Mrs. Hauptmann Ready to Take Stand

Mrs. Anna Hauptmann, gallantly defending Bruno Hauptmann in case of the prosecution's attacks, was ready to take the witness stand to establish an alibi for her husband for the night of the Lindbergh kidnaping. She is pictured here in a courtroom conference at Flemington, N. J., with C. Lloyd Fisher, defense attorney, in preparation for her ordeal.

KENNAMER TO PAWNEE FOR MURDER TRIAL

Judge Grants Change Of Venue After Long Hearing

TULSA, Okla., Jan. 25.—In a ruling based on the evidence given by more than two score witnesses, District Judge Thurman Hurst last night ordered the trial of the Phil Kennamer murder case transferred from Tulsa to Pawnee County.

He will set the date for the trial today, but counsel for the State and for Kennamer indicated it will begin Feb. 18.

The ruling came after a day-long hearing, made monotonous at times by the repetition of questions and answers.

In obtaining the venue change the defense won its first open clash with the State attorneys.

However, in a brief outburst of legal fireworks, the Kennamer attorneys failed to bring into the open the allegations of attempted bribery of a state investigator.

Judge Hurst refused to permit Police Commissioner O. W. Hoop and Detective Sergeant H. B. Maddux to produce documents relating to the alleged bribe or to answer questions of counsel.

In contrast to the lengthy case made by A. Flint Moss, chief defense attorney and his associates, (Continued on Page 4)

CLOSE SCHOOL AT TAMPICO FOR TERM

11 Students To Be Transported to Turkey by Bus

The Tampico school will be closed this afternoon for the balance of the present term, it was announced today by Miss Vera Gilreath, county school superintendent. Pupils who have been attending the school will attend classes at Turkey for the balance of the term, she said.

The school was ordered closed by the Tampico school board of trustees when it was found that local funds had exhausted and state aid was not available, Miss Gilreath said. Only 11 students have been in daily attendance at the Tampico school and state laws require an average daily attendance of 20 or more before state financial aid is available.

The change was advised by Bryan Dickson, district state school superintendent. Pupils now attending the Tampico school will be transported to Turkey by bus.

Miss Oleta Adams, teacher at Tampico for the present term has not announced her plans for the immediate future.

F. M. Martin was recently elected to fill the unexpired term of A. B. Stuart as a member of the Tampico board of trustees, and Mr. Martin will have charge of the building for the balance of the year. Mr. Stuart recently resigned to move from the community.

Trouble Brews in Far East

The Jehol border in the southwestern corner of Manchukuo, shown encircled in map above, is the scene of latest Sino-Japanese difficulties. Angered at raids alleged to have been made by soldiers of Gen. Sung Chieh-yuan, governor of Chahar province, over the Jehol border in the vicinity of Takochen, a punitive expedition has been launched by the Japanese government to expel the raiders. Fear was expressed by Chinese officials that the move marked Japanese intentions to annex Chahar to Manchukuo.

New Mystery Hovers Over Ward Liner Disaster

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—The freighter Talisman, which rammed the liner Mohawk off Sea Girt last night, reached port today without signs of any of the survivors. On that basis, one of the last hopes for the safety of 46 persons missing were dashed.

SEA GIRT, N. J., Jan. 25.—Two seamen are known to have perished and 46 persons were unaccounted for today after the collision at 9:30 p. m. yesterday between the chartered Ward liner Mohawk and the freighter Talisman off the Jersey coast.

The Mohawk, making its first southern trip for the Ward line, sank rapidly.

The vanguard of the 177 survivors, many in a serious condition, were taken to New York by the coast guard cutter Champlain.

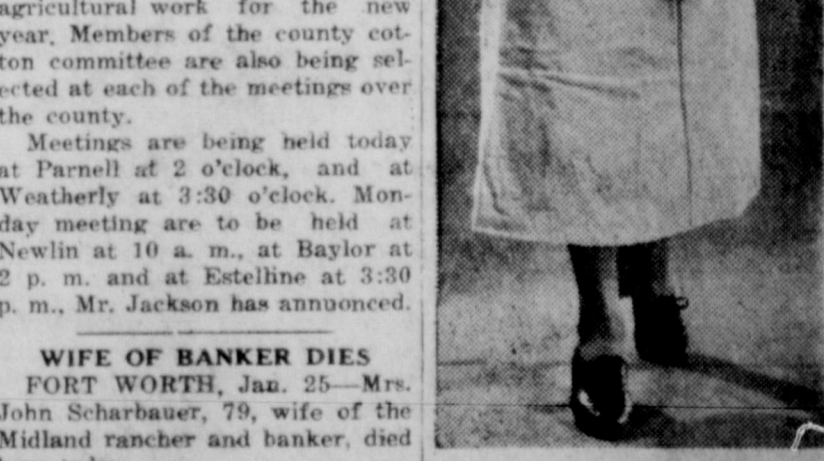

Lifeboat Missing
Coast guardsmen reported one of the Mohawk's lifeboats missing. Whether it held the 14 passengers and 30 members of the crew unaccounted for was undetermined.

Both ships sent out SOS signals shortly after the crash. The Mohawk, bound for Vera Cruz, carried a crew of 107.

At 9:45, a few minutes after the SOS, the Tallman asked the Mohawk if she required assistance and received the reply from the liner to stand by for further orders from the captain.

Which of Birthday Events Will Be Most Enjoyable? It Depends Upon Individual Preferences Of 'Fans'

Which event during the President's Birthday Ball will be the most entertaining?

If someone were to make a survey following the affair next Wednesday night, in all probability he would get three different answers. After all, it depends upon the individual preferences of those who attend.

This is true because there will be three events, suited to every group of entertainment seekers, according to the type of entertainment they prefer.

one of the Panhandle's most popular dance bands, will be holding forth.

For those who prefer bridge or forty-two, these games will be played at the American Legion hall on the same night. High score prizes will be offered. Mrs. J. A. Whaley, forty-two chairman, and Mrs. T. T. Harrison, in charge of the bridge games, have announced that everything is in readiness to assure the players an enjoyable evening.

W. R. Cabaness, in charge of ticket sales, announced a brisk demand for tickets to each of the affairs, although several days remain before the event.

take part in any of the affairs. Since the money taken in this manner will go to a worthy cause—the aid of crippled children here and at the Warm Springs Foundation—a mass tarp-out is anticipated.

At the same time, the Western Union is expected to be flooded with signatures for the nationwide birthday greeting telegram to the President. It takes only 25 cents to get one's name on the telegram, and the money taken over by the Western Union will go to the same cause as that received at the other affairs.

Dance admission is $1.50 per couple; for the bridge and forty-two parties, $1 per couple or 50 cents per person.

Raymond Thomason Considerably Better

Raymond Thomason, former Memphian who was injured in an automobile accident near McKinney last week-end, was reported this morning considerably improved.

His condition became serious Saturday when pneumonia set in but physicians reported yesterday that he was improving rapidly and would soon be able to undergo a facial operation, necessitated by injuries sustained in the accident.

Mr. and Mrs. Ike W. Thomason, of this city, parents of the injured man, have been at the bedside since Saturday.

all," Peter told her. "It's that darned hard head of his. He always has hated to acknowledge he's been wrong."

"Couldn't you try once more?" Ann had asked today.

"No," Peter said hotly. "If he doesn't care any more about his first great-grandson, let him stay away!"

Ann had worried about Peter's attitude.

At first, confident that his grandfather would relent, Peter had visited him regularly, as he always had. But as the months went by and his vehement protests against his grandfather's treatment of Ann left the old man unmoved, Peter's attitude changed.

He was becoming bitter. Ann could see. She couldn't bear it—Peter feeling that way toward his grandfather, his face darkening when his grandfather's name was mentioned.

When the new home was being built Peter had gone out to bring his grandfather to see it—but had come back alone.

On the day the baby was born Peter had gone out again for his grandfather.

"Ann named him Peter—for both of us," he said. "She says she hopes there'll be a Peter Kendall for every generation."

"Very interesting," said the old man dryly. "No, Peter, I won't go back with you. I'm an old man now—too old to change my mind."

"Very well, sir," Peter had answered. And had left without another word.

Peter had not asked his grandfather to come today. There had been an ominous set to his jaw when Ann mentioned it.

"I'll be darned if I will." He bent down swiftly to kiss her, and she smiled at him. When she smiled her brown eyes lighted as though a little flame were burning within her heart. Such a warm, human, understanding smile. If it had been anyone but Ann his grandfather had hurt, it would not be so hard to forgive him.

Mrs. Kendall was holding the baby. Her usually smooth hair was slightly disheveled, her face was flushed. She looked almost motherly, Ann thought.

"It doesn't take me long to get my hand in with children," Mrs. Kendall was saying proudly to Millicent. "I think I'll come over tomorrow morning and see how that nurse bathes him. I've forgotten more than these new-fashioned nurses will ever know about babies."

"Come on, Mother, before you undo all the good work that has been done training this infant," Millicent said. "It's time Ann was getting a little rest."

"I think I'll take a jump over to Kendallwood when I put you out," Millicent told her mother, on the way home.

"It won't do any good," Mrs. Kendall said. "Your grandfather is terribly hard-headed." She added complacently. "When I realized Peter and Ann were so much in love I became their marriage. She's a very sweet girl. Millicent found her alone, sitting on the porch. She thought he had gone. But there was a glance when she saw from the hospital. (Concluded on page 25)

CHAPTER XLVIII

It was just a year later. Mrs. Kendall, Millicent and Carol were waiting at Ann's home, waiting for Ann to come back from the hospital. Ann and Peter and their three-weeks-old son.

"Here they are now," Carol said, from the window.

And here they were. Ann, being lifted by two stalwart attendants. A nurse in crisp white following. Peter, carrying his first-born carefully, marching proudly. Soon they were all crowding about Ann's bed.

"Hello everybody," Ann said. "It was sweet of you to be here for Peter Third's homecoming."

Millicent said, "You couldn't have kept us away. Look at this youngster, Peter! He's holding hands already." A tiny hand had curled around her finger.

"What a man, what a man!" mocked Carol. But her eyes were soft.

Peter was sitting by Ann's bed, his eyes never leaving her for very long. The last three weeks had been hard on Peter. Everyone talked about how splendidly Ann had gotten along. But it had been a period of fearful suspense for Peter.

"You would think Ann is the only woman in the world who had a baby!" Millicent had said. "Tearing up to the hospital every few hours, worrying the doctors and nurses to death. And perfectly incredulous when they said Ann could come home! And scared!"

Ann had known how scared Peter was. "I'm going to be all right, darling," she had whispered as Peter stood, watching anxiously, while she was being lifted to the stretcher.

In the ambulance later she had said, "I'll be up in another week. And soon after that we'll drive out to Kendallwood and show off young Peter."

Then a slight shadow had crossed her face. Everybody in Kendallwood wanting to see the baby—except the owner of Kendallwood.

Mrs. Kendall had long since become reconciled to Peter's marriage, had even grown fond of Ann. But during the 12 months Peter's grandfather stubbornly refused to see "the girl who had hopped up and married Peter away from him almost as quickly," as he phrased it.

Ann couldn't be perfectly happy with Peter's grandfather feeling as he did.

"He doesn't feel any way at Nothing was quite so wonderful as life!

"Ann," Peter said.

When Peter spoke her name, her heart always beat a little faster.

"There is a moon tonight like the one the wise men saw," Peter said. "A crescent moon. And close to it a bright, clear star."

"Let's see."

He lifted her in his arms, threw a robe about her, and carried her to the window where she could see the dark arc of the sky, the shining slender crescent and the big, bright star.

Ann was thinking of the baby that lay in a manger so many hundreds of years before. Of her own baby, sleeping in his white, small bed.

"A little child shall lead them," she whispered, her face pressed against Peter's shoulder.

His lips found hers. "Three make a world," said Peter.

"Four," corrected Ann happily. "Don't forget—we've adopted grandfather."

THE END.

A section of the department where Chesterfield tobaccos are blended and cross-blended.

Just what is meant by cross-blending tobaccos...and how does it make a cigarette milder and taste better...

Well, in blending you take two or more tobaccos and mix them together—a rather simple process. But cross-blending goes a step further...

IN making Chesterfields we take Bright tobacco from Virginia, the Carolinas, Georgia and Florida. We take Burley tobacco from Kentucky and Tennessee, and tobacco from Southern Maryland.

Then in addition to these home-grown tobaccos we take tobacco grown in Turkey and Greece.

We balance these mild, ripe home-grown tobaccos with the right amounts and the right kinds of aromatic Turkish.

Then, instead of just mixing the tobaccos together, we blend and cross-blend them so that all the different flavors go together into one full flavor—the Chesterfield taste that so many smokers like.

Cross-blending tobaccos as it is done in Chesterfields gives the cigarette a pleasing taste and aroma—they're mild and yet They Satisfy.

 The company started business in 1872 at Denison and today is operating in Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico. In addition to its wholesaling, it has one of the most modern coffee roasters to be found in the United States. At Fort Worth is located a modern canning factory in which is packed the well known brands of White Swan, Wapco, Concho and Waples-Platter.
 The Waples-Platter company has had a branch located in Memphis since 1916. As Memphis grew this company purchased a block of ground and built a brick warehouse and built a railroad branch. The warehouse is large enough to take care of the demands for many years. A large and complete assortment of merchandise is carried here.
 The personnel of the company here is: Ottie F. Jones, S. S. (Shake) Davis, Roy L. Coleman, C. W. Lewellyn, C. E. Mitchell and W. E. Williams.

'GOES METROPOLITAN' TRICAL WAY TOMORROW

view of "The Count of Monte Cristo" at the Ritz Theatre. The picture begins its regular run at the theatre Saturday at midnight. Manager Lee Bell believes the old classics and other outstanding photoplays will receive the same reception in Memphis as ordinary pictures with little more than "star" appeal, if movie fans are properly informed of their importance in advance.

The private showing of Alexandre Dumas' famed romantic story will be seen by members of the press, the pulpit, women's clubs and leaders in the public schools.

"We can bring finer pictures—real works of art—to Memphis only in proportion to the manner in which they are accepted by our patrons," Mr. Bell explains. "Personally, I believe the people of this city are anxious to see more pictures of this type, and our Saturday morning preview is being held solely for the purpose of enlisting the aid of responsible people in the community toward a greater appreciation of a higher type of screen entertainment."

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH
Dr. John Angus MacMillan, Minister

Judging by what one hears and reads these days, lots of folk seem to be losing faith in humanity. And with all the betrayal of trust, the racketeering, the graft, the lawlessness and the crime that is going on it is not to be wondered at that cynicism is increasing. But what about it? Has the human race really betrayed its God-given trust? That is the question that will be raised and answered in a sermon titled, "Can We Still Believe in People?"—to be delivered at the 5 o'clock vesper service Sunday afternoon.

What makes the man? Is it his looks, his family tree, his social position, his nationality—or something else? "What Makes the Man?" is to be the title of the morning sermon, to be delivered at the 11 o'clock service, next Sunday. Incidentally, we had an excellent musical program last Sunday. And we expect to repeat in that regard next Sunday.

Our Sunday school will meet at

SPEEDING TO BECOME CRIME

HERETOFORE, speeding through the streets of Memphis has not been considered a serious law violation unless it were such a flagrant disregard of others that it could not be overlooked. For a time, there was no necessity of binding the people to an iron-clad law regulating the driving of automobiles, but as in so many cases, many of us have taken such an advantage of this freedom that we are losing it.

The three law-enforcing offices in Memphis, the forces of the county sheriff, city police and constable, announced they will make a concentrated effort to slow us down. They are going to put teeth in the speed and reckless driving laws in order to wipe out the hazardous careening of automobiles through the streets.

According to the actual word of the law, the speed limit is 20 miles an hour, and under this law, the officers should arrest anyone driving faster than that. But none of us want nor would tolerate such severity. Therefore, the officers are going to use their own judgment as to whether a person is driving too fast or recklessly. They will be acting within their rights, for if one is driving at any speed at all he is breaking the limit.

We should encourage such a move on the part of the police. If one is almost run down by a speeding car, or sees the life of some child endangered, he immediately complains of the laxity of the law that permits such driving. Therefore, if the enforcement of the law comes a little closer and catches us for rapid driving, we should remember the other side, also.

After all, we have brought this tightening of the driving, we should remember the other side, also. It is a great advantage of the freedom allowed us. The enforcement of the law is for our own sake, and unless it becomes oppressive (and we are certain it will not) we should defend, not oppose the move.

DEMOCRACY HAS FAITH IN MAN'S WISDOM

HARVARD'S President James B. Conant tells a convocation at Amherst College that one of the great threats to human society today is a revival of "the ever-recurring suspicion of man's creative intelligence."

The scholar, says President Conant, has faith in the human mind—faith in its ability to solve any problem which human association can present.

Because of this faith, the scholar favors the freest kind of research into social problems, and the fullest kind of discussion of them—believing, as he does, that human intelligence is capable of finding the way out if it is just given the chance.

But today a distrust of this capability is growing. Some people are rising to protest against this kind of free inquiry. They call for closed minds, as if some questions were so dangerous that even to examine them from an unbiased viewpoint were to court grave danger.

"The universities and colleges, as local points for speculation and research," says President Conant, "are the subject of hostile criticism, and in at least one country have suffered a devastating prosecution. Man's restless spirit of inquiry has always been disconcerting to those who demand a final and unchanging picture of the universe."

Now all this may seem rather remote and academic, to those of us whose daily routine is conducted far from the campus. But it is worth remembering that it is precisely this faith in man's creative intelligence—this faith which animates every college and university worthy of the name—which is the foundation stone of the democratic theory.

In other words, we live under a democracy for exactly the same reason that men like President Conant devote their lives to scholarly research: Because we believe that the race has the brains to find a way out of its troubles and the collective good will to follow such a way once it has found it.

This viewpoint is not popular in the world today. In nation after nation, men have abandoned this faith and have asked to be led by some autocratic power which will make all decisions for them.

Some of them have even proclaimed jubilantly that democracy is an out-of-date concept, and that only the authoritarian state can survive in the modern world.

For ourselves, we still believe in freedom—freedom in government, in academic research, and in all other forms of social activity. We hold that belief because we still have confidence in the power of human intelligence.

THAT BUBBLE DANCE AGAIN

HEALTH

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

Few people realize the importance of clothing in relationship to health and disease.

Human beings living in isolated places under warm conditions can do without clothing ordinarily, but they must wear some coverings, if only for the sake of modesty. From what we know of the value of sunlight for the human body, there is no more healthfulness produced from exposing the complete body to sunlight than exposing all except portions that might be covered by a breech cloth or diaper.

However, under conditions of winter, such as exist in most of the United States, nudity is neither comfortable nor healthful. For this reason, human beings protect themselves from bad weather by housing and clothing.

The disadvantages of housing and clothing lie in the fact that they keep the skin away from fresh air and sunlight; hence it is advisable for those who are too constantly covered to obtain an occasional dose of artificial sunlight and, by suitable bathing and airing, to keep the skin in good condition.

You should remember that the ultraviolet rays of the sun, when taken in excess, can do as much harm, if not more harm, than is developed by avoiding sunlight altogether.

We lose water from the body through the skin. The body is a self-regulating mechanism and adjusts itself to the loss of heat. It is advisable, therefore, at all seasons to wear next to the skin some porous, pliable material which allows rapid removal of moisture from the surface of the body.

For the coldest weather (any material, such as leather, which permits air to pass through only very slowly, makes the best body covering. Except for this outside covering, which holds the layer of warm air, clothing should be soft.

In winter, it is especially important not to wear tight clothing, which will interfere with circulation of the blood and clamp the

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Farley'll Just Sit Tight on His Two Jobs... District is Hoping for a Ballot Sop... CCC Will Stay and Likely Expand... RFC Also is High in Favor

Democrat Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Jan. 25.—Now that the Democrat party's national organization is embarking on a drive to wipe out that $500,000 deficit by the early part of this year, you may expect the demands to be redoubled that Postmaster General Jim Farley step out of either one of his twin jobs.

Last fall, when the Democrats made a compulsive effort to get out of debt, there was a great deal of criticism of the fact that the man who was asking for the money as chairman of the Democratic National Committee was also the postmaster general.

Spasmodic efforts have been made from time to time to pry national committees out of all connection with the actual government departments. But Farley made in forbidding them to practice as lawyers before the government departments. But Farley hasn't budged.

Republicans and even a few of the more squeamish Democrats are going to join in the chorus this time. But it's a long time until 1936, when Farley could make the race for governor of New York as has been supposed (Governor Lehmann is supposed to look favorably on Farley as his heir apparent) and Farley is one of the better sinner-tighters.

He'll probably just laugh off the attacks, as he is also one of the better laugher-offers.

Every Little Vote Helps

Residents of the District of Columbia are considerably smoked up by the prospect of voting at last. Of course you know that residents of Washington (the stepchild city) don't vote. But Senator Capper has promised to push his bill allowing Washingtonians to elect their own school board.

Never a congressional session goes by without some proposal to give the vote to voteless District residents. Capper's present proposal would at least allow them to go through the motions on so purely local an issue as their school board.

Don't be surprised if the Civilian Conservation Corps is increased to as many as a million men this summer. It now has about 370,000 men in 1728 camps. It expires March 31 unless Congress extends its life. Nothing is surer down here, however, than that it not only will be extended, but greatly increased in numbers, with the age

The CCC has received the approval of the House and it offers a take up some employed slack in the country.

Forester Silas P. Frazier is expected to take up some of the great deal more he has ever yet been able to do to it, has for a year or two, perhaps profitably (cent).

The Forest Service has had the year to figure out how to do it, has for a year or two, perhaps profitably (cent).

City Basketball League Ready To Start Play Feb

Four Teams To Go Into Title Chase

At a meeting of managers yesterday afternoon, the City Basketball league was organized, with four fast clubs set to get underway on February 4.

The teams will play two complete rounds, giving them a 12-game schedule to be played off in one month. At the end of February, if the managers vote to continue for another month, a split season will be declared.

The four teams are to be backed by the following business firms: Memphis Compress, with Matthew Allen as manager; Tarver's Pharmacy, with O. B. Smith as manager; Meacham's Pharmacy, with Ed Hutchinson as manager, and Harrison Hardware, managed by Jack Norman.

All games will be played at the high school gymnasium on Monday and Tuesday nights, when the league will have the building at its disposal.

Another meeting of managers has been called for Monday night at the gym, at which time other questions arising will be settled and team rosters will be turned over to the secretary.

With the season composed of 12 games to be played in four weeks, doubleheaders will be played toward the end of the season.

Starting slowly, the clubs play single games on Monday and Tuesday nights during the first two weeks. During the last two weeks, doubleheaders will be played each night.

It was decided at the meeting that each player must furnish his own playing equipment, which will consist of basketball shoes and any type of uniform or playing clothes. This holds only where uniforms are not furnished by the backers.

It was voted to charge an admission of five and 10 cents each night. Whatever money taken in this manner will be used toward defraying expenses.

Each team was limited to nine players, including the manager if he is a playing manager. Any person will be eligible with the exception of boys playing at present on a high school team. A number of players are expected from Hedley, Eli, Lakeview and Salisbury.

If a player signs with one club, he shall be barred from competition on any other team in the league. If a player drops from a team roster, however, he may be replaced by a new member of the league.

It was voted that one official will be used in each game, with that official being furnished by a non-competing team, according to the schedule.

It was further agreed that the games shall be played in 10 minute quarters, with two minutes between quarters and seven minutes between halves. Since the manager probably will be competing, substitutions can be made without penalty or time out.

Floor rules of the high school gym govern play in several instances. In all other cases, regulation basketball rules will be followed.

The starting time of games was

Equipoise Sets Mile Mark With 128 Pounds Aboard

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the fifth of a series telling of the 10 greatest feats of running horse racing.

By MAX RIDDLE (NEA Service Turf Writer)

A pair of 2-year-olds blazed their names in turf history in letters a foot high in 1930. Twenty Grand and Equipoise set world records during their careers, and even now are still in some kind of shape, awaiting the call to the post in the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap next month.

Twenty Grand's record in the Kentucky Derby still stands, and so does the mile mark of Ekky, set in 1932 as a 4-year-old, after having been away from the turf for a year because of a breakdown.

Equipoise met an old rival, Jamestown, the unbeaten 1-year-old champion of 1930, who twice had beaten the Chocolate Soldier, in his record race. The meeting was staged on the neutral ground of Arlington Park.

They could not have picked a better spot, for the track was the fastest in the world. Indeed, old Matt Byrne, trainer of the immortal Salvator, stated that had he been able to reproduce the "king of the turf" in his best form, he would have shaded 1:33 for the mile.

Weights Favored Jamestown

Considering their past battles, it is little wonder these two were out for blood. Previously, they had met at even weights, once at 130 pounds, and again at 122.

But this time, Jamestown got in at 118, because, after a year's layoff, he had been slow to round into his true form. Equipoise, on the other hand, had run several brilliant races and was obliged to carry 128 pounds.

Jamestown, always away from the barrier like a streak of lightning, broke on top. The good, game Spanish Play, with only 106 pounds up, was second, and Equipoise last of the three.

Jamestown elected to run the other two off their feet. But Equipoise, though he moved into second place, loafed off the pace as much as possible, waiting and hoping for Jamestown to tire.

The first quarter was run in the fast time of 23 1-5 seconds. But though that was fast, Jamestown ran the half like wild, turning it in 46 seconds, or 22 4-5 seconds for the second quarter.

He then slashed off the third quarter in time equal to his first, and arrived at the three-quarter pole in 1:09 1-5, or two fifths of a second faster than the existing American record.

But that burning pace had cost Jamestown too much, and though his great heart carried him on, Equipoise moved to the front to set a world record for a mile on loam of 1:34 2-5 seconds.

He beat the tired Jamestown, by three lengths, and Spanish Play, always outrun, was another three or four lengths back.

Ekky Tired at Finish
There have been many great mile races, and possibly, as great examples of speed, there have been some superior to Equipoise's fine record.

Here is the great Whitney steed, Equipoise, holder of the mile record set at Arlington Park in 1932. The picture was taken as he caused for training for the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap in California next month.

An examination of the speed chart will show that Equipoise was a very tired horse at the end of his race. Actually, his last quarter was slower than the corresponding quarter run by any of the four or five previous record holders.
But in one respect, Equipoise's record stands unique. Whereas most previous record holders had had from 110 to 118 pounds up, Equipoise was carrying more than scale weight.
That he could do so and still race to such a record is proof sufficient of the extreme high class of the Whitney horse.
