50 Millions Set Aside for Youth

By Associated Press
WASHINGTON, June 26.—President Roosevelt today established "National Youth Administration" to meet what he called the "great national need" by offering to the unemployed youth "their chance in school, their turn as apprentices and their opportunity for jobs."

New World Head Of Rotary Clubs

Edward Roberts Johnson of Roanoke, Va., above, assumed the duties of president of Rotary International, with his election at the recent Mexico City convention. Johnson, a large-scale coal and building-supply dealer, served as major, Q. M. C. during the World War, and has been prominent in club and fraternal work.

FARM MEETINGS WILL START TOMORROW

County Agricultural Agent James A. Jackson tomorrow will open a series of farm meetings in a dozen cities and communities in the county. The purposes of the meetings will be to acquaint the farmers with the cotton compliance program and to discuss certificate checks expected at any time here and the disposal of the remaining certificates in the pool, Jackson said.

Sand and Wind Damages Are Slight; Rain Is Beneficial

To Acquaint Farmers With Compliance Program

Final reckoning in the sensational Weyerhaeuser kidnaping was being taken in federal court at Tacoma, Wash., as Mrs. Waley, who was snapped, Mrs. Margaret Waley, left, broken-hearted and sobbing, covered her face as she left the courtroom after being denied a plea of guilty, but her husband, Harman M. Waley, right, seemed unmoved, despite the fact that he was given a 45-year sentence and that U. S. Marshal A. J. Chitty's restraining arm is a reminder that he may never be free again. Mrs. Waley's trial was set for July 5.

As Kidnapers Came To Justice

Slight damages were reported over the Memphis Area this morning as a result of a wind and sand storm that swept part of the area late yesterday, followed by a beneficial downpour. Damages estimated at about $500 were reported by the Memphis and Hedley Compress Companies. About 125 feet of roof ventilation were torn away at each plant.

Some Crop Damage
Crops on sandy soil east of Lakeview were said to have been burned considerably by the wind and sand, but most of the area seemed to have profited by the moisture, which brought cool winds to give relief from mid-summer heat.

Four telephone lines were out of commission this morning west of Lakeview. Connections between Lakeview and Brice were broken. The others were rural lines, Miss Daisy Wells, telephone operator at Lakeview, stated.

Annulment Suit Ends Elopement

Whether Homer Rodeheaver, above, former singing master for Billy Sunday and widely known chautauqua lecturer, is the latest object of Aimee Semple McPherson's affections remained in doubt after the pastor of Angelus Temple maintained "I am not planning to marry anyone." Truth of the rumor that he would be Sister Aimee's fourth husband was reportedly vouched for by one of Mrs. McPherson's associates.

FDR WANTS NEW WEALTH PLAN ENACTED

But Not as Part of Emergency 'Nuisance' Tax Bill

WASHINGTON, June 26.—President Roosevelt today said he wanted the new wealth tax program enacted this session but not necessarily as a part of the emergency "nuisance" tax bill due to pass by Saturday. As he spoke at a press conference, House Ways and Means Committee Democrats served notice on Senate leaders they intended to insist upon originating a new tax bill to carry out the President's program for a wider distribution of wealth. The tax program encountered delay in the Senate, which caused Democratic leaders to concede there is little hope of enactment by Saturday. A session of the Senate Finance Committee to act on some of the levies was called off because treasury and legislative drafting experts had not completed work on tentative rate schedules.

Aimee's Fourth?

Whether Homer Rodeheaver, above, former singing master for Billy Sunday and widely known chautauqua lecturer, is the latest object of Aimee Semple McPherson's affections remained in doubt after the pastor of Angelus Temple maintained "I am not planning to marry anyone." Truth of the rumor that he would be Sister Aimee's fourth husband was reportedly vouched for by one of Mrs. McPherson's associates.

MANCHOUKUANS AND CHINESE IN CLASH

Jap Regulars at Jehol City Are Held In Readiness

TOKYO, June 26.—A Manchoukuan frontier patrol of 80 men battled today with a Chinese force of 700 soldiers along the Jehol-Chahar border, the war office reported. Japanese regulars in Jehol City garrison sprang into readiness, but general headquarters which controls the army high command in Manchoukuo was depending upon the Manchoukuans to chastise the Chinese, who allegedly invaded Manchoukuo.

Il Duce Determined To Carry Ethiopian Dispute To Finish

ROME, June 26.—Official sources intimated today, as Captain Anthony Eden departed for London, that the British diplomat's conversations with Premier Mussolini had not changed Mussolini's determination to make a "complete solution" of the Italo-Ethiopian problem. Informed circles were convinced that Mussolini will leave the League of Nations if there is any sign of condemnation of Italy's action.

JOHNNIE WILSON NAMED COUNTY TREASURER

Completes Unexpired Term of Late J. T. Kinkade

Johnnie Wilson yesterday was named by the Hall County Commissioners Court to complete the term as county treasurer, succeeding the late J. T. Kinkade. Miss Wilson has served as temporary treasurer since Mr. Kinkade's death on June 12. Prior to that time, she acted as assistant for five months, having complete charge of the office during Mr. Kinkade's illness. She is the daughter of Deputy (Continued on page 8)

Ford Diesel Auto Plans Are Denied

NEW YORK, June 26.—The New York World-Telegram says officials of the Ford Motor Company plant at Edgewater, N. J., refused to discuss reports of experiments now conducted at the plant on a four-cylinder automobile with a diesel motor, to sell for approximately $300. "It was reported," the World-Telegram says, "that the car is being developed to meet foreign competition of a new Japanese car scheduled to be marketed next January."

Wellington Kiwanis Give Amarillo Club Program on Monday

(By Wellington Correspondent) WELLINGTON, June 26.—Eighteen members of the Kiwanis Club attended a luncheon of the Kiwanis Club in Amarillo Monday. SAN FRANCISCO, June 26.—Pan-American Airways will inaugurate the world's first regularly scheduled trans-Pacific air mail and passenger service within three months, V. E. Chene, general traffic manager, announced. Pan-American's luxury airliners will be operated a regular schedule of a round-trip a week between Alameda airport and Manila, Philippine Islands, by September, Chene said. The executive said one-way fares between California and Manila, via Pan-American's terminals at Honolulu, Midway Islands and Wake Island, "will be less than $1,000."

U. S. S. R. Rejects Offer by Germany

Summer Sweethearts

BEGIN HERE TODAY

KATHARINE STRYKHURST, 20 and beautiful, allows her emotions to rule when she marries MICHAEL HEATHEROE, young riding instructor who comes into a title and fortune. Katharine's father is rich and her stepmother is snobbish.

The night following his marriage Michael is injured in a traffic accident and when he regains consciousness his memory is impaired. He forgets the marriage. Katharine, heart-broken, believes he has deserted her. She goes to New Mexico with a friend, starting secret annulment proceedings meantime.

SALLY MOON, who has snared Michael into a sort of engagement, unaware of his marriage to Katharine, makes plans for a wedding. During a rehearsal of the ceremony Michael's memory returns. He explains to Sally and her father what has happened, sets off immediately for New Mexico. Finally he arrives at the inn where Katharine is staying.

CHAPTER XI

Katharine hadn't wanted, really to go on the motor trip with the Millards. Dirk Millard and his handsome, resourceful, managing Hilda had been very insistent, however. It was to be a two-day picnic in the mountains. Oh, but they often did it! And they were going east soon—Dirk was having a show on Fifth Avenue, and this would be his last chance. Miss Strykhurst really must come. Evelyn Vincent, too. Frank Millard, Dirk's big, handsome brother, a football player at Berkeley, was going along. Frank had "fallen for" Katharine, Hilda said enthusiastically. The party would simply be spoiled if Katharine did not come.

More to please Evelyn than for any other reason, the girl had consented. Frank Millard's attentions were not unpleasant; indeed, she found herself liking the big fellow with the rich, scalloped, golden hair and the beautiful profile.

She went.

They had tents and bedding rolled up; they had a de luxe equipment of cups and plates and spoons and forks, all neatly fitted into a great leather case strapped on the side of the big touring car. There was space in the trunk at the back for their few bags. It was all very gay and casual and Bohemian.

After the sun of Roanoke the green of the mountains was cool and grateful. Streams tinkled in unexpected places. Dirk broiled bacon and made coffee and Hilda asked Frank to open jars of caviar and produced salted crackers and jellies from nowhere. A de luxe picnic.

They had their sketching things and the days were full, what with trout fishing and chatter and bathing in crystal-cool rivers and playing Dirk's gramophone which went with him wherever he went.

"He took it with him to Russia last year," Hilda said. "Imagine, my dear, Russia!"

She talked incessantly, spreading her hands, punctuating all her sentences with gestures and lifted eyebrows and smiles. Almost, in this amusing company, Katharine forgot what the summer and the early days of autumn had been like. She enjoyed it and thought she wished it could go on forever.

Frank Millard worshipped her with his eyes and his inarticulate words. The others smiled on them benignly, as though they saw romance blossoming and were glad of it.

The two days passed serenely enough. There had never been such dawns and sunsets. The food was marvelous. You slept eight long hours, wrapped in an army blanket, and woke to dash your face with cool mountain water and fall wolfishly on toast and coffee, eggs and bacon.

But the Millards admitted reluctantly that they had to turn their faces toward the ranch and Roanoke. Dirk had work to do before he left for the east. So the big car was packed again; the women, in riding breeches and jerseys with handkerchiefs knotted at their throats, helped.

Katharine wore a lemon-yellow sweater, and her old jodhpur breeches were shabby and stained. She sat on a rock, both russet boots stretched out before her, drinking coffee from an enamelled cup. Her fair hair was ruffled; there was a deep apricot tinge on her rounded cheeks. The pale girl who had alighted from the eastern train a few weeks ago could scarcely have been recognized in this bronzed Aurora.

"Fun! It's been marvelous," she said simply to the blond giant at her feet. "I never in my life had such a glorious time."

"Honestly do you mean it?" Frank Millard wanted to know. "I mean it's swell if you do, because we do this all the time and you're staying forever, aren't you?"

"Oh, I don't know about that!" She was laughing, but some inner terror for an instant darkened her eyes and chilled her smile.

It was sweet to be admired, to be the center of this agreeable group. Why couldn't this be enough for her? Why should her thoughts go harking back to one man, out of all the world, who had flouted her?

Frank drove on the homeward drive and the three insisted that she sit beside him in the front seat. Hilda was heavily tactful about this; Katharine didn't mind. They were nice people and they liked her and showed it. She glowed in the atmosphere of admiration and easy laughter. Frank didn't talk much—he wasn't given to idle chatter—but every now and then he gave her an eloquent look.

This Party Swept Hollywood Stars Off Their Feet!

Discarding dignity, poise and aplomb to stagers, the stars who brought forth the maddest and merriest evenings in the history of Hollywood, 200 film notables saw to it that the Venice "Fun House," in which Carole Lombard gave her gais party, lived up to its name. In the scene at left, Mariene Dietrich tries to remain on her famous legs in the revolving barrel, while William Haines, behind her, is evidently having trouble, too. At right, from bottom to top, Cary Grant, Toby Wing, Mitchell Losen, Betty Furness, Caesar Romero and Lois Wilson cling on for dear life just before landing in a merry heap at the bottom of the slide.

He had to give most of his attention to the driving, however. There were traitorous dips in this canon road. Sometimes a sheer drop appeared without an instant's warning. But Frank had a sure hand on the wheel. Katharine wasn't afraid. They took the journey in leisurely fashion. It was the way, Hilda, explained, they liked to travel. That night they camped on the edge of the desert under the stars. Frank had his guitar with him—he'd been in a college orchestra—and he played "Parlez moi d'amour!" with a good deal of feeling. The stars and the music and the campfire all made an unforgettable scene.

Life would be so simple, Katharine argued with herself, if one could follow the line of least resistance. She might, for example, marry Frank Millard and bear him fine children and love him quite unceremoniously and make a sort of picnic of existence. But she had muddled up her life before she met him. She liked him a lot—he was as likable as a big Newfoundland or a friendly child. But love? Well, she had known that once; it hadn't been exactly pleasant. It had been all dizzy heights and awful depths. She would try to steer clear of it in the future.

All of this she thought as Frank strummed the plaintive music and the smoke of Dirk's and Hilda's cigarettes curled toward the red glow of the campfire. Evelyn Vincent was asleep, propped rather uncomfortably against the seat cushions of the car. Presently they all untied their bedding rolls and said yawning good nights. The women had the tent. Dirk and Frank arranged their beds by the fire.

long time. A mood of wakefulness was upon her and, for the life of her, sleep would not come. She could see one great, unwinning blue star through the tent flap. Miss Vincent snored, and Hilda stirred uneasily in her sleep.

The music echoed in Katharine's brain.

"Speak - to - me - of - love . . ."

After a long time her eyes

Drive far—drive fast—without a worry!

With Conoco Germ Processed Oil in your crankcase, you KNOW the strain won't hurt your motor!

Tests prove this new alloyed oil has 2 to 4 times greater film strength than plain mineral oils and resists heat better!

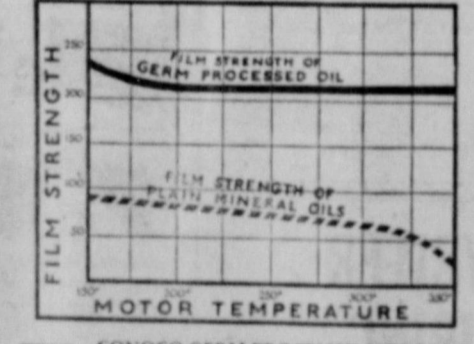

On July 4th or week-end and vacation trips, you'll want to drive far and get there in a hurry. And you don't want that nagging worry of "I wonder if this speed and heat will hurt anything in my motor."

You can't always be sure when you use plain mineral oils, for they have little film strength and oils over-refined by new cleansing processes have even less. Moreover, as motor heat goes up, these oils rapidly lose film strength.

Film strength is the load-carrying ability of an oil, the quality that keeps bearings and cylinders from wearing out. Lack of film strength results in costly damage.

You can drive without a worry when you use Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil! It has 2 to 4 times greater film strength than any plain mineral oil. Heat does not lessen this advantage.*

Supervised road tests—over good and bad roads, at low and high speeds, in all kinds of weather—give practical proof that Germ Processed Oil pro-protects motors better. In every test, metric measurement of motor bearings showed that Germ Processed Oil prevented wear far better than plain mineral oils. Tested in a fleet of equipped with the new alloyed bearings used in many 1935 cars, high-quality plain mineral oil permitted 45% more wear on connecting rod bearings than did Germ Processed Oil.

Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil is the first alloyed oil—alloyed, as metals are, by adding concentrated oily essence to highly refined oil. It is the only oil made by the Germ Process. It is the oil with the "High Quart" that stays up in your motor and never drains away!

Summer—

She would hear Frank's hearty laugh and smell the smoke of the breakfast fire and the good scent of boiling coffee.

She walked as quickly as she could, shielding her eyes from the rising sun. That was east... and certainly she had walked west when she started. Or had she?

Silence and sand and cactus. A gopher that hopped out from the shadow of a bush and stared at her curiously. Silence and a wheeling red ball in the heavens. Katharine was lost.

Michael went up to the great iron bell that dangled between two redwood posts and pulled the rope vigorously. A dark-skinned girl in a print frock appeared, stroking her apron and smiling at him with a flash of dazzling white teeth.

"Mees Strykhurst? But she has gone..."

His heart sank like lead in his breast. Gone? Gone where?

The dark-haired maid did not seem to know. But she would call Miss Daisy Ingram. Miss Daisy would tell the gentleman.

Michael found himself in a cool, low-ceiled room with white walls and niches in which curious bright figures appeared. Over the polished floor the heels of Miss Daisy came tanning.

"A friend of Miss Katharine's? Well, how very nice." She beamed at the young man.

"You will wait until they return?" Michael said, rather grimly. "If you can tell me the way I'll follow them."

BEATS WIFE

purpose of making travel on highways safer.

The brakes must meet only one requirement. When traveling at a rate of 20 miles an hour the car must be capable of stopping within 45 feet.

All cars must have two headlights and a tail light, all burning and properly adjusted for reflection. Commercial trucks over 70 inches in width, in addition to the above lights, must also have a white clearance light on the right rear corner. The clearance lights may be reflectors, but all others must be burning lights.

The horn must be audible for 300 feet.

All motor vehicles must be equipped with mufflers. The state law provides a jail sentence for the use of muffler cut-outs. Huddleston said. He also stated that due to a misunderstanding, some people believe that a muffler is not needed if the exhaust is over seven feet in length. "This is untrue," he stated. "All vehicles must have mufflers."

YOU ALWAYS GET BETTER QUALITY AT NO HIGHER PRICE WHEN YOU BUY A FIRESTONE TIRE WITH FIRESTONE NAME AND GUARANTEE

Tires may look alike on the outside, but on the inside where blowouts start, they are different. Firestone Tires are made blowout-proof by Gum-Dipping, a patented extra process which soaks every cotton cord and insulates every strand with pure liquid rubber. In fact, every 100 pounds of cotton cords absorb eight additional pounds of liquid rubber. This special process prevents internal friction and heat, the main cause of blowouts. No other make of tire is Gum-Dipped, yet you pay no more for Firestone blowout-proof protection than you are asked to pay for tires built without this patented safety construction feature.

The make of tires you buy for your car becomes a matter of vital importance when you realize that there were 882,000 automobile accidents in 1934 injuring 954,000 people and killing 36,000 and that 43,000 of these accidents were caused by blowouts, punctures and skidding.

Firestone High Speed Gum-Dipped Tires hold all world records on road and track for safety, speed, mileage and endurance. These records emphasize the undisputed evidence that Firestone Tires are not only blowout-proof but give greatest protection against skidding.

THERE ARE THREE QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS THAT WILL SOLVE YOUR PROBLEM OF WHAT TIRES TO BUY

1 "Will the tread give me the greatest traction and protection against skidding?"

Recent tests by a leading University show that Firestone High Speed Non-Skid Tires stop a car 15% quicker than any other of the leading makes.

For eight consecutive years Firestone Tires have been on the winning car in the dangerous Pike's Peak Race where a skid means death. This is undisputed evidence that Firestone gives car owners greatest protection against skidding.

2 "Are they blowout-proof?"

Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires have the most amazing records for being blowout-proof of any tires ever built. In the gruelling 500-Mile Race at Indianapolis, May 30th, every one of the 33 cars was equipped with Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires. Kelly Pettilo won the race and broke the record over this 26-year-old rough brick track without tire trouble—in fact, not one of the 33 drivers had tire trouble of any kind.

Ab Jenkins drove his 5,000 pound car on Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires over the hot salt beds of Utah, 3,000 miles in 23½ hours, at an average speed of 127.2 miles per hour, with temperatures as high as 120°, without tire trouble of any kind. These are most amazing proofs of blowout protection ever known.

3 "Without sacrificing these two important safety features will they give me longer mileage, thus making them the most economical tires I can buy?"

Firestone High Speed Tires not only give you more than 50% longer wear, but also lowest cost per mile. This is made possible by the tough, wear-resisting tread built with higher shoulders and a wider, flatter contour. This thick, rugged, scientifically designed tread is held securely to the Gum-Dipped cord body by Firestone's patented construction of two extra layers of cords under the tread. This is a special construction feature not used in any other tire. Unequaled mileage records by thousands of car owners add undisputed evidence of the longer wear and greater economy of Firestone High Speed Tires.

FOUR MATCHES ARE HALTED BY STORM

Hampton-Hicks Meet Strong Opposition On 14 Holes

The first-ranking team of Frank and Ed Foxhall became the only pair to reach the second round of the Memphis Country Clubs' Scotch golf tournament yesterday as four other matches were halted by the late afternoon storm.

The Foxhall brothers defeated George Lovell and Mac Tarver, 5 up and 4 to play.

The second place pair of Thomas Hampton and Dr. L. M. Hicks was 1 down to Carl Harrison and R. S. Greene through 14 holes. Greene and Harrison were flashing sub-par golf.

The storm naited extra hole play between F. N. Foxhall and Harold Foxhall, playing Floyd Springer and Harry Delaney. They had just finished the 18th all square when the storm broke.

Raymond Ballew and M. J. Draper were four up on Buster Helm and J. H. Vallance with six to play, and Lesley Foxhall and M. E. Allen were three up on Frank Garrot and Lloyd Hicks Jr. through the 13th.

Match play will continue today and throughout the week in the two brackets. Finals are to be played Sunday.

CONQUEROR AND HIS VICTIM

Joe Louis

Primo Carnera

Joe Louis (at top) stormed his way to a six-round technical knockout over Primo Carnera, Italian monster man, at Yankee Stadium last night before a crowd of 70,000 hysterical fight fans. Never once blinking his eyes, Louis stunned Carnera and the crowd early in the first round with a left hook that shook Carnera's whole frame. A moment later he ripped Primo's lips with a solid right to the mouth. For five rounds he continued to "make a monkey" out of the big ape-like Carnera. He floored the giant three times in the sixth before Referee Arthur Donovan mercifully stopped the battling. Promoter Mike Jacobs announced following the fight that Louis will be matched with Max Baer this fall.

Rain Prevents Play Of Softball Games

Softball tilts scheduled at Fair Park Stadium here last night were rained out—but the playing of the tilts probably would have made little difference in the outcome of the first half of the season.

The loop-leading Thompson club was to have clashed with Salisbury—a game that could have had a strong bearing on the outcome, however, should the hardwaremen have been beaten—and Hedley was to have attempted to move into undisputed second place against the Bullard ten.

Games scheduled Friday night open the final week of play in the first half. They will see Tarver's and Bullard's in the first game, and Hedley and Harrison's in the second.

Thompson's will not have the crown clinched until the final night of play—next Tuesday—and even then the postponed game last night may have to be made up before the crew can claim clear title to the crown.

Plans for the make-up tilts were not announced this morning.

Right Arm Broken, Braddock Quit, Developed Left in Relief

This is the fifth of six stories on the life of James J. Braddock, new heavyweight champion.

By HARRY GRAYSON (Sports Editor, NEA Service)

NEW YORK, June 26.—The story of James J. Braddock's left hand—the best flashed by any heavyweight since Gene Tunney—is as remarkable as the new champion's comeback.

Braddock truly is a child of the depression, for the left hand that dethroned Max Baer was developed during his 16 months in the mill of hard knocks. The bitterness of actual want and a broken right hand cured the Irishman of being right-hand crazy—a fault he failed to correct in seven previous years.

The most amazing chapter in the history of Pistiana probably never would have been written had Braddock had any money when he was chucked from a Mount Vernon, N. Y., ring with Abe Feldman in September, 1933. The Jersey Mick, his right hand fractured, was in the depths of defeat and disappointment and ready to call it a career.

But there were four mouths to feed, and Braddock, the gamster, turned to the only other thing he knew—longshoring.

Braddock earned $280,000 in purses before his world toppled about his shoulders. Jimmy was worth $100,000 at his light-heavyweight peak. But bank and other stocks proved unsound, and running a fleet of taxicabs turned out to be a distasteful financial venture.

Braddock was well fixed when he married May Fox, a New York telephone operator, in 1930. The babies came along—Jay, now 4; Howard, 3, and Rose Marie, the apple of Jimmy's eye, who is 2.

Unlike a lot of other athletic heroes knocked out of the calcium's glare, Braddock did not turn to friends for assistance when the big blow came. He wasn't afraid to work.

Jobs were scarce, but Braddock frequently caught on unloading railroad ties from lighters to gondola cars on the New York Central docks at Weehawken at $5 a day. This work is done with a longshoreman's hook.

Joe Gould yanked Braddock off the wharves to battle Corn Griffin on the Baer-Primo Carnera card a year ago.

The munificent sum of $250, which he was paid for knocking all the fight out of Griffin, wasn't nearly enough to keep Braddock off the docks. And the adaptability of his left came in particularly handy now, for he left the ring with a broken right thumb.

Work became scarcer and Braddock finally was forced to go on relief at $24 a month.

Practically all of his road work for the John Henry Lewis encounter last November was done on New Jersey wharves in the early morning hours—looking for a job.

But against Lewis, Braddock found that he had two good weapons instead of one and that he had grown bigger and stronger, thanks to longshoring. He knocked the capable Negro down in taking a surprising 10-round decision, and wept genuine tears over a check for $700.

Gets Off Relief and Skyrockets to Riches

The biggest opportunity that came Braddock's way up until the night that he bested Baer knocked on the Cinderella Man's door on the night of March 22.

Thrown in against Art Lasky because he was the only opponent available, the Irishman dealt the Minneapolis mauler such a beating that Art delayed returning home with a face that looked as though it had been run through a sausage grinder.

Braddock's left hand was more accurate, jarring, and cutting against Lasky than it was against Lewis.

Braddock was paid $4100 for interrupting Lasky, and the first thing he did was rush back to the New Jersey relief board to return the $300 marked against him on the pages of misery.

Things were breaking for Braddock now. The New York Boxing Commission recognized him as the No. 1 challenger of Baer.

This appeared right down Baer's alley, for Ancil Hoffman, his manager, wished to share in the promotion of a return scrap with Max Schmelling. Hoffman decided to have Baer fulfill his contract with Madison Square Garden by taking on the less attractive Braddock.

Little did Hoffman dream that Braddock, the half-starved human of only a few weeks before, was destined to spoil all of his plans by winning the championship.

NEXT: Braddock's rating as a heavyweight champion.

Here's that famed Braddock left which he credits for the title from Max Baer. It's cocked, ready for duty. Below, it finds a soft spot on Baer's chin.

THE VOICE OF THE UPPER RED RIVER VALLEY

TIME FOR WORKS PROJECTS
WITH tentative plans announced for the beginning of the Works Progress Administration program, now is the time for Memphis and other cities and counties in this area to think seriously about projects that will be of lasting as well as immediate benefits that may be carried out under the program.

Relief Administrator A. C. Hoffman, who is as continually on the lookout for places to put relief clients to work as a "news hound" is to find a story, urged that the importance of immediate action be impressed upon those eligible to apply for projects. This includes only authorized governmental agencies, such as states, counties, cities, villages and townships. Unofficial groups, such as clubs, chambers of commerce, churches, etc., cannot apply directly for projects but can cooperate with the above listed agencies in getting applications through, according to an announcement made by the Works Progress Administration.

The work primarily is for the purpose of providing employment for people on relief rolls. Therefore, the projects most likely to be approved are those that have as their principal objective the use of labor rather than the purchase of materials.

Two such projects are under consideration in Memphis at the present time. They are the proposed park on the south outskirts of the city and further athletic field development. The construction of a high school gymnasium probably would be looked on with favor, also, provided most of the material already was available.

We do not know what action the city planning board is to take at the present time, but in accordance with the advice of the Works Progress Administration and Administrator Hoffman, we do urge that some action be taken as soon as possible and that nothing be overlooked that will be of lasting benefit to Memphis or any of its neighbors.

TALKS REVEAL WORLD ATTITUDE

THIS being the season when hopeful young college graduates step down from the rostrum and look timorously out at a cold and faintly hostile world, it is worth while to see just what they are getting in the way of farewell advice from their mentors.

The ring of the baccalaureate sermon and the commencement address is abroad in the land again. If we listen carefully, we can get at least a cross-section of the ideas of our educators—and if the cross-section lacks unity, it is none the less interesting for that.

Dr. Harold W. Dodds, president of Princeton, warns Princeton seniors that boredom is a greater danger than the fast tempo of modern life, while Cornell's seniors are told that "a change in the direction of some form of collectivism" seems to be on the horizon.

Dr. James B. Conant, Harvard's president, tells his graduates that "fear and apprehension are in the air and the dread of tomorrow colors the views of even some of the sanest members of the community"; and Dr. Vaughan Dabney reminds seniors at Colby that "a dangerous age develops character," adding that "conflict is better than complacency."

While all this is happening, Nicholas Murray Butler reminds Columbia University's graduates that what is wrong with the twentieth century is chiefly a "fundamental and far-reaching lack of moral integrity." Dr. William Mather Lewis tells Irving School seniors that Americans are "the best educated people in the world," and graduates of Tufts are urged by Dr. Lee S. McClester to meditate on the world's need for "calm, sane, and constructive leadership."

Carrying the record a little farther, we find Amherst graduates hearing from Dr. Henry S. Leiper that the depression was caused "not by ignoramus, but by intelligent men who did not have the dynamic resources to keep themselves straight."

President Tyler Dennett of Williams tells his seniors that they have been the beneficiaries of "a system which did not distribute wealth in proportion to the effort of those who created it," and Dean Virginia Gildersleeve urges the young women of Barnard to mix "a certain degree of skepticism" with their natural enthusiasm toward life.

If the college graduate of 1935 doesn't realize that he is going out into a confused and drifting world, it won't be because his educators have failed to tell him about it.

GOSSIP NOTE

HEALTH BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

Windows and lighting play a very definite and valuable role in maintenance and improvement of health.

Engineers have been so much concerned with improvements in artificial lighting that they do not seem to have taken full advantage of the possibilities of natural daylight. In fact, most buildings nowadays are constructed with the idea that any natural light which happens to filter in will be accepted, but enough artificial light can always be added to make illumination adequate.

Of course it is necessary in studying use of windows for lighting to consider also the questions of ventilation and regulation of temperature.

Historically, Italy is credited with having had the first glass windows, next France and then England, but windows actually did not come in to any extent until around 1177. It was not until the eighteenth century that flat glass became generally used in windows.

The value of light should require no argument. When sunlight is admitted through open windows, it aids sanitation and helps prevent rickets. When sunlight passes through glass windows, the ultraviolet rays are filtered out, but at the same time the natural light is exceedingly valuable for reading and for work.

Furthermore, the human eye seems to be better adapted to natural light than to artificial light. In a recent consideration of this subject, several prominent physicians considered particularly proper lighting in public schools. This involves use of glass in a manner not thus far generally adopted.

In the same way much attention is being given to proper use in offices and factories of windows extending to the ceiling and in some cases occupying the entire wall above desks or benches which workers occupy.

Because glare is bad for the eyes, it is necessary to equip all windows with suitable shades and it is also necessary to place the workers in such way that they will not be facing the light. Engineers have worked out a means for determining the amount of light coming into rooms from natural sources, so that builders of buildings may be aware of amount of light available and plan accordingly for artificial light.

I believe that if there is to be any enduring peace, international measures must be taken to improve condition of the masses. —Kemal Ataturk, president of Turkey.

We are not going to let Huey Long continue to use the Senate as a medium for making himself the Fascist dictator of America. —Senator Lewis B. Schwellenbach, Washington.

The wisdom and strength of the Constitution explain our persistence as a going concern in a world where almost all other democracies have failed. —Bainbridge Colby, one-time secretary of state.

There never has been nor never will be freedom when powers of government are lodged in a man or in a group of men.

Side Glances By George Clark

BEHIND THE SCENES IN WASHINGTON

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Huey Has Slipped a Bit, but Still Carries a Sting... F. R. Has Ace to Play Against Kingfish... U. S. Homestead Program in a Sad State... Gag Goes on Only After Admiral Makes a Speech.

WASHINGTON, June 26.—Huey Long will barnstorm the country this summer, drumming up converts for his share-the-wealth scheme.

To let the country know just what this $5,000,000,000 scheme is, Long offered it in the Senate, with old age pension, unemployment insurance, and child welfare provisions, as a substitute for Roosevelt's security setup. To raise the money, the Kingfish would tax all fortunes over $1,000,000 and limit individual fortunes to $5,000,000 or $6,000,000 with levies ranging from 1 to 99 per cent. Republicans joined Democrats in shouting down the plan.

The senator has been slipping a bit lately—both as a national figure and among the friends and near-friends he has in Washington.

Success or failure of the speaking tour will give Huey a better idea of his possibilities as a presidential candidate in 1936. Huey isn't saying anything about it, but his closest associates expect him to contest against Roosevelt in next year's Democratic primaries, to make trouble even though he has no hope of nomination.

Meanwhile, Roosevelt isn't worrying as much about Huey as he was at one time. Events have tended to isolate the Kingfish as an individual phenomenon rather than a dangerous leader of a popular left wing movement.

Gives F. R. an Ace Issue

The supreme court NRA decision and subsequent events left Roosevelt with first lien on a radical issue which can be used to sour Huey's show and divert left-wingers to the Roosevelt tent.

And now, by an abortive filibuster designed to embarrass the administration, Huey has lost most of such sympathy as he had in the Senate.
