at the last meeting.

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC

Any erroneous reflection upon the character, standing or reputation of any person, firm or corporation, which may appear in the columns of this paper, will be gladly corrected upon due notice of same being given to the editor personally at the office at 817 Main Street, Memphis, Texas.

WHAT IS AN EMERGENCY?

BURIED SOMEWHERE beneath the maze of red tape, argument, and filibuster which holds members of the Texas Legislature in a hopeless entanglement with speedy adjournment as the only end in view is a scrap of paper on which may be written the obituary of several hundred Texas citizens.

That scrap of paper, lost beneath a hopelessly high stack of proposed legislation on the Senate calendar, contains the provisions for a new driver's licensing law to replace the pitifully inadequate statute which expired this spring. At the present rate of progress, there seems to be little hope that the bill, which undoubtedly would be favored almost unanimously by the Texas solons, will ever reach the Senate floor before adjournment date.

This is true, even in the face of the foreboding fact that the driver's license represents the Department of Safety's only direct control over more than 200,000 drivers who will travel on the state's highways during 1939.

Last year 1,259 licenses were suspended or revoked by the Department of Public Safety because the persons who held them were, for one reason or another, a menace to the safety of the other 200,000 drivers on the road and to the countless thousands were merely pedestrians or passengers.

Last year, too, the department pointed with pride to a reduction of more than 20 percent in Texas highway fatalities . . . a saving in human lives of 433 Texas citizens. These are flesh-and-blood figures, not cold black-and-white statistics.

It would not, perhaps, be fair to say that all of the reduction in fatalities was due to the fact that the old license law was then in operation. The law as it was written was totally inadequate, but it did provide the Department of Safety with some measure of control over incompetent drivers.

If the lives of 400 Texas citizens were endangered in some impending disaster, the legislature would doubtless declare an emergency and clear the calendar for immediate action. Yet more than 400 Texans are facing death this year because a handful of lawmakers are deadlocked in a battle over a measure which probably will not pass while another which no one would oppose, and which might save their lives, is too far down on the Senate calendar to receive consideration.

Certainly an emergency does exist.

"—AN OUNCE OF PREVENTION"

AIDED BY MODERN SCIENCE, law enforcement is becoming increasingly swift and effective throughout the nation. Development of the police radio has, perhaps, been the outstanding present-day contribution toward apprehension of the criminal.

The new Panhandle police radio network is an excellent example.

The whole procedure, however, smacks too much of the old fallacy of locking the stable door after the horse is stolen. Granting the undeniable importance of adequate police protection, and the necessity for rendering escape for the criminal impossible, there is still a suspicion that there is another angle to crime prevention which is not receiving its just share of attention.

That problem is to stop crime at its source . . . before it begins. Boys are not born criminals, and there is something wrong with a society which makes them so. Tendencies which might be corrected in youth must be segregated in man.

Perhaps the answer lies in a wholesome . . . and universal . . . program for the youngsters. A number of organizations, most prominent of which is the Boy Scouts of America, have been eminently successful in training their members to be useful citizens. Through their training programs, they point the way. . . but this training for youth must be extended to every group of youngsters, without exception, to be universally effective.

In that there is a challenge to our public schools . . . since of all organizations they reach the greatest number and have the greatest opportunity. That the schools have failed in that respect so far is testified by the growing need for modern invention to control an ever-present crime wave. Something is lacking in an educational system which permits such a problem to arise.

Law enforcement bodies have done well in their efforts to prove that "crime does not pay," but the need today is for more prevention and less cure.

There's A Royal Reason

Lamb Adds Variety to Family Menus

By RUTH J. COOPER, Consulting Home Economist
Breeder-Feeder Association

In polite society, the etiquette books inform us, the subject of food is never discussed. Good food or not, what subject is more universally interesting and vital to good health and happiness, than food? On the train, in the store, in the park or at the club, one catches snatches of conversation as to food allergies, the children's dislike for certain vegetables, that delightful salad that Mrs. Smith served last time, etc. Yes, each one of us listens—because we are interested. We might learn something new to try out on the family!

Wherever a family is to be fed the problem is the same—"What SHALL we have for supper tonight?" Lamb is available on every farm where a small flock is kept, and is a mighty appetizing addition to the menu. Here is a typical "Sunday" or "company" menu built around lamb:

Roast leg of lamb, creamed peas and mint, buttered asparagus, fresh greens salad, hot muffins, spiced peaches, butter, fresh berry tarts with whipped cream, beverage.

In preparing the leg of lamb, wipe with a damp cloth but do not remove the thin, papery covering that is called "fell." This covering not only helps the meat to keep its shape but retains the juices and shortens the cooking time. It has no objectionable flavor as was formerly thought. Rub the leg of lamb with salt and pepper and place in open roasting pan with fat side up. Roast dry and uncovered in a slow oven (300 degrees) about three hours (or thirty minutes per pound) for "medium done."

This slow cooking of meat in an uncovered pan is revolutionary. It does produce superior results and once you try it, you will cook all roasts by this method. This method saves meat and fuel besides producing a more palatable roast.

The leg of lamb is by no means the only cut to use. The shoulder offers just as many possibilities for a delectable meal. Or try the breast of lamb stuffed with a bread crumb and mint or watercress stuffing. If you wish something that may be quickly prepared, use the chops, the ground lamb patties, or individual loaves are even more economical.

Broiled Lamb Patties
1-2 pounds ground lamb, 2 tablespoons grated onion, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-2 teaspoon pepper.

Use any of the cheaper cuts of lamb for the patties. Season the ground lamb with grated onion, salt and pepper. Mix thoroughly and shape into thick patties. Either pan broil or use the broiling oven and cook until they are brown, and half done. Turn and finish cooking on second side. Serve while hot on hot slices of broiled pineapple. Allow about fifteen minutes to broil the patties. For variety, instead of the pineapple, try broiled bananas, any kind of dried or fresh fruit that has been glazed and heated, broiled stuffed tomatoes, etc.

Individual Lamb Loaves
2 pounds ground lamb, 1 cup soft bread crumbs, 1-2 cup chopped onion, 2 eggs, beaten, 1 can tomato puree, 2 tablespoons minced green pepper, 1-4 cup chopped pickle or olives, salt and pepper.

THE GREAT AMERICAN HOME

The death of A. B. Echois, pioneer cattleman, banker, and resident of Motley County for almost half a century, inspired the following tribute from Douglas Meadows, poet-editor of the Matador Tribune:
"Following the phantom trails of vanished herds and guided by the campfires of comrades whose spurs have grown rusty, he views the wide ranges of eternity. The noble saga of his life has been written on the eternal parchment of justice and the quill returned to the hands of God."
"Pioneer, cattleman, and defender of right, he enters paradise with every bond of duty paid, and the benediction of his life becomes a part of the land he knew and loved."
"An empty saddle hangs in the shed like an abandoned shell on olives, salt and pepper. Save out one-half of the tomato puree and combine all of the other ingredients together, mixing well. Pack into greased muffin pans and pour the remaining tomato puree over each loaf. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) about forty-five minutes. Serve hot."

Food Stamp Program Is Designed to Aid Farmer, Grocer, Consumer

WASHINGTON LETTER
BY SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT
WASHINGTON.—The food stamp plan now being tried out at Rochester, N. Y., is working just as the Department of Agriculture experts hoped it would, according to reports received thus far. However, it will be a matter of months before the department can say definitely whether the experiment is a success or a failure.
While the scheme is apparently simply a means of increasing the purchasing power of people on relief so that they can obtain a better, more balanced diet, it will stand or fall in the long run by its effect on the non-relief population.
Although it may be a fine thing for relief people to be able to buy a dollar and a half's worth of food where they could only buy a dollar's worth before, the department's experts say that, merely from the relief standpoint, they could not possibly justify the buying of surplus farm commodities at retail prices as a permanent thing. What they are really aiming at is a broader market for farm products generally.
THEY hope to bring that about in this way. By their use of the stamps, the relief people in Rochester will increase their buying of foodstuffs by one-third. But the increase in their buying power will be confined to seven specific commodities—those which the department has officially designated as "surplus."
In order to take advantage of that buying power, the Rochester grocers can be expected to reduce their prices on those seven commodities. In fact, they have already done so on some of them, and are preparing to "push" their sales in commodities by an extensive advertising campaign.

Now, if the program succeeds, the public, which pays the price of groceries and does not receive the stamps, can be expected to buy more than the amount of goods involved are sold. Hence, the department experts hope, the price of the seven surplus commodities will rise far beyond the amount of purchasing power available through the stamps.
If this happens, the relief measure will justify itself. It will create consumption of farm commodities which happens to be an economic thing like common wheat flour, grapefruit, etc.
The grocer will make a profit, for while he has reduced his profit on each individual sale, he is making so many more sales formerly that he will be off than before. The farmer will be better off, because goods will be available at lower prices.
All of this may be involved, but it is the which the experiment was made. It may fail, in the experiment will be done.
But if it works as the hope it will, a brand of farm relief program developed and both the retailer and the consumer will benefit by it.

CULLED FROM THE DEMOCRAT'S EXCHANGES

The Floyd County Hesperian has been conducting an editorial campaign for the past several weeks advocating a rain. Last week heavy downpours were received in some parts of the county, and Editor Homer Steen stepped forward to take credit in the following editorial comment:
"The Hesperian's rain efforts and the state of mind of the people around Daugherty hit, in the same channel last week-end and they got a whale of a good rain out there—mostly the hard dashing kind the Hesperian had been telling about and urging preparations for. The hail was not in our plans, but noticeably it fell straight down and didn't whip across the fields and cut them up."

Speakers who have not served in the armed forces are sometimes prone to eulogize the war veterans entirely too much in Memorial Day addresses. As we look at Memorial Day, it is a

Paul's Sincerity of Purpose

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for June 4
Text: Acts 21:40-22:4; 24:14-16; 26:19-23
IN bidding farewell to the elders of the church of Ephesus at Miletus, the seaport, Paul said, "Behold, I go bound in the spirit unto Jerusalem, not knowing the things that shall befall me there, save that the Holy Ghost witnesseth in every city, saying that bonds and afflictions abide me (Acts 20:22, 23)."

A certain prophet, Agabus, had also taken Paul's girdle and bound with it his hands and his feet, symbolic of his prediction of what was awaiting Paul at Jerusalem.
It was under these circumstances that Paul made his great declaration of purpose, "But none of these things move me, neither count I my life dear unto myself, so that I might finish my course with joy, and the ministry, which I have received of the Lord Jesus, to testify the gospel of the grace of God."
These predictions had been fulfilled. Enemies of Paul made unjust and untrue accusations against him, saying that he had defiled the temple at Jerusalem, and had aroused the mob against him. He was in danger of his life, when he was rescued by the Roman chief captain and a detachment of soldiers. It was under these circumstances that Paul, having been permitted to speak by the Roman captain and making his defense to the people, gave the address of our lesson—one of the great autobiographical statements upon which we depend chiefly for our knowledge of the details of Paul's life and for the conception of his religious experience, his outlook and his aims.
Along with this is a from a similar defense before King Agrippa, which told the experience of a version on the way to Damascus and described the course of his life and his innermost as obedience to the Holy Ghost.

IN these addresses there forth above all the sincerity of Paul, the of the experience of a life that had come to a deep love of the Christ who saved him from an unjust and hostile world of lawmen and had given vision of a kingdom of There is in all his deep suggestion of hatred of who are persecuting Paul had learned about things the deep lesson of what a Christian must be.
These addresses of Paul a very insistent message of his own time. Though following essentially the truth of the religious fathers, he was accused of a sectarian and a big man would learn the Paul's life and experience must learn to regard all men with reasonableness and tolerance and with sympathy of their conscientious The story of Paul's ought to make us understand why we fail to call any man a "heretic" whom we fail to understand may be the story of new and important phases on truth.

Death Strikes in Many Ways as Ninety Die in April Crashes

Death moved in many ways to claim the lives of 90 Texans in April traffic crashes, a state police analysis of last month's toll revealed today.

An oil field worker was killed and his companion injured when their car hit the curbing on an "island" in front of the New London school.

In Beaumont, a man was fatally injured when his motor-propelled bicycle crashed as it failed to make a curve.

In Port Arthur, a bystander was killed on the sidewalk when two automobiles collided at an intersection. One of the cars was catapulted into the man.

A doctor died as he hastened on a call. Excessive speed was blamed for his car's failure to make a slight curve.

When its driver went to sleep, a car hit a concrete bridge and crashed. A passenger asleep on the back seat never knew what hit him.

A 19-year-old student, riding as a passenger, was thrown from a car as the machine left a curve, hurtled across the ditch to the left of the road, and overturned. The car landed on the student's neck, killing him instantly. The seriously injured driver lay in the wreckage two hours before help came.

Near Henderson, a driver had his left arm hanging out the side window when a passing truck, veering close to the automobile, knocked the arm off. The man died from the loss of blood, but the truck driver drove on. He didn't know what had happened.

Near Seguin, a driver and his passenger were trapped in ten feet of water when their car ran off a curve and skidded into the river. The driver freed himself and came to the surface. His friend's body was recovered.

Headon into a bunch of mules and horses traveled a car on a West Texas road, killing two mules and fracturing a rider's leg. Then the left door of the machine was thrown open and the driver struck the pavement. He died there.

In South Texas, a Mexican pedestrian, caught between two lines of traffic, became confused, jumped back to avoid a car and, toppled over, fracturing his skull on the pavement. He was 50 years old.

Strangest accident of them all was that described by state police of two men killed in traffic crash in a Lubbock cemetery.

The victims, both negroes, were killed when their car overturned inside the gates of the cemetery at Lubbock, after first striking a curb around some shrubbery. The dead were listed as C. B. Boone, 30, and Big Joe Leonard, 29.

The crash occurred shortly after midnight.

such tree belts may serve to prevent much other destruction. Since some of the overflow lands are sandy and subject to wind erosion, such tree belts may serve to prevent wind damage in the same way that the field shelterbelts being planted by the Forest Service on upland farms do. A case in point is the Republican River Valley in Nebraska and Kansas, where both floods and wind erosion play havoc with river bottom lands. There are many places where engineering structures are needed, and often they can be backed up by trees.

"The program the Forest Service advocates is manifold, but really not difficult if everyone will take part," Perry concluded. "Of first importance is the preservation of the present native growth by stopping destructive grazing practices and by proper methods of cutting timber. Other measures include planting where trees are now lacking along the streams, planting of trees at the heads of gullies and at the heads of little waters to the main water courses, and planting tree belts leading from streams across the flood plains as a measure to prevent overflow waters from gaining momentum.

"Thus, while trees on the Plains may do little to reduce the likelihood of rising waters, they can do much toward dulling a flood's fighting spurs."

Roosevelt Proclaims Flood Prevention Week Beginning Wednesday, May 31st

President Roosevelt has proclaimed the week beginning May 31 as "Flood Prevention Week" and the thoughts of foresters are directed toward the role of trees in controlling flood waters, E. L. Perry, assistant regional forester of the Prairie States Forestry Project, said here today.

"In the mountainous and hilly areas, which are the upper reaches of most streams and where floods usually originate," Perry said, "forests effectively lessen the rush of water from steep slopes and are an important factor in the prevention of floods. They are especially effective in averting 'flash floods'—the quick rises of streams following heavy downpours.

"On the plains precipitous runoff is not so much a factor, and the land is too valuable to devote to forest, but trees may be used to lessen damage from floods originating elsewhere," the Forest Service official continued. "A stream bank that is heavily vegetated will not wash out easily, and dense tree growth along the stream course may help to direct the main force of the current along the usual channel.

"If, in addition to the trees along the streams, there are belts of trees extending away from them to the edge of the flood plain, they will act as brakes on the overflow water, reduce erosion to a minimum and prevent much other destruction. Since some of the overflow lands are sandy and subject to wind erosion,

2300 Die Last Year While Trespassing On Property of American Railroads

Twenty-three hundred persons were killed while trespassing upon the property of American railroads last year, according to the reports of the Interstate Commerce Commission. More than 2,400 other persons sustained injuries more or less severe, many of these being permanently crippled (from the same cause. There were 300 fewer fatalities in 1933 because of trespassing upon railroad property than occurred the year previous, and although this is an encouraging fact to the railroads nevertheless far too many persons, many of them of school age or under, are being killed and injured because they needlessly expose themselves to great danger.

To illustrate the hazard of trespassing upon the railroad, McMicken said: "Recently, an 18-months-old boy—just a toddler—in company with some other under-school age children, clambered upon a track elevation, was struck by a train, and suffered injuries from which he died. Four little girls returning from a flower picking excursion attempted to cross a railroad bridge, were trapped on the bridge by a train. One of the girls laid down in the middle of the track and miraculously escaped with injuries; two of the other girls suspended themselves from the ends of the bridge ties and thus saved their lives, but the fourth apparently became panic-stricken, remained on the track and was struck by the train and killed. A father, carrying a several-months-old baby, was walking along one of our tracks accompanied by his seven-year-old daughter. An engine approached and warning whistle was sounded, but the little girl evidently became confused and ran onto the track in the face of the approaching locomotive; the father in his desperation ran after her. The three were struck by the engine and the father was killed. The little girl suffered greatly from shock but the baby escaped injury."

Seventh Graders' Trip

The eleven seventh graders of the Newlin school and their sponsors, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Cheves, Miss Rebecca McCanne, and Mack Jones, left here early Friday morning for San Antonio and Austin and other points of interest on the route, according to one of the students, they arrived in Austin Friday night where they spent the night. Early Saturday they went through the capitol building with a guide and then to the governor's mansion where they spent about an hour, but did not see the governor who was not at home. They also visited the University of Texas and were escorted through the tower there. Sunday they motored to San Antonio where they went to church in a famous old mission, the oldest in the city. They later attended a show in the beautiful Aztec Theatre, then to see the famous Japanese or sunken gardens, and to the zoo, also visited a famous old museum. They returned home late Monday afternoon very tired but happy and thrilled over the many wonderful sights they had seen and saying that it was worth a whole year's hard work to have such a nice trip, and they wished to express their appreciation to the Newlin Parent-Teacher Association and their parents and teachers who made the trip possible.

Harper-Rawls Marriage

Miss Dora L. Harper and Odell Rawls, both of this community, were united in marriage at the Baptist parsonage by the pastor, Rev. L. J. Crawford, late Saturday afternoon. The young couple was attended by Miss Jennie Bell Harper, sister of the bride and Miss Honora Phillips and Tom Phillips of the Harrell Chapel community. Mrs. Rawls is the talented young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Harper. Mr. Rawls has recently come here from Spade but had lived here previously with his sister Mrs. D. F. Walker. The young couple will make their home in the Gilpin community.

CHURCHES

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

The pastor will bring a message Sunday morning on the subject, "The Light of the World" with John 8:12 as the text. Sunday evening the subject for the meditation will be "The Hands of Jesus" with John 20:20-21 as the scriptural background. If you have gotten out of the habit of attending public worship, then why not start the coming Sunday? The First Baptist Church always has a most hearty welcome for all visitors. We believe that these subjects are worthwhile for our consideration, and we are trusting that you will be in each service Sunday.

The Sunday school and B. T. U. attendance has been holding up very well indeed. Please do not let company or work keep you away from these services. All of us should love our church enough that we would be happy to bring all our relatives and friends who happen to be visiting with us to all the services. We believe that our services are such as can be enjoyed by everyone. Come to Sunday school, B. T. U. and the morning and evening worship services.

Midweek prayer services are held every Wednesday evening at 8:15, immediately following the weekly officers and teachers meeting of the Sunday school.

FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH

Rev. Hays O. Luna, former minister of the Christian Church here, is conducting an evangelistic meeting at the Central Christian Church in Childress May 25-June 11. Several carloads from the local church plan to visit the services.

Our Christian Endeavor Society will attend a young people's rally at Paducah on the night of June 7.

The church will have a fellowship supper at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday evening, June 5. Miss Mildred Cooles, guest soloist at our church service next Sunday. Joe Findley.

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

We were delighted to have splendid attendance at our services last Sunday. Music, and the Sunday interest much better.

It is certainly fine of Mr. J. R. to arrange for our and Young People's Church Sunday at 2 p. m. The much, R. E. and I know that children are there on Sunday afternoon.

Our choir plans for music Sunday morning. Friends invited to worship. E. C. Carrillo.

Grasshopper War Is Started on Wide Front

May 1 Sees Beginning Of Fight to Control Destructive Insects

The first week in May saw the beginning of the fight to control grasshoppers in a section reaching from San Jacinto County in the southeast to Dallam County in the northwest corner of the Panhandle.

The infestation is developing about as anticipated, according to R. R. Reppert, entomologist of the Texas A. and M. College Extension Service and state grasshopper control leader. Damage will be moderate in most areas south and east of the Panhandle although six counties in the vicinity of Dallas will again experience trouble.

Except in the Panhandle, the hoppers are of the yellow differential species. In the Panhandle, the dangerous migratory species predominates. Reppert said egg beds had been found to cover 200 acre areas and that in some cases, there were as many as 2,000 eggs per square foot. The migratory infestation is expected to be more than twice as severe as in 1938.

The government, through the U. S. Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine, will provide 325 carloads of bran and sawdust for poison mash in the 23 counties where the migratory species is present.

At least four counties have provided mechanical mixers capable of mixing a ton of bait every six minutes, and in Hartley County, where the infestation appears to be heaviest and where hatching occurred earliest, mash is being mixed at the rate of two carloads a day.

"We got a head start on the hoppers this year, and in spite of the increased infestation, we are controlling most of the insects at the place where it counts—the hatching beds," Reppert says.

Marketing Quotas Will Penalize Few Texas Growers

Large Percentage of Compliance With AAA Program Is Expected

Anticipating fully 92 per cent compliance with 1939 cotton acreage allotments, AAA workers at state headquarters here do not expect much Texas cotton to be penalized through the application of cotton marketing quotas on this year's crop.

Arrangements nevertheless were made here this month to single out the comparatively few growers expected to exceed cotton acreage allotments and to place a 3-cent a pound tax on cotton they sell in excess of their marketing quotas.

E. N. Holmgreen, state AAA administrator, explained that the tax, which is a cent larger than it was last year, will be collected by the buyer at the time of the sale.

A farm's marketing quota consists of either the normal or the actual production, whichever is the greater, of the farm's 1939 cotton acreage allotment—plus any carryover cotton which would have been subject to a penalty had it been marketed in 1938.

Producers who have no carryover penalty cotton and who plant within their 1939 cotton acreage allotments will receive white marketing cards and may sell all their cotton in 1939 without a penalty. The producer who overplants his allotment gets a red card. If he also has carryover penalty cotton on hand, he gets a blue card to go with the red one. If it happens that the producer with a blue and a white card actually produces less than his 1939 marketing quota, he may sell carryover penalty cotton, together with the 1939 crop, up to the amount of the 1939 quota without penalty; but any carryover cotton sold in excess of the 1939 quota will be subject to 2-cent penalty which prevailed in 1938.

Four-fifths of the Texas cotton growers who voted in a referendum last fall voted in favor of cotton marketing quotas for the 1939 crop.

Blackleg In Cows Noted In County; Cases Are Reported

New Discovery of Antigen Gives Lifetime Immunity to Stock If Properly Ministered

Several cases of Blackleg in cows and calves have been noted lately in Hall County and brought to the attention of authorities. This disease, which is probably one of the easiest to conquer, is responsible for injury and death to thousands of head of valuable cattle each year.

In dealing with blackleg infected animals, symptoms that always appear in the diseased calf are usually loss of appetite, dullness, and lameness or stiffness in one or more limbs. Perhaps the most characteristic and familiar symptom of blackleg is the appearance of swelling under the skin. This swelling, caused by the formation of gas, crackles like paper when pressed with the hand. In severe or virulent cases, no symptoms whatever may be noticed.

The germ which causes this disease is in spore form and lives for many years under unfavorable conditions. It may be carried from field to field, or from one farm or ranch to another, by the blowing of the wind, or in hay, or carried by birds. Calves have been commonly known to contract the disease when permitted into stalls, fields or pastures in which infected animals died several years before.

In view of the fact the disease often gives no symptoms and that the germ is of long life and is easily contracted, vaccine is recommended as a preventative. Late developments of an antigen assures stock of lifetime immunity with only one dose. Although this method is a little more expensive than regular bacterin treatments, it assures absolute immunity. However, bacterin will give desired results if properly ministered.

Remarkable to note in the Texas dairying industry is the fact that although milk products have increased greatly in the past ten years, the number of dairy cattle has not increased in proportion. Thus the conclusion is drawn that dairy products are enjoying a greater market and a wider use than ever before. This is largely due to better and faster transportation facilities in moving the dairy products to market.

There are more than 250 establishments in Texas for the care and manufacture of milk and dairy products.

Texas H.D. Club Women Set Out Trees and Shrubs

Improve Rural Home Surroundings With 129,969 Cuttings

Texas home demonstration club women and 4-H club girls rooted 129,969 cuttings in 1938—cuttings of trees, shrubs, and so on that by now are making their contribution to the home surroundings of rural homes.

The success of the work in previous years has resulted in a gradual increase in the number of cutting beds, and Sadie Hatfield, specialist in landscape gardening with the Texas A. and M. College Extension Service, has several suggestions for helping the cuttings survive the drought and heat of the summer.

The combination of a partial shade and a good mulch will hold down the loss of cuttings and young seedlings in dry weather, she says.

A dense shade will weaken the growth, and the ideal is one that will cut about half of the sunshine. She recommends lath, thin coverings of twigs, burlap bags, or stems of wild cane—anything that will serve to conserve moisture in the soil and to decrease evaporation from the leaves of the plants.

A mulch of partially decayed leaves or straw, applied to the top of the soil, will also hold moisture. Miss Hatfield warns that fresh straw should not be used, as this reflects the sun's heat. If such materials are lacking, the top of the ground should be kept very loose so as to decrease the loss of moisture.

Texas boasts 85 cheese factories today and a decade ago had none.

Engineer Checks Aerial Maps Here

Jim L. Mobley, field engineer from the state office of the Agriculture Adjustment Administration at College Station, is working in Hall County this week, checking aerial maps of Hall County farms.

A few of the maps have been found to be in error, according to E. R. Curtis, assistant county agent, and Mobley has been assigned to go over the documents and make necessary corrections.
