HOW POINT RATIONING WILL WORK

Some three and one-half million housewives of Texas, Oklahoma and Louisiana are getting their first taste of buying under point rationing this week. This experience removed any doubts as to the importance of food as a weapon of war.

Control of food supplies by point rationing, reaching into every home and affecting the daily life of everyone except the most self-sufficient farmer, not only has made rural and city folks alike food conscious, but it has brought into sharp focus the whole problem of food production and supply for this vital year of the war.

It has made every family in the country aware of the tremendous problems of feeding a big army, resulting in shortages of canned, dried and frozen foods available to civilians. Even the lowly pot of beans, simmering on the kitchen stove, finds its social standing suddenly elevated, either with or without the savory hunk of salt pork.

The important role of the farm or is emphasized by the measures planned to assure the country of its basic food requirements. In a roll call lasting until March 20, the Department of Agriculture is asking all rural women to pledge every farm family to produce as much of its own food supply as possible to help save commercial stocks of food for war needs.

Organization of a "U. S. Crop Corps" also is planned. The corps would consist of paid volunteers for peak season work on farms and in food processing plants.

For city dwellers and others unable to produce a large portion of their food needs from their smaller gardens, point rationing means careful study of the point values and careful planning to meet individual and family diets.

The rationing of processed fruits and vegetables immediately boosted the demand for fresh varieties, resulting in an OPA price ceiling on tomatoes, snap beans, carrots, cabbage, peas and other staples.

As a preliminary to meat rationing under the point system, beginning by early April, OPA cracked down on meat prices and slaughtering violations and gave every indication that prosecutions will be pushed vigorously. OPA officials already have authority to direct delivery of meat in "meat allocation areas." Restaurants were told they cannot serve meat and fish taken from cans while the canned meat and fish "freeze" applies to householders.

Moving further to insure adequate food and feed supplies Secretary Wickard suspended wheat marketing quotas and released at once all stored wheat for food or market.

Farmers who meet 90 per cent of their farm war crop goals this year will be eligible for AAA pay-

LAND of the Free

Today people are talking about putting vegetable gardens in their backyards, and wherever else they can. The reason why they are interested in the subject of vegetable gardens here in well-fed America is that there is an impending world food shortage, and it is up to us to help.

The kind of thinking has arisen from among the people themselves. It resulted from no dictatorial or imperial decree; it is the natural outgrowth of the basic American principle of free speech, free press—and free land.

It happens that in the conquered lands of Europe available foot of ground has been turned to gardens—but for a different reason. For there the law enforces the law which requires the subject to grow food for the conqueror, while they themselves are sometimes left to starve.

This is the land of the free, and we who own the land are free to use it not only for our own benefit—but also to produce for the benefit of peoples in other lands less fortunate than we are.

This is America!

Goals for 1943—

drives, and housing. Financially, he said, the body started the year "in the red," but closed "in the black" by a comfortable margin. Harrison reviewed efforts to get a war plant of some type for Memphis, none of which had been successful, but said such efforts were being continued toward securing a government military hospital. Successful culmination of efforts to get a paved highway east from Memphis he referred to as the realization of a dream he had long cherished.

C. C. Hodges, incoming president, was introduced by the toastmaster and in turn introduced other officers and directors for the current year. Presented were Byron Baldwin, first vice president; F. N. Foxhall, second vice president; T. E. Noel, treasurer; and Geo. R. Cullin, secretary to the board and director; Otis F. Jones, Roy R. Fultz, James E. King, O. V. Alexander, S. C. Harrison, Tommie M. Potts, E. E. Roberts, T. J. Dunbar, directors.

President Hodges spoke briefly on goals of the organization for 1943, declaring that intensified efforts to get this city designated as the site for a government hospital will continue to be at the top of the agenda.

Dr. J. A. Odum, local physician, spoke on the advantages which would accrue if Memphis were to become the site of a government hospital. "This war is entirely different from all previous wars," he said. "It is the biggest war by far that has ever been fought, but the number of fatalities in proportion to the numbers engaged will be smaller, according to military experts. This is due to superior medical attention, especially in the use of sulfanilamide, the most marvelous drug ever discovered."

"But it is also agreed among military men that there will be larger numbers of maimed and crippled, and many others will become home-shaken and unsteady mentally, all of whom will need hospital care," Dr. Odum continued. "It is impossible to even estimate the number of hospital beds that will be required."

The physician described a visit he made to a 1,500-bed government hospital in a Texas city. For each of the 1,500 patients, he said that the services of five persons will be needed. These doctors, nurses and trained attendants will be permanent residents. A 500-bed hospital located here would thus mean an addition of a minimum of 2,500 persons to the population, he pointed out.

Dr. Odum urged every local citizen to lend his support to the efforts of the chamber of commerce toward securing such an institution. An hilarious highlight of the program was a black-face skit by Mrs. N. A. Hightower and Mrs. Chas. R. Webster, featuring the rendition of two Negro spirituals which made such a hit with the audience that an encore was demanded.

The main address of the program was given by Rev. Chas. L. Calpepper, Sr., who spoke of "Conditions in North China Before and After Pearl Harbor." A resume of this address will be published in next week's paper.

Hubert Jones, student in Texas Tech, Lubbock, visited her last week-end with his parents Mr. and Mrs. Otis Jones.

we have become accustomed to the procedure and have ironed out the wrinkles," Judge Moss declared. "For instance, more prompt trial of all types of cases will be possible and should tend to reduce the cost of maintaining the court. Persons facing felony charges who are unable to make bond will no longer be kept in jail for months awaiting trial and civil matters need no longer hang on the court dockets for months."

The first court term under the new law was opened Monday at Clarendon for Donley County. The current term of district court in Memphis, however, is being conducted under the old procedure, as the grand jury and petit jury panels were called before the new law was passed and are liable for service only for specified periods.

Lieutenant Smothers will speak on "WAAC as a Woman Sees It." "The Army's Need for the WAAC" will be discussed by Colonel Durette.

The meeting will be closed with the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner" by the audiences and retiring of the colors by the American Legion.

crat concerning school and athletic activities was handed to me Wednesday afternoon, March 3. In this request were listed the winnings of the Lakeview basketball team, making them eligible to play for state championship in Austin this week.

May I say at the outset that I am sorry indeed that no publicity was given, but it was certainly not intentional on our part. We would have gladly published the winnings had we known about them. No one at Lakeview sent in a report and no one told any of The Democrat force by word of mouth, to my knowledge, about the outcome of any game. We did, however, have advance notice through circulars that a game was to be played February 19 but received no report of the outcome.

The first intimation we had of the Lakeview team getting into the State Play was Monday, March 1, when we saw an item on the sport page of a daily newspaper. We immediately wrote Mr. Wallace to furnish us a list of winnings and the names of the players.

The columns of The Democrat are always open to any town or community in the circulation range of The Democrat for any reports of school and community activities. School heads have been contacted and told that their reports would be appreciated and given publicity. This offer still stands and will stand as long as we publish a newspaper in Hal County.

We welcome criticism, for it that way many misunderstandings may be cleared up to mutual satisfaction. And may we offer to you fine people sincere congratulations upon your having public spirit and community pride sufficient to want others to know about the accomplishments of your people.

While on the subject of representation of your part of the county in the columns of The Democrat, may I suggest that you interest someone in sending in reports weekly concerning the activities of your town and community. We have tried frequently to find some one, but so far have failed. Gas rationing and restricted office force prevents sending a representative to Lakeview every week to get news.

Need for More Cottonseed Products Is Called Vital

One hundred thousand bullets can be fired by the powder made from one bale of cotton linters— and Uncle Sam is taking every pound of cotton linters that our cotton oil mills can get off of the cottonseed that is available.

More pounds of feed than pounds of lint cotton are produced per acre by the cotton plant—and farmers producing meat, milk and other "Food for Victory" are using all of the cottonseed meal and hulls that can be produced as fast as it is produced—and they want more than can be produced from the present supply of cottonseed.

Fat is an energy food—essential for men who fight and work—and cottonseed oil produced by your local cotton oil mill is one of this country's most important fats. We need far more fat than we are producing from our dairy cows and other livestock and cottonseed and other oilseeds—far more fat than we can produce from our present supplies of oilseeds.

Linters for munitions, cottonseed meal and hulls to produce livestock "Food for Victory" and cottonseed oil are the four primary products of your local cotton oil mill. To win this war, Uncle Sam needs more of every one of these products than we can possibly get from the present production of cottonseed under the program of cotton acreage reduction.

If any of these facts surprise you—if you did not know that your local cotton oil mill is one of the most important "war industries" of this community, State and Nation—if you have not realized that every product that an oil mill makes from cottonseed helps to win this war—if you are not familiar with these things, perhaps you are overlooking one of our country's greatest war materials, one of this community's greatest contributions to the war effort: COTTON.

Cottonseed has been a "war crop" for many centuries, history shows; since we discovered how to make gunpowder out of linters, it has become even more essential to a fighting nation, but warriors are said to have used cottonseed more than two thousand years ago. Early historical records indicate that Alexander the Great used the products of cottonseed for his armies more than 300 years before the Birth of Christ; and that Ghengis Khan, another early warrior, crushed cottonseed to supply oil for his men's food and feed for his horses.

Despite this early importance of cottonseed, it was only about one hundred years ago that the cottonseed crushing industry began to develop in the United States. It is true that some early pioneers experimented with crushing cottonseed as long ago as 1786 in the United States, but most authorities agree that the real beginning of the cottonseed crushing industry on a commercial scale was about 1833 or 1834. Even though this time is relatively short compared with the many centuries since Alexander the Great, the cottonseed oil mills are pioneer oilseed crushers of our country; many of the present mills have a record of more than half-a-century of service to cotton producers and livestock feeders. Today, our country's need for cottonseed war materials is being met—so far as supplies of cottonseed permit—by the men who have training and experience, dating back to the war days of 1917-18—they are being met by the cottonseed crushing industry that is a "veteran" in efficient service through four wars and many peacetime years.

Cotton lint, the fibre that you notice in fields and see in bales, is so important to the Nation and to the Cotton Belt that many people think of cotton as lint alone. Yet, at the beginning of this talk I mentioned that we get more pounds of livestock feed per acre from our cotton crop than pounds of lint cotton; and I want to emphasize the fact that cotton in most parts of the cotton-growing territory—extending across the Southern half of the United States from North Carolina to California—is the most dependable "feed crop" farmers grow as well as their most dependable "cash crop." Because cotton can stand up to heat and drought, bugs and other hazards, you can "count on cotton" to give you some cash and some feed under the worst of seasons.

Here is what we get from our cotton crop: With every 500 pound bale of lint we grow, we get about 900 pounds of cottonseed. The number of pounds of different products this seed will produce is variable—it changes from season to season, from State to State, and even from day to day right here at this mill. But, on the average over a period of years in the whole Cotton Belt the 900 pounds of seed have yielded about 400 pounds of cottonseed meal or cake, 240 or more of cottonseed hulls (note that this makes 640 pounds of livestock feed compared with the 500 pounds of lint), about 75 to 80 pounds of linters, and about 150 to 140 pounds of cottonseed oil.

We don't have a surplus of any of these products; we never have. We need, today, far more than we can produce from the cottonseed we are growing. We need more fats—the Government is asking your wife to save every pound of her "drippings"—and I suggest that you ask how long it will take her to save the 130 pounds of fat we produce every time we grow a bale of cotton—and lose every time we reduce our cotton production by the equivalent of one bale.

Is it not strange, when we think about the need for fats, munitions and food, that we are letting our fear of 500 pounds of lint cotton cause us to keep from producing 800 pounds of product that we DO NEED—need desperately to win this war and to supply the peacetime needs of our people? Cottonseed products are so essential to the winning of this war that we would be justified in growing more cotton even if we could not use a single pound of the lint—even if we had to bury the lint as we've buried our gold in the hills of Kentucky. Actually though, we do need the lint cotton. Many informed, experienced men are convinced that we need far more lint than we now have and produce to supply Europe and Asia after this war.

Yes, cotton and cottonseed are "war crops." They are essential valuable products to winning wars and to our peacetime well-being. To our Nation, cotton production offers security—as well as income to this community, it offers employment, revenue, and efficient utilization of the resources and training and equipment that we already have. Cotton efficiently utilizes our soil and climate

Growing this crop is something our farmers know how to do—they can produce cotton more efficiently than most other crops because they have the experience and equipment designed for cotton. We have gins to gin cotton. We have oil mills to handle it (Cotton Belt oil mills have press equipment to crush about twice as much cottonseed as we now produce). The "whole Cotton, Belt" is "geared" for cotton production—and we should be taken out of "low" gear and put in "high" to produce the crop which the United States Army Quartermaster Corps has called "second only to steel as the most vital war material."

THE RED CROSS WAR FUND

HALL COUNTY people should need no urging to contribute generously to the Red Cross War Fund campaign which was opened Monday. With the flower of the young manhood of this area serving in the armed forces, and many of them already overseas on the fighting fronts, it is daily brought home to home folks the need for the services and ministrations of the Red Cross. There is no other agency to perform the manifold services in alleviating distress among fighting men and their families, and in binding up the wounds of war.

No one is more familiar with the vital part played by the Red Cross nor more aware of the need for the kind of services rendered than high Army commanders themselves. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Allied Commander-in-Chief in the North African theatre, sends this message to home folks:

"The American Red Cross is the one agency of its kind to serve our Armed Forces overseas. The services rendered in the European theatre have been invaluable.

"At the scores of American Red Cross service clubs established throughout Great Britain our forces, while on leave, are able to obtain meals, lodgings, information and recreation; all with an American home atmosphere.

"The Red Cross serves our forces while on duty, and is of even greater value when men are hospitalized.

"I cannot speak too highly of the benefits which have resulted from the unselfish efforts of those engaged in the work here. On behalf of our forces in European theatres, I desire to express appreciation to the American people for their generous support which has made possible the operation of this great organization.

The quota for Hall County in the second War Fund drive is $5,100. If there are those who think this amount is large, let them remember that with the expanding of our armed forces and accelerated action on all war fronts, the need is immeasurably greater. "Dollar contributions won't get the job done in this campaign," declares Tomie M. Potts, county campaign chairman. "We must give more. Donations should range from $5 to $100 without working any hardship. Remember, it is for our own boys who are risking their lives and enduring undreamed hardships that we may enjoy security at home."

SELECTED FROM THE DEMOCRAT'S EXCHANGES

Italian Generals

Nine captured Italian generals are now in this country, according to a report from Washington, and they may have a status far different from that of prisoners. According to the Washington correspondent of the Houston Post, the prisoners have been allowed to confer with Mayor LaGuardia of New York, and the discussions may be preliminary to negotiations for Italy's withdrawal from the war. The generals thus comprise an unofficial propaganda committee whose purpose is to undermine the Mussolini regime and wean Italy away from Germany.

Assuming that there is any basis at all for such surmises, they leave us a long, long distance from authoritative discussions of a separate peace with Italy. But some of the seed they scatter may fall on fertile ground, both among those of Italian birth in this country and among the weary and discouraged people of Italy, herself.—The Wichita Falls Daily Times.

Signposts

Certain things suggest definitely certain ages or periods of history. For example there is the hitching post. The very mention of it brings back a complete picture of the period in which it was found in front of every home. Another thing is the spinning wheel. It clearly defines the period in which it was found in every home. In later years there was the Model T Ford. Songs also define certain periods. For example there was the age when the popular songs were Annie Laurie, Flow Gently Sweet Afton, Last Rose of Summer, Old Folks at Home, Virginia Reel and Irish Washerwoman. Then came the period of the illustrated song, in which pictures were thrown upon a screen by means of lantern slides. In this age there was, in the Baggage Coach Ahead, She Was Only a Bird in a Gilded Cage Wait 'Til the Sun Shines, Nellie She was Bred in Old Kentucky, On the Banks of the Wabash, etc. The present period will be remembered as the age of swing, the rumba and the sonage and the ration books.—The Foard County News.

Dramatic

An Indiana grocer shot a customer who spent an hour in the store complaining about the rationing and the service. Many people are making nuisances of themselves, taking out their gripes on people who have plenty of their own troubles. While a shotgun is too potent a weapon to use, they deserve at least a good swift kick in the proper spot every time they start their complaints.—The McLean News.

Screw

That swivel chair creak up at Washington who suggested making every home owner provide meat for the home by building a fish pond, wins the choice booby prize to date. "Food for Victory" which a fish pond 10x12 feet was the battle cry that noble brother spread before the eyes of America's reading public last week.—Donley County Leader.

Diplomat

Madame Chian Kai-Shek is the greatest ambassador who has ever come to America. In her role as an unofficial diplomat she has made wonderful impression. Congress was impressed with the gifted little woman, until she suggested that we think in terms of a permanent peace, with a sufficient police force to make peace certain. Here the congressmen remained silent—with the exception of a few Democrats who are willing to look down through the years and make plans now to forestall another war.—The Canyon News.

The Junior Red Cross in Lancaster, Pa., has formed a bicycle corps to assist the motor corps of the Red Cross chapter. The youngsters deliver messages, haul small packages, and run errands.

NEWS

From County Men in the Armed Forces

Billie Fred Rasco, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Rasco of Memphis, was one of 59 aviation cadets who recently completed their primary flight training at the Grand Prairie Naval Air Station near Dallas.

Rufus M. Saunders, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Saunders of Memphis, has begun an intensive course of study in aviation mechanics at the Amarillo Army Air Field, one of the newest schools in the Army Air Forces Technical Training Command.

Pvt. Clyde C. Collins of Biggs Field, El Paso, left Friday after a visit here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andy Collins. He is attached to a bomber squadron, Army Air Forces.

Sgt. Rhubert F. Wynn of the engineers corps of the U. S. Army, is now in North Africa, according to a letter received recently from him to his wife near here. This was the first time Mrs. Wynn had heard from her husband in two months.

J. D. Griffin was commissioned a second lieutenant in the U. S. Army on Wednesday, February 24, upon completion of the officer candidate course at Fort Benning, Ga. He formerly lived here, graduating from Memphis high school with the class of 1929, but for the past seven years has made his home in Detroit, Mich.

WAAC and WAVES

Aux. Virginia H. Lemons, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Lemons of Brice, enlisted in the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps with the Rangerette platoon at Amarillo, where she had been employed for two years. She left for Des Moines January 10 and has now completed her basic training. She writes that she likes the service, in spite of hard work, and "wouldn't trade her uniform for a bright red dress."

Friends of Hall County:
If I can get enough time before someone yells, "fall in" or "attention" I'll put myself "at ease" long enough to let you know what we in the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps are doing. That is, as much as Uncle Sam will let me tell.

In the first place, the Texas Rangerettes are spreading all over the states now and are taking something special with them. It seems every other person you talk to is from Texas. Just goes to show you Texas girls are doing much faster. I know that will be hard for some of you to swallow; nevertheless, it was said by a man and he was a mayor.

We have our post exchange and there we can buy anything we need at much lower prices than down town. We have our theatres, churches and service clubs right on the post. The service club is a place where all service people meet for all kinds of amusement.

Our organization is growing fast and, if the bill passes to make us a part of the army, it will be much larger. Excitement was everywhere today, as Mrs. Roosevelt visited our post. I was working when she came in our mess hall and was in the serving line. It gives you a thrill to see the first lady and it is an occasion never to be forgotten.

Naturally we get lonesome and have "cry sessions" quite often, but then we get letters or a box from home and we feel much better. Personally, I wouldn't change my uniform for a bright red dress, as well as I like red. I'm proud of the job I am doing proud to have a small part in the U. S. Army. There's a thrill in having the privilege to salute, or see the flag go by. It is different than in civilian life, thinking all the time you are fighting for the same cause your forefathers did—freedom, a right to happiness and a place to worship God according to the dictates of your own conscience.

I would love to hear from anyone who would care to write, for it surely helps to be in that mail call line. Don't worry about me or anyone else, for the man with the long, white beard is taking care of us. Best regards to everyone, and "keep 'em flying."

WEST TEXAS UTILITIES CO. NOW, FIFTEEN TIMES ON THE OTHER FOOT MR. ALLEN

HELP FINISH THE JOB

CHARLEY ALLEN is a business man... and a good one. But such gymnastics aren't exactly his line. Hopping, he finds, is hard work... and detracts from his business. However, it's an excellent test of his sense of balance although it doesn't make much sense.

Charley Allen is proving that he is qualified to do business with the bureaucrats.

Many West Texans in all walks of life are being introduced to a new variation of the old "hop, skip and jump" remembered from school days. It never became popular with top athletes who considered it "silly"... even "crazy".

Revival of this form of gymnastic in conducting the Nation's domestic affairs in time of emergency, and while fighting for survival, likewise is believed ridiculous by more and more thousands of people.

The hop-skip-jumpers, long bent on pet socialist experimentation, are waging a fierce fight to "save face". But West Texans and all Americans are asking:

Why haven't brains and know-how come to the top in domestic affairs as they have in military affairs?

Our country needs men and women with training and experience in production and distribution problems to fill the vital posts just as the war has proved it needs trained and experienced men to lead our armies on the field of battle.

Of course we're proud that our industry has met every test and that it is filling Uncle Sam's wartime requirements ahead of schedule in addition to your normal peacetime needs... all without rationing and without increase in cost.

It is the accomplishment of experienced, trained men and women under well-balanced business management—the system that made America great.
