GINNINGS NEAR LAST YEAR'S TOTAL

Grades and Staples Improving in District

With 5,346 bales ginned in the county this season to October 18th, according to reports just received by Tom Ballew, collector of statistics, Hall County is rapidly approaching its total ginning of 1934. Except for the wet weather last week, last year's total would perhaps already be surpassed.

More than twice as much of the fleecy staple has been ginned this year than last, the number of bales to the same date in 1934 having been but 2,149.

Ginning in Donley County have decreased a third from last year, the 1935 ginning to October 18 in that county being only 2,060 bales, compared with 3,022 bales last season.

Grade and staple reports from the United States Department of Agriculture, for the week of October 17 to 24, show that both grade and staple are improving in District 3, of which Hall county is a part.

Strict middling cotton and better was the grade given 32.9 per cent of the ginning, while the week before the per cent of these grades was 25.1. The state for the same period showed a percentage of 26.8 strict middling and better.

In staple, 77.11 per cent from this district was 7/8 of an inch and better, against only 32.6 per cent the week before.

LEGION PLAY AT THE RITZ

Home Talent Play to Be Presented at Ritz Tonight

"Sky High," a home talent musical comedy, sponsored by the American Legion, will be presented tonight at the Ritz.

The play opens with the porter. Is he lazy and good-for-nothing? Wait! Did we say good-for-nothing? Can that man sing! "I ain't lazy, I'm just dreaming." But in spite of that we still insist he is lazy. The part is very ably taken by none other than Mr. Blalock.

Mrs. Stephens, a distinguished Irish lady, is kept constantly on the jump keeping track of her Irish bachelor brother, who is seemingly always one step ahead of her. She has high hopes that in the near future he will find a suitable lady eligible for marriage, but each time she mentions it to him he just ups and says: "just another fade-out. Sister, don't get excited." Margaret Milam takes the part of Mrs. Stephens, while we find David Fitzgerald as her play-boy brother.

Eva Card (Betty Dale West) the charming air-hostess, makes a play for Sidney Carney, even though she is at the time engaged to marry Walker Stephens, the young airplane designer, in which role we find Jack Sitton. However Walter Stephens happens to be in love with someone—but that would be telling.

Other prominent characters of the play are: Audre Lofland as... (Continued on page 8)

Erickson

Storm center of North Dakota's stormy politics for the last 10 years, ex-Gov. William Langer will go on trial in Bismarck tomorrow on a charge of conspiring to collect funds for political purposes from U. S. employes. Two of his co-defendants are Frank A. Vogel, former highway chief, and Oscar A. Erickson, publisher of The Leader, Langer's political weekly.

REFERENDUM IS CARRIED BY 13 TO 1

Hall County Farmers Vote for Control Measures

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28.—A. A. officials, delighted over the overwhelming endorsement in the nation-wide referendum of corn and hog control for next year, today plan to increase pork production 24 to 30 per cent next year.

Incomplete returns showed over 300,000 in favor of the control program, and 50,000 opposed. Texas voted 5 to 1 for the program.

Hall County corn-hog producers went to the polls Saturday and voted 13 to 1 for a continuance of the AAA crop adjustment plan.

Unofficial total tabulations showed that 126 corn-hog contract signers and producers voted for a continuance of the present program, and only 10 voted their disapproval of the measure.

The voting: Memphis, 59 for and 3 against; Estelline, 11 for and 3 against; Turkey, 28 for and 3 against; Lakeview, 28 for and 1 against. Voting this year was considerably larger than it was last year. Only fifty percent of the corn... (Continued on page 8)

FARMERS URGED MURDER BILLED AGAINST DRIVER

Transient Workmen Keep Local Men Unemployed

Determined that, if possible, local farm labor be employed on Hall County farms, a campaign has been launched to urge farmers to employ the local people instead of transients.

A statement just released, and signed by County Judge J. H. Vallance, Mayor J. A. Whaley, and J. R. Martin, agent of the Farm Replacement Service, reads as follows:

"The City of Memphis has a county office of the National Reemployment Service located in room two over the First National Bank. This office is maintained in this county for the purpose of securing employment for the unemployed of Hall County. The registrations of this office show that there are a large number of farm workers, and in some cases some of these unemployed farm workers are not obtaining their share of the work in the county, principally in the harvest of cotton. The reason given for this is that there are too many transient farm workers taking their places working on the farms. As the rolls of the National Reemployment Service are composed of only local residents who are unemployed at this time, we wish to take this means to make a personal appeal to every farmer and other employers of labor in Hall County and request you to give the preference to our local unemployed before hiring a person from outside this county.

"Mr. J. A. Martin, Field Agent in the United States Department of Labor Farm Placement Service will be in Memphis for two weeks. Mr. Martin will assist in placing all the local unemployed on jobs in the county. Mr. Martin requests of the farmers of Hall County that if they need labor to... (Continued on page 8)

Estelline Man Jailed Following Death From Wreck

With feeling said to be running high at Turkey over the affair, Ralph McCulloch, of Estelline, is in jail here under a charge of murder, following the death Saturday night of G. H. Baten of Wolf Flat, resulting from injuries received Friday afternoon in an automobile wreck near Turkey.

Baten, his wife and small son, received injuries when their car was struck by one driven by McCulloch, six miles east of Turkey on Highway 18. Baten, suffering head injuries, was rushed to the Standifer Hospital at Turkey, where he died Saturday night about 8:00 o'clock.

Mrs. Baten, who received a broken wrist and painful cuts and bruises, was able to attend the funeral at Turkey, but could not make the trip to this city for the interment, which was at Fairview Cemetery.

The three year old son, who sustained a chushed hip and broken leg, is said to still be in serious condition at the Turkey Hospital.

Following Baten's death, Sheriff Joe Colvin went to Estelline and placed McCulloch under arrest and lodged him in jail here. A murder charge against McCulloch was filed by Constable R. D. Rivers, of Turkey, with Justice of the Peace Lee Lockhart, of Turkey, yesterday.

Several Turkey officers and others are in the city today, in connection with the examining trial for McCulloch, which is being held this afternoon.

MOVE KITCHEN NOEL STREET

Located Commodity Warehouse on Noel St.

The Government canning kitchen located in Memphis moved its canning plant yesterday from its former housing quarters on Seventh street into the government commodity warehouse on Noel street, the building formerly occupied by the Ward Drive-In grocery.

The canning crew was busy this morning at the new location, and Mrs. C. A. Williams is looking forward to a full week's work this week. The kitchen is still being operated under the toll system, which provides that the workers be paid by a part of the foot-stuff canned.

WHOSE OX
 YOU remember the old tale which had for its moral the fact that it made a great deal of difference whose ox was gored.

An illustration of this is now taking place in Europe, in the vehement protests of England over Italy's conquest of Ethiopia.

We hold no brief for Italy, and think their invasion of the black republic a blot on their history that will never be erased in the minds of right thinking people.

On the other hand, the righteous indignation of Great Britain over Italy's acts smells to high Heaven.

Call back three years, and you'll get what we mean. Three years ago the Japanese set out to do, and did do, to Manchuria just what Italy is doing to Ethiopia.

Did England worry about the acts of the Japanese warlords? Did she send her fleets into adjacent waters, or work for a boycott on the Japs for their aggression against the Chinese province? She did not.

America was the only major power in the world which voiced a protest of the Japanese acts, and England and the League of Nations sat back and let America take the Japanese resentment for our stand in the matter.

Now though, Great Britain's interests in East Africa are threatened. England's ox is being gored, and John Bull gets on his high horse and shouts his disapproval to the world, and pleads with Uncle Sam to dive into the squabble and back up.

They're quite indignant because Uncle Sam can't

The GOLDEN FEATHER

BEGIN HERE TODAY
 JEAN DUNN, secretary to DONALD MONTAGUE, lawyer delays her answer when Bobby Wallace automobile salesman, asks Jean to marry him.

At The Golden Feather night club she meets SANDY HARKINS, whose business connections are vague. Sandy introduces Bobby and Jean to MR. and MRS. LEWIS and Bobby arranges to sell some bonds for Lewis. He sells them to Jean's employer.

LARRY GLENN, federal agent long a friend of Jean's parents, is trying to locate Wingy Lewis, Bank robber. Larry locates some stolen bonds and questions SONNY BOYD, gambler, about them. Boyd confesses he bought the bonds from Donald Montague. Montague tells Larry he bought them from Bobby.

Larry talks to Bobby, learns Lewis bought a car recently, and suspects it is armored. Federal men go to Lewis' hotel, but he and his wife have disappeared.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXI
 Even a government detective on a manhunt has time for a little private life occasionally—especially when the trail he is on grows cold and leaves him, temporarily without a lead. So it happened that the night after the raid found Larry Glenn and Bobby Wallace eating an informal dinner with Jean Dunn in Jean's apartment.

The dinner was by way of being a farewell party for Jean, who was to leave for home, on a week's vacation, the following day. Bobby, chastened and humble because of his misadventure with the stolen bonds, looked at her admiringly as she served the meal—she was very pretty, with a crinkly little apron over her summer frock, and she happened also to be an excellent cook.

Jean simply must marry him, the love-smitten youth mused, gazing darkly into his bowl of consommé, his spoon poised at the brim. She had been seeing a good deal of this Sandy Harkins, and that was a bad thing—for hadn't Larry Glenn discovered facts that convinced him that Sandy was a gangster, a member of the desperate Red Jackson mob? Of course, Jean really could not care anything for the man . . . but it wasn't a good thing for a girl like her to be associating with him at all. Oh, well, Bobby would get her to set a definite date for their wedding, and he'd warn her about Harkins, and—

But just then the others recalled him to his surroundings by asking him if he had gone into a trance, and his earnest daydream dissolved in embarrassed laughter.

They had a gay evening, these three old friends, recalling hometown experiences, joking about people they had known and pranks they had played as children, and revelling in the intimacy of old friendship.

One incident occurred—a thing which seemed utterly trivial, at the time, but which was to become, much later, an event of vast importance.

Jean learned, for the first time, that Larry was a Department of Justice operative. Highly thrilled, she plied him with questions about his job, and asked him, among other things how fingerprints were taken. Larry explained by giving a demonstration.

It happened that Jean had an ink pad on her desk. Taking it and a sheet of note paper, Larry playfully took impressions of her finger tips, explaining how each person's prints differ from every other person's. . . . Then, carelessly tossed the paper bearing the prints into the wastebasket.

Bobby instantly retrieved it. "I've got her picture," he explained, grinning, to Larry. "I've got a lot of pictures of her. I've got a ribbon she used to wear in her pigtail when she was so high I've got a little tin-and-paper badge she wore one time at a Christian Endeavor convention. I've got a lot of other things that remind me of her. Now I've got one more thing—something that nobody else has got."

They laughed at him as he pocketed the paper, and then they forgot all about it—until, weeks later, it became of the most profound significance.

Larry Glenn left shortly before 10 o'clock, remarking that he would "leave you two youngsters to yourselves." They protested—Bobby's protest being less than urgent—but Larry insisted, wished Jean a happy vacation, and bowed himself out.

Bobby immediately took a position on the couch beside Jean and slipped his arm about her shoulders; but when he tried to draw her to him she quietly resisted, and when he finally got the kiss he was seeking, her lips did not return his pressure. He released her and sat looking at her glumly.

"What's the matter, honey?" he asked. Jean resorted to one of those little mannerisms which women use at such moments, and carefully patted her hair into place in front of her right ear.

"Why, nothing," she said innocently.

"Well—" said Bobby doubtfully.

"Well?"

"Well, why don't—why don't you want me to kiss you?"

As a matter of fact, Jean was wondering the same thing. Why didn't she want him to? But she the late Senator Huey P. Long was a strong admirer of Bronson Cutting—was the next session of the Senate might be an uncomfortable one for Senator Dennis Chavez of Mexico.

As a matter of fact, the late Senator Chavez was too comfortable even for a senator from New Mexico. For a senator from New Mexico must have many and varied contacts with the Department of the Interior and it is to be expected that the relations between the two are not always the most harmonious. The inside story is that Chavez was the Democratic congressman who caused the selection of Cutting to the seat of the late Senator Long had been killed in a crash. Secretary of the Interior had hired Edward Cutting's secretary, a former of personnel, Mueggenstern, to look her over.

They sat facing each other, flushed, intensely in earnest, intensely unhappy, and both of them—if an outsider could have watched—just a little budierous, as youth is when it eagerly turns a little misunderstanding into a great quarrel.

And then, to his complete amazement, she began to cry on his shoulder.

As she sat in the Pullman car the next afternoon, on her way to her home in Maplehurst, Jean tried in vain to think her way out of the distressing emotional tangle with which her two young admirers had presented her.

It wasn't right of Bobby, she told herself indignantly, to try to poison her mind about Sandy. Sandy was as honest as—as anybody. It wasn't his fault that he'd had that little mixup with the police, and anyway, that had been straightened out instantly, as soon as Jean went to the police station and explained that Sandy had been with her that Friday afternoon.

She frowned faintly. Why did she always feel vaguely uncomfortable when she thought of that? What was wrong with it? She and Sandy had gone canoeing; a week later she had saved Sandy some embarrassment by telling the police about it. What was it that kept tapping at the door of her mind, telling her that there was something wrong with it? Then, suddenly, she knew, and gripped the arms of the Pullman chair in panic dismay.

She remembered, now; that afternoon when Bobby came to see Mr. Montague, and she got the afternoon off and went out with Sandy.

The robbery of which Sandy had been suspected had happened on a Friday. She had convinced the police that Sandy was innocent because he had been canoeing with her that Friday afternoon. But she remembered now.

It hadn't been a Friday, after all. She had gone canoeing with Sandy on a Thursday. On the Friday when the robbery occurred she hadn't seen him at all!

"Stop!" she cried, her eyes blazing.

"Well, it's true," he said. She looked at him scornfully.

"I didn't think that of you, Bobby."

"Think what?"

"That you'd be so jealous you'd—blackguard a man behind his back, when he isn't here to defend himself."

"I'm not blackguarding him."

"Oh, no!"

"Well, I'm not. I'm just—"

"What do you call it, then? Telling me he may be a crook or a gangster! He's a clean-cut, decent boy. You're the one that doesn't know anything about him. I do. I've seen him a lot. I like him."

They sat facing each other, flushed, intensely in earnest, intensely unhappy, and both of them—if an outsider could have watched—just a little budierous, as youth is when it eagerly turns a little misunderstanding into a great quarrel.

Estelline Downs Turkey Friday

ESTELLINE, Oct. 28.—The Estelline Cubs picked Turkey feathers Friday to the tune of 6 to 0. The first downs were about equal, and the offense looked slow on both teams due to the slick, wet and heavy field.

After playing up until late in the last period, neither the Turks or the Cubs had penetrated the twenty-yard line. The alert Eddie Clifton intercepted a pass on the 50 yard line and after running 20 yards, lateraled the ball to Vernon Leatherwood who carried it over for the only counter.

Sims, Landers, Davis and Kercheville stood out in blocking and defense work, while Adams and Leatherwood were the main ground gainers. The Estelline Cubs were supported by the Pen club and a large number of local fans.

Probably the most outstanding game of the season will be played on the local field next Friday with the Lakeview Eagles.

Panhandle Masons Meet at Amarillo

AMARILLO, Tex., Oct. 28.—All Masons of the Panhandle territory are invited to Amarillo to a Zone meeting, called upon request of the Grand Lodge of Texas.

The festivities will commence at 2 p. m. A Lodge will be opened, and the third degree conferred by members of the Panhandle Certificate Men's Association. At six thirty P. M. in the basement of the Masonic Temple, Amarillo, Saturday November 2, 1935.

The memory of a similar meeting held in Amarillo a year ago lingers in the minds of the Panhandle Masons, and it is anticipated that a large number will again attend this gathering.

Mrs. Buddie Gerlach and daughters, Alberta and Maydell, of Lorenza, were Memphis visitors yesterday. Mrs. Gerlach and Maydell were guests of Mrs. Dick Spoon, and Alberta was the guest of Ouida Rice.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Ayers of Hedley were Memphis visitors yesterday.

LET'S TALK ABOUT CLOTHES

DENTON, Oct. 28. — When wintery frocks are well in hand, fashion eye quickly turns to accessories — and take a prominent place in the light. Of course you've often heard the old phrase, "that shabby bag ruined her whole appearance," so a bag you may be justifiably proud to carry is essential.

Let's look over the new winter selection of smart bags as seen by girls at Texas State College for Women (CIA). The fashions have copied couturier originals with faithful chic, and it isn't hard to find one for each different type of ensemble. First of all, suppose we recognize the metals that are lending brilliance to dull winter leathers. They display the newer trends toward ornamentation of bags.

Smart bags in brown and black feature materials of grained pin-seal, calf, suede, goatskin, alliga-

FAMED PIANIST TO APPEAR IN CITY

Esther Johnson to Render Concert Next Week

When the petite, fair Esther Johnson appears here Tuesday, November 5th, in concert, Memphis will have an opportunity to see and hear the greatest living exponent of Mozart.

No other pianist, man or woman, plays Mozart with more inspired interpretation than Miss Johnson, it is acknowledged by international critics.

As a tribute to the artist's genius she is called in Europe "the darling of Salzburg" and "Miss Mozart."

By special request the world-famous pianist's program in Memphis will be principally Mozart and she probably will dress in a costume of the noted composer's time, although her wardrobe contains the latest creations of Chanel, Rochas and Lavin, celebrated couturiers.

On the program, too, will be numbers by Liszt, Haydn, Schumann, Paderewski and foreign folk music transcribed by the artist.

In Salzburg, birthplace of Mozart, Miss Johnson was chosen as soloist for the festival in celebrating the composer's 175th anniversary—the first time Austria had conferred so great an honor on a foreigner. Salzburg christened her "Miss Mozart" and from one end of Europe to the other she has been acclaimed the greatest Mozart interpreter of all time.

Miss Johnson not only has an undisputed mastery of the composer's works, but she also bears a striking resemblance to Mozart.

The artist created a sensation at Salzburg and has been invited to return for another festival.

In giving an account of the Salzburg festival, a trans-oceanic dispatch from Vienna says:

"The many friends of Miss Esther Johnson, pianist, in Vienna as well as other European cities will be glad to learn of her most unusual success.

The Mozart community of Salz-tor grained calf and mossip. They have zipper fasteners ornamented with huge gilded balls.

The grained calf with goatskin top makes a beautiful combination for winter. A shirred suede pouch with crystal fastener adds sophistication to your "dress up" frocks, and the long grained goatskin passport bag is delightful to hold all those odds and ends when traveling. For afternoon use select a suede bag topped by narrow twin handles.

In a discussion of bags, it is hard to overlook gloves as the matching accessories. They are impeccably designed to meet every daytime need, and smart women are fastidious in selecting them. Chic one-button slip-ons with goatskin palm or hand-sewn gauntlet-strips are necessary in the general wardrobe. Four-button hand-sewn slip-ons and dress gloves of every description are being featured for winter use.

Freshman Elect

Anne Hughston-President

Kula Makris-Vice Pres

Freshman students at Texas State College for Women (CIA) selected Miss Anne Hughston, Dallas, and Miss Kula Makris, Pine Bluff, Ark., to head the 1935-36 class. Approximately 1,000 first year students took part in the recent elections.

burg, the birthplace of Mozart, feels they have discovered an ideal Mozart interpreter in this young American artist. Miss Johnson created a sensation in the Mozart stronghold.

"Her affinity with Mozart was, curiously enough, also to be expressed in her outward appearance. Though gowned in an up-to-the-minute Chanel creation, her physiognomy has a distinct Mozartian cast. The musical authorities of Salzburg are all enthusiastic over the discovery. For the first time in the musical annals of Salzburg has an American virtuoso been so distinguished."

"It is not possible to play the music of Mozart better than Ester Johnson plays it," declare Yugoslav critics. "Ester Johnson's musical understanding is an extraordinary art, fine, pure and without shadow. As an enchantress she opened up to us a realm where she, with her fine feeling, reigns supreme."

Perhaps no pianist has ever taken the hearts of the Yugoslavs as has Ester Johnson. Her coming always is heralded as a great event. She played last in Yugoslavia while the country was in deep mourning over the death of King Alexander. All concerts of a lighter character were prohibited during the three months set aside for mourning, but it happened to be the anniversary of Mozart's death and she played all-Mozart programs with orchestra.

Mrs. F. D. Boles was a weekend guest in the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Boles, following her return from Borger, where she had spent several weeks with a daughter, Mrs. Kermit L. Pond.

Mrs. Grover Ingram of Panhandle arrived yesterday and will spend this week as the guest of her mother, Mrs. Fred Swift, 220 North Tenth Street.

SEEMS incredible but Thanksgiving and Christmas are just around the corner, the frost is on the pumpkin and meat assumes its winter importance on our menus. That being true, it seems a good idea to run through gravy and sauce combinations, just as a reminder. A beef roast either rolled or standing is served with horseradish and a brown gravy with Yorkshire pudding. Or if the roast is done rare the natural meat juices replace the brown gravy.

Filet of beef goes best with a tart spiced jam or conserve and mushroom sauce. There are seldom enough juices from a filet to make a brown gravy. Lamb is good with the old reliable mint sauce or mint jelly, but currant or crabapple jelly will do. And of course the gravy is brown.

Tart Fruits With Ham

Pork? Well, apple or cranberry sauce, don't you think, and no gravy.

Did you ever try ham with browned pineapple or a tart relish and hot raisin sauce? Indeed, almost any tart spiced fruit can be used with ham. Peach pickles, spiced crabapples and spiced pears from your own stock, for instance.

Cranberry sauce or any tart jam go well with veal and brown gravy.

Turkey and chicken, everybody knows cry out for cranberry sauce or jelly and giblet gravy.

Oranges, in sauce or baked, or with currant jelly form the traditional accompaniments of duck and brown gravy, while apple or cranberry sauce will do for the

Tomorrow's Menu

BREAKFAST: Halves grape fruit, cereal cooked with dates, cream, crisp bread, toast, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON: Cream of potato soup, croutons, cabbage, celery-green pepper sauce, peanut butter bread sauce, wiches, boiled apple dumplings, milk, tea.

goose, with brown gravy or mushroom sauce on the side.

Nearly any vegetable goes with roast beef or filet, either.

Spinach, peas and asparagus are traditional with lamb.

Pork is best served with a colored vegetable such as Brussels sprouts and broccoli, also strong-juiced vegetables.

Watch Strong Juiced Vegetables: Green and white vegetables should be served with ham, avoid the strong-juiced ones they overpower the flavor of ham.

Turnips, onions, squash, asparagus and peas go with fowl; cauliflower and Brussels sprouts, for instance.

A "Meal Planning Guide" published in 1850 advises the housewife to serve light colored vegetables with dark meats and colored vegetables with light meats. It works in most cases although there are some exceptions.

JATHAN OF THE DEEP WILL BE SEEN IN THIS CITY SOON

Remember Moby Dick? And did you ever see a whale?

A whale in Moving Pictures, a honest to goodness whale in the flesh? No? Well, here is your chance.

Representatives for the Eureka Whaling Company of Long Beach, Calif., were in Memphis Saturday to make arrangements with the City of Memphis for the Mammoth Marine Exhibit.

The exhibit will feature a monster whale, 55 feet long and weighing more than sixty-eight tons.

Accompanying the whale on its continental tour are many other species of marine life including a giant Octopus, Electric Fish, huge man-eating sharks, and the only traveling exhibit of penguins in America.

An added feature with the Exhibit is Madame Sirwell and her troupe of educated Fleas, performing many daring stunts that you will see at a Circus.

The exhibit will be open from noon until 10 p. m. Wednesday only.

Everywhere that this Exhibit has appeared, it has created a community interest because of its educational value to the younger element, who can see at first hand what their parents in most instances have not been able to witness during their lives. Captain David Barnett, veteran whaling commander, will appear here personally with the Exhibit, and is "Skipper" in charge of a crew of thirty men that accompany the Whale. They explain the modern and old time methods of whaling.

STORIES IN STAMPS

By I. S. Klein

A STATE TO SETTLE A DEBT

THE great state of Pennsylvania, where valuable industries thrive and great fortunes have been accumulated, was given away in payment of a debt, a little over 250 years ago. That debt, amounting to only $80,000, was owed by King Charles II of England to Admiral Penn, father of William Penn, founder of Pennsylvania.

In 1932 the United States issued a stamp showing a picture of this humanitarian Quaker, on the 250th anniversary of the founding of this colony. He came from England in 1682 and laid out the city of Philadelphia, after purchasing the land from the Indians. In 1701, however, he had to hurry back to England to prevent abrogation of his royal charter by Parliament. While there he heard that his fortunes at home had been depleted.

Word of dissension among his followers in Pennsylvania, in addition, caused him to offer his rights to the colony in America for sale at about $60,000. Before the sale could be completed, however, he was stricken with paralysis and died, in 1718.

Last rites for Mrs. B. C. Jarrell, 78 years of age, mother of D. M. Jarrell and grandmother of Jack Jarrell of this city, who passed away at her home in Childress Friday morning, were held Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the family home in Childress, conducted by Rev. B. W. Thompson, pastor of the King Memorial Methodist church.

Pallbearers were six of her grandsons and the floral offerings were in charge of granddaughters. Interment was made in the Childress Cemetery with the Newberry Funeral Home in charge.

A native of Alabama the deceased came to Texas a number of years ago with her family and settled in Hall county near Newlin where she lived a number of years before moving to Childress.

The deceased was a consistent member of the Methodist church and had been since childhood. She was a splendid mother, a kind neighbor and a fine christian character, rearing to manhood and womanhood a family of splendid children.

The deceased is survived by nine children, four sons and five daughters. The sons are: D. M. Jarrell of Wellington, formerly of Memphis; T. J., Sam and Hardy of Childress; the daughters are: Misses Bessie and Lillian Jarrell, Mrs. Robert Greer and Mrs. R. C. Pearatt, Childress, Mrs. Fletcher Cobb, Rosebud, and a number of grandchildren. All of the children were present at the funeral.

C. C. C. Chaplin Fills Pulpit

Captain Yeagan, official chaplain of the CCC camps in the Lubbock district and who has been visiting the local Veteran's camp, delivered the sermon yesterday morning at the First Methodist Church here.

Captain Yeagan spoke of the necessity for rehabilitation of the people, both from a spiritual and a material standpoint.

A number of enrollees of the local camp attended the services.

Locals and Personals

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Thorne of Dallas are here visiting among friends, and looking after their ranch interest.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Lamb and daughter, Brownie Nan, of Hedley, spent yesterday in Memphis visiting Mrs. Lamb's sisters, Mrs. M. M. Pounds and Mrs. J. W. Valance.

Miss Ruby Adams of Pampa spent yesterday in Memphis visiting among friends.

Mr. and Mrs. John Adamson of Hedley were Memphis visitors Saturday.

W. E. McGlocklin, who has been very ill at the Clark Hospital for several weeks, suffering with an infected foot and other complications, is reported to be no better and his recovery is still doubtful.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Cabanes and son, Ralph Jr., spent the weekend at Lubbock and Brownfield, visiting Mrs. Cabanes' sisters, Miss Olga Ford and Mrs. Howard Hawkins. They were accompanied by Mrs. Cabanes' mother, Mrs. E. Ford of Cisco, who has been their guest for the past three weeks. Mrs. Ford will visit her daughters, Miss Ford at Lubbock and Mrs. Hawkins at Brownfield, before returning to her home in Lubbock.

Dr. and Mrs. W. C. Snow of Dallas came yesterday and spent until this morning here as the guests of Dr. and Mrs. O. R. Goodall.

Mrs. Thurman Hutcherson and Mrs. Carl Jones of Estelline were Memphis visitors Saturday.

hog contract signers last year voiced their opinions on the corn-hog referendum, whereas this year seventy percent of the corn-hog contract signers, which is almost equivalent to the corn-hog producers in this county, marked ballots.

Over the entire nation, slowly-mounting returns showed that continuance of the AAA adjustment plan was carrying 7 to 1. In not a single state was the preliminary tally close.

If the final returns bear out present indications, it is known that a voluntary contract will be offered for both corn and hogs. In a formal statement in Washington yesterday, Chester C. Davis, AAA administrator, said that the AAA would seek a 25 to 30 percent increase in hog production next year, saying the "need for increasing the present pork supply of the nation . . . will be kept in mind in plans for the next adjustment contract."

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Chancey of Lakeview were Memphis visitors yesterday.

Shirley Shields; Roy Guthrie as Mr. Bedford; Geraldine Lewis as Carina Narro; Henry B. Newman as Harry Hunter and J. E. Reheia as Chief Nyle.

Supporting the principals will be a bevy of beautiful girls in fast-stepping choruses.

With its tuneful music, its choruses and its good wholesome comedy, "Sky High" has a definite appeal to all who enjoy the best in entertainment.

The regular screen attraction, "Clive of India," will be shown preceding stage presentation, and the theatre will be open at 6:45, the screen feature beginning at 7:00 o'clock.

AUSPICES AMERICAN LEGION

Critics all over the country praise Mel-Roy as to his ability as a magician and a real entertainer.

It has always been a mystery how a rabbit could appear and disappear in so many different places. He is likely to tumble out of anyone's hat and just as likely to vanish in some one's whiskers. Mel-Roy is like that.

His startling act of shooting thru a woman and then having the body disappear will stupefy you.
