There Are Volcanoes in Kansas

When "This Curious World," a Democrat feature, recently asserted that Kansas once had active volcanoes, Mr. Ferguson, who draws the feature, was assailed by native Kansans, who loudly asserted he didn't know what he was talking about. The pictures prove his case. Above, at the right, in the low hills five miles west of Riley, is the spot. The tablet at the left further tells the story.

Missing Boy Found at Home of Friend

Bill Reynolds, 12 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Reynolds of this city, who created a lot of excitement Sunday and yesterday by disappearing from the family home on North 8th street, is back in the parental fold today, after a frantic search yesterday by the parents of the young man, local officers and the Amarillo radio station.

Yesterday afternoon, the lad's father happened to remember that Bill knew a boy living near Salisbury, so he started for that community. Meeting a Salisbury school bus, he stopped the vehicle and questioned the driver and the children. One little girl who knew the Reynolds boy said that

The Weather

WEST TEXAS: Partly cloudy tonight and Wednesday; slightly warmer in north and east tonight; colder in the Panhandle Wednesday.

LOCAL: With each day a trifle warmer than that preceding, the local cold wave seems to be slowly, very slowly, on its way. The temperature this morning at 8:00 was 25, rising by noon to 41, 4 degrees warmer than yesterday. While not the coldest, the cold spell of the past several days has been one of the longest in recent years.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—Republican leader McNary, of Oregon, this morning introduced a new farm bill in the Senate providing for increased tariffs, payments to farmers based on domestic allotment plan, and the use of

NAME MEMPHIS MEN FOR CENSUS

Roy D. Chase, supervisor of the Census of Business, with headquarters at Amarillo, today announced that two enumerators have been appointed in Hall County to present the Census forms to business houses and help them fill out the necessary information. They are E. G. Whittington and Joseph E. Reheis, both of Memphis.

Mr. Chase stressed the fact that

Fights for Part of Oil Fortune

Fighting to upset the decision of a lower court that she never was the legal wife of Jackson Barnett, Oklahoma Creek Indian oil millionaire, who died last May, Mrs. Anna Laura Lowe Barnett is shown here in the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals in San Francisco. She contends that the verdict denying her a share in the oil fortune "interfered with her status as a citizen."

VISIT SITES OF SOIL PROJECTS OF LOCAL CAMP

Dinner and Business Meeting Last Eve Closes Inspection.

Headed by H. H. Finelli, head of the Soil Conservation Service for this region, a company of 13 Soil Conservation Service officials from the regional headquarters in Amarillo spent yesterday in Memphis and vicinity on a tour of inspection of the local Emergency Conservation Work camp.

The 13 regional SCS officials were conducted on a tour of inspection over all of the SCS projects that are now in operation, by E. McBride, Memphis camp superintendent, and other local SCS men. The company visited most of the cooperative agreement sites over Hall and Donley counties. Because of lack of time, they were unable to visit proposed work sites in Childress and Collingsworth counties.

The government men had dinner and a business session last night at 7:00 o'clock in the bar.

LOCAL POLITICS ARE WARMING UP

Local politics are now beginning to simmer in earnest, with rival candidates already announced for every district and county office except four, and one of these will draw an opponent within the week.

The three offices for which, so far, no threat of opposition has developed are District Clerk, County Judge and Justice of the Peace in this precinct.

There are two candidates for District Judge; three for Sheriff with another to announce this week; two each for County Clerk, Assessor-Collector, Treasurer, Commissioner in Precincts 1 and 2, and three for Commissioner in Precinct 3. So far there is but one candidate for District Attorney, but the second will be out within the week.

There are also rumors of additional candidates for several of the offices, and another two or three weeks will probably see the ballot crowded with aspiring office seekers.

TWO AMERICANS ARE KIDNAPED

Mining Men Seized by Mexican Bandits in Surprise Raid

By Associated Press
ETZATLAN, Jalisco, Mexico, Feb. 11.—A band of Mexican kidnapers have fled into the mountains of Northern Jalisco with two American mining men, seized in a surprise assault of the offices of the Ampara Mine Company here. The kidnaped men are Samuel Saneuss, assistant manager, and Paul Avery, engineer of the mining company.

George Winter, the American Consul at Guadalajara, said that he had requested the military authorities to withhold troops from pursuit of the bandits until ransom negotiations had been undertaken. The kidnapers apparently had advance information as to the identity of the victims, as they picked the pair out from several men in the mine office at the time of the raid.

BEER ELECTION DATE SET AND JUDGES NAMED

Court Names Judges for General Elections This Fall

Saturday, February 29, was set the date for holding a county election to determine whether or not the sale of beer in Hall County is to be legalized yesterday at the regular monthly meeting of the Hall County Commissioners.

The judges for the beer election and the general election next November were appointed by the court. The county Democratic committee, of which Jim King is chairman, will name the election judges at the Democratic primary in the commissioners court also the terms of county court yesterday. The dates set were the 1st Mondays of January, April, and October; and each term court will be for three weeks. These are the same dates that have been in effect during the past, but it is necessary that they be set for the coming year.

The regular bills coming before the court's actions yesterday judges appointed yesterday are as follows, with the presiding judge given first in each instance:

1, Memphis—Sam J. Hamilton, W. B. Funk, W. P. Watts and McCanne.
2, Newlin—Ben Gresham, Nelson, J. W. McCollough, and Solomon.

WHITE FARMERS SHORT COURSE

County Agent R. E. L. Pattillo receipt of a letter from Col. Station urging Hall County farmers and ranchmen to attend short course for horses, packs and mule breeders at the A. & M. University of Texas, College Station, February 24 and 25.

Classes will be held in the Animal Industries Building or in the Livestock Judging Arena. Those attending should report on time to Animal Industries Building for registration.

Registration fees are required for this course. Last year about 100 attended, and indications are that a greater number will attend this year.

CAL DENTIST APPOINTED

Free Dental Work Here in Future

L. M. Hicks, Memphis dentist, has received notice from the War Department to the effect that he has been appointed as the designated dentist for World War veterans in this area.

Veterans in class 3, or veterans who draw compensation from the government, will have their dental needs cared for here without charge.

SCHEDULE DANCE AT LEGION HALL

With an augmented personnel, a singer and several novelty numbers, the Harry Hickox orchestra will furnish the music for a dance at the American Legion Hall, on South Sixth Street, tomorrow night.

This will be the first appearance of this popular musical organization here in several weeks, and local lovers of the dance will welcome their reappearance. The

MAKES SURVEY FOR SHELTERBELT WORK

B. H. Williams, assistant soil surveyor of the state Shelterbelt organization, was in Memphis yesterday making a soil survey and topography study for the Shelterbelt work and was outlining areas suitable for Shelterbelt establishment.

Mr. Williams has been working in Hall County for over a week, studying the types of soil over the county. Most of his working has been along the Hall-Collingsworth county line, and near Parnell and Estelline.

A good type soil in those sections was reported by the Shelterbelt expert, and the Shelterbelt tree planting program will be confined in Hall County to those vicinities.

Actual planting work has not begun in this county, but several

BACK TO THE SOIL

A FEW days ago we published on our editorial page a cartoon by Herbblock, entitled "Another Back to the Soil Movement," and depicting two politicians of opposing parties reaching into a mud puddle for ammunition to throw at each other.

Much as we regret to see that kind of a campaign, as sure as fate that is the kind of campaign we're afraid we're going to see this summer and fall.

In fact, the more we think about the coming festivities, the more we are certain that the nation is going to see a campaign this year which will be long remembered and which it will require years to get the taste out of our mouths.

Not only is it to be a campaign of party against party, but, from indications, a campaign within each of the major parties.

Al Smith started the fireworks recently with his speech in which he stated that he was ready to "take a walk."

The administration came right back at Al with the urgent invitation that he make good on his boast and really "take a walk."

The efficacy of Al's "walk" is going to be weakened greatly by Finer Coughlin's recent stand in support of Roosevelt and his administration, for Coughlin's following is, to a great extent, the same as Al's, and they think more of the priest than they do of Al.

While the followers of the donkey are having their intimations of trouble, the boys behind the elephant are also finding rocky going, with the bolting of Borah, who refuses to play in the Republican back yard and threatens to start a party of his own within the party.

"Chicken in the Pot" Hoover isn't saying much just now, but he is also going to have to be figured on by the Republicans.

All in all, the fellow on the sidelines this year is going to see one of the weirdest displays of political fireworks in years, and the only thing the onlooker must bear in mind is to not allow himself and his better judgment to be swayed too far by the maneuverings of the political puppets.

One of the young ladies in Judge Hoffman's office at the courthouse yesterday morning turned a neat somersault out of a chair when she started to get up and her dress caught on the chair. Really, she should join an acrobatic troupe with a circus.

Another good somersaulter is Bill Alexander. He turned a neat one yesterday afternoon in front of the Democrat office when his foot caught in a crack, or he stepped on a match, or something.

But the amateur acrobatic maneuvers of these folks will seem like child's play when the local candidates are approached by the Townsend Plan adherents for an expression of their stand on the Townsend old-age pension plan.

Tomie Potts started into the Democrat office this morning and then hurriedly back out. Don't know who scared him off, but the only folks in the office at the time, except the staff, were the Methodist preacher and the school superintendent.

"G-Man" Turlington at the sheriff's office giving the We Saw editor the "low down" on the improved methods of fingerprinting. Jawn is getting the G Man business down pat.

WASHINGTON.—If gossip nominated presidential candidates, Supreme Court Justice Owen J. Roberts would be as likely a Republican possibility as anyone.

There's a choice report going around in rather exalted circles that Roberts, asked recently by a friend whether he would accept the nomination if it came to him, replied that no man could duck such responsibility.

Prominent Pennsylvania Republicans are said to be especially interested. Roberts was one of them once. Bosses in other eastern states also have been thinking about it. Roberts has become the hero of anti-New Deal forces through his majority opinions against New Deal laws.

It can't be said definitely whether Roberts has been sounded out. But no convention will nominate a man unless party leaders are certain in advance of his acceptance.

In 1916 it was William Howard Taft—not then on the bench—who first approached Justice Charles Evans Hughes. After that George Perkins, the ex-Morgan partner and financial angel to Teddy Roosevelt's Bull Moose campaign, did the go-between work with Hughes and the politicians.

THE Social Security Board is about to acquire an economic adviser who will study its vast program in operation, and consumers will have still another champion to represent them in government councils.

Walton Hamilton will resign as director of the Consumers' Division to accept the Social Security appointment. He will be replaced by in the We Saw.

Clarence Ayers, chairman of the economics department at University of Texas.

Hamilton is a professor of law and economics at Yale. He was member of the National Industrial Recovery Board and recently directed a notable series of studies for a special cabinet committee.

His aim is to make a constructive attack on insecurity and his job will be to locate weak spots in the present program and study the problems which it doesn't reach.

He regards the problem of reducing the volume of unemployment both as imperative and as falling within the federal security program's scope of study.

Ayers was associated with Hamilton on the Amherst College staff.

THOMAS JEFFERSON COULDRIDGE resigned as undersecretary of the Treasury not, as reports said, because of disagreement with Roosevelt's fiscal policy. He quit because he couldn't get along with Secretary Henry Morgenthau, who, it has been said, tends sometimes to become arrogant and difficult.

Assistant Secretary "Chip" Roberts quit after certain suggestions. Practically all his former duties have been taken away.

Coulidge's resignation leaves Assistant Secretary Josephine Rock who has nothing to do with the affairs, as the person with the capability in the Treasury. Roosevelt runs the Treasury from the White House and under him the secretary will always be a "shadow man."

The source of Roosevelt's advice in Treasury affairs is rather a mystery, but the most likely suspect is Reserve Board Governor Martin S. Eberle.

The STRANGE CASE OF JULIA CRAIG

by Nard Jones Copyright NEA 1936

BEGIN HERE TODAY

JULIA CRAIG, pretty young secretary to GEORGE WOODFORD, lawyer, is ambitious to become a night club singer. Julia shares an apartment with SANDERS.

PETER KEMP, young lawyer, in love with Julia but they quarrel and Julia declares she never wants to see him again. Woodford gives a party on his yacht and asks Julia to come to sing for his guests, including CINTRA LEE, dancer, S. JOSEPH, widow; HUGO SH and ROYAL NESBITT. On board, Julia discovers the body of a man who is to be much longer than week-end. The yacht lands at Evergreen Island where Woodford has a lodge. Julia meets TOM PAYSON who agrees to help her get away, but he is covered on the yacht and accused of tampering with the radio. After an angry scene he is forced to depart.

Back home Julia is hired to work on TONY LATTA'S gambling ship. Tom Payson comes to the ship frequently. One night, after winning heavily, Tom is catenated. He and Julia escape in a speedboat. Nesbitt's dead body is discovered. Police question Julia and she is held as a material witness. At morning Payson secures her release on bail. Peter Kemp offers to defend her.

How Go On With the Story

CHAPTER XXIII

In the morning Julia's head had ached and she faced the world with less courage than she had been able to summon before Bush's barrage of questions. She knew that they had depended on a surprise attack, hoping to discover something. They had left her after a hard evening at the White Club, when she was too tired to stand, much less answer questions.

In the light of morning she was to tell herself that nothing really happened to endanger her. She knew nothing of the in-boards aboard the Wood Nymph. It had been something which she had not rather than witnessed—and she was the added fact that she had accompanied Woodford and his wife to Evergreen Island much to her will.

What had Buchen meant by suggesting that Woodford had suggested prosecuting attorney question her? Had Woodford simply suggested the names of his associates, or had he somehow suggested that Julia Craig was the most likely suspect? The thought chilled her, made her more than ever afraid—for, obviously, Woodford had all along been trying to shield himself or someone else.

Nevertheless, armored by the knowledge of her innocence, she started the new day with much more courage than Amy could muster. She fell into a stupor, Julia had been unable to sleep—but poor Amy had stared at the breakfast table pale and heavy lidded. The shock of Nesbitt's death had been difficult enough, but now with Julia dragged into the mess, Amy was almost ready for doctors and nurses.

"I'm scared, Julia. The morning paper tells of your being questioned, and that police say they are putting—wait, I'll read it." She picked up the paper, and read. "Police told reporters they were putting considerable hope in the testimony of Julia Craig, better known as Nadine White, night club singer, who was aboard Woodford's yacht."

"That doesn't mean anything, Amy. And there's something I want you to do for me."

"What's that?"

"Don't mention that you knew Nesbitt. I told them that I'd known Nesbitt for some time before the yacht trip."

"But, Julia!—that makes it just that much worse for you!"

Julia shook her head. "It won't. And there's no need of your being mixed up in this. Remember—you've got to stick to what I told them now."

Amy's reply was prevented by a staccato knock which startled them both. Nervously Julia went to the door and opened it. The early-morning visitor was Smith Garland.

"Sorry about the hour, Julia... Hello, Miss Sanders." He strode into the room in his dynamic manner, turned suddenly to Julia again "Is there anything I can do?"

"That's nice of you, Smith. But...," she smiled weakly, "everything is all right now."

Garland looked relieved. "You'll be able to go on tonight at the club."

"Of course. I don't think they'll call me again. And Peter Kemp is going to watch out for me."

"Kemp?"

"He's a young attorney I know. Garland's forehead deepened its lines. "If I were you I'd get someone like G. Williams Miller. He handles Payson's affairs. I'll speak to Tom about it, if you like. You never know what might turn up, and it pays to have good counsel, Julia."

Julia shook her head. "I've already told Peter I wanted him—if I need a lawyer at all."

The night club operator seemed still dubious. "All right, Julia. But I know one thing. This young Buchen is out for blood. He'll hang this thing on somebody or know the reason why. If you're easiest...," His voice trailed into a meaningful silence.

Amy got up from the table, her breakfast untouched. "Julia, do you think you really ought to sing tonight?"

"She doesn't have to unless she feels perfectly all right," Garland said.

"I am perfectly all right," Julia assured them. "I'm not going to let them stop me now!"

Garland smiled. "Good girl!"

Payson called to take Julia to the White Club that night.

"Feeling all right after your ordeal?" he wanted to know when they had settled themselves into his roadster and started through the thickening night traffic.

She nodded. "At any rate, I'm feeling much better than when you found me last night. Tom, they could have hanged me, and I don't think I'd have had the strength to object."

"I know..." His lips closed in a thin line. Then: "I'm going to remember this Buchen." Payson turned to study Julia's sober profile. "You're a brick to stand up under all this. The fact is, I should be down there myself. I was on Evergreen Island."

"Oh, you mustn't tell them that!"

"Why not?"

"Woodford told them that someone tried to get into the radio room. Buchen asked me if anything else unusual happened on the island, and I had to tell him about your attempting to use the radio phone. But I said I didn't know who you were."

"I'm afraid that's bad, Julia. You see, I told Woodford that night my name was Payson."

Julia's hand flew to her throat. "I—I'd forgotten that. Do you suppose Woodford remembered?"

Tom laughed easily. "After all, Julia, I haven't been exactly a recluse in this town. And that night when I stood before Woodford I had a sneaking suspicion he recognized me then."

"Oh, Tom... I wish I hadn't

Going to town with Luckies A LIGHT SMOKE of rich, ripe-bodied tobacco

Over a period of years, certain basic advances have been made in the selection and treatment of cigarette tobaccos for Lucky Strike Cigarettes.

They include preliminary analyses of the tobacco selected; use of center leaves; the higher heat treatment of tobacco ("Toasting"); consideration of acid-alkaline balance, with consequent definite improvement in flavor; and controlled uniformity in the finished product.

All these combine to produce a superior cigarette—a modern cigarette, a cigarette made of rich, ripe-bodied tobaccos—A Light Smoke.

Luckies are less acid

Recent chemical tests show that other popular brands have an excess of acidity over Lucky Strike of from 53% to 100%.

DUNBAR & WATSON

BOY SCOUT MOVE HAS CIVIC GOAL

During the past twenty-six years approximately 7,000,000 boys and men have been connected with Scouting. The graduates, or veterans are thus becoming an increasingly large group—there are almost six million of them. Within the past year various programs have been devised to reestablish or further their contacts with Scouting and its ideas. Older boys and young men have been summoned to special camps and talks, sea units have been planned for them, and from England has come Rover Scouting. The latest progress in this effort has been noted by Dr. James E. West, recently honored on his Twenty-fifth Anniversary as chief Executive.

In the plans now being pushed for an alumni group, the goal, according to Dr. West, is civic betterment. If the Scouting Program can continue its influence on young men between the ages of 15 and 25, if on the simple basis of the Scout Oath and Law and sturdy leadership it can build up character, create a higher civic sense and help youth find its vocational place, will not a more solid foundation for future citizenship be laid?

"When I look back now after twenty-five years," answers Dr. West, "I believe I can see the day when Scouting will clear the way for better politics. When a few more Scout-trained generations are turned out as citizens, the politicians will be made to realize their civic responsibilities, and the young man of tomorrow will be acutely aware of his debt to his community."

"We have as a guide a very ambitious and very challenging program of growth—our Ten Year Program."

"This program will assure a citizenry a large proportion of whom are motivated by principle and able to see what their duty is, because it basically involves consideration for the rights of others, and basically involves co-operation in order that we may really and truly make the world a better place in which to live."

Turkey Defeats Matador Quintet

Special to The Democrat
TURKEY, Feb. 10.—The terrible Turkey Turks Saturday night defeated the Matador quintet here, 36-15. The score at the half was 20-9, in favor of the Turks. Yarbrough, Turk guard, was high point man for his team with 16 points to his credit.

The victory was Turkey's third over Matador this season. The team leads its conference and has been defeated only twice, by Pampana and Quanah. It is favored to win the district title. The Turks will compete in the county tournament at Estelline Friday and Saturday.

Announce Birth

Announcements have been received in Memphis announcing the birth of a daughter, Elnor Clyde, to Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Drake in Wellington Sunday morning. The Little Miss arrived at 5:30 at the Wellington Hospital and weighed 6 1-4 pounds. This being the first grandchild of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Drake, naturally they are much elated over the event.

Mrs. Chas. Drake went to Wellington yesterday to visit her new granddaughter, Elnor Clyde Drake.

THE GREAT DROUGHT OF 1800

Find Old Spanish Records of Drought

This is one of a series of articles describing strange and novel localities and traditions in various parts of the nation, uncovered and described by writers who are compiling the American Guide, a guide book of the United States, sponsored by the Works Progress Administration.

Science has verified the "terrible drought" in the year 1800, reported in an old Spanish record of the Arizona Historical Society, which has just been translated by workers of the WPA Federal Writers' Projects. Miss Ina S. Cassidy, the state director, who has made several finds of scientific or historical value in the old records, sent a copy of this record to Dr. E. A. Douglass, University of Arizona, who has been making a scientific study of tree rings. In reply, W. S. Stallings, Jr., who has charge of the ring research work under Professor Douglass, responded:

"For some time, I have been collecting such casual historical references to past weather as may have come to my attention, and this reference is indeed a welcome addition. You may be interested to know that the ring for 1800 is characteristically small in the Big Grande region and that the ring for the following year was even smaller."

Arizona was part of the territory which the United States took over from Mexico after the war with that country and English records did not begin until the middle of the last century. The drought was told about in a report made by Don Pedro de Nava, in rendering an account of a campaign which he conducted against the Navajo Indians. He wrote:

"I directed my search with 300 men to San Maeto (supposed to be the same place now known by the name, lying between Albuquerque and Gallup and also known as Mount Taylor), whose range of mountains I fully inspected and, only finding old tracks of the enemy, I realized that they moved their encampment from this advantageous locality for lack of water; as I found some springs with little water and others entirely dry on account of the terrible drought which I had experienced. Because of this, I descended to El Rio del Norte and then joined the retinue."

Another translation solves the mystery of the "stone watch towers" which are scattered over eastern and north-western Arizona. Writing on November 22, 1788, Don Jacobo Ugarte Y Loyola reported that the Spaniards were on an excellent footing with the Navajos with the prospect of permanent peace and adds that Antonio el Pinto, the Navajo chief, had built ten rock towers in his tribe's encampment to safeguard the women and children in the continuous raids of the Gileños. Loyola proposed that the chief be given command of the Navajo nation with the title of general.

The state and local Historical Records Survey now being initiated by the Federal Writers' Projects will make such portions of them as seem particularly interesting or of outstanding scientific or historical importance.

EX-MEMPHIAN ENJOYS PAPER

"We Saw" Is One of Favorite Features

We are in receipt of the following letter from H. King Stephens, former Memphis newspaper man, now Superintendent of Printing at the Government Printing Office in Washington, D. C.

The letter is self-explanatory, except for the reference to the item in the We Saw column. The item had referred to Justice Wheat being up and around after a spell of sickness, and stated that it was being printed for Mr. Stephens' benefit. The point of this was that we once had a letter from King criticizing us for running items about people being sick, and then never telling whether they got well or died.

The letter follows:

Washington, D. C.
February 1, 1936.

Earl C. Johnson,
Memphis Democrat,
Memphis, Texas.

Dear Earl:

Just read your We Saw column in the Democrat of January 28, in which appears the item concerning the recovery of Judge W. L. Wheat. You stated that this was for my particular benefit. Well, I fail to see why any special consideration for me, unless it was because the date of issue was my birthday, and this was sort of a birthday present.

However, I was glad to know that I am still remembered around the Democrat office and rate such consideration, and to learn of Mr. Wheat's recovery.

We thoroughly enjoy your column and find it supplies lots of personal information concerning those who we are anxious to hear from. These little personalities could never be handled in any other manner than in a column. I hope you know that any criticism I make of your splendid paper is of a constructive nature. Really there is little criticism to offer, especially since you have turned your entire edition to strictly local news.

Memphis is still our home, you know, for Government employees in Washington retain their legal and voting residence in the city from which they were appointed (candidates take notice—three votes), and we feel that each day the postman brings us a letter from

Monzingo Out For Sheriff

In this issue of the Democrat will be found my announcement as a candidate for the office of Sheriff of Hall County, Tennessee, subject to the action of the Democratic primary in July.

I am 31 years of age, and have lived in Hall County during all of these years.

My hat is in the ring, and if I am elected I will be your Sheriff. I submit that a man who is acquainted with the conditions of the community and the problems which a peace officer must solve is best qualified to be your Sheriff. I pledge you that if elected I will respect my office. Give me a chance.

Yours truly,
WILL MONZINGO

Sincerely,
KING.

Hope to Enlarge Bowling Alleys

Bowling has become so popular in Memphis, the two alleys now in use at the Memphis Bowling Alleys are not sufficient to take care of the demands of the local bowlers.

Jack McLaughlin, manager of the local alleys, is trying hard to locate some additional equipment to install in his establishment on Noel Street. He believes he is on the trail of two more good alleys and if able to make satisfactory financial arrangements hopes to have them in operation within the next thirty days.

The present bowling league is creating plenty of interest among the local bowlers. The first half of the series ends Friday, February 21 and the second half starts immediately afterwards Monday, February 24th. There are

Twenty-four Hour Taxi Service

Memphis is able to boast of a taxi cab company which gives excellent service twenty-four hours a day. During the daylight hours, three cabs are available and two during the night. For the very small charge of 10c Cudd Brothers Taxi Service will call for and deliver you any place within the city limits of Memphis. Their telephone number is 157 and they invite your patronage.

Cudd Brothers also handle a complete line of auto needs, including Federal Tires, Bell Gasoline, your favorite brand of oil, batteries, and many other accessories.

still vacancies on some of the teams and anyone desiring to participate may obtain the necessary information from McLaughlin.

Our Income Tax

To Report Income from Salaries, Wages, Etc.

The millions of income-tax returns that are filed annually, the majority are from salaried men and wage earners whose income is derived from personal services.

In general, compensation for personal services should be reported for taxation purposes in the year it is received or unqualifiedly subject to demand. Compensation credited to the account set apart for a taxpayer, but any substantial limitation of the amount which may be credited upon by him at any time, subject to tax for the year during which so credited or set apart, though not then actually reduced in possession. If the services were rendered during the year 1934, or prior thereto, but the compensation was not received, or was unqualifiedly subject to demand, by the taxpayer until the year 1935, the entire amount is taxable in the year received, or is unqualifiedly subject to demand, when the taxpayer is reporting cash receipts and disbursements basis, which is the basis used by most persons in reporting net income.

The names of all employees to whom payments of $1,000 or over are made must be reported. Information return should be filed on form 1099, accompanied by transmittal form 1096 showing number of returns filed. These returns should be filed on or before February 15, 1936.

All of the various types of compensation, unless specifically exempt by statute, or exempt by fundamental law, should be included in the taxpayer's return of income, such as salaries, fees, commissions, bonuses, honorariums, prizes, awards, living allowances for past services, etc. Where services are paid in whole or in part with something other than money, the fair market value of the thing taken in payment must be included as income. Other items subject to tax are fees received by ministers of the gospel for funerals, baptisms, marriages, and like services; executors' fees; directors' fees; Federal judges' fees; and prizes received in contests of various kinds.

The salaries of Federal officials and employees are subject to tax, including the salary of the president of the United States and judges of courts of the United States taking office after the date of the enactment of the Revenue Act of 1932, which was June 6, 1932. The salary of the Vice President of the United States, and the salaries of Members of the House of Representatives and the members of the United States Senate are also subject to income tax.

Davis. She has a vicious tongue." "It wasn't Theresa Davis I minded," Julia said quietly. "But she was speaking for your whole crowd, Tom. I could tell that."

He released one hand from the wheel, seeking her hand. "She wasn't speaking for me, Julia. That's what I want you to be sure about."

"I know. You've been grand, Tom, and I—I appreciate it." She laughed ruefully. "It seems as if you're always getting me out of trouble since the first day we met."

He was silent a moment, threading the car carefully into a faster traffic lane. "I think I get it, Julia," he said at last. "You appreciate it . . . but that's as far as it goes."

"What do you mean, Tom?" "I mean I'm in love with you," he said quietly, not turning his head. "You haven't an answer for that, have you?"

"Not . . . not now, Tom." He nodded. Then, suddenly, in a wholly different tone, he said, "Here we are, Julia!"

Julia stared through the windshield. The doors of the White Club were scarcely visible, so great was the mob outside! They pushed into the entrance-way, overflowed from the sidewalk and into the street.

"Looks as if this is going to be bigger than opening night," said Payson in an odd voice.

"I know . . . why," Julia answered. "It's—it's because of the publicity about—Royal Nesbitt." She turned to Payson quickly. "Turn the car around, Tom. I'm not going in there!"

He looked at her in astonishment. "Why, Julia?"

"I won't be stared at as a— a sensational curiosity! Most of them out there haven't come to hear me sing. They've come to see the girl who was questioned about the murder of Royal Nesbitt." She was sobbing now. "I won't be that kind of a success. I won't, Tom! I'll come back to the White Club when they've forgotten all this."

Payson sped the car past the milling mob, turned at the next corner.

"I don't blame you," he said. (To Be Continued)

Bad Elimination Makes It Easier To Catch a Cold

With the right sort of food and proper exercise, constipation might be rare, but in actual living conditions how few manage to escape it!

Mr. Clyde Martin, of Ona, W. Va., recently very aptly wrote that "constipation is the root of a lot of sickness, but if Black-Draught is taken right it will keep down constipation."

"If I let myself get constipated," he explains, "and my system filled with impure matter, I feel bloated, take cold easily, and feel out of sorts in a lot of ways. I will take about two good doses of Black-Draught. It seems to cleanse my whole system and I feel like doing my work."

Here's Real Help In Avoiding Many Miserable Colds

Unique Medication Designed to Aid Nature's Defenses in Nose and Throat, Where Most Colds Start.

PROVED IN USE BY MILLIONS

In the exclusive formula of Vicks Vapo-nol has been found a unique and successful aid in preventing many colds—winter's threat to our comfort and health.

Va-tro-nol is especially designed for the nose and upper throat—where most colds start. It aids and stimulates the functions provided by Nature—in the nose—to prevent colds, and to throw off head colds in the early stages. Used in time—at the first nasal irritation, sniffle, or sneeze—just a few drops up each nostril—Va-tro-nol helps to avoid many colds.

Where irritation has led to a clogged-up nose (a stuffy head cold or nasal catarrh) Va-tro-nol reduces swollen membranes—clears clogging mucus—brings comforting relief.

For Fewer and Shorter Colds
Note to mothers—who guard the family's health: Vicks has developed, especially for you, a practical Plan for Better Home Control of Colds. This guide to fewer and shorter colds has been clinically tested by practicing physicians and further proved in everyday home use by millions. Full details of Vicks Plan in each Va-tro-nol package.

OLD AGE PENSION

AUSTIN, Feb. 11.—Applicants should be able to prove their yearly income because the old-age assistance law provides that $360 yearly for single persons and $720 yearly for married couples must be the total of revenues received by applicants from all sources including the State aid. Orville S. Carpenter, executive director-designat of the Old Age Assistance Commission, said today about the new law.

"Applicants should be prepared to make a full and complete statement of all earnings for the years immediately preceding application," Mr. Carpenter declared.

"The cash or security clause in the new law necessitates that applicants be able to tell the exact amount of money they have in the bank. They should be prepared to give a description of all securities owned, serial number from whom purchased, etc.," explained. "If securities are sold, the name of the purchaser must be known. Full details about all securities handled bought, or sold during the two years must be provided.

"Not only does the requirement concern earned income, but received from any source must be listed," Carpenter stated.

Section 7, subsection (e) of the new law reads that the application shall contain the following information:

If receiving aid from a source, the amount received from whom, or if such aid be in cash money, then a description of such aid tendered, together with the name of the source, such aid and from whom; amount received from the United States Government, State, County, public or private charitable organizations, corporation or private individuals.

Applicants will be able to fill in their own locality by February 14. Those forms may be filed as soon as filled out by applicants.

customs receipts to encourage production of new products and find new markets.

McNary said that George Peek, who resigned as administration export trade advisor, had drafted the bill.

In the meantime, it was reported that administration experts were considering tax sources estimated to provide from $500,000,000 to $900,000,000 revenue for the new farm program.

Receiving attention were excise taxes on processing of farm commodities, and retroactive excess profit or special income taxes to recover $200,000,000 returned to the manufacturers under the Supreme Court's processing tax decision.

he had been at the Salisbury school that day and had gotten off the bus just a short distance back down the road. Going to the home of the lad's friend he was located.

The boy had walked to the Salisbury home Sunday, spent the night there, attended the Salisbury school yesterday with his friend, and was planning to again spend the night last night. The parents of his friend thought he had the permission of his parents for the visit, and knew of nothing being wrong until Mr. Reynolds showed up yesterday afternoon.

So, following his adventures, young Bill is back home again, no doubt sadder but wiser from his experience.
